The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.
W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY.
AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.
TERMS.—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XX. PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, JULY 1 1887. No. 26.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities."—MADISON.

Rates of Advertising.

Space	1 WEEK	2	3	1 MONTH	2	3	12
1 in.	$1.00	$2.00	$2.50	$3.00	$5.00	$7.00	$20.00
2 in.	1.50	3.00	4.00	5.00	8.00	12.00	35.00
3 in.	2.00	4.00	5.00	7.00	12.00	16.00	50.00
4 in.	2.50	5.00	6.00	9.00	15.00	20.00	65.00
5 in.	3.00	6.00	7.00	11.00	18.00	24.00	80.00
6 in.	3.50	7.00	8.00	13.00	21.00	28.00	95.00
7 in.	4.00	8.00	9.00	15.00	24.00	32.00	110.00
8 in.	4.50	9.00	10.00	17.00	27.00	36.00	125.00
9 in.	5.00	10.00	11.00	19.00	30.00	40.00	140.00
10 in.	5.50	11.00	12.00	21.00	33.00	44.00	155.00
11 in.	6.00	12.00	13.00	23.00	36.00	48.00	170.00
12 in.	6.50	13.00	14.00	25.00	39.00	52.00	185.00

All Electro's must be solid metal.

Inches of "Everything" counting, 3 ems per line.

Double rule, 50 per ct. advance of above rates.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

ALFRED D. BAILEY,
Attorney-at-Law,
Solicitor and Master in Chancery, Notary Public.
No. 6 Front street, (Room 9,) Plainfield, N. J.

O. L. JENKINS, M. D.,
Homeopathist,
(Successor to Dr. Seely,) in Rear of Front Street Meat Market, Plainfield, N. J. Office hours—1 to 2 p. m., 7 to 8 p. m. 7:30 to 8.—sep 19 2

JACKSON & CODINGTON,
Counsellors-at-Law,
Commissioners of each, Masters-in-Chancery, Notaries Public, Office corner of Park avenue and Second street.—sept

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer,
Sales of Every Property solicited. P. O. Box 182, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care to Correspondence solicited. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES S. TRUNK,
Dentist,
20 West Front street. A new local anesthetic applied for extracting teeth without pain. Good filling a specialty.—jan8

H. BAND,
Auctioneer,
P. O. Address, Lock Box 71, South Plains, N. J. Orders can be left at Dr. Carey's second door, of West Front if preferred, Plainfield, N. J., will receive prompt attention.—sept27

OSCAR S. TEALE,
Architect,
247 Broadway, New York city, Rooms 31 and 32. (Imported and Traders' Bank Building.) Residence, Plainfield.—jan21

WM. E. McCLURE,
Attorney-at-Law.
MASTER IN CHANCERY, NOTARY PUBLIC.
Counsellor-at-Law of Deeds. Offices, North avenue opposite Academy.—jan21

J. H. FENSTER,
Veterinary Surgeon.
Office in Chas. Place's livery office, corner Main street and Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Day and night calls promptly attended. Telephone No. 7. Residence, Second street, opposite Methodist Episcopal church. Residence, 79 East Fifth street.—jan21

DR. GEORGE GIDNEY,
Veterinary Surgeon.
Removed from second street to 112 West Front street, opposite Locke's livery stable.—leaf

ARTHUR P. MILLER,
Attorney-at-Law.
Successor to the late Wm. H. Maxwell. Solicitor in Chancery, Notary Public, etc. Office of late Mr. Maxwell, on second story, front and take charge of property. Office over Fifth National Bank.—jan7

F. A. DUNHAM,
Civil Engineer and Surveyor,
No. 7 Park avenue, Cleaver's building. Particular attention given to the subdivision of property and boundary lines. Parties next to all parts of the county.—jan21

DR. J. F. SCHIEFEN,
Electric Baths.
Dr. Griffin treats all nervous affections. Curves consumption, skin diseases, rheumatism, dyspepsia, boils, Bright's disease and Chronic diseases generally. Office hours—9 to 12 a. m., 2 to 5 p. m. Electric baths, 25 cents each. Office, 17 East Second street, corner Washington.—jan21

BUSINESS CARDS.

TO THE PUBLIC!

We wish to inform our customers and the public generally that we have on hand the best quality of

LEHIGH COAL,

Fresh From the Mines.

It is under cover and well protected from the weather. We are prepared to deliver it well screened and in any quantity promptly. We are also prepared to furnish all kinds of Seasoned Lumber and Masons' Materials at short notice.

A. D. COOK & BRO.

J. Hervey Doane,
9 PARK AVENUE.
(Formerly Clark's.)

Watches,
Clocks
And Jewelry.
Repairing neatly and promptly done.

WM. H. SHOTWELL,
DEALER IN GROCERIES, PROVISIONS, VEGETABLES, DRIED FRUIT, ETC.
CORNER EMILY AND DUER STREETS
North Plainfield, New Jersey.

Celebrated Pilsbury Flour,
THE BEST IN THE MARKET.
ORDERS CALLED FOR AND DELIVERED.
Respectfully solicited. I collect a continuance

MICHAEL UHDAL,
CONTRACTOR
AND LANDSCAPE GARDENER!
Residence:
NETHERWOOD, NEW JERSEY.
P. O. BOX 787, PLAINFIELD.

BOSTON CLOTHING HOUSE
'29 PARK AVENUE.
Reliable Goods at Low Prices.
Order Department
Under the well-known Cutter,
NEWTON P. DRAKE.
Correct Styles. Right Prices

Geo. A. Moore,
(Of the late firm of Moore Bros.)
Is now the sole proprietor of the old established market at
NO. 14 NORTH AVENUE.
Where he will continue to supply patrons with the finest grades of Fresh and Salt meats, Fish of all kinds, Oysters, Clams, Game in Season at the lowest market prices. Sausage, Lard, etc., always kept in stock furnished at short notice.

Edward Ramonetti,
OYSTER AND ICE CREAM SALOON.
All Orders Promptly Attended to.
24 NORTH AVENUE.

HOTELS AND SALOONS.

Force's Hotel!
NORTH AVENUE
Near R. R. Depot, Plainfield, New Jersey.
JAMES H. FORCE, - - Proprietor.
A FIRST-CLASS FAMILY HOTEL.
Transient guests taken at reasonable rates.

Bottled Liquors a Specialty.

Laing's Hotel!
PLAINFIELD, N. J.

James Conneely
Wishes to inform the public generally that he has opened a first-class
WINE and LIQUOR ROOM
AT NO. 28 PARK AVE.,
Where he will be pleased to furnish his friends and patrons with the choicest brands of Imported and Domestic Liquors.—may12

TURF EXCHANGE HOTEL.
73 Courtlandt street,
CORNER WASHINGTON, NEW YORK CITY.
FRED. W. BALLARD, - - Proprietor.
(formerly of Jersey City), is now conducting the handsome hotel corner Washington and Courtlandt avenue, New York, formerly kept by the late James Van Pelt, and by Mr. Stillinger, all their old friends and the public generally are cordially invited.
PURE WINES, LIQUORS AND SEGARS.—jy1m

SOMERSET HOTEL,
Cor Somerset & Emily Sts., North Plainfield, N. J.
Permanent and Transient Board, at fairrates.
First-class Stables and Sheds attached.
Meals at all reasonable hours. tjnly2

JOHN JOHNSTON,
DEALER IN COAL!
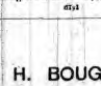
YARD AND OFFICE, SOUTH AVENUE,
NETHERWOOD, NEW JERSEY.
The best quality of screened coal at the lowest market price forced. Address all orders to Netherwood post office.—apr9

Park Avenue Bakery!
JOHN WALKER, Prop'r
FAMILY Bread HOT BAKED supplied with the Celebrated
VIENNA BREAD & ROLLS,
And all Varieties of
Pies, Cake and Confectionery.

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS, BEST IN THE WORLD.
ALL GOODS DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE.

DOOR NUMBERS,
DOOR BELLS,
DOOR PLATES,
DICKINSON & CLAWSON'S,
13 PARK AVENUE.
Sole Agents for



Dr. King's Spectacles.

ALEX. THORN
(Late of Berry & Thorn.
CAN BE FOUND AT 37 SOMERSET STREET,
WITH A FULL LINE OF FURNACES, RANGES,
STOVES,
TINWARE, Etc.
Repairing in His Line Promptly Attended To.

A. H. BOUGHTON,
44 West Fourteenth street, N. Y.
(NEAR MACY'S.)
Boy's Clothing and Hats
EXCLUSIVELY.
The most complete stock of Boy's Fashionable Goods in the city and at popular prices.
KILT SUITS,
SHIRT WAISTS,
EXTRA PANTS.
Former stand of Taylor & Co.
agent

EDUCATIONAL.

DORSEY W. HYDE,
PRACTICAL TEACHER OF
Piano, Harmony & Guitar.
Fall Term commences MONDAY, Sept. 14th. SEND FOR CIRCULAR. P. O. BOX 1376.

MR. LEAL'S SCHOOL
WILL RE-OPEN
Monday, Sept. 20, 1886.
Attendance of town and added facilities make it now possible to form another Class for Boys from 6 to 10 years of age. Pupils of this class will have been much year dismissed. Circulars and information on application.—sep 16

A SCHOOL FOR BOYS
WILL BE OPENED IN THE PARLORS OF THE PARK AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH,
SEPTEMBER 15, '86.
APPLICATION MAY BE MADE AT NO. 28 PARK AVENUE, CORNER SIXTH STREET.
ANNA J. MOORE, Principal.
aug20 1m

MISCELLANEOUS.

ARTESIAN WELLS.
F. & W. STOTHOFF
are prepared to sink Wells any depth up to 800 feet, and Tube them in the best manner. Pipe furnished at fair prices. Refers to J. N. Steiner, of Plainfield, P. O. address, Orangeburg, N. J.

Mme. J. BERNARD,
ASTROLOGIST,
Residence—Harmony street, North Plainfield, north house from Somerset street, left hand side Nativities written; Horoscopes cast; Private interviews; Future events, likewise marriage, lovers, law suits, etc. Satisfaction guaranteed. Charges moderate.
In English, German and French.
My husband is a first-class Cooper, Andropatin also, pails, barrels, etc., cheap for cash.

Electrical Work!
ELECTRICAL WORK—WE ARE PREPARED to put in speak and district telegraph or electric call wires, from a call bell to a completely equipped system. We guarantee all our work. We will find skilled price take care of electrical apparatus by the year, quarter, visiting, and keep the same in repair and maintaining it in thorough working order.
PLAINFIELD DISTRICT TELEGRAPH CO.,
NO. 4 PARK AVENUE.
C. B. GODDARD, - Manager.
jy2tf

NETHERWOOD FARM!
MOUNTAIN AVE., NEAR FARRAGUT AVE.
A JERSEY STOCK FARM!
OVER
50 HEAD OF JERSEY CATTLE 50
Good family cows for sale at Moderate Prices. Milk and Cream delivered anywhere in Plainfield. Visitors are welcome at all times.
S. R. WHEELER, Manager.
P. HERBERT AGNOSTINI, Plainfield, N. J. mh26

CAREY'S
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE, NO. 45 WEST FRONT STREET.
Nearly opposite Laing's Hotel, Plainfield, N. J.
Having removed the above premises I am prepared to buy and sell second-hand Furniture, Carpets, Stoves, etc., and will also take charge of moving, Furniture, etc., Stored. P. O. Box 492.—ap17

JOHN MORTON,
PURE SPRING WATER
-ICE-
Delivered daily to any part of the city at low prices. Orders left at my residence, 15 Watchung avenue, P. O. Box 1376, Plainfield, or directly above Somerset street, will receive prompt attention. My thanks for my old patrons for past patronage, and take pleasure in soliciting their further favors by my business by purchasing the crop and good will of Morton's Ice Pond in Scotch Plains. Will be ready to supply all with the best ice in the market.—jy2

DOOR NUMBERS,
DOOR BELLS,
DOOR PLATES,
DICKINSON & CLAWSON'S,
13 PARK AVENUE.
Sole Agents for

Dr. King's Spectacles.

ALEX. THORN
(Late of Berry & Thorn.
CAN BE FOUND AT 37 SOMERSET STREET,
WITH A FULL LINE OF FURNACES, RANGES,
STOVES,
TINWARE, Etc.
Repairing in His Line Promptly Attended To.

A. H. BOUGHTON,
44 West Fourteenth street, N. Y.
(NEAR MACY'S.)
Boy's Clothing and Hats
EXCLUSIVELY.
The most complete stock of Boy's Fashionable Goods in the city and at popular prices.
KILT SUITS,
SHIRT WAISTS,
EXTRA PANTS.
Former stand of Taylor & Co.
agent

PAINTERS & PAINTERS SUPPLIES

Paints, Varnishes, Glass.
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.
ap22

Weaver Bros.
House & Sign Painting, Graining,
Paper Hanging and Kalsomining a specialty.
Office and Shop in the rear of
146 EAST FRONT STREET,
D. WEAVER. P. O. Box 36. P. WEAVER.

W. N. ROWE.
PAINTER AND DECORATOR,
Dealer in Paints, Oil, Varnishes, Glass, Brushes, etc. WALL PAPER and WINDOW SHADES. Room hot stairs, first door, Front street. Orders and satisfaction guaranteed. No 13 E. FRONT STREET, P. O. Box 1376 (or of store.) Plainfield, N. J. P. O. Box 1299.—aptly

L. D. WOOLFOLK. J. P. BUCKLE.
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTERS SUPPLIES. 20 NORTH AVENUE.
apr30

MILLINERY.

Mrs. J. M. Dunn,
FASHIONABLE MILLINER,
LATEST SHAPES OF
BONNETS and HATS.
FRENCH IMPORTED FLOWERS.
Feathers, Velvets, Plushes, Satines, Laces, etc. Also, Fancy Goods and Notions; Dress and Infants' Caps a Specialty.

PINKING, BLEACHING & PRESSING.
Feathers Dyed. Cleaned and Curled
AT SHORT NOTICE.
14 West Front street.

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

M. C. DOBBINS,
OPPOSITE RAILROAD STATION.
MANUFACTURER OF
PURE HAVANA CIGARS.
Wholesale and Retail!
H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best 5 cent cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the most Havana.
CLEAR HAVANA SEGARS A SPECIALTY.
A large assortment of the Choicest Brands of Foreign and Domestic Cigars, Cigarettes and Tobaccos, always on hand.
Smokers Articles in Great Variety.
apr2

JOHN N. STEINER,
MANUFACTURER OF
SEGARS!
No. 11 PARK AVENUE.
Constantly on hand a large assortment of
Segars, Smoking & Chewing Tobacco, Snuffs, Pipes, &c.
Thankful for past patronage, I solicit a continuance of the same.
1y17

C. M. FINE,
Dealer in HAVANA & DOMESTIC
SEGARS!—
o. 28 PARK AVE., (REAR OF BOYD'S SECOND ST.)
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smoker's Materials, of every description.
The celebrated "Old Judge" Smoking Tobacco, with other popular brands constantly on hand.
1y17

--PICTURE FRAMES--
OF ALL KINDS, AT
S. E. FLOWER'S,
at New York Price. Studio 18 West Front street. Headquarters for Drawing and oil painting. ap22

Benj. F. Moore,
[Late of Moore Bros.]
BUTCHER,
And dealer in FRESH AND SALT MEATS, Corned Beef, Corned Pork, Sausages, Poultry, Game, Fish, Oysters and Clams in season. EVERY SUNDAY MARCH 1st. Orders called for and promptly delivered. Telephone Call 111.—ma 1 1886

MAYNARD & HILL,
PRACTICAL BARBERS
AND
Artistic Hair Dressers,
No. 20 PARK AVENUE,
Ladies and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residences. Shaving, Shampooing, &c., exclusively performed. 1y17

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE. CHARGES REASONABLE.
Hugo Weigman,
20 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.
apr30

SPRING
HATS.
CAPS, GLOVES,
Trunks, Valises, Etc.
Call and Examine the Elegant Stock of
Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods at
F. A. POPE'S,
(Successor to E. Fernside.)
No. 5 W. Front st.
apr30

THE LETTERS.

Letters from my father's household,
Sent me until the time of boyhood,
Such stamped messengers of gladness
Take daily root and flourish to me;
Father's calm and sacred counsel—
Mother's direct and fervent prayer,
And my sister's reasoning blessings,
Full of love and hope for me.

Of the dear and loving brothers—
Of my childhood's thronging dreams;
Of the schoolmates' frolic greeting,
With its quaintest old-time scenes;
Of the little nature's mysteries,
Of the mossy garden-nest;
Of hours by the river's brimming
Songs to verse myself my text.

And I sit and muse upon it
Till I almost live it all;
See the cool grape's purple clusters
Drooping from the lofty wall;
See the mother peer a-coaxing—
Reaching the luscious flavors,
Watch the steady nose about watching
All the product of the hour.

Father's hair is growing whiter—
Mother's step a trifle more;
But the children's faces—ruddy
Lingers yet around her brow;
And her heart's warm love has thrilled me,
And the lips I used to press;
Of the gentle care that's flown from
From their holy tenderness!

And the flashing eyes of laughter
And the voices full of glee;
And the rippling auburn ringlets
That clung lovingly about them—
These have melted and have deepened
To the gleam and tone and form
Of the tranquil maiden, mostly Thoughtfully throughout the planet.

Letters from my sisters scattered,
Inlet amid the travel' sea;
Each one's inmost history of sickness,
Death, rest and peace to me;
Let the looming world roar onward—
Let the tempest rage and blow—
And the young bride stop her husband:
I am wealthiest of you.

—Richard Realf.

POOR LITTLE CHAP.

His Lonely Lot in Life Succeeded by an Unexpected Change.

His real name was Paul, but before we knew him we had learned to associate him by diminutives by which he was always known. And he was just a "little Chap" after all.

He used to play continually about the house, and his mother would be lured that sometimes, and always by himself. Somehow the other children were not attracted to him; he could not romp as they did, because he was a little lame; his disease, the nurse said, caused by a fall in infancy.

Perhaps it was his lameness, which was the cause of his seeming to be left out in the cold, old cook, which impelled us to call him "Poor Little Chap," and the name clung instead of his name.

He was never morose or peevish. From morning until night he sang and whistled like any mocking-bird, pecking up by ear the airs he heard in the hall. Standing at a wood brick voice up and down the long corridors and rooms, and played at concert.

"Guess I mail your letters!" he would say, cheerily. It was quite a little trip for him down to the office, and he preferred making it to any other. "Guess I'll go in the carriage with you!" he would say, and he was sensitive mouth quivered.

At first—how ashamed I am to think of it now—we used often to treat him, and one day when he was given some money for a small purchase, we counted the change.

"Is it all right?" he asked, in a little pitiful voice, "is it correct?"

"Of course it is," I said, quickly, "only you mustn't say 'correct' to-day, you must say 'you take this,' and I profited him a bit of advice.

Instantly the small hand is were clasped behind his back, and his sensitive mouth quivered.

"I have a book full of money," he said, proudly; "I have a collection in our parlor."

Then we began to understand why he kept wanted "to do out to do," like the other children. He had no money to spend, to be paid for it.

He was an inveterate book-worm, we who was his father and who was his mother. The first we seldom saw. He was a grave, quiet man with deep lines in his face, looked as if he had walked on the valley of disappointment. His wife, a more cheerful Paul run by his side, and talked a great deal to him, especially of the fathering with but he was always in a solemn hurry to go somewhere or do something.

His mother was young and very pretty. We had pitied him, supposing she was his stepmother, but she was his own, her own. She went out a great deal, to ride, to walk, in evening parties, and when at home she received company—more company—or there was company—poor little chap. He would tell us how she was the pride of glory in her walks. Sometimes it was a brilliant bouquet for dinner, or a basket in the air like the Princess Thistledown. Sometimes it was a rainbow glory of irridescent bubbles from the long lace garments, that drooped along her pathway in the evening.

"Don't touch me, Paul," we would hear her say to little Chap, "can't you see that I am dressed?"

Alas! when was she not dressed—armed and equipped in that way, regardless of fashion!

"He is so tiresome," she would say spitefully when she condescended to notice us. "He will worry you to death if you allow him. I wish I had never had a child he is! Why, he actually wanted to join the Salvation Army."

We all laughed, but he must not seem to think it a matter of mirth.

"I would do something dreadful will happen to him!" she said one day, as she shook her locks and fastened the clasp of a bracelet.

Poor Little Chap! We thought the worst had happened to him in having such a mother, and yet she was not wicked—only very selfish and worldly.

"But evil, as wrought by want of thought as well as of heart, works the same woe.

He believed she had done her duty in giving him a good name. One day she said:

"When he is older I intend to make a companion of him. Mr Hevere is so busy he can not spend much time with me, so Paul will carry Basely as a friend. But now—children are such little animals! They tire me to death."

She finally it came about that we more ly adopted Little Chap. He was hungry for affection, and we were among the few favorite places. It was a constant quarrel with him if there were any new songs.

A new song made him happy for a week; he sang it so sweetly.

When not with us he rehearsed his songs in the parlors, or in the hall, or in the halls, to the hob-boys, the porter, and to the wood-boxes.

Then someone gave him a grotesque little book with flags and military sheet is on the cover. Great Paul's delight—it was the Salvation Army. No money could buy it from him.

"I can not imagine where the child gets such perverse notions," said his mother.

"Why, his father is one of the Boston Reformers. I am sure he doesn't take it from me."

No, he did not. It was more like the mouth and lovely Saviour of men who once walked the earth that my Boston auntcousin whose ancestral name he bore, imbued him with that fine fervor of revolutionary fame.

Dear Little Chap! We tried to answer all the impossible questions he asked us about the creed of the Salvation Army, and we were like, and why little children ever died, and how far it was to the sun, and if angels ever came down to earth, and other things that we were ignorant of. Poor Little Chap! He thought at him the more eyes filled with tears and we could only make our peace by singing him a song.

One day we were out with nearly eight. We were surprised to see Paul coming and greeting from Little Chap, and there was no pressing letter or other remembrance tied to the door knob. We waited as long as we could, and then with a new song we entered, went up to his mother's door.

She nurse opened it; she was crying.

"Haven't you heard? Oh, dear, We too dreadful, dreadful! Professor, the doctor says there isn't any hope!"

There had been an accident and Little Chap was hurt. But how severely we could not be told as he there smiling, if he was going to die!

His mother was not in the room. The doctor was giving her a sedative and had taken her down to another apartment. They feared the shock would kill her.

His father laid one little hand, and from time to time, as he bent over him, murmured in agonized terms:

"My boy! my boy!"

Ah, it is true! Blessings brighten as they take their flight.

"Dear Little Chap, do you know us?"

"Yes, I know you, sweet Nurse Basely, as I call you."

"Sing! sing! when the tears were hindering us into our voices, and raising down our cheeks, for oh! we saw in his face now that look that once more we never be seen.

But she whom he loved best raised her sweet voice and sung in clear tones the old hymn:

"Children of the Heavenly King
As we journey let us sing."

And as we sang, my Little Chap was singing in the chair of God, joining in the new, new song.—Mrs. H. L. Bagnell, in Detroit Free Press.

ROMANCE ON THE RAIL.

Celebrating a Wedding on the New York and Chicago Limited Express.

Philadelphians have the reputation of being great travelers for pleasure, but of late the tendency has been displaced by some peculiar ways, says the Philadelphia Times. Not long since a well-known young Philadelphian, who was making his way north to a "honeymoon" a veritable beauty and an exceedingly attractive girl, by the way—took all his others and a party of friends with him, and returned with the bride and some of her friends, making up a very interesting railway party. Brides and bridal parties on the cars were almost as old as the railways themselves, but it has remained for Philadelphia to take a somewhat new departure in the way of nuptial celebrations of late. Quite recently a young man noted among his set for originality and originality, who was engaged to a young lady of a somewhat similar disposition, determined that his wedding should be one of the most novel and original departures from the accepted form that could be arranged. A few days before the wedding he announced to his set that the ceremonial announcement that the ceremony would be performed in one of the parlors of the New York and Chicago limited express. Instead of bidding their friends good-bye and going off on the train alone, this generous young couple proposed having their friends with them as part of the journey and enjoying besides a little of the tinge of romance that belongs to an elopement.

With the invitations were inclosed excursion tickets to Harrisburg and return, as well as a card stating that the train would leave the depot at Broad street at 11:30 a. m. A merry party boarded the train, which looked quite festive on account of the profusion of flowers that made in the sportsmanlike engaged by the groom. Just after the train had passed the suburban villas on the outskirts of Philadelphia the ceremony was performed, and after an informal reception the wedding party repaired to the dining car, where an elaborate wedding breakfast awaited the guests. Numerous fresh flowers were scattered about the tables, which were brightly set with silver and pretty china, and the guests seemed to relish the happy spirits of the party. There was every thing that is customary on such occasions, with the exception that could contribute to the completeness of the festivities, and the party reached that during their little repast they had received a telegram from the Governor of Harrisburg came into view the guests again pledged the happiness of the bride and bridegroom and declared that they had spent one of the most enjoyable as well as the most interesting they had ever participated in.

FAVORED BY FORTUNE.

A Poor Umbrella Mender Falls Heir to a Large Estate.

Charles H. Dewey, an umbrella mender, who occupies a third-story back room in a poor lodging-house on Fifth street, Buffalo, Press, has received a letter announcing that he is one of three heirs to $125,000 left by a cousin in Australia named William Tuppe. The other heirs are a sister, who resides in Germany, and a brother who is a police inspector at Hamburg. When an orphan Tuppe was taken in by Dewey's father, a St., a game-keeper for the Emperor William at Hartzburg, Germany, and educated with his own sons. Mr. Tuppe showed in this way of showing his gratitude. He had not been heard from for many years, and it was not known whether he was living or dead. In his great prosperity in Australia, where he landed thirty-five years ago with ten dollars in his pocket and went to work in the mines, was unmindful of his German relatives, and the news of his death, which occurred a few months ago, will be had made the Hoisers his heirs, was a great surprise to them.

Dr. Friedrich Meyer was the private dispatch carrier and personal attendant of President Lincoln during the war. He was also served in the theatre army during the Franco-Prussian war, and was the surgeon shot under him at Gravelotte. Since coming to this city Meyer has been attached to the medical corps, and is now a practicing physician at Hamburg. When an orphan Tuppe was taken in by Dewey's father, a St., a game-keeper for the Emperor William at Hartzburg, Germany, and educated with his own sons. Mr. Tuppe showed in this way of showing his gratitude. He had not been heard from for many years, and it was not known whether he was living or dead. In his great prosperity in Australia, where he landed thirty-five years ago with ten dollars in his pocket and went to work in the mines, was unmindful of his German relatives, and the news of his death, which occurred a few months ago, will be had made the Hoisers his heirs, was a great surprise to them.

Dr. Friedrich Meyer was the private dispatch carrier and personal attendant of President Lincoln during the war. He was also served in the theatre army during the Franco-Prussian war, and was the surgeon shot under him at Gravelotte. Since coming to this city Meyer has been attached to the medical corps, and is now a practicing physician at Hamburg. When an orphan Tuppe was taken in by Dewey's father, a St., a game-keeper for the Emperor William at Hartzburg, Germany, and educated with his own sons. Mr. Tuppe showed in this way of showing his gratitude. He had not been heard from for many years, and it was not known whether he was living or dead. In his great prosperity in Australia, where he landed thirty-five years ago with ten dollars in his pocket and went to work in the mines, was unmindful of his German relatives, and the news of his death, which occurred a few months ago, will be had made the Hoisers his heirs, was a great surprise to them.

TO LIVE NINETY-SIX YEARS.

What a Grave Fortune-Teller Told Emperor William in 1865.

A number of anecdotes are related concerning Emperor William's long life and the possible number of years which he has in him. One, illustrating peculiar superstition, is worth repeating. It is to the effect that at the time of the Austrian war in Frankfort in 1865, King William, one day, while out for a walk with Count Baden-Baden, accompanied by Herr von Bismarck and a number of ladies and gentlemen, passed a Gypsy hut. A few of the ladies exclaimed: "What is where the famous Gypsy fortune-teller lives? Her fortunes are said to be wonderfully correct." The party, who were all in a jocular mood, decided to call and try their fortunes told in succession. The King, whose identity was concealed, consented, but, Precious, he was told to wait while in silence and then said: "I see a great crown, great victories and great wars. You will live ninety-six years, but you will have a hard life with many wars and much sorrow." The King forgot all about the prophecy till 1886, when, at a ball at the Russian Embassy in Berlin, the Hungarian Countess Erdody, whom moderr was a Talleyrand, was present with him. During a long conversation it was mentioned casually that the Countess possessed the gift of chiromancy. The Emperor held out his hand and the Countess, after examining the lines, gravely said: "Your Majesty is destined to live ninety-six years." The Emperor, it is added, was much struck by this coincidence.

According to the Vienna Tagblatt, physicians of the Emperor have declared that he has no organic failing, and there is nothing to prevent him from attaining the age of one hundred years, provided his fear of himself. But this is just what he does not do. Among the many anecdotes told of him, there are at present in the Kingdom of Prussia no less than five thousand persons over ninety years of age; six hundred of them are ten years older than the Emperor. In all parts of Prussia there are plenty of people between ninety and ninety-five. The oldest are to be found in the provinces of Posen, Silesia and East and West Prussia.

CUPID'S PRANKS.

How the Merry God of Love Outlines the Gallantry of Congress.

Courting in the galleries of Congress, says the New York Mail and Express correspondent, has never ceased to be of frequent occurrence and often has brought about marriage. A pair in the gallery of the House of Representatives in the Capitol, then a Democratic widow, first met again after a long period of years, during which she had been married to another and become again free, the lady who has now for some time been his wife and to whom he has paid much attention before she married an old. Not long after the meeting in the gallery they became engaged and were married. It was in the House gallery, too, that the late ex-Governor Swan courted Mrs. John R. Thompson, of New Jersey, sister of the wife of ex-Speaker Randall. Mr. Swan, then a Representative from Maryland, was paying attention to Mrs. Th m son, a very f scinating widow, and to used to call on the latter at the time that others she appeared in the gallery, and another member of the family of Representative Hiscock, of Syracuse, who also broke l se her with great success, was Speaker Randall's son. Randall would put his colleague in the chair of the House and so leave the field to the gallery case for the latter's benefit.

Ingenuity of a Game Bird.

Henry Ray, of Gilmer, Tex., has discovered the secret of the quail's being able to hide so well. He was walking in a field when a covey of birds was flushed. One alighted near him, and the moment it did so seized a dead lubcloud, crouched to the ground, threw the leaf over its back, so that it was completely hidden from view. Ray said that he kept his eye on it and turn over the leaf before the covey alighted the evidence of his own eyes.

BILLIARD SHARPERS.

A New York Detective Enlightens the Public on Their Methods.

"Those are nice-looking young gentlemen, aren't they?" remarked a well-known police headquarters official one to a New York Mail and Express reporter, a few days ago, pointing out a handful of individuals in fashionable attire lounging in the office, waiting for a call to be supplied for the comfort of guests in an up-town billiard parlor. They were all in evening dress, and there was nothing to distinguish their appearance or actions, but a certain shiftiness in the eyes and a look of uneasiness on their countenances by the detective, who may also be observed by those with them might jump at the conclusion that they were young men about town with plenty of money, either earned or inherited, and supplied by generous fathers. Nothing could be further from the truth, however, as a matter of fact. They are a wary, almost meaner set of scoundrels could not be found. They have no rich parents or relatives to look to for support, and their world is foreign to their ends.

The detective then became enlightened. They are contemptible sharpers. The police have had their eyes on the gentlemen compared to any one of that class, but they adopt such low-lived methods of getting their living as to justify their ostracism and look them up. In every first-class hotel, billiard parlors or public p ace these very young men may be found on the lookout for their night, always dressed and refined, but always on the alert for victims. This is the way they say one man operates who are doing now, watching those gentlemen play for amusement. Whenever one of the players will drop out and then one of that set will be requested by the marker to take a cue. Of course the scorer or attendant stands in with them. By dadic intercourse with the establishment they have become well learned their ways and he has no trouble in playing close to his game. He is a friendly game. One, of course, plays the sucker, and the other is the sneak. They play a couple of games and the gentleman is allowed to win both. Then they start after their victim in the same places, and often works his way into respectable society by his winning ways. He never bets at any game for they are uncertain. Gambling is not in such occasions. He will play for the calls a sure thing. Learning first just how much and how long he can keep his clutches. There are a number of business men, brokers, salesmen, bookkeepers and others who are addicted to the game, and so long as they can afford to lose a few dollars occasionally, just to avert suspicion, bet before going to bed every night or morning they have finance and outcome and find themselves steadily growing the possible loss should not allow them indoors, and the proprietor of this parlor would throw them down stairs if he could only get a chance. But their with they manage to visit some watering place in the summer time. Their object in so is perfectly legitimate in the eyes of the law. The sawdust swindle is an honorable one in comparison with the confidence game, why, that is a profession to which Yale or Vassar is compared with the mean fraternity."

ANSWERED A PERSONAL.

The Highly Unpleasant Adventure of a Full-Fledged Soldier of Fortune.

A certain young swell in Washington is said to be a shining example of the highest type of lunacy, and despite the endeavors of his friends to the contrary, he has succeeded in take other than a gloomy misanthropic view of things in general and his fellow-men in particular. Recently, while reading the newspapers, which formerly he had been in the habit of doing, he was attracted to those of his set no end of advertisements. It happened that on the one day after reading over in the which a young fellow who was evidently very much impressed with a "personal" in which a lovely damsel expressed herself in the sentiments of corresponding with a handsome young fellow with a view to mutual improvement, he decided to answer the message the young woman's affections at once. The reply read, in substance, that the fellow, for it met with an immediate response. Blank with success, the young fellow called letter-writer, discovered and impacted to them the beginning of his little romance, to which they all but listened with lively interest. The reply professed to the handsome writer that may be surmised, was the joint production of all the young fellows called in. So far all was gorgeous and fair, and arrangements were made for an exchange of photographs. This was the last of the affair, however, as the fellow, starting, however, that she was the handsome writer of the letter, and with sincerity, and would greet him as future wife.

Now, it so chanced that the damsel lived, so she wrote, in Baltimore, and after having a rapturous time with the young Washingtonian would assure the street and number of the house in which she lived and suggested that the next meeting. Full of eager anticipation to see the object of his affections, the young fellow with a view to mutual improvement, he decided to take the next train for the young woman's affections at once. The reply read, in substance, that the fellow, for it met with an immediate response. Blank with success, the young fellow called letter-writer, discovered and impacted to them the beginning of his little romance, to which they all but listened with lively interest. The reply professed to the handsome writer that may be surmised, was the joint production of all the young fellows called in. So far all was gorgeous and fair, and arrangements were made for an exchange of photographs. This was the last of the affair, however, as the fellow, starting, however, that she was the handsome writer of the letter, and with sincerity, and would greet him as future wife.

Now, it so chanced that the damsel lived, so she wrote, in Baltimore, and after having a rapturous time with the young Washingtonian would assure the street and number of the house in which she lived and suggested that the next meeting. Full of eager anticipation to see the object of his affections, the young fellow with a view to mutual improvement, he decided to take the next train for the young woman's affections at once. The reply read, in substance, that the fellow, for it met with an immediate response. Blank with success, the young fellow called letter-writer, discovered and impacted to them the beginning of his little romance, to which they all but listened with lively interest. The reply professed to the handsome writer that may be surmised, was the joint production of all the young fellows called in. So far all was gorgeous and fair, and arrangements were made for an exchange of photographs. This was the last of the affair, however, as the fellow, starting, however, that she was the handsome writer of the letter, and with sincerity, and would greet him as future wife.

THE TEXAS RANGERS.

Soldier-Sheriff, Who Protect the Borders of the Lone Star State.

Of the whole frontier line separating the Republic of the United States from the Republic of Mexico there is no more picturesque and better policed than that which extends from the Gulf of Mexico to El Paso, Tex., says a writer in the New York *

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE. A. L. FORCE.
Editors and Proprietors.

BATTLE FLAGS.

The strenuous efforts of certain politicians to make a paying investment out of the recent rebel flag incident at Washington, shows plainly what a scarce article partisan capital has become.

A number of battle flags captured from the Confederates by soldiers of the Union lay hidden away and mouldering within the dark recesses of the War Department, and the Adjutant-General of the Army, General Drum, honestly thinking, however unwisely, that their voluntary return to the States from whence they emerged long years ago, would not only be an act of courtesy, but have a direct tendency to strengthen the happily evinced feeling of national brotherhood, recommended that an official order issue in favor of such return and thereunto he obtained the sanction of the Secretary of War and of the President.

Now, admitting that such originating idea of the Adjutant-General, and its subsequent endorsement by the Secretary and President, were improper acts, no blame whatever can attach to either of these gentlemen, because they were influenced solely by what appeared to be good and patriotic motives.

The Republican States never asked for the return of any battle flags, and in fact care nothing about them, the people of the South openly acknowledging defeat and declaring the war forever ended, yet, as soon as the proposed order of General Drum was promulgated at Washington, a howl went up from a few would be prominent politicians at the North and West, who thought they saw the chance of another glorious crimson campaign, and an opportunity to defame a popular Democratic President and the party he notably represents. To that said such political warriors belched forth rash and venom-coated expressions, which not only disgusted truth and decency loving citizens, both rich and middling, irrespective of partisan name, but have recoiled with damaging effect upon the heads of their foolish utterers.

President Cleveland, as became the just and honorable official he is, promptly rescinded the order and the flags remain in seclusion.

That was well and timely done.

The political agitators did not like the rescinding act of the President, taking as it did the wind out of their sails, but, the capsizing blast came when the fact was discovered and published that the real author of the alleged paper disloyalty, General Drum, instead of being a Democrat, is and ever has been a true blue Republican.

Alas!

What shame do mercenary politicians sometimes invent and pursue!

POST OFFICE SALARIES.

The annual adjustment of the salaries of the Post Offices of the Presidential grade, has been completed by the officials of the Post Office Department. The whole number of Post Offices in New Jersey is 782, of which sixty-four are of the Presidential rank. The largest increase in any office has been made at East Orange, where the gain is $700, which places it high up among the offices of the second class. Two offices, Rutherford and Washington, show an increase of $300, and three offices, Hackensack, Hackettstown and Perth Amboy, secure an addition of $200. Princeton, by a gain of a single hundred dollars, enters the second grade. The Newark office also gains a hundred dollars. The office at Brick Church, which had a salary of $2,100, is discontinued, while Lakewood entered the Presidential class by a gain of over $400. The Weehawken office suffered the heaviest loss, the reduction being $1,000. Two offices each lose one hundred dollars, and twenty-seven gain the same amount.

BARNUM ON ADVERTISING.

P. T. Barnum, addressing a body of business men a Bridgeport the other day said: "You do not, any of you, advertise enough. You ought to use printer's ink every day. You are asleep and allow your business to run itself. Standing advertisements in a paper command confidence. The man who for a year lives in one community and leads a reputable life, even though he be of moderate ability, will grow in the confidence and esteem of his fellows. On the same principle, a newspaper advertisement becomes familiar to the reader. It may seldom be read. Still it makes the name and business of the man familiar, and constantly appearing in the columns of a paper inspire confidence in the stability of the enterprise."

JUDGE PARKER'S SCRAP-BOOK.

Judge Joel Parker, who presided so ably at the Barclay Peak trial at Mount Holly, was the Governor of New Jersey during the struggle between the States of the North and South. The venerable jurist loves to dwell on the memory of those times, and he says that he has in his possession documents that if published would throw new light on the motives of the martyred President, the then Secretary of War Stanton, and New Jersey's hero, Gen. McClellan, with the events of that troubled time. He says that he will sometime give to the public the correspondence and documents bearing on this matter, that he has preserved in the form of a book, and promises some interesting matter.—Trenton Times.

It is said that the New Jersey State Board of Health is now making special analysis of quinine pills which are being extensively sold throughout the State, and are not absolutely pure. The pills are said to have been supplied by Philadelphia firms and they do not contain the amount of quinine which they represent. So much complaint has been made by physicians about the low grade of the medicine that an official investigation was deemed necessary.

We present THE CONSTITUTIONALIST this week in a six page form, containing fifty-four columns of reading matter and advertisements. The laws of New Jersey, passed at the last session of the Legislature, form a part of the interesting reading matter which should be preserved for further reference.

Trotting.

The really interesting contests between local trotters, every Saturday afternoon, on the Park avenue track of the Union and Middlesex Agricultural Society, are attracting quite an attendance. A number occupied the grand stand, last Saturday, and in the field were many private carriages. No admission is charged, and the place is fast becoming the fashionable destination for a Saturday afternoon's drive. Last Saturday's contests were unusually close, with the following result:

FIRST RACE.

Gen. A. Phillips' br. m. "Stripe"	1 1
Jesse Moore's br. m. "Nellie C."	2 2
S. H. Kelly's b. m. "Jessie"	3 3
Time—2:46½, 2:51½.

SECOND RACE.

Wm. Van Meter's ch. g. "Jim"	1 1
John B. Osborn's ch. g. "Cash Boy,"	2 2
Time—2:38, 2:39½.

THIRD RACE (Unfinished).

E. J. Waring's br. g. "Lodger," no wagon.	1 2 2
J. B. Osborn's b. g. "Jim,"	2 1 1
C. C. Hazelhurst's b. g. "Tom McCann," no wagon.	3 3 3
Time—2:43½, 2:46, 2:41.

WESTFIELD

The recruits of the Military Company will be given in on Tuesday evening, July 5th.

The death of Mrs. Mary Long occurred Wednesday of last week, after a lingering illness, with a cancer.

Jacob D. French has sold his house and lot on Central avenue to the Rev. R. V. Parvin, of Rahway, N. J.

How long is our popular wagon-maker of Elm street going to allow that old tumble-down carriage on the street in front of his carriage repository?

The running of the growler on Thursday afternoon, ended in a fight on Broad street. In the evening, Officer Little locked up Thomas Cooper. Where is the lock-up? The place for both would have been in it.

The Methodist and Congregational Sunday schools anticipate having one of the largest excursions to Asbury Park on July 13th, weather permitting. From the conversation you hear among our residents almost every person is going.

Mr. D. Colville, leader of the choir of the Presbyterian church, has a choice that pudding. No cause for his action is generally known, as he is said to have merely written from the West that he would be able to give up the place.

The Grand officers of New Jersey, visited Fireside Council, 715, Royal Arcanum, of Westfield, Thursday evening. A. J. Westbrook, representative to the supreme council, presented the council a silver tablet-set by Fireside Council, of which he is a member, and a toast by the Grand officers of New Jersey. A collation was afterwards served and a general good time had by those in attendance.

The sixty-sixth anniversary and children's day of the Presbyterian Sunday school was held Sunday at four o'clock in the church. The programme was a very interesting one consisting of singing recitations, declamations, and report of the officers which showed the school to be a very thriving one. The Rev. L. T. Chamberlain, D. D., of Clawson avenue, Methodist church, Brooklyn, delivered a very able and instructive address.

The committee having the matter of celebrating the coming Fourth in charge are meeting with better success than they anticipated in soliciting funds. Every one is willing to contribute. It will warrant us in saying that the residents of our town need not go away from home as there will be plenty of music and fun all day and a fine display of fireworks in the evening. The Bound Brook band have been engaged for the day and evening.

Sunday afternoon Mr. John S. Irving started out for a drive with his team of young horses attached to a buggy, his young son Frank aged five years accompanying him. At Netherwood Mr. Irving got out of the wagon to arrange the lines. He had fixed them and started to get in the wagon again when the large dog he had out of doors with him, frightened the horses and they jumped. Mr. Irving caught at the lines but was struck by the wheel and knocked down. The horses ran to Richmond street and turned the corner. Frank had hold of the wagon top which was down. Near Scott Press works the horses struck against a telegraph pole and the seat and top fell off with Frank in it. He escaped injury, receiving only a few scratches. The wagon was a total wreck. The horses escaped injury from each other, and after running some distance were finally caught. Mr. Irving was considerably bruised about the arms and body, and one of the horses received several bad cuts.

The graduating class of our Public School held their Commencement exercises last week, in Arvanion Hall, Long before the hour for the exercises to commence, the Hall was crowded to overflowing. Each member of the class rendered their parts admirably—not a break, a stop or hesitation. The Rev. J. K. Foi-well delivered a very able address. Doctor Jos. R. Harrison presented the diplomas with very appropriate remarks. Each member of the class was the recipients of a handsome basket and bouquet of flowers. The class motto—"Fidelity and Justice"—was worked in letters on the rear of the stage. The following was the

PROGRAMME

DOXOLOGY.
Prayer by the Rev. N. W. Culwell.
Essay Salutatory.—"Life" ..... Emma M. Ardrey.
Chorus ..... "Now"
Essay—"Class History" ..... Mary Jane Wakker.
Recitation ..... "Legend of Bregenz" ..... Sadie F. Bartlett.
Essay—"Class Poem" ..... Anna E. Quigley.
Emma Darsh, Fanny Sammon.
Essay—"Class Prophecy" ..... Fanny Jane Wakker.
Class Poem ..... Anna E. Quigley.
Essay—"Our Families" ..... John C. Hall.
Essay—"Choice of Occupations" ..... John C. Hall.
Class Will ..... Edith May Sayers.
Solo—Vocal—"Gaily I Wander" ..... Miss Darsh.
Essay—"Class Prophecy Rattlesnake" ..... Fannie Darsh.
Address ..... Rev. Joseph Brooks.
Solo—Instrumental—"The Mocking Bird Spring." ..... Edith May Sayers.
Address, Awarding Diplomas ..... Rev. J. Brown.
Chorus ..... "Westfield School."
Benediction ..... Rev. J. Brown.

The sudden death of James Higgins, aged about sixty years, occurred on Saturday afternoon at five o'clock. Higgins had been complaining for the past week of not feeling well, and seemed to be failing fast. On Saturday afternoon about two o'clock he was sitting on the side walk in front of Mrs. McGowan's house on Spring street. At two p. m. he had moved to the shade of a shrub on the street in front of the residence of Mr. L. Peterson, he attracted the attention of Mrs. Peterson who noticing something wrong with him, went out and spoke to him. Another of the neighbors, Mrs. McCue, made a bowl of tea and gave it to him. He stayed sitting by the fence until five o'clock, when Mrs. Peterson noticed him fall forward on his face. She went out to him and says he gave one or two gasps and expired. Coroner Joseph Westcott was immediately notified and made an examination. Hegave the body charge of Undertaker Connely who removed it to his home on Central avenue. It is understood the deceased has a mother and other relatives residing at Morristown, N. J., but nothing definite is known whether he is so or not. The County Physician is investigating it. The deceased was of a very retired disposition, having no one to associate with. He has resided in Fanwood and Westfield Township for a number of years, first coming about thirty years ago to live with Mr. Hamilton Gaston, near Lambert's Mills. He was a machinist by trade. He was 57 an inventive turn and had secured a number of years ago several patents. One for a improved cultivator and one for a gasket chain, and several others. The deceased has been a member of Engine Co. No. 1, since its organization.

NORTH PLAINFIELD GRADUATES.

Fourth Annual Commencement—Exercises in Warren Mission Chapel—Essays—Addresses by Members of the Board of Education—Awarding Diplomas—The Reception.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

President—Dr. H. S. Carroll. Sec'y—Jas. Meiser.
Trustee—Geo. T. Bowen.

TEACHERS

Principal—C. H. Sherman. Vice Principal—Mary'l J. Purdue. Miss Thomas, Miss Hunterdunker, Miss Mair, Miss Randolph, Miss Lowell, Miss Kaiser, Miss Herman, Miss Thomas, Miss Sherwood, Miss Glen.

GRADUATES.

Minnie J. French.	Frederick W. Heinlohf.
Emily E. Thompson.	John E. S. Petrie.
Florence W. Randolph.	David E. French.
Elizabeth B. Brower.	Alice Coddington.
Marie H. Gavin.	John M. Lewis.
Mary E. Thorn.	Frank P. Wilson.
George P. Taggart.	Frederick C. Grant.
Paul D. Leidendorf.

There were closing scenes at the North Plainfield Public School Thursday last, and in the evening the Fourth Annual Commencement exercises took place in Warren Mission Chapel. The inclement weather did not noticeably decrease the attendance, and long before eight o'clock, the time appointed for opening the exercises, people were wedged in the building to a suffering extent. The outside temperature was delightfully cool, contrasting forcibly with the extreme heat in the interior of the Chapel. Principal Boss and the ushers exerted every effort to seat the multitude, but their exertions were in vain, and when the hour arrived for beginning, large numbers were standing and remained in that position throughout the rendition of the entire programme.

At a little after eight o'clock, the sliding doors were drawn, disclosing about one hundred and fifty scholars arranged in tiers in the rear of the stage proper, all dressed in their best. The spectacle was an imposing one, and many an anxious mother seated in the audience leaned forward to catch a glimpse of her darling girl or boy. The floral decorations were modest and neat, consisting principally of cut flowers and ferns. The air was redolent with the perfume of flowers from the corsage bouquets, and rich jewels gleamed from the toilets of the fair graduates. On the extreme right of the platform was a reserved bank of roses filled with ferns, and on the left was a huge bank of green and white. Principal Boss presided, and with him were seated on the right, Messrs. H. R. Carroll, LL. D., and Jas. McGee of the Board of Education, and Miss Carrie E. Randolph, the accompanist. The members of the graduating class in a number were seated on the left of the stage. The young ladies, all of whom it is needless to say, were both pretty, and, of course, intelligent, were stratified in smiles and bouquets, and the young men—as all young men are on such occasions—were joyous and intellectual-looking.

The programme was then opened by the school singing—"The Heaven's are Telling," and was according to the following

ORDER OF EXERCISES.

Chorus. The Heavens are Telling	School.
Recitation. The Women of Marmion	Elma Darsh.
Recitation. Little Jerry	Walter Place.
Boys' Chorus. Sailing	Boys.
Recitation. Flash	Bertie Boline.
Recitation. What Grandmother Says	Helen Hunt.
Essay. Helen Hunt	Elizabeth Brower.
Quartette. From our Merry home Rome	Misses Randolph, Gavin, Thompson, Coddington.
Whittled, Alice Carroll.
Declamation. Bedtime	Fred Thorn.
Recitation. Little Fritz	Harry Pollesmen.
Recitation. Boo	Nellie Morrison.
Chorus. The Laugh of a Child	School.
Recitation. Valedictorie Harper	Jessica Smith.
Recitation. The Future of America	Frank Wilson.
Essay. Dreams	Florence Hurlburt.
Excerpt. Dumb Bells

Part II

Declamation. The Victor of Marengo	John Petrie.
Recitation. The Slave Ship	Mary Jane Wakker.
Girls' Chorus. Scatin
Recitation. Curfew must not Ring	John Irwin.
Recitation. A Little Sleepy Head	Jessie Coddington.
Boys' Chorus. Sailing	Boys.
Essay. Missing Questions	George Taggart.
Recitation. The Little Friends	Minnie J. French.
Recitation. Whittled	Wm. MacClymont.
Duet. Over the Waves	Bertie Boline, Bessie Hazzard.
Declamation. The Battle of Mission Ridge,	Fred Leidendorf.

PRESENTATION OF DIPLOMAS.
By President of Board of Education.
Chorus. The Sailor's Chorus. School.

As will be seen by the foregoing programme, the entertainment was varied, every part of which was thoroughly rendered. Miss Elma Garvin recited in rhyme the heroic deeds of the "Women of Mumble Head," and their dangerous attempts to rescue the crew of a wrecked vessel; their plunge into the mighty waters to save the struggling forms from a watery grave. Walter Place told of the exploits of "Little Jerry at Fulton Ferry," and Bertie Boline gave in rhyme the life of "Flash," a fire department horse. Little Edith Wise, although she forgot to salute Principal Boss when she ascended the steps to the platform, related in a pleasing manner "What Grandmother Says."

"Helen Hunt" was the subject of the first essay, by Miss Elizabeth Brower, whose delivery was something more than the ordinary. Helen Maria Hunt, the daughter of Nathan and Delassia Fish, was born at Amherst, Mass., Oct. 15, 1831. Her father was a Professor of Languages and Philosophy in Amherst College; her mother, a lady of rare literary talents, and as authoress. Helen was a precocious child and her bright sayings were often quoted. In 1852 she was married to Rev. Henry B. Hunt, who was afterward killed while experimenting with an invention of his own for firing projectiles under water. At the age of thirty Helen went to Newton, N. J., where she began to make a study of literary styles, and interchanged criticism with others. She published poems entitled "Tryal," "A Burial Service" and "Verses." In 1873, Mrs. Hunt visited Colorado, and there married again, in Oct. 1875, to William Sharpless Jackson. From this time until her death, she had a happy domestic life, never neglecting her literary duties. Emerson was a great admirer of Helen Hunt. The most artistic of her verses is the "Gondolier," in which all Venice seems reflected in the cadence. Mrs. Jackson suffered intensely, previous to her death, which occurred August 12, 1885, and in accordance with her wishes, she was buried in a lovely spot in Pine Hill Forest, on the northerly slope of the Cheyenne Mountain. On Saturday, May 2, Crawford, "one might almost imagine the wild flowers she loved so well in life, springing from the green grass, and such bright procession giving expression to the immortality of a beautiful life.

Master Fred Thorn declaimed on the "Battle of Hohlden," and little Harry Pollesmen recited in true Teutonic style, "Little Fritz," relating his grievances while at school, and declaring that he would rather stay at home and suck "Katrina" than attend a primary school. Miss Nellie Morrison gave a recitation entitled "Doo," and was followed by a recitation entitled "King Valdemar, the Happy," by Justina Smith.

"The Future of America" was the subject of a declamation by Frank Wilson. The problems God is bringing before us to-day, he said, and the hazardous questions of the hour must be answered by the present generation. The American Republic must stand; conservatism must prevail, and fanaticism shall not destroy it. The land of the free and where the home and nothing unless sustained by public opinion; this is a country with universal freedom and universal brotherhood.

Miss Florence Virginia Hurlburt delivered fluently an essay entitled "Dreams," she showed not the slightest trace of embarrassment, and her delivery was clear and distinct, so as to be heard in all parts of the house. The production is a most commendable one and is worthy of reproduction. It runs as follows:

DREAMS.

How strange, how mysterious and fascinating are the voices that woo us in dreams land. We lay our wearied bodies down to rest, but the soul within us never sleeps. During the hours of the darkness, while the body is wandering, being freed from the spirit world with its magic influence takes possession of us, and by the wave of a fairy's wand, the scene changes and we are lifted into a world of enamoured pain or pleasure.

"Oh, spirit of sleep, thou land of dreams,
A world the sort of mysterious gleams,
Of sights and sounds of strife,
A world of the dead in the home of life."

These scenes of thoughts of a gentle kind, termed "dreams," have exerted their fascinating influence upon man for ages, and will doubtless continue to do so, until death calls the busy world into everlasting slumbers. When we think of the great power and strange freaks of Morpheus, the god of sleep and dreams it seems probable that his sway is limited to sleeping forms, for one may fall asleep with the power of mind and have the most horrible experience imaginable, or may see heaven in its indescribable magnificence, or fathom the sea, and find its hidden treasures in secluded caves. He may even sight the "caverns of Eblis," and see the spirits wielding the telegraph while Pompey stands expectant and stun the modes of warfare of the present day. Weird and sacred as dreams may be, still they afford untold happiness, and many a lonely, tired soul has been cheered by these mingling visions. The sleeping sailor sees pictured on his mind the home for which he longs, each hill and shady nook. She hears the sweet music of trees, and the ivy covered porch where his kind mother sits. The soldier dreams of battle, and the commander hears the sound and sees the fell assaulted. With the next day's beginning, he goes into the reality battle with a courage born of his dreams. The prisoner in his lonely desolate cell, feels again the joys of freedom; and the wretched outcast sees the golden gates, nor the birds sang more sweetly; than now, when in his dreams, he wakes the earth a free man. Thus dreams are a source of comfort and that of pleasure? In Biblical times they had a distinct meaning and were often divinely inspired and warned by God in that manner, as in the dreams of Jacob, Nebuchadnezzar, Pharaoh and Joseph. Though we do not today attach this same importance to dreams, yet every one acknowledges that they have a singular power over us, casting the thoughts into new channels, and even turning one's purpose in life. Brother Joseph became the literary world by wearied fancies for poets' verses. Robert Burns, it is said, got inspiration for his poem, the Cotter's Saturday night, of 1786, not asleep and in his dream composed a beautiful poem, which on awakening he transferred to paper. The artist in his sleep sees a line of incomparable beauty or magnificent scenery, with which that of his conception is not worthy to be compared. With enthusiasm he paints and the pictured dreams of beautiful scenes would fill rooms. The vision of St. Antonine, in which he strays along the sea shore and fitting his hand sees the infant Christ in the waves, and looks up from his task of holding a shell, was the inspiration of Murillo. Tennyson and Vanbrugh, among many strange workings of the sleeping mind, some despondent unbelieving persons place Life. They deem it unsatisfactory and call it a dream, but the Poet's real worth in his joys and sorrows of each day's experience.

Little is on who knew its reality, each minute is of value, and each day has its separate duties. Truly as Longfellow says, Life is real, life is earnest. And if we are striving in every way to make those around us happy, he neither will be in life than the most beautiful dreams ever seen by dreams.

FLORENCE V. HURLBURT.

A pleasing feature of the exercises was the dumb bell drill, in which nine boys, dressed in white flannel shirts, dark-blue pants, and caps to match, went through a number of difficult evolutions in perfect harmony with a piano accompaniment. The dumb bell drill was loudly applauded, and was followed by a rapid succession by a declamation by John Petrie entitled "The Victor Marengo," a recitation "The Slave Ships" by Miss Maria Lockwood, and a girls chorus. Master John Lewis delivered a declamation on "The Rights and Duties of Man," and Little Miss Jessie Coddington recited "A Little Sleepy Head," all of which were warmly received by the audience. The boys chorus "China" was vigorously sung and each boy vied with another in seeing who could make the most noise with his Fourth of July change.

Another essay deserving special credit both for originality and delivery was entitled "Missing Quantities." It is here-unto published in its entirety:

MISSING QUANTITIES.

Everything is made up of certain component quantities—great or little, good or bad. Water is formed of quantities of hydrogen and oxygen existing in proportion as eight to one. Air is essentially composed of quantities of oxygen and nitrogen, carbonic acid of carbon and oxygen. A vacuum is a quantity of nothing. Physically the most important of the phases of matter is that of quantity, which proves that it is a most necessary adjunct to fractus. Artists have worked for years to produce a certain shade of color; a musician will labor unceasingly in endeavoring to perfect some melody which arises in his mind. A poet will study for hours to find words with which he can complete the meter of his verses. Hundreds of other equally potent examples might all be cited. The people of the present time seem to consider the missing quantities somewhat more ridiculous than the immaterial, which, however, is assuredly not the case. The quantity of many virtues almost lost sight of in the character of the men and women of to-day is most alarming. Character is essentially a compound of qualities and the greatness of business depends upon the quantity of the good or bad qualities. The lives of all men or men also illustrate these assertions. Burke, England's great statesman, would, it is claimed, have been still greater had not the quantity of his self-control been deficient. His shining quantity caused him to be temper too easily, and by so doing marred the force of his argument. Good qualities, absent in even small quantities, become disastrously conspicuous. The French General, Soult, could have defeated Wellington at Waterloo, but for the quantity of cautious. We look up to Daniel Webster as a model of greatness, and yet he could not control the quantity sufficiently to keep intemperance. Alexander the Great is another example of the same. Of all the qualities of character the lack of the smaller quantity of which we feel more than any other is prudence. If governor our actions, speech, manner—anything, in short—and a person is certainly unfortunate in whom prudence is in the least degree a missing quantity. Of the many virtues almost lost sight of is conscientiously operate his financial, social interests, the quantity of which is small, tends to some school of discretion. It may also be in place to mention in this connection, that not infrequently is indolence the result of a missing quantity, a small germ of a bad quality is likely to enter unnoticed and have been allowed to increase in size entirely. This fact is well illustrated by the fall of the Roman Empire, which resulted from the quantity of luxury and the quantity of contempt for labor in large quantities; but when any quantity of industry crept in, the quantity of large quantity of indolent luxury crept in, and slowly increased in volume until when the Empire was destroyed by the Goths, the quantity which had made Rome what she was, had become a missing quantity with the utmost degree. In no place, the first stone in the already toppling tower of Roman supremacy. In these cases, as in all others, a careful observance has not preserved the possibility of irretrievable loss, and the question as to whether a quantity is to be recovered or not, depends entirely upon the issue. The problems of how it shall be regained, and how it shall be used will ran around, puzzle anything, and so when we discover our missing quantity we regain it, or at least make a strong and constantly keeping in mind and trying to prove that—"He who is firm I will, moulds the world to himself."

GEO. F. TAGGART.

Miss Minnie J. French recited "The Little Fireman," and Wm. McClymont delivered a declamation on the subject of "De Apple." The recitation abounded with comicalities as he traced the origin of the apple from Adam's time down to the present time. During his "discourse" he compared the young men to grasshoppers, the old maid, to the neck as further, the mother-in-law to the crab apples, the bald-headed man, to the Baldwin apple, and lastly the old folks, to dried apples. Some of his sentiments can be found in a project in a firm oratorical manner. Each of the participants received handsome floral offerings, which were brought out in the corteous ushers and placed in a row along the front of the platform, and when all had finished the stage represented a parterre of flowers.

PRESENTATION OF DIPLOMAS.

The members of the graduating class formed a semi-circle on the platform, and as a concluding portion of the programme Mr. H. K. Carroll, LL. D., President of the Board of Education, on behalf of the Board of Trustees, in a few appropriate words presented each graduate with a diploma. In part he said: "Scholars of the graduating class it is with great pleasure that I present to you these diplomas on behalf of the Board of Trustees and teachers of the school for the successful you have attained during your school life. This is your hour of triumph, as you look back ten or fifteen years, to the timid boys who were then hard to overcome, you may look at them in an indifferent way; then you were perplexed when you could not distinguish the difference between your "pie" and your "q's." Since then you have faithfully and conscientiously overcome those difficulties. In presenting you these diplomas your connection with us must cease, and if you continue with us it must only be by the bonds of friendship." Each of the fifteen graduates then responded as their names were called and gracefully received their paper.

James McGee followed in a short address in which he said that he did not want "Little Jerry" to go home and say that the trustees had made a lengthy address. He had one thing to say, however, and that was that the t u tees were proud of the scholars and proud of their school. He said, was staring them in the face; if the parents would gather from year to year to witness the graduating exercises of the public schools there would be little proper education they must grant a higher school building; the school, is at present much too small. More room for another building is essential at this time. He thanked the parents for their children, who had only been loaned to them and called their assistance to aid in making this the grandest school district in New Jersey.

The school song "The Sailor's Chorus," was then rendered, and a couple filed out of the building to face a drenching rain storm. The graduates and past graduates remained at the reception which followed, during which refreshments and general sociability was the order. Principal Boss was presented with a large framed engraving, representing the Russian Wedding, and Vice-Principal, Miss Purdue, was the happy recipient of a handsome blue plush album containing the photographs of the graduating class. The entertainment came to an end soon after midnight, and was pronounced one of the most successful ever given by the members of the North Plainfield Public School.

From an educational point of view the exercises of the evening, must be regarded as the chief event of the school year. Truly as Longfellow says, Life is real, life is earnest. And if we are striving in every way to make those around us happy, he neither will be in life than the most beautiful dreams ever seen by dreams.

FLORENCE V. HURLBURT.

DEATHS.

STOUT.—In this city, June 26, 1887, Miss Ann Eliza Stout.

DOBBINS.—Thursday, June 30, Mrs. Nancy Dobbins, widow of the late James Dobbins.

NOTABLE ADVERTISEMENTS.

FORD & STILES.
Funeral Directors
and Practical Embalmers.
No. 14 BANK STREET, NEWARK.
Telephone Call No. 61.
Open Day and Night.

C. M. KUNYON & SON,
Undertakers and Embalmers,
80 Park avenue.
Telephone Call 46
RESIDENCE—Corner Halsted avenue and Park avenue.
Telephone Call 117
"Office of Hillside Cemetery."

P. CONLEY & SON,
UNDERTAKERS.
Office, No. 1 Somerset st.; Residence, No. 11 Park place, between Second and Third sts. Everything pertaining to the business always on hand. Telephone Call No. 8. Open day and night. All Calls Promptly Answered.

GRAND PICNIC!
with a Special Entertainment, for the benefit of St. Joseph's church, at
THE CRESCENT,
Corner Fourth and Front streets, Plainfield, New Jersey.
Monday, July 4th.
Fine Music. Largest and Smoothest Surface in the State for Dancing. Refreshments.
TICKETS ..... 25 CTS.

Central Railroad of New Jersey
Station in New York—Foot of Liberty Street.
Time Table in Effect June 27, 1887.
PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.
Leave Plainfield 5.27, 5.45, 8.32, 7.40, 7.00, 7.30, 1.05, 2.30, 3.40, 4.32, 10.37, 11.26, 11.42, a. m. 12.22, 1.37, 2.50, 3.40, 4.32, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m. Sunday—5.37, 8.03, 8.37, 10.35, 11.32 a. m. 12.22, 1.37, 2.50, 3.40, 4.32, 5.30, 6.30, 7.30, 8.30, 9.30, 10.30, 11.30 p. m.
Leave New York from foot of Liberty Street, 4.00, 5.00, 6.00, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00, 12.00 noon, 1.30, 3.30, 3.45, 4.00, 4.30, 5.00, 5.15, 5.30, 5.45, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 p. m. Sunday—4.00, 8.45, 9.00, a. m., 12.00, m., 1.30, 4.00, 5.00, 6.00, 7.00, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00, 11.00 p. m.
PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.
Leave Plainfield 6.10, 7.14, 8.20, 9.21, 11.20, a. m., 2.05, 3.05, 4.05, 5.05, 6.05, 7.05, 8.05, 9.05, 10.05, 11.05 p. m. Sunday—8.20, 10.16, a. m., 2.05, 4.05, 6.05, 8.05, 10.05 p. m.
Leave Newark 6.45, 6.55, 7.55, 7.30, 7.55, 8.15, 9.30, 10.15, 11.15, 12.15, a. m., 1.15, 2.15, 3.15, 4.15, 5.15, 6.15, 7.15, 8.15, 9.15, 10.15, 11.15 p. m. Sunday—9.30, 11.45, a. m., 1.15, 3.15, 5.15, 7.15, 9.15, 10.15, 11.15 p. m.
PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.
Leave Plainfield 5.10, 7.14, 8.20, 9.21, 11.20, a. m., 2.05, 3.05, 4.05, 5.05, 6.05, 7.05, 8.05, 9.05, 10.05, 11.05 p. m. Sunday—8.20, 10.16, a. m., 2.05, 4.05, 6.05, 8.05, 10.05 p. m.
Leave Easton 6.45, 8.37, a. m., 12.40, 4.35, 7.00, p. m. Sunday—8.37, a. m., 7.00, p. m.

SCHEDULE OF TRAINS.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia and Trenton—1.32, 5.10, 8.45, 11.44, a. m., 2.32, 6.00, 9.00, 11.30 p. m. Sunday—1.32, 5.10, 8.45, 11.44, a. m., 2.32, 6.00, 9.00, 11.30 p. m.
Leave Plainfield—Leave Philadelphia.
Leave Trenton and Bordentown, 4.00, 8.00, 11.00, a. m., 1.30, 5.05, 8.10, 11.00, 12.00 p. m. Sunday—4.00, 8.00, 11.00, a. m., 1.30, 5.05, 8.10, 11.00, 12.00 p. m.
Leave Trenton and Bordentown, 4.00, 8.00, 11.00, a. m., 1.30, 5.05, 8.10, 11.00, 12.00 p. m. Sunday—4.00, 8.00, 11.00, a. m., 1.30, 5.05, 8.10, 11.00, 12.00 p. m.
Leave

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST, - - Publisher.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE OF MAILS.

NEW YORK MAILS.
Close—8 00 A. M. & 3 30 P. M.
Arrive—10 30 A. M. & 6 30 P. M.

MORRISTOWN, PATTON, &c., MAILS.
Close—2 00 A. M. & 3 30 P. M.
Arrive—10 30 A. M. & 6 30 P. M.

SUNDAY MAILS—Close at 5 30 A. M. Office open from 8 to 9 A. M. Mail closed P. M.

Mail for Washington closes Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 12 M.

Post Office open daily from 7 A. M. and closes at 7 30 P. M. Sundays, from 8 to 9 A. M. Mail for the evening mails 5 P. M. to owners or lock boxes.

Money order office open from 7 A. M., to 8 P. M. Saturdays to 10 P. M.

L. FORCE, Postmaster.

—The bicycle road race postponed from last Saturday will be ridden during Saturday next.

—Marshall & Ball, the Newark clothiers, will remain closed on Monday, July 4th.

—The monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held in Reform Hall next Tuesday, the 5th inst., at 2 30 P. M.

—The usual Friday evening meeting in Trinity Reformed church for the study of the Bible, have been discontinued for the present.

—Property-man Mattox of Music Hall, is making up, in large quantities, colored fire, to be used for Fourth of July illuminations.

—A false alarm of fire was started early on Saturday evening which created considerable excitement. But who started the alarm is not known.

—In the Crescent avenue church, Sunday morning, Rev. Joseph Silcox, Secretary of faith, and six were admitted by letter to membership.

—The public schools have closed for the Summer and pedestrians can now walk on the sidewalks in the vicinity of the school houses at noon time.

—In accordance with custom and rule, the post office will be closed on the Fourth of July after 10 A. M. Mail matter received and delivered up to that time.

—Rand, of 23 West Front street, is offering a photographer's outfit especially fitted up for and admirably adapted to use of the younger amateurs. A gift more instructive and pleasing cannot be found.

—Eddell's "special" sale will continue for the balance of the week. With it comes one additional bargain each day. He announces also that his stock of fancy articles for Fourth of July doings is very complete.

—The City Park is surely in need of a few hemlock boards to be used for seating purposes. The park is a most delightful place to spend an hour or two during sweltering heroes, and a few dollars could be wisely expended in erecting some comfortable seats.

—Beginning on Sunday next and continuing throughout the Summer, the Sunday school session of the First Baptist church will be held in the morning at half-past nine o'clock. Church services in the morning will begin at a quarter before eleven o'clock.

—Following its own established custom, the Fire Department will celebrate the Summer heroes of two months. It will reopen September 4th, the first Sunday in that month. At this closing session, yellowing is to be very pleasant among the children was made by Aaron M. Powell.

—An effort is being made by the dry goods and shoe clerks of the city to have the stores closed at 6 o'clock. Except in wet weather, but the scheme is likely to fall through, because some of the employers have adopted the motto of certain Connecticut clocks, viz: "Go when I go," thought that of all the stores, none of them will close at four.

—In order that the Reform Club meetings may be made more attractive in the future, the speaking committee has decided to observe in the future as many speakers from out of town as possible. The warm weather to doubt has a tendency to lessen the attendance, but with good speakers, it is thought that the interest will not flag during the Summer.

—Elizabeth is to have what this city wants—Summer evening band concerts. Prof. Isaac D. Hinkley, commencing Friday next, will give free concerts every Tuesday and Friday evening during the Summer, in front of the Sheridan House, Elizabeth. Has not Plainfield a City Park? Why can't it have open air concerts by the former in the latter.

—Capp's orchestra which was engaged to furnish the music for the High School Commencement exercises reception of Thursday evening, arrived in Plainfield just after twenty-four hours late. A programme was sent the leader and for the past many years he knows exactly how to account for or excuse his stupidity; is therefore, treasure.

—Chief Budd was called upon Friday afternoon to eject an unruly woman named Ann Riley from a car on the Grand avenue, where she had been employed as a domestic. The woman was past all discipline and but one person sancy and refused to leave. When the Chief arrived at the place, however, the woman had departed, and the only treasury was secured by the officer.

—In excavating for the addition to the M. E. church last week, a coffin and what appeared to be the bones of a child, was unearthed. When the church was rebuilt, forty years ago, the bodies in the graveyard at the buildings rear were removed to the corner of Seventh street and Union, and afterwards to the present cemetery of the M. E. church on the Madison avenue. The remains found the other day, were probably overlooked at the time of the general removal in 1846."

—No. 2 engine company took steps yesterday preparatory to the new fire-bell on South Second street last Friday to try the capacity of the well. When the engine started pumping it was found that there was no water in the well, but in a short time the depth was lessened to four feet. There was a considerable quantity of sand in the well, which is probably accounted for by the fact that the well is new. The engine was then taken to the well at Third and Liberty streets and the pumps thoroughly tested.

—Some miscreant, unknown to the police, entered an unoccupied house in the vicinity of the Park House a few days ago, and tore out a large quantity of lead pipe, some of which was taken away. The connection with the bank was torn away so as to allow the house to become flooded with water, and as a result much of the flooring in the house will have to be relaid as the boards are so badly warped that it is impossible to straighten them. Such lawlessness is of the most brutal nature, and the guilty person should be made to answer.

—A stage load of fishermen left this city at midnight on Saturday and spent Sunday fishing in the beautiful waters of Perth Amboy. The party was accompanied by a colored caterer and were well supplied with eatables and a variety of thirst quenchers. Some of the party, it is said, became "waxick" and for a time were out of sight of land. Nobody, however, believes the report that the colored caterer said: "Fo' de Lawd's sake, let me out dis boah boat, while I walk ashoh." The total catch was one weak fish—too weak to get away—and a hazy memory of —Because some boys laughed at an Iowa girl's feet, she went home, took a dose of strichnine and died.

—A new boiler with which to increase the steam generating capacity of the Plainfield Electric Light Station, arrived Monday, and will be put in place at once.

—There will be the usual orchestra music at The Netherwood, to-morrow, and doubtless the public are cordially invited to enjoy the evening's pleasures.

—Two inhabited birds-nests were taken from the "hood" over the electric light on Fourth avenue near the station, Friday. This gives us an example of one race of living beings that do not prefer darkness to light during courtship.

—The great trouble with American journalism is that the man who hangs out how a newspaper ought to be run, are unfortunately engaged in some other business—driving stages, digging post-holes, herding sheep, or acting as deputy sheriffs.

—The summer change in the time table of the Central Railroad, makes the arrival of the morning mail ten minutes later than before. The second morning mail is therefore distributed for the public at 9 20 instead 9 10 as heretofore. The morning mail also now closes at 8 30 instead of 7 30.

—We hope the public will not turn their face to face with a comparison of the newspaper work done in reporting the commencement exercises of Thursday, Tom Paine's statements was not the most accurate, but the only complete records published. All of which is respectfully submitted.

Only One More Train Wanted.

In this issue will be found the new Summer schedule of trains that went into effect Monday. The changes are few except in the way of connections, but two great conveniences are added. One is a through Sunday train, leaving Ocean Grove, etc., from this city, attached to the 2 25 p. m., train. The other is a new express from New York to this city, stopping at Roselle, Elizabeth, Rahway, Metuchen and reaches Plainfield at 5 16. Those in whose hands is the ordering of all this love, since the road's release from the Reading management, and its more accommodating disposition in the matter of trains and connections gratifying to their patronage and cordially adapting in increased receipts. Some day, therefore, the people is inclined to trust, the 11 30 p. m. train from New York will be continued through to Roselle. Mail matter received and delivered up to that time.

—Rand, of 23 West Front street, is offering a photographer's outfit especially fitted up for and admirably adapted to use of the younger amateurs. A gift more instructive and pleasing cannot be found.

—Eddell's "special" sale will continue for the balance of the week. With it comes one additional bargains each day. He announces also that his stock of fancy articles for Fourth of July doings is very complete.

—The City Park is surely in need of a few hemlock boards to be used for seating purposes. The park is a most delightful place to spend an hour or two during sweltering heroes, and a few dollars could be wisely expended in erecting some comfortable seats.

—Beginning on Sunday next and continuing throughout the Summer, the Sunday school session of the First Baptist church will be held in the morning at half-past nine o'clock. Church services in the morning will begin at a quarter before eleven o'clock.

—Following its own established custom, the Fire Department will celebrate the Summer heroes of two months. It will reopen September 4th, the first Sunday in that month. At this closing session, yellowing is to be very pleasant among the children was made by Aaron M. Powell.

—An effort is being made by the dry goods and shoe clerks of the city to have the stores closed at 6 o'clock. Except in wet weather, but the scheme is likely to fall through, because some of the employers have adopted the motto of certain Connecticut clocks, viz: "Go when I go," thought that of all the stores, none of them will close at four.

—In order that the Reform Club meetings may be made more attractive in the future, the speaking committee has decided to observe in the future as many speakers from out of town as possible. The warm weather to doubt has a tendency to lessen the attendance, but with good speakers, it is thought that the interest will not flag during the Summer.

—Elizabeth is to have what this city wants—Summer evening band concerts. Prof. Isaac D. Hinkley, commencing Friday next, will give free concerts every Tuesday and Friday evening during the Summer, in front of the Sheridan House, Elizabeth. Has not Plainfield a City Park? Why can't it have open air concerts by the former in the latter.

—Capp's orchestra which was engaged to furnish the music for the High School Commencement exercises reception of Thursday evening, arrived in Plainfield just after twenty-four hours late. A programme was sent the leader and for the past many years he knows exactly how to account for or excuse his stupidity; is therefore, treasure.

—Chief Budd was called upon Friday afternoon to eject an unruly woman named Ann Riley from a car on the Grand avenue, where she had been employed as a domestic. The woman was past all discipline and but one person sancy and refused to leave. When the Chief arrived at the place, however, the woman had departed, and the only treasury was secured by the officer.

—In excavating for the addition to the M. E. church last week, a coffin and what appeared to be the bones of a child, was unearthed. When the church was rebuilt, forty years ago, the bodies in the graveyard at the buildings rear were removed to the corner of Seventh street and Union, and afterwards to the present cemetery of the M. E. church on the Madison avenue. The remains found the other day, were probably overlooked at the time of the general removal in 1846."

—No. 2 engine company took steps yesterday preparatory to the new fire-bell on South Second street last Friday to try the capacity of the well. When the engine started pumping it was found that there was no water in the well, but in a short time the depth was lessened to four feet. There was a considerable quantity of sand in the well, which is probably accounted for by the fact that the well is new. The engine was then taken to the well at Third and Liberty streets and the pumps thoroughly tested.

—Some miscreant, unknown to the police, entered an unoccupied house in the vicinity of the Park House a few days ago, and tore out a large quantity of lead pipe, some of which was taken away. The connection with the bank was torn away so as to allow the house to become flooded with water, and as a result much of the flooring in the house will have to be relaid as the boards are so badly warped that it is impossible to straighten them. Such lawlessness is of the most brutal nature, and the guilty person should be made to answer.

—A stage load of fishermen left this city at midnight on Saturday and spent Sunday fishing in the beautiful waters of Perth Amboy. The party was accompanied by a colored caterer and were well supplied with eatables and a variety of thirst quenchers. Some of the party, it is said, became "waxick" and for a time were out of sight of land. Nobody, however, believes the report that the colored caterer said: "Fo' de Lawd's sake, let me out dis boah boat, while I walk ashoh." The total catch was one weak fish—too weak to get away—and a hazy memory of Installation of Trinity's New Pastor.

Yesterday morning services of Rev. Charles Schenck, the new pastor of Trinity Reformed church took place last evening, beginning at 7 30 o'clock. Rev. Dr. Lansing of Newark, as a special session recently, appointed the Rev. W. J. R. Taylor, D. D., to preach the sermon, and Rev. David Waters to charge the pastor. Rev. A. V. V. Raymond, the former pastor of the church, was appointed as the clergyman to charge the people, but being unable to be present, Rev. Henry Veshazee, of Irvington, was appointed in his stead. The music for the occasion was specially arranged, and included the following selections.

PROGRAMME OF MUSIC.

Vocal Offertory in Chorus.....Eugene Thayer
"Be Thou Faithful unto Death."..Mendelssohn.
Tenor solo—Mr. Jeffery.
"Send Out Thy Light".....Gounod.
Soprano solo—Mrs. D. R. Jeffery.
"My Faith Looks Up to Thee".....Lowell Mason.
Duet—Mr. and Mrs. Jeffery.
"On Thee Each Living Soul."..Croxton.
"Thou Art Gone Up on High," and Mr. E. Mc-Ewen.
"Gloria (Offertorio de Sol)."..Eugene Thayer.
Organ Solo—Mr. Tilsworth.

Gullsong—Frazee.

Miss Euphemia Stevens Frazee, daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. Joseph Frazee of this city was united in marriage to Charles E. Gullsong, of Jersey City, at the residence of the bride's parents, corner of Peace and Seventh streets, Wednesday, 23d, by Rev. Wm. Day, of Elizabeth, was the officiating clergyman. Miss Mamie Runkle, of Pennington, daughter of Peter Runkle of the Hopewell township, County Jersey, was the bridesmaid, and Mr. T. Cohen, of Jersey City, performed the duties of groomsman. The bride looked charming in cream white albatross with full guipure lace overdress and satin trimmings. The groom wore the customary afternoon attire. Guests were present from Jersey City, New York, Trenton, Newark, Elizabeth, Somerville, Flemington, and other distant points. The presents were numerous, including a fifty dollar check from the groom's father, and a gold watch and diamond crescent pin from the groom. A reception was tendered the bride and groom at the residence of the bride's parents on the 11 26 a. m. train for a short trip in New York state, expecting to return in time to make their appearance in the M. E. church Sunday morning. Previous to their departure the Plainfield Cornet Band gave them a serenade, rendering some excellent music. They were handsomely by the guests until after the departure of the bride and groom.

Opening Sale at Hillside Cemetery.

Three o'clock of last Saturday afternoon was the time and date announced in THE PRESS for the beginning of the sale of lots at Hillside Cemetery. The day was a perfect one, and from under the upper tree on one of the highest points of the cemetery, the bridge in the M. E. church for reference—a magnificent view had before the eye. In one direction was the city of Plainfield, and the valley stretching away to the north, for miles and miles. In another direction the close swept over hundreds of acres of varied cultivated grain, to the city of Somerville, nestling in its din distance. The attendance was large, and scores of carriages lined the driveways just being laid out. The place was marked by strings along the turf to correspond with the lines on the map. According to location, the price per square foot ranged from fifteen cents to a dollar. Each purchaser upon the book chose in turn the plot in size and location that best suited his taste and pocket. Those who were present at the sale, and had their prices

THE SCOUT'S MISTAKE.

How are those the tidings? How read those the words?
"Yonder all about in my prairie ambuscade
The enemy's near, and they look not have
For me—so he crossed since the rise in the river.
"The enemy are between us: there's storm in the sky;
No rider save Ventom the herd till the
If only they knew of the danger! Yet I Am helpless to give them a hours of warning.
"Ah! woe! but young hope," sadly he said, "is the Yet must I be ready to meet the advance of the No engineers to chain me, no snare on my
The fifty can't I would be off in a minute!"
A scrutiny beside him looked up with a flash,
"Why, father, what matters the danger, if I alone is What matters how fiercely the tempest may dash?
Who cares for the river? The fifty can swim it."
"Just think of the peril! Mr brothers are there!
By daylight, at farthest, some school shall cross it;
They must not like panthers, be trapped in their
And as sure as I'm living, their Colonel shall know it."
II.
The morning broke cold. At the top of the hill
The troops from their tents with scattered steps were
"From over the river some riders have crossed!
A spy from some enemy near has been lurking."
"They say he was used in the dress of the scout,
Just as among the took, at the edge of a thicket,
Through which he came galloping recklessly on;
Not heeding or hearing the hail of the sentry.
"To the front with him!" ordered the Colonel.
Just then Into battle forward a young with a bitter
"He made a mistake, sir—I—I said the morn-
No cause for an enemy to know any before."
III.
"Ahe!" and the officer eagerly read.
"The gallant young fellow! How well that one
So quick with his warning!" The scout dropped his head.
"A spy, sir—I thought him a support—I just Margaret J. Preston, in Harper's Weekly.

HOW JOHN CLEANED HOUSE.

A Little Story Which Will Afford Good-Advice to Lady Readers.

"It is all nonsense," exclaimed John Dale, emphatically, as he threw the house upside down as you please, do every spring and fall?"

"But," my dear, the house must be cleaned," said pretty Mrs. Dale, helping herself to a muffin.

"That is what you always say, Dollie; but I can't see any use of it."

"Why, John Dale, what can you be thinking of? Are you not in your right mind? This house is in a frightful condition, and every nook and corner of it must be thoroughly cleaned. I shall begin the process to-morrow."

John pushed back his chair in the direction of his study, and then said brusquely:

"Well, Dollie, if it is really my satisfaction to you, why, of course, I am quite willing; but don't you think you could hurry up matters a little—rush things through, I mean. For I don't want the entire house cleaned in a day, and not half try."

A mischievous gleam sparkled for an instant in Mrs Dale's dark eyes, but she answered, gravely:

"Could you? Oh, I do wish that you would attend to it for it will take me three weeks at the least. But of course you can not spare the time from your business."

Whether from a wish to demonstrate his domestic ability, or to avoid the threatened three weeks' shower of smashes, I can not say, but Mr. Dale instantly responded:

"Not get away from business! I am not going now about that. I think I might be spared very well for a few days while such a season you know—all of you desire to enjoy your sister a little visit with; I will guarantee to have the house cleaned and put in perfect order for you. It will be the best managed affair of the kind you ever heard of," he continued, in more economical than your way of doing, too, and what I save you shall have for a new dress."

So saying, Mr. Dale arose from the breakfast-table, looking very well satisfied with the proposed arrangement, and as he kissed his wife good-by for the day said:

"Well, Queenie, it is a bargain is it?"

When he had closed Mrs. Dale's door her changed complexion, and seating herself in a low rocker, paid after peal of merry laughter echoed through the house as the little lady said, half aloud:

"The dear old goose, what a reign of chaos I shall feel on my return! But I would be willing to lose two weeks for the satisfaction of demonstrating to John the reality of a 'business whole.'"

Two days later Mrs. Dale's wide eyes hung an affectionate farewell, with a very demure countenance, and he did not see the mischief in her eyes, he never was he upon his nerve occupation.

"Stay until I come for you, Dollie," he said, "and you may expect to see me to-morrow or the day after. I shall certainly begin to do the work I have on hand, and I promise that you shall find the house cleaned house that was ever your good for one week."

"Had I not better stay and help you?" asked his wife, demurely.

"No, no, Queenie, I would not have you for the world! Good-by, dear. Take good care of yourself, and be well the week."

This was early on Monday morning, and also Saturday evening, John Dale appeared at the head of his household with fare and manner far more expressive than his words. He looked tired, careworn, and had the appearance of one who had just passed through a period of financial crisis, as he said quickly in answer to his wife's greeting:

"Hush, Dollie, hush. Will you come to-night?"

She was a good housekeeper him, for the week of separation had seemed long to her, and she was glad to be with him and cared for him prevented her from returning some days before.

"I did not like to come through," her husband said, somewhat apologetically, as Only answered their embrace. "And I thought perhaps you would just as soon come now, and I waited to notify anybody added, in a low Tone of voice.

They passed into the pretty hallway, whose carpet stood in a huge roll behind the door.

"I sent their times for a man to put it down," John exclaimed, "and he promised faithfully that he would be here to-day; but, as you see, the carpet is still up."

The parlor was commendably in order, that is, with the exception of the pictures and mantel ornaments, which were piled in a large heap in the center of the room.

"It is curious to me, my dear, how you, John?" said Dollie, noting the absence of a little take which always stood between the windows.

"Mislaid," he answered, hurriedly, "but I will get you some, dear. I'll go to-day sorry, and don't you see how it happened. I would have gone to bed, but I went the stand, glass shade, flowers and all, shivered to atoms. I noticed that the table sometimes shakes, but never think about, so I just tossed the whole affair out into the woodshed."

"Oh, I am so sorry, John! But how did you get the shade up there?"

"Oh, I sent for three or four women who attend to that sort of thing; but none of them came. Then I paid Mrs. Lantry two dollars a day, but she could not stay to finish the work, and I failed to find any one else, so I did it myself."

"Your dear, kind wife, Dale could no longer control her emotions, and laughed heartily. "Oh, dear," she exclaimed, "and how my poor John has worked!"

"Oh, just the way everybody else does!" he answered. "I got on the floors and cleaned it out in less than no time. The only trouble was that I tried to paint the walls at the same time; but I couldn't, somehow, keep the brush D-ibbs, the paint, would fix it all right, so I went for him, and he put a new coat of paint on the two rooms for only two dollars. Before and after all, it was a great convenience."

"Certainly," said Mrs. Dale, fondly, wondering where the new basket would come from. "But, John," she continued, "where is the gilt frame that was hung over the mantel?"

"That? Oh, that is down at Tracey's being repaired."

"Why?" asked the wife. "It was in very good condition when I left, and the hook from over the mantel-piece?"

"Yes, when you left," repeated her husband. "But you see, Queenie, I thought it ought to be cleaned if it were, there also, so while waiting for the plumber I thought I would do that job, which hung over the mantel."

"Thank Oh, that is down at Tracey's being repaired."

"What

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XX. PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, JULY 1, 1887. NO. 26.

LAWS OF NEW JERSEY.

[BY AUTHORITY.]

CHAPTER I.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to establish a harbor master upon the Delaware river, and to regulate the pilots, and the duties of masters of vessels in the port of Philadelphia, and for the better government and management of the pilots."

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the sum of four thousand dollars be and is hereby appropriated for the several purposes of said bureau.

2. And be it enacted, That the treasurer of the state is hereby authorized to pay, from any money not otherwise appropriated, the sum provided for in the first section of this act.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 18, 1887.

CHAPTER II.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to provide for the more thorough and to regulate the sale of milk," approved March fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the title of the act to which this is a supplement be and the same is hereby amended so that the same shall read as follows: An act to prevent the sale or exposure for sale of adulterated milk or milk from which cream has been taken, and to regulate the sale of milk, and to punish the violation of the provisions of said act to the contrary notwithstanding.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 24, 1887.

CHAPTER V.

An act to authorize and empower the trustees of any church or religious society by whom as such trustees by their individual names the title to any estate of lands is now vested, to convey the same to the trustees of such church or religious society as a corporation, and to vest the title to the same in such church or religious society as a corporation, and to declare that they are or were trustees by its corporate name.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cases where the conveyance of lands and real estate has been made to the trustees of any church or religious society by their individual names as trustees of any church or religious society, and trustees and the survivors or last survivor of them, or the society are vested and authorized to convey the same to the trustees of such church or religious society, as a corporation, and to vest the title to the same in such church or religious society as a corporation, and to declare that they are or were trustees by its corporate name.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 16, 1887.

CHAPTER VI.

An act to incorporate improvement and protection in towns, villages and boroughs.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That any order for the sale of the lands, tenements or hereditaments of any real estate or any testator or intestate for the payment of debts, legacies or other charges, which shall hereafter be made by the orchans' court of any county in this state, shall from and after the day of the order to show cause therein, is directed to be published, as directed by the said order, for the purpose of notifying all persons interested, that the said order will be made at the time and place therein mentioned, unless cause be shown to the contrary, be and shall be deemed and taken to be a lien upon the real estate of the testator or intestate, and said land, so long as it shall remain in the hands of the heirs or devisees, shall not be liable to be sold or otherwise disposed of by the said executors or administrators.

2. And be it enacted, That the said sum of money, or any part thereof, may be paid to the executors or administrators of the said testator or intestate, at any time after the expiration of the said ninety days previously mentioned, if the said executors or administrators shall give bond to the said orphans' court, with sufficient sureties, in such sum as the said court shall direct, conditioned for the payment of the said sum of money, or such part thereof as may be directed by the said court, with interest thereon, to the person or persons entitled to the same, at the time when "Silicone" is a new explosive less than the strength of gun powder, exploding without smoke or noise. A Russian invented it.

The old theory that it took seven years for the human body to undergo a complete change has been exploded by the fact that the novelists still have plenty every thirty days. The mummy of old Pharaoh, recently unbound, is, of course, an exception.

A cotton-picking machine has just been constructed at Richmond, Va., which will gather cotton from the stalks and put it in bags, the latter being drawn by horse-power along the cotton row. It will pick from 3000 to 5000 pounds of cotton per day.

Modern warfare is returning fast to use of weapons which were long ago given up as useless. The lance is being restored. Roman soldiers once carried a spade; English soldiers have recently done the same. The dog has yet to figure in a war, though the pigeon still useful work in 1870.

The earth contains something of value besides coal, petroleum and gas. The production of gold in this country during the past fifteen years has been 000,000,000, and that of silver at $21,000,000. The total amount of silver taken out of the old ball in 1886 in all countries was of a value of $124,000,000.

In spite of repeated failures efforts are still being made to utilize petroleum as a fuel for making steam. A company has been formed in New York with a capital of $3,000,000, for accomplishing this result by means of an invention consisting of an apparatus for the production of a fixed gas from the ration of decomposed oil and water.

General George A. Sheridan of New York says he got more money for his actual services in the war than all he ever served in Congress. He was not admitted to his seat until about three hours before the expiration of his term, and he drew salary, mileage, etc., amounting to about $16,000. In this respect he thinks his Congressional fame will be immortal.

Generally a man dies leaving less property than he supposed that he owned. The Baron du Meuil, of Brussels, however, thought he owned but a small property, and after making a few gifts, directed the remainder to be spent on his tomb. Some $400,000 has been found to have belonged to him, and his heirs are trying to find out whether it must all go into a mausoleum.

The United States Geological Survey will collect all obtainable information regarding the forest conditions of the Indian. Circular letters of inquiry have been sent to residents on the area affected, as usual. The disturbed area seems to be a circle of about 200 miles, and rallies rolling, fully one-quarter as large as the Charleston earthquake, and nearly two-third of the area of the Riviera earthquake of last February.

Managers of drug store soda fountains in the cities report that the demand is increasing for phosphates, ginger extracts, and other preparations for toning up the system. Mineral spring waters are not now so much sought after. Women seldom call for nerve drinks; they prefer sweet extracts. But the men usually call for something to brace them up—something to wind up run-down powers and prop falling energies—usually the result of excesses in the use of liquor and tobacco.

The farmers of Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana are arranging a scheme of co-operative stores. The proprietorship plan is expected to benefit them greatly, and speedily drive out the crop mortgage. The idea is to construct cotton, cotton-seed oil and flour mills in different centres, so as to enable the farmer to get a local market for his produce, and be sure of obtaining a fair price. The mills will be owned by the farmers themselves, who will act as their own commission agents, and manufacture with their own produce.

Although the thugs of India have been long since exterminated, a Hindoo writer in the London Standard tells how they have been replaced by professional poisoners. These people make use of a poison extracted from the seed of the datura, mixed with opium, and travel from place to place; now poisoning a traveling companion for his money, a laborer for his scanty wages, or for the valuables in his house. They are distinguished from the thugs in that they will kill women, children and pilgrims which the thugs would not do. The rural policemen are powerless to prevent the great efforts have been made to exterminate them, and thus far without success.

The Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette discusses as follows upon the great summer plague, the lively and bloodthirsty mosquito: "There are, it seems, so far as ascertained, one hundred and fifty-eight species of mosquito. About a quarter of them are distributed in North America, including the Hawaiian resorts. It is said there are kinds that may come in winter as well as summer, but the true business mosquito comes in summer, usually about bed time, and stays until the weather is cool and dry, when only the female insect bites. In boring for blood she uses a long drill made up of seven distinct parts. The male, who is not a bachelor (because of his inability to be, and his strong objection to being so), hums around at night, and add something to the discomfort of the bedchamber. In the way of blood question, mosquitoes furnish food for fishes, which in turn serve as food for man, and blood is provided for the thirsty mosquitoes. Besides, mosquitoes serve to purify standing water and lessen malarial influences. It is hard to decide, however, which is the most objectionable, social influences or mosquitoes. In a matter of choice the sleepy man would take malaria without a moment's hesitation."

GEN. PRIMARIDES is described by a recent interviewer as "a short man rather stoutly built, with brown hair, brown beard, rather a sad face; above all things quiet-looking almost to commonplaceness. He wore the ordinary French civilian's dress of black frock-coat and trousers, with only the single red spot in his buttonhole."

The Popular Science Monthly says the idea of keeping an open vessel of water on the stove in one of the most absurd things that have ever become popular. The evaporation of the water is certain to bring on coughs, colds, sore throats and rheumatism, and under no circumstances can its use be of any benefit.

Indian Remedy.

The contagion, in a warm and sultry day
Upon the Indian summer day descends;
Worth, dry, unfold the odor of summer tribe
In a thousand breezes that the wind sends.

Along the continent stands the afforgrass
Still shows the coastal fields of summer
With lingering pace a troop of sunburnt men,
And oft repeat a verse of negro verse.

The vapor drips that slowly cross the sky:
Are thoughts of earth has passed from heaven's
And only tears that bathed must my eye
Remind me earth has passed from heaven's —[A. F. Brown.

A BACHELOR'S REWARD.

BY GEORGE TRACE.

It was a cold January day. John Steele sat alone in his office, in the midst of a deep reverie.

It was seldom that he was idle, as he was at the present time, but this evening the memories of the past came flocking upon him like ghosts from another land.

John Steele was a bachelor of forty. His locks had been sadly scanted a year boy, in the little town of M——, and he had never felt a desire to leave it. He had studied law and plodded along year after year in the dingy, grimy office, in which he now sat, for forty days, and nights.

He had no personal friends, and lived alone in a large, old frame house at the outskirts of the town, with a man servant as cook and general man-of-all-work.

Years and years before, when a young man of twenty, poor and aimless, Steele had loved a girl whose parents would not let her marry him because he was so worthless. In his rage he had sworn that for this and would listen to no reason, and from that day had hated women and had led a solitary life. It was the scene that now held John Steele in his office on the evening of the month of night gathered over the town.

"More than twenty years ago," he mused, "and I don't believe I have ever spoken to a woman, except on business, since that day. They say she married a no-account wretch after all, who has sunk down to poverty and want. Well, well, I must not waste time thinking about such things now. I was only a boy then, and did not know what I wanted. I must be going." Whereupon he arose, buttoned his coat about him, locked his office and trudged on his lonesome journey.

Rumor had it about town that, although by her parents' influence, Katie Drew had married shortly after her refusal of Steele, that she had loved him dearly. For the same month that Steele, in the twenty years had past, the matter had failed from the general mind to give way to more lively gossip.

Steele ate his supper in silence. Without his master's presence he had a good meal prepared; for, though Steele was close-fisted he believed in good eating, good clothes and comfortable living.

"Now, William," said Steele, when he had finished, "if you fix me up enough food to do me to-morrow, you may have a holiday. And here is your money and you can go when you like."

"Thank you, Mr. Steele, for your goodness," said William. "But, Mr. Steele, don't you never want nothing a little extra pleasant at all? You know I used to know you when you was a little fellow; and I can remember seeing your good mother holding you up at the old parsonage window to see the circus go by, true. And you was a wee little tad then, and you clapped your little hands in glee and your mother would kiss your baby face and talk baby talk to you. It seems strange that you never had any, Mr. Steele, but it was."

"Confound the fellow," grumbled Steele, as he sat down in his room that night to read a book; "I should listen to him he would upset me. I don't know what is the matter with me this evening anyhow. I never felt so queer in my life. I guess I am using too much tobacco. Well, I will not."

He read until bedtime, and was in the act of taking off his boots, when he heard a knock at the front door.

"Wonder who that is," he thought. "Something unusual at this place."

He pondered a moment and there came another knock.

"What the deuce can that William be doing that he don't go the door?" said Steele. "I want to go to bed, and it is getting late, and I am tired out. Can he borrow money, I guess. Well, unless they have good security, not a cent do they get."

At this juncture, William opened the door. Steele heard an indistinct conversation and then William conducted the visitor to the kitchen. After some moments William came walking into the house.

"Well, what is it?"

"Excuse me, Mr. Steele, but there is a poor woman in the kitchen who needs some help badly. I'm sure she does, for she is sick as a dog, and cold as ice. She says she has walked through the cold all the way from the last town, and is most dead."

"Yes, that is what they all say. Give her something to eat and send her on."

"But I wish you would come and see her."

"Bother them beggars," mumbled Steele. "But I guess I'll go down to get rid of her."

Steele saw a black figure sitting by the fire.

"Well," he said to her, when he entered, "what can I do for you?"

She turned toward him. Her face was not that of a beggar. Although a trifle pale, it was the face of a pretty woman of thirty-five.

"I only wished to get warm," she said. "I was so cold that I felt as if I should freeze. I am sorry to disturb you. I have friends in the town, and am sure I can get employment at work kind there. I used to live there years and years ago."

By means of a few questions he learned that she was a widow without any relatives in the world. He was deeply touched by her story.

"What was your husband's name?" asked Steele.

"Carter," she said; "George Carter."

"Wait here a moment," he said, and went up to his room.

He went to his desk and took out some money. "I'm seldom given," said he, "but I can afford to be charitable to some woman."

He took two ten-dollar bills and started back to the kitchen.

"She said her name was Carter. Carter—Carter! Where have I heard—Katie Carter! My God! That was the name of her husband. She said she used to live here years ago. It must be she. It is Katie Drew! It must be!"

Steele shook like a leaf. He pressed young again. He remembered her eyes now as the sweet-faced girl, and the heart which had been slumbering so long seemed to spring into new life. He sat down on the stairs to compose himself, and then started again for the kitchen.

"William," said Steele, when he entered, "here is the key to my office. I wish you would go there and bring me the packet you'll find on my desk."

William fell in the tray without suspicion, and went off.

Steele seated himself in a dark corner and looked at the woman. He could see that his old love was changed in the face. He was strangely excited and knew not what to say.

"You say you lived here once?" he began.

"Yes, when I was a girl," she said. "And sad fortune has overtaken you since. Perhaps you know my cousin, then, John Steele?"

"Yes," she said, "I knew him. Is he not here now?"

"No, poor fellow," said Steele, feeling guilty as he spoke the words, "he is dead."

"Dead!"and she leaned her head on her hand and wept.

"Yes," said Steele, feeling like a murderer as he spoke, "but none who knew him were sorry for it. He had no good in him, and lived a selfish life."

"Oh, poor!" said the weary, sympathizing tone. "At least he was good."

Something seemed to move Steele. He got up and stood by her chair. His hand, by accident, touched her. It sent a thrill through him, and seemed to make a new being of him.

"Katie," he said, "don't you know me?"

She looked up, started, stood erect and got a good look into his face.

"John!" she said, in a scared way, and hid her face in her hands.

"Yes, Katie," he said, "it is John, I am thinking of you. Your husband seems as though heaven has sent you."

"This is such a shock to me," and she sat down again.

Steele's heart was throbbing wildly, and he quivered with excitement.

"I am old, now Katie, and perhaps awkward in my speech, but—I—I can't help what I am saying. You have no idea how glad I am that you are the only woman I ever loved. You are welcome to all I have. My life has been very lonely. With you I would be happy. You can't love me, I know, after all this time, but I do love you."

She arose as if to go. Poor Steele's heart seemed to be bursting. He unconsciously put forth his arms and touched her. With a sob she fell into them and rested her head on his shoulder.

"Katie!" he cried in joy.

"Oh, John, how can I speak?"

"Say something, Katie."

"I feel as you feel. I thought you would never forgive me But—but—but I have—"

"But what, Katie?"

"Oh, John, you know I loved you then, and it was not my fault. I have loved you all these long years. I am so happy, if you will but forgive me."

"Forgive you! Don't speak of that again. You are forgiven, my love, Katie. I know what love is at last. You are in my house now, and you shall never go out of it except as my wife."

"Oh, John, not—"

"Yes, don't object. I know it don't sound well, but I don't care for that. A preacher lives close. Won't you consent?"

"But—"

"Please don't refuse, Katie."

"Well, I guess—"

Just then William came in. Steele barely ran over like. "Hang the parcel," he said, as William offered them to him.

"Here, William," he said, as he came down stairs putting on his overcoat, "take the parcel home. I'm going out. Don't you hear, you fellow? Don't stand looking, move about."

William did not know what was the matter. He had just got the fire lighted in the kitchen and was preparing for the preacher.—[Arkansas Traveler.

"The Queen's Pipe."

In the centre of the tobacco warehouses at the London docks there is an immense kiln, which is kept continually burning day and night, and goes by the name of the queen's tobacco pipe. The government has a different way of treating confiscated articles than that in use in this country, one of them being to utilize them as fuel for what is termed the queen's smoking. Whenever merchandise is seized for non-payment of duty, or because it is considered under the law as in a damaged or desirable condition, it is taken to this great kiln and burned there, the owners having no remedy. The only utilization that is made of these seizures is from the sale of the ashes from the furnace, which, to the amount of a great many tons a month, is sold by the section to chemical works and to farmers and others to be used in enriching the soil. There is a similar but smaller queen's tobacco pipe in the government tobacco warehouses at Liverpool, where the same plan is in use for destruction, for all confiscated merchandise in the United Kingdom.—[Commercial Gazette.

A Geological Phenomenon.

In many parts of the world abundant evidence shows that the land is still rising. This rising or lifting, producing gradual changes that in the course of ages will completely transform the earth's topography. One of the most remarkable examples has been furnished by Sweden, where the Royal Academy of Science has estimated that portions of Sweden are being elevated about four feet in a century, and surveys just made in Finland once more prove that the shores of the Gulf of Bothnia are rising. M. Venukoff reports to the French academy of Science that since the surveys of 1810-12 several islands have become peninsulas, while many shallows have become islands or dry beaches. On the southwest coast and in the neighboring Aland Archipelago, pastures, gardens and corn-fields occupy spots which were under water a few years ago. Steps are being taken to accurately measure the future progress of this geological phenomenon.—[Arkansaw Traveler.

To Make a Parrot Talk.

A. C. R. asks: What is the best way to feed a young parrot to enable him to talk.

The quickest way is to send the bird where there is another parrot who can speak. They should be placed near enough to hear, but not see each other. Parrots will learn more in this way than if spoken to by the hour. Some persons attempt to speak to the bird at night, when he cannot see you. Feed him on bread and milk, with a little country meat.—[New York Sun.

OLD AND QUEER.

Interesting Antiquities Fished Up Near Pensacola, Fla.

Some Relics of a People Who Lived Many Centuries Ago.

While walking my hours up a hill near Pensacola, writes a correspondent from California to the New York Commercial, the animal slipped on a curiously-shaped stone protruding from the ground and fell heavily. Dismounting to examine the stone, I saw at a glance that water could not have worn it into such regular shape. I unearthed it. It proved to be a stone club, weighing fifteen or twenty pounds. In shape it resembled the wooden receptacles for onion seed in vogue in New England when I was a lad. But this strange utensil was not local in the manufacture of onion pie. I lifted it with a will, and carried it up to the ranch. The moment the owner saw it he said:

"Why, I've found a curiosity of those things here. You see," he continued, "according to my way of thinking, my ranch is the site of an old camping ground of people, gone no one knows where, and I don't think they went by degrees, either. Something happened to overwhelm them suddenly, then all at once, as they would have left leaves things here that were evidently so tedious to make. How old are they? Well, its difficult to say, but many of them are buried ten feet below the level of the surface; not buried by man but covered by nature, and you can judge how long that would take as well as I can. Again, many of them have decayed stone axes, and I once found a skull as though 400 or 500 years might have gone by since they were abandoned."

"According to my ideas," continued Mr. Giddings, "these stones were perhaps used as missiles to pit ancient people. Now, to give you an idea why I think this was an old camp, and also to show you how much of this stuff there is here, I will get out my plow and go over a piece of ground you follow and see what you can find."

This suggestion was acted upon, and soon the plow was turning up the dark loam, into which my horse sank quite deep. I had not gone fifty feet before I saw a stone that was not as nature had left it. It was about eight inches long, and a dip in the spring close by showed it to be polished or ground off on both sides, perfectly flat, so that it fitted well into the hand.

"That's a grinder," said Mr. Giddings.

"The coarse, or axes, or grain, whatever it was, was put in the big dishes and ground with these into a meal or flour. Here's another," he said, picking one out of the loam. "You see it is similar in shape, but is distinguished by being more ready to fit to pieces." A few feet farther on another was uncovered, and generally where there was one a little digging showed quite a number; this last find was a bell, and if used as such it must have been a curiosity, as changed about by the hand, but it was probably used in some game, or perhaps was a toy. Following the plow again a large mortar was thrown up, having a hole in the bottom of it. This was partially worn through by continuous grinding. In the course of the afternoon quite a number of pestles and mortars and kitchen utensils of the same were unearthed, and later I found some in the hollow of the bush where they had been washed out by the rain. A large number of globes, as they were commonly called, were found. I think the ancient people of locality was a permanent residence, and that the old warriors' clubs had been cast aside from time to time. Some of the stones that I collected and arranged in the form of a circle had deep marks, showing that the workers had some idea of form.

The vicinity of Pasadena seems to have been a favorite camping ground for many of these ancient people; the spot overlooks a grand vista—a deep canon or arroyo—the tops of the trees being far beneath a charming spot for a camp. Hardly a ranch or house at an old settler in the vicinity but has relics of the kind I have described, that have for years been scattered hither and yon, but should be collected in a local historical museum and preserved. John Giddings, the owner of the ranch I visited, has one that is various parts of Ventura county he has found specimens like these; and in one locality a lady has in her possession some stone axes of which, I think, are unique. He describes them as being from three and one-half to four and one-half feet in length; like bean ball bats in their general shape, and evidently weapons of warfare, though certainly not of any many men could lift such a weapon to use it in battle. If such an implement from this country is to say collections in the United States, it has escaped my notice.

Grains of Sand.

The manufacture of sand is an important industry, and Pittsburg is the centre of its headquarters, although the sand is not made within the limits of the city. There is considerable traffic in Monongahela sand, which is scooped up from the bed of the river, to be used for common building purposes; but the manufacture of sand is quite another affair, and the product goes into quite a different commodity, which is glass.

Practically glass is almost pure sand, other substances used in its manufacture for fluxing being consumed while the sand is transformed to a greater or less degree into glass. Sand which has been for ages in the form of sandstone, and for many ages will completely transform the earth's topography. One of the most remarkable examples has been furnished by Sweden, where the Royal Academy of Science has estimated that portions of Sweden are being elevated about four feet in a century, and surveys just made in Finland once more prove that the shores of the Gulf of Bothnia are rising. M. Venukoff reports to the French academy of Science that since the surveys of 1810-12 several islands have become peninsulas, while many shallows have become islands or dry beaches. On the southwest coast and in the neighboring Aland Archipelago, pastures, gardens and corn-fields occupy spots which were under water a few years ago. Steps are being taken to accurately measure the future progress of this geological phenomenon.—[Arkansaw Traveler.

To Make a Parrot Talk.

A. C. R. asks: What is the best way to feed a young parrot to enable him to talk.

The quickest way is to send the bird where there is another parrot who can speak. They should be placed near enough to hear, but not see each other. Parrots will learn more in this way than if spoken to by the hour. Some persons attempt to speak to the bird at night, when he cannot see you. Feed him on bread and milk, with a little country meat.—[New York Sun.

PARK AND BARNES.

Two Famous Wrestlers Meet in a Friendly Contest.

A good, strong, and always reliable organ is a necessity to every farmer. The best by long odds and most of reasons are those that have stood the test of long years of country in several of history, and this subjects the hire to a loss of many of its members. Hoes, spiders, beds and other animals die, horses with Coos, while a sudden shower will sometimes destroy a large number before they can return to the hive. To make the keeping of bees a business properly remunerative, it should be conducted partially for their benefit, such as honey bread, upon which the bees will work industriously. The red clover would generally be considered means of honey for the first time, but there is too many for the bees to work in; but the ordinary white clover, alsike clover and other grasses are put to good service. With the improved hives bees are allowed first to store up his food for winter and spring, so that they are not robbed of that supply; but if they have plenty of bees some to work on they are provided with the same bread. This is an excellent pasture, in the bookwheat, which yields a honey of the less tainted of the bees, which induces him to resort to all available expedients to provide the bees with something upon which to lay honey. The habits of bees must be studied, and they require careful management. Work is required to manage them properly, so they cannot always be kept with profit, unless all the conditions be favorable.

Treatment of Meadow Lands.

In a paper read before the farmers of Vermont at the opening of the "Farmers' Course" at the State University, Mr. A. W. Cheever made many practical suggestions of improvement. Old meadows, matted with grass adapted to that state, also to the west, timothy, clover, blue grass, orchard grass, foul meadow, tall fescue, meadow fescue, red top and meadow foxtail.

To keep a meadow intact for great Mr. Cheever advised top-dressing, but suggested that other grasses than timothy should be selected for the soil unless it is finely mixed with clay. Manure applied. Red top or other so-called natural meadow grasses will be likely to be found in all good mowings that can be kept productive for a long time by the application of manure to the surface.

Red clover renews itself only from seed, but white clover from the roots or layers; thus grass and witch grass both spread from underground roots. These grasses were allowed to stand long enough, they would renew themselves from seed, but good husbandry requires cutting too early for this.

Another difficulty present at the same meeting is on the subject of top-dressing that the best time to top-dress is the next day after the hay is cut and removed from the field. The manure then acts as a mulch to shade the surface and protect the roots, and also by affording a fresh supply of plant food, which will be washed into the soil by the first rains. Manure applied in the winter does not top-dress, however, except such lands as will produce at least two good crops of hay every season. Manure applied just after haying makes the second crop of aftermath generally heavier on lands and not adapted to permanent mowing. The next best time is in the spring, just as the grass is starting into vigorous growth, provided the ground is enough to cart over at that time, as it will be if it is properly drained.

It was advised that manure, when applied for top-dressing, should either be harrowed in or left on the surface to be thoroughly rotted and fine that it will readily sift down in among the stubble or also soft enough to that it may wash in by the smoothing effect of the earth. Manure applied in hard lumps is worth very little as a top-dressing.

How to Breathe Properly.

Do you know how to breathe? You think you do, do you? A professional physician of Chicago tells me that no more than one person in five breathes properly and that a part of his practice consists of teaching patients this art—if a thing so near to the natural as breathing can be properly so called. For this purpose he has fitted up a vacuum chamber in his office; in this the patient stands and breathes purified air through a rubber tube. The exercise is simple, says the doctor, "is to teach people to breathe fully and deeply, to fill the lungs at each inspiration. A vast majority of people do not do this. Their inspirations are so slight that only a small portion of the lungs are filled with air, the remainder lying dormant and unused except in times of great muscular exertion. The lungs contain numerous little air cells or pockets, into all of which the fresh air in breathing, the air should penetrate. These air vesicles being only one-seventy-fifth of an inch in diameter, and the extent of the membrane of the lungs is estimated at 1400 square feet, it follows that these cells must be numbered by thousands if not millions, and that full inspiration is necessary to bring them into use. The exercise of the lungs, as everybody knows, is to supply the blood with the vital oxygen, and also to purify it of watery vapor, carbonic acid and other deleterious ingredients. To interfere with this life-giving and blood-cleansing process is as dangerous as trying to exhaust on insufficient nourishment, and the man who breathes lightly poisons and contaminates his blood, and lays the foundation of his lungs to fall into disease and decay, and incurs the danger of consumption or pneumonia. Inefficient breathing, combined with the inhalation of impure air, is the cause of more than it cannot cleanse the blood, is the direct cause of nearly all non-infectious cases of consumption. Though it sounds rather queer, it is nevertheless a fact that the greater number of people die every year because they are too lazy to breathe. I am teaching people how to breathe, and with the most encouraging results. Persons whose lungs are weak, whose family is tainted with consumption, or who from any cause have fear of that modern plague, should cultivate the habit of breathing their lungs full at each inspiration.—[Chicago Herald.

Driving Up the Chickens.

Chester D. Jenkins, of Dawson, Ga., has a shepherd dog that drives his chickens up at night. Almost sundown the dog begins his rounds over the premises, and never misses a single straggler. He is a fine shepherd dog in his way, and is a valuable assistant to his master. He is a fine stock dog, and is also a fine watch dog. He is a fine house dog, and is also a fine watch dog. He is a fine house dog, and is also a fine watch dog. He is a fine house

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.
W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY,
AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XX. PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, JULY 1, 1887. No. 26.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities."—MADISON.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

ALFRED D. BAILEY,
Attorney-at-Law,
NORTH AVENUE
Solicitor and Master in Chancery, Notary Public. No. 5 Front street, (Room 9) Plainfield, N. J.

O. L. JENKINS, M. D.,
Homeopathist.
(Successor to Dr. South.) 98 East Front Street near Peace, Plainfield, N. J. Office Hours—7 to 9 a. m., 1 to 3 p. m., 7 to 9 p. m.—ap 16-1y

JACKSON & CODINGTON,
Counsellors-at-Law,
Commissioners of Deeds, Masters-in-Chancery, Notaries Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.—jeaf

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer,
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 182, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of CONSTITUTIONALIST. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES R. THEIRS,
Dentist,
29 West Front street. A new local anesthetic application for extracting teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty.—jeaf

H. HAND,
Auctioneer,
P. O. Address, Lock Box 71, Scotch Plains, N. J. Orders left at Clerg's second hand store, 43 West Front street, Plainfield, N. J., will receive prompt attention.—n12tf

WM. K. McCLURE,
Attorney-at-Law,
MASTER IN CHANCERY, NOTARY PUBLIC.
Commissioners of Deeds. Offices, North avenue opposite depot.—jeatf

J. R. FORSTER,
Veterinary Surgeon.
Office in Chas. Pine's livery office, corner Main street and Madison avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Day and night calls promptly attended. Telephone call No. 18. Consultation on diseases of all domesticated animals. Residence, 73 East Fifth street.—jeatf

DR. GEORGE GIDNEY,
Veterinary Surgeon.
Removed from Second street to 119 West Front street, opposite Liberty.—jeatf

ARTHUR P. MILLER,
Attorney-at-Law,
(Successor to the late Wm. H. Marson), Solicitor in Chancery, Notary Public, etc. Will buy and sell real estate, loan money, rent and take charge of property. Office over First National Bank.—jeatf

F. A. DUNHAM,
Civil Engineer and Surveyor.
No. 7 Park avenue, Coward's building. Particular attention given to the adjustment of disputed boundary lines. Parties sent to all parts of the country.—jeatf

DR. J. F. GRIFFEN,
Electric Baths.
Dr. Griffen treats all Nervous affections, Uterine complaints, Skin diseases, Asthma, Catarrh, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia and Chronic diseases generally by Electricity and Electric Baths. Consultation free. Lady attendant for the ladies. 63 East Second street, corner Washington.—my16tf

BUSINESS CARDS.

TO THE PUBLIC!
We wish to inform our customers and the public generally that we have on hand the best quality of
LEHIGH COAL,
Fresh from the Mines.
It is under cover and well protected from the weather. We are prepared to deliver it well screened and in good order promptly. We are also prepared to furnish all kinds of Seasoned Lumber and Masons' Materials at short notice.
A. D. COOK & BRO.
jaasy1

J. Hervey Doane,
9 PARK AVENUE.
(Formerly Clare's.)
Watches,
Clocks
And Jewelry.
Repairing neatly and promptly done.
dzy1

WM. H. SHOTWELL,
DEALER IN GROCERIES, PROVISIONS, VEGETABLES, DRIED FRUIT, ETC.
CORNER EMILY AND DUER STREETS
North Plainfield, New Jersey.
Celebrated Pilsbury Flour,
THE BEST IN THE MARKET.
ORDERS CALLED FOR AND DELIVERED.
Thankful for past patronage I solicit a continuance Respectfully,
e20ly WILLIAM H. SHOTWELL.

BOSTON CLOTHING HOUSE
29 PARK AVENUE.
Reliable Goods at Low Prices.
Order Department
Under the well-known Cutter,
NEWTON P. DRAKE.
Correct Styles. Right Prices
my31tf

Geo. A. Moore,
(Of the late firm of Moore Bros.)
Is now the sole proprietor of the old established market at
NO. 14 NORTH AVENUE,
Where he will continue to supply patrons with the finest grades of Fresh and Salt meats, Fish of all kinds, Oysters, Clams. Game in Season at the lowest market prices. Anything not usually kept in stock furnished at short notice. m6-tf

Edward Ramonetti,
OYSTER AND ICE CREAM SALOON.
OYSTERS BY THE QUART, 100 OR 1000.
CHARLOTTE RUSSE MADE TO ORDER.
All Orders Promptly Attended to.
24 NORTH AVENUE,
Plainfield, New Jersey. Telephone Call No. 36
jly1

HOTELS AND SALOONS.

Force's Hotel!
NORTH AVENUE
Near R. R. Depot, Plainfield, New Jersey.
JAMES H. FORCE, - - Proprietor.
A FIRST-CLASS FAMILY HOTEL.
Transient guests taken at reasonable rates.

Bottled Liquors a Specialty.

Laing's Hotel!
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
J. B. MILLER & BRO., - Proprietors.
A FIRST-CLASS FAMILY RESORT.

James Conneely
Wishes to inform the public generally that he has opened a first-class
WINE and LIQUOR ROOM,
AT NO. 32 PARK AVE.,
Where he will be pleased to furnish his friends and patrons with the choicest brands of Imported and Domestic Liquors. m21tf

TURF EXCHANGE HOTEL.
73 Courtlandt street,
CORNER WASHINGTON, NEW YORK CITY
FRED. W. BALLARD, - - Proprietor,
(formerly of Jersey City), is now conducting the business corner Washington and Courtlandt streets, New York, formerly kept by the late James Van Pelt, and by Wm. Stillwagon. All their old friends will be most courteously received.
PURE WINES, LIQUORS AND SEGARS. jy16tf

SOMERSET HOTEL,
Cor. Somerset & Canby Sts., North Plainfield, N. J.
Permanent and Transient Board, at fair rates.
First-class Stabling and Sheds attached.
Meals at all (reasonable) hours. 3jun1f

JOHN JOHNSTON,
DEALER IN COAL!
YARD AND OFFICE, SOUTH AVENUE, NETHERWOOD, NEW JERSEY.
The best quality of screened coal at the lowest market price for cash. Address all orders to Netherwood post-office.—jy2tly

BUSINESS CARDS.

Park Avenue Bakery!
JOHN WALKER, Prop'r
FAMILIES and HOTELS supplied with the Celebrated
VIENNA BREAD & ROLLS,
And all Varieties of Pies, Cake and Confectionery.
v29tf

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS, BEST IN THE WORLD.
ALL GOODS DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE.
ap21tf

MICHAEL UHDAL,
CONTRACTOR
AND LANDSCAPE GARDENER!
Residence:
NETHERWOOD, NEW JERSEY.
P. O. BOX 787, PLAINFIELD.

P. O. Box 5, Netherwood, N. J.
Last year proved to many persons that they could buy
FIRE - WORKS
AT ALLEN'S
The Stationer, 23 East Front St.
Cheaper than in New York. Profit by their experience, and buy yours there this year.

FINE FOOT WEAR,
BEST MAKES,
LATEST STYLES,
AT THE
NEW SHOE STORE
Doane & Van Arsdale
22 WEST FRONT STREET.

SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class, sanitary and workmanship manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Plumbers' Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business at all times and in all cases.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 4 NORTH AVE. - ap22tf Plainfield, N. J.

EDUCATIONAL.

DORSEY W. HYDE,
PRACTICAL TEACHER OF
Piano, Harmony & Guitar.
Fall Term commences MONDAY, Sept. 14th. SEND FOR CIRCULAR. P. O. BOX 1195. ag27tf

MR. LEAL'S SCHOOL
WILL RE-OPEN
Monday, Sept. 20, 1886.
Abundance of room and added facilities make it now possible to form another Class for Boys from eight to ten years of age. Several such pupils have been each year declined. Circulars and information on application.—ag13tf

A SCHOOL FOR BOYS
WILL BE OPENED IN THE PARLORS OF THE PARK AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH,
SEPTEMBER 15, '86.
APPLICATION MAY BE MADE AT NO. 90 PARK AVENUE, CORNER SIXTH STREET.
ANNA J. MOORE, Principal.
ag28 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

ARTESIAN WELLS.
F. & W. STOTHOFF
Are prepared to Sink Wells any depth up to 300 feet, and Tube them if need be. Pumps and Pipe furnished at fair prices. Refers to J. N. Jenkins, of Plainfield, P. O. address, Flemington, N. J. jeiamo

Mme. J. BERNARD,
ASTROLOGIST,
Residence—Harmony street, North Plainfield, fourth house from Somerset street, left hand side. Information imparted as regards present and future events, likewise marriages, journeys, law suits, etc. Satisfaction guaranteed. She converse
In English, German and French.
My husband is a first-class Cooper, and repairs tubs, pails, barrels, etc., cheap for cash.

Electrical Work!
ELECTRICAL WORK—WE ARE PREPARED to furnish estimates for all kinds of Electrical work, from a call bell to a completely equipped house. We guarantee all our work. We will for a fixed price take care of electrical apparatus by the year, visiting and inspecting it at regular times and maintaining it in thorough working order.
PLAINFIELD DISTRICT TELEGRAPH CO.,
NO. 4 PARK AVENUE.
C. B. GODDARD, - Manager.
jy2tly

NETHERWOOD FARM!
MOUNTAIN AVE., NEAR FARRAGUT AVE.
A JERSEY STOCK FARM!
OVER
50 HEAD OF JERSEY CATTLE 50
Good family cows for sale at Moderate Prices. Milk and Cream delivered anywhere in Plainfield. Visitors are always welcome.
S. B. WHEELER, Manager,
J. HERBERT JOHNSTON, Plainfield, N. J. m1m6

CAREY'S
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE, NO. 45 WEST FRONT STREET,
Nearly opposite Laing's Hotel. Plainfield, N. J

Having leased the above premises I am prepared to buy and sell second-hand Furniture, Carpets, Stoves, etc. I will also take Furniture in exchange for moving. Furniture, etc., stored. P. O. Box. 492.—m9tf

JOHN MORTON,
PURE SPRING WATER
-ICE-
Delivered daily to any part of the city at the lowest market price. Residence 103 West Front st. P. O. Box 996. Orders left at sherwin's shoe store, No. 23 West Front street, will receive prompt attention. I hereby return my thanks to my old patrons for past patronage, and take pleasure in announcing that I have increased my business by purchasing the crop and good-will of Messrs. John Rose & Son, whereby I am better prepared to supply all with the best ice in the market.—ap11f

DOOR NUMBERS,
DOOR BELLS,
DOOR PLATES,
AT
DICKINSON & CLAWSON'S,
13 PARK AVENUE.
Sole Agents for

Dr. King's Spectacles.
jy14y1

ALEX. THORN
(Late of Berry & Thorn.
CAN BE FOUND AT 27 SOMERSET STREET,
WITH A FULL LINE OF FURNACES,
RANGES,
STOVES,
TINWARE, Etc.
Repairing in His Line Promptly Attended To.
d7y1

A. H. BOUGHTON,
44 West Fourteenth street, N. Y.
(NEAR MACY'S.)
Boy's Clothing and Hats
EXCLUSIVELY.
The most complete stock of Boy's Fashionable Goods in the city and at popular prices.
KILT SUITS,
SHIRT WAISTS,
EXTRA PANTS.
Former stand of Taylor & Co.
ap23tf

PAINTERS & PAINTERS SUPPLIES

Paints, Varnishes, Glass.
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.
ap22

Weaver Bros.
House & Sign Painting, Graining,
Paper Hanging and Kalsomining a specialty.
Office and Shop in the rear of
16½ EAST FRONT STREET,
D. WEAVER. P. O. Box 831. P. WEAVER.

W. N. ROWE,
PAINTER AND DECORATOR,
Dealer in Paints, Oil, Varnishes, Glass, Brushes, etc. WALL PAPER and WINDOW SHADES. None but strictly first-class workmen employed and satisfaction guaranteed. No 18 E. FRONT STREET, (C. O. Necker's old stand,) Plainfield, N. J. P. O. Box 1280.—ap30y1

L. B. WOOLSTON, J. P. BUCKLE.
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTER'S SUPPLIES. 25 NORTH AVENUE.
ap23tf

MILLINERY.

Mrs. J. M. Dunn,
FASHIONABLE MILLINER,
LATEST SHAPES OF
BONNETS AND HATS.
FRENCH IMPORTED FLOWERS.
Feathers, Velvets, Plushes, Satines, Laces, etc. Also, Fancy Goods and Notions; Dress and Infants' Caps a Specialty.
PINKING, BLEACHING & PRESSING.
Feathers Dyed. Cleaned and Curled
AT SHORT NOTICE.
14 West Front street.

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

M. C. DOBBINS,
OPPOSITE RAILROAD STATION.
MANUFACTURER OF
PURE HAVANA CIGARS.
Wholesale and Retail!
o16tf

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR,
The best 5 cent cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havanas.
CLEAR HAVANA SEGARS A SPECIALTY.
A large assortment of the Choicest Brands of Foreign and Domestic Cigars, Cigarettes and Tobaccos, always on hand.
Smokers Articles in Great Variety.
7ap1y

JOHN N. STEINER,
MANUFACTURER OF
SEGARS!
No. 11 PARK AVENUE.
Constantly on hand a large assortment of
Segars, Smoking & Chewing Tobacco, Snuffs, Pipes, &c.
Thankful for past patronage, I solicit a continuance of the same. 11y1

C. M. FINE,
Dealer in HAVANA & DOMESTIC
--SEGARS!--
O. 28 PARK AVE., (near corner of SECOND ST., PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smoker's Materials, of every description.
The celebrated "Old Judge" Smoking Tobacco, with other popular brands constantly on hand. 46m6

--PICTURE FRAMES--
OF ALL KINDS, AT
S. E. FLOWER'S,
at New York Prices, Studio 28 West Front street. Strainers for drawing and oil painting. ap29tf

A. I. SMALLEY. N. B. SMALLEY.
Smalley Bros.,
DEALERS IN
Fresh and Salt Meats, Poultry, Etc.
28 SOMERSET STREET NORTH PLAINFIELD.
Orders called for and delivered. A share of the public patronage is solicited.—f25tf

Benj. F. Moore,
[Late of Moore Bros.]
BUTCHER.
And dealer in FRESH AND SALT MEATS, POULTRY, etc., corner Park avenue and Second street will be open and ready for business WEDNESDAY, MARCH 30th. Orders called for and promptly delivered. Telephone Call 111.—m26tf

MAYNARD & HILL,
PRACTICAL BARBERS
AND
Artistic Hair Dressers,
No. 26 PARK AVENUE,
Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residences. Shaving, Shampooing, &c., satisfactorily performed. 11fy1

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE. CHARGES REASONABLE.
Hugo Weigman,
20 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J. mch20tf

SPRING
HATS.
CAPS, GLOVES,
Trunks, Valises, Etc.
Call and Examine the Elegant Stock of
Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods at
F. A. POPE'S,
[Successor to E. Vermeule.]
No. 5 W. Front-st.
ap16tf

THE LETTERS.

Letters from my father's household,
Inked amid the far-off sea—
Swift-winged messengers of gladness
Bearing rest and peace to me;
Father's calm and sacred counsel—
Mother's large and shining tears;
And my sister's brimming blessings,
Flung across the mighty years.

O! the dear and loving letters—
O! my childhood's thronging dreams;
O! the ancient low-roofed cottage,
With its quaint old oaken beams;
O! the haunts among the meadows—
O! the mossy garden-seat;
Where the scented apple blossoms
Swept in waves about my feet.

And I sit and muse upon it
Till I seem to see it all;
See the rich grape's purple clusters
Drooping from the leafy wall;
See the mellow pears a-ripening—
Breathe the incense of the flowers,
Watch the steady house clock marking
All the pulses of the hours.

Father's hair is growing whiter—
Mother's step is feebler now;
But the olden queen-like beauty
Lingers yet around her brow;
And the low sweet tones that thrilled me,
And the lips I used to press;
O! the years can never win them
From their holy tenderness!

And the flashing eyes of laughter
And the speech of merry scorn;
And the rippling auburn ringlets
Of our household's youngest born—
These have melted and have deepened
To the glory and the grace
Of the tranquil maiden, moving
Thoughtfully throughout the place.

Letters from my father's household,
Inked amid the far-off sea;
Swift-winged messengers of gladness,
Bearing rest and peace to me;
Let the sinless children's prayer
Let the sinless children play;
And the young bride clasp her husband;
I am wealthiest to-day.

—Richard Realf.

POOR LITTLE CHAP.

His Lonely Lot in Life Succeeded by an Existence of Joy Above.

His real name was Paul, but before we knew that, we had fastened upon him the diminutives by which he was always known. And he was just a "Little Chap" after all.

He used to play continually about the halls in the big hotel where we lived that summer, and always by himself. Somehow the other children were not attracted to him; he could not romp as they did, because he was a little lame; hip disease, the nurse said, caused by a fall in infancy.

Perhaps it was his lameness, which was very slight, however, that gave him that odd, old look, which impelled us to call him Little Chap, instead of some more endearing name.

He was never morose or peevish. From morning until night he sang and whistled like any mocking-bird, picking up by ear any catchy tune he heard, and trilling it in a sweet little voice up and down the long corridors where he walked and played for exercise.

"Lemme mail your letters?" he would say, cheerily. It was quite a little trip for him down to the office, and he preferred usually the longer and more circuitous route by the stairs to the quick descent of the elevator.

At first—how ashamed I am to think of it now—we were afraid to trust him, and one day when he was given some money for a small purchase, we counted the change.

"Is it all right?" he asked, in a little grieved voice.

"Of course it is," I said, quickly, "only there will be ten cents too many, unless you take this," and I proffered him a bit of silver.

Instantly the small hands were clasped behind his back, and his sensitive mouth quivered.

"I have a bank full of money," he said, proudly. "It's on the mantle in our parlor."

Then we began to understand him. He just wanted "to do and to do," like the little man in the story, and he did not want to be paid for it.

Meanwhile "wonderment guesses," who was his father and who was his mother? The first we seldom saw. He was a grave, stern man with iron-gray hair, who looked as if he had walked in the valley of disappointment all his life. Sometimes he let Paul run by his side, and I halted a little to accomodate himself to the faltering step, but he was always in a solemn hurry to go somewhere or do something.

His mother was young and very pretty. We had pitied him, supposing she was his step-mother; but no, Paul was her very own. She went out a great deal, to ride, to walk, to evening parties, and when at home she was either resting or dressing, or there was company—poor little chap.

Wherever she went she left a trail of glory in her wake. Sometimes it was fragments of feather trimming that floated in the air like the Princess Thistledown. Sometimes it was a rainbow glory of irridescent beads from the hem of her garments, that dropped along her pathway in shining profusion.

"Don't touch me, Paul," we would hear her say to Little Chap, "can't you see that I am dressed?"

Alas! when was she not dressed—armed and equipped in that cruel panoply of fashion?

"He is so tiresome," she would say apologetically when she condescended to notice us, "why will worry you to death, if you allow him. You have no idea what a child he is! Why, he actually wanted to join the Salvation Army."

We all laughed, but his mother did not seem to think it a matter of mirth.

"I expect something dreadful will happen to him!" she said one day, as she shook her laces and feathers into a fash onable flutter.

Poor Little Chap! We thought the worst had happened to him in having such a mother, and yet, she was not wicked—only weak and thoughtless.

"But evil is wrought by want of thought
As well as want of heart."

She believed she had done her duty in giving him a good nurse. One day she said:

"When he is older I intend to make a companion of him. Mr. Revere is so busy he can not spend much time with me, so Paul will be very handy as an escort. But now—children are such little animals! They tire me to death."

So gradually it came about that we near ly adopted Little Chap. He was hungry for music and our youngest sang all his favorite pieces. It was a constant question with him if there were any new songs,

A new song made him happy for a week; then he wanted another.

When not with us he rehearsed his songs to the traveling public he met in the halls, to the bell-boys, the porter, any one who would listen to him.

Then someone gave him a grotesque little book with flags and military shiel is on the cover. It was filled with the songs of the Salvation Army. No money could buy it from him.

"I can not imagine where the child gets such plebian ideas," said the mother. "Why, his father is one of the Boston Revere. I am sure he doesn't take it from him."

No, he did not. It was more like the meek and lowly Saviour of men who once sojourned on earth than any Boston autocrat whose ancestral name he bore, unless it was that Paul Revere of revolutionary fame.

Dear Little Chap! We tried to answer all the impossible questions he asked us about the end of the rainbow, and what Heaven was like, and why little children ever died, and how far it was to the sunset, and if angels came down to earth, and other things that we were ignorant of. Poor Little Chap, if we laughed at him the blue eyes filled with tears and we could only make our peace by singing him a "new song."

One day we were out until nearly night. When we returned we missed our usual greeting from Little Chap, and there was no scrawly letter or other remembrance to the door knob. We waited as long as we could, and then with a new song as an excuse, tapped at his mother's door.

The nurse opened it; she was crying.

"Haven't you heard? Oh, dear, it's too dreadful, and poor little fellow, the doctor says there isn't any hope!"

There had been an accident and Little Chap was hurt! But not much, oh, surely he could not lie there smiling, if he was going to die!

His mother was not in the room. The doctor was giving her an anæsthetic and counting her pulse in another apartment. They feared the shock would kill her.

His father held one little hand, and from time to time, as he bent over him, murmured in agonized tones:

"My boy! my boy!"

Ah, it is true! Blessings brighten as they take their flight!

"Dear Little Chap, do you know us?"

"Yes," the words were faint, "sing me a new song."

A new song! when the tears were bubbling up into our voices, and raining down our cheeks, for oh! we saw in his face now that look that once seen can never be mistaken.

But she whom he loved best raised her sweet voice and sung in clear tones the old new song:

"Children of the Heavenly King
As we journey let us sing."

And when she finished it, Little Chap was singing in the choir of God; joining in the new, new song.—Mrs. M. L. Rayne, in Detroit Free Press.

ROMANCE ON THE RAIL.

Celebrating a Wedding on the New York and Chicago Limited Express.

Philadelphians have the reputation of being great travelers for pleasure, but of late the tendency has been displayed in some peculiar ways, says the Philadelphia Times. Not long since a well-known young Philadelphian, who was about to be married to a Chicago lady—a veritable beauty and an exceedingly attractive girl, by the way—took all his ushers and a party of friends with him, and returned with the bride and some of her friends, making up a very interesting railway party. Brides and bridal parties on railways are almost as old as the railways themselves, but it has remained for Philadelphia to take a somewhat new departure in the way of nuptial romance on the rail. Quite recently a young man noted among his set for eccentricity and originality, who was engaged to a young lady of a somewhat similar disposition, determined that his wedding should be one of the most novel and original departures from the accepted forms that could be arranged. A few days before the wedding cards were issued with the old and unconventional announcement that the ceremony would be performed in one of the parlors of the New York and Chicago limited express. Instead of bidding their friends good-bye and going off on a wedding tour, this generous young couple proposed having their friends with them a part of the journey and enjoying besides a little of the tinge of romance that belongs to an elopement.

With the invitations were inclosed excursion tickets to Harrisburg and return, as well as a card stating that the train would leave Broad street station at 11:20 a. m. A merry party boarded the train, which looked quite festive on account of the preparations they had made in the apartments engaged by the groom. Just after the train had passed the suburban villas on the outskirts of Philadelphia the ceremony was preformed, and after an informal reception the wedding party repaired to the dining car, where an elaborate wedding breakfast awaited the guests. Numerous fresh flowers were on the several little tables, which were brightly set with silver and pretty chains, and every thing seemed to reflect the happy spirits of the party. There was every thing that is customary on such occasions. Nothing was omitted that could contribute to the completeness of the feast, and the party hardly realized that during their little repast they had traversed a hundred miles. As the spires of Harrisburg came into view the guests again pledged the happiness of the bride and bridegroom and declared the wedding one of the most enjoyable as well as the most interesting they had ever participated in.

FAVORED BY FORTUNE.

A Poor Umbrella Mender Falls Heir to a Large Estate.

Charles H. Heiser, an umbrella mender, who occupies a third-story back room in a poor lodging-house, says the Philadelphia Press, has received a letter announcing that he is one of three heirs to $225,000 left by a cousin in Australia named William Tutge. The other heirs are a sister, who resides in Germany, and a brother who is inspector of police at Hamburg. When an orphan Tutge was taken in by Charles H. Heiser, Sr., a game-keeper for the Emperor William of Harzburg, Germany, and educated with his own sons. Mr. Tutge has taken this way of showing his gratitude. He had not been heard from for fifteen years, and it was not known whether he was living or dead. His great prosperity in Australia, where he landed thirty-five years ago with ten dollars in his pocket and went to work in the mines, was not known to his German relatives, and the news of his disappointment all his life. Sometimes he let Paul run by his side, and I halted a little to accomodate himself to the faltering step, but he was always in a solemn hurry to go somewhere or do something.

His mother was young and very pretty. We had pitied him, supposing she was his step-mother; but no, Paul was her very own. She went out a great deal, to ride, to walk, to evening parties, and when at home she was either resting or dressing, or there was company—poor little chap.

Wherever she went she left a trail of glory in her wake. Sometimes it was fragments of feather trimming that floated in the air like the Princess Thistledown. Sometimes it was a rainbow glory of irridescent beads from the hem of her garments, that dropped along her pathway in shining profusion.

"Don't touch me, Paul," we would hear her say to Little Chap, "can't you see that I am dressed?"

Alas! when was she not dressed—armed and equipped in that cruel panoply of fashion?

"He is so tiresome," she would say apologetically when she condescended to notice us, "why will worry you to death, if you allow him. You have no idea what a child he is! Why, he actually wanted to join the Salvation Army."

We all laughed, but his mother did not seem to think it a matter of mirth.

"I expect something dreadful will happen to him!" she said one day, as she shook her laces and feathers into a fash onable flutter.

Poor Little Chap! We thought the worst had happened to him in having such a mother, and yet, she was not wicked—only weak and thoughtless.

"But evil is wrought by want of thought
As well as want of heart."

She believed she had done her duty in giving him a good nurse. One day she said:

"When he is older I intend to make a companion of him. Mr. Revere is so busy he can not spend much time with me, so Paul will be very handy as an escort. But now—children are such little animals! They tire me to death."

So gradually it came about that we near ly adopted Little Chap. He was hungry for music and our youngest sang all his favorite pieces. It was a constant question with him if there were any new songs,

A new song made him happy for a week; then he wanted another.

When not with us he rehearsed his songs to the traveling public he met in the halls, to the bell-boys, the porter, any one who would listen to him.

Then someone gave him a grotesque little book with flags and military shiel is on the cover. It was filled with the songs of the Salvation Army. No money could buy it from him.

"I can not imagine where the child gets such plebian ideas," said the mother. "Why, his father is one of the Boston Revere. I am sure he doesn't take it from him."

No, he did not. It was more like the meek and lowly Saviour of men who once sojourned on earth than any Boston autocrat whose ancestral name he bore, unless it was that Paul Revere of revolutionary fame.

Dear Little Chap! We tried to answer all the impossible questions he asked us about the end of the rainbow, and what Heaven was like, and why little children ever died, and how far it was to the sunset, and if angels came down to earth, and other things that we were ignorant of. Poor Little Chap, if we laughed at him the blue eyes filled with tears and we could only make our peace by singing him a "new song."

One day we were out until nearly night. When we returned we missed our usual greeting from Little Chap, and there was no scrawly letter or other remembrance to the door knob. We waited as long as we could, and then with a new song as an excuse, tapped at his mother's door.

The nurse opened it; she was crying.

"Haven't you heard? Oh, dear, it's too dreadful, and poor little fellow, the doctor says there isn't any hope!"

There had been an accident and Little Chap was hurt! But not much, oh, surely he could not lie there smiling, if he was going to die!

His mother was not in the room. The doctor was giving her an anæsthetic and counting her pulse in another apartment. They feared the shock would kill her.

His father held one little hand, and from time to time, as he bent over him, murmured in agonized tones:

"My boy! my boy!"

Ah, it is true! Blessings brighten as they take their flight!

"Dear Little Chap, do you know us?"

"Yes," the words were faint, "sing me a new song."

A new song! when the tears were bubbling up into our voices, and raining down

BILLIARD SHARPERS.

A New York Detective Enlightens the Public Upon Their Little Game.

Those are nice-looking young gentlemen, aren't they?" remarked a well-known police headquarters officer to a New York Mail and Express reporter, a few days ago, indicating a half-dozen individuals in fashionable attire lounging on the antique sofas which are supplied for the comfort of guests in an up-town billiard parlor. They were all in evening dress. There was nothing loud or vulgar in their appearance or actions, but a certain indescribable hard look was traced on their countenances by the detective. "Now any one not acquainted with them might jump at the conclusion that they were young men about town with plenty of money, either earned on 'Change or supplied by generous fathers. Nothing of the kind. They are about-towners to a marked degree. They are always about town, that is just the trouble, and a meaner set of scoundrels could not be found. They have no rich parents for relatives and no visible means of support, and work is foreign to their code.

"Then what do they do for an existence? They are contemptible sharpers. The worst sneak thief in the city is a gentleman compared to any one of that clique, but they adopt such low-lived methods that the police are powerless to gratify their inclination and lock them up. In every first-class hotel, billiard parlor or public place these very young men may be seen at some hour of the day or night, always dressy and refined, but always on the alert for victims. This is the way they work. They sit around as they are doing now, watching those gentlemen play billiards. Pretty soon some of the players will drop out, and then one of that set will be requested by the scorer to take a cue. Of course the scorer or attendant stands in with them. By daily intercourse with the customers of the establishment he has learned their ways and he has no trouble in bringing the two together for a friendly game. One, of course, is the prospective victim, and the other is the sneak. They play a couple of games and the gentleman is allowed to win. The sneak has "sized up" his game before. To make the game interesting he suggests a small wager. He wins by a few points. By careful conduct he averts suspicion, appears to be a gentleman, and invariably comes out five or ten dollars ahead. He never risks much, no matter how sure he is of winning, for that would give the snap away. A young man about town is always in search of fun and excitement, and the sharper is artful enough to play this same game night after night in the same places, and often works his way into respectable society by his winning ways. He never bets at the races, for they are uncertain. Gambling is not in his line unless he has a "cinch," as he calls a sure thing. Learning first just how well his victim can play, he has him in his clutches. There are a number of business men, brokers, salesmen, bookkeepers and others who are often glad to find some one to cross cues with, even if he be a stranger. The rest of the programme is attended to by the accommodating young rascal who plays simply to oblige his new-found acquaintance. It may seem strange, but it is true.

"They lose a few dollars occasionally, just to avert suspicion, but before going to bed every night or morning they balance accounts and find themselves ahead. No respectable gambling house would allow them in-doors, and the proprietor of this parlor would throw them down stairs if he could only get a cause. By their wits they manage to visit some watering place in the summer, and every thing they do is perfectly legitimate in the eyes of the law. The saw-dust swindle is an honorable calling, and as for the confidence game, why, that is a profession to be proud of when compared with this mean trickery."

ANSWERED A PERSONAL.

The Highly Unpleasant Adventure of a Full-Fledged Washington Dude.

A certain young swell in Washington is quite unhappy at present, says the Capital of that city, and despite the endeavors of his friends to cheer him, can not be induced to take other than a gloomy, misanthropic view of things in general and the delusive wiles of women in particular. Reading the newspapers, which formerly afforded him a keen pleasure, has for some time past been wholly abjured. The cause of this unhappiness is due to a certain gullibility of disposition, which has afforded to those of his set no end of amusement. It happened in this wise: One day after reading one of the leading city newspapers the young fellow was so impressed with a "personal" in which a lovely damsel expressed herself as desirous of corresponding with a handsome young fellow with a view to mutual improvement, he decided to answer and engage the young woman's affections at once. The reply must have been very satisfactory, for it met with an immediate response. Elated with success, the young fellow called together his chosen friends and imparted to them the beginning of his little escapade, to the recital of which they listened with lively interest. The reply returned to the lovely damsel, as may be surmised, was the joint production of all the young fellows called in. So the affair progressed until the request was made for an exchange of photographs. To this proposition the coy maiden demurred, stating, however, that she was by this time assured of her admirer's sincerity, and would grant him an interview.

Now, it so chanced that the damsel lived, so she wrote, in Baltimore, and after reading a rapturous reply from the young Washington swell, named the street and number of the house in which she lived and appointed an hour for the meeting. Full of eager anticipation to meet the writer of the charming, piquant notes of which for several weeks he had been the recipient, the young fellow started off, attended to the depot by his chums, whose excitement over the approaching climax was scarcely less than that of the principals. Reaching the place designated in the note for the meeting, the young swell, somewhat disappointed by the exterior of the house, nevertheless resolved to seek admittance. Yes, came the response to the inquiry, Miss Blank did live there, and he was accordingly shown into the little parlor, into which in a moment later, blandly announcing herself as his correspondent, there entered a maiden black as the ace of spades. How the young fellow ever beat a retreat he cannot even to this date give an intelligible account, but that it was a hasty one is certain from his wild-eyed mortification, which he had not gotten under control even by the time the train reached Washington. The subject of "personals" is entirely taboo ed for the present with the young swell, who now and then is heard to mutter darkly of having been made the victim of a practical joke, while vague hints are thrown out which would lead one to suppose that the perpetrators will eventually be brought to light through the aid of skilled detectives.

A Train Stopped by Balloon.

The other morning, as the early train was running from Natick to Pontiac, R. I., the passengers were startled by the sudden stopping of the cars. Mr. Al. Beals, the faithful engineer, with keen eyes for possible accident, saw away ahead a swaying, bright red object, and this colored light to the railway engineer means danger, so up went his hand to grasp the reversing lever. The train was stopped when the spot where the signal was seen was reached, and it proved to be an alien son of Italy traveling with a group of red toy balloons which swayed and waved in the morning breeze. His expressive face and bright black eyes looked an unspoken interrogatory why the train came to a standstill, and the passengers looked upon him with interest, but he did not tarry, trudging away up the lessening track into dimness and distance.

He Showed the Wrong Card.

A story is told in regard to a christening in the lower end of the city, says the Peoria (Ill.) Transcript. Mother, father and infant were on hand. Also the godfather. The good old priest proceeded with the ceremony until it was necessary to name the child. The godfather, as usual in such cases, had written the name on a card, and when the ceremony had reached this point he dived into his vest pocket and handed out one. The priest took it, glanced over it, and a look of horror came over his face. The godfather turned as red as the gills of a turkey gobbler, went down in his pocket again, reached out another card, handed it to the priest, and received in return the one he had first given the good man, and the ceremony proceeded without further interruption. The one he had first handed to the priest read: "I am somewhat of a liar myself."

TO LIVE NINETY-SIX YEARS.

What a Gypsy Fortune-Teller Told Emperor William in 1863.

A number of anecdotes are related concerning Emperor William's long life and the possible number of years still left to him. One, illustrating peculiar superstition, is worth repeating. It is to the effect that at the time of the Fürstenstag at Frankfort, in 1863, King William, one day, walking in the neighborhood of Baden-Baden, accompanied by Herr von Bismarck and a number of ladies and gentlemen, passed a Gypsy hut. One of the ladies exclaimed: "That is where the famous Gypsy girl Preciosa tells fortunes." The party, who were all in walking dress, entered the hut and had their fortunes told in succession, the King, whose identity was concealed, coming last. Preciosa held his hand a long while in silence and then said: "I see a great crown, great victories and great age. You will live ninety-six years, but your last days will bring much trouble and much sorrow." The King forgot all about the prophecy till 1884, when, at a ball at the Russian Embassy in Berlin, the Hungarian Countess Erdody, whose mother was a Tsigane, was presented to him. During a long conversation it was incidentally mentioned that the Countess possessed the gift of chiromancy. The Emperor held out his hand and the Countess, after examining the lines, gravely said: "Your Majesty is destined to live ninety-six years." The Emperor, it is added, was much struck by the coincidence.

According to the Vienna Tagblatt, physicians of the Emperor have declared that he has no organic failing, and there is nothing to prevent him from attaining the age of one hundred, provided he takes care of himself. But this is just what he does not do. According to authentic statistics, there are at present in the Kingdom of Prussia no less than five thousand persons over ninety years of age; six hundred of them are ten years older than the Emperor. In all parts of Prussia there are plenty of people between ninety and ninety-five. The oldest are to be found in the provinces of Posen, Silesia and East and West Prussia.

CUPID'

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE, A. L. FORCE,
Editors and Proprietors.

BATTLE FLAGS.

The strenuous efforts of certain politicians to make a paying investment out of the recent rebel flag incident at Washington, shows plainly what a scarce article partisan capital has become.

A number of battle flags captured from the Confederates by soldiers of the Union lay hidden away and mouldering within the dark recesses of the War Department, and the Adjutant-General of the Army, General Drum, honestly thinking, however unwisely, that their voluntary return to the States from whence they emerged long years ago, would not only be an act of courtesy, but have a direct tendency to strengthen the happily evinced feeling of national brotherhood, recommended that an official order issue in favor of such return and thereunto he obtained the sanction of the Secretary of War and of the President.

Now, admitting that such originating idea of the Adjutant-General, and its subsequent endorsement by the Secretary and President, were improper acts, no blame whatever can attach to either of those gentlemen, because they were influenced solely by what appeared to be good and patriotic motives.

The Southern States never asked for the return of any battle flags, and in fact care nothing about them, the people of the South openly acknowledging defeat and declaring the war forever ended, yet, as soon as the proposed order of General Drum was promulgated at Washington, a howl went up from a few would be prominent political leaders at the North and West, who thought they saw the chance of another glorious crimson campaign, and an opportunity to defame a popular Democratic President and the party he so ably represents. To that end such political warriors belched forth rash and venom-coated expressions, which not only disgusted truth and decency loving citizens, both civil and military, and irrespective of partisan name, but have recoiled with damaging effect upon the heads of their foolish utterers.

President Cleveland, as became the just and honorable official he is, promptly rescinded the order and the flags remain in seclusion.

That was well and timely done.

The political agitators did not like the rescinding act of the President, taking as it did the wind out of their sails, but, the capsizing blast came when the fact was discovered and published that the real author of the alleged paper disloyalty, General Drum, instead of being a Democrat, is and ever has been a true blue Republican.

Alas!

What shams do mercenary politicians sometimes invent and pursue!

POST OFFICE SALARIES.

The annual adjustment of the salaries of the Post Offices of the Presidential grade, has been completed by the officials of the Post Office Department. The whole number of Post Offices in New Jersey is 782, of which sixty-four are of the Presidential rank. The largest increase in any office has been made at East Orange, where the gain is $700, which places it high up among the offices of the second class. Two offices, Rutherford and Washington, show an increase of $300, and three offices, Hackensack, Haddonfield and Perth Amboy, secure an addition of $200. Princeton, by a gain of a single hundred dollars, enters the second grade. The Newark office also gains a hundred dollars. The office at Brick Church, which had a salary of $2,100, is discontinued, while Lakewood entered the Presidential class by a gain of over $400. The Weehawken office suffered the heaviest loss, the reduction being $200. Two offices each lose one hundred dollars, and twenty-seven gain the same amount.

BARNUM ON ADVERTISING.

P. T. Barnum, addressing a body of business men a Bridgeport the other day said: "You do not, any of you, advertise enough. You ought to use printer's ink every day. You are asleep and want your business to run itself. Standing advertisements in a paper command confidence. The man who for a year lives in one community and leads a reputable life, even though he be of moderate ability, will grow in the confidence and esteem of his fellows. On the same principle a newspaper advertisement becomes familiar to the reader. It may seldom be read. Still it makes the name and business of the man familiar, and constantly appearing in the columns of a paper inspire confidence in the stability of the enterprise."

JUDGE PARKER'S SCRAP-BOOK.

Judge Joel Parker, who presided so ably at the Barclay Peak trial at Mount Holly, was the Governor of New Jersey during the struggle between the States of the North and South. The venerable jurist loves to dwell on the memory of those times, and he says that he has in his possession documents that if published would throw new light on the connections of the martyred President, the then Secretary of War Stanton, and New Jersey's hero, Gen. McClellan, with the events of that troubled time. He says that he will sometime give to the public the correspondence and documents bearing on this matter, that he has preserved in the form of a book, and promises some interesting matter.—Fredonian.

—It is said that the New Jersey State Board of Health is now making special analysis of quinine pills which are being extensively sold throughout the State, and are not absolutely pure. The pills are said to have been supplied by Philadelphia firms and they do not contain the amount of quinine which they represent. So much complaint has been made by physicians about the low grade of the medicine that an official investigation was deemed necessary.

We present THE CONSTITUTIONALIST this week in a six page form, containing fifty-four columns of reading matter and advertisements. The laws of New Jersey, passed at the last session of the Legislature, form a part of the interesting reading matter which should be preserved for further reference.

Trotting.

The really interesting contests between local trotters, every Saturday afternoon, on the Park avenue track of the Union and Middlesex Agricultural Society, are attracting quite an attendance. A number occupied the grand stand, last Saturday, and in the field were many private carriages. No admission is charged, and the place is fast becoming the fashionable destination for a Saturday afternoon's drive. Last Saturday's contests were unusually close, with the following result:

FIRST RACE.

Geo. A. Phillips' br. m. "Gypsy"	1 1
John Stelle's br. m. "Nellie C."	2 2
S. D. Kelly's b. m.	3 3

Time—2:44½, 2:43½.

SECOND RACE.

Wm. Van Pickle's ch. g. "Sagwa,"	1 1
John B. Osborn's ch. g. "Care Not,"	2 2

Time—2:45, 2:38½.

THIRD RACE (Unfinished).

E. J. Warting's br. g. "Lodger," (to wagon)	1 2 2
J. B. Osborn's b. g. "Jim," "	2 1 3
J. C. Zimmerman's b. g. "Tom McCann," (to wagon)	3 3 1

Time—2:42½, 2:43, 2:41.

WESTFIELD

The recruits of the Military Company will be given in on Tuesday evening, July 5th.

The death of Mrs. Mary Long occurred Wednesday of last week, after a lingering illness, with a cancer.

Jacob D. French has sold his house and lot on Central avenue to the Rev. B. V. Parvin, of Rahway, N. J.

How long is our popular wagon-maker of Elm street going to allow that old box wagon stand in the street in front of his carriage repository?

The running of the growler on Thursday afternoon, ended in a fight on Broad street, in the evening, between John Kelly and Thomas Casey. Where is the lock-up? The place for both would have been in it.

The Methodist and Congregational Sunday schools anticipate having one of the largest excursions to Asbury Park on July 13th, weather permitting. From the conversation you hear among our residents almost every person is going.

Mr. D. Colville, leader of the choir of the Presbyterian church, has resigned that position. No cause for his action is generally known, as he is said to have merely written from the West that he would have to give up the place.

The Grand officers of New Jersey visited Fireside Council, 715, Royal Arcanum, of Westfield, Thursday evening. A. J. Westbrook, representative to the supreme Council, was presented with a silver table-set by Fireside Council, of which he is a member, and a tea-set by the Grand officers of New Jersey. A collation was afterwards served and a general good time had by those in attendance.

The sixty-sixth anniversary and children's day of the Presbyterian Sunday school was held Sunday at four o'clock in the church. The programme was a very interesting one consisting of singing and responsive readings and reports of the officers which showed the school to be a very thriving one. The Rev. L. T. Chamberlain, D. D., of Classon avenue Presbyterian church, Brooklyn, delivered a very able and instructive address.

The committee having the matter of celebrating the coming Fourth in charge are meeting with better success than they anticipated in soliciting funds. Every one is willing to contribute. It will warrant us in saying that the residents of our town need not go away from home as there will be plenty of music and fun all day and a fine display of fireworks in the evening. The Bound Brook band have been engaged for the day and evening.

Sunday afternoon Mr. John S. Irving started out for a drive with his team of young horses attached to a buggy, his young son Frank aged five years accompaning him. At Netherwood Mr. Irving got out of the wagon to arrange the lines. He had fixed them and started to get in the wagon again when two large dogs came out of some bushes, frightened the horses and they jumped. Mr. Irving caught at the lines but was struck by the wheel and knocked down. The horses ran to Richmond street and turned the corner. Frank had hold of the wagon top which was down. Near Scott Press works the horses ran against a telegraph pole and the seat and top fell off with Frank in it. He escaped injury, receiving only a few scratches. The wagon was a total wreck. The horses became detached from each other, and after running some distance were finally caught. Mr. Irving was considerably bruised about the arms and body, and one of the horses received several bad cuts.

The graduating class of our Public School held their Commencement exercises last week, in Arcanum Hall. Long before the hour for the exercises to commence, the Hall was crowded to overflowing. Each member of the class rendered their parts admirably—without the least stop or hesitation. The Rev. J. K. Folwell delivered a very able address. Doctor Jos. B. Harrison presented the diplomas with very appropriate remarks. Each member of the class was the recipients of a handsome basket and boquet of flowers. The class motto—"Fidelity and Justice"—was worked in letters on the rear of the stage. The following was the PROGRAMME.

DOXOLOGY.

Prayer by the Rev. N. W. Cadwell.

Chorus.....Welcome

Essay (Salutatory).....Lily Emma M. Appleby.
Recitation.....Incompleteness.....Lizzie A. Pierson.
Chorus.....Now

Essay.....Class History.....Mary June Whitaker.
Recitation.....Legend of Bregenz.....Josie F. English.

Duet (Instrumental).....Jean de Paris Overture.....
Essay.....Influences.....Emma Darsh, Fanny Bonnell.
Class Poem.....Anna E. Gilby.
Recitation.....The Fanatic.....Lillian Barton.
Essay.....Choice of Companions.....John C. Hall.
Recitation.....The Painter of Seville.....

Solo (Vocal).....Gaily I Wander.....John W. Sansom.
Essay.....Class Prophecy.....Katherine C. Fairbairn.
Essay (Valedictory).....Small Beginnings.....
Edith May Sayers.
Solo (Instrumental).....The Minstrel Boy.....
Emma Darsh.
Address.....Rev. J. K. Folwell.
Chorus.....Carroll Sousa.....The Spring.
Awarding Diplomas.
Chorus.....Westfield School.
Benediction.....Rev. J. Paton.

The sudden death of James Higgins, aged about 40 years, occurred on Saturday afternoon at five o'clock. Higgins had been complaining for the past week of not feeling well, and seemed to be affected in his mind. On Saturday morning he was sitting on the side walk in front of Mrs. McGowan's house on Spring street. At two p. m. he had moved a short distance along the street. In front of the residence of Mr. L. Peterson, he attracted the attention of Mrs. Peterson who knew him very well. She went out and spoke to him. Another of the neighbors, Mrs. McCue, made a bowl of tea and gave it to him. He stayed sitting by the fence until five o'clock when Mrs. Peterson noticed him fall forward on his face. She went out to him and says he gave one or two gasps and died. County Physician Westcott was immediately notified and made an examination. He gave the body charge of Undertaker Connoly who removed it to his rooms and placed it on ice. It is understood the deceased has a mother and other relatives residing at Morristown, N. J., but nothing definite is known whether it is so or not. The County Physician is investigating it. The deceased was of a very retired disposition, giving no one any of his family history. He has resided in Fanwood and Westfield Township for a number of years, first coming about thirty years ago to live with Gershon Littell, near Lambert's Mills. He was a machinist by trade. He was of an inventive turn and had secured a number of years ago several patents. One for an improved cultivator and one for a patent churn, and several others. The deceased has been a member of Engine Co. No. 1, since its organization.

NORTH PLAINFIELD GRADUATES.

Fourth Annual Commencement—Exercises in Warren Mission Chapel—Essays—Addresses by Members of the Board of Education—Awarding Diplomas—The Reception.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

President—Dr. H. K. Carroll. Sec'y—Jas. McGee.
Treasurer—Geo. P. Brown.

TEACHERS.

Principal—C. E. Boss; Vice Principal—Marg't J. Purdue; Miss Thomas, Miss Baldwidge, Miss Mair, Miss Randolph, Miss Lewis Miss Kastline, Miss Kiernan, Miss Wilson, Miss Stremmell, Miss Ginn.

GRADUATES.

Minnie J. French,	Frederick W. Heideloff,
Emily S. Thompson,	John E. S. Petrie,
Florence V. Hurlburt,	David H. French,
Elizabeth H. Brower,	Allen Coddington,
Marie K. Gavin,	John M. Lewis,
Alfred B. Thorn,	Frank P. Wilson,
George P. Taggart,	Frederick C. Grant.

Paul D. Loizeaux.

There were closing scenes at the North Plainfield Public School Thursday last, and in the evening the Fourth Annual Commencement exercises took place in Warren Mission Chapel. The inclement weather did not noticeably decrease the attendance, and long before eight o'clock, the time appointed for opening the exercises, people were wedged in the building to a suffering extent. The outside temperature was delightfully cool, contrasting forcibly with the extreme heat in the interior of the Chapel. Principal Boss and the ushers exerted every effort to seat the multitude, but their exertions were in vain, and when the hour arrived for beginning, large numbers were standing and remained in that position throughout the rendition of the entire programme.

At a little after eight o'clock, the sliding doors were drawn, disclosing about one hundred and fifty scholars arranged in tiers in the rear of the stage proper, all "dressed in their best." The spectacle was an imposing one, and many an anxious mother seated in the audience leaned forward to catch a glimpse of her darling girl or boy. The floral decorations were modest and neat, consisting principally of cut flowers and ferns. The air was redolent with the perfume of flowers from corsage bouquets, and rich jewels gleamed from the toilets of the fair graduates. On the extreme right of the platform was a towering bank of roses dotted with ferns, and on the left was a huge bank of green and white. Principal Boss presided, and with him were seated on the right, Messrs. H. K. Carroll, LL. D., and Jas. McGee of the Board of Education, and Miss Carrie E. Randolph, the accompanist. The members of the graduating, fifteen in number, were seated on the left of the stage. The young ladies, all of whom it is needless to say, were both pretty, and, of course, intelligent, were wreathed in smiles and bouquets, and the young men—as all young men are on such occasions—were nervous and intellectual-looking.

The programme was inaugurated by the school singing—"The Heaven's are Telling," and was according to the following

ORDER OF EXERCISES.

PART I.

Chorus...The Heavens are Telling...School.
Recitation...The Women of Mumbie's Head, Eliza Gavin.
Recitation.....Little Jerry.....Walter Place.
Boys' Chorus.....Sailing.....
Recitation.....Flash.....Bertie Bodine.
Recitation...What Grandmother Says...Edith Miles.
Essay.....Helen Hunt.....Elizabeth Brower.
Quartette.....From our Merry Swiss Home,
Robbie Ingram, Nattie Whitlock, Lizzie Whitlock, Alice Carroll.
Declamation.....Hobbies.....Fred Thorn.
Recitation.....Little Fritz.....Harry Polhemus.
Recitation.....Dob.....Nellie Morrison.
Chorus...The Laugh of a Child...School.
Recitation...Valdemar the Happy...Justina Smith.
Declamation.....The Future of America, Frank Wilson.
Essay.....Dreams.....Florence Hurlburt.
Exercise.....Dumb Bells.....

PART II.

Declamation...The Victor of Marengo...John Petrie.
Recitation...The Slave Ships...Marie Loizeaux.
Girls' Chorus.....Notalie.....
Declamation...Rights and Duties...John Lewis.
Recitation.....A Little Sleepy Head, Jessie Coddington.
Boys' Chorus.....Chink.....
Essay.....Missing Quantities.....George Taggart.
Recitation...The Little Fireman...Minnie J. French.
Recitation.....Brother Brown on Apples, Wm. MacClymont
Duet...Over the Waves...Nettie Whitlock, Robbie Ingram.
Declamation.....The Battle of Mission Ridge, Daniel Loizeaux.

PRESENTATION OF DIPLOMAS,
By President of Board of Education.
Chorus...The Sailor's Chorus...School.

As will be seen by the foregoing programme, the entertainment was varied, every part of which was acceptably rendered. Miss Eliza Gavin recited in rhyme the heroic deeds of the "Women of Mumbie Head," and their dangerous attempts to rescue the crew of a wrecked vessel, their plunge into the mighty waters to save the struggling forms from a watery grave. Walter Place told of the exploits of "Little Jerry at Fulton Ferry," and Bertie Bodine gave in rhyme the life of "Flash," a fire department horse. Little Edith Miles, although she forgot to salute Principal Boss when she ascended the steps to the platform, related in a pleasing manner "What Grandmother Says."

"Helen Hunt" was the subject of the first essay, by Miss Elizabeth Brower, whose delivery was something more than the ordinary. Helen Maria Hunt, the daughter of Nathan and Deborah Fiske, was born at Amherst, Mass., Oct. 18, 1831. Her father was a Professor of Languages and Philosophy in Amherst College; her mother, a lady of rare literary tastes, and an authoress. Helen was a precocious child and her bright sayings were often quoted. In 1852 she was married to Capt. Edward B. Hunt, who was afterward killed while experimenting with an invention of his own for firing projectiles under water. At the age of thirty Helen went to Newport, R. I., where she began to make a study of literary styles, and interchanged criticism with others. She published poems entitled "Tryst," "A Burial Service" and "Verses." In 1873, Mrs. Hunt visited Colorado, and there married again, in Oct. 1874, William Sharpless Jackson. From this time until her death, she had a happy domestic life, never neglecting her literary duties. Emerson was a great admirer of Helen Hunt. The most artistic of her verses is the "Gondoliers," in which all Venice seems reflected in the cadence. Mrs. Jackson suffered intensely, previous to her death, which occurred August 12, 1885, and in accordance with her wishes, she was buried in a lovely spot in Pine Hill Forest, on the northerly slope of the Cheyenne Mountains, "where," says J. Crawford, "one might almost imagine the wild flowers she loved so well in life, crowding closer to her grave, and by their bright procession giving expression to the immortality of a beautiful life.

Master Fred Thorn declaimed on the subject of "Hobbies," and little Harry Polhemus recited in true Teutonic style, "Little Fritz," relating his grievances while at school, and declaring that he would rather stay at home and rock "Katrina" than attend a primary school. Miss Nellie Morrison gave a recitation entitled "Dob," and was followed by a recitation entitled "King Valdemar, the Happy," by Justina Smith.

"The Future of America" was the subject of a declamation by Frank Wilson. The problems God is bringing before us to-day, he said, and the hazardous questions of the hour must be answered by the present generation. The American Republic must stand; conservatism must prevail, and fanaticism shall not destroy it; we live in a land where the laws are nothing unless sustained by public opinion; this is a country with universal freedom and universal brotherhood.

Miss Florence Vivienne Hurlburt delivered fluently an essay entitled "Dreams." She showed not the slightest trace of embarrassment, and her delivery was clear and distinct, so as to be heard in all parts of the house. The production is a most commendable one and is worthy of reproduction. It was as follows:

DREAMS.

How strange, how mysterious and fascinating are the voices that woo us in dreamland. We lay our wearied bodies down to rest, but the soul within us never sleeps. During the hush of the midnight hours, a shadowy, misty band from the spirit world with its magic influence takes possession of us, and by the wave of a fairy's wand, the scene changes and we are lifted into a world of evanescent pain or pleasure.

"Oh spirit land! thou land of dreams,
A world thou art of mysterious gleams,
Of startling voices and sounds at strife,
A world of the dead in the hues of life."

These series of thoughts of a person in sleep, termed "dreams," have exerted their fascinating influence upon man for ages, and will doubtless continue to do so, until death calls him to his dreamless slumbers. When we think of the great power and strange freaks of Morpheus, the god of sleep and dreams it seems provident that his sway is limited to sleeping hours, for one may fall asleep with perfect peace of mind and have the most horrible experience imaginable, or may see heaven in its indescribable magnificence, or fathom the sea, and find its hidden treasures in secluded caves. He may even sight the "Garden of Eden," or see Socrates examining the telegraph while Pompey stands enraptured with the modes of warfare of the present day. Weird and unreal as dreams may be, still they afford untold happiness, and many a lonely, tired soul has been cheered by these midnight visitors. The sleeping sailor sees pictured on his mind the home for which he longs; each hill and shady nook, the neat cottage among the trees, and the ivy covered porch where his kind mother sits. The soldiers dream of battle, and his comrades falling round him, while he is left unscathed. With the next day's beginning, he goes into the reality of battle with a courage born of his dream. The prisoner in his lonely desolate cell, feels again the joys of freedom; the trees never looked greener, the sky brighter, nor the birds sang more sweetly, than now, when in his dreams, he walks the earth a free man! But have dreams no other mission than that of pleasure? In Biblical times they had a distinct meaning and people were often directed and warned by God in that manner, as in the dreams of Jacob, Nebuchadnezzar, Pharaoh and Joseph. Though we do not to-day attach this same importance to dreams, yet every one acknowledges that they have a singular power over us; casting the thoughts into new channels, and even turning one's purpose in life. Besides this they benefit the literary world by weaving fancies for poets' verses. Robert Burns, it is said, after reading in the public papers, the Laureate's Ode of 1786, fell asleep and in his dream composed a beautiful poem, which on awakening he transferred to paper. The artist, in his sleep sees a face of incomparable beauty or magnificent scenery, with which that of Switzerland is not worthy to be compared. With enthusiasm he paints and the pictured dreams bring the artist wealth and renown. The vision of St. Agustine, in which he strays along the sea shore and lifting his head sees the infant Christ who pauses, and looks up from his task of holding a shell, was the inspiration of Murillo, Rubens and Vandyck. Among these strange workings of the sleeping mind, some despondent unbelieving persons place Life. They deem it something fleeting and visionary, and find no real worth in the joys and sorrows of each day's experience.

But to us who know its reality, each minute is of value, and each day has its separate duties. Longfellow says, Life is real, life is earnest. And if we are striving in every way to make those around us happy, far nobler will be our life than the most transcendent of our earthly dreams.

FLORENCE V. HURLBURT.

A pleasing feature of the exercises was the dumb bell drill, in which nine boys, dressed in white flannel shirts, dark-blue pants, and bicycle shoes, went through a number of difficult evolutions in perfect harmony with a piano accompaniment. The dumb bell drill was loudly applauded. This was followed in rapid succession by a declamation by John Petrie entitled "The Victor Marengo," a recitation "The Slave Ships" by Miss Maria Loizeaux, and a girls chorus. Master John Lewis delivered a declamation on "The Rights and Duties of Man," and Little Miss Jessie Coddington recited "A Little Sleepy Head," all of which were warmly received by the audience. The boys chorus "Chink" was vigorously sung and each boy vied with another in sewing who could make the most noise with his Fourth of July change.

Another essay deserving special credit both for originality and delivery was entitled "Missing Quantities." It is hereunto published in its entirety:

MISSING QUANTITIES.

Everything is made up of certain component quantities—great or little, good or bad. Water is formed of quantities of oxygen and hydrogen amounting in proportion as eight to one. Air is essentially composed of quantities of oxygen and nitrogen, carbonic acid of hydrogen, carbon and oxygen. A vacuum is a quantity of nothing. Probably the most frequently and practically felt of all deficient quantities is capital. How many of our great inventors after having completed their models, have money a missing quantity; which proves that it is a most necessary adjunct to brains. Artists have worked for years to produce a certain shade of color; a musician will labor unceasingly in endeavoring to perfect some harmony which arises in his mind; a poet will study for hours to find words with which he can complete the meter of his verses. Hundreds of other equally potent examples might easily be cited. The people of the present time seem to consider the missing material quantities as more ruinous than the immaterial; which, however, is assuredly not the case. The quantity of honesty and other virtues absent in the character of the men and women of to-day is most alarming. Character is essentially a compound of qualities; and its goodness or badness depends upon the quantity of the good or bad qualities. The lives of all famous men ably illustrate these assertions. Burke, England's great statesman, would, it is claimed, have been still greater had not the quantity of his self-control been deficient. His missing quantity caused him to lose his temper too easily, and by so doing marred the force of his argument. Good qualities, absent in even small quantities, invariably result disastrously. The French General, Soult, could have defeated Wellington, but he lacked dash and was overcautious. We look up to Daniel Webster as a model of greatness, and yet he could not control himself sufficiently to keep from intemperance. Alexander the Great is another example of the same. Of all the qualities of character the loss of the smallest quantity of which we feel more than any other is, prudence. It governs our actions, speech, manners—everything, in short—and a person is certainly unfortunate in whom prudence is in the least degree a missing quantity. A man who is thus incapacitated is unable to successfully operate his financial, social or domestic affairs, and had better promptly resort to some school of discretion. It may also be in place to mention, that not infrequently when a good quality is deficient in quantity, a small germ of a bad quality is likely to enter where the good should have been, and usurp its place entirely. This fact is well illustrated by the fall of the Roman Empire, which attained its height by the exercise of the good quality of earnest labor in large quantities; but when its crisis came, the evil quality—in equal or larger quantity—of indolent luxury crept in, and slowly increased in volume until when the Huns came down from the North, the quality which had made home what she was, had become a missing quantity, and Attila threw from its place, the first stone in the already toppling tower of Roman supremacy. In these cases, as in all others, a watchful Providence has prevented the possibility of irretrievable loss, and the question as to whether the quantity shall be recovered or not, depends entirely upon the loser. The problem of how it shall be regained, also rests with him. A strong will can accomplish anything, and so when we discover our missing quantity we can regain it, or at least obviate its loss by constantly keeping in mind and trying to prove that—"He who is firm in will, moulds the world to himself."

GEO. P. TAGGART.

Miss Minnie J. French recited "The Little Fireman," and Wm. McClaymont addressed the audience from the subject of "De Apple." The recitation abounded with comicalities as he traced the origin of the apple from "Adams Apple Orchard" up to the present time. During his "discourse" he compared the young people to apple blossoms, the young men to greenings, the old maid, to the seek no further, the mother-in-law to the crab apples, the bald-headed men, to the Baldwin apple, and lastly the old folks, to dried apples. Some of his articulations can be found in the back of Webster's Unabridged Dictionary, but no sane person will ever attempt to pronounce them.

Another pleasing feature of the exercises was No. 26 on the programme, a duett "Over the Waves," by the Misses Nettie Whitlock and Robbie Ingram, each singing her part sweetly. The last declamation was delivered by David Loizeaux in "The Battle of Mission Ridge." His delivery was good, and he handled the subject in a firm, oratorical manner. Each of the participants received handsome floral offerings, which were brought out by corteous ushers and placed in a row along the front of the platform, and when all had finished the stage represented a veritable Eden.

PRESENTATION OF DIPLOMAS.

The members of the graduating class formed a semi-circle on the platform, and as a concluding portion of the programme Mr. H. K. Carroll, LL. D., President of the Board of Education, on behalf of the Board of Trustees, in a few appropriate words presented each graduate with a diploma. In part he said: "Scholars of the graduating class it is with great pleasure that I present to you these diplomas on behalf of the Board of Trustees and teachers of the school for the success you have attained during your school life. This is your hour of triumph, as you look back ten or fifteen years, to the trials that were then hard to overcome, you may look at them in an indifferent way; then you were perplexed when you could not distinguish the difference between your "p's" and your "q's." Since then you have faithfully and conscientiously overcome those difficulties. In presenting you these diplomas your connection with us must cease, and if you continue with us it must only be by the bonds of friendship." Each of the fifteen graduates then responded as their names were called and gracefully received their paper.

James McGee followed in a short address in which he said that he did not want "Little Fritz" to go home and say that the trustees had made a lengthy address. He had one thing to say, however, and that was that the t u bes were proud of the scholars and the school; one thing, he said, was staring them in the face; if the parents would gather from year to year to witness the graduating exercises, and would have the children receive the proper education they must grant a larger school building; the school, is at present overflowing, and a more commodious building is essential at this time. He thanked the parents for their children, who had only been loaned to them and asked their assistance to aid in making this the grandest school district in New Jersey.

The school sang "The Sailor's Chorus," and the concourse of people filed out of the building to face a drenching rain storm. The graduates and past graduates remained at the reception which followed, when refreshments and general sociability was the order. Principal Boss was presented with a large framed engraving, representing the "Russian Wedding," and Vice-Principal, Miss Purdue, was the happy recipient of a handsome blue plush album containing the photographs of the graduating class. The entertainment came to an end soon after midnight, and was pronounced one of the most successful ever given by the members of the North Plainfield Public School.

From an educational point of view the exercises of the evening, must be regarded as the chief event of the school year, and too much praise cannot be accorded Principal Boss, Miss Purdue and the corps of able and efficient teachers for the good work that has been accomplished in the school during the year just closed.

DEATHS.

STOUT—In this city, June 26, 1887, Miss Ann Eliza Stout.

MOORE—On Tuesday, June 28, Mrs. Nancy Moore, widow of the late James Moore.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

FORD & STILES,
Funeral Directors
and Practical Embalmers.
Office, Warerooms and Residence
No. 14 EAST FRONT STREET.
Telephone Call No. 44.
FORD. STILES. GEO. M. STILES

L. M. RUNYON & SON,
Undertakers and Embalmers,
60 Park avenue.
Telephone Call 40.
RESIDENCE—6 Madison avenue
Telephone Call 27
"Office of Hillside Cemetery." sp15

P. CASEY & SON.
UNDERTAKERS.
Office, No. 1 Somerset st.; Residence, No. 11 Third street, corner New, Plainfield, N. J.
Everything pertaining to the business always on hand, and lower than any other Room in the State. All Calls Promptly Answered day or Night.—ol5tf

GRAND PICNIC!
with a Special Entertainment, for the benefit of St. Joseph's church, at
THE CRESCENT,
Corner Fourth and Peace streets, Plainfield, New Jersey,
Monday, July 4th.
Fine Music. Largest and Smoothest Surface in the State for Dancing. Refreshments.
TICKETS.....25 CTS.

Central Railroad of New Jersey

Station in New York—Foot of Liberty Street.

Time Table in Effect June 27, 1887.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 3.27, 5.43, 6.32, 7.02, 7.30, 7.59, 8.02, 8.23, 8.40, 9.02, 10.37, 11.08, 11.42, a.m. 12.33, 1.21, 2.25, 2.57, 3.51, 5.25, 5.30, 5.54, 6.32, 6.55, 7.02, 8.46, 9.15, 11.16, p. m. Sunday—3.27, 801, 8.57, 10.33, 11.32 a. m., 1.27, 3.30, 5.16, 7.20, 7.28, 9.23 p. m.

Leave New York from foot of Liberty Street, 4.00, 6.00, 7.30, 8.30, 9.00, 10.15, 11.00 a. m., 1.00, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 3.45, 4.00, 4.30, 5.00, 5.15, 5.30, 5.45, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.15, 9.30, 10.30, 12.00 p. m. Sunday—4.30, 6.45, 9.00 a. m., 12.00, m., 1.30, 4.00, 5.30, 6.30, 9.30, 12.00 p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield 5.43, 6.32, 7.02, 7.30, 8.02, 8.40, 9.32, 10.37, 11.08, 11.42, a. m., 12.33, 1.21, 2.25, 3.51, 5.25, 5.54, 6.55, 7.02, 8.46, 9.15, 11.16, p. m. Sunday—8.57, 10.33, 11.32, a. m., 1.27, 3.30, 5.16, 7.28, 9.23, p. m.

Leave Newark—6.20, 7.24, 8.25, 9.05, 10.32, 11.00 a. m., 1.05, 1.35, 2.40, 3.40, 4.50, 5.45, 5.35, 5.50, 6.30, 7.10, 7.35, 8.20, 9.40, p. m. 12.00 night. Sunday—8.50, a. m., 12.20, 1.45, 4.10, 5.35, 9.15, p. m.

Passengers for Newark change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5.10, 7.14, 8.32, 9.21, 11.30, a. m. 2.08, 216, 3.35, 4.34, 5.16, 5.31, 6.02, 6.36, 6.59, 7.38, 9.08, 9.29, 11.45, p. m. Sunday—5.10, 10.14, a. m., 2.45, 5.14, 6.45, 10.45, p. m.

Leave Somerville 6.05, 6.35, 7.05, 7.39, 7.55, 8.15, 9.35, 10.15, 11.15, a. m., 12.55, 2.05, 3.25, 5.00, 5.32, 6.15, 8.40, p. m. Sunday—8.30, 11.05, a. m., 1.00, 4.50, 7.00, 8.55, p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield 5.10, 8.32, 9.21, a. m., 2.08, 2.16, 4.34, 5.16, 6.36, p. m. Sunday—5.10, a. m., 6.45, p. m.

Leave Easton 6.35, 8.57, a. m., 12.40, 4.15, 7.00, p. m. Sunday—7.15, a. m., 7.00, p. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

LEAVE PLAINFIELD.

5.10, a. m.—For Easton, Allentown, Reading and Mauch Chunk.

8.32, a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Wind Gap, Mauch Chunk, Dryfton, Upper Lehigh, Scranton, &c.

9.21, a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Schooley's Mountain, Lake Hopatcong, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Nanticoke, Upper Lehigh, Scranton, &c.

2.08, p. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, &c.

4.34, p. m.—For Easton, Wind Gap, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Williamsport, Dryfton, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, &c.

5.16, p. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Schooley's Mountain, Lake Hopatcong, Easton, &c.

6.36, p. m.—For Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, &c.

Long Branch, Ocean Grove, &c.

Leave Plainfield 2.27, 4.43, 8.05, 9.52, 11.06, a. m. 1.32, 3.55, 5.35, 7.10, 11.44, p. m. Sundays (except Ocean Grove) 2.27, 8.07, a. m., 3.59 p. m.

BOUND BROOK ROUTE.

Leave Plainfield for Philadelphia and Trenton, 1.32, 5.55, 8.05, 9.52, 11.06, a. m., 3.16, 4.37, 5.16, 6.12*, 8.17, p. m. Sundays—1.32, 5.16*, 9.16, a. m., 6.20, p. m.

RETURNING—LEAVE PHILADELPHIA

Ninth and Green streets, 8.30*, 9.30, 11.00, a. m., 1.10, 3.45, 5.15, 7.00, 11.00, p. m. Sunday—8.30, a. m., 5.00, 12.00, p. m.

From Third and Berks streets, 8.30*, 9.05, 10.30, a. m., 1.00, 3.30, 5.00, 6.00, p. m. Sunday—8.15, a. m., 4.30, p. m.

Leave Trenton, Warren and Tucker streets, 1.25, 5.10*, 10.10, 11.25, a. m., 1.54, 4.15, 5.50, 7.40, p. m. Sunday—7.25, a. m., 12.40, 6.15, p. m.

Plainfield passengers by trains marked* change cars at Bound Brook.

J. H. OLHAUSEN, Gen'l Sup't.
E. P. BALDWIN, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

KASKINE

(THE NEW QUININE.)

GIVES
Good Appetite,
New Strength,
Quiet Nerves,
Happy Days,
Sweet Sleep.

A POWERFUL TONIC.

that the most delicate stomach will bear.

A SPECIFIC FOR MALARIA,

RHEUMATISM,

NERVOUS PROSTRATION.

and all Germ Diseases.

THE MOST SCIENTIFIC AND SUCCESSFUL BLOOD PURIFIER. Superior to quinine.

Mr. F. A. Miller, 630 East 167th street, New York, was cured by Kaskine of extreme malarial prostration after seven years suffering. He had run down from 175 pounds to 97, began on Kaskine in June, 1886, went to work in one month, regained his full weight in six months. Quinine did him no good whatever.

Mr. Gideon Thompson, the oldest and one of the most respected citizens of Bridgeport, Conn., says: "I am ninety years of age, and for the last three years have suffered from malaria and the effects of quinine poisoning. I recently began with Kaskine which broke up the malaria and increased my weight 22 pounds."

Mrs T. A. Solomons, of 159 Halliday St., Jersey City, writes: "My son Harry, eleven years, was cured of malaria by Kaskine, after fifteen months ill pess, when we had given up all hope."

Letters from the above persons, giving full details will be sent on application.

Kaskine can be taken without any special medical advice. $1.00 per bottle.

Sold by H. P. Reynolds, Plainfield, New Jersey, or sent by mail on receipt of price.

THE KASKINE CO., 34 Warren St., New York

New York and New Jersey

TELEPHONE COMPANY!

SPEAKING CONNECTION WITH OVER 12,000 SUBSCRIBERS—PROTECTION FROM FIRE AND BURGLARY—PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Central Office cor. Front-st. and Park ave.

Subscriber's Name	Address.
Anthony, Alice S.	Netherwood.
Arens, Otto	Park avenue.
Alert Hose Co., No 1	Madison ave.
Bowen, Henry E	Netherwood.
Babcock, Geo H	8th and Union sts.
Beale, F F	Front st.
Brown, John	South and Grant aves.
Brown, Mrs J. Munro	Netherwood.
Bogardus, E. H	Putnam ave.
Burnett, R. L	Hillside ave.
Barkalew & Dunn	18 North ave.
Bushnell, John	Central ave. and 9th st.
Clark, E B	West Front street.
C. L. S. C.	Park and North avenues.
Crescent Rink	Fourth and Peace sts.
Case, C W	Rockview ave.
Children's Home	Jackson ave.
City Hotel	Park ave and 2d st.
Closson, James T	Richmond and Front sts.
CONSTITUTIONALIST Office	3 North ave.
Cook, A D & Bro	Park ave and RR.
Cooley, Dr J H	Manning and Westervelt aves.
C

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST, - - City Editor.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE OF MAILS.

NEW YORK MAILS.
CLOSE—8.00 and 10.00 A. M.; 2.00 and 5.30 P. M.
ARRIVE—7.30, 9.30, 11.45 A. M.; 2.30 and 5.30 P. M.

SOMERVILLE, EASTON, &C., MAILS.
CLOSE—9.30 A. M. and 4.30 P. M.
ARRIVE—8.30 A. M. and 6.30 P. M.

SUNDAY MAILS—ARRIVE at 5.10 A. M. Office open from 9.00 A. M. to 10.00 A. M. Mail closes at 7 P. M.

Mail for Warrenville closes Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 12 M.

Post Office opens at 7 A. M. and closes at 7.30 P. M. Saturdays, closes at 8.00 P. M. Open every evening until 8.30 P. M., to owners of lock boxes.

Money order office open from 8 A. M., to 5 P. M. Saturdays to 4 P. M.

W. L. FORCE, Postmaster.

—The bicycle road race postponed from last Saturday will be ridden during Saturday next.

—Marshall & Ball, the Newark clothiers, will remain closed on Monday, July 5th.

—The monthly meeting of the W.C.T.U. will be held in Reform Hall next Tuesday, the 5th inst., at three p. m.

—The usual Friday evening meeting in Trinity Reformed church for the study of the Bible, have been discontinued for the present.

—Property-man Mattox of Music Hall, is making up, in large quantities, colored fire, to be used for Fourth of July illuminations.

—A false alarm of fire was started early on Saturday evening which created considerable excitement. But who started the alarm is not known.

—In the Crescent avenue church, Sunday morning, four joined by profession of faith, and six were admitted by letter to membership.

—The public schools have closed for the Summer and pedestrians can now walk on the sidewalks in the vicinity of the school houses at noon time.

—In accordance with custom and rule, the post office will be closed on the Fourth of July after 10 a. m. Mail matter received and delivered up to that time.

—Rand, of 22 West Front street, is offering a photographer's outfit especially fitted in price and simplicity for the use of the younger amateurs. A gift more instructive and pleasing cannot be found.

—Edsall's "special" sale will continue for the balance of the week, with numerous additional bargains each day. He announces also that his stock of fancy articles for Fourth of July fixings is very complete.

—The City Park is sorely in need of a few hemlock boards to be used for seating purposes. The park is a most delightful place to sit and enjoy the invigorating breezes, and a few dollars could be wisely expended in erecting some comfortable seats.

—Beginning on Sunday next and continuing throughout the Summer, the Sunday school session of the First Baptist church will be held in the morning at half-past nine o'clock. Church services in the morning will begin at a quarter before eleven o'clock.

—Following its own established custom, the Friends' First-Day School has taken a Summer recess of two months. It will reopen September 4th, the first Sunday in that month. At its closing session yesterday a very pleasant address to the children was made by Aaron M. Powell.

—An effort is being made by the dry goods and shoe clerks of the city to have the stores close at seven p. m. during the hot weather, but the scheme is likely to fall through, because some of the employers have adopted the motto of certain Councilmen—all or none—and it is thought that of all the stores, none of them will close at four.

—In order that the Reform Club meetings may be made more attractive in the future, the speaking committee has decided to secure in the future as many speakers from out of town as possible. The warm weather no doubt has a tendency to lessen the attendance, but with good speakers, it is thought that the interest will not flag during the Summer.

—Elizabeth is to have what this city wants—Summer evening band concerts. Drake's band of Elizabeth, commencing Friday next, will give free concerts every Tuesday and Friday evening during the Summer, in front of the Sheridan House. Plainfield has a band and a City Park. Why can't it have open air concerts by the former in the latter.

—Cappa's orchestra which was engaged to furnish the music for the High School Commencement and reception of Thursday evening, arrived in Plainfield just twenty-four hours late. A programme was sent the leader, and for the past many years he knows that Thursday is always the evening chosen—how to account for or excuse his stupidity is, therefore, obscure.

—Chief Dodd was called upon Friday afternoon to eject an unruly woman named Ann Riley from a house on Le Grande avenue, where she had been employed as a domestic. The woman was paid off and discharged, but she became saucy and refused to leave. When the Chief arrived at the place, however, the woman had departed, and the city treasury was mulcted of a small increase.

—In excavating for the addition to the M. E. church last week, a coffin and what appeared to be the bones of a child, was unearthed. When the church was rebuilt, forty years ago, the bodies in the grave-yard at the buildings' rear were removed to the corner of Seventh street and Union, and afterwards to the present cemetery of the M. E. church on Plainfield avenue. The remains found the other day, were probably overlooked at the time of the general removal in 1846.

—No. 2 engine company took their apparatus to the new fire well on South Second street last Friday to try the capacity of the well. When the engine started pumping there was about six feet of water in the well, but in a short time the depth was lessened to four feet. There was a considerable quantity of sand in the well, which is probably accounted for by the fact that the well is new. The engine was then taken to the well at Third and Liberty streets and the pumps thoroughly washed.

—Some miscreant, unknown to the police, entered an unoccupied house in the vicinity of the Park House a few days ago, and tore out a large quantity of lead pipe, some of which was taken away. The connection with the tank was torn away so as to allow the floors to become flooded with water, and as a result most of the flooring in the house will have to be relaid as the boards are so badly warped that it is impossible to straighten them. Such lawlessness is of the meanest nature, and the guilty person should be made to answer.

—A stage load of fishermen left this city at midnight on Saturday and spent Sunday fishing in the neighborhood of Perth Amboy. The party was accompanied by a colored caterer and were well supplied with eatables and a variety of thirst quenchers. Some of the party, it is said, became "sea-sick" and for a time were out of sight of land. Nobody, however, believes the report that the colored caterer said: "For de Lawd's sake, let me out dis heah boat, while I walk ashoh." The total catch was one weak fish—too weak to get away—and a heavy shower.

Only One More Train Wanted.

In this issue will be found the new Summer schedule of trains that went into effect Monday. The changes are few except in the way of connections, but two great conveniences are added. One is a through car for Long Branch, Ocean Grove, etc., from this city, attached to the 2.25 p. m., train. The other is a new express from New York to this city, stopping only at Elizabeth. It leaves at 4.30 and reaches Plainfield at 5.16. Those in whose hands is the ordering of all this have, since the road's release from the Reading management, shown an accommodating disposition in the matter of trains and connections gratifying to their patrons and eventually satisfying in increased receipts. Some day, therefore, the people is inclined to trust, the 11.30 p. m. train from New York will be continued from Roselle to this city. Now you cannot see the fireworks at Coney Island or attend a New York theatre, unless you come out on the midnight train arriving at Plainfield about 1.45.

Installation of Trinity's New Pastor.

The installation services of Rev. Cornelius Schenck, the new pastor of Trinity Reformed church took place last evening, beginning at 7.30 o'clock, sharp. The Classis of Newark at a special session recently, appointed the Rev. W. J. R. Taylor, D. D., to preach the sermon, and Rev. David Waters to charge the pastor. Rev. A. V. V. Raymond, the former pastor of the church, was appointed as the clergyman to charge the people, but as he is unable to be present, Rev. Henry Vehslage, of Irvington, was appointed in his stead. The music for the occasion was specially arranged, and included the following selections:

PROGRAMME OF MUSIC.

"Grand Offertoire de Concerte,"..Eugene Thayer Organ Solo—Arthur L. Titsworth.
"Be Thou Faithful unto Death,"..Mendelssohn.
Tenor solo—D. H. Jeffery.
"Send Out Thy Light,"..Calliaett.
Soprano solo—Mrs. D. H. Jeffery.
"My Faith Looks Up to Thee,"..Bassford.
Duett—Mr. and Mrs. Jeffery.
"On Thee Each Living Soul,"..Creation.
Trio—Mr. and Mrs. Jeffery, and Mr. T. B. Brown.
"Grand Offertoire de Noel,"..Eugene Thayer Organ Solo—Mr. Titsworth.

Guilbeeg—Frazee.

Miss Euphemia Stevens Frazee, daughter of Mrs. and A. M. Frazee of this city, was united in marriage to Charles E. Guilbeeg, of Jersey City, at the residence of the bride's parents, corner of Peace and Second streets, Wednesday, 22d. Rev. Wm. Day, of Elizabeth, was the officiating clergyman. Miss Mamie Runkle, of Flemington, daughter of editor Runkle of the Hunterdon County Democrat, was the bridesmaid, and Mr. T. Cohen, of Jersey City, performed the duties of groomsman. The bride's dress was of cream white albatross with full guipure lace overdress and satin trimmings. The groom wore the customary afternoon attire. Guests were present from Jersey City, New York, Trenton, Newark, Elizabeth, Somerville, Flemington, and other distant points. The presents were numerous, including a $700 upright piano from the groom's father, and a gold watch and diamond crescent pin from the groom. A reception was tendered the bride and groom, who left on the 11.16 p. m. train for a short trip in New York State, expecting to return in time to make their appearance in the M. E. church on Sunday morning. Previous to their departure the Plainfield Cornet Band gave them a serenade, rendering some excellent music. Dancing was indulged in by the guests until after the departure of the bride and groom.

Opening Sale at Hillside Cemetery.

Three o'clock of last Saturday afternoon was the time and date announced in THE PRESS for the beginning of the sale of plots at Hillside Cemetery. The day was a perfect one, and from under the apple tree on one of the highest points of the ground—where the map was spread for reference—a magnificent view laid before the eye. In one direction was the city of Plainfield, and the valley stretching westerly along the foot of the mountain for miles and miles. In another direction the gaze swept over hundreds of acres of varied colored grain, to the city of New Brunswick in the dim distance. The attendance was large, and scores of carriages lined the driveways just being laid out. The plots were marked off by strings along the turf to correspond with the lines on the map. According to location, the price per square foot ranged from twenty-five to fifty cents. Each subscriber upon the book chose in turn the plot in size and location that best suited his taste and pocket. Those who were not present as notified, lost their privilege of first choice, and the next following made his selection. Below we give as complete and correct a list as possible of the prices paid by those who made a final choice. Besides these, Mayor Male, Mr. A. D. Shepherd, Mrs. Jos. Stockbridge, and one or two others, selected plots the value of which was not obtainable. The total sales the first day were about $12,000:

Mason W. Tyler	$1300
Jno. B. Dumont,	950
W. E. Lowe,
Alex. Gilbert	650
"	312
"	152
John W. Murray	650
Wm. R. Clarkson	520
I. W. Bushmore	475
"	190
C. Potter, Jr.	468
Chas. Wadsworth	427
A. C. Baldwin	427
Chas. W. Hunter	416
Geo. W. Endicott,	380
Mrs. Chas. West,
Joseph W. Yates	325
Lemuel W. Serrell	325
W. H. Brower	312
Frank S. Wells	304
Martin I. Cooley	260
M. S. Taylor,	260
Isaac L. Miller	228
Wm. Taylor	190
Brokaw Bros	182
Nelson Runyon	166
Jno. E. Stewart	166
E. C. Woltmann	152
J. M. Bettman	152
Geo. M. Rittenhouse	152
D. F. Manning	145
Geo. H. Goddard	133
S. C. Baker	121
Kimball E. Styles	108
Jno. P. Emmons	106
Chas. W. Dodd	106
John Ulrich	106
Charles Matthews	76
B. M. Leland	61

P. H. S. GRADUATION EXERCISES.

Thursday's Commencement Portrayed—The Essays and Addresses—The Prize Awards and Diplomas—The Reception.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

President—J. Kirkner. Sec'y—Nathan Harper.
John W. Murray. Rev. J. L. Hurlbut.
Louis F. Wadsworth.

PRINCIPAL.

Miss Julia E. Bulkley.

TEACHERS.

Miss Petrie, Miss Niles, Miss Hornby, Miss Runyon, Miss Davis, Miss Pettis, Miss Annie Ticknor, Miss Stout, Miss Whitney, Miss Gilbert, Miss Day, Miss Bullock, Miss Force, Miss Brown, Miss Newman, Miss Waters, Miss Humpston, Miss Vedder, Miss Boorsam, Miss Wood, Miss Clark, Miss Norton, Miss Shreve, Miss Lewis, Miss Stowell, Miss Ketcham, Miss Burt, Miss C. Ticknor, Miss Palmerton, Miss Franklin, Miss Thompson, Prof. Hazell.

CLASS OF '87.

"Nothing Great is Lightly Won."

Clara M. Burt,	Helena E. Horan,
Eleanor Beal,	Walter J. Moore,
Lucius L. Gilbert,	Lucia N. Wood,
Augusta Holmes,	Abbie M. Wilson,
Frank J. Hubbard,	Mary Titsworth.

ORDER OF EXERCISES.

Xenophon,	LUCIUS L. GILBERT.
Moving Onward,	HELENA E. HORAN.
The Carnival of the Flowers,	AUGUSTA HOLMES.
Our Unknown Benefactors,	WALTER J. MOORE.
Vergilian Figures,	ABBIE M. WILSON.
Three Pictures,	LUCIA N. WOOD.
Our Foremothers,	MARY TITSWORTH.
Bas-Reliefs,	FRANK J. HUBBARD.
Symbols,	ELEANOR G. BEAL.
Valedictory,	CLARA M. BURT.
Address,	REV. W. R. RICHARDS.

PRESENTATION OF REWARDS.

Offered by

For Penmanship,	MR. J. KIRKNER.
For Mathematics,	MRS. C. H. STILLMAN.
For English Composition,	MR. J. KIRKNER.
For U. S. History,	MR. J. W. MURRAY.
For Spelling,	MR. J. W. MURRAY.
For Language (Latin),	MR. E. R. ACKERMAN.

PRESENTATION OF DIPLOMAS.

PRESENTATION OF DIPLOMAS TO TRAINING CLASS.

The cloudy skies of last Thursday hung low, and the setting sun and stars rudely refused to shine down upon the occasion of the Commencement exercises of the Senior Class of the High School, at Music Hall. But despite this, long before the time of beginning, loaded carriages and stages splashing through the muddy streets deposited the richly dressed at the entrance, and pedestrians costumed more plainly, plodding through the drizzling rain, arrived in crowds. The evening was cooler and the attendance less "unlimited" than upon former occasions, so for once, in the history of Plainfield's commencements, the gathering was comfortable. Though out of doors so gloomy, inside all was brightness and beauty. The saccharine girl graduates were attired in the regulation white, and cream, and lace—and were the cynosure of all eyes save the man's whose wife accompanied him. The young gentlemen who were to be graduated looked likewise wiselike, and dignified. The stage was handsomely set and decorated. Its occupants were so arranged they might see and be seen. The graduating class, with Prof. Miller their teacher, occupied the right; to the left were seated the Rev. Mr. Richards, Messrs Kirkner, Harper and Wadsworth of the Board of Education, Miss Bulkley, and the graduates of the training class. The programme was begun late because of an expectant waiting for the music that came not at all. It was, however, carried out to the end smoothly and creditably. It was as follows:

Each graduate was greeted with applause, and followed with loud expressions of deserved approval. Flowers in profusion were offered all and piled up at the feet of the graduates until the entire front of the stage was a bank of roses.

LUCIUS L. GILBERT.

To this young gentleman fell the honor of opening the programme, but also the unenvied necessity of being the first to face the "sea of upturned faces." He, however, was brave and able. His essay was sufficiently interesting to retain the attention of his hearers, and showed a student's careful research into the life of the hero he told of. The speaker's voice was full and clear.

HELENA A. HORAN.

This lady's essay was strong in its teachings, but sad in its sentiments. She told how soon the school hours fled away, and the World must be entered. How time unchecked swept men into oblivion, and the names of the great that are dead are only heard at intervals. Other faces brighten the places on Earth we once occupied, and other feet tread the pathways. But, she counselled, in our transition from the school to the busy world, we must remember the one who watches, guides and defends us.

AUGUSTA HOLMES.

In "The carnival of the flowers" was presented an imaginative picture, painted with soft sentiments and poetical words, that would have done credit to many a more widely known romancer. A ball in honor of Rosebud, the Queen of the Flowers, was beautifully told, and the scene in nature's ball-room described—canopied with green bows, lighted by fire-fly and glow-worm, with orchestra of birds and winged insects, and dancers clothed in robes of royal colors and cobweb lace.

WALTER J. MOORE.

This gentleman's essay was one of those of most general interest. He called the attention of many to a matter too seldom considered and appreciated. How the great discoveries and inventions that have tended most to bring about the civilization of the World, have been by those unknown. We live in the enjoyment of the fruits of their minds and genius, and know not to whom our thanks are due. In this connection were mentioned the alphabet, the steam engine, glass making, gunpowder and the mariner's compass.

ABBIE M. WILSON.

With a decided enunciation, easily heard, and every syllable fully spoken, this lady quoted illustrations of her subject—to show how ordinary facts and scenes were clothed in grace and beauty in the rhetorical works of dead poets. She gave selections that included the most magnificent word pictures describing nature, or sentiment, and forcible figures of battle scenes, and expressions of anguish or hope, and of midnight.

LUCIA N. WOOD.

A low-roofed farm house—a modern cottage dwelling—an imposing city mansion. Three pictures of the same location during the transition of years. This formed the scene of a pathetic history of a spinning wheel, told with much talent. The wheel had stood in a place of honor in the farm house because of its usefulness; in the city mansion it stood in a place of honor—gilded and be-ribboned—because of its antiquity and ornamentation.

MARY TITSWORTH.

"The history of our country, as generally told, is the tale of brave men," she began. Men who fought for and gained its freedom. But, she commendably showed, the power in the home, though not in the government, is silent though not the less effective. She told of the Puritan mothers' influence on the destiny of this nation, and how the fire of patriotism first blazed forth in the homes of the heroes of 1776 as a result of parents' teachings. Woman's courage and help in time of danger; her ministering to body and soul, in the battle field and hospital; and how her pen first spoke out against the wickedness of slavery and the wrongs done the Indian—were all well told.

FRANK J. HUBBARD.

The history of this universe of America was portrayed by perfect pictures in bas-relief that this gentleman presented so graphically. Events in this country's history, were grandly described, from its creation and discovery until the day when is proclaimed truth and liberty to all men.

ELEANOR G. BEAL.

Through symbols, she truly showed, man lives, moves, and has his being. The world is full of such but we fail to recognize them and their meaning. The young essayist's way of showing us many, was clear and instructive. Even in the Bible and in secular literature she proved how many more were to be found. "Tongues in trees, books in the running brooks and sermons in stones."

CLARA M. BURT.

The valedictorian's address we give in full as follows. It was given with more expression than many of those before her, and, on the whole, she proved to be the best fitted for the honor-place her scholarship had gained.

VALEDICTORY.

The year now closing in the Plainfield Public Schools was begun on the sixth of September, 1886. The previous June, patriotism and philosophy were represented in the names of our primary buildings, the "Washington" and "Franklin" schools, but when they reopened the poetical had been added,—the "Bryant" building had received its name. Although there was a much larger attendance upon the schools than ever before, still the number of our class, the class of '87, had somewhat diminished. Some of our classmates had left us. A few of these believed that the studies of the Senior year were not sufficiently important to recompense them for the time thus spent. This question may be settled by the year's experience. It did not take long for us to go back to the old habits of study, and soon real work began. Our class was at once introduced to that grim giant, Geometry. From the descriptions of others we had expected to dread him greatly, but upon close acquaintance he seemed so attractive, though severe against any abuse of his laws, that some of our number became his warm friends while others who often broke his rules, considered him a perfect tyrant. We found that Geometry was a remarkably original character—he was constantly presenting some new proposition for our consideration. The Cæsar class was learning that "All Gaul is divided into three parts;" Those beginning Virgil were absorbed in reading about the shipwreck of Æneas and his followers; and the advanced Virgil class took up the history of the Trojan heroes where they had left it before vacation, and accompanied them in their search for a home. The chemistry class was delighting in experiments that brought terror to the hearts of the spectators who were uncertain what moment an explosion might take place. In literature we began with the very earliest English writers. Going back to those of Anglo-Saxon times, and passing on to Chaucer, we traveled with him for several days on the way from the Tabard Inn to Canterbury, listening with great interest to the tales told by our fellow travelers. After studying some authors of minor importance we learned how "tender Spencer lived—depressed with penury and pined in foreign realm, yet not debased his verse." With Bacon we meditated on philosophy, being almost bewildered sometimes, in the maze of his deep thoughts. Then we spent some delightful hours with Sidney, "warbler of poetic prose." In November the class came to Shakespere, "sweetest Shakespere, fancy's child." Through him we made the acquaintance of many characters, some of whom we learned to cherish as dear friends. Who could help admiring the noble, womanly Portia, despising the avaricious Shylock, respecting the strong character of Brutus, and sympathising with Anthony as he eloquently defends his friends? In following the imagination of Shakespere we even visited the realm of the fairies, and were introduced to Oberon and Titania the king and queen of the "fees folk," to the mischievous Puck and the swift winged Ariel, besides a thousand other nymphs and sprites. The more we studied Shakespere's creations, the more we enjoyed them—their beauty power, variety, and faithfulness to nature were inexhaustible. During the month of December a great interest in natural history was awakened in the school. A chapter of the Aggassiz Association was formed, the members of which were both teachers and scholars. There were several divisions of this chapter started, each one taking up some particular branch of natural history. Visitors to our building will notice the cabinets which have been placed there to receive the various articles presented to the school by members of this association, or by other kind friends. Specimens of all descriptions have been gathered, and if our collection continues to increase as rapidly as it has in the past, the minerals, birds, and reptiles of this locality will soon be well represented in the halls of the High school. At Christmas time the usual week's vacation occurred, and after the holidays we all returned to our studies with fresh zeal and interest. Early in January the advanced class in Virgil finished the six books required in the course, and then turning their attention to Cicero, they were soon entangled in the treacherous and defiant Catiline. The Geometry and other Latin classes were advancing duly. The chemistry students finished that branch in February, taking up astronomy in its place. After following Xenophon as he led the retreating forces back to Greece, the class in Greek began to read of "the wrath of Peleus' son Achilles." In literature we listened with intense delight as Milton sang "Of Man's first disobedience and the fruit of that forbidden tree whose mortal taste brought death into the World, and all our woe." After reading Milton's matchless work, we spent many pleasant hours with Dryden, who made us familiar with the great events of that "wonderful year." Then we laughed with Butler at Sir Hudibras, that remarkable personage whose perceptions were so keen that "He could distinguish and divide a hair twixt south and south-west side." The class came to the geometrical theorems in March, over which a number were unable to walk unassisted, but others had to depend upon the help of our guide. Soon after the Spring vacation two of our valued fellow students left the class, greatly to the regret of all, and our number was thus diminished to ten. Through April and May we were with earnestness, gradually approaching the end of our study. In June the mysterious and complicated relation between the square and the circle was completed. Astronomy too was brought to a close. We spent some time in wandering with Goldsmith through the quiet fields and lanes of the "Deserted Village." While the senior class crossed the famous bridge, the students of Cicero fluently defended Archias, and the class in Virgil made a visit to Hades. Looking back over the work we have accomplished during this school year, we can assuredly say that the Senior work amply repays the time expended on it, that it rounds and completes our High School course by its logic, by its introduction to the great minds of the past of literature, by the familiar acquaintance with the master minds of antiquity gained by translating their works, by its general information and broadening of thought. Our school has heard this year some very favorable reports of its former students. One of these has just been graduated from a military academy with remarkably high honors; another has received an honorary title from a large college; while still another bore off the laurels of his class at a college commencement. Truly our alma mater has good reason to be proud of her children. Now the twenty-third of June has come, the time when we must break the ties which have bound us together as classmates. In parting we wish to thank the Board of Education, Principal and teachers, for the great kindness shown us, and the interest they have taken in our welfare. There is another than the sad side of parting—It is that we consider our school days as the preparation for fighting the battles of life. Let us then, my classmates, rejoice in the opportunities we have had for culture, knowing that although "Nothing Great is Lightly Won," still by earnest effort, and patient perseverance, we may achieve success. To gain we must.

"Do noble deeds, not dream them all day long;
And so make life, death and that vast forever,
One grand, sweet song."

CLARA M. BURT.

The close of the valedictory was followed by the address of the evening, Mr. Thomas F. Harrison, First Assistant Superintendent of the Public Schools of New York City, was not present because of a continued illness of a bronchial nature that he was even suffering when he accepted the invitation. But the Rev. W. R. Richards of the Crescent Avenue church spoke as below:

REV. W. R. RICHARD'S ADDRESS.

"LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—I must confess some little embarrassment as I come here this evening, for I was quite unable to learn just at what or at whom I was expected to address my remarks. I made some inquiry of the member of the Board who asked me to speak, but the only part of his answer which I clearly understood was, that whatever I might choose to say, I should be brief. I take great pleasure in saying a few words here, as this subject of education in our public schools is one in which I am deeply interested and which fills my mind with satisfaction and some pride. Certainly we can boast of our ancestors, who could go without many comforts, if need be; who could go without a new hat or new clothes, if need be: who could go without new shoes, or a new coat, or anything else, if need be, but who could not go without a school, and who could not go without a college, for their children. But I can say with confidence that one would have to search far, even in the New England states, to find a city so well furnished and equipped in her schools—in regard to the ability of its teachers, and the zeal of its scholars—as in this city of Plainfield. I take pleasure for another reason in standing here—because it shows something in relation to the idea with which your Board of Education has been conducting our public schools. I am well aware that I have been asked to speak, not in the hope of my having anything very interesting to say—except that I should be brief—but out of respect to the office I hold. I am pleased to note the fact that a representative of the gospel of Christ is not an intruder upon the platform of a public school. It is no disloyalty to our public school system to admit such. In this land we have separated the functions of the Church and of the State. We will not permit any special type of religious doctrine to be taught by the State; and so we can not permit any type of religious doctrine to be enforced upon the pupils by the authorized schools of the State. I protest against this! I think you will all agree with me in saying that a teacher may so train up a scholar in an atmosphere of recognition of God as the Creator of this World; of recognition of his authority over his creatures; of recognition as the basis of government among men, and of recognition of accountability to him as the basis of all true morals among men. I feel grateful to the Roman Catholics for the interest they have shown in this problem, though I might not agree with them in their solution of it. I believe that with the rapidly increasing foreign population coming to our shores—and the rapid increase especially in the dangerous classes in them—the problem will become still more disturbing. The real question now is, 'what sort of teachers do you appoint in your schools?' It was Mr. Garfield, I think, gave as his idea of a college, a half-dozen wooden benches and Dr. Mark Hopkins sitting on one of them.' The question is not so much what sort of curriculum we may have, but it is what kind of personal influence is exerted by the teacher over the mind and soul of the pupil. I have not quite gotten over my embarrassment, and do not know whether to address my remarks to the audience or the graduating class. I am quite sure, however, all have appreciated the excellence of the programme during the earlier part of the evening. [Turning to the class] I am very agreeably surprised and very much pleased with the progress you show and the deep interest you manifest. I am quite sure that in the future as in the past, success will be yours as has been the case with the graduates of the past; and I am sure you are to be thankful for the instruction which you have received and which has so well fitted you for the life which is before you. [Applause]."

At the close of these remarks, intently listened to, and loudly applauded, Secretary Nathan Harper of the Board of Education distributed the rewards of the year as follows—the donors' names being given in the programme above:

PLAINFIELD, June 22d, 1887.

To the Honorable the Board of Education of the City of Plainfield:

GENTLEMEN:—The Committee appointed to award the prizes for excellence in penmanship respectfully report that they have examined and carefully considered the papers submitted to them and have arrived at the conclusion that the prize for the best specimen of penmanship should be awarded to ALICE M. QUINN, and the prize for greatest improvement during the year to EDWARD MCCARTHY. In reaching this conclusion we have been governed by our understanding of the system adopted in the Plainfield public schools. Several very excellent examples of other styles of penmanship have been offered and under other conditions might have received favorable consideration. We have been not a little gratified to observe the general excellence of the specimens. In almost every instance an unusual advance and proficiency is exhibited, and we have experienced difficulty in reaching the conclusion at which we have arrived. We beg to congratulate your honorable body and the people of Plainfield upon the very gratifying results of the labors of the teachers of our public schools in the branch which we have had the pleasure of investigating.

Very truly, etc.,
Your obedient servants,
ROWLAND COX,
ROBT. L. LIVINGSTON, } Com.
JOHN M. WHITON,

For Penmanship—1st, to ALICE M. QUINN, Bryant's Library of Poetry and Song: 2d, to Edward MCCARTHY, Fountain Gold Pen.

For Mathematics—1st, to ABBIE M. WILSON, $15 Gold; 2d, to LUCIA N. WOOD, $10 Gold.

For English Composition—To EDWARD T. PERINE, Handy Vol. Shakespere; Honorable Mention, ELEANOR E. DAVIE.

CONDITIONS OF COMPOSITION AWARD.

They are the final compositions of the High School for the year. The Senior class may, but are not required, to write. Only the three lower classes of the High School are represented this year, and the compositions were written under the following conditions:—Books of reference may be consulted for facts. Full credit must be given for any quotation. No assistance in material or correction is expected, as the composition is to be the pupil's unaided work.

For U. S. History—To EDWARD L. DABOLL, Personal Memoirs of U. S. Grant; Honorable Mention, EDITH L. GILBERT, RENVILLE LEAKE, DAVID BUSHMORE.

For Spelling—To IDA TENEYCK, Webster's Unabr'd Dictionary; Honorable Mention, EDITH L. GILBERT, MINNIE L. FORCE, HELEN T. FRENCH, WM. FORCE.

For Latin—1st, to AUGUSTA HOLMES, Latin Classics, fourteen volumes; 2d, to MARION F. RANDOLPH, Gibbons' Rome, six vols.

The graduates as given above, then arose and stood before President Kirkner. Each was presented with the coveted and long worked-for diploma. Miss Lena Bass and Miss Madge Sutphen, graduates of the training class, were likewise honored. Mr. Kirkner said:

TO THE TRAINING CLASS.

"YOUNG LADIES:—The Board of Education congratulate you upon the course of study which you have completed in this training class, and they are so well satisfied with your success that they have appointed you to fill positions in the ensuing year [applause] and they hope you will continue to improve and show as much zeal in teaching the classes which may be placed under your charge as you have shown in the preparation of your own studies during the past two years. I now take great pleasure in presenting you with your diplomas."

This closed the exercises of '87. The class was turned loose upon the world, the gas and the audience were turned out, and the latter floated home through the rain or waded around to Assembly Hall where was held the Class Reception. The absence of the orchestra entirely spoiled any attempt to have a promenade concert. But a number of kind amateurs occasionally favored the attendance with piano music, and later in the evening—if we dare tell it—some of the young folks danced. There was nothing else to enjoy—excepting lemonade—so no one can be blamed. The Hall was never more handsomely decorated. It was adorned with banks of ferns and cat-tails, an arch of oak-leaves, and wreaths and twinings of honey-suckle.

Personalia.

Mrs. S. Cahoone is spending the Summer months at Asbury Park.

Miss L. E. Hammond has gone to Freeport, N. Y., for the Summer.

Rev. J. P. Taylor is stopping at the Grammercy House, Asbury Park.

Mrs. James M. Taylor and family are located at Seabright, for the Summer months.

The Misses De Kline, of West Fifth street, are summering at Experiment Mills, Pa.

Mr. F. H. Miller and wife of Tenth street have gone on a few day's visit to Wilkesbarre, Pa.

Councilman T. J. Carey is now domiciled on Central avenue, having leased Mr. Ed. Ryder's dwelling.

The Consul of Italy is a Summer guest at The Netherwood. We have not the kind of type on hand with which to spell his name.

Miss Louise Green, Miss Lena Bass and Miss Nellie Sherwin of this city, are all home for their Summer vacation from Wellesley College.

The Rev. A. V. V. Raymond has been honored by his old College—Union, of Schenectady, N. Y.—with the degree of Doctor of Divinity.

Mrs. Samuel Montague and Miss Montague, of Holyoke, Mass., are spending the coming weeks with the Misses Van Zandt, of Crescent avenue.

Mrs. Green, the relict of the inventor of the driven well system, should be worth her millions, but keeps a boarding house in Thirty-ninth steeet, New York.

A delightful feature of the closing hours of the Somerville Public Schools was the presentation to Miss Claypoole, teacher, who has accepted a position in the North Plainfield School, of a full set of Irving's, Works, Stuyvesant Edition, by her pupils.

Everybody that enjoyes a personal friendship or even only a business acquaintance with Mr. Charles Schermerhorn, will be glad with us that he has sufficiently recovered from his recent illness to be out again to grow strong in the June sunshine.

Mr. Eli Sherman, a newspaper writer of ability formerly with the New Brunswick Fredonian, and recently connected with some paper in this city, has been compelled by ill health to give up all active professional work. He expects to leave Plainfield soon and seek renewed vigor in more congenial latitudes.

A select few of the friends of ex-Councilman and Mrs. Chas. D. Wadsworth were agreeably entertained at their residence on Central avenue last Friday. Miss Ada Marsh, who has but recently completed her musical education at Stuttgart, Germany, was present and rendered some choice musical selections.

Miss Ann Eliza Stout, aged about 74 years, died at the residence of Mr. Joseph Randolph on Elm street, with whom she was stopping, Sunday morning. Deceased had been ailing all Winter from a complication of diseases. The funeral will take place from the house to-morrow afternoon. Interment in Hillside Cemetery.

A young daughter of Mr. R. J. Perkins of Grandview avenue, North Plainfield, was overcome by the heat at the graduating exercises in Warren Mission chapel on Thursday evening. The little one fainted when she emerged from the building, and was carried into Charles Bryan's house on the opposite side of the street, where she soon recovered sufficiently to be taken home.

Mr. J. W. DeGraff of this city, last week secured a patent on a packing and show box.

Mr. J. H. Drake's large New Foundland Dog "Bruno" was clipped a few days ago, so as to make him resemble a lion.

Miss Lizzie May Bachman, daughter of of Mr. B. H. Bachman of Park avenue, is spending a few weeks at Atlantic City.

Dr. J. H. Platt, performed a delicate operation a few days ago, by removing a fragment of steel from the pupil of a man's eye.

Gen'l Eli Long and family have left their North Plainfield residence, as usual each Summer, for their vineyard home on the shores of Lake Cayuga.

Miss Kathie Yates, daughter of Joseph W. Yates of East Seventh street, has returned home for her Summer vacation from school at Lynn, Mass.

Hon. J. H. Taylor, Ex-Mayor of Jersey City, and wife have returned to Plainfield, and are at present the guests of Senator and Mrs. Robert L. Livingston, of Broadway.

Because of a prior engagement, Mr. Alex. Gilbert could not act as one of the judges of High School penmanship again this year. Mr. John Whiton acted in his place.

Rev. J. W. Mitchell, pastor of the Mt. Olive Baptist church has returned after a six months absence in the South, and officiated in his church as usual Sunday morning and evening.

Edwin B. Lewis, a son of Dr. A. H. Lewis, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church of this city, graduated with high honors from Alfred University, at Alfred Centre, N. Y., on Thursday. Rev. Dr. Lewis will be in attendance at the graduating exercises.

Mr. Howard A. Pope, of West Fifth street, received a letter, Friday, from Rev. Dr. K. P. Ketcham, who, with his daughter, is traveling in Europe. The Rev. gentleman is at present enjoying the beautiful scenery in Switzerland, and both himself and daughter are in the best of health. Dr. Ketcham will spend Sunday at Mt. Blanc, and will sail from Liverpool for home per steamer "City of Rome" of the Cunard Line, on Wednesday, July 6th.

Genevieve, the eight-and-a-half-year-old daughter of Edward C. and Mary Morse, died at the residence of her parents on Race street, North Plainfield, Monday afternoon, from rheumatism around the heart. The little one was dearly beloved by all who knew her and her death will be especially severe to her parents who have the sympathy of a large circle of friends and acquaintances. The funeral took place from the house Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Dr. Yerkes officiating.

Rev. Dr. J. H. Vincent and family arrived in this city on the 11.44 a. m. train Monday on their return from their European tour. The vessel on which they came arrived at the Bar at three o'clock Sunday afternoon, and anchored at the Cunard dock in New York at 5.30 p. m. The Doctor reports having had a pleasant voyage, and also passing the steamer "City of Rome," on which Mr. C. Potter and party, of this city, and the Misses McGee, of North Plainfield, are now en route for Europe.

Plainfield to New York for 36 Cents.

It was only last Saturday we were called upon to speak of the renewed era of liberality that had dawned for the patrons of the Central Railroad since the company had reassumed the possession of its own property and the direction of its own affairs. Now, we are officially informed that most considerable reduction in the passenger rates are to be made, to-morrow all along the line. At Elizabeth and Newark in particular, where other roads enter into competition and the rates to and from New York are being universally cut, policy might be the reason for any reduction; but that it would be unjust to assert that the Central Company is only prudent, rather than generous in this matter, is shown by the table of reduced rates given below from points where competition has nothing to do with the case. The Central of New Jersey was in fact the first of New York's suburban roads to adopt a policy of liberality towards its traveling patrons, and therefore it may not seem surprising that so radical and expensive a piece of generosity should follow the resumption of control of its own business methods. The past exodus of New York business men to the upper parts of the city, has almost ceased—the streets of Harlem, even, are becoming over-crowded, and the elevated roads, having reached the limit possible, can only accommodate their passengers in very uncomfortable ways. Right now, then, is the time most opportune for the adoption of ways and means to make New Jersey towns especially attractive to those who must seek for homes far away from Murray Hill. The reduction of fares was the only incentive needed on the Central. The happiness and healthfulness and economy

THE SCOUT'S MISTAKE.

I.

How get them the tidings? How send them the word?
It sets all the blood in my pulses a-shiver!
The enemy near, and they can not have heard,
For no one has crossed since the rise in the river.

"The woods are between us; there's storm in the sky;
No rider liner venture the ford till the morning.
If only they knew of the danger! Yet I
Am helpless to give them a token of warning.

"Ah! were I but young again," sadly he said,
"My youth in its heyday, the mettle all in it,
No weakness to chain me, no snow on my head,
The filly and I would be off in a minute!"

A stripling beside him listened with a flash.
"Why, father, what matters the forest? I'll skim it.
What matters how furiously the tempest may dash?
Who cares for the river? The filly can swim it.

"Just think of the peril! My brothers are there.
By daylight, at farthest, some signal shall show it.
They must not like panthers, be trapped in their lair;
And as sure as I'm living, their Colonel shall know it."

II.

The morning broke gray. At the top of the scrim
The corps from their tents softly scratched slumbers away.
"From over the river some tidings have come—
A spy from some enemy hour has been taken.

"They say he was seen in the dusk of the dawn,
Just mounting the bank, at the edge of a thicket,
Through which he came galloping recklessly on,
Not heeding or hearing the 'halt' of the picket."

"To the front with him!" ordered the Colonel. Just then Rode hurriedly forward a scout, with a letter.
"We made a mistake, sir—I—I and the men—
No room nor no reason to know any better."

"Aha!" and the officer eagerly read.
"The gallant young fellow! How well that you brought him!
So quick with his warning!" The scout dropped his head—
"A spy, sir—I thought him a spy—and—I shot him."

Margaret J. Preston, in Harper's Weekly.

HOW JOHN CLEANED HOUSE.

A Little Story Which Will Afford Genuine Amusement to Lady Readers.

"It is all nonsense!" exclaimed John Dale, emphatically, "this turning the house upside down as you women do every spring and fall."

"But, my dear, the house must be cleaned," said pretty Mrs. Dale, helping herself to a muffin.

"That is what you always say, Dollie; but I never see any dirt."

"Why, John Dale, what can you be thinking of?" exclaimed his wife, with emphasis. "This house is in a frightful condition, and ever nook and corner of it must be thoroughly cleaned. I shall begin the process to-morrow."

John gave one despairing glance in the direction of his study, and then said bravely:

"Well, Dollie, if it is really any satisfaction to you, why, of course, I am quite willing; but don't you think you could hurry up matters a little—cash things through, I mean. Why I could have the entire house cleaned in a day, and not half try."

A mischievous glance sparkled for an instant in Mrs. Dale's dark eyes, but she answered, gravely:

"Could you? Oh, I do wish that you would attend to it, for it will take me three weeks at the least. But of course you can not spare the time from your business."

Whether from a wish to demonstrate his domestic ability, or to avoid the threatened three weeks' shower of soapsuds, I can not say; but Mr. Dale instantly responded:

"Not get away from business! I am not quite sure about that. I think I might be spared very well for a few days now—dull season you know—and if you desire to make your sister a little visit who, I will guarantee to have the house cleaned and put in perfect order for you. It will be the best managed affair of the kind you ever heard of," he continued; "more economical than your way of doing, too, and what I save you shall have for a new bonnet."

So saying, Mr. Dale arose from the breakfast-table, looking very well satisfied with the proposed arrangement, and as he kissed his wife good-bye for the day said:

"Well, Queenie, it is a bargain is it?"

When he had departed Mrs. Dale's manner changed complete y, and seating herself in a low rocker, peal after peal of merry laughter echoed through the house, as the little lady said, half aloud:

"The dear old goose, what a reign of chaos I shall find on my return! But I would be willing to lose considerable for the satisfaction of demonstrating to John the reality of a housekeeper's trials."

Two days later Mrs. Dale bade her husband an affectionate farewell, with a very demure countenance, and he did not notice the mischief in her eyes, so intent was he upon his new occupation.

"Stay until I come for you, Dollie," he said, "and you may expect to see me to-morrow or the day after. It won't take me long to do the work I have on hand, and I promise that you shall find the best cleaned house that was ever your good fortune to see."

"Had I not better stay and help you?" asked his wife, demurely.

"No, no, Queenie, I would not have you for the world! Good-by, dear. Take good care of yourself." And he was gone.

This was early on Monday morning, and late Saturday evening, John Dale appeared at the house of his sister-in-law with face and manner far more expressive than words. He looked thin and careworn, and had the appearance of one who had just passed through a great financial crisis, as he said quietly in answer to his wife's greeting:

"The house is ready, Dollie. Will you come to-night?"

She was glad to accompany him, for the week of separation had seemed long to her, and only her promise to remain until called for had prevented her from returning some days before.

"I did not get quite through," her husband said, somewhat apologetically, as they entered their own home, "but I thought perhaps you would just as soon come now, and I wanted to see you awfully!" he added, in a tone full of meaning.

They passed into the pretty hallway, whose carpet stood in a huge roll behind the door.

"I sent three times for a man to put it down," John exclaimed, "and he promised faithfully that he would be here today; but, as you see, the carpet is still up."

The parlor was comparatively in order, that is, with the exception of the pictures and bric-a-brac, which occupied a large space in the center of the room.

"But where are the wax flowers, John?" said Dollie, noting the absence of a little table which always stood between the windows.

"Smashed," he answered, hurriedly, "but I will get you some more. I'm awfully sorry, and don't you see how it happened. I went to turn round, and over went the stand, glass shade, flowers and all, shivered to atoms. I noticed that the table seemed shaky, too, after the accident, so I just tossed the whole affair out into the wood-shed."

"Oh, I am so sorry, John! But how did you get the cleaning done?"

"Oh, I sent for three or four women who attend to that sort of thing; but none of them came. Then I paid Mrs. Lanigan two dollars a day, but she could not stay to finish the work, and I failed to find any one else, so I did it myself."

"You!" and here Mrs. Dale could no longer control her emotions, and laughed heartily. "You clean," she exclaimed, "and how did you do it?"

"Oh, just the way everybody else does!" he answered. "I put on the hose and cleaned it out is less than no time. The only trouble was that I tried to clean the walls at the same time; but I puttied, somehow. But I knew Dobbs, the painter, would fix it all right, so I sent for him, and he put a new coat of paint on the two rooms for only ten dollars. So you see, after all, it was a great improvement."

"Certainly," said Mrs. Dale, faintly, wondering where the new bonnet would come from. "But, John," she continued, "where is the gilt frame which hung over the mantel?"

"That! Oh, that is down at Tracey's being regilded."

"What for?" asked the wife. "It was in very good condition when I left, and the best frame in the house—solid gilt."

"Yes, when you left," repeated her husband. "But you see, Queenie, I thought it ought to be cleaned li ce every thing else, so while waiting for the plumber I thought I would wash it off; that, being a handsome frame, it would be better to attend to it myself, so I got some soap and—"

"John Dale, how could you do such a thing?" and here the little lady almost sobbed her dismay as she pictured the ruined frame.

"Oh, you need not feel badly about it," he answered, soothingly: "it is all right now, and will look better than ever."

And, man-like, not wishing to dwell upon an unpleasant subject, he quickly called his wife's attention to a little stand of plants which he had purchased for their garden. "Only six dollars for the whole thing!" he exclaimed, triumphantly. At which Dollie, with an effort to smile at his intended kindness, groaned inwardly as she viewed the two scraggy rose bushes for which one dollar would have been an exorbitant price.

Further investigation revealed to Mrs. Dale numerous other commissions and omissions, such as broken crockery and glassware, a torn lace curtain, and last, but not least, she discovered in one of the laundry tubs her wool blankets, where they had reposed for two days in cold water.

"Quite ruined!" she exclaimed in a tone of utter despair, as John explained that he knew she always had the blankets cleaned with the other things, and as the washerwoman did not come, he washed them. "I just threw them into the tub of water, you know, and shook them up and down, and I meant to hang them out on the line to dry," he continued, "but I forgot all about it."

By this time the promised new bonnet had vanished into the dim and uncertain future; but Dollie, seeing her husband's careworn face, checked her own disappointment, seeking to repair the mischief done, and not finding it in her heart to add reproaches to the misery already endured by "the best husband in the world," especially after she heard him exclaim on the night of her return:

"Oh, I am so tired! and I don't wonder that Dollie dreads the house-cleaning, for it is worse than the office and Stock Exchange combined."—The Housekeeper.

A WESTERN EPISODE.

How a Plucky Damsel Vanquished a Burly German Claim-Jumper.

Six months ago, says the Atwood (Col.) Advocate, Miss Minnie Palmer, a bright young lady of twenty-three happy years, from Manhattan, Kan., filed a pre-emption claim on 160 acres of fine Government land near the Burlington & Missouri, in the eastern part of this State. The claimant erected a comfortable one-story frame house, dug a well, had ten acres fenced, and three months ago went to Denver, and took service in a hotel to replenish her depleted pocket-book and buy seed for spring crops, etc. During her absence a new railroad was surveyed through the land and it promised to become a valuable property.

Recently Miss Minnie returned to her claim to find the house occupied by a big, strapping Nebraskan, who informed her that he had homesteaded the land six weeks before and "dot by shimminie he would dot land hoit until de goat offer his back cum!" Expostulations and arguments were of no avail, and at this juncture that she wished to get something out of her trunk, the young lady gained admission to the house, hurriedly closing the door in the Teuton's face, who was about to enter with a bucket of water in his hand. How that fellow raved and swore I would take profane history to relate.

The door was most too strong to force, so the window was next tried, raised, and the claim-jumper had one leg over the window sill when a bullet from a little 32-caliber pill thrower entered his left shoulder, and, before he could turn his head to expectorate another found lodgment in his hip, and as he dropped to the ground a third parted his hair in the middle, making as ugly a flesh wound. The injured claim jumper begged the girl to "no more shoot," and that he would "gif up every ting," if he was only permitted to live.

The heroic Miss Minnie dressed her fallen foe's wounds as best she could none of which will prove serious—and that evening the discomfited enemy was removed to a friend's house, three miles away, where proper attention could be given, and which he vows he will leave only to go back to Germany.

EARLY MORMONISM.

Restoration of Joe Smith's Old Temple at Kirtland, Ohio.

A remarkable revival of early-day Mormonism has been begun in Ohio and adjacent States with a view of renewing faith in the doctrines of Joseph Smith, writes a New York Tribune correspondent from Kirtland. Within the last year extensive contributions have been made in half a dozen States for the purpose of rebuilding the old Mormon temple in this village, and to make this place again the Mecca of the Latter Day Saints. There is now in Kirtland a community of about forty Mormons, who are living in peace and quiet, in strict conformity to the laws of the State. For these Ohio Mormons do not believe in polygamy, and condemn the Salt Lake Saints with as much indignation as any Methodist. They propose to renew the religion taught to their fathers by Joseph Smith, who, fifty years ago, "stuck the stake of Zion" on Kirtland Hill, and proclaimed himself as the prophet of a new religion, which would in a hundred years establish itself as the prevailing faith of millions. In 1836 Kirtland promised to be the capital of a remarkably prosperous community. A temple was built of such a peculiar design that it remains a curiosity to this day. According to Smith the temple was built by divine direction. When the temple was finished they found themselves several thousand dollars in debt. To lift this indebtedness Smith decided that the community should go into business. For a time things went very well, but a crash came, the bank failed, and the community was harassed by several dissenters, who accused the leaders of bad management, selfishness and dishonesty. This led to recriminations and the entire community was soon broken up. A number of the early converts to Mormonism, who had bought property in or near Kirtland, remained, making no open pretense of observing the faith.

The old temple went to ruin, the windows were broken out, the lower halls were invaded by the sheep and swine that ran in the streets, and the work of destruction in the upper stories was carried on for forty years by relic hunters, who carried away by piecemeal every strip of molding and every strip of furniture that could be taken conveniently, and so for years the old temple stood a veritable ruin at the mercy of man and beast. The few Mormons in the vicinity were powerless to prevent the desecrations, and they were glad a few years ago when the Odd Fellows of the vicinity fitted up one of the rooms and used it for occasional meetings.

Recently the Saints living in other communities in the United States decided that for the honor of their cause the old temple should be restored, and that Kirtland should again become the headquarters of their religion. Elder W. H. Kelly and his brother, E. L. Kelly, came here from Iowa, and assumed charge of the spiritual and temporal affairs of the village. E. L. Kelley is a lawyer, but spends much of his time in missionary work for the church. W. H. Kelly remains at home and is at work restoring the temple. He has received funds from the different churches representing the original Mormon faith, and it is proposed to complete the repairs on the old building until it is exactly as first built, and not when completed under the direction of Joseph Smith, and Elder Kelly himself does not deny that the restoration is going on under the direction of the Lord Himself, as it was claimed by Smith the temple was originally built. The Elder declares, however he is in doubt about the original coloring of any part of the building he calls upon the Lord for a revelation, and is given divine instruction as to the original design, the plans of which are supposed to be kept in the heaven, under the care of the angel Moroni. The truth is Elder Kelly gets his information from the old residents in the vicinity, who remember well the inner and outer appearance of the temple when it was first opened. Elder Kelly declares that the purpose of his church is to renew the belief in the original doctrines, and to convert if possible the Salt Lake Mormons from polygamy. He takes particular pains to impress visitors to Kirtland with the fact that his people are unalterably opposed to the doctrines promulgated by Brigham Young and the Salt Lake colony, and declares that the reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints is now spending money to pay the expense of missionaries who have gone to Utah on such an errand.

Elder Kelly is not bigoted in his belief. His congregation uses Moody and Sankey's Gospel Hymns in their services, and he declares that his pulpit is free to preachers of every denomination whatever. Elder Kelly states his belief that his religion is growing in popularity, and that when the temple is fully restored it will be opened again with remarkable ceremonies, in which representative Mormons from all over the country will participate. It is the intention, no doubt, to establish at Kirtland a Mormon university, and to make this again as it was once, the cradle of a revised religion. Unlimited funds seem to be at Elder Kelly's command. Contributions are constantly pouring in from twenty or thirty Mormon colonies, now prosperous, in different sections of the country. The head of the church is Joseph Smith, of Iowa. He is a son of the original Joe Smith, and inherits much of his father's magnetism, tempered with much of his mother's good common sense. Before Joseph Smith died he had prepared the manuscript of an entirely new Bible, which he proposed to have published and used by his people in place of the Holy Book approved by the rest of the world. This book is called the "Holy Scriptures," and is merely a badly revised edition of the original Bible.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Accommodation Express.

PETER RICKERT, - - - Proprietor

Office—Vanderbeek's Music store, Park avenue. The Accommodation Express will attend to the general carrying business of the city, delivering Goods or Baggage to and from the Depot, or from place to place. Moving of Furniture, Pianos, etc., with care and safety. Prompt attention given to all orders.

LUTKINS & HUMMER,

DEALERS IN

Butter, Eggs & Produce.

Meats of all Kinds,

FRUITS and VEGETABLES IN THEIR SEASON.

No. 34 PARK AVENUE, Plainfield, New Jersey.

Goods delivered to any part of the city.

A. LUTKINS. L. A. HUMMER.

my4ly

JAMES K. ARNOLD,

GROCER,

Corner Somerset and Chatham Sts., North Plainfield.

VOEHLS' QUEEN BREAD!

Should be tried. Ask your grocer for it, and also try our unequalled

NEW ENGLAND BREAD.

None of the latter is genuine except bearing our label. Also a variety of Cake made out of best materials. Thankful for past favors we solicit the continued patronage of our friends.

J. VOEHL. H. A. VOEHL.

CLOSING OUT SALE OF

FURNITURE, etc.

AT

GREEN'S WAREROOMS.

Corner of Park avenue and Second st., Plainfield. In order to close up the affairs in my hands, as Receiver, I shall sell the remainder of the stock, at a large discount, for the next thirty days. All goods must be sold.

J. FRANK HUBBARD, Receiver.

Plainfield, May 27, 1887. my27tf

CONSUMPTION — WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY — LUNG DISEASES — COUGHS — COLDS

Speedily and permanently cured by using Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. There are counterfeits. Get the genuine, which is signed "I. BUTTS" on the wrapper. Prepared by SETH W. FOWLE & Sons, Boston. Sold by all dealers.

TWENTY

Years experience in the business.

SECOND STREET, 2 doors above Peace street

Mr. JOHN H. STEVENS, Horse-shoer, gives particular attention to Shoeing, Forging, Stumbling and Interfering Horses. Corns stopped in an incredibly short space of time. Horses with diseased feet treated in a particular manner by experienced workmen.

Fleming & Angleman,

BUTCHERS,

Fresh, Salt and Smoked Meats,

Poultry, Fish, Vegetables, etc.

ORDERS CALLED FOR AND DELIVERED.

No. 24 North avenue.

[Near the Depot.]

S. A. FLEMING. ap8tf J. P. ANGLEMAN

LIVERY.

RICHARD H. DAY'S City Livery Stable!

OPPOSITE DEPOT, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Special attention paid to Boarding Horses by the day, week or month. All kinds of Turnouts by day or night at short notice. Telephone Call, No. 121

my1y†

ALBERT HEDDEN,

Livery and Boarding Stables

FOURTH STREET,

Between Peace street and Park avenue, Plainfield. Pleasure or shopping calls promptly attended to. Careful, gentlemanly drivers. Horses boarded by the week or month. Telephone call No. 114.

Livery Stables!

Mr. D. S. ROBERTS

Has Removed to His New Building on

NORTH AVENUE,

Adjoining Force's Hotel. Mr. Roberts will always be found ready and able to answer demands for all kinds of turn-outs at short notice, and hopes for a continuance of past favors. The boarding and care of horses a specialty. 1ap1y

A. M. SEGUINE,

(Successor to John W. Laing.)

Laing's Hotel Stables

Front street, opposite Madison avenue.

Coaches for Weddings, Funerals and Private Calls. Light carriages of all descriptions for pleasure.

RIDING OR LIVERY.

Careful, safe drivers for shopping calls or pleasure drives. Special attention given to boarding horses by the day, week or month.—oct15y1

TELEPHONE CALL, NO. 26.

ESTABLISHED 1866.

Westfield Horse Market.

IRVING & CO.,

DEALERS IN

Carriage Teams, Road, Draft, Speed, Saddle and General Business Horses. All horses guaranteed as represented.

Central avenue,

Near Depot. Westfield, N. J.

BRANCH STABLE, NEWARK, NEW JERSEY, COR. SHERMAN AVENUE AND ASTOR ST.

1 9tr

MISCELLANEOUS.

JOHN A. THICKSTUN,

DEALER IN

BEST QUALITIES

COAL, WOOD,

AND

BLUE-STONE.

YARD—Cor. 3rd st. and Madison ave.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me." H. A. ARCHER, M.D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Castoria cures Colic, Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhœa, Eructation, Kills Worms, gives sleep, and promotes digestion, Without injurious medication.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 182 Fulton Street, N. Y.

C. K. COMPTON,

Confectioner and Ice Cream Caterer,

Only the Best of Ice Cream and Ices Furnished for Weddings, Parties, Receptions.

TRY MY CREAM AND HOME-MADE BREAD.

First-class stock. Hot in the afternoon at 5 o'clock. Please remember I manufacture my own Candy and use only the best of sugar and No. 1 flavoring matter and vegetable coloring materials. Goods promptly delivered.

C. K. COMPTON,

26 West Front Street. Near the Opera House.

The Plainfield Electric Light Co.

OFFICE, 35 AND 37 NORTH AVENUE.

Opposite R. R. Station. Mulford's Real Estate Agency.

DOMESTIC LIGHTING BY INCANDESCENCE.

HOUSES CAN BE WIRED WITHOUT DEFACEMENT TO WALLS AND CEILINGS, AND EXISTING GAS FITTING CAN BE USED

DOMESTIC RATES—PER ANNUM:

1st lamp.....$8
2d lamp.....$7
3d lamp.....$6
4th lamp.....$5
5th lamp.....$4
6th lamp.....$3
7th lamp.....$2
And all additional Lamps at.....$2 per annum each.

ALEX. P. WRIGHT, Manager.

NOW FOR SUMMER!

It has been rather tardy, and recent storms gave little promise of its coming; but "it's got here all the same." It's safe now to divest ourselves now of Winter underwear and don a Summer suit. Nature herself hardly assumes a greater change in color, style and beauty, than do our counters as the seasons make their approach. Summer suits are blooming now in great variety. Look at our $10 Chester Moses Cheviots. Don't judge by the price, that's deceiving; the goods won't deceive you, though. This suit not only can't be beat, it can't be approached in this town. Step to the next table and behold a blue flannel (full indigo) for $12, which for appearance and real lasting service is unequaled by any other fabric at or near the price. One moment! We want you to be sure and see the new blue and black Serge coats and vests at $10. These garments are beauties No custom tailor would think of making them for less than $18. Sawyer Cassimeres in a dozen different styles to suit as many tastes. In the Children's Stock—Let us see what to mention among so many. Fine suits for the little ones we have at all seasons, but at this time of year nature invites them to romp, an invitation by the way not all necessary—and it don't pay to buy anything very fine for them. Suppose you look at our Princeton Blouse at $2.75, and from that up to $6.50, in Norfolk and all other approved styles of Blouse. Serviceable colors; serviceable goods But time would fail us, or you would, were we to attempt a detailed description of our preparation to serve you this Summer. Let us close with a question. Our assortment is unequaled. Our styles are nearly perfect. Our clothing fits well and wears well, and of our prices it is unnecessary to speak. What more can you want? We don't know. Do you? Come in and tell us and we will supply whatever is lacking, if possible.

McGregor & Co.

850--852 BROAD STREET,

NEWARK, N. J.

FOR SALE

"New American Tricycle,"

PERFECTLY NEW. $50 LESS THAN COST.

Apply at THIS OFFICE.

P. P. VanArsdale,

PIANO TUNER.

Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and Organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. Box 160 or left at Williams' Shoe Store, No. 6 Park avenue will receive prompt attention. Residence, 21 East Front street, corner Elm street.—jly19tf

A. TITSWORTH,

Merchant Tailor,

Has removed his place of business to

No. 26 North ave.,

(Store formerly occupied by Jeweler McGee). ALSO OFFICE OF CITY TREASURER.—d31m1

MRS. E. J. MARTIN'S

MAGIC RENOVATING FLUID.

For taking out grease from any kind of goods, without changing the color, or leaving a spot. Also, for cleaning kid gloves, crape, lace, satin, ribbons, felt hats, gents' clothing. Raises the nap on velvet; removes grease spots and soils from carpets, &c. Price 25 cents per bottle. Sold at dress stores, at Mrs. E. J. Martin's dress-making rooms, 33 East Front street, and at Mrs. W. L. Force's Fancy Goods Store, No. 8 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J. my27tf

C. E. JOHNSON,

Of late firm of Shepherd, Johnson & Gedoun.

CARPENTER AND BUILDER.

Office adjoining City Hotel on Second street, near Park avenue, Plainfield, New Jersey. Residence, 12 East Second street. Jobbing a specialty. mch31tf

T. J. GILLIES,

Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.

SALESROOM—Madison Avenue, 3 doors from 1st Plainfield, N. J.

Goods received on consignment.

JOHN CHANDLER,

CARPENTER AND BUILDER,

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Residence and Shop No. 36 East 3d St.

Jobbing promptly attended to. ap4y

G. W. FORCE,

11 West Front street.

OPENING OF FALL AND WINTER STOCK

Boots and Shoes at Low Prices

A FINE GRADE OF GOODS TO SELECT FROM.

11 West Front street.

G. W. FORCE.

jan19y

INSURANCE.

ISAAC BROKAW,

Real Estate and Fire Insurance.

12 OUER ST. NORTH PLAINFIELD.

Agent for the following first class companies: GERMANIA, of New York, HANOVER, of New York, JERSEY CITY, of Jersey City, N. J.

Insurance effected on all kinds of property, furniture and dwellings a specialty, at lowest rates.

MONEY TO LOAN ON FIRST MORTGAGES. BARGAINS IN REAL ESTATE. HOUSES RENTED AND COLLECTIONS MADE. PROMPT RETURNS.—f25tf

FIRE INSURANCE!

The undersigned having been appointed Agent for the

Star and Merchants

Fire Insurance Co's of the City of New York, are prepared to furnish substantial indemnity against loss by Fire and solicit applications from the citizens of Plainfield and vicinity.

NATHAN HARPER

4tf

J. C. Pope & Co.,

GENERAL AGENTS OF THE German American Ins. Co., of New York.

Also represents other first-class Fire Insurance Companies. Agents of the Inman Steamship Line. Drafts on Ireland for sale. First and City National Bank Stock Bought and Sold. Also,

BUILDING LOTS

And Other Real Estate for sale.

OFFICE:

6 E. FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD

JAMES C. POPE. ELIAS R. POPE.

WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,

Fire Insurance Agent,

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.

With years of practice and experience, knowledge of Companies and material facts pertaining to Insurance, I confidently ask a continuance of the patronage so generously bestowed in the past.

AUTHORIZED AGENT FOR

Fire Association, of Philadelphia.
Liverpool, London & Globe, England.
Westchester, of New York.
Norwich Union, of England
North British Mercantile, of England.
The Northern, of England
The Queen, of England.
The Merchants, of Newark.
The Washington Life, of New York.

And other equally good companies. Insurance at BEST RATES. Policies written upon all kinds of buildings, merchandise, household furniture, leases and other insurable property. Farm buildings a specialty. MONEY TO LOAN on approved security, and bargains in Real Estate.

WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF.

Office in Berry's building, second floor, corner of Front street and Park avenue. Residence, 41 East Second street.—ly9tf

LEGAL NOTICES.

NOTICE.—The Books of the Overseer of the Poor, containing a list of the applicants for aid, can be seen at the office of that officer, in Stillman Building.

f26tf J. OAKLEY NODYNE, O.P.

ASSIGNEE'S SETTLEMENT.—Notice is hereby given, that the account of the subscriber, Assignee of Isaac S. Melbourne, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for settlement to the Orphans' Court of the County of Union, on Wednesday, the thirteenth day of July next.

WILLIAM R. CODINGTON.

Dated April 28th, 1887.—my16w10

EXECUTOR'S SETTLEMENT.—Notice is hereby given that the account of the subscriber surviving Executor of Flim Pooler, deceased, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for settlement to the Orphans' Court of the County of Union on Wednesday the twenty-ninth day of June next.

AUGUST SALIZMAN.

Dated April 20, 1887.—ap27w10

NOTICE.

All persons indebted to the estate of Lewis H. Boice are requested to pay the same to the Administratrix, at her residence, on Jackson avenue, North Plainfield, N. J., at which place any bills against the said deceased may be presented.

CARRIE C. BOICE, Administratrix

my20m2

ADMINISTRATOR'S SETTLEMENT. Notice is hereby given, that the account of James S. Vosseller, Administrator, with the will annexed of Thomas Blackwell, deceased, as stated by the subscriber, Administratrix of James S. Vosseller, deceased, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for settlement to the Orphans' Court of the County of Union, on Wednesday the twenty-ninth day of June next.

JANE E. VOSSELLER.

Dated April 18, 1887.—ap23w10

NOTICE OF ASSIGNMENT.

Notice is hereby given that Frank C. Green, of the city of Plainfield, Union county, New Jersey, hath this day made an assignment to the subscriber of his estate for the equal benefit of his creditors, and that the said creditors must exhibit their respective claims, under oath or affirmation to the subscriber, at his office, corner of Park Avenue and Second street, Plainfield, New Jersey.

Dated April thirteenth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven.

ap15tf W. R. CODINGTON, Assignee.

Surrogate's Order to Limit Creditors

Union County Surrogate's Office, June 7th, 1887.

Annie M. Myers, the Executrix of Joseph M. Myers, deceased.

On application of the above named Executrix it is ordered that said Executrix give public notice to the Creditors of the estate of said decedent to bring in their debts, demands or claims against the same, under oath, within nine months from this date, by setting up a copy of this Order, within twenty days hereafter, in five of the most public places in the county of Union, for two months and also within the said twenty days, by advertising the same in THE CONSTITUTIONALIST for the same space of time; and if any creditor shall neglect to exhibit his or her debt, demand or claim within the said period of nine months, public notice being given as aforesaid, such creditor shall be forever barred of his or her action therefor against the said Executrix.

je17w10 JAS. J. GERBER, Surrogate.

Surrogate's Order to Limit Creditors

Union County, Surrogate's Office, May 23rd, 1887.

Jane E. Vosseller, the Administratrix of James S. Vosseller, deceased.

On application of the above named Administratrix it is ordered that said Administratrix give Public Notice to the Creditors of the estate of said decedent to bring in their debts, demands or claims against the same, under oath, within nine months from this date, by setting up a copy of this Order, within twenty days hereafter, in five of the most public places in the County of Union, for two months, and also within the said twenty days, by advertising the same in THE CONSTITUTIONALIST for the same space of time; and if any creditor shall neglect to exhibit his or her debt, demand or claim, within the said period of nine months, public notice being given as aforesaid, such creditor shall be forever barred of his or her action therefor against the said Administratrix.

m27-10w By JAMES J. GERBER, Surrogate.

MASTER'S SALE.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

Between James E. Ham, complainant, and Kate L. Walker, F. D. Lanier Walker and Josephine R. Walker, defendants: on bill for partition. Decree. By virtue of a decree issued out of the Court of Chancery in the above stated cause, bearing date the tenth day of May, A. D., 1887, I John B. Bartine, a special master of said court, shall expose to sale at public vendue at Laing's Hotel, in the City of Plainfield, in the county of Union and State of New Jersey, on Thursday, the twenty-first day of July next, between the hours of twelve and five o'clock on said day. To wit:—at two o'clock in the afternoon, all that certain tract or parcel of land and premises hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the city of Plainfield, in the county of Union, and state of New Jersey. Beginning at a point in the northerly line of Putnam street, eighty one (81) feet westerly from the northerly corner of Putnam street and Park Place, and corner of other land of said Freeman, thence running in a westerly course along the line of Putnam street eighty-one feet to a stake and corner of Ryan Jones' land; thence in a northerly course at right angles to Putnam street one hundred and seventy-five (17) feet to a stake, and making a corner, thence running in an easterly course twelve (12) feet to a stake and making a corner; thence running in a northerly course twenty-five feet to a stake and corner of lot number twelve; thence running in an easterly course along the line of that lot sixty-nine (69) feet; thence running in a southerly course parallel with Park Place two hundred (200) feet to the northerly line of Putnam street and place of beginning together with the land in front of the same to the middle of Putnam street, to be used as a public road, together with all and singular the hereditaments and appurtenances to the said premises belonging or in anywise appertaining

J. D. BARTINE,
Special Master in Chancery.
Jackson & Codington, Solicitors. je17w5
Dated May 16th, 1887. Fees, $8

DIME SAVINGS INSTITUTION

Of Plainfield, N. J.

Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest at the rate of three (3) per cent. per annum payable semi-annually. All money deposited on or before July 1st will draw interest from July 1st.

JOHN W. MURRAY, President,
WILLIAM WHITE, Vice- "
NATHAN HARPER, " "
ELIAS R. POPE, Treasurer.
m17tm3

MISCELLANEOUS.

John Brown,

(Successor to John Burke.)

Cesspools, Vaults, Etc., Etc.,

CLEANED!

Plainfield, N. J. Orders left at CARNEY BROS., No. 11 Somerset street, or addressed to P. O. Box 718, will receive prompt attention.

A. M. Vanderbeek & Co.,

(Successors to A. Vanderbeek.)

DEALERS IN SPORTING GOODS,

Musical Instruments,

SHEET MUSIC, CUTLERY, ETC.

No. 33 Park avenue, Plainfield, New Jersey.

f28tf

SPECIAL NOTICE.

New Store! New Goods! New Firm!

BARKALEW & DUNN,

Fancy and Staple Grocers,

NO. 18 NORTH AVENUE.

We sell for Cash and will give Special Inducements.

f12tf

STOVES AND RANGES.

Builder's and House Furnishing Hardware.

READY-MIXED AJAX PAINT.

Breech-loading Shot Guns, Revolvers, etc., etc..

IN VARIETY.

Ammunition and Gunner's Materials

Locks repaired, Keys fitted, Bells hung and Safes opened a short notice—Ryder building,

J. A. Peebles & Co.,

40 WEST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

A. VANDERBEEK,

(CHAUTAUQUA BUILDING.)

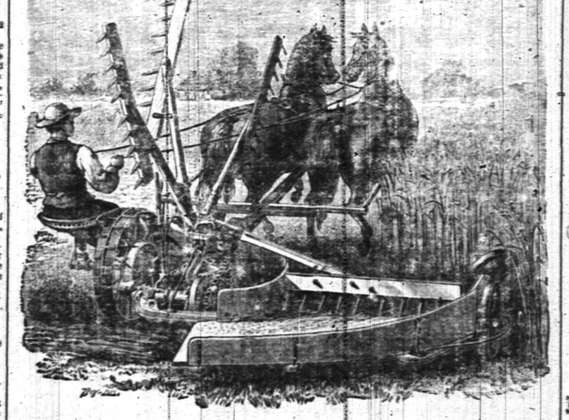
NO. 33 PARK AVENUE, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

HAVING DISPOSED OF THE MUSICAL AND SPORTING

Goods Department I am now prepared to devote my entire time to the sale and renting of

—PIANOS AND ORGANS—

Having many years of experience in the Piano Trade I am prepared to furnish first-class Instruments as reasonable as they can be had in New York city. Pianos tuned. Give me a call before purchasing.



Buckeye Mowers and Reapers,

HAY RAKES. BARB WIRE.

HARDWARE, PLUMBING AND TINNING.

A. M. GRIFFEN,

13 EAST FRONT STREET.

TELEPHONE CALL, 6.

OUR NEW BUILDING!

We are informed by the contractors at work upon the New Building adjoining our present place that immediately after the Fourth of July it will be necessary for them to enter the building we now occupy, in order to connect the two stores by the time specified in their contract. On this account, and in order to give them possession, we deem it necessary to reduce stock as low as possible, and from this date we offer Unparalleled Bargains in Every Department. No matter what the cost, the goods are to be sold. They must go. This is an opportunity seldom offered, and will prove greatly to your advantage if you will call and examine the Bargains we will give you.

STOUTENBURGH & CO.,

NEWARK CLOTHIERS,

803--805 BROAD ST., NEWARK N. J.

my6m3

MISCELLANEOUS.

Best In The World.

Call at my store and get a Sample Bottle of KEMP'S BALSAM, for the throat and lungs. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Large size 50c and $1. R. J. SHAW, Druggist, No. 5 East Front street.—oct1

Alex. Willett,

DEALER IN

BOOTS & SHOES,

No. 6 PARK AVENUE.

A full assortment of desirable goods direct from manufacturers at LOW FIGURES dec24y†

J. T. ODAM,

PLAIN AND ORNAMENTAL

Slate Roofer and Repairer.

Residence, Corner Fourth and Sycamore Streets, Yard near Freight House. P. O. Box 1305, PLAINFIELD, N. J

New Work Warranted for one year. Slating over Shingles. Also, Felt and Gravel Roofing. dec12 1f

Steam Marble AND Granite Works.

Monuments & Headstones, Fencing for Cemetery Plots.

Large assortment of Slate Mantels A large variety of Granite Monuments

All work executed in the most skilful manner and at very reasonable prices. All orders delivered and set up. L. MANNING.

FRONT ST., next to M. E. Ch., PLAINFIELD, N. J. Monuments erected in Greenwood Cemetery N. Y. jly30tf

GEO. D. MORRISON,

NORTH AVENUE.

Has opened a store for the sale of

FLOUR, FEED, HAY,

Oats, Straw, Bran, Etc.,

And hopes by promptness and fair dealing to merit a share of the public patronage.

SANDERSON'S XXXX BEST FLOUR.

FROM MINNESOTA WHEAT. A SPECIALTY.

CALL AND SEE WHAT YOU BUY.

j-3y3

R. R. FAIRCHILD,

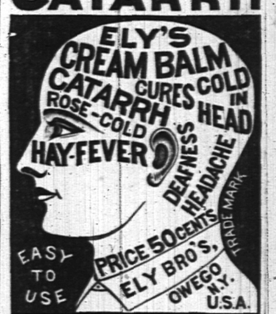
FURNITURE WAREROOMS,

21 East Front street.

Walnut, Cherry, Oak and Cottage Chamber Sets. Dining Room Outfits, Parlor Furniture, Lounges and Extension Tables.

A LARGE LINE OF FANCY CHAIRS.

CATARRH



HAY-FEVER

*ELY'S C

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XX. PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, JULY 1, 1887. NO. 26.

LAWS OF NEW JERSEY.

[BY AUTHORITY.]

CHAPTER I.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to establish a bureau of statistics upon the subject of labor, connected with its relation to the growth and development of the state industries."

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the sum of four thousand dollars be and is hereby appropriated for the current expenses of said bureau.

2. And be it enacted, That the treasurer of this state is hereby authorized to pay, from any money not otherwise appropriated, the sum provided for in the first section of this act.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 18, 1887.

CHAPTER II.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to prevent the adulteration and to regulate the sale of milk," approved March fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the analysis of milk required by the provisions of said act, when eight and nine of the act to which this is a supplement, shall be made by any chemist or chemists appointed or designated by the state board of health, the provisions of said act to the contrary notwithstanding.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved February 24, 1887.

CHAPTER V.

An act to authorize and empower the trustees of any church or religious society, to whom as such trustees by their individual names any conveyance of lands and real estate has been made, to convey the same to the church or religious society of which they are or were trustees by its corporate name.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That all cases where the conveyance of lands and real estate has been made to the trustees of any church or religious society by their individual names as trustees of any church or religious society, said trustees and the survivors or their successors in office are hereby empowered and authorized to convey the same to the particular church or religious society of which they are trustees by its corporate name, and such conveyance shall vest in such church or religious society as good, effectual and valid a title as if the conveyance to said trustees had been made directly to such church or religious society by its corporate name.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 8, 1887.

CHAPTER VI.

An act to incorporate improvement societies in towns.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in any town, village or borough it shall be lawful for any number of persons not less than seven, associated for the purpose of public improvement, and, for the better accomplishment of such purpose, to plant trees and shrubbery, to establish and maintain a public park, a public reading room and museum of natural history, for public meetings, assemblies, in such way and method as shall promote the external appearance and the material progress, good order and health, and social and intellectual culture of said town, village or borough; and for the purpose of obtaining and maintaining a public park it shall be lawful for said associations to purchase, or receive by gift or device, any land not exceeding ten acres, and said land so long as it is used for the public purposes shall be exempt from all taxation, but buildings erected thereon shall not be exempt.

2. And be it enacted, That the said association upon due notice, in writing, and posted at one or more public places in said town, at any regular meeting, or one specially called for the purpose, and annually thereafter, any of their own number, not less than three, to be trustees of the said association, by a majority of the votes cast.

3. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful for the trustees thus elected to make and file a certificate with the clerk of the county certifying the name which they have assumed, the object of the association, and upon asking and recording such certificate the said persons and their successors shall become and be a body politic and corporate, and possessed of all the powers mentioned and set forth in the first section of the act concerning corporations.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Passed March 9, 1887.

CHAPTER VII.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act to incorporate the chosen freeholders in the respective counties of this state" [Revision], approved March eighth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-six.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the members of the boards of chosen freeholders elected at the general election next to be held after the passage of this act, shall hold their office for the term of two years; provided, that in those assembly districts, wards and townships which are entitled to elect two members of the board of freeholders, the two members elected to said board from each of said districts, wards and townships, shall proceed to determine by lot their respective terms of office, so that one member at the first annual meeting of the board of freeholders to be held after the passage of this act, of the board from each of said districts, wards and townships, shall hold office for the term of one year, and the other member of the board from each of said districts, wards and townships, shall hold office for the term of two years, and at each succeeding annual election thereafter but one member of the board of freeholders shall be elected from each of said districts, wards and townships, who shall hold office for the term of two years and until his successor shall be duly elected and qualified.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts, general or special, public or private, inconsistent with this act, be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 9, 1887.

CHAPTER VIII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to incorporate trustees of religious societies" [Revision], approved March one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall and may be lawful for every religious society or congregation of christians, when assembled, according to the laws of this state, for the election of trustees of such society or congregation, to annually elect, in the same manner as the first trustees of the said trustees are elected, a person to be the treasurer of such religious society, or congregation, who, when so elected, shall also be the treasurer and an ex-officio member of the board of trustees of such religious society or congregation.

2. And be it enacted, That such religious society or congregation may at such annual meeting provide by by-law or resolution for the election of its trustees for three years, but in case the first election by any such order this act the number of trustees of such religious society or congregation shall be divided as near as can be, into three equal numbers, of whom one part shall be elected for one year, one part for two years, and one part for three years, and then annually thereafter the terms of those expiring shall be filled for a period of three years; vacancies occurring for any cause shall be filled for the unexpired term.

3. And be it enacted, That the annual meetings for the election of trustees and the treasurer of any religious society or congregation shall be called by the board of trustees thereof and posted as notice, as provided by law, signed by the secretary of said board and posted as required by statute, and such meeting when convened shall select its chairman and determine its own rules of procedure.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 9, 1887.

CHAPTER IX.

An act to release the title and interest of the people of the State of New Jersey in and to certain real estate, of which George Evans died seized, in the City of Trenton and county of Mercer.

Whereas, George Evans, late of the city of Newport, in the State of Rhode Island, departed this life intestate on the nineteenth day of October, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five, seized of four certain tracts or lots of land, on the map or plan of lots of the Seventh Ward Land Association, of the city of Trenton, which were conveyed to him as follows: Lot number eighty-four, thirty-five, by the deed from said association, dated October thirteenth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three, and recorded in Mercer county clerk's office, in book of deeds, volume one hundred and thirty-five, page one hundred and sixty-eight; lot number one hundred and sixty-eight, by deed also from said association, and dated August twenty-second, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three, and recorded in said clerk's office, in book of deeds, volume one hundred and twenty-five, page five hundred and forty-six; lot number one hundred and sixty-one and one-half, by deed from Jacob Rex and wife and Samuel R. Jarvis, dated August twenty-second, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight, and recorded in said clerk's office, in book of deeds, volume one hundred and twenty-five, page five hundred and forty-four; and lot number twenty-five on said plan, by deed also from said association, dated February twentieth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine, and recorded in said clerk's office, in book of deeds, volume one hundred and twenty-six, page six hundred and seventy-seven, and whereas, said lots are of small value, and said Jane Evans is of advanced years and has no means whatever; therefore,

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That all the estate, right, title and interest of the people of the State of New Jersey in, to and upon all the above-recited lots or tracts of land wherein the said George Evans died seized, with the appurtenances thereunto belonging, or in any wise appertaining, is hereby released unto and granted to the said Jane Evans, widow of the said George Evans, and her heirs and assigns forever.

Approved March 14, 1887.

CHAPTER XI.

A further supplement to an act relative to sales of land under public statute or by virtue of any legal proceeding (revision), approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That sales of land heretofore made shall be invalidated by reason of the omission to publish the advertisement of such sale or the advertisement of any adjournment thereof in two of the newspapers printed and published in the county in which such lands are situate; provided, that such sale was only advertised in one of such papers; nor shall any such sale be invalidated when the advertisement thereof or the advertisement of any adjournment thereof shall have been published in two newspapers printed and published in the county in which such lands are situate, neither of which newspapers were printed or published at the county seat of such county; but that any such sale shall be as good, valid and effectual in the law as if the same had been duly advertised in the manner now required by law; provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to confirm the sale or sales of land without the order of a court or a judge, where such order is now required to be made to confirm the same, but that such court or judge may make such order confirming any such sale or any confirmation heretofore made by the court having jurisdiction, shall be good and effectual, notwithstanding any omission to advertise as aforesaid.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 16, 1887.

CHAPTER XII.

A further supplement to an act entitled "An act respecting the orphans' court, and relating to the powers and duties of the ordinary and the orphans' courts and surrogates" [revision], approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That any order for the sale of the lands, tenements, hereditaments and real estate of any testator or intestate for the payment of his debts, heretofore made by the orphans' court of any county in this state, on or after the return day of the order to show cause therein, is declared to be valid and effectual for all intents and purposes, notwithstanding that the return day mentioned in said order to show cause was less than two months after the day of making such order; provided, that no sale under any such order shall be made by any person to the confirmation of the sale had under the said order for sale.

2. And be it enacted, That no sale or sales of any lands, tenements, hereditaments or real estate of any testator or intestate for the payment of his debts heretofore made by virtue of an order for sale of any orphans' court of any county of this state shall be held or taken to be invalid by reason of the order to show cause prescribed in section seventy-one of the act to which this is a supplement having been made returnable in less than two months from the day of making such order, if no person or persons shall appear or sales, if in other respects legal, and if the same shall have been confirmed by the said orphans' court, shall and the same are hereby declared to be valid and effectual in the law.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 16, 1887.

CHAPTER XIII.

An act to authorize municipal corporations to contract for a supply of water for public uses.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for any city, town or borough council or common council, or other governing body of any municipal corporation in this state not owning or controlling any water works to enter into and make a contract or contracts with any adjacent or adjoining municipal corporation, owning or controlling any water works, for a term of not more than years for the obtaining and furnishing a supply of water to be used by and within such municipal corporation for the purpose of extinguishing fires and for such other public uses and purposes as may be deemed necessary or convenient; and that such municipal corporation to be supplied with water as aforesaid may issue bonds to pay for the expense of laying mains and pipes, erecting fire hydrants and such other purposes including the introduction and use of water in said municipal corporation in such sum or sums as the governing body thereof shall find necessary; provided, however, that the entire issue of bonds for water purposes shall not exceed the sum of one-thirtieth of the total assessed value of the real estate in such municipal corporation as such rate shall appear by the last regular assessment preceding the issue of such bonds, and the bonds so issued shall bear interest at the legal rate and be made payable at such period of time as the governing body of such municipal corporation may determine, not exceeding thirty years from the date thereof, which bonds may be sold for the best price that can be obtained therefor, but in no case at less than the par value of the same; and that said bonds shall be issued under the corporate seal of the municipal corporation issuing the same and signed by the mayor or other head officer and the treasurer or collector or other officer having the custody of the funds of such municipal corporation, which bonds when so issued shall be a lien upon the taxable real estate within the limits of such municipal corporation; and the principal and interest of said bonds shall be raised by tax, at the same time and in the same manner and on the same property as other taxes are raised within such municipal corporation.

2. And be it enacted, That such municipal corporation may supply the water to the inhabitants thereof, upon such terms, and at such rates, and under such rules and regulations as the governing body of the same may determine, and that the money received from the sale of water as aforesaid shall be applied to the payment of the interest thereon as the same shall become due and payable, and if any owner or owners shall reside out of his township the said collector shall, within the same time, send a like notice by him, her or them, by mail, with postage prepaid, directed to his, her or their last known post office address; provided, that the provisions of this act shall not apply to municipalities in counties having less than one hundred thousand inhabitants.

4. And be it enacted, That section twenty-nine of the act to which this is a supplement be and the same is hereby repealed.

5. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 17, 1887.

CHAPTER XIV.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act relative to sales of lands under a public statute, or by virtue of any judicial proceedings" [Revision], approved March twenty-fifth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section one of the act to which this is an amendment be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

2. That it shall be lawful when an execution against the property of any debtor, upon a judgment recovered or docketed in the supreme court, or in the circuit court, or court of common pleas, for any county in this state, or which now is or hereafter shall be docketed in the court of common pleas from any of the courts for the trial of small causes of this state, shall be returned by the officer to whom it is delivered that the lands or any part of them, it shall be lawful for any judge of the court out of which said execution issued, in term time or vacation, on application by the judgment creditor, in the manner prescribed by the practice of the court, requiring the judgment creditor to appear and make discovery on oath concerning his property and things in action before such judge or supreme court commissioner, to be designated by said order; provided, nevertheless, that no such order shall be made when the amount due on such judgment shall be less than twenty-five dollars.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 17, 1887.

CHAPTER XV.

An Act providing for summary arrests for the violation of ordinances.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in any city in this state it shall be lawful for the license inspector, by whatever name designated, or any police officer thereof, to summarily arrest any person keeping or letting for hire, or any driver in the employ of any such person, of any hack, cab, omnibus, stage, cart, wagon, truck, dray, or any other carriage or vehicle, for the transportation of passengers or merchandise, goods and articles of any description in said city, without a license, when it is required by any ordinance of such city to have a license therefor.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 16, 1887.

CHAPTER XVI.

An Act accepting and assenting to on the part of the State of New Jersey of the appropriations and grants of moneys, as made and provided for in an act of the congress of the United States, approved March third, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, entitled "An act to establish agricultural experiment stations in connection with the colleges established in the several states under the provisions of an act approved July second, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two, and of the acts supplementary thereto," and the appropriations and grants of moneys for the purposes therein made, be and the same are hereby accepted and assented to on the part of the State of New Jersey.

2. And be it enacted, That the assent of the State of New Jersey to the grants of moneys for the purposes, upon the terms, and in accordance with the several conditions and provisions in said act, be hereby fully signified and expressed, and the secretary of the State is hereby directed to transmit a certified copy of this act to the secretary of the treasury of the United States.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 16, 1887.

CHAPTER XVII.

An act in relation to incorporated hospital associations.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for any hospital association incorporated under any act or acts of the legislature of this state to change the name of such association and to adopt a new name; to increase the number of managers and officers of such association, and to extend the terms for which they may be elected; to change and regulate the manner of appointing the medical staff of the hospital or hospitals of such association; to alter the qualifications of members of such association as to voting; to provide for honorary and life members of the association, and to make such other changes from time to time in the form of government of such association as may be necessary to adapt it to the uses which it was originally incorporated and which may not be contrary to the constitution of this state.

2. And be it enacted, That any such change shall be adopted only by a two-thirds vote of the members of such association present at any regular meeting or at any special meeting called for the purpose of considering the same, and when so adopted a certified statement of such change or alteration, signed by the president, and attested by the secretary, under the seal of the corporation, shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the county wherein the hospital of such association is located, which statement of the secretary of state of this state, and upon such filing the said changes or alterations shall have the same force and effect as if the altered provisions had been contained in the original act of incorporation; but no change in the name of such association shall in any wise affect or alter its rights and privileges, but such association shall be entitled to have, receive and hold under its new name any property which it formerly held or which may be hereafter given or bequeathed to it under its original name. This act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 16, 1887.

CHAPTER XVIII.

An act providing for the support of the State School for Girls.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That for the support and maintenance of the State Industrial School for Girls and for necessary repairs, the sum of six thousand dollars be and is hereby appropriated, and that the same be paid out of the state treasury on the warrant of the comptroller.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 16, 1887.

CHAPTER XIX.

A supplement to an act entitled "An act respecting executions" [Revision], approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section twenty-three of the act to which this is a supplement, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

23. That it shall not be lawful when an execution against the property of any debtor, upon a judgment recovered or docketed in the supreme court, or in the circuit court, or court of common pleas, for any county in this state, or which now is or hereafter shall be docketed in the court of common pleas from any of the courts for the trial of small causes of this state, shall be returned by the officer to whom it is delivered that the lands or any part of them, it shall be lawful for any judge of the court out of which said execution issued, in term time or vacation, on application by the judgment creditor, in the manner prescribed by the practice of the court, requiring the judgment creditor to appear and make discovery on oath concerning his property and things in action before such judge or supreme court commissioner, to be designated by said order; provided, nevertheless, that no such order shall be made when the amount due on such judgment shall be less than twenty-five dollars.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 17, 1887.

CHAPTER XX.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act concerning executors and the administration of intestates' estates," approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That where executors and administrators heretofore have and shall hereafter become purchasers of the lands, tenements or hereditaments conveyed by any mortgage forming a part of the assets of the estate in their hands at a sale upon a foreclosure of any such mortgage, the conveyance of the title to the lands, tenements or hereditaments so purchased shall be construed to have vested and to vest an estate in joint tenancy in such executors or administrators, and the lands, tenements or hereditaments so conveyed shall be assets in their hands and may be sold and conveyed by them with the approbation of the court, and they shall be accountable for and pay over the proceeds of such sales as other estate moneys in their hands, and where any executor or executors, administrator or administrators shall be removed from office by any court of competent jurisdiction, or shall hereafter die or be removed from office by any court of competent jurisdiction, then and in every such case, any sale or conveyance of such lands, tenements or hereditaments made by the surviving or acting executor or executors, administrator or administrators, shall be construed to have vested and to vest in the purchaser or purchasers, grantee or grantees, the title to such lands, tenements or hereditaments in the same manner and as fully, to all intents and purposes, as if all had been living or acting and had signed in such conveyance.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 17, 1887.

CHAPTER XXI.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act relative to sales of lands under a public statute, or by virtue of any judicial proceedings" [Revision], approved March twenty-fifth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section one of the act to which this is an amendment be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

1. That it shall be lawful for the sheriff, in all cases whatsoever, where any sheriff, coroner, master in chancery, executor, administrator, guardian, commissioner, trustee, or other officer or person, is now or hereafter shall be authorized or required by any public statute, or the direction of any court of competent jurisdiction in this state, to make sale of any lands, tenements, hereditaments or real estate, such officer or officers, person or persons, unless specially directed by law, shall give notice by public advertisement signed by himself, herself or themselves, or by his, her or their deputy or deputies, of the time and place of such sale, at least four weeks next before the time so appointed, and shall likewise cause the same to be published in two of the newspapers printed and published in the county in which the lands are situate, of which one shall be a newspaper printed and published at the county seat of said county, if a newspaper be published at such county seat, and if no newspaper be published at the county seat, then in any two newspapers published in the county and circulating in the neighborhood of said lands, at least four weeks successively, once a week, next preceding the time appointed for selling the same, and at the time and place so appointed, between the hours of twelve and five in the afternoon, such officer or officers, person or persons shall sell the same by public vendue to the highest bidder.

Approved March 17, 1887.

CHAPTER XXII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act concerning saving banks," approved April twenty-first, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section thirty-four of the act to which this is a supplement, and which said section thirty-four is in the words following to wit:

"34. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful for managers of such corporation, acting as officers of the same, whose duties require and receive their regular and faithful attendance at the institution, to receive such compensation as in the opinion of a majority of the board of managers shall be just and reasonable, and shall be provided, that the said state board provided for in section eight may reduce the amount of such compensation if in their judgment the same is fixed at an excessive amount, but no manager shall receive any such compensation than the sum of three dollars for each occasion or his attendance at meetings of the board of managers or of committees thereof," shall hereafter embrace and apply to all savings banks within this state, created by or existing under or by virtue of any special charter or act of the legislature of this state, anything in such special charters or acts to the contrary notwithstanding.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 17, 1887.

CHAPTER XXIII.

A further supplement to an act entitled "An act to authorize the construction, curbing and paving of sidewalks and crosswalks in townships," approved May ninth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section seven of the act to which this is a supplement, and which reads as follows:

"7. And be it enacted, That when the construction, curbing and laying of such sidewalks, and crosswalks shall have been completed, it shall be the duty of the township committee to add to the contract price of the work and materials specified in the foregoing section, the expenses of surveying, calculations, maps, printing, fees and all other necessary expenses appertaining to the construction of such sidewalks and crosswalks exclusive of the cost of curbing, which amount shall be added interest thereon at six per centum per annum for three months, which last sum shall be the amount to be assessed upon the owners of any lot which said sidewalks have been constructed, curbed and paved," be amended so as to read as follows:

7. And be it enacted, That when the construction, curbing and paving of such sidewalks and crosswalks shall have been completed, it shall be the duty of the township committee to add to the contract price of the work and materials specified in the foregoing section, the expenses of surveying, calculations, maps, printing, fees and all other necessary expenses appertaining to the construction of such sidewalks and crosswalks exclusive of the cost of curbing, which amount shall be added interest thereon at six per centum per annum for three months, which last sum shall be the amount to be assessed upon the owners of lots benefited by such improvement.

2. And be it enacted, That section eight of the act to which this is a supplement be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

8. And be it enacted, That the township committee, having ascertained the total amount to be assessed upon the owners of lots as aforesaid, shall in writing under their hands and seals, as ess upon each lot or plot such proportion of said expenses as each lot is benefited thereby in proportion to the benefit received, which assessment shall include the name or names of the owner or owners, if known, a brief description of the location of such lot, the amount of the assessment, and such committee shall cause the same to be filed with the clerk of said township, who shall immediately cause notice of that fact and of the time and place when the said assessment will be heard by said committee, to be published in said newspaper for two weeks; and all objections in writing presented at such time and place shall be considered and adjudicated by said committee, and said committee shall order the correction of said assessment in any particular, such correction shall be certified by the chairman of said committee and filed with the clerk thereof, and said assessment as so corrected and confirmed shall be entered in the minutes of their proceedings, confirm the said assessment so made and corrected, and all such assessments so confirmed shall become due and payable at the expiration of ten days from the time of confirming the same.

3. And be it enacted, That section nine of the act to which this is a supplement be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

9. And be it enacted, That within five days after the assessment shall have been confirmed and entered in the minutes as aforesaid, the township clerk shall deliver a certified list of the assessments and taxes in such township, who shall, within fifteen days after receiving the same, demand payment of the sum so assessed upon the owner or owners of each lot of land by delivering to the owner or owners of each lot, or to the owners of each lot, residing within his township, or by leaving at the place of residence of any owner residing within his township, or by delivering to the agent of any such owner or owners a notice in writing or printed, which notice shall set forth the name or names of the owner or owners, a brief description of the location of such lot, the amount of the assessment, and the time when the same shall become due and payable, and if any owner or owners shall reside out of his township the said collector shall, within the same time, send a like notice by him, her or them, by mail, with postage prepaid, directed to his, her or their last known post office address; provided, that the provisions of this act shall not apply to municipalities in counties having less than one hundred thousand inhabitants.

4. And be it enacted, That section twenty-nine of the act to which this is a supplement be and the same is hereby repealed.

5. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 17, 1887.

CHAPTER XXIV.

A further supplement to an act entitled "An act concerning taxes," approved April fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-six.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That all bonds, mortgages and other buildings which are personal property, shall be assessed and taxed in the taxing district where the same are situated, in the name of the owner thereof, if he is known, and if the unknown then in the name of the occupant of the premises, or the owner of the land whereon the same are situate; and the taxes levied upon such bonds, mortgages and buildings may be collected in the same manner as taxes on other personal property are collected.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 17, 1887.

CHAPTER XXV.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An Act for the formation of borough governments in sea side resorts," approved March twenty-ninth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for any borough incorporated under the act to which this is a supplement, to build, construct and maintain water works for the purpose of supplying the inhabitants of such borough with water.

2. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful for such borough, for the purpose of erecting, constructing and operating such works, to issue and sell its bonds to an amount not to exceed thirty-five thousand dollars; provided, however, that such bonds shall not bear interest at a rate in excess of six per cent. per annum, or be sold for an amount less than the par or face value thereof; and provided further, that such bonds shall in no case be issued, unless a petition be first presented to the council of such borough petitioning said council to issue such bonds, which petition shall be signed by persons representing at least one-half the taxable property within the limits of such borough, as shown by the last duplicate of the assessor.

3. And be it enacted, That whenever any such borough shall, by ordinance or resolution determine to erect water works, it shall be the duty of the clerk of such borough to transmit without delay a copy of such ordinance or resolution to the secretary of state, who shall file the same in his office, whereupon the freeholders, residents of the State of New Jersey, shall be forthwith appointed to be known as "The Water Commissioners of the Borough of ——," whose duty it shall be to erect, construct, maintain and operate such water works for and on behalf of such borough.

4. And be it enacted, That one of said commissioners shall be appointed by the governor of the state of New Jersey, and two of said commissioners shall be appointed by the council of the borough in which said water works are to be constructed and operated; and said commissioners shall serve as such for the term of three years and thence until their successors are appointed; and the appointment of the successor of the commissioner appointed by the governor shall be made by the governor, and the appointment of the successors appointed by the council shall be made by the council.

5. And be it enacted, That said commissioners shall have the entire superintendence and control of the construction and operation of said water works, and shall determine the place and manner of their construction and operation; and shall in the name of such borough execute and consummate all necessary and appropriate contracts and agreements, purchases of land and materials, and perform all other acts necessary to the construction and operation of such water works, and shall draw all necessary orders on the fund provided for the erection, maintenance and operation of said works, for the payment of the costs and the expenses thereof, and pay into the borough treasury all moneys received in the operation of the same.

6. And be it enacted, That on the completion of said works, said commissioners shall prepare a report of the same, which report shall set out at length the work accomplished by said commissioners together with a full and complete statement of the costs and expenses of the same; which report shall be prepared by said commissioners in triplicate, verified by their affidavits, and one copy of the same filed with the council of said borough and one copy with the secretary of state.

7. And be it enacted, That from and after the completion of said water works, said commissioners shall make report quarterly to the council of said borough of the expenditures and receipts during each such quarter, and shall annually report to the council and secretary of state showing the condition of said water works and a summary of the receipts and expenditures during the preceding year.

8. And be it enacted, That in the event of any vacancy occurring by other cause than expiration of a term of office in the office of commissioner, such vacancy shall be filled by appointment made by the council of said borough for such unexpired term.

9. And be it enacted, That each of said commissioners shall, before entering on the duties of his office, execute a bond to the borough for which they are appointed, with sufficient freehold security, in the sum of ten thousand dollars, to well, faithfully and honestly execute and perform the duties of his office to the best of his ability and understanding.

10. And be it enacted, That each of said commissioners shall annually receive as a compensation for his services the sum of two hundred dollars.

11. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 17, 1887.

CHAPTER XXVI.

An Act to provide for licensing boats, hacks and other vehicles and the owners and drivers thereof, and also hucksters and peddlers of merchandise and provisions, or persons selling articles of like character, or persons selling refreshments at the sale thereof, by incorporated camp-meeting associations or seaside resorts, and also to enable such associations or seaside resorts to prescribe penalties for the violation of any of their ordinances, by-laws, rules or regulations.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the board of trustees, directors, commissioners or other corporate authorities of any incorporated camp-meeting association or seaside resort shall have power within the premises of said corporation to make, establish, publish and modify, amend or repeal ordinances, rules or regulations and by-laws for licensing and regulating cartmen, porters, hack, cab, omnibus, stage and truck owners and drivers, or owners and drivers of market wagons, garbage wagons, baggage wagons, express and carriages and other vehicles used for the transportation of passengers and merchandise, and boats upon the lakes and premises of said corporations used for the transportation of passengers, and also for licensing and regulating hucksters and peddlers of merchandise and provisions, or persons soliciting orders for the sale thereof (but this act shall not be construed to require a license from any person or persons selling or exposing for sale the products of their own farms), and to fix the rates of compensation to be paid to them, and to prohibit unlicensed persons and vehicles from acting or being used in such capacities, and to impose a license fee on the same; and therefor, and for such license may be imposed for revenue.

2. And be it enacted, That it shall and may be lawful for the said boards of trustees, directors, commissioners or other corporate authorities to prescribe such fines or penalties for the violation of such ordinances, rules, regulations or by-laws, or for the violation of any other ordinances, rules, regulations or by-laws which may be made by the said boards, as they may deem necessary, and not exceeding ten dollars for each offense, to be recovered by and in the name of such corporation, before any justice of the peace, police justice or other officer specially commissioned, possessing the powers of police justices, appointed or to be appointed for any such corporation, shall have jurisdiction of such cases and may hear and determine the same and give judgment and issue execution therefor, and may commit to the county jail for any time or fine to be levied on any personal property owned by such person or persons fined as aforesaid, directed to any marshal or peace officer appointed or to be appointed for any such corporation, or to the sheriff of the county in which said corporation is situate, which execution shall be levied, executed and returned in the same manner as executions in other cases, or in case of such corporation not having a county jail may issue his warrant for the imprisonment of such offender as in other cases cognizable before him.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 17, 1887.

CHAPTER XXVII.

A further supplement to an act entitled "An act to enable incorporated towns to construct water works for the extinguishment of fires and supplying the inhabitants thereof with pure and wholesome water," passed March eighth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever the board of water commissioners of any town, incorporated borough, camp meeting association or other municipal commission of this State shall find that said sum of sixty thousand dollars, provided for in the supplement, is insufficient for the purpose of constructing and fully completing said water works, or that the water works and reservoirs, aqueducts, apparatus, erections, establishments and fixtures supplying said water or any part thereof, incorporated borough, camp meeting association or other municipal commission are inadequate to furnish a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome water for the purposes designated in the act contemplated by said act, that then the said board of water commissioners shall report said fact to the board of commissioners or other governing board or body of such town, incorporated borough, camp meeting association or other municipal commission, and it shall thereupon be the duty of such board of commissioners or other governing board or body to order and appoint an election of the legal voters of such town, incorporated borough, camp meeting association or other municipal commission to determine whether an additional sum shall be raised for said purpose, and in such order to state specifically in the sum already appropriated in the whole one hundred thousand dollars; of which election the clerk of such town, incorporated borough, camp meeting association or other municipal commission shall cause public notice of the time and place of holding the same to be given by advertisements, signed by himself and set up in at least five public places in such town, incorporated borough, camp meeting association or other municipal commission, and published in one or more newspapers, printed therein, for at least six days previous to the day of such election, and said clerk shall provide for such election ballots, which shall be printed or written or partly printed and partly written, on which shall be either the words "For an additional appropriation for water supply under the provisions of the act entitled 'An act to enable incorporated towns to construct water works for the extinguishment of fires and supply the inhabitants thereof with pure and wholesome water,' passed March eighth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four," or "Against said additional appropriation for water supply under the provisions of the act entitled 'An act to enable incorporated towns to construct water works for the extinguishment of fires and supply the inhabitants thereof with pure and wholesome water, and the supplements thereto;' and that the polls for such elections shall be held at the same places, between the same hours, and such election shall be conducted by the same officers and in the same manner, and such officers shall return a statement of the result of such election to the board of commissioners in the same manner as is prescribed and provided for in the twentieth section of the act to which this is a supplement.

2. And be it enacted, That should the legal electors of such town, incorporated borough, camp meeting association or other municipal commission at such election vote an additional sum for such water works, that it shall be the duty of the board of commissioners or other governing board or body of such town, incorporated borough, camp meeting association or other municipal commission to issue the bonds of said town, incorporated borough, camp meeting association or other municipal commission for said sum, said bonds to bear a rate of interest not exceeding the legal rate, payable semi-annually, the principal thereof to be payable in thirty years from the date thereof, or sooner, at the option of said town, incorporated borough, camp meeting association or other municipal commission, and it shall be the duty of the treasurer or other disbursing officer thereof, to make sale of the bonds so issued at not less than their par value, and to pay the proceeds of said sales to said board of water commissioners, to be by them appropriated according to the provisions of said act.

3. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful for such board of water commissioners, when in their opinion they shall deem it advisable, either before the construction of said water works or at any time thereafter, to purchase any stream or streams of water, well or wells of water, or reservoirs, aqueducts, apparatus, works, establishments or fixtures, or system or partial system of water works with the appurtenances thereto belonging or attached, owned by any person or persons or corporation, and the same to consolidate with and form part of the water works system of such town, incorporated borough, camp meeting association or other municipal commission; provided, however, that such proposed purchase and the terms thereof shall be first reported by such board of water commissioners to the board of commissioners or other governing board or body of such town, incorporated borough, camp meeting association or other municipal commission, and such report shall be published by such board of commissioners together with a full and complete statement of the costs and expenses of the same; which report shall be prepared by said commissioners in triplicate, verified by their affidavits, and one copy of the same filed with the council of said borough and one copy with the secretary of state.

4. And be it enacted, That from and after the completion of said water works, said commissioners shall make report quarterly to the council of said borough of the expenditures and receipts during each such quarter, and shall annually report to the council and secretary of state showing the condition of said water works and a summary of the receipts and expenditures during the preceding year.

5. And be it enacted, That in the event of any vacancy occurring by other cause than expiration of a term of office in the office of commissioner, such vacancy shall be filled by appointment made by the council of said borough for such unexpired term.

6. And be it enacted, That each of said commissioners shall, before entering on the duties of his office, execute a bond to the borough for which they are appointed, with sufficient freehold security, in the sum of ten thousand dollars, to well, faithfully and honestly execute and perform the duties of his office to the best of his ability and understanding.

7. And be it enacted, That each of said commissioners shall annually receive as a compensation for his services the sum of two hundred dollars.

8. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 17, 1887.

CHAPTER XXIX.

An Act to authorize certain railroad companies of this state to borrow money and secure the repayment thereof by mortgage upon their property and franchises.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That any railroad company of this state, the amount of whose mortgage indebtedness shall have been definitely fixed by special law, shall have power, notwithstanding any such limitation, by its board of directors or other governing officer, by rules or regulations, from time to time, as shall be necessary to pay off or retire its existing and maturing mortgage indebtedness, to pay an additional track where its railroad is now laid, to extend its single track and sidings, or to otherwise improve its railroad, and furnish engines and other equipment for the uses and objects of said company, and to secure the repayment thereof by the execution, according to law, of a mortgage or bond or bonds secured by mortgage on the railroad, lands, privileges, franchises and appurtenances of and belonging to the said company; provided, that the whole mortgage indebtedness of any railroad company shall not at any time exceed the amount of its capital stock and provided, that the bonds issued under any such mortgage shall not bear a greater rate of interest than seven per centum per annum; provided, further, that before any such mortgage shall be executed the consent of two-thirds in value of the stockholders of such company shall first be obtained.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts, general or special, inconsistent with this act, be and are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 22, 1887.

CHAPTER XXX.

An Act to authorize the boards of chosen freeholders in the several counties of this state to assume and exercise the custody, rule, keeping and charge of the county jails in their respective counties, and of the prisoners in such jails, and for the regulation and management of such jails and of the prisoners therein.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for the board of chosen freeholders of any county in this state to assume and hereafter to exercise the custody, rule, keeping and charge of the county jails in their respective counties, and of the prisoners in such jails, and for the regulation and management of such jails and of the prisoners therein.

2. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for the "Blotwer" is a new explosive ten times the strength of gunpowder, exploding without smoke or noise. A Russian invented it.

The old theory that it took seven years for the human body to undergo a complete change has been succeeded by the one that the revolution takes place every thirty days. The mummy of old Pharaoh, recently exhumed, is, of course, an exception.

A cotton-picking machine has just been constructed at Richmond, Va., which will gather cotton from the stalks and put it in bags as the machine is drawn by horse-power along the cotton row. It will pick from 3000 to 3500 pounds of cotton per day.

Modern warfare is returning fast to use of weapons which were long ago given up as useless. The lance is being restored. Roman soldiers once carried a spade; English troops have recently done the same. The dog has yet to figure in a war, though the pigeon did useful work in 1870.

The earth contains something of value besides coal, petroleum and gas. The production of gold in this country during the year 1886 is estimated at $35,000,000, and that of silver at $51,000,000. The total amount of silver taken out of the old ball in 1886 in all countries was of a value of $124,000,000.

In spite of repeated failures efforts are still being made to utilize petroleum as a fuel for making steam. A company has been formed in New York state, with a capital of $3,000,000, for accomplishing this result by means of an invention consisting of an apparatus for the production of a fixed gas from the union of decomposed oil and water.

General George A. Sheridan of New York says he got more money for less actual service than any other man who ever served in Congress. He was not admitted to his seat until about three hours before the expiration of his term, and he drew salary, mileage, etc., amounting to about $14,000. In that respect he thinks his Congressional fame will be immortal.

Generally a man dies leaving less property than he supposed that he owned. The Baron du Meuil, of Brussels, however, thought he owned but a small property, and after making a few legacies, directed the remainder to be spent on his tomb. Some $600,000 has been found to have belonged to him, and his heirs are trying to find out whether it must all go into a mausoleum.

The United States Geological Survey will collect all attainable information regarding the recent earthquakes in Arizona. Circular letters of inquiry have been sent to residents on the area affected, as usual. The disturbed area seems to be a circle of some four hundred miles radius, fully one-quarter as large as the Charleston earthquake, and nearly one-third of the area of the Riviera earthquake of last February.

Managers of drug store soda fountains in the cities report that the demand is increasing for phosphates, ginger extracts, and other preparations for toning up the system. Mineral spring waters are not now so much sought after. Women seldom call for nerve drinks; they prefer sweet extracts. But the men usually ask for something to brace them up—something to wind up run-down powers and prop failing energies—usually the result of excesses in the use of liquor and tobacco.

The farmers of Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana are arranging a scheme of co-operation which, if properly carried out, is expected to benefit them greatly, and speedily drive out the crop mortgage. The idea is to construct cotton, cotton-seed oil and flour mills in different centres, so as to enable the farmer to get a local market for his produce, and be sure of obtaining a fair price. The mills will be owned by the farmers themselves, who will act as their own commission agents, and manufacture with their own produce.

Although the thugs of India have been long since exterminated, a Hindoo writer in the London Standard tells how they have been replaced by professional poisoners. These people make use of a poison extracted from the seed of the shatura, mixed with opium, and travel from place to place; now poisoning a traveling companion for his money, a laborer for his oxen or a host for the valuables in his house. They are distinguished from the thugs in that they will kill women, children and pilgrims which the thugs would not do. The road poisoners are organized secretly and great efforts have been made to exterminate them, and thus far without success.

The Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette discusses as follows upon the great summer plague, the lively and bloodthirsty mosquito: "There are, it seems, so far as ascertained, one hundred and fifty-eight species of mosquito. About a quarter of them are distributed in North America, largely among summer resorts. It is said there are kinds that may come in winter as well as summer, but the true business mosquito comes in summer, usually about bed time, and stays until the weather is too cold for work. Only the female insect bites. In boring for blood she uses a long drill made up of seven distinct parts. The male, who is not a backbiter (because of his inability to be, and not through any virtue), can hum around at night, and add something to the discomfort of the bedchamber. In the way of good qualities, mosquitoes furnish food for fishes, which in turn are eaten by us, and blood is provided for the thirsty mosquitoes. Besides, mosquitoes serve to purify standing water and lessen malarial influences. It is hard to decide, however, which is the most disagreeable, malarial influences or mosquitoes. In a matter of choice the sleepy man would take malaria without a moment's hesitation."

GEN. POULANGER is described by a recent interviewer as "a short man rather stoutly built, with brown hair, brown beard, rather a red face; above all things quiet-looking almost to commonplaceness. He wore the ordinary French civilian's dress of black frock-coat and trousers, with only the single red spot in his buttonhole."

THE Popular Science Monthly says the idea of keeping an open vessel of water on the stove is one of the most absurd things that have ever become popular. The evaporation of the water is certain to bring on coughs, colds, sore throats and rheumatism, and under no circumstances can its use be of any benefit.

Indian Summer.

The sunlight, in a warm and mellow tide
Upon this Indian summer day descends;
Earth, sky, and all the view of nature wide
In silent and harmonious beauty blends.

Along the southward slopes the aftergrass
Still shows the emerald shade of summer time;
With lingering pace a troop of nephyrs pass,
And oft repeat a verse of mystic rhyme.

The vapor ships that slowly cross the sky
Are smooth and fleecy, like the clouds of June,
And only trees that leafless meet my eye
Remind me earth has passed from Nature's noon.

—[A. F. Browne.

A BACHELOR'S REWARD.

BY GEORGE TEACH.

It was a cold January day. John Steele sat alone in his office, in the midst of a deep reverie.

It was seldom that he was idle, as he was at the present time, but this evening the memories of the past came flocking upon him like ghosts from another land.

John Steele was a bachelor of forty. He had been born and reared a poor boy, in the little town of M——, and had never felt a desire to leave it. He had studied law and plodded along year after year in the dingy, grimy office, in which we find him now, and had grown rich. He had no personal friends, and lived alone in a large, old frame house at the outskirts of the town, with a man servant as cook and general man-of-all work.

Years and years before, when a young man of twenty, poor and aimless, Steele had loved a girl whose parents would not let her marry him because he was so worthless. In his rage he blamed her for this and would listen to no reason, and from that day had hated women and had led a solitary life. It was this scene that now held John Steele in his office chair, as the mantle of night gathered over the town.

"More than twenty years ago," he mused, "and I don't believe I have ever spoken to a woman, except on business, since that day. They say she married a no-account wretch after all, who has sunk down to poverty and want. Well, well, I must not waste time thinking about such things now. I was only a boy then, and did not know what I wanted. I must be going." Whereupon he arose, buttoned his coat about him, locked his office and trudged on his homeward journey.

Rumor had it about town that, although by her parents' influence, Katie Drew had married shortly after her refusal of Steele, that she had loved him dearly. This was most likely true, but as twenty years had past, the matter had faded from the general mind to give way to more lively gossip.

Steele ate his supper in silence. William, his man-of-all-work had a very good meal prepared; for, though Steele was close-fisted he believed in good eating, good clothes and comfortable living.

"Now, William," said Steele, when he had finished, "if you fix me up enough food to do me to-morrow, you may have a holiday. And here is your money and five dollars to have a time with. No holiday for me; I don't need any and don't want any."

"Thank you, Mr. Steele, for your goodness," said William. "But, Mr. Steele, don't you never take any little extra pleasure at all? You know I used to know you when you was a little fellow; and I can remember seeing your good mother holding you up at the old church so you could see the Christmas tree. And you was a wee little tad then, and you clapped your little hands in glee and your mother would kiss your baby face and talk baby talk to you. It don't seem like that was near forty years ago, Mr. Steele, but it was."

"Confound the fellow," grumbled Steele, as he sat down in his room that night to read. "If I should listen to him he would upset me. I don't know what is the matter with me this evening anyhow. I never felt so queer in my life. I guess I am using too much tobacco of late."

He read until bedtime, and was in the act of taking off his boots, when he heard a knock at the front door.

"Wonder who that is," he thought. "Something unusual at this place."

He listened a moment and there came another knock.

"What the deuce can that William be doing that he don't go the door?" said Steele. "I want to go to bed, and it may be some one that wants me. To borrow money, I guess. Well, unless they have good security, not a cent do they get."

At this juncture, William opened the door. Steele heard an indistinct conversation and then William conducted the visitor to the kitchen. After some moments William came walking into the room.

"Well, what is it?"

"Excuse me, Mr. Steele, but there is a poor woman in the kitchen who needs some help badly. I'm sure she does, for she don't look as a common beggar. She says she has walked through the cold all the way from the last town, and is most dead."

"Yes, that is what they all say. Give her something to eat and send her on."

"But I wish you would come and see her."

"Bother these beggars," mumbled Steele. "But I guess I'll go down to get rid of her."

Steele saw a black figure sitting by the fire.

"Well," he said to her, when he entered, "what can I do for you?"

She turned toward him. Her face was not that of a beggar. Although a trifle pale, it was the face of a pretty woman of thirty-five.

"I only wished to get warm," she said. "I was so cold that I felt as if I should freeze. I am sorry to disturb you. I have friends in the town, and am sure I can get employment of some kind there. I used to live there years and years ago."

By means of a few questions he learned that she was a widow without any relations in the world. He was deeply touched by her story.

"What was your husband's name?" asked Steele.

"Carter," she said; "George Carter."

"Wait here a moment," he said, and went up to his room.

He went to his desk and took out some money. "I so seldom give," said he, "and can afford to be liberal to this poor woman." He took two ten-dollar bills and started back to the kitchen.

"She said her name was Carter. Carter—Carter! Where have I heard—what! Carter! My God! That was the name of her husband. She said she used to live here years ago. It must be she. It is Kate Drew! It must be!"

Steele shook like a leaf. He seemed young again. He remembered her once more as the sweet-faced girl, and the heart which had been slumbering so long seemed to spring into new life. He sat down on the stairs to compose himself, and then started again for the kitchen.

"William," said Steele, when he entered, "here is the key to my office. I wish you would go there and bring me a packet you will find on my desk."

William fell in the trap without suspicion, and was off.

Steele seated himself in a dark corner and looked at the woman. He could see his old love in every feature of the face. He was strangely excited and knew not what to say.

"You say you lived here once?" he began.

"Yes, when I was a girl," she said. "And bad fortune has overtaken you since. Perhaps you knew my cousin, then, John Steele?"

"Yes," she said, "I knew him. Is he not here now?"

"No, poor fellow," said Steele, feeling guilty as he spoke the words, "he is dead."

"Dead!" and she leaned her head on her hand and wept.

"Yes," said Steele, feeling like a murderer as he spoke, "but none who knew him were sorry for it. He had no good in him, and lived a selfish life."

"Poor man!" said the sweet, sympathizing tones. "At heart he was good."

Something seemed to move Steele. He got up and stood by her chair. His hand, by accident, touched her. It sent a thrill through him that seemed to make a new being of him.

"Katie," he said, "don't you know me?"

She looked up, started, stood erect and got a good look into his face.

"John!" she said, in a scared way, and hid her face in her hands.

"Yes, Katie," he said, "it is John. I was thinking of you to-day, and it seems as though heaven has sent you."

"This is such a shock to me," and she sat down again.

Steele's heart was throbbing wildly, and he quivered with excitement.

"I am old, now Katie, and perhaps awkward in my speech, but—I—I can't help what I am saying. You have no home, I am rich, and you are the only woman I ever loved. You are welcome to all I have. My life has been very lonely. With you I would be happy. You can't love me, I know, after all this time, but I do not ask that."

She arose as if to go. Poor Steele's heart seemed to be bursting. He unconsciously put forth his arms and touched her. With a sob she fell into them and rested her head on his shoulder.

"Katie!" he cried in joy.

"Oh, John, how can I speak!"

"Say something, Katie."

"I feel so guilty. I thought you would never forgive me But—but—but I have—"

"But what, Katie?"

"Oh, John, you know I loved you then, and it was not my fault. I have loved you all these long years. I am so happy, if you will but forgive me."

"Forgive you! Don't speak of that again. You are homeless no longer, Katie. I know what love is at least. You are in my house now, and you shall never go out of it except as my wife."

"No, John, not—"

"Yes, don't object. I know it don't sound well, but I don't care for that. A preacher lives close. Won't you consent?"

"But—"

"Please don't refuse, Katie."

"Well, I guess—"

Just then William came in. Steele nearly ran over him. "Hang the papers!" he said, as William offered them to him.

"Here, William," he said, as he came down stairs putting on his overcoat, "fix the front room and light a fire. Don't you hear, you idiot? Don't stand looking, move about."

William did not know what was the matter. He had just got the fire lighted when Steele came stumbling in with the preacher.—[Arkansas Traveler.

"The Queen's Pipe."

In the centre of the tobacco warehouses at the London docks there is an immense kiln, which is kept continually burning, day and night, and goes by the name of the queen's tobacco pipe. The English government has a different way of treating confiscated articles than that in use in this country, one of them being to utilize them as fuel for what is termed the queen's smoking. Whenever merchandise is seized for nonpayment of duty, or because it is considered under the law as in a damaged or unsalable condition, it is taken to this great kiln and burned there, the owners having no remedy. The only utilization that is made of these seizures is from the sale of the ashes from the furnace, which, to the amount of a great many tons a month, are sold by auction to chemical works, and to farmers and others to be used in enriching the soil. There is a similar but smaller queen's tobacco pipe in the government tobacco warehouses at Liverpool, these two forming the points of destruction, for all confiscated merchandise in the United Kingdom.—[Commercial Gazette.

A Geological Phenomenon.

In many parts of the world abundant evidence shows that the land is still slowly rising or sinking, producing gradual changes that in the course of ages will completely transform the earth's topography. One of the most remarkable examples has been furnished by Sweden and Finland. Lyell long ago estimated that portions of Sweden are being elevated about four feet in a century, and surveys just made in Finland once more prove that the shores of the Baltic are steadily rising. M. Venukoff reports to the French academy of Sciences that since the surveys of 1810-15 several islands have become peninsulas, while many shallows have become islands or beaches. On the southwest coast and in the neighboring Aland Archipelago, pastures, gardens and corn-fields occupy spots which were under water a few years ago. Steps are being taken to accurately measure the future progress of this geological phenomenon.—[Arkansaw Traveler.

To Make a Parrot Talk.

A. U. R. asks: What is the best way to feed a young parrot to enable him to talk.

The quickest way is to send the bird where there is another parrot who can speak. They should be placed near enough to hear, but not see each other, and the one will soon imitate the other. Or speak to the bird at night, when he cannot see you. Feed him on bread and milk, with a little canary seed.—[New York.

OLD AND QUEER.

Interesting Antiquities Picked Up Near Pasadena, Cal.

Stone Relics of a People Who Lived Many Centuries Ago.

While walking my horse up a hill near Pasadena, writes a correspondent from California to the New York Commercial, the animal slipped on a curiously-shaped stone protruding from the ground and presenting a smooth, rounded surface. I saw at a glance that water could not have worn it into such regular shape. I unearthed it. It proved to be a stone dish weighing fifteen or twenty pounds. In shape it resembled the wooden receptacles for mince meat in vogue in New England when I was a lad. But this strange utensil was not used in the manufacture of mince pies. I lifted it upon the saddle, and carried it up to the ranch. The moment the owner saw it he said: "Why, I've found a cartload of those things here. You see," he continued, "according to my way of thinking, my ranch is the site of an old camping ground of people, gone no one knows where, and I don't think they went by degrees, either. Something must have occurred to have stopped them all at once, as they would hardly leave things here that were evidently so tedious to make. How old are they? Well, it's difficult to say, but many of them are found two or three feet below the surface; not buried by man but covered by nature, and you can judge how long that would take as well as I can. Again, many of them have decayed since they were made, which looks as though 400 or 500 years might have gone by since they were abandoned."

"According to my ideas," continued Mr. Giddings, "these stones were primitive mills belonging to an ancient people. Now, to give you an idea why I think this was an old camp, and also to show you how much of this stuff there is here, I will get out my plow and go over a small bit while you follow and see what you can find."

This suggestion was acted upon, and soon the plow was turning up the dark loam, into which my horse sank ankle deep. I had not gone fifty feet before I saw a stone that was not as nature had left it. It was about eight inches long, and a dip in the spring close by showed it to be polished or ground off on both sides perfectly flat, so that it fitted well into the hand.

"That's a grinder," said Mr. Giddings. "The acorns, or nuts, or grain, whatever it was, was put in the big dishes and ground with these into a meal or flour. Here's another," he said, picking one out of the loam. "You see it is similar in shape, but is disintegrated by time and ready to fall to pieces." A few feet farther on another object appeared, and generally where there was one a little digging showed quite a number; this last find was a ball, and if used as a pestle must have been continually changed about by the hand, but it was probably used in some game, or perhaps was a toy. Following the plow again a large mortar was thrown up, having a hole in the bottom that had been literally worn through by continuous grinding. In the course of the afternoon quite a number of pestles and mortars and broken parts of the same were unearthed, and later I found many more pieces in the bush where they had been washed out by the rain. A large number of dishes, as they were commonly called, were worn out, thus showing that the locality was a permanent residence, and that the old worn out dishes had been cast aside from time to time. Some of the stones that I collected and arranged in the brook had been finely shaped, showing that the makers had some idea of form.

The vicinity of Pasadena seems to have been a favorite camping ground for many of these ancient people; the spot overlooks a grand vista—a deep canon or arroyo—the tops of the trees being far beneath a charming spot for a camp. Hardly a ranch or house of an old settler in the valley but can boast relics of the kind I have described, that have for years been scattered hither and yon, but should be collected in a local historical museum and preserved. John Giddings the owner of the Indian camp, tells me that in various parts of Ventura county he has found specimens like these; and in one locality a lady has in her possession some stone clubs which, I think, are unique. He describes them as being from three and one-half to four and one-half feet in length; like base ball bats in their general shape, and evidently weapons of warfare though certainly no ordinary man could lift such a weapon to use it in battle. If such an implement from this country is in any collections in the United States, it has escaped my notice.

Grains of Sand.

The manufacture of sand is an important industry, which has Pittsburg for its headquarters, although the sand is not made within the limits of the city. There is considerable traffic in Monongahela sand, which is scooped up from the bed of the river, to be used for common building purposes; but the manufacture of sand is quite another affair, and the product goes into quite a different commodity, which is glass.

Practically glass is almost pure sand, other substances used in its manufacture for fluxing being consumed while the sand is transformed to a greater or less degree of transparency. The sand used in glass making is almost pure silica, so nearly pure that there is less than one per cent. of iron, magnesia, and albuminum, to ninety-nine per cent. of the other. And of this sand which is quarried out of the hills and ground down to varying degrees of fineness, and washed to varying degrees of whiteness, eight hundred tons are manufactured daily, four hundred tons being consumed in and about Pittsburg, and four hundred tons going into Eastern Ohio and West Virginia to Wheeling, Bellaire, Columbus and all points within a circuit of one hundred and fifty miles from Pittsburg.—[Popular Science Monthly.

Teaching Words to a Dog.

Sir John Lubbock has succeeded in teaching a black poodle dog "a little light reading." He took pieces of cardboard and painted on them the words "food," "out," "bone," "tea," and so on. Then by associating food in the animal's mind with the card bearing the word "food," he succeeded in getting it to pick out the card bearing that word. Again, when asked if he wanted to go out, he fished "out" the card bearing that word, and so forth. The teaching took a long time, and, though to a large extent futile, it shows what may be done with some dogs by proper methods of training.—[Cassell.

FARM AND GARDEN.

Our Farm Wagons.

A good, strong and always reliable wagon is a necessity to every farmer. The loss by breakages and cost of repairs or setting tires and the like on many old wagons kept in use from mistaken ideas of economy will pay heavy interest on a new one. Unless this is kept under shelter, however, when not in use, it will soon become dilapidated. A coat of paint once a year will not only make it look new but will keep it firm and solid for many years. A shrewd wagon maker used often to remark that it was not for his interest to have neighboring farmers buy his wares. Those sold several miles distant he did not regret; but he kept a repair shop as well, and he could make more from near-by farmers' repairing their old wagons than from selling them new ones.—[Cultivator.

Breeding Ducks.

Ducks may be made more profitable than any other kind of poultry by good management. This includes the entire exclusion of water to swim in. A yard 25 by 100 is large enough for 40 ducks each with a brood; but there should be a second yard provided for alternate use. It is better to rear the broods under hens until they are a week or ten days old, when each brood should be kept separate in a small pen bordered by a 12-inch wide board. A rain proof shelter should be provided for the ducklings to nestle in, and this should be in the form of a semicircle, having no corners for the birds to crowd in and smother each other. The food should be coarse oat and corn grits, crushed wheat and sweet curds, with fresh water in shallow pans, covered with close lattice to keep them from wading in it.—[New York Times.

Change the Ground.

One mistake in poultry-keeping, a writer in the Homestead says, is in running the hens on the same plot of ground continually. I believe it to be a fact that they will not do as well in the same quarters after running there a few years. That has been my experience, and I have come to the conclusion that some cheap but warm shelter should be made and every few years removed to an entirely new spot. There is no doubt in my mind that a small flock of hens, well cared for, is good property. The farmer must look out for the little things as well as the larger ones, in order to be successful, and also be prudent and industrious, possessing good judgment and perseverance. If endowed with all of these, he may as well farm in New England as the West, for he will be prosperous in either location without doubt.

Seeding with Oats.

There is a general belief among farmers that oats are not so good to seed with as other grains. For one reason they are sown later and on poorer land than spring wheat or barley. The oat crop receives less attention than any other, and its seed is often covered with clods not mellowed down as would be deemed necessary for other grains. It also remains on the ground one to three weeks longer than barley sown at the same time, and this later growth comes at the most trying time for young clover or timothy. The farmers who seed with oats generally lack faith, and do not lavish their seed so liberally as those who sow other grains. Unless a man has faith and hope in what he is doing it is scarcely possible for him to do anything well. Sow at least a peck of clover seed if sown alone, or six quarts of timothy seed is also sown, and seeding with oats will almost certainly be a success. The probability that some grass seed will fail with this crop is surely no reason for seeding more sparingly with it than with others.

Keep Swine Out of Orchards.

Dr. A. G. Chase, of Leavenworth County, Kansas, who has all his life been a close observer of all matters immediately connected with the rearing of swine, is persuaded that it is bad policy to have them pastured in orchards, and says: "Fifteen years ago this was taught and practiced by many, and as a result I can show you some of the worst wrecks in what were fine orchards. Last fall I saw the boys digging out some large dead trees at one I have in mind, where the trees were about twenty-five years old. The father, while he lived (and the practice began with him) was a very careful and enthusiastic horticulturist. For three or four years the boys followed his example, turning fifty to seventy-five hogs in to keep the clover down and pick up the windfalls. The hogs were probably lousy (as is very common here), and with many trees the bark was rubbed through to the wood. A few were nearly girdled by this rubbing. A short time since I asked an intelligent German if he pastured hogs in his orchard of 1000 trees. 'No, sir; I would soon have no orchard, if I did,' was his reply, and this fairly represents the sentiment of our orchardists."—[Our Country Home.

The Use of Manure.

A correspondent of the Mirror and Farmer says: When I commenced farming for myself some thirteen years ago, I used to make a practice of plowing under the manure, but I was not satisfied with the result, so I commenced to experiment for my own benefit. I found out that twenty loads of manure spread on top of the furrow and thoroughly worked in the soil, was as good as double that amount plowed under, as it did not seem to be much benefit until it was plowed again and turned on top of the ground and worked in with the soil. Manure plowed under does not come in contact with grain, roots or potatoes, as a general thing. The strength of the manure will not come up to the roots, but if it is spread on top the moisture of the ground and the rain will leach the manure, and it will mix with the soil and will bring extra results. By this method one can plow the land in the fall and can haul and apply the manure after the ground is frozen, even when the snow is on the ground, by using sticks so as to tell where you leave off, if it should snow. Manure made in the winter can be hauled before the ground is bare, and by so doing you save lots of time, which with the farmer is money.

Management of Bees.

The first work performed by the bees when the weather permits them to come out of the hive is to clean out the filth and accumulations of the winter. Dead bees are thrown out, and every portion of the hive is put in order for the labor of the coming season. It is very important that the colonies be very strong and numerous. A good, strong colony is worth three or four weak ones. The profits from bee-keeping depend partly upon the skill of the manager. Bees cannot make honey unless they have the honey-producing plants to work upon, and the result depends somewhat upon the season. In those sections where fruit growing is made a specialty the bees have all the work they can do early in the season, but after the blossoms are gone they often have to range over a large extent of country in search of honey, and this subjects the hive to a loss of many of its members. Birds, spiders, toads and other enemies play havoc with them, while a sudden shower will sometimes destroy a large number before they can return to the hive. To make the keeping of bees a business properly there should be certain crops grown partially for their benefit, such as buckwheat, upon which the bees will work industriously. The red clover would provide an excellent means of honey but for the fact that the flower is too deep for the bees to work in; but the ordinary white clover, alsike clover and other grasses are put to good service. With the improved hives the bees are allowed first to store up the food for their use in winter, and they are not robbed of that supply, but if they have plenty of blossoms to work on they are provided with extra boxes. This is an excellent mode, as the beekeeper is compelled to bear the loss instead of the bees, which induces him to resort to all available expedients to provide the bees with something from which to derive honey. The habits of bees must be studied, and they require careful management. Work is required to manage them properly, as they cannot always be kept with profit unless all the conditions be favorable.

Treatment of Meadow Lands.

In a paper read before the farmers of Vermont at the opening of the "Farmers' Course" at the State University, Mr. A. W. Cheever made many practical suggestions of widespread interest. He numbered with grasses adapted to that state, also to the west, timothy, clover, blue grass, orchard grass, foul meadow, tall fescue, meadow fescue, red top and meadow foxtail.

To keep a meadow intact for grass Mr. Cheever advised top-dressing, but suggested that other grasses than timothy should be selected for the sod unless seed is freely scattered with the manure applied. Red top or other so-called natural meadow grasses will be likely to be found in all good mowings that can be kept productive for a long period by the application of manure to the surface.

Red clover renews itself only from seed, but white clover from the roots or layers; time grass and witch grass both spread from underground stems. If our grasses were allowed to stand long enough, they would renew themselves from seed, but good husbandry requires cutting too early for this.

Another authority present at the same meeting said on the subject of top-dressing that the best time to top-dress is the next day after the hay is cut and removed from the field. The manure then acts as a mulch to shade the surface and protect the roots, and also by affording a fresh supply of plant food, which will be washed into the soil by the first shower or rain storm. This farmer does not top-dress, however, except such lands as will produce at least two good crops of hay every season. Manure applied just after haying makes the second crop almost an assured fact every year on lands and sod adapted to permanent mowing. The next best time is in the spring, just as the grass is starting into vigorous growth, provided the soil is firm enough to cart over at that time, as it will be if it is properly drained.

It was advised that manure, when applied for top-dressing, should either be harrow or drag will spread it all down so thoroughly rotted and fine that it will readily sift down in among the stubble or else soft enough so that a heavy bush or a smoothing close to the earth. Manure applied in hard lumps is worth very little as a top-dressing.

How to Breathe Properly.

Do you know how to breathe? You think you do, but do you? A prominent physician of Chicago tells me that no more than one person in five breathes properly and that a part of his practice consists of teaching patients this art—if a thing as near to the natural as breathing may be properly called an art. For this purpose he has fitted up a vacuum chamber in his office; in this the patient stands and breathes purified air through a rubber tube. "The great point," says the doctor, "is to teach people to breathe fully and deeply, to fill the lungs at each inspiration. A vast majority of people do not do this. Their inspirations are so slight that only a small portion of the lungs are filled with air, the remainder lying dormant and unused except in times of great muscular exertion. The lungs contain numerous little air cells or vesicles, into all of which, in healthy breathing, the air should penetrate. These air vesicles being only one-seventy-fifth of an inch in diameter, and the extent of the membrane of the lung being estimated at 1400 square feet, it follows that these cells must be numbered by thousands if not millions, and that full inspiration is necessary to bring them into use. The function of the lungs, as everybody knows, is to supply the blood with the vital oxygen, and also to purify it of watery vapor, carbonic acid and other deleterious ingredients. To interfere with this life-giving and blood-cleansing process is as dangerous as trying to subsist on insufficient nourishment, and the man who breathes lightly poisons and weakens his blood, permits the air vesicles of his lungs to fall into disuse and decay, and incurs the danger of consumption or pneumonia. Insufficient breathing, combined with the inhalation of air poor in oxygen and already so impure that it cannot cleanse the blood, is the direct cause of nearly all non-inherited cases of consumption. Though it sounds rather queer, it is nevertheless a fact that many thousands of people die every year because they are too lazy to breathe. I am teaching people how to breathe, and with the most encouraging results. Persons whose lungs are weak, whose family is tainted with consumption, or who from any cause have fear of that modern plague, should cultivate the habit of breathing their lungs full at each inspiration.—[Chicago Herald.

Driving Up the Chickens.

Charles Doubler, of Dawson, Ga., has a shepherd dog that drives his chickens up at night. About sundown the dog begins his rounds over the premises, and never stops until every fowl is driven up and is in the hen-house. If a chicken shows a disposition not to retire to its roosting place the dog drives it in the hen-house and stands guard at the door until the chicken takes a perch on the roost.—[Chicago Herald.

THE TWO HEROINES.

Big Stories of Two Clerks in the United States Treasury.

The One a Noted Army Nurse, the Other Secretary Seward's Housekeeper.

A Washington letter to the Cincinnati Enquirer says: There are now engaged in the Division of Loans and Currency of the Treasury Department at Washington two lady employes who have become widely known for their historical experience in war times, and one gentleman who is the son of a former President.

Miss Harriet P. Dame, the army nurse, who won national fame by her four years and eight months of perilous service with the Second New Hampshire Regiment during the Civil war, deserves first mention. Her career has been repeatedly published in part, but no writer who attempts to chronicle all her thrilling, trying experiences under deadly fire on the field of battle, exposed to the contending elements of heaven, or over wounded, sick and dying soldiers in the hospitals, need ever hope to be successful. As a matter of fact, and not merely of sentiment, her history is written in scars held under her ministering hands, in hearts to whom she by her presence and deeds brought hope and comfort amid the sufferings of war, and in the memories of stricken suffering ones, both blue and gray, for whom she cared.

She was once taken prisoner at the second battle of Bull Run and detained a week about Stonewall Jackson's headquarters, in a tent specially provided for her occupancy; but when the general found on investigation that she was not a spy, as suspected, he had her released and permitted her to go undisturbed. She was sent on highly important and responsible missions at various times by the governor of New Hampshire and by other officials and organizations, each time returning with thoroughly reliable and practical reports, and often doing efficient work in securing needed reforms in the hospital and transportation arrangements.

For a number of years since the war her soldier friends had been urging her at different times to secure a pension for her services, but she modestly maintained that she wanted the soldiers pensioned first, and that she could take care of herself.

This remarkable woman had served these four years and eight months amid all the carnage and suffering of war for the pittance of $6 per month allowed army nurses. By a special act of Congress, secured by her friends, she was given a pension of $25 a month, beginning on July 3, 1884. She allowed the pension to run for considerable time, then taking the amount due her and adding to the same from her modest earnings in the government service she built, at her own expense, a house to be used as the future headquarters of the Second New Hampshire soldiers in their reunions at the Weirs, Lake Winnepesaukee, N. H. This cost her $1000, and ex-Gov. Smith, governor of New Hampshire at the close of the war, furnished the house. At the close of the war the state legislature of New Hampshire presented her with some highly appreciative resolutions, engrossed on parchment, in recognition of her services, and also presented her with a sum of money.

She is now seventy-two years old, and is a well-preserved woman for her age. She wears a plain black dress, has well-formed, expressive features, dark eyes and hair only partially turned to gray. Her nose and forehead are sharply and yet becomingly outlined. She is engaged as a money counter at $900 per year.

Miss Margaret Coleman, in the same division, was the housekeeper for the Seward family in Washington at the time of the assassination of Lincoln and the attempt on Secretary Seward's life. The screams of Miss Fannie Seward, who was in the room with her invalid father when he was murderously attacked by Payne, brought Miss Coleman to the rescue, and when Payne heard her coming he left Mr. Seward, who in the struggle had fallen out of bed and was found by Miss Coleman between the bed and the wall, with his head still under the clothes, and smothering in his own blood. Payne had lost his hat and paused a moment to look in vain for what was afterwards to be a silent but unimpeachable witness against him, then rushed for the door, and, meeting Miss Coleman threw himself against her, hurling her against the door as it stood open and dislocating her shoulder-blade. Further on he passed Miss Fannie in his hot haste and made his escape.

Miss Coleman was with the Seward family eight years, and witnessed the rapid decline of both Mrs. Seward and Miss Fannie, who never survived the shock of that terrible night of the 14th of April, 1865. Mrs. Seward died in June, and Miss Fannie in the fall following the awful scenes of assassination in their home. Miss Coleman tells the story as vividly as though it had been witnessed scarcely an hour ago. She is now fifty-seven years of age, and serves as a messenger at $660 a year. She has been in the division twelve years.

A Strong Man.

There is a man on the Carson river, below Dayton, Nevada, named Angelo Cordella, who claims to be the strongest man in the world. He is an Italian, aged 28, and stands 5 feet 10 inches, weighing 198 pounds. His strength was born with him, for he has no athletic training. He differs from other men chiefly in the osseous structure. Although not of unusual size, his spinal column is much beyond the ordinary width, and his bones and joints are made on a similarly large and generous scale. He has lifted a man of 200 pounds with the middle finger of his right hand. The man stood with one foot on the floor, his arms outstretched, his hands grasped by two persons to balance his body. Cordella then stooped and placed the third finger of his right hand under the man's foot, and, with scarcely any perceptible effort, raised him to the height of four feet and deposited him on a table near at hand. Once two powerful men waylaid Cordella with intent to thrash him, but he seized one in each hand and hammered them together until life was nearly knocked out of them.

Business Enterprise.

The train was approaching Troy.

"Are you going to eat your dinner at the railroad restaurant?" he asked of a passenger.

"Yes," was the reply.

"Just slip that card in your pocket," he whispered; "I'm an undertaker."—[New York Sun.

Are They Glad?

If she were here
To take my hand and ask, "What is it dear?"
She would not see the wrinkles on my face
Nor note the silver where the gold had place.
Upon my faded lip she'd leave a kiss.
And whisper "Darling," and she would not miss
The vanished rose, or if she did, would say,
"How you have ripened since I went away."
The blemishes that others might despise
Would still be beautiful to mother's eyes.

If she were here,
She would not mind the change; if a tear
Should fill my eye, I know that she would, see,
And give sweet consolation unto me;
Yet, in her heart, some things would little heed,
Knowing how much their discipline I need
And so, I think, though heaven be far,
And friends can see us ever as we are,
They may be glad, like loving motherhood,
Because they know how all things work for good.

—[Julia May in Congregationalist.

HUMOROUS.

A striking performance—a boxing match.

The man who believes talk is cheap never employed a lawyer.

He—What are you thinking of? She—Nothing. He (absent-mindedly)—You flatter me.

"What kind of pudding is this, waiter?" "Tapioca, sir." "Is it? I thought it was mediocre."

A western man has had a needle taken out of his body. He now knows how to account for the stitches in his side.

An economist has sagely observed that, no matter how large its population may become, there will be enough earth to go round.

"Yes," said Fogg, "as a success I have always been a failure, but as a failure I have always been an unqualified success."

A lady advertises for sale a baboon, three tabby cats, and a parrot. She states that, being now married, she has no use for them.

"It's all very well," said the gravedigger, "to advise a young man to begin at the bottom and work up, but in my business it isn't practicable."

Minister—"I wish I could do something with the choir to stop that constant chewing of gum. It's detestable." Leader—"No, it isn't; its spruce."

In the bright lexicon of youth there is no such word as fail, but later on, when the youth gets into business for himself, then the word shows up in good shape.

Prof. Baird says that fishes sometimes live to be 150 years old. Now, we can understand why they are in no hurry to partake of the tempting morsel at the end of our line.

A Kentucky negro threw a lump of earth at a mocking-bird and knocked a mule stone dead. If he had thrown at the mule he would probably have knocked a barn over.

When a man complained about a hotel with no means of getting out in case of fire, Popkins said that he didn't care for means to get out of a hotel. What he needed was means for staying there.

An agricultural exchange asks "how to make hogs pay." This is a hard question to answer. The best way to avoid the difficulty is not to sell a hog anything unless he pays for it in advance.

"Don't you think the people around here are very sociable?" asked Cobwigger of a new neighbor. "Yes, indeed, I do," was the hearty response. "Only a moment ago I met a beggar and he held out his hand to me."

"Nothing but trials and tribulations and disappointments. I am disgusted with it all!" "And what are you going to do about it?" "I am going to quit the earth." (Horrified.) "You don't mean you are going to commit suicide?" "No, I am going to take a sea voyage."

"Say, why do you laugh
With such hearty zest?"
"I've found a dollar
In last summer's vest!"

Temptations of a Broker's Life.

From the start the boy entering a broker's office will be intrusted with large sums of money to carry to the bank or to customers. He may be in an office where bank bills and shining gold are within his reach all the time; and he will be so completely absorbed in the subject of stocks, bonds and money, that it will be somewhat strange if he does not soon begin to look at the getting of money as the most important business of life. And when he is a little older and becomes clerk or cashier, he will be exposed to the temptation to increase his income by stock gambling—"speculating," as it is called—on his own account. Such ventures are, of course, very hazardous, and on all accounts should be shunned. A broker requires great strength of character to resist the temptation to get wealthy by false methods; and a boy should think long and well before he adopts the calling.

For the broker's business is at best unstaple. The work is done quickly in the midst of great excitement and at "high pressure," as we say. As money comes quickly and easily to the broker, it is not so highly prized as if it were earned by the toil which produces a visible result, and it usually goes as quickly as it comes. Brokers, of course, defend their own occupation. They will tell you that their services as agents in securing stocks and bonds are needed; but they do not deny that stock brokerage would cease to be a profitable business, except to a very few firms, if people were to stop speculating in securities. Of course there are many men in this business who have risen to wealth and to eminence as financiers who would scorn to do a mean or dishonorable act. All honor to such men, because they must often have been sorely tempted to do wrong.—[St. Nicholas.

A Man Who Lives in a Tree.

Mr. Heywood, better known as "the man who lives in a tree," has built a new house a few feet north of the old one in Washington. As there were no tall trees growing where he wanted his house, he has put it on a scaffold fifty feet high. A bridge connects it with the old house. Mr. Heywood's idiosyncrasy is a strong one, and he gives good reasons to support it. Those who think he is queer in the upper regions are mistaken. He is a matter of fact man, with excellent record as a clerk in the Interior Department. He is a shrew

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.
W. J. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY,
AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XX. PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, JULY 8, 1887. No. 27.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities."—MADISON.

Rates of Advertising

Space	1 Week	2 Weeks	3 Weeks	1 Month	2 Months	3 Months	6 Months	1 Year
1 in.	$1.00	$1.50	$2.00	$3.00	$5.00	$7.00	$10.00	$15.00
2 in.	1.50	2.00	2.50	5.00	7.00	10.00	15.00	25.00
3 in.	2.00	2.50	3.00	7.00	10.00	15.00	25.00	40.00
4 in.	2.50	3.00	3.50	10.00	15.00	20.00	35.00	50.00
5 in.	3.00	3.50	4.00	12.00	18.00	25.00	40.00	60.00
6 in.	3.50	4.00	4.50	15.00	20.00	30.00	50.00	75.00
7 in.	4.00	4.50	5.00	18.00	25.00	35.00	60.00	90.00
8 in.	4.50	5.00	5.50	20.00	30.00	40.00	70.00	100.00

All Electric's must be solid metal.
Links of Everything but Nature, 4 cts. per line.
Double cols. 50 per ct. Extension of above rates.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

A. LEAD D. BAILEY,
Attorney-at-Law.
Solicitor and Master in Chancery. Notary Public. No. 2 Front street, (Room 9) Plainfield, N. J.

O. L. JENKINS, M. D.,
Homeopathist,
continues to do Nursing, at No. 8 East Front Street, next Fence, Plainfield, N. J. Office Hours—To 9 to 10, 1 to 2 p. m., 7 to 8 p. m. only. 25-17.

JACKSON & CODINGTON,
Counsellors-at-Law.
Commissioners of ——, Master-in-Chancery, Notaries Public, and Conveyancers. Corner of Park avenue and Second street, over ——.

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer,
Sales of Real Estate, Property solicited. P. O. Box 193. Office—No. 2 ——, or address in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES S. THEIS,
Dentist,
19 West Front street. A new local anesthetic applied to the gums, which renders pain without pain. Specialty—preserving the natural teeth. 25-17

H. HAND,
Auctioneer,
P. O. Address, Lock Box 73, South Plainfield, N. J. Orders left at C. F. Carey's second hand store, 49 West Front street, Plainfield, N. J., will receive prompt attention. 25-17

O. S. TRALE,
Architect,
257 Broadway, New York city, (Rooms 21 and 22, Mechanics' and Traders' Bank Building.) Residence, Plainfield, New Jersey.

WM. K. MCCLURE,
Attorney-at-Law,
MASTER IN CHANCERY, NOTARY PUBLIC.
Commissioner of Deeds. Office, North avenue opposite Depot. 25-17

J. R. FERSTER,
Veterinary Surgeon.
Office in Chas. Platt's livery office, corner Main street and Watchung avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Day and night calls promptly attended. Treatment of all diseases of horses and cattle. All medicines warranted as made. Residence, 72 East Fifth street.—1m

DR. GEORGE SIDNEY,
Veterinary Surgeon.
Removed from second street to 119 West Front street, Plainfield.—1m

ARTHUR P. MILLER,
Attorney-at-Law,
(Successor to the late W. H. Maxson), Solicitor in Chancery, Notary Public. Will buy and sell real estate (non-mineral), rent and take charge of property. Office—Front Rooms, First National Bank.—1y27

F. A. DURHAM,
Civil Engineer and Surveyor,
No. 7 Park avenue, Coward's building. Particular attention given to the subject of drainage. Plans and estimates furnished. Parties sent to all parts of the country.—1y27

DR. J. F. GRIFFEN,
Electric Baths.
Dr. Griffen treats all Nervous affections, Uterine complaints, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Dyspepsia and Chronic diseases generally by Electricity and Medicated Baths. Office hours, 9 to 12 and 2 to 5. Ladies attendant for the ladies. 43 East Front street.—1y27

BUSINESS CARDS.

TO THE PUBLIC!

We wish to inform our customers and the public generally that we have on hand the best quality of

LEHIGH COAL,

Fresh from the Mines.

It is under cover and well protected from the weather. We are prepared to deliver it well screened and dried to the purchaser. We are also prepared to furnish all kinds of Seasoned Lumber and Masons' Materials at short notice.

A. D. COOK & BRO.

jan1y1

J. Harvey Doane,

9 PARK AVENUE.

[Formerly Clark's.]

Watches,
Clocks
And Jewelry.

Repairing neatly and promptly done. 41y1

WM. H. SHOTWELL,

DEALER IN GROCERIES, PROVISIONS, HAY, STABLES, DRIED FRUIT, ETC.

CORNER EMILY AND DUER STREETS
North Plainfield, New Jersey.

Celebrated Pilsbury Flour,
THE BEST IN THE MARKET.

ORDERS CALLED FOR AND DELIVERED. Thankful for past patronage I solicit a continuance Respectfully,
WILLIAM H. SHOTWELL.

BOSTON CLOTHING HOUSE.

42 W. FRONT ST.

Reliable Goods at Low Prices.

Order Department

Under the well-known Cutter,

NEWTON P. DRAKE.

Correct Styles. Right Prices

Geo. A. Moore,

(Of the late firm of Moore Bros.)

Is now the sole proprietor of the old established grocery at

No. 44 NORTH AVENUE,

Where he will continue to supply patrons with the finest grades of Fruit and Milk teas. Fish of all kinds, Oysters, Clams, Game in Season at the lowest Market price. Anything not usually kept in stock furnished at short notice. 36-17

Edward Ramonetti,
OYSTER AND ICE CREAM SALOON.

OYSTERS BY THE QUART, 100 OR 3,000.

CHARLOTTE RUSSE MADE TO ORDER.

All Orders Promptly Attended to.

24 NORTH AVENUE.

Plainfield, New Jersey. Telephone Call, No. 31

HOTELS AND SALOONS.

Force's Hotel!
NORTH AVENUE
Near R. R. Depot, Plainfield, New Jersey.
JAMES H. FORCE, - - Proprietor.
A FIRST-CLASS FAMILY HOTEL.
Transient guests taken at reasonable rates.

Bottled Liquors a Specialty.

Laing's Hotel!
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
J. B. MILLER & BRO., - Proprietors.
A FIRST-CLASS FAMILY RESORT.

James Conneely
Wishes to inform the public generally that he has opened a first-class
WINE and LIQUOR ROOM,
AT NO. 32 PARK AVE.,
Where he will be pleased to furnish himself and patrons with the choicest brands of imported and domestic Liquors.

TURF EXCHANGE HOTEL,
73 Courtlandt street,
CORNER WASHINGTON, NEW YORK CITY.
FRED. W. BALLARD, - - Proprietor,
(formerly of Jersey City), is now conducting the above popular resort, and solicits the patronage of New York, formerly kept by the late James Vail Post, and by Wm. Hitchcock. All the old friends will be most courteously received.

PURE WINES, LIQUORS AND SEGARS. jy1m

SOMERSET HOTEL,
Cor. Somerset & Canby Sts., North Plainfield, N. J.
By landlord is a first-class Chapel, and regular table, parlor, table, horses, etc., cheap terms.

Electrical Work!

ELECTRICAL WORK—WE ARE PREPARED to put in Electric Bells, Annunciators, Call Boxes, etc., at short notice. Also, Electric Gas Lighting, Electric Motors, etc. Estimates cheerfully given. Orders left at C. F. Carey's second hand store, 49 West Front street, will receive prompt attention. 25-17

JOHN JOHNSTON,
DEALER IN COAL!
YARD AND OFFICE, SOUTH AVENUE,
NETHERWOOD, NEW JERSEY.

The best quality of screened coal at the lowest market price forcash. Address all orders to Netherwood post-office.—1y27

Park Avenue Bakery!
JOHN WALKER, Prop'r
FAMILIES and HOTELS supplied with the finest
VIENNA BREAD & ROLLS,
And all Varieties of
Pies, Cake and Confectionery.

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS, BEST IN THE WORLD.
ALL GOODS DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE.

MICHAEL UHDAL,
CONTRACTOR
AND LANDSCAPE GARDENER!
Residence:
NETHERWOOD, NEW JERSEY.
P. O. BOX 787, PLAINFIELD.

WM. H. SHOTWELL,
P. O. Box 2, Netherwood, N. J.

THE ORIENT GUANO
MANUFACTURING CO.
96 & 98 Exchange Place, N.Y.
Original Works" at Newark, New Jersey, and Orient, Long Island.

BOSTON STORE.
Cor. Park Ave. and Front St.
Plainfield, N. J.
Dress Goods, Silks, Satins, Velvets, Velveteens, Ribbons, Laces, Embroideries, Hosiery, Gloves, Underwear, Corsets, Notions, Parasols, Fans, Handkerchiefs, Ladies' and Gents' Furnishing Goods, Trimmings, Etc.
Ladies' Cloaks and Suits a Specialty.
Prices Low. Goods Reliable.
Polite Attention to All.
Cash Buyers Will Find It to Their Interest to Call.
Yours Respectfully,
H. C. BOSTON.

EDUCATIONAL.

DORSEY W. HYDE,
PRACTICAL TEACHER OF
Piano, Harmony & Guitar.
Fall Term commences MONDAY, Sept. 13th. SEND FOR CIRCULAR. P. O. BOX 118.

MR. LEAL'S SCHOOL,
WILL RE-OPEN
Monday, Sept. 20, 1886.
Attendance of pupils not added facilities make it necessary to take in more scholars! Usual Boarding and Day School terms. Circulars on application. Pupils have been sent every year! Circulars and references on application.—1y27

A SCHOOL FOR BOYS
WILL BE OPENED IN THE PARLORS OF THE PARK AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH,
SEPTEMBER 15, '86.
APPLICATION MAY BE MADE AT No. 26 PARK AVENUE, CORNER SIXTH STREET.

ANNA J. MOORE, Principal.
aug28 3y

MISCELLANEOUS.

ARTESIAN WELLS.

F. & W. STOTHOFF
Are prepared to Sink Wells any depth up to 1,000 feet, and Tubing, Pumps, Force Pumps and Pipe furnished at fair prices. Residence, corner Madison and Plainfield, P. O. address, Box 1, Plainfield, N. J. 1y1m

Mme. J. BERNARD,
ASTROLOGIST,
Residence—Hartwig's street, North Plainfield, fourth house from Somerville road, left hand side. Information sought on the following subjects, viz: Intuitive events, life's marriage, lodge, law suits, business, speculations, etc. Consultation hours, 9 to 12 a. m. and 2 to 5 p. m. Terms, $1.00. Letters answered in English, German and French.

PLAINFIELD DISTRICT TELEGRAPH CO.,
NO. 4 PARK AVENUE.
C. H. GODDARD, - Manager.
jy2tf

NETHERWOOD FARM!
MOUNTAIN AVE., NEAR PARKAGUT AVE.
A JERSEY STOCK FARM!
OVER
50 HEAD OF JERSEY CATTLE 50
Good fun by doses for sale at Nodrome Prince. Visitors are always welcome. Open all day.
J. HERBERT JOHNSTON, Proprietor.
J. WORRELL, Manager.

CAREY'S
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE, NO. 45 WEST FRONT STREET,
Nearly opposite Laing's Hotel, Plainfield, N. J.

Having leased the above premises I am prepared to buy and sell second-hand Furniture, Carpets, Stoves, etc. I will also run a Freight Express in connection with my Furniture business. Furniture, etc., stored. P. O. Box 693.—1m27

JOHN MORTON,
PURE SPRING WATER
-ICE-
Delivered daily to any part of the city at the lowest possible rates. Leave orders at the West Front st. P. O. Box 77, or with Mr. Sheridan's grocery, corner Park avenue and West Front street, will receive prompt attention. I hope by strict attention to my old patrons for past patronage, and take pleasure in soliciting a share of the public patronage. Increased facilities by purchasing the coop and good-will of Mr. Sheridan's ice business. I am therefore prepared to supply all with the best ice in the market. 1y1

DOOR NUMBERS,
DOOR BELLS,
DOOR PLATES,
AT
DICKINSON & CLAWSON'S,
13 PARK AVENUE.
Sole Agents for

Dr. King's Spectacles.
jy16y1

ALEX. THORN
(Late of Berry & Thorn,
CAN BE FOUND AT 37 SOMERSET STREET,
WITH A FULL LINE OF FURNACES,
RANGES,
STOVES,
TINWARE, Etc.
Repairing in His Line Promptly Attended To.
43y1

NEW SHOE STORE
Doane & Van Arsdale
22 WEST FRONT STREET.
SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc. Etc.

I am prepared to do any of the above branches in a thorough manner, and at reasonable charges.

Persons associated myself with the Terre Firma Company, of Boston, Mass., I am prepared to put in their celebrated combination and hot-water heaters, and guarantee them to give entire satisfaction in all cases and in all cases.

D. W. LITTELL,
No. 5 NORTH AVE. Plainfield, N. J.

PAINTERS & PAINTERS SUPPLIES

Paints, Varnishes, Glass,
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALITY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.
1y25

Weaver Bros.
House & Sign Painting, Graining,
Paper Hanging and Kalsomining a specialty.
Office and Shop in the rear of
126 EAST FRONT STREET,
D. WEAVER. P. O. Box 98. P. WEAVER.

W. N. ROWE,
PAINTER AND DECORATOR,
Dealer in Paints, Oil, Varnishes, Glass, Brushes, etc. WALL PAPER and WINDOW SHADES. Shop, 42 West Front street, Plainfield, N. J. Estimates and satisfaction guaranteed. No. 11 E. FRONT STREET, (Rear of Mr. Drake's residence), Plainfield, N. J. P. O. Box 1287.—1y27

L. E. WOOLSTON. J. P. BUCKLE.
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTER'S SUPPLIES. 30 NORTH AVENUE.
1y27

MILLINERY.

Mrs. J. M. Dunn,
FASHIONABLE MILLINER,
LATEST SHAPES OF
BONNETS AND HATS.
FRENCH IMPORTED FLOWERS.
Feathers, Velvets, Plushes, Satines, Laces, etc. Also, Fancy Goods and Notions. Dress and Infants' Caps a Specialty.
PINKING, BLEACHING & PRESSING.
Feathers Dyed, Cleaned and Curled
AT SHORT NOTICE.
14 West Front street.

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

M. C. DOBBINS,
CORPORATE RAILROAD STATION.
MANUFACTURER OF
PURE HAVANA CIGARS.
Wholesale and Retail

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best cent cigar in the State, and made on the premises in the finest manner.
CLEAR HAVANA SEGARS A SPECIALTY.
Foreign and Domestic Cigars, Cigarettes and Smoking Tobaccos in bulk.
Smokers Articles in Great Variety.
1y27

JOHN N. STEINER,
MANUFACTURER OF
SEGARS!
No. 11 PARK AVENUE.
Constantly on hand a large assortment of
Segars, Smoking & Chewing Tobacco, Snuffs, Pipes, &c.
Thanks for past patronage, hopes a continuance of the same. 1y27

C. M. FINE,
Dealer in HAVANA & DOMESTIC
-SEGARS!-
No. 29 PARK AVE., (REAR ENTRANCE SECOND DOOR.)
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobaccos and Smokers' Articles of every description.
The celebrated "Old Judge" Smoking Tobacco with other popular brands constantly on hand. 17nov

PAINTERS & PAINTERS SUPPLIES

--PICTURE FRAMES--
OF ALL KINDS, AT
S. E. FLOWER'S,
at New York Prices, Studio 18 West Front street. Headquarters for drawing and oil painting. sply6

A. T. SMALLEY, N. S. SMALLEY.
Smalley Bros.,
DEALERS IN
Fresh and Salt Meats, Poultry, Etc.
IN SOMERSET STREET NO. 1 PLAINFIELD.
Orders called for and delivered. A share of the public patronage is solicited.—1y27

Benj. F. Moore
(Late of Moore Bros.)
BUTCHER,
And dealer in FRESH AND SALT MEATS, POULTRY, ETC., corner Park avenue and Somerset street will receive orders for Spring Lambs on FRIDAY, March 20th. Orders called for and promptly delivered. Telephone Call 111.—1y1m

MAYNARD & HILL,
PRACTICAL BARBERS
AND
Artistic Hair Dressers,
No. 26 PARK AVENUE,
Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residences. Shaving, Shampooing, &c., satisfactorily performed. 43y1

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.
TO HIRE. CHARGES REASONABLE.
Hugo Weigman,
30 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.
1y1

A. H. BOUGHTON,
44 West Fourteenth street, N. Y.
(NEAR MACY'S.)
Boy's Clothing and Hats
EXCLUSIVELY.
The most complete stock of Boy's Fashionable Goods in the city and at popular prices.
KILT SUITS,
SHIRT WAISTS,
EXTRA PANTS.
Former stand of Taylor & Co.

YOUR FACES TO THE LIGHT.

There's a ringing, glorious measure
In the music of the sea;
If we listen we may hear it as it all day long,
With an undertone of sorrow,
No discordance ever smothers,
But it's always the cheerful note of the song:
"Forward! Keep the colours moving!
Forward! Heed not our quivering!
Forward! Forward! Forward!" sounds the burden—out ashore and sea.

Dusty souls lies plain before us
Whatever our task on I burden,
Whether we labor for self or for others,

"Disappointments may o'ertake us,
Losses, griefs and cares surprise us;
Many a wreck is to be seen on any sea;
Look not back, but onward, ever,
Let the past be as it may;
And the valley of the shadow lies below!
With a hand to help the fallen,
Where the rugged stones delay us,
With a heart ever trembling for others, wars us of the night,
We can bear to lift the veils
That assail us and betray us,
While we keep our faces brave to the light.

"Steady! Keep the ranks in motion!
Who we only be receiving
Who we only be receiving
Who we only be receiving
There is shame to quit inaction,
There is glory in the strife!
If we take but one step on the upward way!
The Day Star will shine within us,
Pierce the shadows, conquer sorrow,
And the Heavenly Morning breaks!"
—Emma Ann Browne, in N. Y. Ledger.

AUNT DEBBY'S SHOP.

Frank Formerly More Successful Than a Woman Who Had Studied It.

"She's an old darling," said Grace Crazall, "and I mean to help her all I can. She's always making such nice chocolate cakes, and on Friday evening I'm going to spend the time with her, as I can, so that the school children will buy them on Saturday. I know how to make cinnamon apple tarts, and I can make drops and cocoanut balls." "Grace, I do believe you're getting to be a regular housewife," said Medora May. "Only would rather spend my evenings in the society of Aunt Debby than with any mother's sister—to open a little back room shop in the alley and sell cakes and candies to the boys and girls." "But Aunt Debby must live, you know," said Grace. "She is a widow, and has no children, on the wooden sill, feed up the canaries, and look after the other pets." "And cousin Nonie couldn't keep her any longer, and her eyes are not strong enough for her to sew, and as a last resource has not fitted her to be a teacher, hasn't she?" said Medora, with a laugh at her rising brother's counter-attraction. "Very well, then, I'm going to be a rich man!"

Grace Crazall laughed merrily. All through life she and her cousin, Medora May, had agreed to differ on most points. Grace, sweet and gentle, was the pet of all, had, on the death of her last surviving parent, been taken to the home of a fashionable Boston, taking her stand on the platform of the "advanced" girls, and had sewing and silk embroidery on tissue to support herself by selling out of the home of a wealthy lady of fashion, and while, And now Aunt Deborah May, to the infinite disgust of her affectionate niece, had not only successfully opened a little low-priced confectionery shop, but was doing a good and remunerative business. "I'm an heiress," she added the poor old lady, that I have sometimes it would be better if I were dead."

"Do you mean to open a bakery," said the bewildered Aunt Debby.

"No, I merely mean," explained Grace. "But if Mrs. Howitt or Mrs. Taylor, or any of the ladies around here, could get real good cake, they would send here for it, or do you suppose they would put up at what they get at the bake shops? I know I could easily get up a reputation on your cakes, Aunt Debby, and fried oysters, and New England pumpkin pies. Now couldn't you?"

The old lady brightened up a little.

"I used to be pretty good at cooking," said she, "but if you think I could get up a good myself—"

"I'll help you all I can," cried cheerful Grace. "And I'll go with you this very day to look at the place, and we will engage it before we leave the city. I'll have it all painted you a sign to put over your door, 'Homemade Cakes by Mrs. Debby May.' And Pill loan you some curtains and arrange the shelves in the back room. I'm sure I most wish I was going to be your shop girl," she said, now city. "But I can help you in the evenings, I hope."

Grace Crazall's prophecies proved correct. Aunt Debby's delicious apple tarts, spiced, whiter than powdered lilies, sweet as honey, and the old lady could scarcely bake it fast enough. People came half a dozen blocks to buy Aunt Debby's pound cake and delicious spice tarts; children in throngs thronged the little shop, followed by the elder customers, and Aunt Debby's fame spread far and wide, and her shop was a most successful one.

And one day Mr. Herbert Valance, walking by with Medora May, stopped and looked in.

"Look! that your Cousin Grace," said he, "behind the counter?"

Medora drew her brows in vexation.

"My Cousin Grace!" she said. "No, indeed—that is not my cousin."

What possessed her to utter this deliberate falsehood, Medora could not after wards have told. Partly the acting of false shame; partly a disinclination for Mr. Herbert Valance to know that her wife relatives were, to use her expression, "not in the least genteel."

Mr. Valance looked up at the sign over the door.

"The name is May," he remarked, indifferently.

"Yes," said Medora, angry at herself for blushing so deeply, "but no relation to us."

Mr. Valance thought over the matter. He afterward met Miss May at a party given by a friend, where pretty Grace Crazall was also present. He had taken rather a fancy to the bright blue eyes and delicate blonde beauty of the former. His home was solitary enough, now that his mother had married and gone abroad, and perhaps a man might find a less attractive and graceful wife than Medora May. But he could not be mistaken, he thought, in Grace Crazall's identity.

And so the next evening, about the same time, he sauntered into the shop.

Grace was behind the dainty counter filling custom, taking some newly made sugared cocoanut cakes for the delighted customers of the shop.

"No," he thought, "I wasn't mistaken after all. And the little blue-eyed sought as genial enough to tell a falsehood, in spite of her angelic appearance."

But he looked serenely at Grace.

"I didn't know you were in trade," said he.

"Didn't you? Well," retorted Grace, "I am my aunt Deborah's shop girl at present. I always come here in the evenings to help her, because," she added, with a sweet shade of seriousness coming over her face, "aunt was old and poor and she didn't know how to maintain herself in independence, and, without vanity, my wages at the factory are not enough for both. So I advised her to open the bakery, and she bakes the most delicious bread and pies you ever ate, as well as the most twinkle under her eyelashes, "if you have no one to buy of you will you please recommend our firm?"

"I will, indeed," he answered, in the same spirit. "And I am very glad," Miss Crazall, to see that you are not ashamed of being a shop girl."

"Of course I am not," said Grace. "Why should I be?"

"But your cousin Medora is."

Grace gave a little shrug of her shoulders.

"Very likely," said she. "Medora and I don't agree in many things."

Mr. Valance bought a pound of caramels and went away.

"She is a beauty," he said to himself. "And she is a sensible beauty into the bargain. I know few women throughout our country—a thoroughly well-balanced girl."

He must have been very well pleased with his purchase, for he came again the next evening, just in time to walk home with Grace Crazall. And they talked so long and so earnestly that Medora chided, as Grace was low past then, it would be a favorable opportunity for the old lady to lay in her winter stock through Mr. Valance, who also promised to get one of the great New York grain merchants.

Only a few weeks had elapsed when Medora May was elected to learn that Mr. Herbert Grace was engaged.

"To some mother baker or journeyman confectioner, I suppose," she said, contemptuously.

"No," said Grace, with eyes regularly sparkling, "to a lawyer, and a rising one, too. In those days hoop-skirts were to the height of their fashion. I have not seen much twenty-five years, but occasionally I see a picture of one, and have been called in the rural districts, I regard the hoop-snake as the most remarkable of all snakes. He lives entirely on the ground as others of the snake kind do, and he also has the power of rolling himself up, and rolls along like a hoop at lightning speed. Some people are so stupid as that there is no such thing as a hoop-snake, but I know better, for I have seen one with my own eyes.

"I will one experience which I shall never forget as long as I live," he continued. "In the spring of 18— I, Long John Wallace, the Indian Scherman, and wood-cut to the lake to fish for yellow perch. I had a small boat, and Wallace another, about a mile from shore, when the latter suddenly gave a loud shout and rose to the surface of the lake about two hundred yards to my right. I had never been fully eighty feet from; its head was the size of a hogshead, its eyes were like balls of fire, and its body, as it rose, was covered with scales, brown and glossy as mahogany. Not including the climax has much I fussen, the disease was so terrible that I was not in any situations. Irresistible drowsiness constantly overcame me, and I found that I was to keep awake only for two moments to together to take a little food. My mother's allowance has lasted three or four months, and it comes—with a trust that the people who have hear—as I have not the heart to but a little more sound.

I found the report of Queen Maumee's beautiful granddaughter inconceivably affecting. It was strange to see her so much like a white girl, for I had always supposed she would speak full of fire, and be full of the thrill that was in her dancing slumber, but a specific which she was suffering under from the effects of liquor. This young girl was but fourteen years of age, and a veteran. A few days ago, I was around, and awoke with a frightened cry—a strange and broken murmur—as I was very loudly asleep. I went to her sleep, and knew not whether our Keeper was real, or one of the figures of my dream. Her eyes were wild and glassy, and seemed to be in fear. As she was awake, there was a nervous twitch ing about her mouth and in her fingers; and she was constantly looking as if she were to be of, these symptoms of a quietude away, and she also at times suddenly sank again into the deep and heavy sleep of the opium-eater. Poor young doomed girl she has been suffering for, and suffering, for except when I really grow to her. I have no words to describe her—but she had been lingering two months under Dr. Wilson's direction.

An Heroic Michigan Woman.

A Rose-mount County (Mich.) woman, who was trying to put out a fire on the roof of her house, was blown from the building by a high wind, and her arm was broken. In spite of her pain she soon climbed to the roof twice afterward and put out the fire. When it was all over she fainted.

Tobacco and Lost Eyes.

"If cancer on lining is doing more injury to the eyes than tobacco is," said an opinion recently to a reporter of the New York Sun, "I don't know it. Smoking pipes or cigars is bad enough, but there is something in the paper with which the tobacco is rolled that is very injurious to the eyesight. There are more and more cases of weak eyes than I have ever known before, and I attribute it to excess in tobacco smoking. Nine out of every ten Germans wear spectacles. They are inveterate smokers."

How They Do It in China.

In New York, when a burg.. has stripped a house, he coolly goes and gets another detective to help him; the two hold on to him grim death till you get the old sap. They manage things differently, however, in China. When the long-tailed sinner's earthly mansion was looted, and the proprietor's head politely severed, they said, "Ah, hah!" and went away. Three weeks afterwards, however, the proprietor received a cheerful letter from the murderer containing six human heads packed in ice and a request to accept the heads of the gang as an evidence of good faith—and a note from the Department of Justice saying that the writer remained—"Yours truly, HEN YAH."

AN INDIAN DISARMED.

How a Spirited White Woman Aroused a Sense of Shame in a Redskin.

In the following good story, which Harriet Phillips relates in the New York Mail and Express, we leave it to our readers to judge what it was which proved too much for the Apache. Was it the force of humanity or her courage which won his heart? A large number of Indians, including, at all events, we feel sure of: scalp as he may have had, must have felt sensible of a surprise and admiration at the white woman's spirit:

An Apache, in full war-paint, stalked into an Indian school at Albuquerque, N. M., one day for children the Hatfield, Cal., Times, and took the unemployed seat in the circle of brown-eyed, black-haired boys. He was a tall, fine-looking fellow, and the uncle of one of our boys had killed his brother, and they feared he had come for revenge, and as it was soon found out, nothing better to do than to have the children sing for him, which they considered a treat. We keep open house to Indians at all times, and treat them as gentlemen, and so they considered to our Apache to take a seat at the table. He sat down, smiling in his war-paint, and had two loaded revolvers before him. The children began to tremble.

"I summoned all my courage and said: "Put those revolvers on the window-sill," to the Apache smiled. The look placed before him a cup of coffee and a bowl of soup.

"Take away that coffee, and soup," I commanded with my own hand, "and give in addition to the Indian: 'You shall not have them until you put those revolvers on the window-sill.'

"From thing for her life, the cook obeyed. When the Apache saw that his revolvers he deliberately rose, picked up his revolvers, and walked out of the room with the utmost—quietly laid them on the window. His dinner was restored to him; he ate it with knife and fork, and, after he was finished, walked out without a word.

"I did not see him again for years. But this last time, on my way home, as I was riding to the train at Albuquerque, my Apache Apache, in all his feathers and war-paint, got into the car and walked its way down to me. I thought for my life my blood ran cold. He then left the car and returned with a present for me—as horrible as himself. He introduced them all, and all must shake hands."

GARDEN CITY SNAKES.

Voracious Toads Told by Some of Chicago's Great Men—Snake Stories.

"When I first came to this city," said the ex-mayor, John Wentworth, to a Chicago News reporter, "the spot upon which Chicago now stands was a wild tract, the general nature of the land being swampy. It was a great snake country in those days. The reptiles were frequently to be met with were grass rat snakes. I don't suppose there was a single instance in Cook County now, but thirty years ago you could not have traveled five rods in any direction without coming by the jaw of the varmints. This species of snake is perfectly harmless, and for the year except during the month of August, when they will bite at any thing that charge was going on it was blind. During August, then, are used to hunt these reptiles and kill them in vast numbers. The corporation paid five cents a scalp for the snakes, and I suppose in an agony of fear and anxiety she could stand the expense no longer and determined to go quiet him. Her parents, however, forbade it, and her friends discussed the matter for a short time. But the contented Irishman proved unbearable, and finally stole from home one night and became a regular tramp, and one of the heroes her relatives had obtained a clue to her whereabouts was on her way to the North Shore. Following the clue, she placed in one of the hospitals at a small village, and after the several days of watchfulness the faces of the sick and dying, but found no sign of the one she sought. Remembering that he might be in the same condition as were the poor soldiers around her, she made search in the wards of the infirmary with all her heart. Her efforts were rewarded in an unexpected way. For one day, in taking a whole of the wounded, she saw a familiar face. It was but a moment, although quietly concealing her nursing she had all her facilities to pleasing care which by return she might recognize her lover's picture in the arrangement. She finally concluded to examine the face of the man who was lying next to her. From the commanding officer to action she learned that his name was Grant, and upon her pleading earnestly he gave her the privilege of nursing him as much as necessary for nursing the English lines.

She discovered herself and pretended she was the wife of Grant, and by that means within the Russian territory. So artfully did she play her part that she became quite a favorite with her soldiers, who called her "Mrs. Peggy," and allowed her to do as she pleased. It was many weeks before she learned the town is about assassinated Grant, and then only in a most strange way as indeed the keeper of the hotel where he was stopping. Grant was soon much twenty-five years, but occasionally he would get drunk, and being placed in the rural districts, I regard the hoop-snake as the most remarkable of all. He lives entirely on the ground as others of the snake kind do, and he also has the power of rolling himself up, and rolls along like a hoop at lightning speed. Some people are so stupid as that there is no such thing as a hoop-snake, but I know better, for I have seen one with my own eyes.

"I will one experience which I shall never forget as long as I live," he continued. "In the spring of 18— I, Long John Wallace, the Indian Scherman, and wood-cut to the lake to fish for yellow perch. I had a small boat, and Wallace another, about a mile from shore, when the latter suddenly gave a loud shout and rose to the surface of the lake about two hundred yards to my right. I had never been fully eighty feet from; its head was the size of a hogshead, its eyes were like balls of fire, and its body, as it rose, was covered with scales, brown and glossy as mahogany. Not including the climax has much I fussen, the disease was so terrible that I was not in any situations. Irresistible drowsiness constantly overcame me, and I found that I was to keep awake only for two moments together to take a little food. My mother's allowance has lasted three or four months, and it comes—with a trust that the people who have hear—as I have not the heart to but a little more sound.

I found the report of Queen Maumee's beautiful granddaughter inconceivably affecting. It was strange to see her so much like a white girl, for I had always supposed she would speak full of fire, and be full of the thrill that was in her dancing slumber, but a specific which she was suffering under from the effects of liquor. This young girl was but fourteen years of age, and a veteran. A few days ago, I was around, and awoke with a frightened cry—a strange and broken murmur—as I was very loudly asleep. I went to her sleep, and knew not whether our Keeper was real, or one of the figures of my dream. Her eyes were wild and glassy, and seemed to be in fear. As she was awake, there was a nervous twitch ing about her mouth and in her fingers; and she was constantly looking as if she were to be of, these symptoms of a quietude away, and she also at times suddenly sank again into the deep and heavy sleep of the opium-eater. Poor young doomed girl she has been suffering for, and suffering, for except when I really grow to her. I have no words to describe her—but she had been lingering two months under Dr. Wilson's direction.

An Heroic Michigan Woman.

A Rose-mount County (Mich.) woman, who was trying to put out a fire on the roof of her house, was blown from the building by a high wind, and her arm was broken. In spite of her pain she soon climbed to the roof twice afterward and put out the fire. When it was all over she fainted.

Tobacco and Lost Eyes.

"If cancer on lining is doing more injury to the eyes than tobacco is," said an opinion recently to a reporter of the New York Sun, "I don't know it. Smoking pipes or cigars is bad enough, but there is something in the paper with which the tobacco is rolled that is very injurious to the eyesight. There are more and more cases of weak eyes than I have ever known before, and I attribute it to excess in tobacco smoking. Nine out of every ten Germans wear spectacles. They are inveterate smokers."

How They Do It in China.

In New York, when a burg.. has stripped a house, he coolly goes and gets another detective to help him; the two hold on to him grim death till you get the old sap. They manage things differently, however, in China. When the long-tailed sinner's earthly mansion was looted, and the proprietor's head politely severed, they said, "Ah, hah!" and went away. Three weeks afterwards, however, the proprietor received a cheerful letter from the murderer containing six human heads packed in ice and a request to accept the heads of the gang as an evidence of good faith—and a note from the Department of Justice saying that the writer remained—"Yours truly, HEN YAH."

AN INDIAN DISARMED.

How a Spirited White Woman Aroused a Sense of Shame in a Redskin.

In the following good story, which Harriet Phillips relates in the New York Mail and Express, we leave it to our readers to judge what it was which proved too much for the Apache. Was it the force of humanity or her courage which won his heart? A large number of Indians, including, at all events, we feel sure of: scalp as he may have had, must have felt sensible of a surprise and admiration at the white woman's spirit:

An Apache, in full war-paint, stalked into an Indian school at Albuquerque, N. M., one day for children the Hatfield, Cal., Times, and took the unemployed seat in the circle of brown-eyed, black-haired boys. He was a tall, fine-looking fellow, and the uncle of one of our boys had killed his brother, and they feared he had come for revenge, and as it was soon found out, nothing better to do than to have the children sing for him, which they considered a treat. We keep open house to Indians at all times, and treat them as gentlemen, and so they considered to our Apache to take a seat at the table. He sat down, smiling in his war-paint, and had two loaded revolvers before him. The children began to tremble.

"I summoned all my courage and said: "Put those revolvers on the window-sill," to the Apache smiled. The look placed before him a cup of coffee and a bowl of soup.

"Take away that coffee, and soup," I commanded with my own hand, "and give in addition to the Indian: 'You shall not have them until you put those revolvers on the window-sill.'

"From thing for her

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE, A. L. FORCE,
Editors and Proprietors.

PEACE FOREVER.

The war for the Union is ended. The battle flags are furled and the last drum beat sounded. The people of the South unconditionally accept the result as final. Due honor is freely accorded to those brave men of the North who won the victory, and peace reigns supreme over the country, and peace-loving citizens turn to end of our once distracted, but now happily re-united country.

Who would dare disturb that blissful condition of affairs?

Who be willing to kindle anew the decimating fires of internal strife?

No sincere Christian.

No genuine Patriot.

No true-hearted soldier.

A few unscrupulous politicians would like to, but the people irrespective of party name and section, will never permit it.

Peace, enduring peace, is the edict of the Sovereign people. It was grandly proclaimed on the once bloody battle-field of Gettysburg last Saturday, when the survivors of that sanguinary conflict, the wearers of the blue and the wearers of the grey, met as friends, as loyal citizens of a common country, and clasping hands, vowed to forever bury animosities and work together for a glorious national future.

That was pure patriotism—not scurvy politics.

And Governor Fitzhugh Lee, of Virginia, word pictured the same feeling on the Fourth of July in New York when he declared—"Let there be no dissension now the day is past for all that; the last person shot has been sent on its merciless errand and in my old State the fields that were once cut into shreds by the wheels of the artillery are now waving with grain, and the rays of a blessed peace make a happy and contented people."

JUSTICE AT LAST.

The indictment, arrest, trial and conviction of Jacob Sharp in the city of New York for the crime of bribery proclaims a grand triumph of justice, and a needed vindication of the long down trodden and insulted cause of honesty.

The verdict of guilty against Sharp, is, as it should be, approved by every right thinking person, and so much because of the individual punishment it will inflict, as because of the condemnation it sets upon the nefarious plan of acquiring riches he personally represents, and the loud warning it gives to the many others who have been and doubtless are still prowling along the same dark and corrupt pathway of robbery and dishonor.

The conviction of Sharp, under the private or corporate advantages from legislative bodies and official hands through bribery and corruption has been carried on with such brazen impunity, that the monied conspirators engaged therein have laughed at the idea of ever being brought to justice, and growing bolder and bolder, have not only openly defied law, but infamously declared that every man has a price, and that they, as circumstances arose, were, regardless of all obligations, legal or moral, prepared to pay it. Such highway doctrine and course of action, the result of the Sharp trial has happily shown to be treason against morality, the good order of society and the well being of honest men, and that the city of New York there are investing with the sacredness of Juror who have to do right by bringing to condign punishment proud millionaires whose wealth is proven to be illegal gain.

The conviction of Sharp marks healthy progress in the contest against mercenary wrong, and we hope the battle will go on until every bribe giver in the land shall be made to suffer an equal, if not greater penalty than justly attaches to bribe receivers.

The Tidewater oil-pipe-line, which crosses near German Valley, broke near the Somerset county line a few nights ago, and 15,000 barrels of oil ran into the North Branch of the Raritan river.

Workmen are constructing a line of wire for the Phelps induction telegraph from Flemington to Flagtown, on the Lehigh Valley Railroad, for the purpose of testing the relative merits of a line of wire suspended from insulators on iron posts as compared with the first plan adopted, that of running the wire along the conveyance part of the rail.

We clip the following from one of our spicy exchanges: A man came into the sanctum with a bottle full of whiskey, the object of an alleged grievance. The latter, who was whittling, looked up and said: "My friend, did you ever consider that, even if you did thrash me, you could not stop the publication of this paper, and it would be the worse for you, because my successor would be bound to get even with you. You can look for us at your heart's content, but the newspaper goes on forever." And, instead of thrashing the editor, the man left the fence rail as part payment of his subscription.

Fresh Air for the Poor.

The generosity of the ladies of the Relief Association is again and again shown by their untiring and continuing labors for the help and comfort of the poor and afflicted of our city. And now the Association's commendable anxiety to increase its funds for the care of the sick who must remain at home during the long Summer days before them, does it honor. Such desire and the hope of also procuring means to send mothers and children—otherwise unable—to the seashore for a few day's pleasure, should meet with generous financial assistance from those of the community who can well and easily afford it. The Crescent avenue church will next Sunday take up a collection for the Association and its purposes mentioned above—which effort we hope to record as being put forth by all the other churches. Meanwhile, all individual subscriptions forwarded to the Association's treasurer, Mrs. Van Cleef, on Somerset street, will be gratefully received and thankfully acknowledged.

COMMON COUNCIL MEETING

President F. E. Marsh called the City Council together at precisely 8 o'clock last night, and the following members were present as follows: Messrs. Bowers, Carey, Cox, Dunham, Simpson, Taylor, Waring, Wilbur. The minutes of the last regular meeting stood approved as read.

The President said that Mr. O. T. Waring, who was recently elected to fill the unexpired term of ex-Councilman Gulbert, resigned, had accepted, and he welcomed him to the Council on behalf of the other members. He thereupon appointed Councilman Waring to serve on the following Committees in the order named:

Fire, Water and Lamps—Messrs. Bowers, Waring, Dunham.

Salaries, Offices and Elections—Messrs. Waring, Bowers, Wilbur.

Printing and Stationery—Messrs. Voorhees, Waring, Simpson.

The following applications for Peddlers' licenses were presented and referred to the proper committees: J. Heipel, D. K. Vail, H. Becker, J. E. Thompson, Chas. Schneider, C. L. Jones. They were subsequently granted.

A communication was received from Frank Lee, William Swaim, Elias R. Pope and others, asking that Singer Alley be closed; also, that a bridge be placed across the brook at the dividing line of Union and Somerset counties. The matter was referred to the Street Committee.

John Cook and Scotch Plains announced cated with the Council that he would furnish crushed stone on East Front street from Terrill Road to Medford Alley, and on the road to the one-dollar alms. After some discussion, the communication was tabled upon motion of Mr. Cox.

Messrs. Warren Marsh, Geo. R. Pound, Rev. Mr. Bridges, and other East Third street residents, petitioned the Council for an electric light at Third and Washington streets. Referred to the Fire, Water and Lamps Committee, with power.

A petition was received from R. M. Stelle, Geo. H. Burgess and other property owners along Central Avenue, for sewers for two suitable lamps on that thoroughfare, between Randolph Road and Elizabeth street. Referred to Fire, Water and Lamps Committee.

Certain property owners in the vicinity of Central avenue and Third street, petitioned the Council for an electric or other suitable light at the intersection of said thoroughfares. The petition was transferred to the Fire, Water and Lamps Committee.

CLAIMS.

Bills were presented as follows, referred to the proper committees, and ordered reported back at next meeting:

Auditing Committee: J. H. Piatt, $40; V. V. Moody, $27; John Johnson, $7.49 and $2; R. F. Butterworth, $30; Plainfield Gas Light Co., $17.50 and $6.75; N. Y. and N. J. Globe Gas Light Co., $169.20; Times Printing and Publishing Co., $36.60; Jas. Clark, $40; C. H. Dorman & Co., $2.11; Gen. Mgr., $632.77; Geo. M. Angleman, $021; F. A. Dunham, $29, $25.23 and $6.99; A. Titsworth, $87.50; T. W. Morrison, $36.30; Geo. M. Angleman, $41.66; Plainfield Electric Light Co., $350.

POLICE CLAIMS.

C. Jones, $3.75 and $7.75; W. R. Mattox, $7.75; J. W. Budd, $75; Geo. W. Cook, $60; P. Lynch, $60; T. McCue, $60.

POOR BILLS.

D. Hand, $150; Relief Association, $63; Mrs. Cooper, $27; John D. Darby, $13.48; Wm. G. Morse, $64.50; A. A. Gonnett, $12; J. H. Kenyon, $13.50; P. Conboy, $13.50; D. S. Cole, $12; Mutual Life Insurance Co., $12.50; C. A. Hartshorne, $12.50; C. A. Harrison, $30; K. Conway, $4; J. B. Goble, $18; B. Hickey, $4; B. Goodman, $2.50; W. T. Morrison, $30; Ford & Stiles, $15.

The Collector presented his monthly statement. It was referred to the Finance Committee, and later returned with the Committee's approval, and ordered on file. Following is the

RECAPITULATION.

Total State and County Collector
Moneys	$691 18
Judgments	13.13
Library	11.97
Interest	2.00
Poor	29.50
Costs and Interest Old Tax School list	28.18
Total amount taxes collected and paid City Treasurer	499.61
City treasurer to be credited to credit Board of Education	125.56
Interest on amount this deposited to credit Board of Education	8.23
Total am't depos. to credit B'd Ed'n	133.79
Total receipts for June, 1887	$633.40

The Treasurer's monthly statement was read and referred to the Finance Committee; later it was returned with the Committee's approval and ordered filed. It showed a balance in the treasury of $9,321.31. The total receipts for the month amounted to $5,920.54, making an aggregate of $15,249.75. The disbursements amounted to $5,928.23, leaving a balance of $7,197.52 on hand.

The Mayor communicated with the Council re-nominating Wm. Scribner as a special policeman. The nomination was confirmed. He also sent in a communication suggesting the erection of a City Hall and the need for the same. The paper stated that the interest on $20,000 at 4 per cent. was now annually expended in rent for city offices, and that said offices were distributed, or, rather, the buildings, throughout the city. The land and building when completed would probably cost between $25,000 and $30,000. Mr. Cox moved that the paper be referred to the Finance Committee, and that the matter to a special committee of three, to be appointed by the chair, and later in the evening President Marsh appointed Messrs. Waring, Waring and Dunham as such committee.

Mr. Dunham from the Alms Committee, reported the allowance of the following poor bills, stated that the Committee, in company with the Mayor and Overseer of the Poor, had paid an official visit to the Asylum at Bridgeton, and had given

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST. - - City Editor.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE OF MAILS.

NEW YORK MAILS
Close—8.00 and 10.30 A. M.; 2.00 and 5.30 P. M.
Arrive—2.30 P. M. 11 & 4. M.; 9.30 and 8.30 P. M.

SCHUYLER, SANFORD, &C., MAILS.
Close—2.00 P. M.
Arrive—8.30 A. M. and 8.30 P. M.

SUNDAY MAILS—Arrive at 9.30 A. M. Office open from 8.30 A. M. to 9.30 A. M. and closed at 7 P. M.

MAILS FOR WATCHUNG closes Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 12 M.

Post Office open at 7 A. M. and closes at 7 30 P. M. on Sundays, closes at 9 00 P. M. Open every evening until 9 00 P. M. on Sundays at hour boxes.

Money order office open from 8 A. M. until 7 P. M. Saturdays to 9 P. M.

W. L. FORCE, Postmaster.

—Constable Bauerwaks of North Plainfield arrested Thomas McGrath Monday, for disorderly conduct. Thomas was granted a thirty days' leave of absence, to sojourn at Somerville at the county's expense.

—A village cart driven by a lady who disappeared at once from sight and identification, swung around the macadamized plank in front of the station, Saturday, and knocked a loud wheel of Mr. Pat Lynch's back.

—The through car to Long Branch and Asbury Park, attached to the 2.25 p. m. train from this city, is a very popular and popular with Plainfield people, who can now be taken direct to the seashore without change of cars.

—Bishop Wigger of Newark, has ordered it is said, the enforcement of the law that no Catholic, man or woman, who neglects mass and the sacrament for a year shall after that be admitted into a church. There can be no mass, no blessing.

—Some unreligious young men, of Washington Park, gained access to the belfry of the Presbyterian church, last Friday o'clock. Monday morning last, and proceeded to disturb their neighbors and disgrace themselves by ringing the bell at that unseemly hour.

—The young man named Daly who disappeared immediately after the alleged accidental shooting took place on the railroad bridge, on Saturday of last week, whereby Edward Stasz was shot in the leg, Monday gave bail in the sum of $200 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

—James Kinsman a man employed by Dr. Kimball of this city, was arrested in North Plainfield by Marshal Becker early Saturday morning, for driving a cart on the streets without a halter. Mayor Cooley fined him $5 which amount he paid and was released.

—A fire alarm was placed in the fire-tower, Saturday, that direct connection might be had with the watchmen on duty during Monday last, and Sunday and Monday nights. This was a kindness and courtesy for which the telephone company deserved great credit.

—The Netherwood is rapidly filling with guests, and during the past two days alone, many large families have taken up their permanent abode there for the summer. The parlors and piazzas are quite lively and activity as of old fills the office and hall-ways.

—The Elizabeth wheelmen will give a handsome gold medal to the lady-rider covering the greatest number of miles on the road in excess of 100 miles, during the year from January 1st to December 31st, 1887. Also a silver medal to the lady attending the most tricycle runs during the same time.

—During the ball game between the "High School" nine and the Borough "Clippers," on the Park avenue grounds, Monday, Mr. F. Hyde, who was catching for the former club, was struck on the collar-bone by a foul fly, but the player recovered so as to be able to finish with the game.

—Michael Dougherty, the man who was struck by a train at Somerville, a few evenings since, as reported in THE PRESS, died in the Elizabeth City Hospital on Saturday. He was a veteran of the late rebellion, being a volunteer in Co. I, Third New Jersey Volunteers. He was buried on Sunday, and Drake's Veteran Zouaves of Elizabeth, attended the funeral in a body.

—The University at Alfred Centre, N. Y., has been laboring under the inconvenience of a total lack of water supply. A determined and successful effort has just been made to pay it off. President Allen and wife gave their house and lot, value $5,000. The entire amount was raised by the faculty and citizens of Alfred Centre. It is said that the debt stood in the way of stone endowment.

—The Contemporary, the Central Times, announces that this week it will make a new departure by beginning to issue a weekly illustrated supplement of four pages, of all matter written expressly for it by some of the best known newspaper and magazine writers in the country. We cordially extend the right hand of fellowship to the Times and trust the new venture will prove a success.

—Borough Marshal Becker arrested a young man named Squier from this city, on Monday, whom he discovered riding a bicycle on the sidewalk in North Plainfield, which is in violation of the borough ordinances. He was fined $5 and costs. Squier refuses to appear for a hearing when Mayor Cooley returns home. The Mayor will for once preside at the trial of one of his brother members of the Plainfield Bi Club.

—A well-known politician about town is reported to have left a house and buggy on East Second street, Plainfield, for a hasty business last Thursday, when a friend of his took possession of the rig and drove around town on a pleasure trip. He sought the services of the police to recover the missing property, and his indignation was aroused when he learned that the matter was only intended as a joke.

—A lawn tennis club called "Hitormiss" has been organized in North Plainfield with a membership of about twenty-five. The officers elected are as follows: Miss Hyde, President; Harry Brokaw, Vice President; Mrs. William R. Vail, Treasurer, and Miss Grande Lewis, Secretary. The grounds selected are on Somerset street. Bockstoce's "Hit or Misses" will soon be ready to cross rackets with the "Misses Hitters" or any other rural club.

—One of the young men who was implicated in the bathing affray, a few evenings since, whereby Edward Staats, a colored man, was the victim, unpleasantly left town directly after the shooting, and has not since returned. His wife, it is alleged, also left the city about the same time, leaving a few weeks' old infant with a family in North Plainfield, where she was employed as a domestic. The gentleman, in whose family the woman was employed, has made application to the Overseer of the Poor, for the removal of the infant.

—The Church of the Holy Cross, North Plainfield, was never so prosperous as at present. Desirable pews are in demand, and several new comers in Washington Park are competing for choice pews in the middle aisle. Some of the older pews-holders are yielding to the increased demand for those pews and are willing to take a "back seat" to assist in the advancement of the church. The Sunday School in connection with the church has doubled in members within the short period of one year, and greater results are looked for at the re-opening of the school in September.

—The receipts at the ticket office at the Plainfield depot, from July 1st to 5th inclusive, amounted to about $5,000.

—Zephyr Hook and Ladder company will give a grand parade in the Crescent on Wednesday afternoon and evening of next week.

—Mr. Burt Swalm will be weather during the months of July and August, close his store on North Avenue at 7 p. m. Saturdays excepted.

—The finals in the tennis tournament will be played on the Central avenue grounds, Saturday afternoon next, upon the arrival of the 2.25 train.

—An adjourned meeting of the W. C. T. U., will be held in Reform Hall, Thursday evening, July 14th, at three o'clock, p. m. A full attendance is requested.

—There was some fine trotting at the Fair Grounds on Saturday between horses owned in this city. Mr. O. T. Waring's "Gogobbed" trotted two heats with Mr. A. Tuil's "Betsey Bobbitt," winning the latter in 2.29 and 2.31. Other races were started by horses in 2.35¼ and 2.41.

—A swarm of bees took possession of one of the Plainfield Tennis Club's courts, yesterday, and occupied it during the entire day to the exclusion of everything else. Had it been otherwise than Sunday, on all these courts, the Tournament in progress might have been finished Monday.

—Sunday was commution day at the Congregational church, and at the close of the service, three persons were admitted to membership in the church, three upon confession of faith, and one by letter. Freeholder Vanderbeek led the singing, in the absence of the regular church choir, the majority of which are enjoying their summer vacation.

—Will be issued from the press of the Globe Printing House, Philadelphia, in a few days, a highly amusing little book of observations on characters met with at sea shore and mountain resorts, entitled, "Summer Folks," by Two Maes. A leading feature of the work is the popular typical song, "That's All!" "That's All!" Price 25 cents, in paper.

—According to the signal flags that flied by official information from the governmental weather bureau, yesterday and the Fourth were both the same kind of days. You are supposed that the sun shone all day Monday and that the rain fell all day Tuesday. The value of weather signals and predictions can hardly be overestimated.

—An interesting ball match is being arranged to take place on the Park avenue grounds on Saturday afternoon at half-past three o'clock, between the Dauntless nine known as the "Eighteen Hundred Pounders," Bach member of the latter club must weigh 200 pounds, and a handicap proportional scale will be made on the ground for the purpose of weighing the players.

—Decided improvements are being made on the Anson Prairie property on Front street beyond Plainfield, by Mr. William Kelley, who recently purchased the property, will move the dwelling house on a line with other residences on Front street, and remodel it in a handsome manner. He will also open a thoroughfare to the rear of the property, on which he will erect handsome cottages.

The Tennis Tournament.

The first tournament of the Plainfield Tennis Club has already proven an unqualified success. The occasion attracted from a neighboring city the pick of some of the State's best players—equipped with skill, practice and experience—and, in consequence, the contests have been sharp and exciting to the players and full of interest and enjoyment for the spectators. Besides being able players, the Elizabethans proved to be thorough gentlemen, and the efforts put forth by the Plainfielders to entertain them were a satisfaction to both the hosts and the visitors. Play Monday was begun in the morning, followed by rest and refreshment, and finished in the afternoon. A number of the visitors dined with friends in Plainfield, while for the others bountifully laden tables were spread beneath the trees that line the tennis courts. The arrangements for players and spectators were perfect, and the grounds were crowded with the youngest representatives of the wealth and beauty of the city. The management of the affair the Club were fortunate in placing in the hands of Mr. Charles Campbell, and the tournament Committee consisting of Messrs. H. W. Beebe, James P. Murray and Fred W. Wells, also deserves a large share of credit that everybody is according the event. It has certainly proved a great attraction, and will largely encourage the organization of tennis clubs in this section in our midst. Next year some of the State Champions will hail from the Plainfield Club, and the presence of tournaments in our midst will have brought to the surface and fostered the material.

Saturday afternoon's games opened with no hop in the air of the home players that they might win something. The visitors were picked players with names that had figured at the top of the lists of the leading athletic organizations, and all tall athletes of wiry physiques. The Plainfield players were mostly lightly built and young as well—Summer at the residence of Mrs. Ryder on Front street.

Mr. A. W. Gavin, a member of the Fourth Reformed church of Philadelphia, of which the Rev. Mr. Schenck was for many years the pastor, was present at the installation services in Trinity Reformed church last Thursday evening.

Miss Annie Price of Sherman avenue, who went to South America a few months ago, has sailed from the latter country and expects to arrive at San Francisco about July 9th. After a visit to the San Juan Golden City, she will start for her home here.

Miss McBryde, who has been spending a few days with her friends, the Misses Stillman of Eighth street, left Tuesday for Martha's Vineyard, Mass. The father of Miss McBryde, is a celebrated Presbyterian minister in the South, and the young lady has been thus completed her musical studies at the Boston Conservatory of Music.

Mr. Robert Freeman of Broadway and Hillside avenue, died at seven, Thursday, after a long illness. The deceased was the first to open up Broadway beyond Kensington avenue, as a place of residence. He has for several years builded almost of the handsome houses in that vicinity. He was the father of Mrs. Emma P. Fox of this city, and of the late husband of Mrs. Capt. Wm. B. Ostrom.

The death of Mrs. Zipporah Irving, widow of the late Jacob Irving, occurred during Thursday afternoon at her home on East Second street, where she had resided for the past fifty-one years. The deceased was in the seventy-fourth year of her age, and enjoyed the esteem and sincere friendship of a large circle of the best known people of the community. The funeral services were held at her late residence, last Tuesday afternoon, at three o'clock. The Rev. A. V. V. Raymond, the former pastor of the deceased, officiated with the Rev. Mr. Schenck.

Mr. S. D. C. Hodges, editor of Science, and Mr. Chas. H. Davis, both of Plainfield, are members of the Local Committee (of New York) of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. The annual meeting of the Association occurs early in August, and brings together in New York the most prominent scientific men of the country. Prof. S. P. Langley the author of the Century's articles on "The New Astronomy," and Astronomer of Allegheny Observatory, will preside at the New York meeting, which promises to be a very interesting session. We dare say that many of our Plainfield residents will be present.

Personalia.

Mr. Frank A. Church and family of the Borough, are at the Wyatt House, Asbury Park, for the month of July.

Hon. Jacob Kicker and family of Eighth street, will start in a few days for their summer home in Gossenhoppen.

Mrs. A. J. Cox, mother of Councilman Rowland Cox, has gone to Manhegan Island, Maine, for the Summer.

Mr. Edwin H. Lewis, and Miss Grace Lewis, arrived home last Friday from the college at Alfred Centre, N. Y.

Mr. Albert Bodine, editor of the New York Sunday Dispatch, is stopping at the Netherwood for the Summer season.

The family of Mr. T. M. Demarest of North Plainfield have taken up their residence for the Summer at Asbury Park.

Mr. William White and family of Washington Park, left the city Friday to spend the heated season at Asbury Park.

Mrs. Edward Blackburn of Brooklyn, N. Y., is on a visit for a few days to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carty, of Short Second street.

Mr. Wm. Cadmus of Brooklyn, N. Y., is spending a few weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Cole and daughter of Emily street, North Plainfield.

Mrs. M. J. Brewster and Miss Brewster of Broadway, left Friday for Asbury Park. They will summer at the Bolyn-ston House.

Both Mr. and Mrs. George Hoadley are so much recovered as to be out again, and are enjoying every day the pleasant drives about Plainfield.

John Bangham, a former resident of Plainfield, visited friends here on the 4th, after an absence of nearly eighteen years. He was heartily received.

The family of Mr. A. C. Vail of Eighth street, and Madison avenue, expect to leave this week for Massachusetts, where they will spend the Summer.

Mrs. John H. Jackson and son, and Mr. John Crawford, left Friday for North Asbury. They have engaged rooms at the Victoria House for the Summer.

Miss Ida Augustus and Miss Julia J. Taylor of this city, are among the guests at the Ebbitt House, Asbury Park; Miss Brewster is stopping at the Belvidere.

Mr. T. S. Burr, Patriarch of the Plainfield Bicycle Club, with his wife and one of the children, left their La Grande avenue residence for Asbury Park, Friday.

Mr. J. B. Higgins and son, Walter, of Orchard place, the latter one of the faithful carriers of THE PRESS, spent the Fourth with relatives at Rockton, N. J.

Mrs. Eugene A. Gross, of Union avenue, and Miss Gertrude of Eighth street, have rented a cottage on the island of Nantucket where they will spend the next two months.

Mrs. C. E. Ryder, wife of the late ex-Councilman Ryder, and family of East Front street, left last Friday for North Granville, Washington county, N. Y., for the Summer.

Dr. Joseph Healy and his young bride, of Gates avenue, Brooklyn, have been the guests for a few days of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Leader, at their charming home in North Plainfield.

Mr. Isaac L. Miller and family of Broadway are registered at the Mansion House, White Lake, Sullivan county, N. Y., for which place they left town last week to spend the Summer.

The wife of Vice-Principal Miller, of the Plainfield Public Schools, is recovering from her severed illness, and expectations are being made to leave the city about August 1st.

The Rev. Dr. Joseph Pemberton Taylor of York avenue, pastor of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Evens, was honored with degree of D. D., Thursday, by Trinity College, Hartford.

Among those who graduated from the State Normal School at Trenton on Thursday evening, according to the Daily True American of that place, was Miss Mary E. Robinson, of this city.

Senator Livingston and family, start this week for the Adirondacks, where Robert will skillfully draw out of their native element the game trout and black bass, during his stay there.

Rev. A. V. V. Raymond, D. D., assisted the Rev. Cornelius Schenck at the funeral services of the late Peyton Irving, at her late residence on East Second street, Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock.

Mr. William B. Wadsworth has purchased from Mr. James Wood, of Woodmouth street, thirty feet of land adjoining his elegant new residence in Eighth street. The consideration was $27 a foot.

Principal of the North Plainfield Public School, Mr. C. E. Ross, and wife, left Thursday for Smyrna, Chenango county, New York. They will spend most of the time Summer vacation there, as the guests of Mr. Ross' father.

Mr. W. D. F. Curtis, a retired merchant of New York city, has rented the dwelling recently erected by Mr. A. A. Hopkins on Grant avenue, Washington Park. Mr. Curtis and family took possession of their new home, Friday.

Mr. John B. Scott for many years connected with the banking house of Messrs. J. and J. Stuart & Co., of New York, has again returned to Plainfield with his family and will summer at the residence of Mrs. Ryder on Front street.

Mr. A. W. Gavin, a member of the Fourth Reformed church of Philadelphia, of which the Rev. Mr. Schenck was for many years the pastor, was present at the installation services in Trinity Reformed church last Thursday evening.

Miss Annie Price of Sherman avenue, who went to South America a few months ago, has sailed from the latter country and expects to arrive at San Francisco about July 9th. After a visit to the San Juan Golden City, she will start for her home here.

Miss McBryde, who has been spending a few days with her friends, the Misses Stillman of Eighth street, left Tuesday for Martha's Vineyard, Mass. The father of Miss McBryde, is a celebrated Presbyterian minister in the South, and the young lady has been thus completed her musical studies at the Boston Conservatory of Music.

Mr. Robert Freeman of Broadway and Hillside avenue, died at seven, Thursday, after a long illness. The deceased was the first to open up Broadway beyond Kensington avenue, as a place of residence. He has for several years builded almost of the handsome houses in that vicinity. He was the father of Mrs. Emma P. Fox of this city, and of the late husband of Mrs. Capt. Wm. B. Ostrom.

The death of Mrs. Zipporah Irving, widow of the late Jacob Irving, occurred during Thursday afternoon at her home on East Second street, where she had resided for the past fifty-one years. The deceased was in the seventy-fourth year of her age, and enjoyed the esteem and sincere friendship of a large circle of the best known people of the community. The funeral services were held at her late residence, last Tuesday afternoon, at three o'clock. The Rev. A. V. V. Raymond, the former pastor of the deceased, officiated with the Rev. Mr. Schenck.

Mr. S. D. C. Hodges, editor of Science, and Mr. Chas. H. Davis, both of Plainfield, are members of the Local Committee (of New York) of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. The annual meeting of the Association occurs early in August, and brings together in New York the most prominent scientific men of the country. Prof. S. P. Langley the author of the Century's articles on "The New Astronomy," and Astronomer of Allegheny Observatory, will preside at the New York meeting, which promises to be a very interesting session. We dare say that many of our Plainfield residents will be present.

S. A. Vail, of Vail Bros., Philadelphia, is in town looking after the interests of their customers.

Mrs. Wm. H. Backman and mother of West Front street, are visiting, for a few days, friends on Long Island.

Mrs. C. Potter, Jr., and daughter, of West seventh street, are sojourning for the present at Watch Hill, R. I.

Miss Sadie E. Jones, of Long Branch, is visiting her mother, Mrs. H. Bryan, of Chatham street, North Plainfield.

Mrs. Arthur Sutphen of Dunellen is recovering from her recent serious illness, brought on by an attack of the measles.

Mr. W. R. Potts and family of West Seventh street, have taken possession of their handsome cottage at Monmouth Beach.

The Misses Sadie and Anna Searing of West Third street, are spending their Summer vacation with friends at Forth Amboy.

Mr. William H. and Miss Anna K. Nash of Brooklyn, were the guests, during the Fourth, of Miss Florence M. Randolph, of Police street.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Bird of Park avenue, are receiving the congratulations of a host of friends over the arrival of an heir, whose age will be recorded from Friday last.

The widow of the late Frank Wright, the latter for many years an employee in THE CONSTITUTIONALIST office, is reported to be lying at the point of death, with consumption, at her home, Cornwall-on-the-Hudson.

Robinson Pound, of the Plainfield Bicycle Club, was Monday elected Secretary-Treasurer of the New Jersey Division of the League of American Wheelmen, at the Annual Meeting held at East Orange. About 125 members were present at the meeting, presided over by Mayor Cooley, of North Plainfield.

Mr. Sydney Dorman recently flew a young carrier pigeon of the progeny of "Silver" and the "Dinault Hen," from Westfield, and it reached its coop on Central avenue, this city, in just four minutes. The old pair are those released a few weeks ago, 500 miles from New York. Mr. T. S. Burr, Patriarch of the Plainfield Bicycle Club, with his wife and one of the children, left their La Grande avenue residence for Asbury Park, Friday.

Mrs. C. E. Ryder, wife of the late ex-Councilman Ryder, and family of East Front street, left last Friday for North Granville, Washington county, N. Y., for the Summer.

Dr. Joseph Healy and his young bride, of Gates avenue, Brooklyn, have been the guests for a few days of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Leader, at their charming home in North Plainfield.

Mr. Isaac L. Miller and family of Broadway are registered at the Mansion House, White Lake, Sullivan county, N. Y., for which place they left town last week to spend the Summer.

The wife of Vice-Principal Miller, of the Plainfield Public Schools, is recovering from her severed illness, and expectations are being made to leave the city about August 1st.

The Rev. Dr. Joseph Pemberton Taylor of York avenue, pastor of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Evens, was honored with degree of D. D., Thursday, by Trinity College, Hartford.

Among those who graduated from the State Normal School at Trenton on Thursday evening, according to the Daily True American of that place, was Miss Mary E. Robinson, of this city.

Senator Livingston and family, start this week for the Adirondacks, where Robert will skillfully draw out of their native element the game trout and black bass, during his stay there.

Rev. A. V. V. Raymond, D. D., assisted the Rev. Cornelius Schenck at the funeral services of the late Peyton Irving, at her late residence on East Second street, Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock.

Mr. William B. Wadsworth has purchased from Mr. James Wood, of Woodmouth street, thirty feet of land adjoining his elegant new residence in Eighth street. The consideration was $27 a foot.

Principal of the North Plainfield Public School, Mr. C. E. Ross, and wife, left Thursday for Smyrna, Chenango county, New York. They will spend most of the time Summer vacation there, as the guests of Mr. Ross' father.

Mr. W. D. F. Curtis, a retired merchant of New York city, has rented the dwelling recently erected by Mr. A. A. Hopkins on Grant avenue, Washington Park. Mr. Curtis and family took possession of their new home, Friday.

Mr. John B. Scott for many years connected with the banking house of Messrs. J. and J. Stuart & Co., of New York, has again returned to Plainfield with his family and will summer at the residence of Mrs. Ryder on Front street.

Mr. A. W. Gavin, a member of the Fourth Reformed church of Philadelphia, of which the Rev. Mr. Schenck was for many years the pastor, was present at the installation services in Trinity Reformed church last Thursday evening.

Miss Annie Price of Sherman avenue, who went to South America a few months ago, has sailed from the latter country and expects to arrive at San Francisco about July 9th. After a visit to the San Juan Golden City, she will start for her home here.

Miss McBryde, who has been spending a few days with her friends, the Misses Stillman of Eighth street, left Tuesday for Martha's Vineyard, Mass. The father of Miss McBryde, is a celebrated Presbyterian minister in the South, and the young lady has been thus completed her musical studies at the Boston Conservatory of Music.

Mr. Robert Freeman of Broadway and Hillside avenue, died at seven, Thursday, after a long illness. The deceased was the first to open up Broadway beyond Kensington avenue, as a place of residence. He has for several years builded almost of the handsome houses in that vicinity. He was the father of Mrs. Emma P. Fox of this city, and of the late husband of Mrs. Capt. Wm. B. Ostrom.

The death of Mrs. Zipporah Irving, widow of the late Jacob Irving, occurred during Thursday afternoon at her home on East Second street, where she had resided for the past fifty-one years. The deceased was in the seventy-fourth year of her age, and enjoyed the esteem and sincere friendship of a large circle of the best known people of the community. The funeral services were held at her late residence, last Tuesday afternoon, at three o'clock. The Rev. A. V. V. Raymond, the former pastor of the deceased, officiated with the Rev. Mr. Schenck.

Mr. S. D. C. Hodges, editor of Science, and Mr. Chas. H. Davis, both of Plainfield, are members of the Local Committee (of New York) of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. The annual meeting of the Association occurs early in August, and brings together in New York the most prominent scientific men of the country. Prof. S. P. Langley the author of the Century's articles on "The New Astronomy," and Astronomer of Allegheny Observatory, will preside at the New York meeting, which promises to be a very interesting session. We dare say that many of our Plainfield residents will be present.

Heartiest Congratulations.

The following congratulatory message was unintentionally omitted from the installation services at Trinity Reformed church, Thursday evening, June 30th, but was intended to be read then, but was read instead at both services in the church, Sunday last:

REV. P. S. VAN ARSDALE:

"Heartiest congratulations to the pastor and people of Trinity Reformed church. May the future and younger be more manifestly the glory of the latter house.

"ALBERT BODINE, Sr.
"Albany, June 30th, 1887."

General Southwood's Great Day.

All day and all night of Monday the Hotel Netherwood metaphorically blazed with the brilliancy of the greatest effort in its line. The interests and purposes of the wealthy and generous guests that fill the hotel this Summer, we have from day to day reported, and all labors and preparations culminated in a celebration Monday that was an honor to its creators and a crowning glory to the already remarkable success of The Netherwood in the hands of its new owner. The afternoon's concert from four to five-thirty was even lighter than we had let the public know, and almost every number on the programme published in THE PRESS of Saturday, was redemanded. The evening festivities were of the latter character and formed a grand display that attracted the presence of hundreds from the city and its neighboring towns. The most grandest display of all was the parlors crowded later on with youth and beauty. Besides the large number of guests present clad in the dignified black of full dress suit, or the more dainty attire of the ball costume, were many of the city belles Plainfield is so justly proud of. The dresses exhibited were unusually costly and showy. Combinations of laces as soft as the skin beneath and satins as rich as the blood-tints flushing the surface, were many and charming. About eleven o'clock the main dining-room was thrown open and over a hundred sat down to a sumptuous supper. Among those present of the invited guests were the Misses Murray, the Misses VanZandt, Miss Dorman, Miss Dumont, Miss E. Dunn, Miss Williams, Miss Randolph, Miss Morgan, Miss Depew and the Misses Sanford of this city; Mrs. and Miss Montague of Holyoke, Mass.; Miss Lilian Dumont of Brooklyn, and Miss Nettie Randolph of New York. Also Messrs. Wilkinson, Moore, Squires, Dunn, Talbot, Kleinecke, Sanford, Huntsman and Murray.

Of the hotel's own permanent guests were noticeable the presence and graceful contained of Mrs. H. W. Williams, Mrs. Major T. H. Cullen, Mrs. R. B. Howard, Miss Emma Boome, Mrs. H. D. Brewster, Mrs. W. J. Roome, Mrs. C. L. Edey, Miss Swain, Mrs. Dr. A. H. Goelet, Mrs. Bender, Mrs. J. E. Spencer, Mrs. H. P. Taylor, Mrs. T. D. Weston, Mrs. R. T. Howard, Miss Condit, Mrs. E. M. Knowles, Mrs. Col. Martin, Mrs. A. H. Hebert and Mrs. W. Randolph. Of the Taylor fold a word for Mrs. W. J. Smith, a ware that he had been honored with the degree of D. D. by Trinity College of Hartford, until after it appeared in The Press on Saturday. The reverend gentleman returned to the Park on Monday.

The Death Roll.

A young son of Mr. and Mrs. Daly of West Third street died of convulsions on Sunday night. The funeral took place Monday afternoon.

Patrick, a twin son of Patrick and Bridget Martley of West Second street, died Sunday. The remains were interred in St. Mary's cemetery Monday.

James, the five-months old son of James and Mary Emma Evans, died at the home of his parents on West Fourth street, Sunday. The funeral service took place from the house Monday afternoon. Interment at Lebanon, N. J.

The Saengerbund Picnic.

The members of the Plainfield Singing and Turning Society gave a picnic in Kelley's Grove, North Plainfield, Monday, afternoon and evening. During the afternoon the Turners gave an exhibition of their agility on the horizontal bar, and a prize shooting contest took place between the members of the Society. Geo. Richter won the first prize, a handsome meerschaum segar holder, scoring 34 points out of a possible 36. The second prize, a box of segars, was won by Rudolph Kertling, he scoring 32 points. Mr. Henry Haurand was the referee. Beneath of the ladies present were quite expert with the air gun. Miss Lena Keller scored 30 out of 36 points, and Mrs. Augusta Korman scored 31 out of 36. The afternoon and evening was generally devoted to dancing, and Prof. France furnished the music for the occasion. The affair was a credit both to the management and society, and the treasury of the association will probably be enriched several hundred dollars as the result of the undertaking.

Robbery on Grove Street.

Lewis R. Blackford with his wife and son, John, reside in a cottage on Grove street, near Madison, North Plainfield. Mr. Blackford is a carpenter by trade and his son is employed in Borough Councilman John H. Thicksten's coal office on Madison avenue. Wednesday, the 29th, the father and son started out for their work at the usual hour, leaving Mrs. Blackford alone in the house. About nine o'clock she left her started for town to make some purchases, and when she returned, two hours later, she discovered that the house had been robbed. Clothing was thrown promiscuously about the rooms in the upper story of the building, and the contents of closets and bureau drawers were scattered in confusion. It is the burglars had made a hasty search for money and other valuables. The entrance to the place was effected through a window in the rear on the South side of the house, which was left open, although the blinds were closed and a wire screen was fastened on the inside. After gaining admission, the intruders first gathered up some laundry change which lay on the window sill. After searching through the apartment the robbers ascended the stairs to the sitting room, but took nothing of great value from there, although in one of the closets they ransacked was a pasteboard box containing a considerable amount of money. A bag containing rolled lard was hauled out and opened, and three pieces of coin extracted therefrom. The family Bible lying on a table in the sitting room was also opened, but it contained nothing of value to the burglars. A pocket book was found in a room which rested on two nickles, so arranged as to steady the time-piece. The clock stopped at precisely twenty minutes past nine o'clock, showing at what time the robbers were in that room, and the two nickles were taken.

At the top of the stairway in the second story, is a door leading to Mr. Blackford's bedroom, and from a bureau drawer in this room was stolen a purse containing between ten and twenty dollars. A card-case containing business cards, and a magnifying glass were taken from some clothing hanging in the room, the pockets of which were turned inside out. In the bedroom adjoining, the robbers had evidently made a careful examination. About thirty dollars were taken from a pair of pantaloons belonging to Mr. Blackford's son, and the room was in a general state of disorder when they left. The bed clothing was disarranged, and at the foot of the bed lay quietly reposing in a family cot, under which was a pocket book containing about $300 in cash. This treasure was overlooked, and the cat was unmolested.

To a reporter, who called at the house Thursday, Mrs. Blackford said the two men who visited them had not spoken, She said the intruders must have left through the front door, which she found unlocked when she returned from town.

Struck by the Locomotive.

Michael Dougherty an honorably discharged veteran of the Third Regiment of N. J., was struck by Engine No. 109, at Somerville station, Wednesday evening, the 29th and severely injured. It is reported that a leg and arm were broken, and some ribs fractured. He suffered was taken to Elizabeth on the 8.40 p. m., train from Somerville, and placed in a hospital there. Dougherty was in Plainfield in the afternoon, and delivered a letter to comrade M. C. Dobbins of the G. A. R. Post, from Comrade W. E. Matteson. The letter stated that the bearer was anxious to reach Somerville to secure the influence of the Hon. Reynier Voghts of the Board of Governors of the New Jersey Soldier's Home, for the purpose of gaining admittance to that institution at Newark. Dougherty said he would like to return to North Plainfield to sleep last night. Mr. Dobbins bought him an excursion ticket, and Baggage Master J. F. Garretson saw him safely on the train. The unfortunate man reached his destination, but as he was crowding for room from the Somerville station to Taylor's hotel, an incoming passenger train, of which Mr. William Clark is conductor, struck him down just as it was slowing up.

NEW MARKET.

The celebration of the Fourth of July was a complete surprise to the inhabitants in respect to the number of persons who took part, the crowd of spectators, and the variety of sport provided for their amusement and entertainment. Visitors were present from all the surrounding districts and were grateful to the energy which attended the efforts of the Committee to provide entertainment for the people. A base ball match took place in the morning between the Dunellen and New Market nines, resulting in a victory for the former by a score of 37 to 35. The following is the programme with the names of the successful competitors and prizes:

Boat race—Messrs. Larrabee & Rogers, $6.00.

Swimming race—Pierre Hallett, $1.50; Chas. Peterson, .75.

Boys boat race—Chas. Rogers & "Abe" Nelson, $1.50.

Canoe race—Pierre Hallett, $1.50.

Tub race—Pierre Hallett, $1.50.

Three-legged race—"Ben" Pierce & "Abe" Nilson, $2.00.

Wheelbarrow race—John Sylvester $1; C. T. Rogers, 50c.

Boys' race, 50 yds—Geo. Pince, $1.00; Frank Nelson, 50c.

Sack race—C. T. Rogers, $1.50.

Potato race—Chas. Day, $3.00; John Stein, $2.00

Foot race, 100 yds—Peter Schultz $2.50; Monroe Reid, $1.50.

Tug of war—Foster Sofield, Dave Stouls, Wm. Shaw and Dave Blackford pulled against six men picked from the spectators and won an easy victory in two straight heats. The prize was $6 in cash.

During the evening a very good assortment of fire-works were displayed and there was also a balloon ascension. The various colored lights Roman candles, sky rockets, etc., reflected beautifully in the waters of the lake, and the large number of spectators present thoroughly enjoyed this particular portion of the programme.

Caught on the Fly.

Monday of last week a long looking, lean looking man, who might have come from over the mountains in the vicinity of Mount Bethel, slid into the office of Mr. W. L. Force, Secretary of the New Jersey Game Protective Society, and asked for information regarding the date when woodcock shooting opened. He was told that the law was held to mean that the shooting of woodcock in this county would begin on July 3d. He was also given three of the Society's printed pamphlets containing a compilation of all the laws at present in force regulating the shooting of game and the catching of fish, and lists of the "open seasons" therein prescribed.

Friday morning at the 9.52 train was about starting for New York, a long looking, lean looking man, who is said to have come from over the mountains in the vicinity of Mount Bethel, rushed up the steps of the Plainfield station. On his arm was a basket from the side of which protruded the tail of a bird. Chief of Police Dodd, who can scent a law-breaker at sight, stepped quickly forward and stopped the man as he was about to board the train. To the Chief's inquiry as to what the basket contained, he refused an answer. He was thereupon arrested and taken to the city jail at once. The basket he had and the train he almost had, left together. An examination of the basket showed it contained nine woodcock, said to be north—when in New York and out of season—two dollars apiece. The following from our issue of the 17th inst., tells the reason of the arrest of the unfortunate's somewhat hazardous predicament:

"Sportsmen should be careful about the meaning and intent of the new game law. The law of March 24, 1881, reads 'That from and after the passage of this act, no person shall kill, take, expose for sale, or have unlawfully in his or her possession, after the same has been killed, any wood cock, except only between the first day of July and the first day of August, and between the last day of September and the sixteenth day of December, in any year, under a penalty of $15 for each bird killed, taken, exposed for sale, or had in possession, contrary to the provisions of this section.' The Attorney-General has rendered a decision that woodcock cannot legally be shot on the first day of July."

There seems to be no doubt that the birds were shot Friday morning, and the only question that arises in the case is as to what the courts will rule is the meaning and intent of the law. Many claim that the 'open season' by the law is meant to include the whole month of July, and the accused, whose name is James Ralph, claims to have so understood the law. His case is in the hands of Counsellor W. R. Coddington, and the accused was later in the morning arraigned before Justice of the Peace, L. F. Walsworth. Chief Dodd acted as an even pleasant in his capacity as one of the officially appointed detectives of the New Jersey Game and Fish Protective Society. Examination was waived and Ralph gave bonds to appear for trial two weeks from to-day. He Counsel became his surety.

A LITTLE OF EVERYTHING COLUMN.

Physic is necessary at times for Biliousness, Costiveness, &c. Use Dr. Arnold's Billous Pills.

For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Price 25 cents. For sale by W. H. Voorhees.

Shiloh's Cure, Whooping Cough and Bronchitis immediately relieved by Shiloh's Cure. Sold by W. H. Voorhees.

A Nasal Injector free with each bottle of Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Sold by W. H. Voorhees.

Shiloh's Cough and Consumption Cure is sold by us on a guarantee. It cures Consumption. Sold by W. H. Voorhees.

Sleepless nights, made miserable by that terrible cough. Shiloh's Cure is the remedy for you. Sold by W. H. Voorhees.

Will you suffer with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint? Shiloh's Vitalizer is guaranteed to cure you. Sold by W. H. Voorhees.

Catarrh cured, health and sweet breath secured by Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Nasal Injector free. Sold by W. H. Voorhees.

When baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she was a Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Geo. S. Moore, Druggist, Nashua, (N. H.) says: "Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup gives perfect satisfaction and entire universal satisfaction. All not afraid to say so, and to refund purchase price."

J. B. Mason, Providence, R. I., suffered with bronchitis, accompanied by a severe cough, hoarseness and entire loss of voice. Physicians afforded him no relief. Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar restored his voice and cured his cough.

A startling truth to Thousands the universally prevailing complaint, Kidney Disease. Dr. Bull's Sparagus Kidney Pills, a perfect specific. Sold by druggists, 50 cts. per box. Sent by mail on receipt of price by Dr. Bull's Medicine Co., New York. For sale by Dr. Darby, their form could have been purchased for a green old age.

The great treatment of cancer is very successfully administered by the Swift Specific. Treatise on blood and skin diseases mailed free. Swift Specific Co., Drawer 3, Atlanta, Ga.

Ayer's Cher

WE SHALL KNOW BY AND BY.

How oft we say we wish we knew,
That all might come to light,
With vow the future hour to view
And faith transformed to sight.

We wonder why our Father hides,
And will not let us see
Beyond the curtain that divides
Time from eternity.

How many friends have passed away,
Away we more not whom,
As face-time, at the dawn of day
Forsake the lily fair.

Or like bright, silken sunkissed sails
A-borne by the same breeze
Beyond the line where vision fails
To strange and unknown seas.

Would that we knew, would that we knew,
We sigh and sigh and sigh again;
Where float the sails we fain would view
Upon the trackless main?

We shall not know while here, but soon
A world glows, with skin flown,
And oh! how sweet in Heaven's high noon
To know as we are known.

G. W. Coats, in Inter-Ocean.

"MUCH OR LITTLE."

A Goodly Loudoun Tale Which Was Written to Work Such Woes.

Years ago Stephen Loftus was the landlord of our village. Personally, Loftus was one of the largest men in the town, weighing considerably over two hundred pounds. Mentally and morally, no man can be of the same size. He was a little fish in a small scale. He never made large ventures. The turning of an honest penny gave him no particular joy; but if he could get the better of a neighbor, or of a traveler, in the way of a trade, he was happy. On the other hand let him be overreached in the way of a trade, or in the way of any kind of business, and he was in agony.

One day Deacon Hibbard—a good old farmer, from the upper part of town, called in at the tavern, and asked Loftus if he could give him "a bite of something to eat." He impressed it upon Steve Loftus' mind that he didn't want a regular dinner. A cup of weak tea, a crust of stale bread, with a little butter. That was all.

And that was all Loftus gave him. He drank the tea, ate the butter on about half the bread, then arose and went out into the bar-room and asked what was to pay.

"Thirty-five cents, Deacon, is the price for dinner."

Now the good old deacon was by no means a miser, nor was he one to shy, way grasping; but he was a poor man, and obliged to look after the pennies if he would make both ends meet at the end of the year.

"Much, Loftus," fairly swayed the deacon, "you don't call that a dinner which you served me?"

"Hardly I do, Deacon. It's the regular dinner time, and I gave you all you wanted. You don't look as if you'd eaten for. Come tell you—I've got just one bowlful rule—A dinner's a fair, square meal, and I've got my price—thirty-five cents. If you'd been a mind to, you mought've eat ten times as much, as 'twouldn't a been only a dinner."

"Suppose a man should come along that could eat a whole ox?" suggested the deacon.

"I would be just the same. As I told you afore, much of little, much or little, a dinner's a dinner."

The deacon took out his well-worn purse, and paid the money, and it is unfortunately, and with a heavy heart. It was not an easy task the deacon had laid out after ward; but the thought of the wrong put upon him.

Now it so happened that my friend Abner Jackson and myself were sitting in the bar-room at the time. Also, there were a number of others—all friends—smoking and chatting socially.

Ten or fifteen minutes before the deacon came out of the dining-room Abner and I had seen Dan Bastian push over a load of wood; and we knew he was heading it to Dr. Dossels'. Here was our opportunity to give Loftus a Roland for his Dinner. Bastian had promised to come in and had once eaten at my table; but never again.

He stood six feet in his stockings, and was as clean and look as a fence rail. He could eat more than any other man I ever knew.

I allowed Deacon Hibbard to the door, and asked him to go back and wait a while, at the same time whispering to him that he should have an opportunity to give the landlord a slight return for his dinner charges.

We found Dan with his wood off, ready for a short homeward. We asked him if he was hungry.

"Hungry!" he repeated, regarding us with simple wonder. "Cool down it; when ain't I hungry? I'd turn my gizzard out doors. I'll be soaked if I wouldn't!"

We then told him if he would come to the tavern, and order dinner and eat it, we would pay the bill. Dan was nobody's fool. On the way we gave him an inking of what we really wanted. He did pray from fairly starve. It appeared that Loftus had once cheated him in paying for a load of wood—had given him a counterfeit half dollar, and we would not take it back. Poor Dan could not afford to risk a cent at last, so he had to bite off liquid to pocket the loss. By this time we had gone half the distance to the tavern; he was thoroughly instructed, and so eager for the fray as a man could be. Then we stepped our speed, and left him to come after.

We found the company in the bar-room as we had left it. The deacon had sat down and picked up an old paper. The landlord was rumbling about, now here, now there, watching for a customer. By and by Dan Bastian drove by, turned into the stable yard, shook down a while of hay before the beasts, from the top load, cast, and then came into the barroom. He wanted some dinner.

"And I want a long-up one, eh boss!"

Loftus looked him over—the man had never eaten at his table—looked at him from he do to foot, thinking, perhaps, that a man so lean and lank could not be a great eater. He might ask the guest what he would like for dinner, tentatively informed him that it would be ready in a few minutes; and then waddled away. Dan came up to the bar, and the way he day was Saturday, and the cooks he made preparations for the morrow, were still at work, as was evident from the odors that went over and anon wafted from the kitchen.

In the course of five to ten minutes the landlord put his head in at the door of the door and announced that dinner was ready.

Abner and I asked him if he could serve us with a bench at the same time. Certainly, we could have what we wanted. I turned to the deacon and asked him if he would join us with us.

We can finish our business just as well with Dan Jackson and I are eating as a-setting."

I called for a piece of pie, with cheese, and a cup of coffee. Abner called for the same.

The sideboard was a broad pine table, set close against the wall on the back side, with turned against the partition of the kitchen; and there was a small hole or aperture communicating with the culinary department. On this board I saw a pan of veal cutlets with a pile of fried potatoes. It would furnish cold meat for supper, and a good deal for the boarders. Also, a part of a roast sirloin of beef. That, likewise, was intended for supper cooks.

The landlord saw us seated, and having placed before Dan a dish of potatoes, a few slices of bread, a really generous slice of veal, with a small dish of gravy, he set upon the point of turning, when the hungry man asked if he could't have something warm to drink. He didn't care particularly whether it was tea or coffee.

"We don't furnish hot drink with dinner unless so specially ordered," said Loftus, rather huffily.

"Why, see here! jew' you consider that I her so-pecially ordered coffee, of you've got it handy. If ye haven't, let's be free."

A red-headed girl who was in waiting at the sideboard was directed to call for the coffee-pot, and shortly after, as through fearful of losing the run of their words with the fellow if he remained the fun bust look himself away, he left them, leaving Susan to wait upon the table and upon the guests.

Susan Mason, the damsel of the red head, was a farmer's daughter, whom a previous year's work had engaged to help Abner, and they were friends. She disliked Loftus; and when Abner had given her to understand the game in hand she caught at it eagerly.

And these began a scene of the drama that I never saw approached by any stage play. That's plain was observed in a whisper.

"Shoo-is!—A leetle peice more o' that ere veal, I'll please."

It came in a generous slice, and Dan added another potato.

"Shoo-is! Will ye let me have a bit more bread?"

She brought him half a loaf and more better.

"Shoo-is! I declare! That ere veal is dreff good. Will ye let me her jew' a bottle bit more?"

Susan obeyed it. She had heard her father speak of Dan Bastian as a good appetite; but she had never heard a half of the truth. He finished the veal, and then went at the beef, and by the time he had done all that was left of either was beyond "shoo!"

"Shoo-is! Jew' got a bottle bit of pud'n, or sich a thing?" that kind, eh?"

She told him they had no pudding; but they had apple-pie—and cheese.

"O, Ge-whittikins! Minow jew for the world! There's one! Let's her one!"

And she brought him a whole immense pie, together with a generous slice of cheese.

He went at it with a relish, actually smacking his lips! And the pie finally peared. And that was not the end.

"Shoo-is! Didn't I hear ye say custard pie?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, I'll eather guess as how'n I'll hop off on one o' them ere critthurs!"

She brought it, and he was devouring the last morsel of it when the landlord came in. He learned after words that Dan had been detained out of doors by a man who had been taking off trading horses, but he had not come to the house. He was in feeding now. He thought he had lost a good trade through the disposition of the horseman to wrong and defraud him.

Stephen Loftus was an old landlord. He cur ind in his mind the moment he had left it three-quarters of an hour before; and now he took in the whole situation at a glance. He saw the cookies on the side-board—he saw the open section of the boxes of a vast long; he saw the empty bread-plate; the empty mince pie plate; and a custard pie just departed. He had looked first in detail. He now gave one general survey of the field, and made two efforts before he succeeded in speaking.

"Shoo-is! where—where is that meat?"

"It's eat all up, sir."

"Eat it up, sir!"

"He did, sir—Mr. Bastian."

"And a mince pie—a mince pie!"

"A-yes, sir."

"And a whole custard pie!"

"Yes, sir."

By this time Dan had drank the last of the coffee, and was ready for fear. Loftus turned upon him, almost white. He shook like a huge jelly bag from head to foot.

"Well, gut-sounds, sir! But—how you eaten the whole of it—you—all alone?"

"Mean, I here. And I could eat more, if I had it. I said jew 'fleetly full yit. But, I mean, I hadn't ought to eat more, for emphasis. I guess we'll call it a dinner, and I'll thank you to hand in your price for a dinner, I take it, 'squares."

"Thirty-five—thunder! Let me tell you, Mr. Bastian, you'll pay me just one dollars for that dinner; and it won't make me feel overcrowded in the purse to do it."

"What! Yeou don't say so!"

"But I do say so! And I'll tell you one thing more: you don't pay! I'll put an attachment on your cart. You won't? Very well, I'll have it out of the yard till the bill is paid. Do you mind that?"

"Friend Loftus," said the old deacon, at this point, "you now have an opportunity of showing your Christianity. I think that it makes all the difference in the world whose ox is gored. You did not hesitate to charge me full dinner-price for a poor crust and a cup of tea."

"Well, I'll be—" Mr. Loftus was less here to eat me out of house and home!" scanned the deacon. "Come, Dan—"

"Say, friend; I did nothing of the kind. Yer here I enjoyed to see him eat. Remember—Mr. Loftus—Mr. Bastian—for-bear—or it—" And one other thing Dan would say: Loftus, you're a fool. And for Broad-thirty cents a man at your tavern, you can't eat a meal on, if he could. So, my dear sir, should you think it well to attempt any force at law in this case, you will be a fool for your with. I shall cast my trust with Friend Bastian's report, and share with him the chances of a suit."

Loftus saw that he was worsted; and he probably believed that either Abner or I—one or both—did done this thing; for on this we took care to say no word—not a hint that we could afford to "look horse" with the law. It was to his line to be retire grace-fu ly. He swore several additional oaths—swore that he would be even with 'em yet. When he meant by "em," he did not say.

That was years ago, and Loftus lived to keep his inn a goodly manner of them; and to the very last a grievous wound assionately fret him by whose of his old. Whether he has paid it off, I do not know, nor, more or less—Syracuse Herald.

N. Y. Ledger.

PRETTY LIVELY BAIT.

How a Slat d Old Gentleman Came to Be Take Frogs for Bull-Heads.

Some years ago a party of Detroiters went fishing from the Star Island House on the St. Clair. Their fare was pretty good fellows, says a writer in the Detroit Free Press, and would have been perfectly happy but for one drawback—they had no good bait. It was the season for black bass, and they had neither chub nor shiners with which to tempt the fish—nothing but angle worms, which they despised. This made it worse was the fa t that two Kentuckians who were sleeping at the house had purchased a lot of delicious bait from a Frenchman named Jo, and had been regaling themselves with pan-cakes all day.

"Let's make a raid on their worms," suggested one of the party.

"I'd willingly pay them double for their froggies," said the Colonel.

But the Kentuckians retired to their rooms, and nothing more was seen of them that day.

The next evening the Detroit crowd sat on the verandah and glowered over their luck they had. They all sat in a heap, tired and discontented, looking as solemn as a company of owls. Presently a row began to spread. It had nearly reached the esquire stage, when, as one man, the entire company sprang to their feet and rushed en ta the beach path. There every man flopped on his knees and began to grope distractedly. The moon

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XX. PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, JULY 8, 1887. NO. 26.

LAWS OF NEW JERSEY.

[BY AUTHORITY.]

CHAPTER XLV.

An act to regulate and license pawnbrokers.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That no person or corporation, member of copartnership or firm, shall hereafter engage in the business of pawnbroker in any city of the state without a license therefor, nor shall any one license authorizing such business in the name of any person, copartnership or firm be used to carry on the same, which is not engaged in the business at the time such business is to be used.

2. And be it enacted, That any person, corporation, member of copartnership or firm applying for a license to carry on the business of pawnbroker, in the penal sum of two thousand dollars, with sufficient sureties, to the satisfaction of the boards of chosen freeholders and of the city, not to exceed three in number, conditioned that he or they shall observe and conform to all the provisions of this act, which bond shall expire one year from the date of its execution, and shall be renewed upon payment of the license fee and compliance with the conditions of this act in the manner aforesaid.

3. And be it enacted, That every person or corporation applying for a license under this act, shall, at the time of making the application, file with the city clerk a list of the names to be used by the city by its corporate name, or by the person or corporation applying for the license, and no person or corporation shall, directly or indirectly, in the penal sum of two thousand dollars, lend money or other property upon the pledge, pawn or contract for the loan or pledge of any article, or receive the same in pawn, at any other place than the office or store described in the application for the license, in accordance with the provisions of this act, which bond shall be given to the city, with such council, board of aldermen, board of chosen freeholders or other body as may be in the city, and shall be subject to the approval of boards of chosen freeholders of the county in which the city is, before it is in force shall be issued; and the mayor shall have full power to revoke any license issued under this act for cause.

4. And be it enacted, That every person shall be aggrieved by the action of the mayor, council, board of aldermen, or board of chosen freeholders, may appeal therefrom, and shall be adjudged against him therefor, such person may, after the expiration of thirty days from the date of such judgment, sue the mayor, council, board of aldermen, board of chosen freeholders, or any member or members of the same, who voted for such judgment, in an action of debt, and recover the amount of the penalty of the bond aforesaid, with costs of suit, for the use of the city.

5. And be it enacted, That every such pawnbroker shall keep a book or books, in which he shall enter, at the time of every loan, a true and correct description of the goods, articles or things pledged, the amount of money loaned thereon, the time when pledged, the rate of interest to be paid upon such loan, and the name and residence of the person pledging or pawning the said goods, articles or things, as given by such person at the time of making any loan, subject to the provisions hereinafter contained; which book or books shall be open at all reasonable hours for the inspection of the mayor, chief of police, captains of police and police justices of the city, and such other persons as the mayor, council, or any or either of them, and to any person who may have lost any goods, articles or things, for that purpose by any or either of them.

6. And be it enacted, That no pawnbroker shall receive by way of pledge or pawn any goods, articles or things from any minor, apparently under the age of twenty-one years, or from any person intoxicated or known to be of such habits, or any person known to be in the habit of receiving stolen goods, knowing the same to be stolen, or from any person who refuses to give his name and residence, or who gives a false name or residence, or who refuses to sign his name to the book or books aforesaid, or who refuses to be identified by the said pawnbroker by way of pawn or pledge at the place of business of any pawnbroker.

7. And be it enacted, That no pawnbroker shall receive by way of pledge or pawn any goods, articles or things for a longer time than one year, nor for a greater sum than at the rate of interest hereinafter mentioned, for the principal sum loaned, and no pawnbroker shall charge, take or receive any greater rate of interest than two per cent. a month or for a less time than one month, nor any other fee, reward or compensation whatsoever for the loan, or for the keeping, storage or insurance of any goods, articles or things pledged or pawned with him, other than the interest allowed by this act, and the charges for such storage, insurance or preparing any goods, articles or things for sale, as hereinafter provided.

8. And be it enacted, That no pawnbroker shall receive by way of pledge or pawn any goods, articles or things, which shall have remained one year in his possession, and all such goods, articles or things remaining for a longer period, and in good faith by a time or penalty of one hundred dollars for each violation, and any person or persons, corporation or corporations, who shall purchase either or any of the other portions and provisions of this act, shall be subject to a like penalty for each violation.

14. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and are hereby repealed.

Approved March 15, 1887.

CHAPTER XLVI.

A further supplement to the act entitled "An act to authorize the incorporation of building and loan associations and building associations," approved April 9, 1875, which was passed on the one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That any association which now is or hereafter may be organized under the provisions of the act of which this is a further supplement, may, by the consent of a majority of its members, given at a meeting called for the purpose, or by the consent in writing of two-thirds in value of the members of such association, surrender its corporate rights, privileges and franchises to the mayor and council of any city in which such association may be located, and thereupon such association shall be dissolved, and the mayor and council of such city are hereby authorized to receive the same, and to take charge of the property, rights and assets of such association, and to collect the debts due to it, and to pay the liabilities thereof, and to distribute the surplus among the members thereof, according to the provisions of the act of which this is a supplement.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 15, 1887.

CHAPTER XLVII.

A supplement to the act entitled "An act to regulate the issuing of bonds by municipal corporations," approved March twenty-first, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the issuing of bonds by municipal corporations, approved March twenty-first, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five, shall be regulated by the provisions of this act.

2. It shall be the duty of the city engineer or other officer of any city, upon the request of the mayor and council, board of aldermen or other governing body of such city, to report the probable amount required for the various purposes for which bonds are proposed to be issued, and the estimate so reported shall be approved by the mayor and council, board of aldermen or other governing body of such city, before the ordinance authorizing the issue of such bonds shall be passed, and that the said estimate shall be attached to the said ordinance.

3. And be it enacted, That all laws and parts of laws, both statutory and common, inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Passed March 23, 1887.

CHAPTER LVI.

A supplement to an act entitled "An act to incorporate the town of Asbury Park," approved March one, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That where the words in any of the cases of this act mentioned, or in the act to which this is a supplement, shall denote the inhabitants divided into two or more election districts, that in every such ward the polls of each election district shall be and the same hereby is established.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 30, 1887.

CHAPTER LVII.

An act to prohibit persons in obtaining registration of cattle and other animals, from using false pedigrees.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall not be lawful for any person or persons, or any corporation, association, society or company, to use a false pedigree of any animal, in obtaining registration of cattle and other animals, or in obtaining the transfer of registration of any such animal in the herd register or other register of any club, association, society or company having for its object the improvement of the breed of any animal or animals, or the encouragement of the raising of any animal or animals, and any person or persons, corporation or corporations, association, society or company violating the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars or imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both, at the discretion of the court.

2. And be it enacted, That any person or persons, corporation or corporations, who shall give a false pedigree of any animal shall be liable to any person or persons who may purchase such animal or animals, relying upon such false pedigree, for all damages he or they may thereafter be injured, having such false pedigree, to be recovered by action of law in the name of the party injured in any court of competent jurisdiction.

3. And be it enacted, That where by any false pedigree, or in any way, either the right of the owner of any animal to the registry of such corporation under its charter or by-laws, or the transfer of such animal is refused, the owner shall have a right of action against such corporation for damages, and the same may be recovered by the party injured in any court of competent jurisdiction.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 30, 1887.

CHAPTER LVIII.

A supplement to an act entitled "An act concerning the settlement and collection of arrearages of taxes, or water-rents in cities or water-cities or water-rents in cities or this state, and providing for buying a tax or water-rent lien in the said cities or either of them, and to any person who may have purchased such lien, or for that purpose by any or either of them, and to any person who may have purchased such lien, or for that purpose by any or either of them."

1. And be it enacted, That no statute-law shall remain or be valid, or any by-law, ordinance, article or thing from any minor, colonel and mayor shall present a written or verbal complaint to the said court, or any of such minor, or if the minor be an apprentice, then to the master of such apprentice, and the said court shall have power to fine the said minor a sum not exceeding five dollars, and such order or consent shall be subject to the same penalties as the order of the said pawnbroker are.

5. And be it enacted, That no pawnbroker shall receive by way of pledge or pawn any goods, articles or things from any minor, apparently under the age of twenty-one years, or from any person intoxicated or known to be of such habits, or any person known to be in the habit of receiving stolen goods, knowing the same to be stolen, or from any person who refuses to give his name and residence, or who gives a false name or residence, or who refuses to sign his name to the book or books aforesaid, or who refuses to be identified by the said pawnbroker by way of pawn or pledge at the place of business of any pawnbroker.

6. And be it enacted, That no pawnbroker shall receive by way of pledge or pawn any goods, articles or things for a longer time than one year, nor for a greater sum than at the rate of interest hereinafter mentioned, for the principal sum loaned, and no pawnbroker shall charge, take or receive any greater rate of interest than two per cent. a month or for a less time than one month, nor any other fee, reward or compensation whatsoever for the loan, or for the keeping, storage or insurance of any goods, articles or things pledged or pawned with him, other than the interest allowed by this act, and the charges for such storage, insurance or preparing any goods, articles or things for sale, as hereinafter provided.

7. And be it enacted, That no pawnbroker shall receive by way of pledge or pawn any goods, articles or things which shall have remained one year in his possession, and all such goods, articles or things remaining for a longer period, and in good faith by a time or penalty of one hundred dollars for each violation, and any person or persons, corporation or corporations, who shall purchase either or any of the other portions and provisions of this act, shall be subject to a like penalty for each violation.

14. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and are hereby repealed.

Approved March 15, 1887.

CHAPTER XLVI.

A further supplement to the act entitled "An act to authorize the incorporation of building and loan associations and building associations," approved April 9, 1875, which was passed on the one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That any association which now is or hereafter may be organized under the provisions of the act of which this is a further supplement, may, by the consent of a majority of its members, given at a meeting called for the purpose, or by the consent in writing of two-thirds in value of the members of such association, surrender its corporate rights, privileges and franchises to the mayor and council of any city in which such association may be located, and thereupon such association shall be dissolved, and the mayor and council of such city are hereby authorized to receive the same, and to take charge of the property, rights and assets of such association, and to collect the debts due to it, and to pay the liabilities thereof, and to distribute the surplus among the members thereof, according to the provisions of the act of which this is a supplement.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 15, 1887.

CHAPTER XLVII.

A supplement to the act entitled "An act concerning bridges and turnpikes," approved March twelfth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever any turnpike or other public road, or any part thereof, shall be laid out, altered or accessible public use, the same, or the part thereof so laid out, altered or made accessible, shall be opened and kept in repair as directed by the board of chosen freeholders of the county in which the same is laid out, repaired, worked, repaired, made accessible and kept in repair, and the boards of chosen freeholders of the several counties in which it lies, and not of the township or townships in which it lies, shall annually, at the annual meeting of the freeholders of any township, the same to be paid by the inhabitants of any township, the same to be paid by the inhabitants of the county at the annual meeting of the freeholders

The Charleston Rivers and Courier urges that the South should manufacture every pound of cotton grown on its fields, and thus derive the whole profit from its principal agricultural product.

The growth of water works in this country in the last five years is something phenomenal. Up to the year 1880 the total number of water works in existence at towns in the United States was 3236; from that time to the end of 1885 there were 693 new works built and put in operation, following 87 in addition to 54 built previously, and they are being built this year faster than ever.

A prominent Ontario farmer claims that he has not made any money in four years. The American cattle ranches prevent him from making a profit off of stock, and the wheat region of Manitoba can undersell him. There is a small margin on horses, barley, cheese and butter. But the Ontario farmers are having a hard time of it and the Toronto Mail recommends them to combine and form a co-operative union. The Mail makes who mean best upon fostering railroads and great corporations just at present.

Captain E. P. Hesendes, after a sojourn of four years in the Arctic, is about to send a valuable collection of Alaskan curios to the Smithsonian Institution. He went North in 1881 with the polar expedition under Lieutenant Ray, and after leaving that party spent two years with the Nowakamute Indians, a tribe of the Esquimaux, living near Point Barrow. From them he obtained a number of beautiful suits of deer skin, trimmed with wolverine fur, and a great variety of weapons, utensils and ornaments, beautifully carved, from the tusks of mastodons that abound in the Alaskan fields.

There is in Lucas county, Ohio, a Bible which was preserved by being in a loaf of bread. It now belongs to a Mr. Stoffel, who is a descendant of Huguenots, having been left to him by his grandmother. During the persecution of the Bible readers in that country, all Bibles were ordered to be delivered up and burned. Those who wished to preserve their Bibles contrived many different plans in order to save them. When the authorities came to the house of Mrs. Stoffelhoff it happened to be baking day; when she heard them coming, she placed the Bible, carefully wrapped in a batch of dough, and stowed it away in the oven to be baked. When the search was over and the danger past, the Bible was taken out of the loaf and found to be uninjured.

A movement has taken definite shape in Holland looking to the substitution of the "Continental Sunday" with a slightly better observance of the Sabbath. The movement proposed allow no work that is open to public view; no sales of any sort except retailers; no places of amusement to be open before eight o'clock p. m.; no intoxicating drinks to be sold; and churches while worship is being conducted in them, nor anywhere before noon. The government declares that it is impossible to forbid all work on Sunday, or to close up all the cafes entirely. While movements like this are going on in every country where the "Continental Sunday" has been tried, certain foolish persons in this country seek to transplant the evil here.

A writer of progressive ideas has enumerated the following among the various desired inventions at the present time: Macaroni machinery, apparatus for mica and granite, good rod lead pencils, comb grafting machinery, portable power pumps, improved apparatus especially for baits, type writers which will work on account books and record books, indelible stamp-stencilling ink, a practical car starter, a good railway car ventilator, better horseshoes, radical car axles, independent car wheels, locomotive headlight, anemometer or instrument for measuring the velocity of wind currents, a sounding lead for measuring the depth of the sea without sounding, by line, piano lid hinge which shall be "dank" on the outside, good fluid India ink for draughtsmen, reciprocating counter motion, process for welding for aluminum, another good method of working iridium, substitute for coal-tar pitch in making artificial fuel from anthracite coal dust and culm, good metallic railway tie, good and practical cut-off for locomotives, flexible hook back, method of alloying copper and iron, better fusing compositions for iron foundries, etc.

Among the improvements at Mt. Vernon made during the past year are the restoration of the garden walks, one of the ladies of Louisiana; restoration of the old tomb by the ladies of Michigan; a great improvement in the surface drainage of the south through the use of terra cotta pipes, making them always dry; and the rebuilding of the terrace wall in front of the mansion. This last has been a laborious and costly work. The sum of $25,000 left by Robert Cunningham, vice regent for Maryland, was offered to restore the door sank as it was in the time of Washington, in honor of their mother's memory. A number of new relics have been added to the collection, especially in the West Virginia room, which is in charge of Mrs. Lewis Washington, mother of William D. H. Washington, United States consul to London. Among these relics are one of eyeglasses not in silver which was used by Washington, and a fragment of the original coffin in which Washington was buried. The man came to the tomb and there is a black velvet suit of clothes which Washington wore when in mourning for his mother. Mrs. Washington will also send some engravings which once belonged to Washington and the Illinois parlor has been handsomely furnished, thanks to the energy and influence of Mrs. Leiter. The dining room, which belongs to Massachusetts, contains the library, which is being catalogued through the efficient aid given by Miss Langdon, of Cambridge, Mass.

MOSES HAZE, according to the New Orleans Times-Democrat, "was born and educated in New Orleans, and received her first lesson in singing gratis from a well-known music-teacher here —Prof. Carr. A reformation for her benefit appears to be needed as far as complete her training in Europe. She was never in New York until after her reputation was established. Music is now very rich and Prof. Carr's pupils. There is not much gratitude in this world."

Of the three famous octogenarians, Simon Cameron, George Bancroft, and W. W. Corcoran, Mr. Cameron is said to be the most active in mind and the briskest in walk.

The Poor Old Beauty of Rouen.

O sweet outlines of tender time,
Thou touchwood in your sight,
Thou mine the blood in my rhymes
Of high and humble height!
Like bells of joy contending,
There sound to both old strains ring,
Now faint, now more again: here
In music clear without a tear,
My sonnet presently singing.

Thou dear old songs of home,
Make me a boy, with boyhood's joy,
As to my days of truth,
When rudely time before me came
Went up in sparks of gold,
I see the lights extinguish,
The shadows round it clinging,
Till once again in amice restrain,
The last or main, whatever I yearn
I hear presently singing.

Singing, presently singing,
The dear old songs of home.

At set of sun, when day was done,
Like silver calming bells
Rose on the air, with evening prayer,
The song we loved so well.
Still by my side they're singing,
And memories old are bringing,
Like grants allowed, of boyhood's hour,
With noble gifts to dower my years,
Of manhood presently singing.

Singing, presently singing,
The dear old songs of home.

No time can blot this fragrant spot,
This chime of silver bells,
But off my heart with sudden start
The weight of years it quells.
Then 'mid the glad bells ringing,
With holy thoughts supervening,
Now faint, now more again, I hear
In music clear, whate'er I yearn,
My sonnet presently singing.

Singing, presently singing,
The dear old songs of home.

—Lord H. Wood in Current.

BETWEEN TWO STOOLS.

Up at the hall there was a general commotion. Mr. Westley, the owner of Westley Grange, had come pretty nearly to the end of his tether. He had just bluntly announced to the estate, that he'd come to him very heavily encumbered; and now, with reduced rents, irregularly paid, he found it impossible to go on. He had, therefore, determine to spend a couple of years on the continent. During which time he hoped that the agricultural depression would pass away.

The establishment at the hall was not a large one by any means for a country landowner; but it was large enough that he could afford to keep up under existing circumstances. So one evening he called his servants together and told them of his intentions, while, the bidding them seek other situations at once.

His personal servant, Ben Biggins, was not included in the general dismissal, but was cautioned to accompany his master abroad. This was a boon for those men not unfrequently met with in this country—a man who could turn his hand to most things, though he might be a good all say. The position he held at Westley Grange was a curious one, between a valet and a gamekeeper, but at odd times he had been known to cook his master's dinner and make his master's bed. When he was dating a grouse expedition on the Welsh hills, for the rumor of it had traveled to Westley, Ben was in high spirits when he was told of the journey in store for him.

"I'll look after you, master, every time or two," he said to the cook one night; to which she replied: "You be very careful, Mr. Ben, that they don't teach you more than you teach them."

"Oh, I don't know," when teach me. Why, I could wallop the lot of 'em, if I wanted to."

"Then you mind you don't want to," she answered.

"Why, you knows very well," continued Ben, "that I set your watch a-going after James, the watchmaker, had it a month, and couldn't make it keep time. And I stopped the old bedroom chimbly smoking, when the smoke had nearly drove you all out of the place."

"Bubbish!" she said. "The watch only wanted winding; and as for the chimbly, it smoked because there was a log of straw in it. You needn't crow over them things, young man."

Ben, who had a little feeling in the part of the cook toward Ben, She had claimed him for her own originally, but Ben had fought shy; and latterly he had been paying a good deal of attention to Anna, the housemaid at the rectory. Either fault alone, on Ben's part, would have made the cook somewhat aggrieved toward him, but the two combined were more than culinary flesh and blood could stand, and it happened that her tongue had an access of acerbity when moving at Ben.

Down at the rectory the consternation was great indeed. The arrears of rent, the slightest the situation from turning till night, and Anna received many unpleasant faces.

"Stick to you?" said the cookman; "I'm sure I wouldn't never stick to such as the ladies of Louisiana; restoration of the old tomb by the ladies of Michigan; a great improvement in the surface drainage of the south through the use of terra cotta pipes, making them always dry; and the rebuilding of the terrace wall in front of the mansion. This last has been a laborious and costly work. The sum of $25,000 left by Robert Cunningham, vice regent for Maryland, was offered to restore the door sank as it was in the time of Washington, in honor of their mother's memory. A number of new relics have been added to the collection, especially in the West Virginia room, which is in charge of Mrs. Lewis Washington, mother of William D. H. Washington, United States consul to London. Among these relics are one of eyeglasses not in silver which was used by Washington, and a fragment of the original coffin in which Washington was buried. The man came to the tomb and there is a black velvet suit of clothes which Washington wore when in mourning for his mother. Mrs. Washington will also send some engravings which once belonged to Washington and the Illinois parlor has been handsomely furnished, thanks to the energy and influence of Mrs. Leiter. The dining room, which belongs to Massachusetts, contains the library, which is being catalogued through the efficient aid given by Miss Langdon, of Cambridge, Mass.

MOSES HAZE, according to the New Orleans Times-Democrat, "was born and educated in New Orleans, and received her first lesson in singing gratis from a well-known music-teacher here —Prof. Carr. A reformation for her benefit appears to be needed as far as complete her training in Europe. She was never in New York until after her reputation was established. Music is now very rich and Prof. Carr's pupils. There is not much gratitude in this world."

Of the three famous octogenarians, Simon Cameron, George Bancroft, and W. W. Corcoran, Mr. Cameron is said to be the most active in mind and the briskest in walk.

The Poor Old Beauty of Rouen.

O sweet outlines of tender time,
Thou touchwood in your sight,
Thou mine the blood in my rhymes
Of high and humble height!
Like bells of joy contending,
There sound to both old strains ring,
Now faint, now more again: here
In music clear without a tear,
My sonnet presently singing.

Thou dear old songs of home,
Make me a boy, with boyhood's joy,
As to my days of truth,
When rudely time before me came
Went up in sparks of gold,
I see the lights extinguish,
The shadows round it clinging,
Till once again in amice restrain,
The last or main, whatever I yearn
I hear presently singing.

Singing, presently singing,
The dear old songs of home.

At set of sun, when day was done,
Like silver calming bells
Rose on the air, with evening prayer,
The song we loved so well.
Still by my side they're singing,
And memories old are bringing,
Like grants allowed, of boyhood's hour,
With noble gifts to dower my years,
Of manhood presently singing.

Singing, presently singing,
The dear old songs of home.

No time can blot this fragrant spot,
This chime of silver bells,
But off my heart with sudden start
The weight of years it quells.
Then 'mid the glad bells ringing,
With holy thoughts supervening,
Now faint, now more again, I hear
In music clear, whate'er I yearn,
My sonnet presently singing.

Singing, presently singing,
The dear old songs of home.

—Lord H. Wood in Current.

BETWEEN TWO STOOLS.

Up at the hall there was a general commotion. Mr. Westley, the owner of Westley Grange, had come pretty nearly to the end of his tether. He had just bluntly announced to the estate, that he'd come to him very heavily encumbered; and now, with reduced rents, irregularly paid, he found it impossible to go on. He had, therefore, determine to spend a couple of years on the continent. During which time he hoped that the agricultural depression would pass away.

The establishment at the hall was not a large one by any means for a country landowner; but it was large enough that he could afford to keep up under existing circumstances. So one evening he called his servants together and told them of his intentions, while, the bidding them seek other situations at once.

His personal servant, Ben Biggins, was not included in the general dismissal, but was cautioned to accompany his master abroad. This was a boon for those men not unfrequently met with in this country—a man who could turn his hand to most things, though he might be a good all say. The position he held at Westley Grange was a curious one, between a valet and a gamekeeper, but at odd times he had been known to cook his master's dinner and make his master's bed. When he was dating a grouse expedition on the Welsh hills, for the rumor of it had traveled to Westley, Ben was in high spirits when he was told of the journey in store for him.

"I'll look after you, master, every time or two," he said to the cook one night; to which she replied: "You be very careful, Mr. Ben, that they don't teach you more than you teach them."

"Oh, I don't know," when teach me. Why, I could wallop the lot of 'em, if I wanted to."

"Then you mind you don't want to," she answered.

"Why, you knows very well," continued Ben, "that I set your watch a-going after James, the watchmaker, had it a month, and couldn't make it keep time. And I stopped the old bedroom chimbly smoking, when the smoke had nearly drove you all out of the place."

"Bubbish!" she said. "The watch only wanted winding; and as for the chimbly, it smoked because there was a log of straw in it. You needn't crow over them things, young man."

Ben, who had a little feeling in the part of the cook toward Ben, She had claimed him for her own originally, but Ben had fought shy; and latterly he had been paying a good deal of attention to Anna, the housemaid at the rectory. Either fault alone, on Ben's part, would have made the cook somewhat aggrieved toward him, but the two combined were more than culinary flesh and blood could stand, and it happened that her tongue had an access of acerbity when moving at Ben.

Down at the rectory the consternation was great indeed. The arrears of rent, the slightest the situation from turning till night, and Anna received many unpleasant faces.

"Stick to you?" said the cookman; "I'm sure I wouldn't never stick to such as the ladies of Louisiana; restoration of the old tomb by the ladies of Michigan; a great improvement in the surface drainage of the south through the use of terra cotta pipes, making them always dry; and the rebuilding of the terrace wall in front of the mansion. This last has been a laborious and costly work. The sum of $25,000 left by Robert Cunningham, vice regent for Maryland, was offered to restore the door sank as it was in the time of Washington, in honor of their mother's memory. A number of new relics have been added to the collection, especially in the West Virginia room, which is in charge of Mrs. Lewis Washington, mother of William D. H. Washington, United States consul to London. Among these relics are one of eyeglasses not in silver which was used by Washington, and a fragment of the original coffin in which Washington was buried. The man came to the tomb and there is a black velvet suit of clothes which Washington wore when in mourning for his mother. Mrs. Washington will also send some engravings which once belonged to Washington and the Illinois parlor has been handsomely furnished, thanks to the energy and influence of Mrs. Leiter. The dining room, which belongs to Massachusetts, contains the library, which is being catalogued through the efficient aid given by Miss Langdon, of Cambridge, Mass.

MOSES HAZE, according to the New Orleans Times-Democrat, "was born and educated in New Orleans, and received her first lesson in singing gratis from a well-known music-teacher here —Prof. Carr. A reformation for her benefit appears to be needed as far as complete her training in Europe. She was never in New York until after her reputation was established. Music is now very rich and Prof. Carr's pupils. There is not much gratitude in this world."

Of the three famous octogenarians, Simon Cameron, George Bancroft, and W. W. Corcoran, Mr. Cameron is said to be the most active in mind and the briskest in walk.

THE HUMAN MAW.

A Few Pretty Stories About Men's Stomach Capacity.

How Wax Became Applicable and the Story of Its Discovery.

Elizabeth Charlotte, the Duchess of Orleans, writing under the date of December 5, 1712, says: "Once her King, Louis Dauphin, and the Duke of Burgundy went terrible repast. I have often seen the King eat four pieces of different kinds of soup, a whole pheasant, a partridge, a dish of salad, two thick slices of ham, a mutton stuffed with garlic, a plateful of pastry, and finish the repast with fruit and hard-boiled eggs." There was a good old German from Wurtemberg where My Lord Rochet attended the university, who had a fine capacity for eating and drinking. He used to tell of a prodigious feat he performed. He ate a whole sheep at a sitting, or put out of sight a bushel of cherries, stones and all, at a single meal, and when over 80 years of age, a quarter portion of the time exhibiting the peculiarity of his appetite, which, to say the least, must have been a very eccentric one, he ate a whole goose, a dozen pigeons and five large fowls for breakfast. His meal is well attested. For a wager he would eat a whole sheep or a whole pig

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY,
W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY,
AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XX. PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, JULY 8, 1887. No. 27.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities."—MADISON.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

ALFRED D. BAILEY,
Attorney-at-Law.
Solicitor and Master in Chancery. Notary Public. No. 5 Front street, (Room 9) Plainfield, N. J.

O. L. JENKINS, M. D.,
Homeopathist.
successor to Dr. South,) 96 East Front Street, near Peace, Plainfield, N. J. Office Hours—7 to 9 a. m., 1 to 3 p. m., 7 to 9 p. m.—ap 10-1y.

JACKSON & GODDINGTON,
Counsellors-at-Law,
Commissioners of Deeds, Masters-in-Chancery, Notaries Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.—jeod

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer,
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 1161, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of CONSTITUTIONALIST, Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES R. THEIRS,
Dentist,
39 West Front street. A new local anesthetic application for extracting teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty.—je 31

H. HAND,
Auctioneer,
P. O. Address, Lock Box 71, Scotch Plains, N. J. Orders left at T. Cleary's second hand store, 107 West Front street, Plainfield, N. J., will receive prompt attention.—aj23f

OSCAR S. TEALE,
Architect,
241 Broadway, New York city, Rooms 22 and 23, (Tribune Building.) Residence, Park Building, Plainfield, N. J.—je4f

WM. K. McCLURE,
Attorney-at-Law,
MASTER IN CHANCERY, NOTARY PUBLIC, Commissioners of Deeds. Offices, North avenue opposite depot.—je4f

J. H. FERSTER,
Veterinary Surgeon.
Office in Chas. Place's livery office, corner Main street and Madison avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Day and night calls promptly attended. Telephone call No. 16. Consultation on diseases of all domesticated animals. Residence, 72 East Front street.—je4f

DR. GEORGE GIDNEY,
Veterinary Surgeon.
Removed from Second street to 119 West Front street, opposite Liberty.—je4f

ARTHUR P. MILLER,
Attorney-at-Law,
(Successor to the late W. H. Marvin), Solicitor in Chancery, Notary Public. Will buy and sell real estate, loan money, rent and take charge of property. Office over First National Bank.—je4f

F. A. DUNHAM,
Civil Engineer and Surveyor.
No. 7 Park avenue, Coward's building. Particular attention given to the adjustment of disputed boundary lines. Parties sent to all parts of the country.—je4f

DR. J. F. GRIFFEN,
Electric Baths.
Dr. Griffen treats all Nervous affections, Uterine complaints, Skin diseases, Asthma, Catarrh, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia and Chronic diseases successfully by Electricity and Electric Baths. Consultation free. Lady attendant for the ladies. 63 East Second street, corner Washington.—my14f

BUSINESS CARDS.

TO THE PUBLIC!

Park Avenue Bakery!
JOHN WALKER, Prop'r
FAMILIES and HOTELS supplied with the Celebrated
VIENNA BREAD & ROLLS,
And all Varieties of
Pies, Cake and Confectionery.
Fresh from the Mines.
It is under cover and well protected from the weather. We are prepared to deliver it well screened and in good order promptly. We are also prepared to furnish all kinds of Seasoned Lumber and Masons' Materials at short notice.

A. D. COOK & BRO.
jan8y1

J. Hervey Doane,
9 PARK AVENUE.
[Formerly Clare's.]
Watches, Clocks And Jewelry.
Repairing neatly and promptly done.
dly1

WM. H. SHOTWELL,
DEALER IN GROCERIES, PROVISIONS, VEGETABLES, DRIED FRUIT, ETC.
CORNER EMILY AND DUER STREETS
North Plainfield, New Jersey.
Celebrated Pilsbury Flour,
THE BEST IN THE MARKET.
ORDERS CALLED FOR AND DELIVERED. Thankful for past patronage I solicit a continuance Respectfully,
WILLIAM H. SHOTWELL.
ap2y

BOSTON CLOTHING HOUSE
42 W. FRONT ST.
Reliable Goods at Low Prices.
Order Department
Under the well-known Cutter,
NEWTON P. DRAKE.
Correct Styles. Right Prices
my21tf

Geo. A. Moore,
(Of the late firm of Moore Bros.)
Is now the sole proprietor of the old established market at
NO. 14 NORTH AVENUE,
Where he will continue to supply patrons with the finest grades of Fresh and Salt meats, Fish of all kinds, Oysters, Clams, Game in Season at the lowest market prices. Anything not usually kept in stock furnished at short notice. nov-tf

Edward Ramonetti,
OYSTER AND ICE CREAM SALOON.
OYSTERS BY THE QUART, 100 OR 1000.

CHARLOTTE RUSSE MADE TO ORDER.
All Orders Promptly Attended to.
34 NORTH AVENUE,
Plainfield, New Jersey. Telephone Call No. 20
jly9

HOTELS AND SALOONS.

Force's Hotel!
NORTH AVENUE
Near R. R. Depot, Plainfield, New Jersey.
JAMES H. FORCE, - - Proprietor.
A FIRST-CLASS FAMILY HOTEL.
Transient guests taken at reasonable rates.

Bottled Liquors a Specialty.

Laing's Hotel!
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
J. B. MILLER & BRO., - Proprietors.
A FIRST-CLASS FAMILY RESORT.

James Conneely
Wishes to inform the public generally that he has opened a first-class
WINE and LIQUOR ROOM,
AT NO. 32 PARK AVE.,
Where he will be pleased to furnish his friends and patrons with the choicest brands of Imported and Domestic Liquors. ml1tf

TURF EXCHANGE HOTEL,
73 Courtlandt street,
CORNER WASHINGTON, NEW YORK CITY
FRED. W. BALLARD, - - Proprietor,
(formerly of Jersey City), is now conducting the business corner Washington and Cortlandt streets, New York, formerly kept by the late Andrew Van Pelt, and by Wm. Stillwagon. All their old friends will be most courteously received.
PURE WINES, LIQUORS AND SEGARS. jy16tf

SOMERSET HOTEL,
Cor. Somerset & Emily Sts., North Plainfield, N. J.
Permanent and Transient Board, at fair rates.
First-class Stables and Sheds attached.
Meals at all (reasonable) hours. 3jan1f

JOHN JOHNSTON,
DEALER IN COAL!
YARD AND OFFICE, SOUTH AVENUE, NETHERWOOD, NEW JERSEY.
The best quality of screened coal at the lowest market price forcash. Address all orders to Netherwood post-office.—je31y

TO THE PUBLIC!

Park Avenue Bakery!
JOHN WALKER, Prop'r
FAMILIES and HOTELS supplied with the Celebrated
VIENNA BREAD & ROLLS,
And all Varieties of
Pies, Cake and Confectionery.
Fresh from the Mines.
It is under cover and well protected from the weather. We are prepared to deliver it well screened and in good order promptly. We are also prepared to furnish all kinds of Seasoned Lumber and Masons' Materials at short notice.

A. D. COOK & BRO.
jan8y1

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS, Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS, BEST IN THE WORLD.
ALL GOODS DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE
ch6tf

MICHAEL UHDAL,
CONTRACTOR
AND LANDSCAPE GARDENER!
Residence:
NETHERWOOD, NEW JERSEY.
P. O. BOX 787, PLAINFIED.
P. O. Box 5, Netherwood, N. J.
jly6f

THE ORIENT GUANO
MANUFACTURING CO.
OFFICE:
16 & 18 Exchange Place, N. Y.
"Orient Works" at Orient, Long Island.

Our facilities and advantages enable us to say that no one can produce better or cheaper fertilizers. We want some well qualified Local and General Agents in New Jersey; also in Southern States. All good farmers should compete for our $100 premium for the best crop of potatoes grown with any of our fertilizers. Send for circulars and price list. Before buying see our agent or correspond with us. Orient Guano Mfg. Co. ap24-3m

FINE FOOT WEAR,
BEST MAKES,
LATEST STYLES,
AT THE
NEW SHOE STORE
Doane & Van Arsdale
22 WEST FRONT STREET.

SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc. Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in a skilful, practical, sanitary and workmanship manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Plumbers Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and guarantee satisfaction. I believe in every man running his own business at all times and in all cases.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 8 SOUTH AVE. ap23tf Plainfield, N. J.

EDUCATIONAL.

DORSEY W. HYDE,
PRACTICAL TEACHER OF
Piano, Harmony & Guitar.
Fall Term commences MONDAY, Sept. 14th. SEND FOR CIRCULAR. P. O. BOX 1178. ag6tf

MR. LEAL'S SCHOOL
WILL RE-OPEN
Monday, Sept. 20, 1886.
Abundance of room and added facilities make it now possible to form another Class for Boys from eight to ten years of age. Several such pupils have been each year declined. Circulars and information on application.—ag13tf

A SCHOOL FOR BOYS
WILL BE OPENED IN THE PARLORS OF THE PARK AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH,
SEPTEMBER 15, '86.
APPLICATION MAY BE MADE AT NO. 90 PARK AVENUE, CORNER SIXTH STREET.
ANNA J. MOORE, Principal.
jy2 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

ARTESIAN WELLS.
F. & W. STOTHOFF
Are prepared to Sink Wells any depth up to 500 feet. Tube them if need be. Pumps and Pipe furnished at fair prices. Refers to J. N. Jenkins, of Plainfield, P. O. address, Fleming-ton, N. J. je24tf

Mme. J. BERNARD,
ASTROLOGIST,
Residence—Harmony street, North Plainfield, fourth house from Somerset street, left hand side. Information imparted as regards present and future events, likewise marriages, journeys, law suits, etc. Satisfaction guaranteed. She converses
In English, German and French.
My husband is a first-class Cooper, and repairs tubs, pails, barrels, etc., cheap for cash.

Electrical Work!
ELECTRICAL WORK—WE ARE PREPARED to furnish estimates for all kinds of Electrical work, from a call bell to a completely equipped house. We guarantee all our work. We will for a fixed price take care of electrical apparatus by the year, visiting and inspecting it at regular times and maintaining it in thorough working order.
PLAINFIELD DISTRICT TELEGRAPH CO.,
NO. 4 PARK AVENUE.
C. B. GODDARD, - Manager.
jy29tf

NETHERWOOD FARM!
MOUNTAIN AVE., NEAR PARAGUT AVE.
A JERSEY STOCK FARM!
OVER
50 HEAD OF JERSEY CATTLE 50
Good family cows for sale at Moderate Prices. Milk and Cream delivered anywhere in Plainfield. Visitors are always welcome.
E. H. WHEELER, Manager.
J. HERBERT JOHNSTON, Plainfield, N. J. m1m6

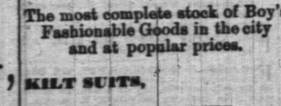
CAREY'S
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE, NO. 45 WEST FRONT STREET,
Nearly opposite Laing's Hotel, Plainfield, N. J.
Having leased the above premises I am prepared to buy and sell second-hand Furniture, Carpets, Stoves, etc. I will also take Furniture in exchange for moving. Furniture, etc., stored. P. O. Box 492.—m29tf

JOHN MORTON,
PURE SPRING WATER
ICE
Delivered daily to any part of the city at the lowest market price. Residence 103 West Front st. P. O. Box 956. Orders left at Sherwin's drug store, No. 23 West Front street, will receive prompt attention. I hereby return my thanks to my old patrons for past patronage, and take pleasure in announcing that I have increased my business by purchasing the crop and good-will of Messrs. John Knox & Son, whereby I am better prepared to supply all with the best ice in the market.—ap15f

DOOR NUMBERS,
DOOR BELLS,
DOOR PLATES,
AT
DICKINSON & CLAWSON'S,
13 PARK AVENUE.
Sole Agents for


Dr. King's Spectacles.
jy14y1

ALEX. THORN
PAINTERS & PAINTERS SUPPLIES

Paints, Varnishes, Glass,
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.
ap22

Weaver Bros.
House & Sign Painting, Graining,
Paper Hanging and Kalsomining a specialty.
Office and Shop in the rear of
156 EAST FRONT STREET,
D. WEAVER. P. O. Box 331. P. WEAVER.

W. N. ROWE,
PAINTER AND DECORATOR,
Dealer in Paints, Oil, Varnishes, Glass, Brushes, etc. WALL PAPER and WINDOW SHADES. None but strictly first-class workmen employed and satisfaction guaranteed. No. 18 E. FRONT STREET, (C. O. Meeker's old stand,) Plainfield, N. J. P. O. Box 1289.—ap30y1

L. B. WOOLSTON. J. P. BUCKLE.
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTER'S SUPPLIES. 26 NORTH AVENUE.
ap23tf

MILLINERY.

Mrs. J. M. Dunn,
FASHIONABLE MILLINER,
LATEST SHAPES OF
BONNETS AND HATS.
FRENCH IMPORTED FLOWERS.
Feathers, Velvets, Plushes, Satines, Laces, etc. Also, Fancy Goods and Notions; Dress and Infants' Caps a Specialty.
PINKING, BLEACHING & PRESSING.
Feathers Dyed. Cleaned and Curled
AT SHORT NOTICE.
14 West Front street.

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

M. C. DOBBINS,
OPPOSITE RAILROAD STATION.
MANUFACTURER OF
PURE HAVANA CIGARS.
Wholesale and Retail
o16tf

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best 5 cent cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana.
CLEAR HAVANA SEGARS A SPECIALTY.
A large assortment of the Choicest Brands of Foreign and Domestic Cigars, Cigarettes and Tobaccos, always on hand.
Smokers Articles in Great Variety.
Tap1y

JOHN N. STEINER,
MANUFACTURER OF
SEGARS!
No. 11 PARK AVENUE.
Constantly on hand a large assortment of
Segars, Smoking & Chewing Tobacco, Snuffs, Pipes, &c.
Thankful for past patronage, I solicit a continuance of the same. 11y1

C. M. FINE,
Dealer in HAVANA & DOMESTIC
--SEGARS!--
o. 25 PARK AVE., (near corner of SECOND ST.)
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smoker's Materials, of every description.
The celebrated "Old Judge" Smoking Tobacco with other popular brands constantly on hand. 46me

--PICTURE FRAMES--
OF ALL KINDS, AT
S. E. FLOWER'S,
at New York Prices, Studio 28 West Front street. Strainers for drawing and oil painting. ap29tf

A. I. SMALLEY, N. B. SMALLEY.
Smalley Bros.,
DEALERS IN
Fresh and Salt Meats, Poultry, Etc.
78 SOMERSET STREET NO. 178 PLAINFIELD.
Orders called for and delivered. A share of the public patronage is solicited.—ly25tf

[Late of Berry & Thorn.
CAN BE FOUND AT 87 SOMERSET STREET,
WITH A FULL LINE OF FURNACES,
RANGES,
STOVES,
TINWARE, Etc.
Repairing in His Line Promptly Attended To.
d7y1

MAYNARD & HILL,
PRACTICAL BARBERS
AND
Artistic Hair Dressers,
No. 26 PARK AVENUE,
Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residences. Shaving, Shampooing, &c., satisfactorily performed. d7y1

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE. CHARGES REASONABLE.
Hugo Weigman,
20 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J. mch20tf

SUMMER
HATS.
CAPS, GLOVES,
Trunks, Valises, Etc
Call and Examine the Elegant Stock of
Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods at
F. A. POPE'S,
[Successor to M. Vermeule.]
No. 5 W. Front-st.
ap15tf

YOUR FACES TO THE LIGHT.

There's a ringing, glorious measure
In the march of life, my brothers:
If we listen we may hear it all day long,
With an underdone of triumph
No discordance ever smothers,
And this is the cheerful burden of the song:
Forward! Keep the column moving!
Perfect rest shall be our guerdon
When our missions are fulfilled—our labors done;
Duty's path lies plain before us,
Whatsoe'er our task as I burden,
If we bravely set our faces to the sun.

"Disappointments may o'ertake us,
Losses, griefs and grim surprises
May assault us in the weary way we go;
Look not back, but onward, ever,
Lo! the goal before us rises,
And the valley of the shadow lies below!
With a hand to help the fallen,
Where the rugged steeps delay us,
Though the reddening summits warn us of the night,
We shall conquer all the evils
That assail us and betray us,
While we keep our faces bravely to the light.

"Steady! Keep the ranks in motion!
Tho' we only be retrieving
The disasters and mistakes of yesterday;
There is shame in dull inaction,
There is glory in achieving,
If we take but one step on the upward way!
Day by day the distance dwindles,
Foot by foot the steeps surrender,
And we dread no more the barriers overpast;
While we breathe the airs serener,
And our eyes behold the splendor
Of the prizes where we shall enter in at last.
Wayside horns may rend and goad us,
Driving mist and cloud may blind us,
As we struggle up the last stupendous height;
But remember, and take courage,
All life's shadows lie behind us
While we keep our faces bravely to the light!"
—Emma Alice Browne, in N. Y. Ledger.

AUNT DEBBY'S SHOP.

Frank Honesty More Successful Than a Subtle and Devious Course.

"She's an old darling," said Grace Craxall, "and I mean to help her all I can. I've got a beautiful receipt for chocolate eclairs, and on Friday evening I am going there to make up all that I can, so that the school children will buy them on Saturday. I know how to make cinnamon apple tarts, too, and lemon drops and cocoanut balls." "Grace, I do believe you have taken leave of your senses," said Medora May. "One would think it was disgrace enough for Aunt Deborah—our own mother's sister—to open a horrid little back-tier shop, without our mixing ourselves up in the affair."

"But Aunt Debby must live, you know," said Grace, who was perched, kitten-fashion, on the window-sill, feeding the canary with bits of sparkling white sugar. "And cousin Nixon couldn't keep her any longer, and her eyes are not strong enough for fine needle-work, and her education has not fitted her to be a teacher, and her poor old rheumatic bones keep her from going behind a counter or entering a factory. I suppose you wouldn't be willing to have her come and live with you?"

"I!" cried Medora. "Do you suppose I want to proclaim to the whole town that I have such a dilapidated old relative as that?"

"I would take her quick enough," said Grace, "if I didn't board with Mrs. Howitt, and share the little up-stairs back room with the two children. Just wait till I marry some rich man," she added, with a saucy uplifting of her auburn brows, "and then see if I don't furnish up a sunshiny apartment for Aunt Debby!"

"Don't talk nonsense," said Medora, acidly. "It's very likely, isn't it, that a factory girl like you is going to marry a rich man?"

Grace Craxall laughed merrily. All through life she had her cousin Medora May, had agreed to differ on most points. Grace, seeing no chance before her, had, on the death of her last surviving parent, cheerfully entered a factory, while Medora, taking her stand on the platform of a false gentility, had done fine sewing and silk embroidery on the sly to support herself, putting on all the airs of a young lady of fashion the while. And now finding away from the eyes that loved her, this young girl was but fourteen years of age. With some difficulty she was aroused, and awoke with a frightened cry—a strange and broken murmur—as if she were looking dimly out of her sleep, and knew not whether our figures were real, or only the fantasies of a dream. Her eyes were wild and glassy, and she seemed to be in pain. While awake, there was a nervous twitching about her mouth and in her fingers; but being again extended on the mat, and left to herself, these symptoms of disquietude passed away, and she almost immediately sank again into the deep and heavy sleep in which we found her. This poor, doomed girl had been suffering—no, not suffering, for except when forcibly aroused, there appears to be no uneasiness,—but she had been lingering two months under this sleepy disease.

An Heroic Michigan Woman.

A Roscommon County (Mich.) woman, who was trying to put out a fire on the roof of her house, was blown from the building by a high wind, and her arm was broken. In spite of her sufferings she climbed to the roof twice afterward and put out the fire. When it was all over she fainted.

Tobacco and the Eyes.

"Cigarette smoking is doing more injury to the eyes than anything I know of," said an optician recently to a reporter for the New York Mail and Express. "Smoking pipes or cigars is bad enough, but there is something in the paper with which the cigarette is rolled that is very injurious to the eyesight. There are more men and boys wearing glasses now than I have ever known before, and I attribute it to excess in tobacco smoking. Nine out of every ten Germans, wear spectacles. They are inveterate smokers."

How They Do It in China.

In New York, when a burglar has stripped a house, we confide the secret to a detective, who keeps it and gets another detective to help him; the two hold on to it like grim death till you perish of old age. They manage things differently, however, in China. Not long ago a missionary's earthly mansion was looted, and he informed a head policeman, to merely said, "Hi, hah!" and went away. Three weeks afterwards, however, the missionary received a champaign-basket containing six human heads packed in tin foil—not necessarily for publication, but as an evidence of good faith—and a note from the Department of Truth and Justice—stating that the writer remained—"Yours truly, HEH YAH."

AN INDIAN DISARMED.

How a Spirited White Woman Aroused a Hideous Apache's Admiration.

In the following good story, which Harriet Phillips relates in the Philadelphia News, we must leave it to our readers to judge what it was which proved too much for the Apache. Was it the teacher's hospitality or her courage which won his heart? Something of both, perhaps. One thing, at all events, we feel sure of: stolid as he may have been, he must have felt both surprise and admiration at the white woman's spirit:

"An Apache, in full war-paint, stalked into an Indian school at Albuquerque, N. M., one day. The children were immediately terrified, and Lieutenant told us he was a 'bad Indian.' They said an uncle of one of our boys had killed his brother, and they feared he had come for revenge. As it was dinner-time, I saw nothing better to do than to have the children marched into the dining-room, as usual. We keep open house to Indians at all times, and treat them as distinguished guests, so I motioned to our Apache to take a seat at the table. He sat down, terrible in his war-paint, and laid two loaded revolvers, before him. The children began to tremble.

"I summoned all my courage and said: 'Put those revolvers on the window.'

"The Apache never moved. The cook placed before him a cup of coffee and a bowl of soup.

"'Take away that coffee and soup,' I commanded, with my heart in my mouth, adding, to the Indian: 'You shall not have them until you put those revolvers on the window.'

"Trembling for her life, the cook obeyed. When the Apache saw his dinner removed he deliberately rose, picked up his revolvers and—shall I ever forget that terrible moment!—quietly laid them on the window. His dinner was restored to him; he ate it in silence, and then, taking up his property, walked out without a word.

"I did not see him again for years. But this last time, on my way home, as I was waiting in the train at Santa Fe, my terrible Apache, in all his feathers and war-paint, got into the car and walked its whole length, as if looking for some one. My blood ran cold. He then left the car and returned with a dozen other braves, as horrible as himself. He introduced them all, and all must shake hands."

GARDEN CITY SNAKES.

Veracious Tales Told by Some of Chicago's Most Respected Citizens.

"When I first came to this city," said the venerable John Wentworth to a Chicago News reporter, "the spot upon which Chicago now stands was a wild track, the general nature of the soil being swampy. It was a great snake country in those days. The reptiles most frequently to be met with were prairie rattlesnakes. I don't suppose you could find one in Cook County now, but thirty years ago you could not have traveled forty rods in any direction without scaring up one of the vermints. This species of snake was dangerous at all seasons of the year except during the month of August; it shed its skin then and while that change was going on it was blind. During August, then, we used to hunt these reptiles and kill them in vast numbers. The corporation paid five cents for every dead snake, and not infrequently I have made between two dollars and three dollars a day in season out of the snakes I killed. These reptiles were a great pest in those times, for they bit and poisoned our hunting dogs and played vast havoc among the domestic fowls. It is my opinion that the hogs were a boon to our town then because they were the natural enemy of the snakes and they devoured thousands of them every year. Boar baiting was a favorite amusement in Chicago in early days; this sport was simply a fight between a boar and a snake. I remember having seen a battle between a boar and a monster rattlesnake in a cabin near where the Sherman House stands now; it was in the fall of 1848. About two hundred spectators were present, and it was a famous battle; the boar finally tore the reptile in shreds, but he himself was so badly bitten that he died next day."

"When I was constructing the Illinois & Mississippi telegraph," said Judge J. D. Caton, "I had to team and tramp around the country a great deal. I presume I say that I killed more snakes than any ten other men in the State. Rattlesnakes were so common that I didn't mind them at all. The largest one I ever killed had fifteen rattles on it and a button. I used one of his fangs as the head of a cane; the cane hangs in my library now. In those days hoop-snakes were to be met with in this locality, but I never saw one in twenty-five years, but occasionally I read that one has been killed in the rural districts. I regard the hoop-snake as the most remarkable of reptiles. Instead of gliding over the ground as others of the snake kind do, it seizes its tail in its mouth, stiffens itself up, and rolls along like a hoop at lightning speed. Some people pretend to say that there is no such thing as a hoop-snake, but I know better, for I have seen thousands of them!"

"I had one experience which I shall never forget," said John Young Scammon. "In the spring of 1837 Long John Wentworth and I hired a boat of old Buffalo Voice, the Indian fisherman, and went out on the lake to fish for yellow perch. We had scarcely more than cast anchor, about a mile from shore, when the most hideous monster you can conceive of rose to the surface of the lake about two hundred yards to windward. It must have been fully eighty feet long; its head was the size of a hogshead, its eyes were like two fiery platters, and its snake-like body was covered with coarse, brown scales. From each side of its head there was a projection or growth that looked to me like a flat horn, but Long John said it was a feather of greenish color. Every minute and then this serpent spouted water out of its nostrils to a prodigious height, and as it glided (or, rather, rolled) along it made a strange grinding noise with its fangs. The serpent didn't notice us at all, but we boys pulled up anchor and rowed back to shore as fast as we could, and we didn't go fishing again for a long time. The average about three feet in length were of a yellowish-brown color, and had bluish-black wings. They preferred to crawl like other snakes, but when pursued or threatened with violence they took to wing, flying with exceeding velocity and uttering at the same time a querulous cry not unlike the note of the jaybird. These flying snakes subsisted on toads and frogs and small vermin, and they were easily tamed.

A Curious French Clock.

A correspondent of the New Church Messenger describes a clock recently patented in France in imitation of a tambourine, on the parchment head of which is painted a circle of flowers, corresponding to the hour figures of ordinary dials. On examination, two bees, the one large and the other small, are discovered crawling among the flowers. The small bee runs rapidly from one flower to another, completing the circle in an hour, while the large one takes twelve hours to finish the circuit. The parchment surface is unbroken, and the bees simply laid upon it, but two magnets, connected with the clock-work inside the tambourine, move just under the membrane, and the insects, which are of iron, follow them.

A Skeleton with a Jet Necklace.

Some workmen making excavations recently in the grounds of Mountstuart, Lord Bute's splendid place near Rothesay, England, struck upon a large stone slab, which turned out to be the top of an ancient grave, in which were the remains of a human body (the skull and teeth being almost perfect), around which were a great number of large jet beads, with a pendant, which had evidently formed a necklet. An urn of clay was at the feet of the remains.

How Kissing Was Introduced.

The story runs that kissing was introduced into England by Rowena, the daughter of Hengist, the Saxon. At a banquet which was given by the British monarch in honor of his allies, the Princess, after pressing the brimming beaker to her lips, saluted the astonished and delighted Vortigern with a little kiss, after the manner of her own people.

GARDEN CITY SNAKES.

Veracious Tales Told by Some of Chicago's Most Respected Citizens.

"When I first came to this city," said the venerable John Wentworth to a Chicago News reporter, "the spot upon which Chicago now stands was a wild track, the general nature of the soil being swampy. It was a great snake country in those days. The reptiles most frequently to be met with were prairie rattlesnakes. I don't suppose you could find one in Cook County now, but thirty years ago you could not have traveled forty rods in any direction without scaring up one of the vermints. This species of snake was dangerous at all seasons of the year except during the month of August; it shed its skin then and while that change was going on it was blind. During August, then, we used to hunt these reptiles and kill them in vast numbers. The corporation paid five cents for every dead snake, and not infrequently I have made between two dollars and three dollars a day in season out of the snakes I killed. These reptiles were a great pest in those times, for they bit and poisoned our hunting dogs and played vast havoc among the domestic fowls. It is my opinion that the hogs were a boon to our town then because they were the natural enemy of the snakes and they devoured thousands of them every year. Boar baiting was a favorite amusement in Chicago in early days; this sport was simply a fight between a boar and a snake. I remember having seen a battle between a boar and a monster rattlesnake in a cabin near where the Sherman House stands now; it was in the fall of 1848. About two hundred spectators were present, and it was a famous battle; the boar finally tore the reptile in shreds, but he himself was so badly bitten that he died next day."

"When I was constructing the Illinois & Mississippi telegraph," said Judge J. D. Caton, "I had to team and tramp around the country a great deal. I presume I say that I killed more snakes than any ten other men in the State. Rattlesnakes were so common that I didn't mind them at all. The largest one I ever killed had fifteen rattles and a button. I used one of his fangs as the head of a cane; the cane hangs in my library now. In those days hoop-snakes were to be met with in this locality, but I never saw one in twenty-five years, but occasionally I read that one has been killed in the rural districts. I regard the hoop-snake as the most remarkable of reptiles. Instead of gliding over the ground as others of the snake kind do, it seizes its tail in its mouth, stiffens itself up, and rolls along like a hoop at lightning speed. Some people pretend to say that there is no such thing as a hoop-snake, but I know better, for I have seen thousands of them!"

"I had one experience which I shall never forget," said John Young Scammon. "In the spring of 1837 Long John Wentworth and I hired a boat of old Buffalo Voice, the Indian fisherman, and went out on the lake to fish for yellow perch. We had scarcely more than cast anchor, about a mile from shore, when the most hideous monster you can conceive of rose to the surface of the lake about two hundred yards to windward. It must have been fully eighty feet long; its head was the size of a hogshead, its eyes were like two fiery platters, and its snake-like body was covered with coarse, brown scales. From each side of its head there was a projection or growth that looked to me like a flat horn, but Long John said it was a feather of greenish color. Every minute and then this serpent spouted water out of its nostrils to a prodigious height, and as it glided (or, rather, rolled) along it made a strange grinding noise with its fangs. The serpent didn't notice us at all, but we boys pulled up anchor and rowed back to shore as fast as we could, and we didn't go fishing again for a long time. The average about three feet in length were of a yellowish-brown color, and had bluish-black wings. They preferred to crawl like other snakes, but when pursued or threatened with violence they took to wing, flying with exceeding velocity and uttering at the same time a querulous cry not unlike the note of the jaybird. These flying snakes subsisted on toads and frogs and small vermin, and they were easily tamed.

A Curious French Clock.

A correspondent of the New Church Messenger describes a clock recently patented in France in imitation of a tambourine, on the parchment head of which is painted a circle of flowers, corresponding to the hour figures of ordinary dials. On examination, two bees, the one large and the other small, are discovered crawling among the flowers. The small bee runs rapidly from one flower to another, completing the circle in an hour, while the large one takes twelve hours to finish the circuit. The parchment surface is unbroken, and the bees simply laid upon it, but two magnets, connected with the clock-work inside the tambourine, move just under the membrane, and the insects, which are of iron, follow them.

A Skeleton with a Jet Necklace.

Some workmen making excavations recently in the grounds of Mountstuart, Lord Bute's splendid place near Rothesay, England, struck upon a large stone slab, which turned out to be the top of an ancient grave, in which were the remains of a human body (the skull and teeth being almost perfect), around which were a great number of large jet beads, with a pendant, which had evidently formed a necklet. An urn of clay was at the feet of the remains.

How Kissing Was Introduced.

The story runs that kissing was introduced into England by Rowena, the daughter of Hengist, the Saxon. At a banquet which was given by the British monarch in honor of his allies, the Princess, after pressing the brimming beaker to her lips, saluted the astonished and delighted Vortigern with a little kiss, after the manner of her own people.

CRAZY PEGGY'S CAREER.

The Romantic Life Story of a Heroine of Two Great Wars.

There died in an humble apartment in this city the other day, says the New York Mail and Express, a woman with a remarkable history, if her statements are trustworthy. Even her neighbors did not know her real name, and it is from a friend of the woman, who had heard her story frequently, that the story comes. She was the daughter of an English Lord and heiress to a moderate estate. On the adjoining estate lived another Lord, to whose son she was betrothed. When the Crimean war broke out the lover enlisted. For a few months after his departure letters were received with regularity from him, and he seemed to be in good health and spirits. Suddenly all correspondence ceased. His name did not appear in the death lists which were published in the London papers; it was evident that he was either sick or a prisoner. In an agony of fear and anxiety she could stand the suspense no longer, and determined to go in quest of him. Her parents, however, forbade it, and her friends dissuaded her for a short time. But the continued silence proved unbearable, and she finally stole from home one night and secured an appointment as nurse, and before her relatives had obtained a clue to her whereabouts was on her way to the front. Reaching the Bosphorus she was placed in one of the hospitals at a small town near the border. She scanned with eagerness the faces of the sick and dying, but found no sign of him she sought. Remembering that he might be in the same condition as were the poor soldiers around her, she entered into the work of nursing with all her heart. Her efforts were rewarded in an unexpected way, for one day, in talking with one of the wounded men, she ascertained that he had been in the same regiment with her lover, and that the latter was a captive in the hands of the Russians. From that moment, although quietly continuing her nursing, she spent all her facilities to planning some scheme by which she might gain access to her lover's place of confinement. She finally concluded to assume the role of a spy, and requested permission from the commanding officer to act in that capacity. He at first refused, but upon her pleading earnestly he gave her consent and supplied her with the papers necessary for passing the English lines.

She disguised herself and pretended she was half-witted, and by that means got within the Russian territory. So artfully did she play her part that she became quite a favorite with the soldiers, who applied the name "Crazy Peggy," and allowed her to do as she pleased. It was many weeks before she learned the town in which her betrothed was a prisoner. By a neat strategem she induced the keeper of the prison to give her access to the cells. The jailer thought her a harmless creature, and permitted her at will to chat with the English captive. She soon disclosed her identity to her lover, and together they planned an escape. On a dark, stormy night she acted more insanely than ever, and in one of her fits snatched the keys from the belt of the warden. Running down the stairs, she unlocked several of the doors, including the one behind which her betrothed was confined. In an instant he was out, and, hidden in a dark corner, he donned a Russian uniform furnished by the faithful girl. The jailer gave chase to "Crazy Peggy" and regained the keys, but not before her lover had walked up the stairs and out into the open air. "Peggy" followed him and they fled through the darkness until they reached the picket line. Here the password, which had been discovered by "Peggy," enabled them to gain the open space between the rival armies. An English coat concealed beneath her clothes, was put on, and the Russian uniform discarded. In safety the lines were passed, and the officer returned to his command. So well executed had been all of Peggy's plans, and so anxious was her betrothed to continue in service, that they both remained in the army, she as a spy, and he as an officer. They were married by a chaplain, however, before entering again into active duty.

Just before the conclusion of the war the husband died. Nearly heart-broken Peggy accompanied the remains to England to find that her parents were dead and that there was nothing left for her except a neat little estate. The associations of the place were so painful that she determined to come to America. She did so and settled in one of the Carolinas, where she taught the slaves several times a week, with the permission of the owners.

The civil war broke out soon after, and the old war fever coursed through "Peggy's" veins. She enlisted as a nurse in the Confederate army. But her ability as a spy reached the ears of one of the officers, and she agreed to undertake the dangerous business. She disguised herself, and as a half-witted woman, went at will through the Confederate and Union armies. Twice she was held on suspicion, and once was placed under guard until an examination could be had. In some way she managed to destroy the papers she had on her person and was released. A few evenings later she was attacked by a drunken picket and received wounds that scarred her face badly for the rest of her life. In fact, it was largely because of her repulsive countenance that during the last twenty years she has kept in absolute retirement. Her favorite commander was General Robert E. Lee, and he regarded her with marked respect. Peggy said that once at General Lee's personal request, she got as far as Washington and secured some important information. Before she could get back within the Confederate lines, however, she was shut up in an insane asylum. She escaped, but too late to render the news of any practical use. When she first came from England she invested most of her estate in land and property in the South. The war almost impoverished her, but she managed to save enough to keep her in an humble way ever since.

Soon after the war she came North, and lived at various times in Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Boston. Then, for some reason, she went to Newark, N. J., where she resided until several years ago, when she came to this city and took two plain rooms up-town. She was cultured, and is understood to have corresponded with a number of eminent men here and in England under an assumed name. General Lee wrote to her up to the time of his death. "Peggy" ref

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE, | A. L. FORCE,
Editors and Proprietors.

PEACE FOREVER.

The war for the Union is ended. The battle flags are furled and the last drum beat sounded. The people of the South unconditionally accept the result as final. Due honor is freely accorded to those brave men of the North who won the victory, and peace reigns supreme from end to end of our once distracted, but now happily re-united country.

Who would dare disturb that blissful condition of affairs?

Who be willing to kindle anew the devastating fires of internal strife?

No sincere Christian.

No genuine Patriot.

No true-hearted Soldier.

A few place-hunting politicians would like to, but the people, irrespective of party name and section, will never permit it.

Peace, enduring peace, is the edict of the sovereign people. It was grandly proclaimed on the once bloody battle-field of Gettysburg last Saturday, when the survivors of that sanguinary conflict, the wearers of the blue and the wearers of the grey, met as friends, as loyal citizens of a common country, and clasping hands, vowed to forever bury animosity and work together for a glorious national future.

That was pure patriotism—not scurvy politics.

And Governor Fitzhugh Lee, of Virginia, word pictured the same feeling on the Fourth of July in New York when he declared—"Let there be no disunion now; the day is past for all that; the last cannon shot has been sent on its merciless errand and in my old State the fields that were once cut into shreds by the wheels of the artillery are now waving with grain, and the rays of a blessed peace make a happy and contented people."

JUSTICE AT LAST.

The indictment, arrest, trial and conviction of Jacob Sharp in the city of New York for the crime of bribery proclaims a grand triumph of justice, and a needed vindication of the long down trodden and insulted cause of honesty.

The verdict of guilty against Sharp, is, as it should be, approved by every right thinking person, not so much because of the individual punishment it will inflict, as because of the condemnation it sets upon the nefarious plan of acquiring riches he personally represents, and the loud warning it gives to the many others who have been and doubtless are still prowling along the same dark and corrupt pathway of robbery and dishonor.

The system of obtaining peculiar private or corporate advantages from legislative bodies and official hands through bribery and corruption has been carried on with such brazen impunity, that the monied conspirators engaged therein have laughed at the idea of ever being brought to justice, and growing bolder and bolder, have not only openly defied law, but infamously declared that every man has his price, and that they, as circumstances arose, were, regardless of all obligations, legal or moral, prepared to pay it. Such highway doctrine and course of action, the result of the Sharp trial has happily shown to be treason against morality, the good order of society and the well being of honest men; and that even in the city of New York there are Prosecuting Attorneys, Judges and Jurors who dare to do right by bringing to condign punishment proud millionaires whose wealth is proven to be illegal gain.

The conviction of Sharp marks healthy progress in the contest against mercenary wrong, and we hope the battle will go on until every bribe giver in the land shall be made to suffer an equal, if not greater penalty than justly attaches to bribe receivers.

The Tidewater oil-pipe-line, which crosses near German Valley, broke near the Somerset county line a few nights ago, and 15,000 barrels of oil ran into the North Branch of the Raritan river.

The first call was made Thursday on the syndicate which lately guaranteed to take $12,000,000 of the new general mortgage bonds of the Central Railroad of New Jersey. The call is for but twenty per cent. of the subscription, or $2,400,000.

Workmen are constructing a line of wire for the Phelps induction telegraph from Flemington to Flaggtown, on the Lehigh Valley Railroad, for the purpose of testing the relative merits of a line of wire suspended from insulators on iron posts as compared with the first plan adopted, that of running the wire along the concave part of the rail.

We clip the following from one of our spicy exchanges: A man came into the sanctum with a fence rail to annihilate the editor for an alleged grievance. The latter, who was whittling, looked up and said: "My friend, did you ever consider that, even if you did thrash me, you could not stop the publication of this paper, and it would be the worse for you, because my successor would be bound to get even with you. You may lick the editor to your heart's content, but the newspaper goes on forever." And, instead of thrashing the editor, the man left the fence rail as part payment of his subscription.

Fresh Air for the Poor.

The sincerity of the ladies of the Relief Association is again and again shown by their untiring and continuing labors for the help and comfort of the poor and afflicted of our city. Just now the Association's commendable anxiety to increase its funds for the care of the sick who must remain at home during the long Summer before them, does it honor. Such desire and the hope of also procuring means to send mothers and children—otherwise unable—to the seashore for a few day's pleasure, should meet with generous financial assistance from those of the community who can well and easily afford it. The Crescent avenue church will next Sunday take up a collection for the Association and its purposes mentioned above—which effort we hope to record as being put forth by all the other churches. Meanwhile, all individual subscriptions forwarded to the Association's treasurer, Mrs. Van Nest Talmadge, will be most gratefully received and thankfully acknowledged.

COMMON COUNCIL MEETING

President F. E. Marsh called the City Council together at precisely 8:30 o'clock Tuesday evening. Other councilmen were present as follows: Messrs. Bowers, Carey, Cox, Dunham, Simpson, Taylor, Waring, Wilbur. The minutes of the last regular meeting stood approved as read.

The President said that Mr. O. T. Waring, who was recently elected to fill the unexpired term of ex-Councilman Cuthbert, resigned, had accepted, and he welcomed him to the Council on behalf of the other members. He thereupon appointed Councilman Waring on the following Committees in the order named:

Fire, Water and Lamps—Messrs. Bowers, Waring, Dumont.

Salaries, Offices and Elections—Messrs. Waring, Bowers, Wilbur.

Printing and Stationery—Messrs. Voorhees, Waring, Simpson.

The following applications for Peddlers' license were presented and referred to the License Committee: J. Heipel, D. K. Vail, H. Becker, J. E. Thompson, Chas. Schneider, C. L. Jones. They were subsequently granted.

A communication was received from Frazee Lee, William Swaim, Elias R. Pope and others, asking that Stiger Alley be worked; also, that a bridge be placed across the brook at the dividing line of Union and Somerset counties. The matter was referred to the Street Committee.

John Cook of Scotch Plains communicated with the Council that he would furnish crushed stone on East Front street from Terrill Road to Mulford Cole's hill, at the rate of one dollar a ton. After some discussion, the communication was tabled upon motion of Mr. Cox.

Messrs. Warren Marsh, Geo. R. Pound, Rev. Mr. Bridges, and other East Third street residents, petitioned the Council for an electric light at Third and Washington streets. Referred to the Fire, Water and Lamps Committee, with power.

A petition was received from R. M. Steile, Geo. H. Burgess and other property owners along Central avenue, asking for two suitable lamps on that thoroughfare, between Randolph Road and Elizabeth street. Referred to Fire, Water and Lamps Committee.

Certain property owners in the vicinity of Central avenue and Third street, petitioned the Council for an electric or other suitable light at the intersection of said thoroughfares. The petition was transferred to the Fire, Water and Lamps Committee.

CLAIMS.

Bills were presented as follows, referred to the proper committees, and later reported back as correct and sent to the Auditing Committee: J. H. Platt, $40; W. V. Mundy, $21; John Johnson, $7.49 and $2; R. J. Butterworth, $10; Plainfield Gas Light Co., $17.50 and $8.75; N. Y. and N. J. Globe Gas Light Co., $169.30; Times Printing and Publishing Co., $36.60; Jas. Clark, $105; M. C. Bird, $62.70; J. H. Wilson, $632.77; Geo. M. Angleman, $921; F. A. Dunham, $29, $25.23 and $6.99; A. Titsworth, $87.50; T. W. Morrison, $36.30; Geo. M. Angleman, $41.66; Plainfield Electric Light Co., $350.

POLICE CLAIMS.

C. Jones, $3.75 and $7.75; W. R. Mattox, $7.75; C. W. Dodd, $75; Geo. W. Grant, $60; P. Lynch, $60; T. McCue, $60.

POOR BILLS.

D. Hand, $150; Relief Association, $63; Mrs. Cooper, $22; John S. Darby, $13.48; Wm. G. Morse, $66.50; L. A. Connett, $12; J. H. Kenyon, $13.50; E. Conshay, $13.50; D. S. Cole, $12; Mutual Life Insurance Co., $15; C. Smith, $13.50; C. A. Hartpence, $30; K. Conway, $4; J. B. Gable, $18; B. Hickey, $4; B. Goodman, $2.50; T. W. Morrison, $30; Ford & Stiles, $15.

The Collector presented his monthly statement. It was referred to the Finance Committee, and later returned with the Committee's approval, and ordered on file. Following is a

RECAPITULATION.

Total State and County Collections	$291.14
Judgments	13.13
Library	11.97
City	129.39
Poors	24.60
Cost and Interest City less School Int.	29.18
Total amount taxes collected and paid City Treasurer	499.41
City School tax Deposited to credit Board of Education	125.56
Interest on school tax deposited to credit Board of Education	8.23
Total am't dep't. to credit B'd Ed'n	133.79
Total receipts for June, 1887	$633.00

The Treasurer's monthly statement was read and referred to the Finance Committee; later it was returned with the Committee's approval and ordered filed. It showed a balance on hand June 1st of $9,321.21. The total receipts for the month amounted to $5,928.54, making an aggregate of $15,249.75. The disbursements amounted to $8,052.23, leaving a balance of $7,197.52 on hand.

The Mayor communicated with the Council re-nominating Wm. Scribner as a special policeman. The nomination was confirmed. He also sent in a communication suggesting the erection of a City Hall to be used for city purposes. The paper stated that the interest on $20,000 at 4 per cent. was now annually expended in rent for city offices, and that said offices were distributed in nine different buildings throughout the city. The land and building when completed would probably cost between $35,000 and $40,000. Mr. Cox said he considered it expedient to refer the matter to a special committee of three, to be appointed by the chair, and later in the evening President Marsh appointed Messrs. Cox, Waring and Dumont as such committee.

Mr. Dunham from the Alms Committee, besides reporting correct the above poor bills, stated that the Committee, in company with the Mayor and Overseer of the Poor, had paid an official visit to the homes of those persons who receive aid from the city, and that the visits had brought satisfactory results. The Committee would report further at a subsequent meeting.

Mr. Bowers, from the Fire, Water and Lamps Committee, reported favorably on above petition for two gasoline lamps on Central avenue, below Randolph road, and recommended by resolution that the same be granted. The report was received and the recommendation adopted. He reported likewise on the petition for a light at the intersection of Central avenue and Third street, and offered a resolution that the same be granted. It was so ordered.

Mr. Cox from the Law and Ordinance Committee, reported progress on the expediency of adopting an ordinance relating to the erection of dwelling houses, as petitioned by architect Teale at a former meeting, and stated that the petition had not been ignored.

NEW BUSINESS.

Mr. Cox presented a resolution that the City Collector make a return to the City Judge on or before July 15th, instant, the names of all delinquent taxpayers for the year 1885, together with the amount of their arrearages, and that the City Judge immediately thereafter issue his warrant for the collection of the same. The resolution was adopted. The same Councilman offered a resolution that all the work on the streets ordered done by the Council, is under the supervision of the Street Committee, and that the chairman of such committee be and is hereby empowered to instruct the Street Commissioner in the premises on behalf of the Committee. Mr. Carey's motion to lay the matter on the table was lost, and the resolution prevailed.

Mr. Taylor, on behalf of Mayor Male, presented "An Ordinance to change the names of certain streets." The streets alluded to in the document were: Peace street to change to Broadway; Union street to be known as Arlington avenue, and Tenth street to be a continuation of Richmond street. A long discussion followed on the subject—Messrs. Dunham, Cox and Taylor thinking it unwise to change the name of Peace street, as that was probably one of the oldest thoroughfares in the city—after which the ordinance was referred to the Committee on Streets.

An ordinance presented by Mayor Male through Councilman Taylor, entitled "An Ordinance concerning the construction, maintenance and repairs of sidewalks," was read twice, when Mr. Cox asked for the Corporation Counsel's opinion as to whether the Council had the power to pass such an ordinance. The Corporation Counsel answered in the affirmative, and said the paper was drawn up in accordance with an act passed by the Legislature in 1884. After a long discussion, a further consideration of the ordinance was laid over.

Mr. Bowers called up the dog ordinance, and upon his motion it was adopted on its third reading.

Councilman Simpson asked for a suspension of the rules to allow the Street Committee to report correct some bills. He said in the absence of the "Boss," it devolved upon him to make the report. The report was received and the claims passed into the hands of the Auditing Committee.

Mr. Bowers made a motion, which prevailed, to take up Mr. Cook's proposition to furnish stone for East Front street. The proposition was accepted, and upon motion of Mr. Carey it was referred to the Street Committee with power to purchase the stone if thought advisable.

Mr. Commissioner Angleman said that certain residents of Scotch Plains had agreed to give to the city $500 in cash or that amount in stone for the purpose of macadamizing East Front street to the city line, and that the proposition of Mr. Cook to furnish stone at the rate of one dollar per ton had nothing to do with the matter.

The Auditing Committee reported correct a batch of bills and warrants were ordered drawn for the payment of the several amounts.

The Council adjourned at 10:15 p. m.

WASHINGTONVILLE.

Robbers broke into Mr. H. Burnett's barn near Sterling on Wednesday night, and stole therefrom a new set of harness, some blankets, whips, etc., belonging to Mr. Burnett's brother, Peter. The total loss aggregated over $50.

A young man from North Plainfield was driving along the Mountain road on Monday afternoon when the horse began to kick and kept it up until the front part of the wagon resembled kindling wood. The young person in question was obliged to walk home, leading his spirited steed.

Mr. Clark, who recently purchased a strip of property from Aaron Acker, has broken ground for the erection of a dwelling house on the land. The building will be two-and-a-half stories high and about 24x40 feet on the ground. The contract for building the same has been awarded to Mr. D. Acker.

Fourth of July Shooting.

There was a good attendance on the grounds of the Middlesex Gun Club, and fine scores, Monday, at inanimate targets. Several members of the Bergen Point Gun Club, and other clubs, were present and participated in the enjoyments of the day. A match between a father and son elicited much applause and created quite a diversion in the day's sport. The box of segars awarded by Vice-President S. G. Smith to the one making the best average score in the morning, was captured by Mr. Eames, of the Bergen Point Club, who immediately "asked the boys" to try their quality. The can of powder donated by the same gentleman to the shooter making the best average in the afternoon, was not awarded, as the lateness of the hour when the shooting ceased precluded the making up of the scores. It will be announced hereafter.

An error appears in the statements published in the New York World and other journals, relative to the October tournament of the Middlesex Gun Club. The article as printed states that there will be contested for during the tournament "$3,000 worth of pigeons." It should read "prizes" instead of pigeons. The principal shooting during the days of the tournament will be at inanimate targets.

WESTFIELD

James Worral Cadwell, infant son of Rev. N. W. Cadwell, died Thursday, aged six months.

The auction of the personal estate of E. Embree, deceased, was held on Wednesday, 29th, and largely attended.

John Kelley was again before Justice Jaques upon complaint of officer Marsh, and sentenced to the county jail for thirty days, Monday.

The new house of ex-Postmaster Decker on Westfield avenue is fast assuming proportions, and will be ready for occupancy in the early Fall.

Arthur N. Pierson of our town, won the one mile championship race for Union county wheelmen, at Roseville, on July Fourth. Time, 3.09 3-5.

The death of William E. Smith, aged 69 years, father of Mr. C. A. Smith, occurred on the 27th at Morristown. The funeral services will be held at Scotch Plains Baptist church, to-morrow, Saturday afternoon.

At the lawn tennis tournament between Westfield and Roselle clubs, held on the Elm lawn Tennis grounds, July Fourth, Mr. A. Worth won first prize, and George H. Embree second. Both gentlemen members of the Westfield club.

The young people of the Presbyterian church held a lawn party and festival, last Thursday, on the lawns of Jas. L. Miller, Esq., on Elm street. The spacious grounds were handsomely decorated with colored lanterns. The several booths were liberally patronized.

The death of Mary Emma Burke, after a lingering illness of two months, occurred on June 28th at the residence of her father, John T. Burke. The deceased was the only child and pet of her father. Her mother died when Mary was about one year old. Funeral and interment Thursday afternoon at Plainfield.

The marriage of Miss Annie Pierson to Mr. Charles Young, was celebrated at the residence of the bride's mother, on Broad street, last evening, at 7:30 o'clock. The Rev. Cornelius Patton, pastor of the Congregational church, officiated. After the wedding supper the bride and groom left on an early train for an extended wedding tour.

Gretta Woodruff, daughter of Benj. H. Woodruff, met with a serious accident yesterday at about noon. While coming down stairs shaking in her hand a box filled with fire-crackers and torpedoes, some of the latter exploded, burning her right hand slightly and setting fire to her dress. Gretta's father was near at hand and succeeded in extinguishing the flames before it had done but slight damage, and saving his child's life.

Monday, the Fourth was celebrated in the morning by the ringing of the bells at 9 a. m., a fine lot of day fireworks—and then the games. In the potato race there were four contestants—Harry Warner, Ed. Townley, Wm. Moffett and M. Townley. The first named won the prize by ten yards. The sack race was won by Edward Bowlin; the wheelbarrow race by John H. Thompson; in the tub race, Chas. Cox took first money, and John R. Thompson second money. The Excelsior Cornet Band, of Bound Brook, gave a fine musical concert in the afternoon, from a programme of choice selections. The display of fireworks in the evening was witnessed by a large number of people. The W. C. T. U. had their Hall open, and gave a lunch to every one that called.

The Somerset House, North Plainfield, Mrs. J. Hughes, proprietor, is now open for the reception of summer guests. Under the management of Mr. Richard Boyce this hotel has become very popular. Prices are reasonable and accommodations good in every respect. Parties desiring home-like quarters should secure them at once at the Somerset House.

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES AT TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH.

Music and Flowers—Charges to the Pastor and People—Other Details—A Biographical Sketch of the New Pastor.

Notwithstanding the intense heat, a large audience gathered in Trinity Reformed church, last Thursday, to witness the interesting ceremonies attending the installation of Rev. Cornelius Schenck to the pastorate of that church. Had the weather been cooler, the edifice would undoubtedly have been filled to overflowing. About the pulpit there were flowers in great profusion, and the entire front of the pulpit platform was draped with trailing vines. Directly in front of the reading desk was a beautiful floral anchor of white, while on the left was a towering column of roses and a large urn of ferns and grasses. On the right was a large basket of choice cut flowers, and at convenient points about the platform were geranium and cactus plants, the whole presenting a most delightful scene. The ladies who displayed such admirable taste in arranging the floral decorations were Mrs. J. E. Crane, Mrs. David Suediker, Miss Lizzie Brooks and Miss Nettie Randell. The services began a quarter of an hour earlier than was at first announced; and soon after seven o'clock, the clergymen appointed to conduct the installation, accompanied by the pastor-elect, marched up the centre aisle and took their seats at the altar, the latter occupying a front pew in the audience. After an organ solo "Grand Offertoire de Concerte," by Arthur L. Titsworth, Mr. and Mrs. Jefferey and Mr. T. B. Brown sang delightfully a trio "On Thee Each Living Soul," and Rev. Mr. Waters of Newark invoked the divine blessing and read the one hundred and twenty-second Psalm. Following the scripture reading, the congregation joined in singing "Arise, Arise, Oh King of God" and Rev. W. J. R. Taylor, D. D., of Newark, offered prayer. The reverend gentleman then delivered an eloquent discourse on the Prophet's vision of the Holy Waters, as found in Ezekial 47:9—"And it shall come to pass, that everything that liveth, which moveth, whithersoever the rivers shall come, shall live; and there shall be a very great multitude of fish, because these waters shall come thither; for they shall be healed; and everything shall live whither the river cometh."

At the conclusion of the sermon Mrs. Jefferey sang very effectively "Send Out Thy Light," and the Rev. Henry Vehslage of Irvington, read the formula establishing the relations of Rev. Mr. Schenck with the Newark classis, to which, at the close, the pastor-elect subscribed his signature. The Rev. Mr. Waters then delivered the charge to the pastor.

The congregation was requested to rise and Rev. Mr. Waters said:

"Inasmuch, Beloved Brethren and Members of this Church, as this most solemn procedure of investing our brother with the charge and oversight of you, involves, as well, obligations and duties on your part toward him: I ask of you before God and our Lord Jesus Christ:

"1. Do you hereby receive, in the Name of the Lord, His servant, our brother, to be your Minister?

"2. Do you promise to receive the word of truth from his lips with meekness and love, and to submit to him in the due discharge of his Holy Office?

"3. Do you promise to give him all proper love and obedience in the Lord; to encourage and help him in his holy work; and to labor with him in faith and prayer, for the honor of Christ and the welfare of men?

"4. Do you engage to continue to him, while he remains your Minister, competent worldly maintenance, as you have promised, and whatever else the honor of religion and his comfort among you may require?"

To the above questions the congregation answered "Yes."

* * * * * * * * *

After a prayer Rev. Mr. Waters concluded as follows: "In the name of the Classis, I now declare that the Pastoral relation between the Rev. Cornelius Schenck and the Trinity Reformed Church is fully constituted and that the Rev. Cornelius Schenck is the lawfully installed Pastor of this Church."

Mr. D. H. Jefferey sang, "Be Thou Faithful Unto Death," a very appropriate selection, after which Rev. Mr. Waters said it was his duty to address the new pastor. He heartily welcomed Rev. Mr. Schenck into the Classis and into the church.

Rev. Mr. Vehslage upon whom devolved the duty to charge the people, said that if the original programme had been carried out, Rev. A. V. V. Raymond the former pastor of the church would have made the charge in his stead and would in all probability have said: "Keep on doing as you have done before." The printed formula, he said, had been alluded to, and he had very little to say.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF REV. CORNELIUS SCHENCK.

Rev. Cornelius Schenck, who was last evening installed pastor of Trinity Reformed church, was born at Weston, Somerset county, N. J., on September 5th, 1858, and is therefore in the twenty-ninth year of his age. His father, Josiah, died when he was an infant, and the family continued to reside at Weston for several years, subsequently moving to Millstone, in the same county, where they resided for about five years, later taking up their residence at New Brunswick, N. J. The family included several children, three of whom entered the ministry, and all of whom are now dead, excepting the mother, Catherine, and two sons, the former dividing her time equally with them, Cornelius and Isaac S., the latter now in charge of the Reformed church at West Ghent, N. Y., where the mother is at present stopping. The first son to enter the ministry was Jacob W., who graduated from Rutgers College in 1870, and from the Theological Seminary at New Brunswick in 1873. After a very successful pastorate of about six years at West Ghent, N. Y., he died in 1879. The next brother to study for the ministry was Rev. Isaac S., who graduated from Rutgers College, and later from the New Brunswick Theological Seminary, in 1876, his first charge being at Rosendale, N. Y., where he remained about two years, and succeeded his brother at the latter's death in 1879, to the pastorate of the Reformed church at West Ghent, N. Y., his present charge. Cornelius first began his education in a public school, and took a preparatory course in Rutgers College Grammar School. He entered Rutgers College for a four years' course in 1875, graduating therefrom in 1879, and entered the Theological Seminary for a three years' course, graduating from that institution in 1882. During that year he received and accepted a call to the Fourth Reformed church of Philadelphia, continuing there for five years, lacking a few weeks, and until he came to Plainfield, succeeding to the charge Rev. W. W. Cook, who was pastor of the church for six years before him. Rev. Mr. Schenck first occupied the vacant pulpit in Trinity Reformed church, on Sunday, May 8th, and soon after the church Consistory gave him a unanimous call at a salary of $3,000 per annum, which he considered for a few days, and finally decided to accept it, although it was with much sorrow and regret, that his rapidly growing congregation relinquished the claim on him. The Fourth Reformed church of Philadelphia has a membership of 336, with a total of 500 scholars in the Sunday School, including teachers. The total number of members of Trinity Reformed church is 370, with 231 teachers and scholars in the Sunday School.

Monmouth Park Races.

The racing season at Monmouth Park will open on July 4th, and continue throughout July and August. Following are the days for racing:

First Summer Meeting—Monday, July 4th, Wednesday, 6th, Thursday, 7th, Saturday, 9th, Tuesday, 12th, Thursday, 14th.

Midsummer Meeting—Saturday, July 16th, Tuesday, 19th, Thursday, 21st, Saturday, 23d, Tuesday, 26th, Thursday, 28th, Saturday, 30th, Tuesday, August 2d, Thursday, 4th, Saturday, 6th, Tuesday, 9th, Thursday, 11th.

Second Summer Meeting—Saturday, August 13th, Tuesday, 16th, Thursday, 18th, Saturday, 20th, Tuesday, 23d, Thursday, 25th, Saturday, 27th.

Added money, $167,850. Six or seven races each day. Races begin on the 4th of July at 2; on other days, 2:30 p. m.

Express trains for New York by all routes will leave immediately after the races, and will be followed by local trains.

Borough Council Meeting.

Promptly at 8 o'clock p. m., Mayor Cooley called the North Plainfield Council to order last Friday, and the roll call showed the following Councilmen present: Messrs. McGee, Milne, Slater and Weaver. The minutes of the last meeting were approved as read.

Applications for cartmen and peddlers' licenses were presented from the following persons, and upon motion referred to the License Committee: J. Levi, Mr. Larey, C. L. Jones & Co., S. Moore, Wm. Giddis, Chas. Selbel, F. Conshay, J. H. Smalley.

The following claims were presented, and upon motion of Mr. McGee, they were referred to the Auditing and Finance Committees: Naar, Day & Naar, $15; J. H. Jackson, $5 70; Geo. P. Becker, $39 55; W. L. Force & Bro., $12 20; E. A. Dunham, $15.

The Clerk presented his monthly statement of monies collected by him. It showed a balance of $159 on hand at time of making the last report; $25 was received for licenses during the month, leaving a balance of $184 on hand.

Mr. Milne, as Chairman of the Special Committee appointed at a former meeting, reported that owing to some misunderstanding as to who composed the committee, no work had been accomplished. However, the Committee was now ready to proceed with the matters referred to them, and a report would probably be made at the next meeting.

Mr. Milne, from the License and Marshal Com., reported on the agreement of Peter Wooden with the Council for rent of Borough lock-up. The Committee offered the suggestion that Mr. Wooden be paid $20 for rent of same up to August 19th, the expiration of the agreement; also that the Council enter into no new agreement with the owner until the place was fixed up.

The Committee, through Mr. Milne, also insisted on the collection of licenses, and requested the Mayor to issue an attachment against Robert Simpson for the collection of a five dollar fine recently imposed by him. The same Councilman reported correct above license applications, all of which were granted.

Mr. Milne from the Committee on Streets and Public Health presented the report of the Committee. It stated that in accordance with a resolution passed at the last regular meeting of the Council the committee borrowed from the City National Bank on a six months note due December 23, 1887 drawn by the Mayor and Clerk the sum of $800 at six per cent. discount. The committee invited bids from the two stone crushing companies now in operation and accepted the bid of Jasper H. Wilson namely: eighty cents per ton for second size and ninety cents per ton for dressing, at the crusher including weighing, and made arrangements for carting at 22½ cents per ton from the crusher.

During the month the committee have had the streets of the Borough scraped and all rubbish, cobbles and brush removed and have made needed repairs on Duer street, Rockview avenue, Mercer avenue, Emily street and other thoroughfares. The work on Somerset street has been partially done to the upper side of Jackson avenue, a distance of about 1,675 feet, and the whole is to be completed as soon as material can be obtained. All the work has been under the supervision of the Street Commissioner. The committee propose during the ensuing month to make repairs on other streets where it is found necessary.

In regard to further macadamizing the committee said they had been asked by a number of the citizens and property owners of that part of the borough known as Washington Park what amount the council would be willing to order to be spent this year out of the remaining road money on some of the streets in that district, with the understanding that the residents will subscribe liberally towards the same. The committee respectfully asked that some action be taken on the subject by the council at present. The report was signed by Alex. H. Milne and H. A. McGee and was received and ordered on file.

The committee also presented the financial statement showing a bank balance of $774.14, the proceeds from note. The total cost of work during the month just passed was $653.30, of which amount $532.05 was for work on Somerset street alone. The total indebtedness of the borough now amounts to about $414.65.

Mr. Slater, from the Auditing and Finance Committee, reported correct above bills, and warrants were ordered drawn for the payment of the same from the Borough fund, with the exception of the bill of Mr. F. A. Dunham, $15—that to be drawn from the Road fund.

Mr. Milne presented "An Ordinance for the proper numbering of dwelling houses and stores in the borough of North Plainfield." It was read by its title, and upon motion of Councilman Slater, it was ordered to its second reading, and subsequently, upon his motion, ordered to its third reading at the next meeting, with the privilege of amending at that time.

Mr. Milne offered a resolution which prevailed, that the Mayor and Clerk be authorized to draw up a warrant for $20 in favor of Mr. Wooden, on account of rent for lock-up, up to Aug. 19, the same to be charged to the Borough fund.

Mr. McGee called attention to the fact that the Street Committee had already expended about $32 more than the amount appropriated, ($500) for macadamizing Somerset stret, and said that it would take something like sixty dollars more to complete the work now under way, from the brook to the intersection of Jackson avenue and Somerset street.

Mr. Weaver made a motion that the Street Committee be empowered to complete the macadamizing already begun on Somerset street as far as Jackson avenue. The motion was carried.

The Mayor said he would like to hear from the License and Marshal Committee concerning the dog ordinance, and Mr. Milne said he was not prepared to say anything on the subject. Mayor Cooley said the Marshal had informed him that there was no place designated to keep the dogs, and a further debate on the subject was laid over.

Mr. Slater made a motion—which subsequently became a resolution and prevailed—that upon presentation of vouchers to the Mayor, by the Street Committee showing that work had been done on the streets, the Mayor and Clerk be authorized to issue warrants for the payment of the several amounts on account of the work done, and the same to be drawn against the Road fund.

Mr. Milne offered a resolution in effect that the Mayor, with the approval of the Committee on Licenses and Marshals, be authorized to appoint one or more special Marshals, not to exceed ten, who shall receive at the rate of twenty-five cents an hour when actively engaged. Mr. Slater offered an amendment that the Mayor and Marshall Committee shall decide when the services of the special marshals are required, and when their services shall cease, until such time when some permanent rule is adopted by the Council. The amendment was accepted and the resolution adopted.

Mr. Weaver moved that the Mayor and Marshal, by order of the Council, be requested to enforce the Borough ordinances. He stated as his reason for offering the motion, that the bicycle ordinance was being violated everyday, and cartmen who had taken out but one license were now carting with two teams, while some persons who had taken out no license whatever, were carting in the borough without being molested. This brought forth a lengthy discussion. Mr. McGee said he thought it was hardly necessary to pile up resolutions relating to the enforcement of the ordinances, as it devolved upon the Mayor and Marshal to see that the same were enforced. Mayor Cooley said he would be glad to listen to any and all complaints for violations, and would issue warrants for the arrest of the accused, and, if found guilty, he would fine them. Mr. Weaver, therefore, withdrew his motion.

The Mayor reported on the case of Robert Simpson, and said that upon advice from the Borough Counsel it was deemed advisable to take no further action in the matter until a decision in the Carey case was rendered by the Court of Errors and Appeals, which would probably be in a short time, the Council, however, reserving the right to institute proceedings against Mr. Simpson at any time within two years.

Mr. McGee moved to adjourn, and it was so ordered.

LIST OF ADVERTISED LETTERS.

REMAINING IN PLAINFIELD POST OFFICE FOR WEEK ENDING JULY 8, 1887.

Adams, A L Mrs	Jones, Kate Miss (2)
Boylan, Margaret Miss	Knevel, A Mrs
Currid, Kate Miss	Lawrance, Ella Mrs
Clark, Lizzie Miss	Morrison, Frank H
Dean, Emmerson	O'Donnell, Bridget Miss
Grimshaw, Geo	Rochenon, Susie
Gallagher Kate Miss	Spong, J J Rowan Rev
Harris, Lue Miss (2)	Scofield, J D
Hunt, Gideon	Waters, Lillian Miss

Persons calling for above please say advertised.

W. L. FORCE, Postmaster.

DEATHS.

IRVING—In this city, June 30th, 1887, Zipporah widow of the late Jacob Irving, in the 74th year of her age.

PIKE—On Thursday, 30th, Harry VanRensellear, infant son of M. W. and Virginia Pike, aged 7 months, 11 days.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

FORD & STILES,
Funeral Directors
and Practical Embalmers.
Office, Warerooms and Residence
No. 14 EAST FRONT STREET.
Telephone Call No. 44.
GEO. C. FORD. GEO. M. STILES.

A. M. RUNYON & SON,
Undertakers and Embalmers,
60 Park avenue.
Telephone Call 40.
RESIDENCE—48 Madison avenue
Telephone Call 37.
"Office of Hillside Cemetery."
aply

P. CASEY & SON,
UNDERTAKERS.
Office, No. 1 Somerset st.; Residence, No. 11 Third street, corner New, Plainfield, N. J.
Everything pertaining to the business always on hand, and lower than any other firm in the State. All Calls Promptly Answered by or Night.—o15y1

KASKINE
(THE NEW QUININE.)

GIVES
Good Appetite,
New Strength,
Quiet Nerves,
Happy Days,
Sweet Sleep.

A POWERFUL TONIC.
that the most delicate stomach will bear.
A SPECIFIC FOR MALARIA,
RHEUMATISM,
NERVOUS PROSTRATION.
and all Germ Diseases.

THE MOST SCIENTIFIC AND SUCCESSFUL BLOOD PURIFIER. Superior to quinine.

Mr. F. A. Miller, 620 East 157th street, New York, was cured by Kaskine of extreme malarial prostration after seven years suffering. He had run down from 175 pounds to 97, began on Kaskine in June, 1886, went to work in one month, regained his full weight in six months. Quinine did him no good whatever.

Mr. Gideon Thompson, the oldest and one of the most respected citizens of Bridgeport, Conn., says: "I am ninety years of age, and for the last three years have suffered from malaria and the effects of quinine poisoning. I recently began with Kaskine which broke up the malaria and increased my weight 23 pounds."

Mrs. T. A. Solomons, of 159 Halliday St., Jersey City, writes: "My son Harry, eleven years, was cured of malaria by Kaskine, after fifteen months' ill ness, when we had given up all hope."

Letters from the above persons, giving full detail will be sent on application.

Kaskine can be taken without any special medical advice. $1.00 per bottle.

Sold by H. P. Reynolds, Plainfield, New Jersey, or sent by mail on receipt of price.

THE KASKINE CO., 54 Warren St., New York

Central Railroad of New Jersey

Station in New York—Foot of Liberty Street.

Time Table in Effect June 27, 1887.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 3.27, 5.43, 6.32, 7.02, 7.30, 7.59, 8.02, 8.32, 8.40, 9.02, 10.37, 11.08, 11.42, a. m. 12.32, 1.21, 2.25, 2.57, 3.51, 5.25, 5.30, 5.54, 6.32, 6.56, 7.02, 8.46, 9.18, 11.16, p. m. Sunday—3.27, 801, 8.57, 10.33, 11.32 a. m., 1.27, 3.30, 5.18, 7.30, 7.38, 9.39 p. m.

Leave New York from foot of Liberty Street, 4.00, 6.00, 7.30, 8.30, 9.00, 10.15, 11.00 a. m., 1.00, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 3.45, 4.00, 4.30, 5.00, 5.15, 5.30, 5.45, 6.00, 6.30, 7.30, 8.15, 9.00, 10.30, 12.00 p. m. Sunday—4.00, 8.45, 9.00 a. m., 12.00, m., 1.30, 4.00, 5.30, 6.30, 9.30, 12.00, p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield 3.43, 6.32, 7.02, 7.30, 8.02, 8.40, 9.32, 10.37, 11.08, 11.42, a. m., 2.16, 2.35, 2.57, 3.51, 5.25, 5.54, 6.55, 7.02, 8.46, 9.18, 11.16, p. m. Sunday—8.57, 10.33, 11.32, a. m., 1.27, 3.30, 5.18, 7.38, 9.39 p. m.

Leave Newark—6.20, 7.34, 8.35, 9.05, 10.35, 11.00, a. m., 1.05, 1.35, 2.40, 3.40, 4.00, 4.35, 5.05, 5.35, 5.50, 6.20, 7.10, 7.38, 8.20, 9.40, p. m., 12.00 night. Sunday—8.50, a. m., 12.20, 1.45, 4.10, 5.35, 9.15, p. m.

Passengers for Newark change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5.10, 8.32, 9.21, a. m., 2.08, 2.16, 4.34, 5.16, 6.38, p. m. Sunday—8.10, a. m., 6.43, p. m.

Leave Easton 6.55, 8.57, a. m., 12.40, 4.15, 7.00, p. m. Sunday—7.15, a. m., 7.00, p. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

LEAVE PLAINFIELD.

5.10, a. m.—For Easton, Allentown, Reading and Mauch Chunk.

8.32, a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Wind Gap, Mauch Chunk, Drifton, Upper Lehigh, Scranton &c.

9.21, a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Schooley's Mountain, Lake Hopatcong, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Nanticoke, Upper Lehigh, Scranton, &c.

2.08, p. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, &c.

4.34, p. m.—For Easton, Wind Gap, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Williamsport, Drifton, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, &c.

5.16, p. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Schooley's Mountain, Lake Hopatcong, Easton, &c.

6.36, p. m.—For Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, &c.

Long Branch, Ocean

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST, - - City Editor.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE OF MAILS.

NEW YORK MAILS.
CLOSE—8.00 and 10.00 A. M.; 2.00 and 5.30 P. M.
ARRIVE—7.30, 9.20, 11.40 A. M.; 2.30 and 5.30 P. M.

SOMERVILLE, EASTON, &C., MAILS.
CLOSE—9.30 A. M. and 4.30 P. M.
ARRIVE—8.30 A. M. and 6.30 P. M.

SUNDAY MAILS—Arrive at 8.30 A. M. Office open from 9.00 A. M. to 10.00 A. M. Mail closes at 7 P. M.

Mail for Warrenville closes Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 12 M.

Post Office opens at 7 A. M. and closes at 7.30 P. M. Saturdays, closes at 8.00 P. M. Open every evening until 8.30 P. M., to owners of lock boxes.

Money order office open from 8 A. M., to 5 P. M. Saturdays to 8 P. M.

W. L. FORCE, Postmaster.

—Constable Bauersachs of North Plainfield arrested Thomas McGraff Monday, for disorderly conduct. Thomas was granted a thirty days' leave of absence, to sojourn at Somerville at the county's expense.

—A village cart driven by a lady who disappeared at once from sight and identification, swung around the macadamized plaza in front of the station, last Friday and wrecked a hind wheel of Mr. Pat Lynch's hack.

—The through car to Long Branch and Asbury Park, attached to the 2.25 p. m. train from this city, is becoming quite popular with Plainfield people, who can now be taken direct to the seashore without change of cars.

—Bishop Wigger of Newark, has ordered it is said, the enforcement of the law that no Catholic, man or woman, who neglects mass and the sacrament for a year shall, after death, be admitted into a church. There can be no mass, no blessing.

—Some sacrilegious young men, of Washington Park, gained access to the belfry of Holy Cross church, at about one o'clock, Monday morning last, and proceeded to disturb their neighbors and disgrace themselves by ringing the bell at that untimely hour.

—The young man named Dady who disappeared immediately after the alleged accidental shooting took place on the railroad track near Liberty street, last week, whereby Edward Staat was shot in the leg, Monday gave bail in the sum of $250 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

—James Kinsman a man employed by Dr. Kimball of this city, was arrested in North Plainfield by Marshal Becker early Saturday, for driving a cow through the streets without a halter. Mayor Cosley fined him $5 which amount he paid and was released.

—A telephone was placed in the fire-tower, Saturday, that direct connection might be had with the watchmen on duty during Monday last, and Sunday and Monday nights. This was a blessing and a courtesy for which the telephone company deserved great credit.

—The Netherwood is rapidly filling with permanent guests, and during the past two days alone, many large families have taken up their permanent abode there for the Summer. The parlors and piazzas are full again, and activity as of old fills the office and hall-ways.

—The Elizabeth wheelmen will give a handsome gold medal to the lady-rider covering the greatest number of miles on the road in excess of 800 miles, during the year from January 1st to December 31st, 1887. Also a silver medal to the lady attending the most tricycle runs during the same time.

—During the ball game between the "High School" nine and the Borough "Clippers," on the Park avenue grounds, Monday, Mr. F. Hyde, who was catching for the former club, was struck on the collar-bone by a foul tip. The accident was a serious one, but the player recovered so as to be able to finish with the game.

—Michael Dougherty, the man who was struck by a train at Somerville, a few evenings since, as reported in THE PRESS, died in the Elizabeth City Hospital on Saturday. He was a veteran of the Rebellion, being a volunteer in Co. I, Third New Jersey Volunteers. He was buried on Sunday, and Drake's Veteran Zouaves of Elizabeth, attended the funeral in a body.

—The University at Alfred Centre, N. Y., has been laboring under the inconvenience of a $40,000 debt for a long time. A determined and successful effort has just been made to pay it off. President Allen and wife gave their house and lot, value $5,000. The entire amount was raised by the faculty and citizens of Alfred Centre. It is said that the debt stood in the way of some endowment.

—Our contemporary, the Central Times, announces that this week it will make a new departure by beginning to issue a weekly illustrated supplement of four pages, with articles written expressly for it by some of the best known newspaper and magazine writers in the country. We cordially extend the right hand of journalistic fellowship to the Times and trust the new venture will prove a success.

—Borough Marshal Becker arrested a young man named Squier from this city, Monday, whom he discovered riding a bicycle on the sidewalk in North Plainfield, which is in violation of the borough ordinance. He was paroled in his own recognizance to appear for a hearing when Mayor Cooley returns home. The Mayor will for once preside at the trial of one of his brother members of the Plainfield Bi Club.

—A well-known politician about town is reported to have left a horse and buggy on East Second street while he was attending to some business last Thursday, when a friend of his took possession of the rig and drove around town on a pleasure trip. He sought the services of the police to recover the missing property, and his indignation was aroused when he learned that the matter was only intended as a joke.

—A lawn tennis club called "Hitormissit" has been organized in North Plainfield with a membership of about twenty-five. The officers elected are Daniel Adams, President; Harry Brokaw, Vice President; Mrs. William B. Vail, Treasurer, and Miss Gussie Lewis, Secretary. The grounds selected are opposite Rockview avenue. The "Hits or Misses" will soon be ready to cross croquets with the "Misses Hitters" or any other rural club.

—One of the young men who was implicated in the shooting affray, a few evenings since, whereby Edward Staats, a colored man, was the victim, mysteriously left town directly after the shooting, and has not since returned. His wife, it is alleged, also left the city about the same time, leaving a few weeks' old infant with a family in North Plainfield, where she was employed as a domestic. The gentleman, in whose family the woman was employed, has made application to the Overseer of the Poor, for the removal of the infant.

—The Church of the Holy Cross, North Plainfield, was never so prosperous as at present. Desirable pews are in demand, and several new comers in Washington Park are competing for choice pews in the middle aisle. Some of the older members are yielding to the increased demand for these pews and are willing to take a "back seat" to assist in the advancement of the church. The Sunday school in connection with the church has doubled in members within the short period of one year, and greater results are looked for at the re-opening of the school in September.

—The receipts at the ticket office at the Plainfield depot, from July 1st to 5th inclusive, amounted to about $5,040.

—Zephyr Hook and Ladder company will give a grand picnic in the Crescent on Wednesday afternoon and evening of next week.

—Mr. Burt Swalm will hereafter, during the months of July and August, close his store on North Avenue at 7 p. m., Saturdays excepted.

—The finals in the tennis tournament will be played on the Central avenue grounds, Saturday afternoon next, upon the arrival of the 2:16 train.

—An adjourned meeting of the W. C. T. U., will be held in Reform Hall, Thursday evening, July 14th, at three o'clock, p. m. A full attendance is requested.

—There was some fine trotting at the Fair Grounds on Saturday between horses owned in this city. Mr. O. T. Waring's "Copeland" trotted two heats with Mr. A. V. Vail's "Betsey Bobbitt," winning the same in 2:29 and 2:31. Other heats were trotted by horses in 2:35¼ and 2:41.

—A swarm of bees took possession of one of the Plainfield Tennis Club's courts, yesterday, and occupied it during the entire day to the exclusion of everything else. Had it been otherwise possible to use all these courts, the Tournament in progress might have been finished Monday.

—Sunday was communion day at the Congregational church, and at the close of the service, three persons were admitted to membership in the church—two upon confession of faith, and one by letter. Freeholder Vanderbeck led the singing, in the absence of the regular church choir, the majority of which are enjoying their Summer vacation.

—Will be issued from the press of the Globe Printing House, Philadelphia, in a few days, a highly amusing little book of observations on characters met with at sea shore and mountain resorts, entitled, "Summer Folks," by Two Macs. A leading feature of the work is the popular topical song, "That's All!" "That's All!" Price 25 cents, in paper.

—According to the signal flags that float by official information from the governmental weather bureau, yesterday and the Fourth were both the same kind of days. Yet some supposed that the sun shone all day Monday and that the rain fell all day Tuesday. The value of weather signals and predictions can hardly be over-estimated.

—An interesting ball match is being arranged to take place on the Park avenue grounds on Saturday afternoon at half-past three o'clock, between the Crescents and a nine known as the "Eighteen Hundred Pounders." Each member of the latter club must weigh 200 pounds, and a Fairbank's standard scale will be provided on the ground for the purpose of weighing the players.

—Decided improvements are being made on the Anson Frazee property on Front street beyond Elm Place. Mr. William Kelley, who recently purchased the property, will move the dwelling house on a line with other residences on Front street, and remodel it in a handsome manner. He will also open a thoroughfare to the rear of the property, on which he will erect handsome cottages.

The Tennis Tournament.

The first tournament of the Plainfield Tennis Club has already proven an unqualified success. The occasion attracted from a neighboring city the pick of some of the State's best players—equipped with skill, practice and experience—and, in consequence, the contests have been sharp and exciting to the players and full of interest and anticipation for the spectators. Besides being able players, the Elizabethans proved to be thorough gentlemen, and the efforts put forth by the Plainfielders to entertain them were a satisfaction to both the hosts and the visitors. Play Monday was begun in the morning, followed by rest and refreshment, and finished in the afternoon. A number of the visitors dined with friends in Plainfield, while for the others bountifully laden tables were stretched beneath the trees that line the tennis courts. The arrangements for players and spectators were perfect, and the grounds were crowded with the younger representatives of the wealth and beauty of the city. The management of the affair the Club were fortunate in placing in the hands of Mr. George Chapman; and the Tournament Committee consisting of Messrs. H. W. Beebe, James P. Murray and Fred W. Walz, also deserve a large share of the credit that everybody is according the event. It has certainly proved a great attraction, and will largely encourage the graceful and skillful sport of lawn tennis in our midst. Next year some of the State Champions will hail from the Plainfield Club, and the present Tournament is just what will have brought to the surface and fostered the material.

Saturday afternoon's games opened with no hope in the hearts of the home players that they might win something. The visitors were picked players with names that had figured at the top of the lists of winners in past tournaments, and all tall athletes of wiry physiques. The Plainfield players were mostly lightly built and young in experience. But on the shoulders of the youngest and lightest of all who entered, now rests the City's and the Borough's hope of honor in the Courts of tennis. Mr. David Wotherspoon of the Plainfield Club stands at the head of the "singles" waiting to play the final with the Elizabethan who shall defeat his competitors in next Saturday afternoon's sets. In the "doubles" the glory fell to the lot of Messrs Beebe & F. Walz, who defeated Elliott & W. E. Knapp one of the strongest pairs in New Jersey.

The results of the first two day's contests are as given below, and next Saturday afternoon's games will decide the events. The doubles will, of course, go to Elizabeth, but there is still hope that the first prize in the singles will be wrested from the hands of some of the greatest players of the State, by Mr. David Wotherspoon. In the following score we print the names of the Plainfield players in italics, and the Elizabeth players in roman. The full names of the contestants will be found in the official list of entries published exclusively in THE PRESS during the past week.

SINGLES.

Wotherspoon beat James Murray: 4—6, 6—3, 6—3.

Anderson beat Post: 6—5, 6—3.

Ranney beat Squires: 6—1, 6—0.

Green beat Metzger: by default.

Jacobus beat Van Deventer: 6—3, 6—0.

Elliott beat Walz, Jr.: 6—0, 6—2.

McCutchen beat Serrell: 6—1, 6—1.

Cook beat Erickson: 6—2, 6—5.

Smith beat Beebe: 6—0, 5—6, 6—2.

Brandegee beat F. Walz: 6—3, 6—3.

Glazebrook beat W. Murray: 6—0, 6—2.

Wotherspoon beat Anderson: 6—0, 6—0.

Green beat Ranney: 6—3, 6—3.

Elliott beat Jacobus: 2—6, 6—3, 6—0.

Cook beat McCutchen: 2—6, 6—1, 6—5.

Wotherspoon beat Green: 5—6, 6—5, 6—4.

Elliott beat Cook: 6—1, 6—5.

This leaves Smith and Glazebrook, and Elliott and Brandegee, still to play—with Wotherspoon to contest the final set with the winner.

DOUBLES.

Ranney & Harrison beat McCutchen & Van Deventer: 6—2, 4—6, 6—4.

Cook & Williamson beat James Murray & Walz, Jr.: 6—5, 6—4.

Glazebrook & Smith beat Wotherspoon & Jacobus: 6—4, 6—4.

Beebe & F. Walz beat Elliott & Knapp: 6—2, 1—6, 6—5.

Green & Brandegee beat Serrell & W. Murray: 6—3, 6—0.

Glazebrook & Smith beat Beebe & F. Walz: 3—6, 6—4, 6—3.

Ranney & Harrison beat Cook & Williamson: 6—3, 6—2.

This leaves Glazebrook & Smith and Green & Brandegee still to play—with Ranney & Harrison to contest the final set with such pair as wins.

Personalia.

Mr. Frank A. Church and family of the Borough, are at the Wyatt House, Asbury Park, for the month of July.

Hon. Jacob Kirkner and family of Eighth street, will start in a few days for their Summer home in Connecticut.

Mrs. A. J. Cox, mother of Councilman Rowland Cox, has gone to Manhegan Island, Maine, for the Summer.

Mr. Edwin H. Lewis, and Miss Grace Lewis, arrived home last Friday from the college at Alfred Centre, N. Y.

Mr. Albert Bodine, editor of the New York Sunday Dispatch, is stopping at the Netherwood for the Summer season.

The family of Mr. P. M. Demarest of North Plainfield have taken up their residence for the Summer at Asbury Park.

Mr. William White and family of Washington Park, left the city Friday to spend the heated season at Asbury Park.

Mrs. Edward Blackburn of Brooklyn, N. Y., is on a visit for a few days to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carty, of Short Second street.

Mr. Wm. Cadmus of Brooklyn, N. Y., is spending a few weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Cole and daughter of Emily street, North Plainfield.

Mrs. M. J. Brewster and Miss Brewster of Broadway, left Friday for Asbury Park. They will summer at the Belvidere House.

Both Mr. and Mrs. George Hoadley are so much recovered as to be out again, and are enjoying every day the pleasant drives about Plainfield.

John Bangham, a former resident of Plainfield, visited friends here on the 4th, after an absence of nearly eighteen years. He was heartily received.

The family of Mr. A. C. Vail of Eighth street, and Madison avenue, expect to leave this week for Massachusetts, where they will spend the Summer.

Mrs. John H. Jackson and son, and Mr. John Crawford, left Friday for North Asbury. They have engaged rooms at the Victoria House for the Summer.

Miss Ida Angleman and Miss Julia J. Taylor of this city, are among the guests at the Ebbitt House, Asbury Park; Miss Brewster is stopping at the Belvidere.

Mr. T. S. Burr, Patriarch of the Plainfield Bicycle Club, with Mrs. Burr and one of the children, left their La Grande avenue residence for Asbury Park, Friday.

Mr. J. B. Higgins and son, Walter, of Orchard place, the latter one of the faithful carriers of THE PRESS, spent the Fourth with relatives at Rocktown, N. J.

Mrs. Eugene A. Gross, of Union avenue, and Mrs. Cheverrier of Eighth street, have rented a cottage on the island of Nantucket where they will spend the next two months.

Mrs. C. E. Ryder, wife of the late ex-Councilman Ryder, and family of East Front street, left last Friday for North Granville, Washington county, N. Y., for the Summer.

Dr. Joseph Healy and his young bride, of Gates avenue, Brooklyn, have been the guests for a few days of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Leader, at their charming home in North Plainfield.

Mr. Isaac L. Miller and family of Broadway are registered at the Mansion House, White Lake, Sullivan county, N. Y., for which place they left town last week to spend the Summer.

The wife of Vice-Principal Miller, of the Plainfield Public Schools, is recovering from her recent illness, and preparations are being made to leave the city about August 1st.

The Rev. Dr. Joseph Pemberton Taylor of Park avenue, pastor of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Evona, was honored with degree of D. D., Thursday, by Trinity College, Hartford.

Among those who graduated from the State Normal School at Trenton on Thursday evening, according to the Daily True American of that place, was Miss Mary E. Robinson, of this city.

Senator Livingston and family, start this week for the Adirondacks, where Robert will skillfully draw out of their native element the gamy trout and black bass, during his stay there.

Rev. A. V. V. Raymond, D. D., assisted the Rev. Cornelius Schenck at the funeral services of the late Zipporah Irving, at her late residence on East Second street, Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock.

Mr. William B. Wadsworth has purchased from Mr. James Wilson, of West Seventh street, thirty feet of land adjoining his elegant new residence on Eighth street. The consideration was $27 a foot.

Principal of the North Plainfield Public School, Mr. C. E. Boss, and wife, left Thursday for Smyrna, Chenango county, New York. They will spend most of the long Summer vacation there, as the guests of Mr. Boss' father.

Mr. W. D. F. Curtis, a retired merchant of New York city, has rented the dwelling recently erected by Mr. B. A. Hegeman on Sycamore avenue, Washington Park. Mr. Curtis and family took possession of their new home, Friday.

Mr. John B. Scott for many years connected with the banking house of Messrs. J. and J. Stuart & Co., of New York, has again returned to Plainfield with his family and will Summer at the residence of Mrs. Ryder on Front street.

Mr. A. W. Gavin, a member of the Fourth Reformed church of Philadelphia, of which the Rev. Mr. Schenck was formerly the pastor, was present at the installation services in Trinity Reformed church last Thursday evening.

Miss Annie Price of Sherman avenue, whose trip to South America we noticed some weeks ago, has sailed from the latter country and expects to arrive at San Francisco about July 9th. After a visit of ten days in the Golden City, she will start for her home here.

Miss McBryde, who has been spending a few days with her friends, the Misses Green of Eighth street, left Tuesday for Martha's Vineyard, Mass. The father of Miss McBryde, is a celebrated Presbyterian minister in the South, and the young lady herself has just completed her musical studies at the Boston Conservatory of Music.

Mr. Robert Freeman of Broadway and Hillside avenue, died at noon, Thursday, after a long illness. The deceased was the first to open up Broadway beyond Kensington avenue, as a place of residence. He was the owner and builder of most of the handsome houses in that vicinity. He was the father of Mrs. Emma F. Fox of this city, and of the first husband of Mrs. Cap't Wm. B. Ostrom.

The death of Mrs. Zipporah Irving, widow of the late Jacob Irving, occurred during Thursday afternoon at her home on East Second street where she had resided for the past fifty-one years. The deceased was in the seventy-fourth year of her age, and enjoyed the esteem and sincere friendship of a large circle of the best known people of the community. The funeral services were held at her late residence, last Tuesday afternoon, at three o'clock. The Rev. A. V. V. Raymond, the former pastor of the deceased, officiated with the Rev. Mr. Schenck.

Mr. N. D. C. Hodges, editor of Science, and Mr. Chas. H. Davis, both of Plainfield, are members of the Local Committee (of New York) of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. The meeting of the Association occurs early in August, and brings together in New York the most prominent scientific men of the country. Prof. S. P. Langley the author of the Century's articles on "The New Astronomy," and Astronomer of Allegheny Observatory, will preside at the New York meeting, which promises to be a very interesting session. We dare say that many of our Plainfield residents will be present.

S. A. Vail, of Vail Bros., Philadelphia, is in town to-day looking after the interests of their customers.

Mrs. Wm. H. Backman and mother of West Front street, are visiting, for a few days, friends on Long Island.

Mrs. C. Potter, Jr., and daughter, of West seventh street, are sojourning for the present at Watch Hill, R. I.

Miss Sadie E. Jones, of Long Branch, is visiting her mother, Mrs. C. H. Bryan, of Chatham street, North Plainfield.

Mrs. Arthur Sutphen of Dunellen is recovering from her recent serious illness, brought on by an attack of the measles.

Mr. W. B. Potts and family of West Seventh street, have taken possession of their handsome cottage at Monmouth Beach.

The Misses Sadie and Anna Searing of West Third street, are spending their Summer vacation with friends at Perth Amboy.

Mr. William H. and Miss Anna K. Nash of Brooklyn, were the guests, during the Fourth, of Miss Florence M. Randolph, of Peace street.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Bird of Park avenue, are receiving the congratulations of a host of friends over the arrival of an heir, whose age will be recorded from Friday last.

The widow of the late Frank Wright, the latter for many years an employee in THE CONSTITUTIONALIST office, is reported to be lying at the point of death, with consumption, at her home, Cornwall-on-the-Hudson.

Robinson Pound, of the Plainfield Bicycle Club, was Monday elected Secretary-Treasurer of the New Jersey Division of the League of American Wheelmen, at the Annual Meeting held at East Orange. About 125 members were present at the meeting, presided over by Mayor Cooley, of North Plainfield.

Mr. Sydney Dorman recently flew a young carrier pigeon of the progeny of "Silver" and the "Dinault Hen," from Westfield, and it reached its coop on Central avenue, this city, in just four minutes. The old pair are those released a few weeks ago, 500 miles from New York. "Silver" has returned, but the "Hen" has not since been seen.

Chemical Engine Co. No. 1 of Fanwood, has for its foreman the veteran fireman, Geo. R. Nicholl, Esq. This Company was organized in 1883, and is in a most flourishing condition. The "boys" wouldn't let up on George until he had consented to become their foreman. Chemical No. 1 is therefore properly officered, and has a gallant crew to respond when duty calls them.

Rev. Mr. Taylor, of Park avenue, who, with his family, are sojourning at Asbury Park, returned on Saturday to occupy the pulpit in the Clinton avenue chnrch of the Heavenly Rest, on Sunday. Rev. Mr. Taylor told a reporter that he was not aware that he had been honored with the degree of D. D. by Trinity College of Hartford, until after it appeared in THE PRESS on Saturday. The reverend gentleman returned to the Park on Monday.

The Death Roll.

A young son of Mr. and Mrs. Dady of West Third street died of convulsions on Sunday night. The funeral took place Monday afternoon.

Patrick, a twin son of Patrick and Bridget Martley of West Second street, died Sunday. The remains were interred in St. Mary's cemetery Monday.

James, the five-months old son of James and Mary Emma Evans, died at the home of his parents on West Fourth street, Sunday. The funeral service took place from the house Monday afternoon. Interment at Lebanon, N. J.

The Saengerbund Picnic.

The members of the Plainfield Singing and Turning Society gave a picnic in Keller's Grove, North Plainfield, Monday, afternoon and evening. During the afternoon the Turners gave an exhibition of their agility on the horizontal bar, and a prize shooting contest took place between the members of the Society. Geo. Richter won the first prize, a handsome meerschaum segar holder, scoring 34 points out of a possible 36. The second prize, a box of segars, was won by Rudolph Kerstling, he scoring 32 points. Mr. Henry Haurand was the referee. Several of the ladies present were quite expert with the air gun. Miss Lena Keller scored 30 out of 36 points, and Mrs. Augusta Korman scored 31 out of 36. The afternoon and evening was generally devoted to dancing, and Prof. Frazee furnished the music for the occasion. The affair was a credit both financially and socially, and the treasury of the association will probably be enriched several hundred dollars as the result of the undertaking.

Robbery on Grove Street.

Lewis R. Blackford with his wife and son, John, reside in a cottage on Grove street, near Linden avenue, North Plainfield. Mr. Blackford is a carpenter by trade and his son is employed in Borough Councilman John H. Thickstun's coal office on Madison avenue. Wednesday, the 29th, the father and son started out for their work at the usual hour, leaving Mrs. Blackford alone in the house. About nine o'clock the latter started for town to make some purchases, and when she returned, two hours later, she discovered that the house had been robbed. Clothing was thrown promiscuously about the rooms in the upper story of the building, and the contents of closets and bureau drawers were disarranged, showing that the burglars had made a hasty search for money and other valuables. The entrance to the place was effected through a basement window on the South side of the house, which was left open, although the blinds were closed and a wire screen was fastened on the inside. Having gained admission, the intruders first gathered up some laundry change which lay on the window sill. After searching through the basement the robbers ascended the stairs to the sitting room, but took nothing of great value from there, although in one of the closets they ransacked was a pasteboard box containing a considerable amount of money. A bag containing roller skates was hauled out and opened, and thrown carelessly in one corner of the room. The family Bible lying on a table in the sitting room was also opened, but it contained nothing of value to the burglars. On the mantle piece was a clock which rested on two nickles, so arranged as to steady the time-piece. The clock stopped at precisely twenty minutes past ten o'clock, showing at what time the robbers were in that room, and the two nickles were taken.

At the top of the stairway in the second story, is a door leading to Mr. Blackford's bedroom, and from a bureau drawer in this room was stolen a purse containing between ten and twenty dollars. A card-case containing business cards, and a magnifying glass were taken from some clothing hanging in the room, the pockets of which were turned inside out. In the bedroom adjoining, the robbers had evidently made a careful examination. About thirty dollars were taken from a pair of pantaloons belonging to Mr. Blackford's son, and the room was in a general state of disorder when they left. The bed clothing was disarranged, and at the foot of the bed lay quietly slumbering a family cat, under which was a pocket-book containing about $300 in cash. This treasure was overlooked, and the cat was unmolested.

To a reporter, who called at the house Thursday, Mrs. Blackford said the total loss would probably not exceed $50. She said the intruders must have left through the front door, which she found unlocked when she returned from town.

Heartiest Congratulations.

The following congratulatory message was unintentionally omitted from the installation services at Trinity Reformed church, Thursday evening, June 30th. It was intended to be read then, but was read instead, at both services in the church, Sunday last:

"To P. P. VAN ARSDALE:

"Heartiest congratulations to the pastor and people of Trinity Reformed church. May God bless and prosper yet more manifestly the church we have served and still love.

"REV. AND MRS. A. V. V. RAYMOND.

"Albany, June 30th."

The Netherwood's Great Day.

All day and all night of Monday the Hotel Netherwood metaphorically blazed with the brilliancy of the greatest effort of its life. The intents and purposes of the wealthy and generous guests that fill the hotel this Summer, we have from day to day reported, and all labors and financial expenditure culminated in a celebration Monday that was an honor to its creators and a crowning glory to the already remarkable success of The Netherwood in the hands of its new owner. The afternoon's concert from four to five-thirty was even better than we had led the people to expect, and almost every number on the programme published in THE PRESS of Saturday, was redemanded. The evening's fire-works were of the latest designs and formed a grand display that attracted the presence of hundreds from the city and its neighboring towns. But the grandest display of all was the parlors crowded later on with youth and beauty. Besides the large number of guests present clad in the dignified black of the dress suit, or the gorgeous tints of the ball costume, were many of the city belles Plainfield is so justly proud of. The dresses exhibited were unusually costly and showy. Combinations of laces as soft as the skin beneath and satins as rich as the blood-tints flushing the surface, were many and charming. About eleven o'clock the main dining-room was thrown open and over a hundred sat down to a generous supper. Among those present of the invited guests were the Misses Murray, the Misses VanZandt, Miss Dorman, Miss Dumont, Miss E. Dunn, Miss Wilkisson, Miss Randolph, Miss Morgan, Miss Depew and the Misses Sanford of this city; Mrs. and Miss Montague of Holyoke, Mass.; Miss Lilian Dumont of Brooklyn, and Miss Nettie Randolph of New York. Also Messrs. Wilkisson, Moore, Squires, Dunn, Talbot, Kleinecke, Sandford, Huntsman and Murray.

Of the hotel's own permanent guests were noticeable the presence and elegant costumes of Mrs. H. W. Williams, Mrs. Major T. H. Cullen, Mrs. E. B. Howard, Miss Emma Boome, Mrs. H. D. Brewster, Mrs. W. J. Boome, Mrs. C. L. Edey, Miss Swain, Mrs. Dr. A. H. Goelet, Mrs. Benary, Mrs. J. E. Spencer, Mrs. B. J. Taylor, Mrs. T. D. Weston, Mrs. R. T. Howard, Miss Condit, Mrs. E. M. Knowles, Mrs. Col. F. Martin, Mrs. J. W. Condit, Miss Carrie Plum, Mrs. G. C. Wood, Mrs. F. P. Church, Mrs. H. B. Herbert and Mrs. W. Randolph. Of the Netherwood residents—Mrs. W. P. Smith, Mrs. H. E. Bowen and Mrs. H. P. Talmadge.

The following are the Committeemen and subscribers who made the success of the day possible:

GENERAL COMMITTEE.

Maj. Thomas H. Cullen, Chairman.
H. D. Brewster, Secretary.

RECEPTION COMMITTEE.

Maj. T. H. Cullen, Chairman.

Mr. F. P. Church,	Mr. A. A. Drake,
Mr. E. B. Howard,	Mr. W. P. Smith,
Mr. S. M. Knowles,	Mr. H. E. Bowen,
Mr. T. Lewis,	Mr. H. P. Talmadge,
Mr. J. Lymes,	Mr. W. Randolph,
Mr. W. Waddell,	Mr. H. B. Hebert,
Mr. G. C. Wood,	Mr. J. W. Condit,
Col. F. Martin,	Mr. W. Ackerman,
	Mr. C. Hyde.

FLOOR COMMITTEE.

Mr. H. W. Williams, Chairman.

Mr. C. L. Edey,	Mr. R. T. Howard,
Mr. H. F. Harbaugh,	Mr. W. B. Post,
Mr. R. P. McBride,	Mr. A. E. Benary,
Mr. W. J. Boome,	Mr. B. G. Taylor,
Mr. H. C. Swain,	Mr. L. Canfield, Jr.,
Mr. J. E. Spencer,	Mr. K. Polak,
Mr. T. D. Weston,	Mr. J. T. Scott,
Mr. H. L. White,	Dr. A. H. Goelet,
Mr. H. D. Brewster,	Mr. A. P. Cumming.

Fourth of July Fires.

Fire was discovered on the roof of the residence of Mr. Jacob Benner on West Second street, Monday, but fortunately was extinguished before any serious damage was done. The fire is supposed to have been caused by boys throwing fire-crackers on the roof.

A large barn and outbuildings belonging to Christopher Cahil, situated on the road leading to what is known as "Dog Watch Hollow" near Martinville, was totally destroyed by fire Monday last, together with the contents, including some wagons, harness, hay, grain etc. All the live stock, it is reported, was removed to a place of safety, but the buildings were burned to the ground, involving a loss of several hundred dollars. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Fire was discovered under a bay window of the residence of Harvey Bird on Race street, North Plainfield, Monday, but fortunately was extinguished before any great damage was done. The fire is supposed to have originated from the careless use of fire-crackers. No alarm was sent out, and consequently but few persons knew of the fire.

About 7 o'clock, Monday evening, the dwelling house of Ephraim Giles at Springdale near Warrenville, was discovered to be on fire. The building was frame, and very dry, and in a few minutes after the fire was first discovered, the whole building was wrapped in flames. The neighbors turned out en masse and succeeded in getting out a portion of the household effects, but many articles of furniture were consumed with the building. The loss will probably not exceed $1,000, and is said to be partly covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is not known.

Soon after twelve o'clock, Monday, two gentlemen who were driving along East Front street, discovered smoke issuing from the roof in the rear of the frame dwelling occupied by Mrs. H. N. Case near Church street. They immediately went to the place and found two female inmates working heroically to extinguish a fire which had originated, presumably from a stove pipe, in the roof over the kitchen. The gentlemen assisted in putting out the fire, which was only accomplished after several feet of the roofing had been torn away. The remarkable coolness with which the two ladies battled with the fire, without even sending out an alarm, is to be commended. The loss to the building is trifling.

About seven o'clock, Monday morning, the dwelling house of Reuna R. Stelle, situated just back of Bound Brook, was discovered to be on fire, and despite the efforts of the inmates and neighbors, was entirely consumed. Most of the furniture and effects were rescued, but nearly all of the children's clothing were consumed. The fire originated in the kitchen roof and is supposed to have been caused by a defective flue or a spark from the chimney. The building was constructed in 1849, and was one of the best built dwellings in the county. A curious sight after the fire was that of a watch hanging on a nail driven in one of the chimneys, where it remained during the destruction of the house. The five children of the family made homeless by the fire, were kindly sheltered and cared for by the families of Mr. L. V. Shepherd and the widow Cone. The loss is about $1,500, fully insured.

—The weather, it is said, was so hot on Saturday, that the men employed at the stone-quarry in the Notch were obliged to quit work.

Struck by the Locomotive.

Michael Dougherty an honorably discharged veteran of the Third Regiment of N. J., was struck by Engine No. 169, at Somerville station, Wednesday evening, the 29th; and severely injured. It is reported that a leg and arm were broken, and some ribs fractured. The sufferer was taken to Elizabeth on the 8:40 p. m., train from Somerville, and placed in a hospital there. Dougherty was in Plainfield in the afternoon, and delivered a letter to comrade M. C. Dobbins of the G. A. R. Post, from Comrade W. E. Mattison. The letter stated that the bearer was anxious to reach Somerville to secure the influence of the Hon. Reynier Veghte of the Board of Governors of the New Jersey Soldier's Home, for the purpose of gaining admittance to that institution at Newark. Dougherty said he would like to return to North Plainfield to sleep last night. Mr. Dobbins bought him an excursion ticket, and Baggage Master J. F. Garretson saw him safely on the train. The unfortunate man reached his destination, but as he was crossing the track from the Somerville station to Taylor's hotel, an incoming passenger train, of which Mr. William Clark is conductor, struck him down just as it was slowing up.

NEW MARKET.

The celebration of the Fourth of July was a complete surprise to the inhabitants in respect to the number of persons who took part, the crowd of spectators, and the variety of sport provided for their amusement and entertainment. Visitors were present from all the surrounding districts and were gratified at the success which attended the efforts of the Committee to provide entertainment for the people. A base ball match took place in the morning between the Dunellen and New Market nines, resulting in a victory for the former by a score of 37 to 35. The following is the programme with the names of the successful competitors and prizes:

Boat race—Messrs. Larrabee & Rogers, $2.00.

Swimming race—Pierre Hallett, $1.50; Chas. Peterson, .75.

Boys boat race—Chas. Rogers & "Abe" Nelson, $1.50.

Canoe race—Pierre Hallett, $1.50.

Tub race—Pierre Hallett, $1.50.

Three-legged race—"Ben" Pizee & "Abe" Nelson, $2.00.

Wheelbarrow race—John Sylvester $1; C. T. Rogers, 50c.

Boys race, 50 yds—Geo. Pizee, $1.00; Frank Nelson, 50c.

Sack race—C. T. Rogers, $1.50.

Potato race—Chas. Day, $3.00; John Stein, $2.00

Foot race, 100 yds—Peter Schultz $2.50; Monroe Reid, $1.50.

Tug of war—Foster Sofield, Dave Steals, Wm. Brokaw and Dave Blackford pulled against six men picked from the spectators and won an easy victory in two straight heats. The prize was $6 in cash.

During the evening a very good assortment of fire-works were displayed and there was also a balloon ascension. The various colored lights from roman candles, sky rockets, etc., reflected beautifully in the waters of the lake, and the large number of spectators present thoroughly enjoyed this particular portion of the programme.

Caught on the Fly.

Monday of last week a long looking, lean looking man, who might have come from over the mountains in the vicinity of Mount Bethel, slid into the office of Mr. W. L. Force, Secretary of the New Jersey Game Protective Society, and asked for information regarding the date when woodcock shooting opened. He was told that the law was held to mean that the shooting of woodcock could only legally begin on July 2d. He was also given three of the Society's printed pamphlets containing a compilation of all the laws at present in force regulating the shooting of game and the catching of fish, and lists of the "open seasons" therein prescribed.

Friday morning as the 9:52 train was about starting for New York, a long looking, lean looking man, who is said to have come from over the mountains in the vicinity of Mount Bethel, rushed up the steps of the Plainfield station. On his arm was a basket from the side of which protruded the bill of a bird. Chief of Police Dodd, who can scent a law-breaker at sight, stepped quickly forward and stopped the man as he hurried to board the train. To the Chief's inquiry as to what the basket contained, he refused an answer. He was thereupon arrested and taken to the city jail at once, and the hope he had and the train he almost had, left together. An examination of the basket showed it contained nine woodcock, said to be worth—when in New York and out of season—two dollars apiece. The following from our issue of the 17th inst., tells the reason of the arrest, and the accused's somewhat hazardous predicament:

"Sportsmen should be careful about the meaning and intent of the woodcock law. The law of March 24, 1881, reads 'That from and after the passage of this act, no person shall kill, take, expose for sale, or have unlawfully in his or her possession, after the same has been killed, any woodcock, except only between the first day of July and the first day of August, and between the last day of September and the sixteenth day of December, in any year, under a penalty of $15 for each bird killed, taken, exposed for sale, or had in possession, contrary to the provisions of this section.' The Attorney-General has rendered a decision that woodcock cannot legally be shot on the first day of July."

There seems to be no doubt that the birds were shot Friday morning, and the only question that arises in the case is as to what the courts will rule is the meaning and intent of the law. Many claim that the "open season" is by the law meant to include the whole month of July, and the accused, whose name is James Ralph, claims to have so understood it. His case is in the able hands of Counsellor W. R. Coddington, and the accused was later in the morning arraigned before Justice of the Peace, L. F. Wadsworth. Chief Dodd appeared as complainant in his capacity as one of the officially appointed detectives of the New Jersey Game and Fish Protective Society. Examination was waived and Ralph gave bonds to appear for trial two weeks from to-day. His Counsel became his surety.

A LITTLE OF EVERYTHING COLUMN.

Physic is necessary at times for Biliousness, Costiveness, &c. Use Dr. Arnold's Billous Pills. 25c.

For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Price 25 cents. Sold by W. H. Voorhees.

Croup. Whooping Cough and Bronchitis immediately relieved by Shiloh's Cure. Sold by W. H. Voorhees.

A Nasal Injector free with each bottle of Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50

WE SHALL KNOW BY AND BY.

How oft we say we wish we knew,
That all might come to light,
With e'en the future brought to view
And faith transformed to sight.

We wonder why our Father hides,
And will not let us see
Beyond the curtain that divides
Time from eternity.

How many friends have passed away,
Away we know not where,
As dew-drops at the dawn of day
Forsake the lily fair.

Or like bright, silken sunkissed sails
Borne by the summer breeze
Beyond the line where vision fails
To strange and unknown seas.

Would that we knew, would that we know,
We sigh and sigh and sigh again;
Where float the sails one lost to view
Upon the trackless main!

We shall not know while here, but soon
We'll greet those white sails flown,
And oh, how sweet in Heaven's high noon
To know as we are known.

G. W. Crofts, in Inter-Ocean.

"MUCH OR LITTLE."

A Grouchy Landlord's Rule Which Was Made to Work Both Ways.

Years ago Stephen Loftus was the landlord of our village inn. Physically, Loftus was one of the largest men in the town, weighing considerably over two hundred pounds. Mentally and morally, he was one of the smallest. He was a skinflint on a small scale. He never made large ventures. The turning of an honest penny gave him no particular joy; but if he could get the better of a neighbor, or of a traveler, in the way of a trade, he was happy. On the other hand let him be overreached in the way of a trade, or in the way of any kind of business, and he was in agony.

One day Deacon Hibbard—a good old farmer, from the upper part of town, called in at the tavern, and asked Loftus if he could give him "a bite of something to eat." He impressed it upon Steve Loftus' mind that he didn't want a regular dinner. A cup of weak tea, a crust of stale bread, with a little butter. That was all.

And that was all Loftus gave him. He drank the tea, ate the butter on about half the bread, then arose and went out into the bar-room and asked what was to pay.

"Thirty-five cents, Deacon, is the price for dinner."

Now the good old deacon was by no means a penurious man, nor was he in any way grasping; but he was a poor man, and obliged to look after the pennies if he would make both ends meet at the end of the year.

"But—Mr. Loftus," fairly gasped the deacon, "you don't call that a dinner which you served me?"

"Sartin I do, Deacon. It's the reg'lar dinner time, and I gave you all you wanted. You mout'r had all you'd asked for. Le'me tell yer—I've got jest one reg'lar rule—A dinner's a dinner, much or little; and I've got my price—thirty-five cents. If you'd been a mind to, you mout'ave eat ten times as much, an' 'twouldn't a been only a dinner."

"Suppose a man should come along that could eat a whole ox!" suggested the deacon.

"Twould be jest the same. As I told you afore, much or little, much or little, a dinner's a dinner."

The deacon took out his well-worn purse, and paid the sum; but he did it reluctantly, and with a heavy heart. It was not so much the money, as he told me afterward; but the thought of the wrong put upon him.

Now it so happened that my friend Abner Jackson and myself were sitting in the bar-room at the time. Also, there were a number of others—all friends—smoking and chatting sociably.

Ten or fifteen minutes before the deacon came out of the dining-room Abner and I had seen Dan Bantam pass with a load of wood; and we knew he was hauling it to Dr. Daniels'. Here was an opportunity to give Loftus a Roland for his Oliver. Bantam had worked for me once; and had once eaten at my table; but never again.

He stood six feet in his stockings; and was as lean and lank as a fence rail. He could eat more than any other man I ever knew.

I followed Deacon Hibbard to the door, and asked him to go back and wait a while, at the same time whispering to him that he should have an opportunity to give the landlord a slight return for his din ner charge.

We found Dan with his wood off, ready for a start homeward. We asked him if he was hungry.

"Hungry!" he repeated, regarding us with ample wonder. "Gaul dern it; when ain't I hungry! I'd like ter git fillet up jest once. I'll be snaked if I wouldn't!"

We then told him if he would come to the tavern, and order dinner and eat it, we would pay the bill. Dan was nobody's fool. On the way we gave him an inkling of what we really wanted. His dull gray eyes fairly shone. It appeared that Loftus had once cheated him in paying for a load of wood—had given him a counterfeit half dollar, and would not take it back. Now Dan could not afford to risk a suit at law; so he had been obliged to pocket the loss. By this time we had gone half the distance to the tavern, he was thoroughly instructed, and as eager for the fray as a mad dog could be. Then we slipped on ahead, and left him to come after.

We found the company in the bar-room as we had left it. The deacon had sat down and picked up an old paper. The landlord was tumbling about, now here, now there, watching for a customer. By and by Dan Bantam drove his ox team into the stable yard, shook down a wisp of hay before the beasts from a bag in his cart, and then came into the bar-room. He wanted some dinner.

"And I want a bang-up one, ole hoss!"

Loftus looked him over—the man had never eaten at the inn table—looked at him from head to foot, thinking, perhaps, that a man so lean and lank could not be a great eater. He didn't ask the guest what he would like for dinner, but simply informed him that it would be ready in a few minutes; and then waddled away. Dan was hungry; his mouth watered. The day was Saturday, and the cooks had made provisions for the morrow, and were still at work, as was evident from the odors that were ever and anon wafted in from the kitchen.

In the course of five to ten minutes the landlord put his rubicund visage in at the door and announced that dinner was ready.

Abner and I asked him if he could serve us with a lunch at the same time. Certainly; who could have what we wanted. I turned to the deacon and asked him if he would go in with us. Said I:

"We can finish our business just as well while Mr. Jackson and I are eating as at any time."

I called for a piece of pie, with cheese, and a cup of milk. Abner called for the same.

The sideboard was a broad pine table, set close against the wall on the back side, with its end against the partition of the kitchen; and over that end was an aperture communicating with the culinary department. On this board I saw a loin of veal—roast—with other things gone. It would furnish cold meat for supper, with plenty left for the help. Also, a part of a roast sirloin of beef. That, likewise, was intended for supper—cold.

The landlord saw us seated, and having placed before Dan a dish of potatoes, two slices of bread, a really generous slice of veal, with a small dish of gravy, he was upon the point of turning, when the hungry man asked if he couldn't have something warm to drink. He didn't care particularly whether it was tea or coffee.

"We don't furnish hot drink with dinner unless especially ordered," said Loftus, rather huffily.

"Wall, ole hoss! jes' you consider this! I her especially ordered coffee of ye've got it handy. Ef ye haven't, let's be tea."

A red-headed girl who was in waiting at the sideboard was directed to call for the coffee-pot; and shortly after, as though fearing that he might come to high words with the fellow if he remained, the fat host took himself out of the way, leaving Susan to wait upon the table and upon the guests.

Susan Mason, the damsel of the red head, was a farmer's daughter, whose parents were next-door neighbors to Abner, and they were friends. She disliked Loftus; and when Abner had given her to understand the game in hand she caught at it eagerly.

And then began a scene of the drama that I never saw approached by any other man. Dan's plate was cleared in a twinkling.

"Soor'n!—A leetle peice more o' that are weal, if 'u please."

It came—a generous slice; and Dan added another potato.

"Soor'n! Will ye let me hev a bit more bread?"

She brought him half a loaf and more butter.

"Soor'n! I declar! That are weal is dreff'l good. Will ye let me hev jes' a leetle bit more?"

Susan enjoyed it. She had heard her father speak of Dan Bantam's eating capacity; but she had never heard a half of the truth. He finished the veal, and then went at the beef; and by the time he had done all that was left of either was bone—bone!

"Soor'n! Hev' ye got a leetle bit o' pudd'n, or any thing o' that kind, eh?"

She told him they had no pudding; but they had plenty of pies—mince, apple—

"O, Ge-whittaker! Mince pie for the world! There's one! Let's hev one!"

And she brought him a whole mince pie, together with a generous slice of cheese.

He went at it with a relish, actually smacking his lips! And the pie disappeared. And that was not the end.

"Soor'n! Didn't I hear ye say custard pie?"

"Yes, sir."

"Wal, I rayther guess as haow't I'll top off on one o' them ere critters!"

She brought it, and he was devouring the last morsel of it when the landlord came in. We learned afterward that he had been detained out of doors by a man who had been taking of trading horses, but it had come to nothing. So he came in feeling sore. He thought he had lost a good trade through the disposition of the horseman to wrong and defraud him.

Stephen Loftus was an old landlord. He cur ied in his mind the situation as he had left it three-quarters of an hour before; and now he took in the existing situation at a glance. He saw the skeletons on the side-board—a beef-bone, and a section of the bones of a veal loin; he saw the empty bread-plate; the empty mince-pie plate; and a custard pie just departed. He had looked first in detail. He now gave one general survey of the field, and made two efforts before he succeeded in speaking.

"Susan! where—where is that meat?"

"It's eat all up, sir."

"Who eat it?"

"He did, sir—Mr. Bantam."

"And a mince pie—a whole one?"

"A-y-e-s, sir."

"And a whole custard pie?"

"Yes, sir."

By this time Dan had drunk the last of the coffee, and was on his feet. Loftus turned upon him, almost white. He shook like a huge jelly bag from head to foot.

"Well, gad-zounds, sir! But—how you eaten the whole of it?—you—all alone?"

"Sartin, I hev. An' I could eat more 'f I had it. I aint jes' 'xactly full yit. But, I swan, them ere pies was good. I won't complain. I guess we'll call it a dinner, and thirty-five cents is your price for a dinner, I take it, 'Square."

"Thirty-five—thunder!" Let me tell you, Mr. Bantam, you'll pay me just two dollars for that dinner; and that won't make make me whole—not by a long shot."

"Sho! You don't say so!"

"But I do say so! And I'll tell you one thing more—if you don't pay it I'll put an attachment on your oxen. You won't take 'em out of my yard till the bill is paid. Do you mind that?"

"Friend Loftus," said the old deacon, at this point, "you now have an opportunity of witnessing the truth of the old saying, that 'it makes all the difference in the world whose ox is gored.' You did not hesitate to charge me full dinner price for a poor crust and a cup of tea."

"Oho! So!—You have sent this man here to eat me out of house and home!" snapped the host at the deacon.

"Nay, friend; I did nothing of the kind. Yet have I enjoyed to see him eat. Remember thy rule, Loftus—Much or little—much or little.' And one other thing you may remember: You assured me that for five-and-thirty cents a man at your table might eat a whole ox, if he could. So, my dear sir, should you think it well to attempt any force at law in this case, you will have me to deal with. I shall cast my crust with Friend Bantam's repast, and share with him the chances of a suit."

Loftus saw that he was worsted; and he probably believed that either Abner or I—one or both—had done this thing; but he did not venture to say so. He did not think he could afford to "lock horns" with us. It was impossible for him to retire gracefully. He swore several additional oaths—swearing that he would be even with 'em yet. Whom he meant by "em," he did not say.

That was years ago; and Loftus lived to keep his inn a goodly number of them; and to the very last a guest would occasionally fret him by asking if he still adhered to his old rule of, "A dinner's a dinner, much or little!"—Special Cable Jr., in N. Y. Ledger.

PRETTY LIVELY BAIT.

How a Staid Old Gentleman Came to Mistake Frogs for Bed-Bugs.

Some years ago a party of Detroiters went fishing from the Star Island House on the St. Clair Flats. They were jolly good fellows, says a writer in the Detroit Free Press, and would have been perfectly happy but for one drawback—they had no good bait. It was the season for black bass and they had neither chubs nor frogs with which to tempt the fish—nothing but the minnows, which they despised. What made it worse was the fact that two Kentuckians who were stopping at the house, had purchased a lot of desirable bait from a Frenchman named Jo, and had been meeting with phenomenal success all day.

"Let's make a raid on their worms," suggested the doctor of the party.

"I'll willingly pay them double for their froggies," said the Colonel.

But the Kentuckians retired to their rooms, and nothing more was seen of them that day.

The next evening the Detroit crowd sat on the verandah and groaned over the bad luck they had. They all sat in a heap, tired and disconsolate, looking as solemn as a company of owls. Presently a mist began to spread. It had nearly reached the opaque stage, when, as one man, the entire company sprang to their feet and rushed out to the board path. There every man flopped on his knees and began to grope distractedly. They fell over each other in their haste. The rest of the boarders at the Star Island House rushed to the spot to see what was up. Then the mystery was explained.

The walk was covered with baby frogs! It turned out that the Kentuckians had left, and their bait, nosing the rain in the air, had come out. Every man filled his pockets, his hat, and, eventually, his boots, with the lively batrachians. But that was not all of it.

A staid couple from Detroit were assigned to the Kentuckians' room that night. They knew naught of bait or frogs, but retired to peaceful slumbers early in the evening. Soon after the frog episode the whole house was stirred by piercing shrieks and deep growls from the room of the absent fisherman. The landlord being admitted found the lady had taken refuge on the bureau, where she was huddled up, screaming at the top of her voice, while her husband was laying about him with a stout stick, apparently hooking invisible demons at bay.

"Some d—d bugs in his shirt," he swore. "I've traveled over half the globe, and never saw any thing to compare with them! It's an outrage, sir, an outrage on the public!"

There were about a dozen of the "bugs" scrambling about the room, five of them being discovered in the bed. They were speedily secured, and added to the precious lot which the sportsman had in reserve for the morrow.

HANNIBAL HAMLIN.

The Venerable Ex-President a Favorite Among Rich and Poor.

Ex-Vice-President Hannibal Hamlin, says the Boston Globe, is not a man of wealth. No boodle has ever stuck to his hands. He lives plainly, unostentatiously. On every public occasion on which he appears he is plainly the favorite, if cheers and hearty greetings mean any thing. He is seen in the streets of Bangor on the cold sticdays of winter, with a hammer coat, without the unnecessary adjunct of an overcoat. He walks miles at a stretch with the alacrity of a boy, just for a "constitutional." He is found in the huts of the poor and humble, smoking an old T. D. pipe in company with the head of the household. He knows every body and every body knows him. On the load of the lumberman he is often seen mounted, chatting merrily with the driver, who is so proud of his companionship that he will talk about it for years afterward. He never forgets a face and rarely a name, and generally can tell you more of your family history than you know yourself. His chief recreation is in fishing. He employs the old-fashioned angleworm for bait, and discards all the newfangled appliances for capturing the finny tribe. He is exceedingly gay in the ballroom. At the legislative reunion last winter he participated in every dance down on the order, and then went home in the morning with the prettiest girl on the floor.

Piute Lady's Head-Dress.

The popular head-dress among the Piute ladies of the Comstock this spring is a red bandanna handkerchief, says the Virginia (Nev.) Enterprise. Yesterday nine squaws, big and little, passed along C street, Indian file, and each sported the red top-knot. Only the white woman, who had been overtopped in hats and feathers by a more dashing sister, can appreciate the heart-burning of the poor Piute woman who is obliged to go abroad with her head done up in an old check apron or a fragment of a red woolen shawl.

A Father's Powerful Plea.

At Yeovil, says London Truth, a man was summoned for not sending some of his children to school. He pleaded that he had no fewer than twenty-one of them to provide for, and the magistrates were kind enough to accept the excuse as a valid plea for his breaches of law.

He Felt Just That Way.

A teacher in a public school in Detroit had occasion to reprove a small boy who had been naughty. "Willie," she said, "I am afraid you are not trying to be good this afternoon. I am sorry that one of my little boys should need so much talking to. It makes me feel just like crying." "That's just the way I feel, teacher," sniffled the little fellow.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Accommodation Express.

PETER RICKERT, - - Proprietor
Office—Vanderbeek's Music store, Park avenue. The Accommodation Express will attend to the general carrying business of the city, delivering Goods or Baggage to and from the Depot, or from place to place. Moving of Furniture, Pianos, etc., with care and safety. Prompt attention given to all orders.

CHAS. YAEGER,
Practical Upholsterer
35 WEST FRONT STREET,
OPPOSITE MUSIC HALL.
25 Years Experience in all Branches.
P. O. BOX 185. o20ly

LUTKINS & HUMMER,
DEALERS IN
Butter, Eggs & Produce.
Meats of all Kinds,
FRUITS and VEGETABLES IN THEIR SEASON.
NO. 24 PARK AVENUE, Plainfield, New Jersey.
Goods delivered to any part of the city.
A. LUTKINS. L. A. HUMMER.
31mly

JAMES K. ARNOLD,
GROCER,
Corner Somerset and Chatham Sts., North Plainfield.

CLOSING OUT SALE OF
FURNITURE, etc.
AT GREEN'S WAREROOMS.
Corner of Park avenue and Second st., Plainfield. In order to close up the affairs in my hands, as Receiver, I shall sell the remainder of the stock, at a large discount, for the next thirty days. All goods must be sold.
J. FRANK HUBBARD, Receiver.
Plainfield, May 31, 1887. my27tf

4 DECADES
HAVE COME AND GONE SINCE THE SUFFERERS FROM COLDS, COUGHS, LUNG AND THROAT TROUBLES WERE CURED FIRST BY THE USE OF WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, AND YET IT IS NOT KNOWN. SEE THAT "I. BUTTS" IS ON THE WRAPPER.
WISTAR'S BALSAM WILD CHERRY

TWENTY
Years experience in the business.
SECOND STREET, 2 doors above Peacestreet

MR. JOHN H. STEVENS, Horse-shoer gives particular attention to Shoeing, Forging, Stumbling and Interfering Horses. Speedy Cutters stopped in an incredibly short space of time. Horses with diseased feet treated in a particular manner by experienced workmen.

Fleming & Angleman,
BUTCHERS,
Fresh, Salt and Smoked Meats,
Poultry, Fish, Vegetables, etc.
ORDERS CALLED FOR AND DELIVERED.
No. 24 North avenue.
[Near the Depot.]
S. A. FLEMING. ap6tf J. F. ANGLEMAN.

LIVERY.
RICHARD H. DAY'S
City Livery Stable!
OPPOSITE DEPOT, PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Special attention paid to Boarding Horses by the day, week or month. All kinds of Teaming by day or night at short notice. Telephone Call, No. 13!
my1y1

ALBERT HEDDEN,
Livery and Boarding Stables
FOURTH STREET,
Between Peace street and Park avenue, Plainfield. Pleasure or shopping calls promptly attended to. Careful, gentlemanly drivers. Horses boarded by the week or month. Telephone call No. 114.

Livery Stables!
Mr. D. S. ROBERTS
Has Removed to His New Building on
NORTH AVENUE,
Adjoining Force's Hotel. Mr. Roberts will always be found ready and able to answer demands for all kinds of information at the office, and solicits a continuance of past favors. The boarding and care of horses a specialty. 1aply

A. M. SEGUINE,
(Successor to John W. Laing.)
Laing's Hotel Stables

Front street, opposite Madison avenue.
Coaches for Weddings, Funerals and Private Calls. Light carriages of all descriptions for pleasure.
RIDING OR LIVERY.
Careful, safe drivers for shopping calls or pleasure drives. Special attention given to boarding horses by the day, week or month.—oct18y1
TELEPHONE CALL, NO. 26.

ESTABLISHED 1866.
Westfield Horse Market.

IRVING & CO.,
DEALERS IN
Carriage Teams, Road, Draft, Speed, Saddle and General Business Horses.
All horses guaranteed as represented.
Central avenue,
Near Depot. Westfield, N. J.
BRANCH STABLE, NEWARK, NEW JERSEY, COR. SHERMAN AVENUE AND ASTOR ST.
1y36

MISCELLANEOUS.

JOHN A. THICKSTUN,
DEALER IN
BEST QUALITIES
COAL, WOOD,
AND
BLUE-STONE.
YARD—Cor. 3rd st. and Madison ave.

CASTORIA
for Infants and Children.
"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me." H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.
Castoria cures Colic, Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhœa, Eructation, Kills Worms, gives sleep, and promotes digestion.
Without injurious medication.
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 182 Fulton Street, N. Y.

C. K. COMPTON,
Confectioner and Ice Cream Caterer,
Only the Best of Ice Cream and Ices Furnished for Weddings, Parties, Receptions.
TRY MY CREAM AND HOME-MADE BREAD.
First-class stock. Hot in the afternoon at 5 o'clock. Please remember I manufacture my own Candy and use only the best of sugar and No. 1 flavoring matter and vegetable coloring materials. Goods promptly delivered.
C. K. COMPTON,
26 West Front Street. Near the Opera House.

The Plainfield Electric Light Co.
OFFICE, 35 AND 37 NORTH AVENUE.
Opposite R. R. Station. Mulford's Real Estate Agency.

DOMESTIC LIGHTING BY INCANDESCENCE.

HOUSES CAN BE WIRED WITHOUT DEFACEMENT TO WALLS AND CEILINGS, AND EXISTING GAS FITTING CAN BE USED

DOMESTIC RATES—PER ANNUM:

1st lamp	$8
2d lamp	$7
3d lamp	$6
4th lamp	$5
5th lamp	$4
6th lamp	$3
7th lamp	$2
And all additional Lamps at	$1 per annum each.

ALEX. P. WRIGHT, Manager.

NOW FOR SUMMER!

It has been rather tardy, and recent storms gave little promise of its coming; but "it's got here all the same." It's safe now to divest ourselves now of Winter underwear and don a Summer suit. Nature herself hardly assumes a greater change in color, style and beauty, than do our counters as the seasons make their approach. Summer suits are blooming now in great variety. Look at our $10 Chester Moses Cheviots. Don't judge by the price, that's deceiving; the goods won't deceive you, though. This suit not only can't be beat, it can't be approached in this town. Step to the next table and behold a blue flannel (full indigo) for $12, which for appearance and real lasting service is unequaled by any other fabric at or near the price. One moment! We want you to be sure and see the new blue and black Serge coats and vests at $10. These garments are beauties. No custom tailor would think of making them for less than $18. Sawyer Cassimeres in a dozen different styles to suit as many tastes. In the Children's Stock—Let us see what to mention among so many. Fine suits for the little ones we have at all seasons, but at this time of year nature invites them to romp, an invitation by the way not all necessary—and it don't pay to buy anything very fine for them. Suppose you look at our Princeton Blouse at $2.75, and from that up to $6.50, in Norfolk and all other approved styles of Blouse. Serviceable colors; serviceable goods But time would fail us, or you would, were we to attempt a detailed description of our preparation to serve you this Summer. Let us close with a question. Our assortment is unequaled. Our styles are nearly perfect. Our clothing fits well and wears well, and of our prices it is unnecessary to speak. What more can you want? We don't know. Do you? Come in and tell us and we will supply whatever is lacking, if possible.

McGregor & Co.
850--852 BROAD STREET,
NEWARK, N. J.

P. P. Van Arsdale,
PIANO TUNER.
Instruments put in thorough order. Terms reasonable. Pianos and Organs for sale and to let. Orders by postal, P. O. Box 160 or left at Willett's Shoe Store, No. 6 Park avenue will receive prompt attention. Residence, 21 East Front street, corner Elm street.—jly19tf

A. TITSWORTH,
Merchant Tailor,
Has removed his place of business to
No. 26 North ave.,
(Store formerly occupied by Jeweler McGee).
ALSO OFFICE OF CITY TREASURER.—31ml

MRS. E. J. MARTIN'S
MAGIC RENOVATING FLUID.
For taking out grease from any kind of goods, without changing the color, or leaving a spot. Also, for cleaning kid gloves, crape, lace, satin, ribbons, felt hats, grents' clothing. Raises the nap on velvet; removes grease spots and suits from carpets, &c. Price 25 cents per bottle. Sold at drug stores, at Mrs. E. J. Martin's dress-making rooms, 31 East Front street, and at Mrs. W. L. Force's Fancy Goods Store, No. 6 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J. my21tf

C. E. JOHNSON,
Of late firm of Shepherd, Johnson & Gedown.
CARPENTER AND BUILDER.
Office adjoining City Hotel on Second street, near Park avenue, Plainfield, New Jersey. Residence, 15 East Second street. Jobbing especially. mch21tf

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
SALESROOM—Madison Avenue, near Front St. Plainfield, N. J.
Goods received on consignment.

JOHN CHANDLER,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Residence and Shop No. 36 East 3d St.
Jobbing promptly attended to. ap4y

G. W. FORCE,
11 West Front street.
OPENING OF FALL AND WINTER STOCK
Boots and Shoes at Low Prices
A FINE GRADE OF GOODS TO SELECT FROM.
11 West Front street,
G. W. FORCE.
jan19y

INSURANCE.

ISAAC BROKAW,
Real Estate and Fire Insurance.
12 OUER ST. NORTH PLAINFIELD.
Agent for the following first class companies:
GERMANIA, of New York. HANOVER, of New York, JERSEY CITY, of Jersey City, N. J.
Insurance effected on all kinds of property, furniture and dwellings a specialty, at lowest rates.
MONEY TO LOAN ON FIRST MORTGAGES.
BARGAINS IN REAL ESTATE. HOUSES RENTED AND COLLECTIONS MADE.
PROMPT RETURNS.—f25tf

FIRE INSURANCE!
The undersigned having been appointed agent for the Star and Merchants
Fire Insurance Co's of the City of New York, are prepared to furnish substantial indemnity against loss by Fire and solicit applications from the citizens of Plainfield and vicinity.
NATHAN HARPER
ap

J. C. Pope & Co.,
GENERAL AGENTS OF THE German American Ins. Co.,
of New York.
Also represents other first-class Fire Insurance Companies. Agents of the Inman Steamship Line. Drafts on Ireland for sale. First and City National Bank Stock Bought and Sold. Also,
BUILDING LOTS
And Other Real Estate for sale.
OFFICE:
6 E. FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD
JAMES C. POPE. ELIAS R. POPE.

WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF,
Fire Insurance Agent,
PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.
With years of practice and experience, knowledge of Companies and material facts pertaining to insurance, I confidently ask a continuance of the patronage so generously bestowed in the past.
AUTHORIZED AGENT FOR
Fire Association, of Philadelphia,
Liverpool, London & Globe, England.
Westchester, of New York.
Norwich Union, of England
North British Mercantile, of England.
The Northern, of England
The Queen, of England.
The Merchants, of Newark.
The Washington Life, of New York.
And other equally good companies. Insurance at BEST RATES. Policies written upon all kinds of buildings, merchandise, household furniture, rents, leases and other insurable property. Farm buildings a specialty. MONEY TO LOAN on approved security, and bargains in Real Estate.
WILLIAM A. WOODRUFF.
Office in Berry's building, second floor, corner of Front street and Park avenue. Residence, 41 East Second street.—ly9tf

LEGAL NOTICES.

NOTICE.—The Books of the Overseer of the Poor, containing a list of the applicants for aid, can be seen at the office of that officer, in Stillman Building.
f26tf J. OAKLEY NODINE, O. P.

ASSIGNEE'S SETTLEMENT.—Notice is hereby given, that the account of the subscriber, Assignee of Isaac S. Melbourne, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for settlement to the Orphans' Court of the County of Union, on Wednesday, the thirteenth day of July next.
WILLIAM R. CODINGTON.
Dated April 28th, 1887.—m16w10

EXECUTOR'S SETTLEMENT.—Notice is hereby given that the account of the subscriber surviving Executor of Eliza Pooler, deceased, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for settlement to the Orphans' Court of the County of Union on Wednesday the twenty-ninth day of June next.
AUGUST SALIZMAN.
Dated April 20, 1887.—ap22w10

NOTICE.
All persons indebted to the estate of Lewis B. Bolce are requested to pay the same to the Administratrix, at her residence, on Jackson avenue, North Plainfield, N. J., at which place any bills against the said deceased may be presented.
CARRIE C. BOICE, Administratrix.
May 18, 1887. my20m2

ADMINISTRATOR'S SETTLEMENT. Notice is hereby given, that the account of James S. Vosselier, Administrator, with the will annexed of Thomas Blackwell, deceased, as stated by the subscriber, Administratrix of James S. Vosselier, deceased, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for settlement to the Orphans' Court of the County of Union, on Wednesday the twenty-ninth day of June next.
JANE E. VOSSELLER.
Dated April 16, 1887.—ap22w10

Surrogate's Order to Limit Creditors
Union County Surrogate's Office,
June 7th, 1887.
Annie M. Myers, the Executrix of Joseph M. Myers, deceased.
On application of the above named Executrix it is ordered that said Executrix give public notice to the Creditors of the estate of said decedent to bring in their debts, demands or claims against the same, under oath, within nine months from this date, by setting up a copy of this Order, within twenty days hereafter, in five of the most public places in the county of Union, for two months and also within the said twenty days, by advertising the same in THE CONSTITUTIONALIST for the same space of time; and if any creditor shall neglect to exhibit his or her debt, demand or claim within the said period of nine months, public notice being given as aforesaid, such creditor shall be forever barred of his or her action therefor against the said Executrix. By
JAS. J. GERBER, Surrogate.

Surrogate's Order to Limit Creditors
Union County, Surrogate's Office,
May 23rd, 1887.
Jane E. Vosselier, the Administratrix of James S. Vosselier, deceased.
On application of the above named Administratrix it is ordered that said Administratrix give Public Notice to the Creditors of the estate of said decedent to bring in their debts, demands or claims against the same, under oath; within nine months from this date, by setting up a copy of this Order, within twenty days hereafter, in five of the most public places in the County of Union, for two months, and also within the said twenty days, by advertising the same in THE CONSTITUTIONALIST for the same space of time; and if any creditor shall neglect to exhibit his or her debt, demand or claim, within the said period of nine months, public notice being given as aforesaid, such creditor shall be forever barred of his or her action therefor against the said Administratrix.
m27-10w By JAMES J. GERBER, Surrogate.

MASTER'S SALE.
IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.
Between James E. Ham, complainant, and Kate L. Walker, F. D. Lanier Walker and Josephine R. Walker, defendants; on bill for partition. Decree. By virtue of a decree issued out of the Court of Chancery in the above stated cause, bearing date the tenth day of May, A. D., 1887, I John D. Bartine, a special master of said court, shall expose to sale at public vendue at Laing's Hotel, in the City of Plainfield, in the county of Union and State of New Jersey, on Thursday, the twenty-first day of July next, between the hours of twelve and five o'clock on said day. To wit—at two o'clock in the afternoon, all that certain tract or parcel of land and premises hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the city of Plainfield, in the county of Union, and state of New Jersey. Beginning at a point in the northerly line of Putnam street, eighty one (81) feet western from the northerly corner of Putnam street and Park Place, and corner of other land of said Freeman, thence running in a westerly course along the line of Putnam street eighty-one feet to a stake and corner of Evan Jones' land; thence in a northerly course at right angles to Putnam street one hundred and seventy-five (17) feet to a stake, and making a corner, thence running in an easterly course twelve (12) feet to a stake and making a corner; thence running in a northerly course twenty-five feet to a stake and corner of lot number twelve; thence running in an easterly course along the line of that lot sixty-nine (69) feet; thence running in a southerly course parallel with Park Place two hundred (200) feet to the northerly line of Putnam street and place of beginning together with the lane in front of the same to the middle of Putnam street, to be used as a public road, together with all and singular the hereditaments and appurtenances to the said premises belonging or in anywise appertaining
J. D. BARTINE,
Special Master in Chancery.
Jackson & Codington, Solicitors.
Dated May 16th, 1887. je17w5
Fees, $9

DIME SAVINGS INSTITUTION
Of Plainfield, N. J.
Is now receiving deposits payable on demand, with interest at the rate of three (3) per cent. per annum payable semi-annually. All money deposited on or before July 1st will draw interest from July 1st.
JOHN W. MURRAY, President.
WILLIAM WHITE, Vice "
NATHAN HARPER, " "
ELIAS R. POPE, Treasurer.
M. Stat

MISCELLANEOUS.

John Brown,
(Successor to John Burke.)
Cesspools, Vaults,
Etc., Etc.,
CLEANED!
Plainfield, N. J. Orders left at CARREY BROS., No. 15 Somerset street, or addressed to P. O. Box 718, will receive prompt attention.

A. M. Vanderbeek & Co.,
(Successors to A. Vanderbeek.)
DEALERS IN SPORTING GOODS,
Musical Instruments,
SHEET MUSIC, CUTLERY, ETC.
No. 33 Park avenue, Plainfield, New Jersey.
f26tf

SPECIAL NOTICE.
New Store! New Goods! New Firm!
BARKALEW & DUNN,
Fancy and Staple Grocers,
NO. 18 NORTH AVENUE.
We sell for Cash and will give Special Inducements.
f12tf

STOVES AND RANGES.
Builder's and House Furnishing Hardware.
READY-MIXED AJAX PAINT.
Breech-loading Shot Guns, Revolvers, etc., etc.,
IN VARIETY.
Ammunition and Gunner's Materials
Locks repaired, Keys fitted, Bells hung and Scissors ground a short notice—Ryder building,
J. A. Peebles & Co.,
40 WEST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

A. VANDERBEEK,
(CHAUTAUQUA BUILDING.)
NO. 33 PARK AVENUE, PLAINFIELD, N. J.
HAVING DISPOSED OF THE MUSICAL AND SPORTING

Goods Department I am now prepared to devote my entire time to the sale and renting of
—PIANOS AND ORGANS—
Having many years of experience in the Piano Trade I am prepared to furnish first-class Instruments as reasonable as they can be had in New York city. Pianos tuned. Give me a call before purchasing.

Buckeye Mowers and Reapers,
HAY RAKES. BARB WIRE.
HARDWARE, PLUMBING AND TINNING.
A. M. GRIFFEN,
13 EAST FRONT STREET.
TELEPHONE CALL, 6.

OUR NEW BUILDING!
We are informed by the contractors at work upon the New Building adjoining our present place that immediately after the Fourth of July it will be necessary for them to enter the building we now occupy, in order to connect the two stores by the time specified in their contract. On this account, and in order to give them possession, we deem it necessary to reduce stock as low as possible, and from this date we offer Unparalleled Bargains in Every Department. No matter what the cost, the goods are to be sold. They must go. This is an opportunity seldom offered, and will prove greatly to your advantage if you will call and examine the Bargains we will give you.
STOUTENBURGH & CO.,
NEWARK CLOTHIERS,
803--805 BROAD ST., NEWARK, N. J. my6m2

MISCELLANEOUS.

Best In The World
Call at my store and get a Sample Bottle of KEMP'S BALSAM, for the throat and lungs. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Large size 50c. and $1. R. J. SHAW, Druggist, No. 2 E. Front street.—oct

Alex. Willett,
DEALER IN
BOOTS & SHOES,
No. 6 PARK AVENUE.
A full assortment of desirable goods direct from manufacturers, at LOW FIGURES dec24y1

J. T. ODAM,
PLAIN AND ORNAMENTAL
Slate Roofer and Repairer.
Residence, Corner Fourth and Sycamore Streets. Yard near Freight House. P. O. Box 1305, PLAINFIELD, N. J
New Work warranted for one year. Slating over Shingles. Also, Felt and Gravel Roofing. no12-1f

Steam Marble
AND Granite Works.
Monuments & Headstones,
Fencing for Cemetery Plots.
Large assortment of Slate Mantels.
A large variety of Granite Monuments
All work executed in the most skillful manner and at very reasonable prices. All orders delivered and set up. L. MANNING.
FRONT ST., next to M. E. Ch., PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Monuments erected in Greenwood Cemetery N. Y. jun6y1

GEO. D. MORRISON,
NORTH AVENUE.
Has opened a store for the sale of
FLOUR, FEED, HAY,
Oats, Straw, Bran, Etc.,
And hopes by promptness and fair dealing to merit a share of the public patronage.
SANDERSON'S
XXXX
BEST FLOUR.
FROM MINNESOTA WHEAT. A SPECIALTY. CALL AND SEE WHAT YOU BUY.
Jely1

R. R. FAIRCHILD,
FURNITURE WAREROOMS,
21 East Front street.
Walnut,
Cherry,
Oak and Cottage Chamber Sets,
Dining Room Outfits,
Parlor Furniture,
Lounges and Extension Tables.
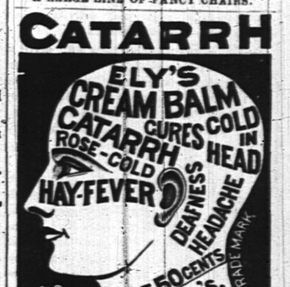
A LARGE LINE OF FANCY CHAIRS.

CATARRH



HAY-FEVER
ELY'S CREAM BALM
*Is not a liquid, snuff or powder. Applied into nostrils is quick

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XX. PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, JULY 8, 1887. NO. 26.

LAWS OF NEW JERSEY.

[BY AUTHORITY.]

CHAPTER XLV.

An act to regulate and license pawnbrokers.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That no person, corporation, member of copartnership or firm shall hereafter carry on the business of pawnbroker in any city of this state without first having obtained from the mayor thereof a license authorizing such person, corporation, member of copartnership or firm to carry on the same, which license shall designate the house in which such business is to be conducted.

2. And be it enacted, That any person, corporation, member of copartnership or firm receiving such license shall pay to the city therefor such sum as shall be fixed by the common council, board of aldermen, or other governing body of the city, not to exceed the sum of one hundred and fifty dollars; every such license shall expire one year from the date of its issuance, and may be renewed upon payment of the license fee and compliance with the other conditions of this act.

3. And be it enacted, That every person or corporation applying for a license under this act, shall, at the time of making the application, file with the clerk of the city a bond to the city by its corporate name, executed by the person or corporation applying for the license and two responsible persons as sureties, in the penal sum of two thousand dollars, conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties and obligations pertaining to the business as licensed and for a faithful compliance with the provisions of this act, which bond shall be approved by the common council, board of aldermen, board of finance, or other body charged by law with the approval of bonds of constables, justices of the peace and city officers, before said license shall be issued, and the mayor shall have full power and authority to suspend or revoke any such license for cause.

4. And be it enacted, That if any person shall be aggrieved by the misconduct of any such licensed pawnbroker, he shall recover a judgment against him therefor, such action may, after the return unsatisfied, either in whole or in part, of any execution issued upon said judgment, maintain an action in his own name against the sureties upon the bond of said pawnbroker in any court having jurisdiction of the amount claimed; provided, such court shall, upon application made for such purpose, have granted leave to prosecute.

5. And be it enacted, That every such licensed pawnbroker shall keep a book in which shall be fairly written, at the time of making a loan, an account and description of the goods, articles or things pledged or pawned, the amount of money loaned thereon, the time of the pledging or pawning of the same, the rate of interest to be paid upon such loan, and the name and residence of the person pledging or pawning the said goods, articles or things; and it shall be the duty of said pawnbroker to enter in the said book of the pawnbroker, and no charge shall be made or compensation received by any pawnbroker for any such entry, memorandum, ticket or token.

6. And be it enacted, That the said books shall at all reasonable times be open to the inspection of the mayor of the city, chief of police, captains of police and police justices of the city, or any person or persons duly authorized, in writing, for that purpose by any or either of them.

7. And be it enacted, That no pawnbroker shall receive by way of pledge or pawn, any goods, articles or things from any minor, unless said minor shall present a written order or consent from the parent or guardian of such minor, which said order or consent, when given from his master, which order or consent shall be kept upon a file by the pawnbroker and a note thereof made in his book, and such order or consent shall be subject to the same inspection as the books of the pawnbroker are.

8. And be it enacted, That no pawnbroker shall receive by way of pledge or pawn any goods, articles or things whatsoever upon the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday.

9. And be it enacted, That no pawnbroker shall ask, demand or receive any greater rate of interest than two per cent. a month or for any time less than a month for a loan, which rate of interest shall be endorsed upon the note, memorandum or ticket prescribed in this act, nor shall any pawnbroker ask, demand or receive any fee or reward for a loan other than the interest allowed by this act, nor make any charge for storage, insurance or protecting any goods, articles or things pawned or pledged.

10. And be it enacted, That no pawnbroker shall sell any pledge or pawn until the same shall have remained one year in his possession, and all such sales shall be at public auction by a licensed auctioneer, and in some public auction room to be held in said city, and shall not be at the place of business of any pawnbroker.

11. And be it enacted, That notice of every such sale shall be published for at least fifty days previous thereto in at least two newspapers printed in said city, or if there are not two daily newspapers printed in said city, then in two daily newspapers published nearest thereto and having the largest circulation therein, which notice shall specify the time and place of sale and a description of the goods, articles or things to be sold, and at such sale there shall not be sold or offered for sale any goods, articles or things whatsoever except such as have been received by the said pawnbroker by way of pawn or pledge at his place of business.

12. And be it enacted, That no pawnbroker shall purchase any goods, articles or things whatsoever offered to him for sale or pledge, except at the public sale thereof.

13. And be it enacted, That any person or persons, corporation or corporations who shall violate any of the provisions of this section of this act, shall forfeit and pay to the city a fine or penalty of one hundred dollars for each and every day of the continuance of said violation, and any person or persons, corporation or corporations who shall violate either or any of the other sections and provisions of this act shall forfeit and pay to the city a fine of fifty dollars.

14. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and are hereby repealed.

Approved March 29, 1887.

CHAPTER XLVI.

A further supplement to an act entitled "An act to encourage the establishment of mutual loan, homestead and building associations" (Revision), approved April ninth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That any association which now is or hereafter may become incorporated under the provisions of the act which this is a further supplement, may issue shares of stock in different series to mature at different periods and in the manner as may be designated in and by the constitution or by-laws of such association or any amendment lawfully made thereto.

2. And be it enacted, That all shares of stock issued by any such association and any such association according to the provisions of its constitution or by-laws, shall be as valid and effectual to all intents and purposes as if the act had been in force prior to the time of such issue of shares.

3. And be it enacted, That whenever the constitution or by-laws of any such association makes no provision for the manner in which the same may be amended, such association may amend its constitution or by-laws at any regular meeting of the association by a vote of two-thirds of its members present at such meeting; provided, that the proposed amendment shall have been submitted in writing to the members at least fifteen days before a vote shall be taken thereon.

4. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with any of the provisions of this act be, and the same are hereby repealed.

5. And be it enacted, That this act shall be deemed a public act and shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 29, 1887.

CHAPTER XLVII.

An amendment to "An act concerning wills," approved April fifteenth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-one.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section twenty-two of the act entitled "An act concerning wills," approved April fifteenth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-six, and being section numbered twenty-two under the title "Wills" in the revision of New Jersey, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

2. And be it enacted, That whenever any estate of any kind shall or may be devised or bequeathed by the testator and last will of any testator or testatrix, to any person being a child or other descendant of such testator or testatrix, or being a brother or sister or any other relation of the blood of such testator or testatrix, and such devisee or legatee shall, during the life of such testator or testatrix die testate or intestate, leaving a child or children, or one or more descendants of a child or children who shall survive such testator or testatrix, in that case such devise or legacy to such person so situated as above mentioned, and dying in the lifetime of the testator or testatrix, shall not lapse, but the estate so devised or bequeathed shall vest in such child or children, descendant or descendants of such legatee or devisee, in the same manner as if such legatee or devisee had survived the testator or testatrix and died intestate; but this provision shall not apply where the testator or testatrix shall by the will or codicil thereto or other instrument, have otherwise directed in regard to the children or descendants of the said devisee or legatee dying as aforesaid.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 29, 1887.

CHAPTER XLVIII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act relating to the consolidation of railroads," approved March seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for all mutual fire insurance companies, organized under the laws of this state, to choose from their board of directors, at the time of their annual election, in the same manner as the president is elected, one vice-president, who shall be authorized and empowered to act in the absence or disability of the president of any such company, to sign policies and perform all other acts which devolve upon the office of president, during the continuance of such disability, and the president of the company shall pay the expenses incurred in carrying out the provisions of the act to which this is a supplement, out of any fund of such city under the control of such common council or other governing body, such other sum appropriated by law.

2. And be it enacted, That if in any case specific liens either for taxes, assessments, or water rates have been imposed or assessed upon any entire lot or tract and other liens upon the several parts or parcels of such lot or tract, the commissioner of adjustment appointed under the provisions of the act to which this act is a supplement, shall equitably divide and apportion the assessment made by them or any three of them upon the holding of each of the several parts or subdivisions of such lot or tract, to the end that each part or subdivision of such lot or tract may bear its just proportion of such specific lien or liens, and in making such division and apportionment he shall consist of several parts or branches which do connect, it shall be lawful to lay out, alter or vacate such several parts or pieces, or branches, one and the same set of papers or proceedings.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 29, 1887.

CHAPTER XLIX.

An act to extend the time for completing certain railroads incorporated under an act entitled "An act to authorize the formation of railroad corporations and regulate the same," approved April second, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever the time limited for the completion of any railroad authorized to be constructed under the act referred to in the title of this act shall expire during the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, such time shall be and the same is hereby extended for a further period of two years; provided, however, that this act shall not apply unless the company has actually been expended in surveys or location of route, or in acquisition of right of way, or in construction, and provided, further, that this act shall not apply to any corporation unless such corporation shall, first, and as a condition precedent to the exercise of any power granted by this act, file in the office of the secretary of state an agreement, to be approved by the governor and attorney-general, waiving all rights of exemption from taxation and from privileges and advantages arising from any law or contract if any there be establishing any special mode of taxation of any such corporation, and the faithful agreement to be bound by any general law of this state now in existence, or that may hereafter be passed, taxing such corporations as are now authorized to be taxed by the legislature of the state under their general laws, and further agreeing that the exercise of any power granted by this act shall not, in any way, affect the rights of the state (if any there exist) to take the property of such corporation under the right of eminent domain, and agreeing further that all laws affecting such corporations shall be subject to alteration or repeal by the legislature.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall be deemed a public act, and shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 29, 1887.

CHAPTER L.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act concerning the settlement and collection of arrearages of unpaid taxes, assessments and water-rates or water-rents in cities of this state, for imposing and levying a tax assessment and lien in such cities of such arrearages, and to enforce the payment thereof, and to provide for the sale of lands subjected to further taxation and assessment," passed March thirtieth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the common council or other governing body of any city of this State may pay the expenses incurred in carrying out the provisions of the act to which this is a supplement, out of any fund of such city under the control of such common council or other governing body, such other sum appropriated by law.

2. And be it enacted, That if in any case specific liens either for taxes, assessments, or water rates have been imposed or assessed upon an entire lot or tract and other liens upon the several parts or parcels of such lot or tract, the commissioner of adjustment appointed under the provisions of the act to which this act is a supplement, shall equitably divide and apportion the assessment made by them or any three of them upon the holding of each of the several parts or subdivisions of such lot or tract, to the end that each part or subdivision of such lot or tract may bear its just proportion of such specific lien or liens, and in making such division and apportionment he shall consist of several parts or branches which do connect, it shall be lawful to lay out, alter or vacate such several parts or pieces, or branches, one and the same set of papers or proceedings.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 29, 1887.

CHAPTER LI.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act to regulate the issuing of bonds by municipal corporations," approved March twenty-sixth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section one of an act entitled "An act to regulate the issuing of bonds by municipal corporations," approved March twenty-sixth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six, be and the same is hereby amended so that it shall be and shall read as follows:

2. And be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall not be lawful for any municipal corporation in this state to issue any bonds whereby the indebtedness of any such municipal corporation shall be increased so long as any such municipal corporation shall remain in default in the payment of any past due bonds or the interest thereon, or shall remain in arrears for six months in the payment of any taxes, assessments or water rents due and delinquent; provided, that this act shall not be construed to prohibit or interfere with the issue of bonds or other obligations in anticipation of taxes; provided, also, that nothing in this act shall prevent the issuing of bonds of any municipal corporation for the introduction of water and the laying of water-pipes, to be come tax when so laid with water-mains owned by municipal corporations or water companies.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act take effect immediately.

Approved March 29, 1887.

CHAPTER LII.

An act to prevent the transportation of dynamite and other explosives on the ponds and lakes of this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall not be lawful after the passage of this act to transport or carry in any boat or boats in or upon any of the ponds or lakes of this state, those lying partly in this state, any dynamite, lithofracteur, nobelin, forcite, giant powder, nitro-glycerine, or any powder or explosive of which nitro-glycerine is an essential ingredient or forms a component part, in greater quantity than fifty pounds; and any person or persons or corporation offending against the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars; provided, however, that nothing in this act shall apply to the carrying or transporting of any of the explosives above mentioned on any lake or pond near which the same is intended to be used for excavating or blasting purposes on or near the shores of any pond or lake in this state, or those lying partly within the borders of this state.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall be a public act and shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 29, 1887.

CHAPTER LIV.

A further supplement to an act entitled "An act to regulate elections (revision), approved April eighteenth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section forty-two of the act entitled "An act concerning elections," approved April eighteenth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

2. And be it enacted, That whenever any person shall be elected or appointed to any office in any city, township, borough or other municipality in this state, that the charter or municipal election of such city, township, borough or other municipality fails and shall not be held upon the day now fixed for the holding of the general election for members of the general assembly, or the election for members of the board of chosen freeholders, that in every such case the clerks of election and each member of the boards of election in such city, township, borough or other municipality shall be entitled to demand and receive for their services the sum of four dollars per day and no more for an h day's service, one-half of which shall be paid by the city, township, borough or other municipality wherein said election shall have taken place, and the other half by to be paid by the county in which said election shall have taken place.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 29, 1887.

CHAPTER LV.

A further supplement to an act entitled "An act for the punishment of crimes," approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the performance of any act exempted from punishment under and by virtue or by the operation and effect of chapter one hundred and forty-seven of the public laws of this state of the session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty, entitled "Supplement to an act entitled 'An act for the punishment of crimes'" (revision), approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four, shall render all persons performing such acts amenable and subject to all the provisions of the act entitled "An act to prevent gaming," approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four, so far and to the extent only that the acts of such person shall be deemed unlawful in any civil suit but not in any other proceeding or for any other purpose whatever.

2. And be it enacted, That all laws and parts of laws, both statutory and common, inconsistent with this statute, are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Passed March 30, 1887.

CHAPTER LVI.

A supplement to an act entitled "An act to regulate elections," approved April eighteenth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That hereafter when proceedings are taken for the laying out, altering or vacating of any public or private road, that the road shall consist of several parts or pieces which, although not directly connecting one with another, shall yet have the same general direction, or a general bearing, or relation to each other, and where such road shall consist of several parts or branches which do connect, it shall be lawful to lay out, alter or vacate such several parts or pieces, or branches, one and the same set of papers or proceedings.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 30, 1887

CHAPTER LX.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act respecting the court of chancery" (Revision), approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That from and after the passage of this act, the stenographer employed to report the proceedings in cases before any advisory master shall be paid for his services the same, and no more, as the respective stenographers employed in the circuit courts of this state, and that the sum due to such stenographer shall be paid on the certificate of the advisory master approved by the chancellor, by the state treasurer, out of the fees received by him from the court of chancery.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 30, 1887.

CHAPTER LXI.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act concerning bridges and turnpikes," approved March twelfth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever any turnpike or other public road, or any part thereof, shall have been purchased or acquired for public use, the same, or the part thereof so used, shall bring in the sum fixed from time to time as hereinafter directed, by the governor; each of the appointed members shall hold office for the term of seven years, and their successors shall be appointed in the same manner as the term of office of not more than one member shall expire in any one year; if the office of any appointed member shall become vacant before the expiration of the term for which the member was appointed, the same shall be filled by the governor for the unexpired term only; provided, however, that whereas a state board of health has heretofore been created in this state and is now in fact constituted and organized in the manner hereinbefore prescribed, the members of said board hereinbefore created shall constitute and shall hereafter be deemed and taken to be "The board of health of the State of New Jersey," established by this act, and all the powers, duties and obligations of said board hereinbefore created shall hereafter be exercised and performed by "The board of health of the State of New Jersey," established by this act, and the members of said board hereinbefore created shall respectively continue to hold office as members of the board established under this act until the expiration of the terms for which they were severally appointed, and that the secretary and all other officers of said board hereinbefore created, shall continue to hold their respective offices under this act for the terms for which they were originally appointed or elected.

2. And be it enacted, That the said state board shall take cognizance of all matters affecting health and life among the citizens of this state, shall make sanitary investigations and inquiries in respect to the causes of diseases and especially of epidemics and the sources of mortality, and the effects of localities, employments, conditions and circumstances on the public health; they shall also make investigations, and inquiries into the sanitary condition of any state, county, city or township almshouse, asylum, prison, penitentiary, jail, reform school, workhouse or other public building, and of tenements, manufactories and workshops; the said state board shall also constitute a state board of vital statistics who shall, as such board, cause to be made such registration and such index and such transcription of the vital statistics with the certificates of marriages, births and deaths now by law returned to the secretary of state, as may be useful to the said board or the officers thereof in preparing for diffusion among the people of the state such facts as may bear upon public health; the said board shall fix and determine the amounts to be paid for the classification, index and transcription above required, which amounts shall not exceed the sum of four cents for each certificate returned to the secretary of state, and shall be paid out of the annual appropriations made to said state board as hereinafter provided.

3. And be it enacted, That the said board shall appoint a president who shall call meetings as often as once in three months and also whenever in his judgment it shall be necessary, or whenever requested so to do by three members of the board; they shall also elect a secretary to serve for a term of five years, who shall be a physician of at least five years' practice in this state, who shall also be conversant with matters of vital statistics, and who shall superintend the performance of the duties prescribed by law in relation to the state board of health and the classification, index and transcription of vital facts which are required to be made the compensation of the said secretary shall be the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars per annum for the services required of him under the provisions of this act as such secretary and shall be paid quarterly, which sum the treasurer of this state is authorized to pay from any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated upon a warrant drawn by the said state board of health, signed by its president and attested by its secretary; the said state board of health shall also in the month of December of each year make a report to the governor of their investigations and inquiries for the year, with such communications and suggestions concerning the public health as they may deem proper.

4. And be it enacted, That the state board of health shall have a right to cause a sanitary inspection to be made of all chattels and personalty in transportation through the state, and of the cars, boats and other vehicles in which such chattels or persons may be transported, and the said board shall have the same rights of inspection, procedure and control in such respect as are or may be conferred by law upon the local board of health or local authorities in any township or city, or other local municipal government in this state, and subject to the like penalties.

5. And be it enacted, That the said state board may appoint inspectors and assign them to such duties as the interest of the public health in any part of the state may require, and to aid in the execution of the laws relating thereto; and they may require the said inspectors to investigate the local epidemics, nuisances, needs of drainage, neglect of sanitary laws, the condition of schools, houses, tenements, manufactories and workshops, of public buildings belonging to the state, or to any county or city therein, and of the persons confined or employed therein; and the said board, its agents and appointees shall have the same right of inspection in regard to all matters affecting the public health as has been or may be conferred upon local boards of health; the inspectors appointed by the state board of health shall be paid by the board out of the moneys appropriated therefor such sums as may be fixed and determined by the board.

6. And be it enacted, That every physician in this state making official reports to the state board of health through the bureau of vital statistics shall be entitled to receive by mail, from the treasurer of the state, a copy of the annual report of the state board of health and of the bureau of vital statistics.

7. And be it enacted, That the annual appropriation of the state board of health, for the purpose of making sanitary investigations and inquiries in respect to the people, and of publishing sanitary information, shall not exceed four dollars per day, to be fixed by a majority of said judges at the date of such approval; provided, that said per diem allowance and compensation shall be paid only for the time that the said judges are actually employed, which time shall be certified to the county collector by the said prosecutor.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 31, 1887.

CHAPTER LXVI.

An act in relation to the serving of all process issuing out of the courts having the power to try violations of ordinances in any city of this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cases where it is necessary for the courts in any city of this state, the chief of police and the officers of the police force in any such city, shall be and they are hereby authorized to serve all process issuing out of said courts, and the chief of police and the police officers have been or shall be appointed by the common council or other governing body of such city, or by a board of police commissioners.

2. And be it enacted, That for any and all violations of ordinances in any city, the chief of police and members of the police force therein shall be authorized to serve process against defendant, whether such defendant resides in such city or in any place in the county in which such city is located.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts, whether special or general, inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 31, 1887.

CHAPTER LXVII.

An act to fix the salaries of certain officers of the senate and general assembly during the regular legislative session of the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That hereafter when proceedings are taken for the laying out, altering or vacating of any public or private road, that the road shall consist of several parts or pieces which, although not directly connecting one with another, shall yet have the same general direction, or a general bearing, or relation to each other, and where such road shall consist of several parts or branches which do connect, it shall be lawful to lay out, alter or vacate such several parts or pieces, or branches, one and the same set of papers or proceedings.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 31, 1887.

CHAPTER LXV.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act regulating proceedings in criminal cases" (Revision), approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the following officers of the house of assembly for services rendered during the regular legislative session of the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, a compensation, that is to say: the sergeant-at-arms shall be allowed by law, as follows: to each of the two assistant sergeant-at-arms five hundred dollars, and to each doorkeeper appointed by the sergeant-at-arms of the said general assembly three hundred and fifty dollars, and the two assistant gallery keepers three hundred and fifty dollars; to the document clerk four hundred dollars; to the bill clerk four hundred dollars, and to the assistant bill clerk three hundred dollars; and to the assistant journal clerk five hundred dollars; and to the assistant in the clerk's office on the journal three hundred and fifty dollars; and in no case shall any sum greater than those herein allowed or paid to any of said officers.

2. And be it enacted, That there shall be allowed and paid to the assistant journal clerk of the senate the sum of four hundred dollars; and to the bill clerk of the senate four hundred dollars.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect immediately.

Passed March 31, 1887.

CHAPTER LXVIII.

An act to establish in this state, boards of health and a bureau of vital statistics and to define their respective powers and duties.

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH AND BUREAU OF VITAL STATISTICS.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That there shall be in this state a state board of health to be known as "The board of health of the State of New Jersey," which shall be composed of the secretary of state, the attorney general, the president of the state biological society, members, and seven persons to be appointed from time to time as hereinafter directed, by the governor; each of the appointed members shall hold office for the term of seven years, and their successors shall be appointed in the same manner as the term of office of not more than one member shall expire in any one year; if the office of any appointed member shall become vacant before the expiration of the term for which the member was appointed, the same shall be filled by the governor for the unexpired term only; provided, however, that whereas a state board of health has heretofore been created in this state and is now in fact constituted and organized in the manner hereinbefore prescribed, the members of said board hereinbefore created shall constitute and shall hereafter be deemed and taken to be "The board of health of the State of New Jersey," established by this act, and all the powers, duties and obligations of said board hereinbefore created shall hereafter be exercised and performed by "The board of health of the State of New Jersey," established by this act, and the members of said board hereinbefore created shall respectively continue to hold office as members of the board established under this act until the expiration of the terms for which they were severally appointed, and that the secretary and all other officers of said board hereinbefore created, shall continue to hold their respective offices under this act for the terms for which they were originally appointed or elected.

2. And be it enacted, That the said state board shall take cognizance of all matters affecting health and life among the citizens of this state, shall make sanitary investigations and inquiries in respect to the people, the causes of diseases and especially of epidemics and the sources of mortality, and the effects of localities, employments, conditions and circumstances on the public health; they shall also make investigations, and inquiries into the sanitary condition of any state, county, city or township almshouse, asylum, prison, penitentiary, jail, reform school, workhouse or other public building, and of tenements, manufactories and workshops; the said state board shall also constitute a state board of vital statistics who shall, as such board, cause to be made such registration and such index and such transcription of the vital statistics with the certificates of marriages, births and deaths now by law returned to the secretary of state, as may be useful to the said board or the officers thereof in preparing for diffusion among the people of the state such facts as may bear upon public health; the said board shall fix and determine the amounts to be paid for the classification, index and transcription above required, which amounts shall not exceed the sum of four cents for each certificate returned to the secretary of state, and shall be paid out of the annual appropriations made to said state board as hereinafter provided.

3. And be it enacted, That the said board shall appoint a president who shall call meetings as often as once in three months and also whenever in his judgment it shall be necessary, or whenever requested so to do by three members of the board; they shall also elect a secretary to serve for a term of five years, who shall be a physician of at least five years' practice in this state, who shall also be conversant with matters of vital statistics, and who shall superintend the performance of the duties prescribed by law in relation to the state board of health and the classification, index and transcription of vital facts which are required to be made; the compensation of the said secretary shall be the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars per annum for the services required of him under the provisions of this act as such secretary and shall be paid quarterly, which sum the treasurer of this state is authorized to pay from any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated upon a warrant drawn by the said state board of health, signed by its president and attested by its secretary; the said state board of health shall also in the month of December of each year make a report to the governor of their investigations and inquiries for the year, with such communications and suggestions concerning the public health as they may deem proper.

4. And be it enacted, That the state board of health shall have a right to cause a sanitary inspection to be made of all chattels and personalty in transportation through the state, and of the cars, boats and other vehicles in which such chattels or persons may be transported, and the said board shall have the same rights of inspection, procedure and control in such respect as are or may be conferred by law upon the local board of health or local authorities in any township or city, or other local municipal government in this state, and subject to the like penalties.

5. And be it enacted, That the said state board may appoint inspectors and assign them to such duties as the interest of the public health in any part of the state may require, and to aid in the execution of the laws relating thereto; and they may require the said inspectors to investigate the local epidemics, nuisances, needs of drainage, neglect of sanitary laws, the condition of schools, houses, tenements, manufactories and workshops, of public buildings belonging to the state, or to any county or city therein, and of the persons confined or employed therein; and the said board, its agents and appointees shall have the same right of inspection in regard to all matters affecting the public health as has been or may be conferred upon local boards of health; the inspectors appointed by the state board of health shall be paid by the board out of the moneys appropriated therefor such sums as may be fixed and determined by the board.

6. And be it enacted, That every physician in this state making official reports to the state board of health through the bureau of vital statistics shall be entitled to receive by mail, from the treasurer of the state, a copy of the annual report of the state board of health and of the bureau of vital statistics.

7. And be it enacted, That the annual appropriation of the state board of health, for the purpose of making sanitary investigations and inquiries in respect to the people, and of publishing sanitary information, shall not exceed four dollars per day, to be fixed by a majority of said judges at the date of such approval; provided, that said per diem allowance and compensation shall be paid only for the time that the said judges are actually employed, which time shall be certified to the county collector by the said prosecutor.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 31, 1887.

CHAPTER LXVI.

An act in relation to the serving of all process issuing out of the courts having the power to try violations of ordinances in any city of this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cases where it is necessary for the courts in any city of this state, the chief of police and the officers of the police force in any such city, shall be and they are hereby authorized to serve all process issuing out of said courts, and the chief of police and the police officers have been or shall be appointed by the common council or other governing body of such city, or by a board of police commissioners.

2. And be it enacted, That for any and all violations of ordinances in any city, the chief of police and members of the police force therein shall be authorized to serve process against defendant, whether such defendant resides in such city or in any place in the county in which such city is located.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts, whether special or general, inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 31, 1887.

CHAPTER LXVII.

An act to fix the salaries of certain officers of the senate and general assembly during the regular legislative session of the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the following officers of the house of assembly for services rendered during the regular legislative session of the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, a compensation, that is to say: the sergeant-at-arms shall be allowed by law, as follows: to each of the two assistant sergeant-at-arms five hundred dollars, and to each doorkeeper appointed by the sergeant-at-arms of the said general assembly three hundred and fifty dollars, and the two assistant gallery keepers three hundred and fifty dollars; to the document clerk four hundred dollars; to the bill clerk four hundred dollars, and to the assistant bill clerk three hundred dollars; and to the assistant journal clerk five hundred dollars; and to the assistant in the clerk's office on the journal three hundred and fifty dollars; and in no case shall any sum greater than those herein allowed or paid to any of said officers.

2. And be it enacted, That there shall be allowed and paid to the assistant journal clerk of the senate the sum of four hundred dollars; and to the bill clerk of the senate four hundred dollars.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect immediately.

Passed March 31, 1887.

CHAPTER LXVIII.

An act to establish in this state, boards of health and a bureau of vital statistics and to define their respective powers and duties.

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH AND BUREAU OF VITAL STATISTICS.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That there shall be in this state a state board of health to be known as "The board of health of the State of New Jersey," which shall be composed of the secretary of state, the attorney general, the president of the state biological society, members, and seven persons to be appointed from time to time as hereinafter directed, by the governor; each of the appointed members shall hold office for the term of seven years, and their successors shall be appointed in the same manner as the term of office of not more than one member shall expire in any one year; if the office of any appointed member shall become vacant before the expiration of the term for which the member was appointed, the same shall be filled by the governor for the unexpired term only; provided, however, that whereas a state board of health has heretofore been created in this state and is now in fact constituted and organized in the manner hereinbefore prescribed, the members of said board hereinbefore created shall constitute and shall hereafter be deemed and taken to be "The board of health of the State of New Jersey," established by this act, and all the powers, duties and obligations of said board hereinbefore created shall hereafter be exercised and performed by "The board of health of the State of New Jersey," established by this act, and the members of said board hereinbefore created shall respectively continue to hold office as members of the board established under this act until the expiration of the terms for which they were severally appointed, and that the secretary and all other officers of said board hereinbefore created, shall continue to hold their respective offices under this act for the terms for which they were originally appointed or elected.

2. And be it enacted, That the said state board shall take cognizance of all matters affecting health and life among the citizens of this state, shall make sanitary investigations and inquiries in respect to the people, the causes of diseases and especially of epidemics and the sources of mortality, and the effects of localities, employments, conditions and circumstances on the public health; they shall also make investigations, and inquiries into the sanitary condition of any state, county, city or township almshouse, asylum, prison, penitentiary, jail, reform school, workhouse or other public building, and of tenements, manufactories and workshops; the said state board shall also constitute a state board of vital statistics who shall, as such board, cause to be made such registration and such index and such transcription of the vital statistics with the certificates of marriages, births and deaths now by law returned to the secretary of state, as may be useful to the said board or the officers thereof in preparing for diffusion among the people of the state such facts as may bear upon public health; the said board shall fix and determine the amounts to be paid for the classification, index and transcription above required, which amounts shall not exceed the sum of four cents for each certificate returned to the secretary of state, and shall be paid out of the annual appropriations made to said state board as hereinafter provided.

3. And be it enacted, That the said board shall appoint a president who shall call meetings as often as once in three months and also whenever in his judgment it shall be necessary, or whenever requested so to do by three members of the board; they shall also elect a secretary to serve for a term of five years, who shall be a physician of at least five years' practice in this state, who shall also be conversant with matters of vital statistics, and who shall superintend the performance of the duties prescribed by law in relation to the state board of health and the classification, index and transcription of vital facts which are required to be made; the compensation of the said secretary shall be the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars per annum for the services required of him under the provisions of this act as such secretary and shall be paid quarterly, which sum the treasurer of this state is authorized to pay from any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated upon a warrant drawn by the said state board of health, signed by its president and attested by its secretary; the said state board of health shall also in the month of December of each year make a report to the governor of their investigations and inquiries for the year, with such communications and suggestions concerning the public health as they may deem proper.

4. And be it enacted, That the state board of health shall have a right to cause a sanitary inspection to be made of all chattels and personalty in transportation through the state, and of the cars, boats and other vehicles in which such chattels or persons may be transported, and the said board shall have the same rights of inspection, procedure and control in such respect as are or may be conferred by law upon the local board of health or local authorities in any township or city, or other local municipal government in this state, and subject to the like penalties.

5. And be it enacted, That the said state board may appoint inspectors and assign them to such duties as the interest of the public health in any part of the state may require, and to aid in the execution of the laws relating thereto; and they may require the said inspectors to investigate the local epidemics, nuisances, needs of drainage, neglect of sanitary laws, the condition of schools, houses, tenements, manufactories and workshops, of public buildings belonging to the state, or to any county or city therein, and of the persons confined or employed therein; and the said board, its agents and appointees shall have the same right of inspection in regard to all matters affecting the public health as has been or may be conferred upon local boards of health; the inspectors appointed by the state board of health shall be paid by the board out of the moneys appropriated therefor such sums as may be fixed and determined by the board.

6. And be it enacted, That every physician in this state making official reports to the state board of health through the bureau of vital statistics shall be entitled to receive by mail, from the treasurer of the state, a copy of the annual report of the state board of health and of the bureau of vital statistics.

7. And be it enacted, That the annual appropriation of the state board of health, for the purpose of making sanitary investigations and inquiries in respect to the people, and of publishing sanitary information, shall not exceed four dollars per day, to be fixed by a majority of said judges at the date of such approval; provided, that said per diem allowance and compensation shall be paid only for the time that the said judges are actually employed, which time shall be certified to the county collector by the said prosecutor.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 31, 1887.

CHAPTER LXVI.

An act in relation to the serving of all process issuing out of the courts having the power to try violations of ordinances in any city of this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cases where it is necessary for the courts in any city of this state, the chief of police and the officers of the police force in any such city, shall be and they are hereby authorized to serve all process issuing out of said courts, and the chief of police and the police officers have been or shall be appointed by the common council or other governing body of such city, or by a board of police commissioners.

2. And be it enacted, That for any and all violations of ordinances in any city, the chief of police and members of the police force therein shall be authorized to serve process against defendant, whether such defendant resides in such city or in any place in the county in which such city is located.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts, whether special or general, inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 31, 1887.

CHAPTER LXVII.

An act to fix the salaries of certain officers of the senate and general assembly during the regular legislative session of the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the following officers of the house of assembly for services rendered during the regular legislative session of the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, a compensation, that is to say: the sergeant-at-arms shall be allowed by law, as follows: to each of the two assistant sergeant-at-arms five hundred dollars, and to each doorkeeper appointed by the sergeant-at-arms of the said general assembly three hundred and fifty dollars, and the two assistant gallery keepers three hundred and fifty dollars; to the document clerk four hundred dollars; to the bill clerk four hundred dollars, and to the assistant bill clerk three hundred dollars; and to the assistant journal clerk five hundred dollars; and to the assistant in the clerk's office on the journal three hundred and fif

The Charleston News and Courier urges that the South should manufacture every pound of cotton grown on its fields, and thus derive the whole profit from its principal agricultural product.

The growth of water works in this country in the last five years is something phenomenal. Up to the year 1880 the total number of water works in cities and towns in the United States was 336; from that time to the end of 1886 there were 623 new works built and put in operation, being 67 in excess of all built previously, and they are being built this year faster than ever.

A prominent Ontario farmer claims that he has not made any money in four years. The American cattle ranches prevent him from making a profit off of stock, and the wheat region of Manitoba can undersell him. There is a small margin on horses, barley, cheese and butter. But the Ontario farmers are having a hard time of it and the Toronto Mail recommends them to combine and make an impression upon the lawmakers who seem bent upon fostering railroads and great corporations just at present.

Captain E. P. Herendeen, after a sojourn of four years in the Arctic, is about to send a valuable collection of Alaskan curios to the Smithsonian Institution. He went North in 1881 with the polar expedition under Lieutenant Ray, and after leaving that party spent two years with the Newakmuzee, a little known tribe, allied to the Esquimaux, living near Point Barrow. From them he obtained a number of beautiful suits of deer skin, trimmed with wolverine fur, and a great variety of household utensils and ornaments, beautifully carved, from the tusks of mastadons that abound in the Alaskan fields.

There is in Lucas county, Ohio, a Bible which was preserved by being in a loaf of bread. It now belongs to a Mr. Schebolt, who is a native of Bohemia, having been left to him be his grandmother. During the persecution of the Bible readers in that country, all Bibles were ordered to be delivered up and burnt. Those who wished to preserve their Bibles contrived many different plans in order to save them. When the authorities came to the house of Mrs. Schebolt it happened to be baking day; when she heard them coming, she placed the Bible, carefully wrapped in a batch of dough, and stowed it away in the oven to be baked. When the search was over and the danger past, the book was taken out of the loaf and found to be uninjured.

A movement has taken definite shape in Holland looking to the substitution of the "Continental Sunday" with a slightly better observance of the Sabbath. The measures proposed allow no work that is open to public view; no sales of any sort except eatables; no places of amusement to be open before eight o'clock p. m.; no intoxicating drinks to be sold next churches while worship is being conducted in them, nor anywhere before noon. The government declares that it is impossible to forbid all work on Sunday, or to close all places of amusement. While movements like this are going on in every country where the "Continental Sunday" has been tried, certain foolish persons in this country seek to transplant the evil here.

A writer of progressive ideas has enumerated the following as among the various desired inventions at the present time: Macaroni machinery, separators for mica and granite, good red lead pencils, comb grailing machinery, portable power transmitting dynamometer preferably for belts, type writers which will work on account books and record books, indelible stamp-stencilling ink, a practical car starter, a good railway car ventilator, better horseshoes, radical car axles, independent car wheels, locomotive headlight, anemometer or instrument for measuring the velocity of wind currents, apparatus for measuring the depth of the sea without sounding by line, piano lid hinge which shall be "flush" on the outside, good fluid India ink for draughtsmen, reciprocation counter for locomotives, solder for aluminum, another good method of working iridium, substitute for coal-tar pitch in making artificial fuel from anthracite coal dust and culm, good metallic railway tie, good independent cut-off for locomotives, flexible book back, method of alloying copper and iron, Letter facing compositions for iron founding, etc.

Among the improvements at Mt. Vernon made during the past year are the restoration of the summer house by the ladies of Louisiana; restoration of the old tomb by the ladies of Michigan; a great improvement in the surface drainage of the roads through the use of terra cotta piping, making them always dry; and the rebuilding of the terrace wall in front of the mansion. This last has been a laborious and costly work. The sons of the late Mrs. Robert Campbell, vice regent for Missouri, have offered to restore the deer park as it was in the time of Washington, in honor of their mother's memory. A number of new relics have been added to the collection, especially in the West Virginia room, which is in charge of Mrs. Lewis Washington, mother of William D. H. Washington, United States consul to London, Ont. Among these is an eye-glass set in silver which was used by Washington, and a fragment of the original coffin in which Washington was buried. In a glass case in this room there is a black velvet suit of clothes which Washington wore when in mourning for his mother. Mrs. Washington will also send some engravings which once belonged to Washington. The Illinois parlor has been handsomely furnished, thanks to the energy and influence of Mrs. Leiter. The dining room, which belongs to Massachusetts, contains the library, which is being re-collected through the efficient aid given by Miss Longfellow, of Cambridge, Mass.

MINNIE HAUK, according to the New Orleans Times-Democrat, "was born and educated in New Orleans, and received her first lesson in singing gratis from a well-known music-teacher here—Prof. Curto. Performances for her benefit were given to enable her to complete her training in Europe. She was never in New York until after her reputation was established. Minnie is now very rich and Prof. Curto poor. There is not much gratitude in this world."

Of the three famous octogenarians, Simon Cameron, George Bancroft, and W. W. Corcoran, Mr. Cameron is said to be the most active in mind and the frskiest in spirit.

The Dear Old Songs of Home.

O wheel sublime of tireless time,
Turn backward in your flight,
Ring out the chime in fairy rhyme
Of boyhood's music bright!
Like bells of joy outringing,
These memories old are clinging.
Now faint, now near again I hear
In accents clear where'er I roam,
My mother sweetly singing,
Singing, sweetly singing,
The dear old songs of home.

Make me a boy, with boyhood's joy,
As in the days of old.
When ruddy blaze before our gaze
Went up in sparks of gold.
I see the bottle swinging,
The shadows round it clinging.
Till once again in swoe: refrain,
On land or main, where'er I roam
I hear my mother singing,
Singing, sweetly singing,
The dear old songs of home.

At set of sun, when day was done,
Like silver chiming bells,
Rose on the air, with evening prayer,
The song we loved so well.
Still in my ear they're ringing,
And memories old are bringing,
Like gentle shower, of boyhood's hour,
With subtle power, where'er I roam,
Of mother sweetly singing,
Singing, sweetly singing,
The dear old songs of home.

No time can blot this fragrant spot,
This chime of silver bells,
But oft my heart with sudden start
The secret surely tells,
Then 'mid the glad bells ringing,
With holy thoughts upspringing,
Now faint, then clear, again I hear
In accents dear, where'er I roam,
My mother sweetly singing,
Singing, sweetly singing,
The dear old songs of home.

—[Fred E. Woods in Current.

BETWEEN TWO STOOLS.

Up at the hall there was a general commotion. Mr. Westley, the owner of Westley Grange, had come pretty nearly to the end of his tether. He had but lately succeeded to the estate, and it had come to him very heavily encumbered; and now, with reduced rents, irregularly paid, he found it impossible to go on. He had, therefore, determine to spend a couple of years on the continent, during which time he hoped that the agricultural depression would pass away.

The establishment at the hall was not a large one by any means for a country bachelor squire, but it was larger than he could afford to keep up under existing circumstances. So one evening he called his servants together and told them how matters were with him, bidding them seek other situations at once.

His personal servant, Ben Biggins, was not included in the general dismissal, but was destined to accompany his master abroad. Ben was one of those men not unfrequently met with in this country—a man who could turn his hand to most things, though he might be no good at any. The position he held at Westley Grange was a cross between a valet and a gamekeeper, but at odd times he had been known to cook his master's dinner and make his master's bed. This was during a grousing expedition on the Welsh hills, but the rumor of it had traveled to Westley. Ben was in high spirits when he was told of the journey in store for him.

"I'll teach these foreigners a thing or two," he said to the cook one night; to which she replied: "You be very careful, Mr. Ben, that they don't teach you more than you teach them."

"Them!" he cried; "them teach me. Why, I could wallop the lot of 'em, if I wanted to."

"Then you mind you don't want to," she answered.

"Why, you knows very well," continued Ben, "that I set your watch a-going after James, the watchmaker, had it a month, and couldn't make nothing of it; and I stopped the blue bedroom chimbly smoking, when the smoke had nearly druv you all out of the place."

"Rubbish!" she said. "The watch only wanted winding; and as for the chimbly, it smoked because there was a bag of straw in it. You needn't crow over them things, young man."

Yes, there was a little ill-feeling on the part of the cook toward Ben. She had claimed him for her own originally, but Ben had fought shy; and latterly he had been paying a good deal of attention to Anna, the housemaid at the rectory. Either fault alone, on Ben's part, would have made the cook somewhat aggrieved toward him, but the two combined were more than culinary flesh and blood could stand. Thus it happened that her tongue had an access of acerbity when moving at Ben.

Down at the rectory the commotion was nearly as general. The servants discussed the situation from morning till night, and Anna received many unpleasant jeers.

"Stick to you!" said the coachman; "not he. Them sort never stick to nothing but their baccy. When you says good-by to Ben, you says good-by forever, my lass."

"He can please himself," she said; but if he thinks I shall die broken-hearted because he takes on with some foreign girl, he's very much mistook."

"That's always the way with you women-folk. You talks as big as big, and when it comes to, you doubles up to nothing. There was that gal o' Sim mond's—her as kept company with that keeper fellow. Look how her brazened it out when they found he'd left a wife in Wales, and her died of consumption in less than a year.

"But Ben and me's different," said Anna. "If he's not in earnest, no more aren't I." Which was perhaps consolatory.

The time slipped rapidly by, and it wanted but a day till Ben and his master should start for the continent. That night Ben repaired to the rectory, and had a parting interview with Anna. His last words were: "You'll not forget me, Anna, while I'm parted from you? I'm a-coming back for you some day. Till then, bo river!"

"Tit what?"

"That's a bit of French, my dear. I've bin learning the langwidge lately. It's something like 'good-by,' only more so. Bo river!" And so they parted.

In the course of a few weeks Ben and his master were comfortably settled in a small German village near Bonn. The house where they had made their home was an old farmhouse that had once belonged to a noble family, but was now partly fallen to decay. It was inhabited by the present owner, who carried on the business of a small farmer and wine grower. He had neither wife nor child, the domestic functions being superintended, and in a great measure performed, by a sister. Naturally, therefore, it came about that Ben and Fraulein Schmidt were often in each other's company, and naturally also, Ben improved the occasion. If the Fraulein, with womanly curiosity, asked about the Herr Westley, Ben was careful to explain to her that Herr Westley was a great baron at home, dwelling in a mansion with marble halls and gilded ceilings; that he, Benjamin Biggins, was the confidential companion of this said great baron, and that, though he (Benjamin) now appeared in the role of a servant, he had a remarkably good position among the gentlemen of his native land. And the Fraulein would listen with flushed cheeks and sparkling eyes. Sometimes in the evening, before the farmer had come home, as they sat together by the house place fire, Ben would delight his listener with stories of the wonders of London. He had spent a few hours there one day while attending upon his master, and he therefore felt competent to describe its principal sights, and where his knowledge failed his invention came to the rescue.

True, he mixed things up a little. He got the National gallery and the houses of Parliament under the same roof, Westminster Abbey and the Tower within a stone's throw of each other, while the way to the Crystal Palace was over London Bridge, and up the river, past Battersea Park. But this made no difference at all to his listener. Like Desdemona, she drank in all his descriptions—

"But still the house affair s would draw her thence;
Which ever as she could with haste dispatch,
She'd come again."

All this was, I fear, on Ben's part, a matter of calculation rather than sentiment. That he wished to stand well, for the standing's sake, in the eyes of his landlady, goes without saying, but the standing well brought with it and after it some advantages that were of infinitely more value to Ben. There were many things dear to Ben's heart, but none more dear than poached eggs and hot buttered toast; and though those were "not in the contract," they were almost daily incidents of Ben's life. At first, it is true, he had not got on so well with his landlady, for notwithstanding the best intentions, neither had been able to comprehend a word said by the other. Time, however, which works wonders in so many cases, brought amelioration in this, for Ben got a smattering of German, and the Fraulein picked up a few words of English, and from that time Ben was, to use his own expression, "a made man." Though not endowed with a large amount of wisdom, he knew "which side his bread was buttered," and he resolved to keep on good terms with the Fraulein, no matter who else might be offended. And the Fraulein herself grew really to like the big, boastful Englishman, and did her best to make both of her lodgers contented with their temporary home. This was about the position of affairs, when, some eighteen months after they had left England, Mr. Westly told Ben he should soon be returning. This was a sad blow to Ben. No more poached eggs on hot buttered toast, no more idle days. He told the Fraulein what the Herr had said, and she, too, grieved. No more stories about London; no more leaves from the stately genealogical tree; no more pleasant evenings.

"And you must go!" she asked. "And I shall never you no more see!"

This set him thinking. Why should he go back? And the thinking ended in resolution—he would not go back. It came out in words at the first opportunity: "I do not mean to go back to England, Fraulein, but shall settle down in Germany, if I can get any work."

"There is plenty of work on the farm," said the Fraulein.

This did not altogether chime in with Ben's view of life. Work was a thing to be endured, not courted. Plenty to eat and to drink, and nothing to do, was Ben's domestic creed. Still, he could work, and not work very hard; and if he married the Fraulein, the farm would be as good as his at once, and absolutely his some day. He might do worse; he feared he could do no better.

"I've had some news from home, Ben, that ought to please you. Your old sweetheart at the rectory has had a couple of thousand pounds left her by her uncle, the miller."

"Two thousand pounds!" said Ben to himself. "Two thousand pounds! Why, that's a fortune. Things is becoming extremely complicated. I think I shall go back with master."

That night a letter was dispatched to England bearing on the envelope the name of Miss Anna Robinson at the rectory, Westley, Shropshire. This was the letter:

"My Dearest Anner. I ope this will fine you in good helth as it leeves me at present. My dearest Anner, it his a long time sense I rote to yew, but their have been so much to do as I have no time. I hop this will fine you in good helth, my dearest Anner. This is a very quite place, their is no sports nor nothink, I orphean ay, for dear old England an the swete faces, specially one, I left behind. I ope to see, it soon, so no more at present from your trew lover, BEN.

What the Fraulein thought of it when she heard that Ben had changed his mind I hardly know, but he made some plausible excuse, I have no doubt, and promised (to soothe her wounded feelings) that he would soon return.

Once more at Westley. The fire evening after his arrival Ben went down to the rectory. Anna was out, but the coachman was in.

"Yo' back again my lad! Yo're just like a bobby, a-turning up when you are not wanted."

That was the coachman's welcome and Ben resented it.

"Perhaps if you don't want me there's some one else as does."

"Then perhaps there's two on 'em, for I see two on 'em together not five minutes ago."

"Hey!" ejaculated Ben.

"As much hay as yo' like, my lad, we gies it to the 'osses, and can spare a bit for a donkey."

Clearly, there was no friendly feeling on the part of the coachman for Ben.

Then the cook tackled him. "You've made a fine mess of it, Ben. Have you heard what she's had left her?"

"Left her!" exclaimed the humbug.

"Yes, left her—two thousand pounds and she's going for it on Monday. It'll make them very comfortable."

"Her and her mother," suggested Ben.

"Ho, ho, ho, ho!" roared the coachman.

"Hi, hi, hi, hi!" laughed the cook.

"Hee, hee, hee, hee!" sang the kitchen maid all in chorus.

"Her and her mother!" and then they went off again.

"It's very funny" said the victim, "but I don't see where the fun comes in."

"Don't 'e now? Then I'll tell yer. You're come back to make it up wi' her because yo'an heard as her's got some money. But it's bespoke already for her and—her mother."

Coachman, cook and kitchen maid repeat chorus.

"I'll not take it," said Ben, "from no man's lips but hern. Her did her'd stick to me, and I've stuck to her, and I expect her'll stick to me, and that's all about it."

"Then you can take it from her lips now, Mr. Benjamin," said Anna, coming in at the moment. "You never wrote to me for more than twelve months, though I wrote to you twice, and then, when I had some money left me, you sent me a letter pretending as how as you was very fond of me. After you went away I said to the coachman, If he's not in earnest, then I'm not in earnest,' and that's all about it."

"Never mind," said Ben to himself that night. "If one door shuts another door opens."

"Yes, the door was open when Ben got there, some six weeks after he had left. He entered the house with the air of a master, pausing a moment to look round on the vineyards which would so soon be his. He opened an inner door; there sat Fraulein, busy with her needle

"I am back again," said he; "give me a welcome."

"Then you can go back again," she replied.

"But I am come to stay and work on the farm."

"The farm does not want you, neither do I," she answered.

Then Benjamin waxed furious. He called her fickle and unkind, told her that no good could come to a double-dealing person, and left her with the somewhat double-edged remark that "A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush."

I think I ought to explain the Fraulein's behavior. The old cook at Westley wrote to her to warn her against "that presumin' villun." — [Cassell's Magazine.

Coffee and Chicory.

Adulteration of food is prevalent and is a just cause for complaint. Coffee, however, seems to be rightfully free from the charge. The mixture of chicory with the delicious beverage is generally condemned in this country, but abroad it is actually demanded. The recent enormous rise in the price of coffee has attracted a good deal of speculative attention to its next-door neighbor. The "black coffee" served at many of the high-class restaurants is sometimes made entirely of the root. In Germany 35 per cent. of chicory is added to the coffee, and in France over 40 per cent. In the United States for general use but 4 per cent. In almost quite all of our penal and charitable institutions the "coffee" drank on the premises is made from roasted hard-tack, rye, or peas, with a small percentage of chicory to give it a coffee flavor. These are called adulterations, but certainly they are not. Perhaps the concoction is not legitimately "coffee" any more than a drink made of sage or boneset is "tea." Yet they are beneficial and to the very nervous of better service than if made from the coffee bean itself. Chicory is largely cultivated in Belgium and France, but the Province of Magdeburg, in Germany, produces it the more abundantly. It comes in hogsheads, and the heaviest consignments are under the monogram "H. S." (Henry Seggermann, a famous German importer, now deceased.) Experts in coffee making say that 15 per cent. of chicory is the requisite, and that the larger percentage used in Germany and France is because of the enormous duty on coffee exacted in those unfavored countries. In making coffee mix two kinds, Java and Mocha, (not the Rio pea berry that closely resembles Mocha,) and add 15 per cent. of chicory; break into it and well mix a raw egg, the shell as well as the meat; use cold water to a boil. It is a great comfort and a solace of a bitter winter morning, tickling the susceptible palate with its delightful flavor and the olfactory nerve with its savory fumes; and it is not so bad of a sultry summer day drank from a glass that has been its reservoir for half an hour imbedded in a cooler of finely crushed ice.—[New York Times.

The "Born-Tired" Man.

The fellow who was born very tired grew more and more weary as he went through the haps and mishaps of childhood, the adolescence of youth and the early period of manhood. At middle age he was the tiredest man then living. At fifty he was so utterly worn out with the simple process of existing that it occurred to him to calculate how many breaths he must draw if he went on living for twenty years more, and, being a man in fair preservation, there was a good prospect of his reaching the allotted threescore and ten years of average mankind.

Well, this tired citizen figured it out on the basis of eighteen breaths a minute, 1080 to the hour, 25,920 to the day, 9,462,280 for a year, and 189,243,800 for twenty years. The figures appalled him, and he died in disgust and discouragement at the tremendous task of doing such an enormous amount of breathing. —[Chattanooga Times.

Where the Presidents are Buried.

The burial-places of our Presidents are widely scattered. Washington lies at Mount Vernon; the two Adamses are buried under the old church at Quincy, Mass.; Jefferson rests at Monticello; Madison's grave is at Montpelier, not far from Monticello; Monroe's remains lie in the Richmond Cemetery; Jackson's grave is in front of his old residence, "The Hermitage"; Van Buren was buried at Kinderhook; Harrison at North Bend, near Cincinnati; Polk at Nashville; Taylor's remains are near Louisville; Fillmore lies in Forest Lawn Cemetery, Buffalo; Pierce was buried in Concord and Buchanan at Lancaster. Lincoln's grave is near Springfield, Johnson's at Greeneville, Garfield's at Cleveland, Grant's at Riverside and Arthur's at Albany.—[Washington Letter.

What the Fences Cost.

The cost of all fences in the United States amounts to $1,747,549,931, or nearly equal to the interest-bearing debt, and about the same as the estimated value of all the farm animals, so that for every dollar invested in live stock another dollar is required for constructing protection against the ravages upon crops. The annual repairs, together with interest on the amount invested in the existing fences, amounted to nearly $200,000,000, and the amount of wood needed must have been not far from 5,000,000,000 feet.

Mechanical Effect of Steam.

Suppose we take a cylinder, say a piece of iron or brass tube, closed securely at the bottom end and left open at the top, and the area of the cross section to be one square inch. In this tube place a cubic inch of water, and over it place a steam-tight piston, to which a cord from the centre should pass over a pulley having a weight hung at the loose end, just sufficient to balance the piston, then we have a simple device for demonstrating the mechanical effect of steam.

THE HUMAN MAW.

A Few Pretty Stories About Man's Storage Capacity.

Men With Ravenous Appetites and the Stomach of an Ostrich.

Elizabeth Charlotte, the Duchess of Orleans, writing under the date of December 6, 1718, says: "The late King, Mons. the Dauphin, and the Duc de Berri were terrible eaters. I have often seen the King eat four plates of different kinds of soup, a whole pheasant, a partridge, a dish of salad, two thick slices of ham, mutton flavored with garlic, a plateful of pastry, and finish his repast with fruit and hard-boiled eggs." There was a a good old German from Wurtemberg where My Lord Hamlet attended the university, who had a fine faculty for storing away provender. His case is well attested. For a wager he would eat a whole sheep or a whole pig, or put out of sight a bushel of cherries, stones and all. He lived until he was about 90 years of age, a greater portion of the time exhibiting the peculiarity of his appetite, which, to say the least, must have been a very eccentric one. Thus, he would chew glass, earthenware and flint into small fragments. He had an especial preference for caterpillars, mice and birds, and when these were not procurable he would content himself with mineral substances.

Once he put down his "maw and gull" a pen, the ink, and the sand-pounce, and he would have goboled the inkstand, too, had he not been restrained. Taylor, the water poet, tells of Nicholas Wood, of the County of Kent, in England, who was a tolerable good trencherman. On one occasion he got away with a whole sheep; at another time with several rabbits; at a third with three dozen pigeons—well grown pigeons, not squabs; again, with eighteen yards of black puddings, and on two other occasions sixty pounds of cherries and three pecks of damsons. Dr. Copeland, in speaking of two children who had wonderful appetites, the youngest, seven years old, being the worst, said: "The quantity of food devoured by her was astonishing. Every thing that could be laid hold of, even in its raw state, was seized up almost greedily. Among other articles an uncooked rabbit, half a pound of candles and some butter were taken at one time. The mother stated that the little girl, who was apparently in good health otherwise, took more food, if she could possibly obtain it, than the rest of her family, consisting of six besides herself."

A tilde over a hundred years ago a London youth ate five pounds of shoulder of lamb and two quarts of green peas in fifty minutes; and a Polish soldier who was presented at the Court of Saxony, succeeded in one day in getting outside of twenty pounds of beef and half a roast calf with the appropriate fixings. When George III was king, a watchmaker's apprentice, nineteen years of age, in three quarters of an hour devoured a leg of pork weighing six pounds and a proportionate quantity of peas pudding, washing all down with a pint of brandy, taken in two lots. The tall Nick Davenport the actor, is known to have eaten a seven-pound turkey at a single sitting. Instances of depraved appetite are numerous, and men have been known to swallow fire, swords, spiders, flies, toads, serpents, cotton, hair, clay, chalk, flint, musket balls and earthenware. One man could swallow billiard balls and gold watches. In the New York medical journal for 1882 a record is made of a man who could swallow clasp knives with impunity. One day he overdid the business by swallowing fourteen, and it killed him, which well it might. In 1870, in England, two men of Wiltshire wagered with each other as to which could consume the greatest quantity of food in the shortest space of time. One of them blotted from existence six pounds and a half of rabbit, a loaf of bread and two pounds of cheese in a quarter of an hour, and he was so pleased with the approbation he received from the bystanders that he finished off with a beef-steak, a pint and a half of gin and a half pint of brandy.—[Good Housekeeper.

Traveling With Dead Men.

"Did you see the item in the papers about a man being found alive in a coffin on a baggage car?" inquired a baggageman on the Rock Island road of a Chicago Herald writer. "Well, I don't believe it is true. One of the most curious things about the handling of boxes containing corpses is that you are always thinking that you feel the body a-moving. I've handled thousands of corpses in my time, and I could never get over that feeling. Many's the time it has taken all my courage and will power to keep from jumping for a hatchet and going to work ripping a coffin box to pieces, cause it seemed just as if the man inside must be alive. I s'pose it comes from a sort of morbid fear that the corpse may be alive, which leads a man to imagining all sorts o things. I've handled boxes that appeared to me like there was a live calf inside a-squirming around, or a great big snake moving backward and forward. You've looked at the bodies of dead men, haven't you, and imagined you could see their breasts heave as if they were breathing? Well, it is in that way that baggagemen think they feel the bodies moving inside the coffin cases. Let me tell you that it is no fun to ride all night in a car, through a wild section of country, with six or eight dead men as your only companions. Of course, we get used to it, and don't mind it so much after a while; but human nature is human nature, and I venture to say that there's not a man in the business who wouldn't prefer live men to dead ones as traveling companions."

A Skeleton Defined.

A little Charlotte avenue girl was looking at some pictures and turned over to one of a skeleton. The gentleman who was holding her on his knee was about to turn over the leaf, saying, "you don't know what that is."

"Oh, yes I do," she quickly replied "That's a skeleton."

"Why, what's a skeleton?"

"Don't know what's a skeleton, Mr. P.? Why, it's man peeled."—[Detroit Tribune.

The Truthful Infant.

"Now, tell me, Ethel," said a governess, "what letter comes after h?"

"Please, Miss Parker, I don't know."

"What have I got by the side of my nose?" asked the governess.

"A lot of powder," was Miss Ethel's startling reply.—[Chambers' Journal.

FARM AND GARDEN.

A Veritable Manure Mine.

If you have no basement under the barn and have not dug out under the stable floor for a long time, just take up the floor and dig out that part of the manure which has been accumulating there in the soil for so many years. Spread it over a number of acres of plowed land for a crop, remembering not to put on too much to the acre and to thoroughly cultivate it in. Take from three to four feet deep, under where the urine would soak, of the soil and hard pan or whatever it may be. There are millions of dollars' worth of this fertilizing property lying dormant which ought to be used. You will receive benefit for years to come by acting on this suggestion.—[Farm and Home.

Keep the Mangers Clean.

The more highbred and spirited the horse the more dainty he will be about his feed, and the greater care must be taken to keep feed boxes and mangers free from filth. Almost any scrub would, however, refuse to eat out of mangers as they often are left, with portions of the unconsumed hay or grain to be run over and soiled by fowls while the horse is away at work. This is a too common condition of many farmers' stables at this season, when increasing warmth dulls the appetite and makes soiled food doubly offensive by its decay. Many a hard-worked horse gets off his feed, as it is said, and grows poor from this cause alone. More care should be taken at this season to feed only what will be eaten clean, either of hay, meal or grain. If any remains when the horse is taken out in the morning to work it should be removed from the feed box and given to some other animal that will eat it outside the stable.—[Cultivator.

Utilizing Feathers.

Feathers properly saved have a market value, and it pays to save them. But many people, upon farms and in villages, scarcely deem the small quantity they have worth the trouble of saving for market.

Feathers, however, make a valuable fertilizer when properly treated. Plowed under they may be of some service mechanically, but of very little in furnishing plant food for many years. They are rich in nitrogen, but the nitrogen is in a form which is unavailable for plant food. The nitrogen can be freed, however, in the following simple way:

Into a glazed earthen vessel pour a quart or so of sulphuric acid and then add the feathers. In a few days those placed in the acid will be dissolved and ano her lot may be added. A quart of the acid will be sufficient for the feathers of eight or ten fowls. When the acid will no longer dissolve the fea thers pour it upon the compost heap, or mix it with any absorbent like dry earth, muck or ashes, and you will have a valuable fertilizer, readily assimilated, in place of the unsightly feathers blowing here and here.—[Poultry World.

Fertilizers for Potatoes.

A report on a series of experiments with different fertilizers on potatoes, conducted last year at the agricultural station of Kentucky, contains the following conclusions: 1. The application of stable manure injured the quality of the tubers. 2. The application of the nitrate of soda is injurious to the quality of the potato. 3. The inference, based upon one trial, is that the result in the quality is the same, whether sulphate or muriate of potash is employed, at least in combination with nitrate of soda and superphosphates. The highest quality was gained in potatoes grown without manure. The next best tubers as regards quality were grown with the aid of superphosphate of lime and sulphate of potash.

This last fertilizer, applied at the rate of 600 pounds of superphosphate and 200 pounds of sulphate of potash per acre, gave a yield of 203 bushels per acre. The application of 600 pounds of superphosphate and 300 pounds of nitrate of soda gave 113 bushels of potatoes to the acre, but the percentage of starch was only 15.13, against 15.98 in the first-mentioned test. The yield with no manure was 138 bushels of large tubers.

Packing for Market.

Those who grow produce for market do not need to be told of the importance of neat and proper packing to secure ready sales and the best prices. The farmer sometimes has a crop, such as an unexpected crop of early apples, that he would gladly turn into money, but he is not provided with baskets for packing his fruit, and if sent in barrels the fruit would arrive in bad order and bring low prices. To such the bushel crate comes as a ready resource. A bushel crate is easily made, and forms a neat and handy package for nearly all kinds of produce. To make a bushel crate there are required three pieces, each eight by fourteen inches, for the ends and cent r piece, the strips or laths for the sides are two feet long. The width of these depends upon the article to be packed. Sixteen strips are commonly used, with spaces between for ventilation. Often the corners of the end and middle pieces are cut off; this makes the crate octagonal in shape, which is an advantage, as it allows of better ventilation when the crates are stacked together. In building the crate the two strips at the top are not nailed down, to allow an opening through which to fill it. In packing in crates, as in barrels, they are to be shaken to settle the contents, which should project slightly at the top to require some pressure to bring down the last slats, which serve as a cover, into place. Vegetables and fruits should always be packed with pressure, otherwise they become bruised and injured generally in transit.—[American Agriculturist.

Breaking Young Cows to Milk.

I have often wondered why there was not more said in the agricultural journals about the best mode of breaking young heifers to milk. Every farmer, from time to time, has such a job on his hands, and, without the experience of others, sometimes adopts plans that prove very unsatisfactory. More cows are spoilt for being gentle and kind milkers by bad management in breaking to milk than from all other causes combined. A wild and nervous heifer, unaccustomed to being handled, is often driven to one corner of a large yard, and then with one or two to assist the operation of milking commences. If she steps or kicks, as young heifers unaccustomed to being handled and that are somewhat frightened usually will, the milker usually jumps out of the way, showing the animal that jumping and kicking are her best means of defense, and she is not quick to forget it.

The best way in my experience is the following: Get the young cow into a stable, and if you have stanchions that will hold her all the better; but if not, tie her up with a rope around her horns or neck, hitched short, then with a rope tied to a ham strap buckle the strap around the fore foot between the hoof and first joint; put the rope around the body, draw up the foot, and tie the rope sufficiently short so that she can't reach her foot to the ground. She is now in proper shape for milking. Standing on three legs and unable to free the others she gives up at once and soon becomes gentle and kind. If she is of an unusually nervous, kicking disposition, the hind leg next to the milker may be buckled to a rope and around her leg near the hoof, and hitched to a post or something solid behind her. She will soon get tired kicking and entirely give it up. Usually hitching her by the head, either by stanchions or a rope and strapping up her fore foot is all that is necessary, and she will soon be a quiet cow.

Insect-Killing Plants.

We do not refer to pyrethrum, or to any other vegetable poison that may be used to destroy insects, but plants, which finding insects their most acceptable food, feed upon and thus destroy them. So many plants are destroyed in furnishing food to insects, that it would appear but a just compensation in the order of things that the insects should sometimes fall a prey to plants. The plants in question belong to the order of Fungi, to which the mushrooms, toadstools, etc., also belong. Nearly twenty years ago (June, 1869) we figured a caterpillar, the well known "white grub" which is the larva of the beetle popularly known as May beetle and June Bug; this had growing from each side of its head a curved projection about its own length, these were of a dull, purplish color, and are the dead fungus which in living upon the insect causes its death. This specimen with many others, was sent us from Livingston county, Missouri. Grubs similarly affected have been reported in Iowa and in Virginia. A dried caterpillar, bearing a single fungus, has long been known to the Chinese, who regard it as one of their most valued medicines. Recently a specimen has been sent from Victoria, Australia. This caterpillar is one that makes growth above ground, and it is only when it enters the ground to form its chrysalis, that it is attacked by the spores of the fungus, which always proceeds from the joint back of the neck. The body of the caterpillar was filled with a solid mass of the mycelium, or "spawn." When fresh, the whole was eight inches long. The insect, and three inches of the fungus, were below ground. When the fungus reaches the surface, it forms branches which bear a close resemblance to the antlers of a stag. This branched portion is solid, blackish-gray in color, and its surface has a granular appearance due to ovoid growths, which are packed full of bladders, containing the spores, or reproductive bodies. The fungus belongs to a well-known genus, Cordiceps, and was named by W. G. Smith, its describer, C. Taylori, in honor of its discoverer, the Rev. Mr. Taylor of Victoria.—[Agriculturist.

A Guatemalan Town.

The little town of Livingston, on the Gulf of Amatique, has existed for more than three centuries, under various names, on a high bluff, at the mouth of the Rio Dulce, where a large commercial city should be; and with all these centuries upon it there is nothing there but a mud wall and palm-thatch camp to this day. Utterly isolated from the rest of the republic except by water-way, it occupies a site large enough for and well suited to an extensive town. On a high bluff more than fifty feet above the water, Livingston is fanned by the land breeze from the mountains all the early part of each day, while the descending sun announces the fresher breezes from the gulf. Springs of excellent water break from the base of the limestone in many places, and aqueducts could easily bring even better water from the mountain streams close at hand. Nowhere on the Atlantic coast is there a more agreeable climate taken the year through. Seldom does the thermometer mark a higher temperature than eighty-six degrees, and all distinctions of summer and winter disappear. A perpetual June reigns, and while Jupiter Pluvius washes air and foliage and earth to the extent of more than eighty inches of rain-fall each year, he considerately does most of this necessary work at night, and seldom veils the sun for twenty-four hours at a time.—[Scribner's Magazine.

Starving the Teeth.

Teeth are just as easily starved as the stomach, said a lecturer in Boston the other night. "The fact is that you and your fathers have from generation to generation been industriously starving your teeth. In one way it is a blessing to have been born of poor parents. What food the poor give their children is of a variety that goes to make strong bones and teeth. It is the outside of all the grains of all cereal food that contains the carbonate and phosphate of lime and traces of other earthly salts which nourish the bony tissues and build the frame up. If we do not furnish to the teeth of the young that pabulum they require they cannot be possibly built up. It is the outside of corn, oats, wheat, barley and the like, or the bran, so called, that we sift away and feed to the swine, that the teeth actually require for their proper nourishment. The wisdom of man has proven his folly, shown in every succeeding generation of teeth, which become more and more fragile and weak."

The "Dude Minister."

It is said that Bishop Fowler of the Methodist church once gave some advice to a conference congregation in this fashion: "Don't say anything against the man who is to come after you. A minister who didn't bear this in mind was asked by his parishioners what kind of a man his successor was. 'Oh, brother —— is a good man, but—' 'But what? If there's anything wrong that is just what we want to know. Now tell us what's the matter.' 'Well, brother —— is a good man, but the fact is, brethren, he parts his hair in the middle.' 'We won't have him. We don't want a dude. Conference mustn't send him.' The appointed Sunday arrived, and with it the dude minister. As he walked up the aisle a broad grin overspread the faces in the rear seats. By the time he reached the pulpit the congregation broke out into a roar of laughter. The minister was bald."

Repartee.

"Good gracious, Jane! why didn't you marry a monkey and be done with it?"

"Oh," smiled Jane, "I thought you might want to marry some time, and I wouldn't take your last chance."—[Washington Critic.

THE TOMBS.

A Look Into the Great Prison of the Metropolis.

How It is Divided, the Prisoners It Will Hold and Two Inmates' Stories.

What is called the Tombs consists of three prisons. The oldest one is the place where criminals of the most hardened sort are kept. It is a long, high, narrow dungeon with four rows of cells, one above the other, and numbering 144 altogether. A box stands at the main entrance and an armed guard protects it. Inside two other guards are stationed. A winding staircase leads to the top of the building, connecting with a platform at every floor which extends all round that tier of cells. The first floor is used entirely for maniacs and condemned persons. The sight side has borne for many years the title of 'Murderers' Row.' Padded cells for persons afflicted with homicidal maniacs, a hospital cell where sick persons are treated, and a penitentiary cell for disciplinary cases occupy the rest of the floor. On the second tier criminals whose offences are serious but not of the capital grade are kept. These are felons of all kinds. Above them are misdemeanants. When the old Tombs is full, it will hold 288 persons. Its usual census contains about 230 names. It is doubtful if a city prison could be conducted on a better more humane principle than prevails here. The discipline is necessarily strict but not severe. All the work is done by the convicts who are there for comparatively light offences, usually ten-day prisoners. These are permitted to take the first "help" at the tables and allowed to eat in comfort. As they could have no possible desire to run away, their terms being short and the penalty of attempted escapes being severe, they roam about doing their work without much interference.

As in almost all prisons, so in the tombs, there are persons wearing the prison garb, who are not in actual confinement. I saw an old woman there who was arrested 20 years ago. She is now a confirmed rheumatic, all bent with age and pain and scarcely able to get in and out of the invalid chair where her days and nights were spent. Her face has grown tranquil and beneficent in its expression. Years ago she committed a great crime to save her husband from disgrace. The jury refused to convict her and disagreed. She stayed on in the tombs, gradually securing the confidence of the keepers, until she lost sight of her friends—or they lost sight of her. She made herself useful to the matrons and declares now that her last days, albeit three feet of rock separate her from freedom, are the happiest she has ever spent.

An old silver-headed man is there, too, whose step and bearing have not lost their dignity despite his suffering and laborious work. He looks as if he might be eighty years old, but the keeper told me that he was scarcely sixty. No one knows much about him now except good old Matron French, who has been there thirty-six years, (and they say the Tombs is not a healthy place), and Deputy Warden Finley, whose record is nearly as long. They never answer questions about the old man, for they would not hurt the old man's feelings for the world. I heard, however, that he had killed a man at the behest of a human tigress many years ago. This old man was tried and convicted. He got a new trial and was reconvicted and got a reversal again. He has never since been tried and there he remains, sad, bowed, but still showing traces of his former grace and strength, sawing and cutting and driving nails, while his heart is being torn with the teeth of a relentless memory.—[New York Trib

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY,
W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY,
AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XX. PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, JULY 15, 1887. No. 28.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities."—Madison.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

ALFRED D. BAILEY,
Attorney-at-Law,
Solicitor and Master in Chancery. Notary Public. No. 2 Front street, (Room to Plainfield, N. J.

O. L. JENKINS, M. D.,
Homœopathist,
successor to Dr. Smith on Door of Front Street near Town, Plainfield, N. J. Office Hours—7 to 8 A. M., 1 to 2 P. M., 7 to 9 P. M.—sep 1847.

JACKSON & GOLDEN,
Counsellors-at-Law,
Commissioners of deeds, Masters-in-Chancery, Notaries Public, Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.—jan1

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer,
Sales of Personal Property attended to. P. O. Box 132, Dunellen, N. J. Orders left at Constitutionalist office, or addressed to care of Constitutionalist, Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES E. THEIS,
Dentist,
20 West Front street, A new local anesthetic applied to the gums for extracting teeth painless. Artificial teeth inserted and all operations performed with a specialty.—jy30

H. HASH,
Auctioneer,
P. O. Address, Box 74, North Plainfield, N. J. Orders left at C. J. Carey's second hand store, or Constitutionalist office, will receive prompt attention.—may6

DUANE S. TEALE,
Architect,
247 Broadway, New York city. Rooms 32 and 33. (Importers' and Traders' Bank Building.) Residence, Second street.—jan1

WM. E. MELLISH,
Attorney-at-Law,
MASTER IN CHANCERY, NOTARY PUBLIC.
Commissioner of Deeds. Office, North avenue opposite depot.—apr22

J. H. FOSTER,
Veterinary Surgeon.
Office in Thos. Force's livery office, Union Hall Street and Railroad avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Day and night calls promptly attended. Telephone call No. 16. Consultation free. All of the most approved methods. Residence, 71 East Fifth street.—dec6

DR. GEORGE GIDNEY,
Veterinary Surgeon.
Removed from Second street to 113 West Front Street, opposite Second street.—jan1

ARTHUR P. MILLER,
Attorney-at-Law,
Successor to the late W. H. Mahon, Solicitor in Chancery, Notary Public. Will take charge of real estate, loan money, rent and take charge of property. Office over First National Bank.—jan1

F. A. DUSHAM,
Civil Engineer and Surveyor,
No. 2 Park avenue, Steward's building. Particular attention to the subdivision of real estate and topographical boundary lines. Parties sent to all parts of the country.—jan1

DR. J. P. GRIFFEN,
Electric Baths,
Dr. Griffen treats all Nervous affections, Chronic complaints, Rheumatism, Paralysis, Neuralgia, Insomnia. Dyspepsia and Chronic Ailments generally. Consultation free. Office hours, 9 A. M. to 4 P. M. Residence and office, 107 West Second street, corner of Washington avenue.

BUSINESS CARDS.

TO THE PUBLIC !

We wish to inform our customers and the public generally that we have on hand the best quality of

LEHIGH COAL,

Fresh from the Mines.

It is under cover and well protected from the weather. We are prepared to deliver it well screened to all parts of the city. We are also prepared to furnish all kinds of Seasoned Lumber and Masons' Materials at short notice.

A. D. COOK & BRO.

jan1tf

Park Avenue Bakery!
JOHN WALKER, Prop'r
FAMILIES and HOTELS supplied With the Oil Stoved

VIENNA BREAD & ROLLS,
And all Varieties of Pies, Cake and Confectionery.
apr22tf

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS,
BEST IN THE WORLD.
ALL GOODS DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE.
apr22tf

WM. H. SHOTWELL,
DEALER IN GROCERIES, PROVISIONS, VEGETABLES, DRIED FRUIT, ETC.
CORNER EMILY AND DUER STREETS
North Plainfield, New Jersey.
Celebrated Pilsbury Flour,
THE BEST IN THE MARKET.
ORDERS CALLED FOR AND DELIVERED.
Thankful for past patronage I solicit a continuance Respectfully,
WILLIAM H. SHOTWELL.

BOSTON CLOTHING HOUSE
42 W. FRONT ST.
Reliable Goods at Low Prices.
Order Department
Under the well-known Cutter,
NEWTON P. DRAKE.
Correct Styles. Right Prices
myd12

Geo. A. Moore,
(Of the late firm of Moore Bros.)
Is now the sole proprietor of the old established market at
NO. 14 NORTH AVENUE,
Where he will continue to supply patrons with the finest grades of Fresh and Salt meats. Fish of all kinds, Oysters, Clams, Game in Season at the lowest market prices. Anything and everything kept in stock furnished at short notice.
mch5

Edward Rasmontell,
OYSTER AND ICE CREAM SALOON.

SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc. Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in a first-class, workmanlike and workmanship manner.
Having associated myself with the Messrs. Foster, Plumbers, of New York city, I am now prepared to offer my services to the public in the above line of business at as low rates as any first-class workman can afford to do work.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 2 NORTH AVE. opp. depot Plainfield, N. J.

HOTELS AND BOARDING HOUSES.

Force's Hotel !
NORTH AVENUE
Near R. R. Depot, Plainfield, New Jersey.
JAMES H. FORCE, - - Proprietor.
A FIRST-CLASS FAMILY HOTEL.
Transient guests taken at reasonable rates.

Bottled Liquors a Specialty.

Laing's Hotel !
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
J. B. MILLER & BRO., - Proprietors.
A FIRST-CLASS FAMILY HOTEL.

James Conneely
Wishes to inform the public generally that he has opened a first-class
WINE and LIQUOR ROOM,
AT NO. 32 PARK AVE.,
Where he will be pleased to furnish his friends and customers with the choicest brands of imported and Domestic Liquors.
apr15

TURF EXCHANGE HOTEL.
72 Courtland street,
CORNER WASHINGTON, NEW YORK CITY
FRED. W. BALLARD, - - Proprietor,
(formerly of Seeney City,) is now conducting the above hotel, at Corner Washington and Cortlandt, New York, formerly kept by the late James Van Pelt, and by Wm. Scott. All former customers will be most courteously received.
PURE WINES, LIQUORS AND SEGARS. jy16tf

SOMERSET HOTEL,
Cor. Somerset & Emily Sts., North Plainfield, N. J.
Permanent and Transient Board, at fairrates.
First-class Stables and Sheds attached.
Meals at all reasonable hours. 3jan87

C. E. JOHNSON,
Of late firm of Shepherd, Johnson & Godman,
CARPENTER AND BUILDER.
Office Adjoining City Hotel on Second street, near Park avenue, Plainfield, New Jersey. Residence, 12 East Second street. Estimates cheerfully furnished. mch5tf

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
SALESROOM—Madison Avenue, near Front St., Plainfield, N. J.
Goods received on consignment.

MRS. E. J. MARTIN'S
MAGIC RENOVATING FLUID.
Preventing rot arising from any kind of goods, without changing the color, or rotting a spot, hole, or injuring the texture. Will take out all stains, fat, tallow, grease, paint, oil, tar, pitch, grass, clothing. Raises the nap of woolen goods, and restores the color of all kinds of carpets, &c. Price 25 cents per bottle. Sold at retail store, at 816, E. 7 Second street, Plainfield, N. J. Wholesale, 12 East Front street, and at Mrs. W. H. Martin's, 1 Park row, Madison avenue, Plainfield, N. J. myd12

DORSEY W. HYDE,
PRACTICAL TEACHER OF
Piano, Harmony & Guitar.
Full Term commences MONDAY, Sept. 12th. SEND FOR CIRCULAR. P. O. BOX 1119.

MR. LEAL'S SCHOOL
WILL RE-OPEN
Monday, Sept. 20, 1886.
Attendance of pupils and added facilities make it now possible to form another class by begin from eight to ten years of age. Several first prizes obtained by pupils of this school. Circulars and information on application.—sp18tf

A SCHOOL FOR BOYS
WILL BE OPENED IN THE PARLORS OF THE PARK AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH,
SEPTEMBER 15, '86.
APPLICATION MAY BE MADE AT NO. 20 PARK AVENUE, CORNER SIXTH STREET.
ANNA J. MOORE, Principal.
sp18 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

ARTESIAN WELLS.
F. & W. STOTHOFF
Are prepared to Sink Wells any Depth up to 100 feet, and Tube them if need be. Pumps and Force Pumps for sale. Address, Box 75, or J. K. Dunham, of Plainfield, P. O. address, Plainfield, N. J.

Mme. J. BERNARD,
ASTROLOGIST,
Residence—Harmony street, North Plainfield, north house from Somerset street, left hand side. Consultations by appointment as regards present and future events, likewise marriages, lodgings, law and business. Questions answered by letter. Terms reasonable.
In English, German and French.

Electrical Work !
ELECTRICAL WORK—WE ARE PREPARED to put in electric bells, speaking tubes, electrical work, from a call bell to a completely equipped house, by the best talent in the city. We will for a fixed price take care of electrical apparatus by the year, and guarantee satisfaction or money refunded. Estimates cheerfully furnished. Office and main building it is thoroughly working at PLAINFIELD DISTRICT TELEGRAPH CO.,
NO. 4 PARK AVENUE.
C. M. GODDARD, - Manager.
jy30tf

NETHERWOOD FARM !
MOUNTAIN AVE., NEAR PARSAGOT AVE.
A JERSEY STOCK FARM !
OVER
50 HEAD OF JERSEY CATTLE 50
Jersey Bull for sale at Mountain Prince, Milk and Cream delivered at your door. Visitors are welcome at all times.
S. WHEELER, Manager.
HERBERT JOHNSTON, Plainfield, N. J.
apr22

CAREY'S
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE, NO. 42 WEST FRONT STREET,
Nearly opposite Laing's Hotel, Plainfield, N. J
Having leased the above premises I am prepared to buy and sell second-hand Furniture, Carpets, Stoves, &c., and will also attend to all orders in furniture moving. Furniture, etc., stored. P. O. Box 622.—may7

JOHN MORTON,
PURE SPRING WATER
-ICE-
Delivered daily to any part of the city at the lowest possible rates. Residence 109 West Front street, Plainfield, N. J. Office, Room 2, Arcade building, No. 29 West Front street, will receive prompt attention. Thankful for past favors I solicit a continuance of the same to my old patrons for past patronage, and take pleasure in announcing that I have increased my business by purchasing the crop and good-will of Cockrane Ice Pond, where I am better prepared to supply all with the best ice in the market.

ALEX. THORN
(Late of Berry & Thorn.
CAN BE FOUND AT 27 SOMERSET STREET.

FURNACES,
RANGES,
STOVES,
TINWARE, Etc.
Repairing in His Line Promptly Attended To,
apr1

PAINTERS & PAINTERS' SUPPLIES

Paints, Varnishes, Glass.
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.
apr22

Weaver Bros.
House & Sign Painting, Graining,
Paper Hanging and Kalsomining a specialty.
Office and Shop in the rear of
16½ EAST FRONT STREET,
D. WEAVER. P. O. Box 22. P. WEAVER.

W. N. ROWE,
PAINTER AND DECORATOR,
Dealer in Paints, Oil, Varnishes, Glass, Brushes, etc. WALL PAPER and WINDOW SHADES. None but strictly first-class workmen employed and satisfaction guaranteed. No. 24 E. FRONT STREET, (C. O. Rusher's old stand,) Plainfield, N. J. P. O. Box 1106.—may7

L. D. WOOLSTON. J. P. BUCKLE.
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTER'S SUPPLIES. 2 NORTH AVENUE.
apr22tf

MILLINERY.

Mrs. J. M. Dunn,
FASHIONABLE MILLINER,
LATEST SHAPES OF
BONNETS AND HATS.
FRENCH IMPORTED FLOWERS.
Feathers, Velvets, Plushes, Ratting, Laces, etc. Fancy Goods and Notions; Dress and Infants' Caps a Specialty.
PINKING, BLEACHING & PRESSING.
Feathers Dyed, Cleaned and Curled AT SHORT NOTICE.
14 West Front street.

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

M. C. DOBBINS,
OPPOSITE RAILROAD STATION.
MANUFACTURER OF
PURE HAVANA CIGARS.
Wholesale and Retail !
apr22

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best 5 cent cigar in the State, and made on the premises in the Rear of the Store.
CLEAR HAVANA SEGARS A SPECIALTY.
Constantly on hand a large assortment of Foreign and Domestic Cigars, Cigarettes and Tobaccos, always in stock.
Smokers Articles in Great Variety.
apr22

JOHN N. STEINER,
MANUFACTURER OF
SEGARS!
No. 11 PARK AVENUE.
Consultation and Segar assortment of
Segars, Smoking & Chewing Tobacco, Snuffs, Pipes, &c.
Thankful for past patronage, I solicit a continuance of the same. apr22

C. M. FINE,
Dealer in HAVANA & DOMESTIC
—SEGARS!—
No. 38 PARK AVE., (NEXT DOOR TO SECOND ST.)
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smoker's Materials, of every description.
The celebrated "Old Judge" Smoking Tobacco, with other popular brands constantly on hand.

—PICTURE FRAMES—
OF ALL KINDS, AT
S. E. FLOWER'S,
at New York Prices, Studio in West Front street. Blankets for drawing and oil painting. apr22tf

Smalley Bros.,
DEALERS IN
Fresh and Salt Meats, Poultry, Etc.
78 SOMERSET STREET, NO. 178 PLAINFIELD.
Orders called for and del'd. Satisfaction guaranteed. Telephone Call 11. A share of the public patronage is solicited.—dec7

Benj. F. Howe,
(Late of Howe Bros.)
BUTCHER,
And dealer in FRESH AND SALT MEATS, POULTRY, ETC., corner Park avenue and Front street, (next to the store and factory of Randolph & Clark.) Orders called for and delivered FREE. Satisfaction guaranteed. Telephone Call 12.—may7

MAYNARD & HILL,
PRACTICAL BARBERS
AND
Artistic Hair Dressers,
No. 20 PARK AVENUE,
Ladies and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residence. Shaving, Shampooing, &c., at Constitutionalist rooms.

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE. CHARGES REASONABLE.
Hugo Weigman,
70 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J. myd12

SUMMER
HATS.
CAPS, GLOVES,
Trunks, Valises, Etc
Call and Examine the Elegant Stock of
Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods at
F. A. POPE'S,
(Successor to S. Fernside.)
No. 5 W. Front-st.
apr22

A. H. BOUGHTON,
44 West Fourteenth street, N. Y.
(NEAR MACY'S.)

Boy's Clothing and Hats
EXCLUSIVELY.
The most complete stock of Boy's Fashionable Goods in the city and at popular prices.
KILT SUITS,
SHIRT WAISTS,
EXTRA PANTS.
Former stand of Taylor & Co.
apr22

BABY'S STORY.

Baby tells a little story,
Up on mother's lap;
When the geometry work is done
From their pleasant nap.

His about the head of My Lo,
And he flowers and crosses,
Of the loving, smiling angels
Hidden 'mong the leaves.

Mother's face is beaming over,
As to catch each word—
Baby's darling mother
Needs over her mind.

Never heard, penned by poet,
Is to her so dear
Though the language is the quaintest
Any one could hear!

How the tiny tongue is trying
Something to impart!
Concerning the mysterious
Doors with all her heart!

Hears the story—understands it,
If no one else can;
Though that story just commences,
As it tells, "Once upon"
George Cooper in Demorest's Monthly.

IN ALGEBRA LODGE.

A Young Bachelor's Amusing Adventures in the Mysteries of Mathematics.

Some few years back I was spending a part of my vacation at Cheyenne, attending to some friends—Cannibis. Just as it was time terminating, toward the end of July, I got a letter from Jack Frost, asking me to bring back with me a starter, as he had got a stiff attack of mathematics in the same county, called about that time. So I got one, I suppose, and made my way to Shipperton. I got there in the afternoon, and went up on to John course of the same day; but it was not to be. Having left my luggage at the Shipperton boarding of course, I went to the address, "Algebra Lodge," and found a fair old dame at the door, who gave me a painfully trim grown wall and a decent curtsey.

On the door being opened in answer to my ring, I was ushered by a particularly prim maid into a sitting room, full of old-fashioned nastiness. The six easies order chairs appeared to be all standing up, and I fancied that I had been travelling, saw that the whole lot of them were in a state of hurry, and shuddered at the thought of a possible smudge on my face. However, when I saw that things were in shape, for a rustling was heard and in came the dame's daughter, whom I had not heard very bad accounts of. Miss Frost was the latter's name, and her friend's sister and her friends. She was spiteful, cross as two sticks, would read letters, and was, in fact, a regular old maid, even with a double dash, always cool and calm in her words, and with a most dreadfully suspicious of "cousins" and "young men." She will forgive, I venture to say, a man of some experience in the matters, I had heavily discounted three-quarters of the way by the "confidential" instead of "calico" before words, and commenced my letters and speeches with "sir," with a double dash, were probably able to see through my little game, and when they might emanate. (How often I've on the word "cousin" over a scribbled out, and with much care skipp'd it since a person as Miss Spinney turned out to be, that had struggled, "Dear sir," at the right black curl-screw description I had conjured up from my fair young relation instead of being angelic she was dwelling in a house by the sea, and spoke out of countenance with hard, stony eyes, she beamed upon me most effusively through gold-rimmed spectacles.

After putting me thoroughly at my ease she left me alone with her daughter, as my sister could not possibly be ready to leave her room for some time. I was not quite sober, but after a moment's consideration decided that I could put up for Susan Frost, and I did so.

"The Crow," said the generous spirit of the house, "is a bird of ill omen, a spare room, and you will have; all you have to do is to keep the house, besides being near your sister."

Overcome by her warmth, I gave in at once, and I must say that I have never had talented on my way to the station to the Shipperton boarding of course, but it was too late; the die was cast, and I had to make the best of a bad job and my thoughts as I again approached Algebra Lodge.

Before I proposed to take my sister for a drive, in order that I might see something of my self, the house was extended until noon, and a little pony trap was hired for the day. I had a little ruin of my driving powers, and was not a little pleased at the fact that the pale windows occupied by curious faces as we got in. I gently shook the reins, and off we went at a good pace still; I smartly touched him on the off side with the whip, and off he flew, fully kicked up his hind legs and fell of his head, and again I repeated the dose, but with no more encouraging results. At last the knotted end of the whip caught him on the right hind quarter, and stung with pain he started away with such a jerk that I was thrown back. After a severe struggle he was pulled up, and I was driven back after gather I felt that the whole incident had been without dignity, if not positively ridiculous, and my pleasure in the drive was utterly destroyed.

When we got back my sister was packed off somewhere or other, while I was left to the tender mercies of where I found Miss Spinner and three of the teachers, one looking rather downy than the rest, and who was decidedly prepossessing, all gathered around the supper-table. The trial of my skill with Miss Spinney retired and left the four of us to a most social meal. Conversation was my forte; and now she actually proposed a game of cards, which I refused, but my partner had pretty blue eyes, long curls to the left, and by the way to signal messages, which hope me always on the qui vive to interpret and reply to. I was not long in doing so, glances were interpreted by the dozens as I sat at the first time I had ever tenderly spoken and was instantly absorbed in my hand, but, looking out of the corner of my eye, I thought I noticed an assured expression flit across her face, as my partner's head drooped decidedly forward one eyes were quite unblushing, and I was not long in finding out that she had no end, and at 10:30 the dances, resuming my self-possession, I was left to my self, and we must now leave off. They bade me good-night, one by one. Blue Eyes last, and I left her standing at the door and as mine here, longest and closest of all.

Left to myself, I sat down and composed myself to read, but, looking round the room for a few minutes, was startled by a movement near me, my eye was caught by a shelf in a book-case half the door, filled with yellow covers. "Can it be?" I said to myself, "can it be?" And to they were; a few French novels dotted among the rest of the English sensational yellow backs, and there, in the middle of Miss Eyre, represented by three copies; here, I mean, to find them concealed, but there they were, and one of them opened more sentimental than the rest. I took the picture in the cover of one caused my curiosity. It represented a gentleman lying dead on the floor of a room, with a pistol in his hand, and on either side of him the kneeling figures of two ladies, one dark and the fair one wringing her hands, the dark one looking on with a little revengeful satisfaction on her face. This was the one I selected to take down and read. It turned out to be an exciting story, and I sat up half a neighboring clock warned me that twelve o'clock had come and gone, and that I must go to bed. I knew that the bigamy was going to be found out before 207 pillows, and that I was harrowing enough. Carefully I put out the lights and stepped into the passage, where I found my candle, but no matches! Creeping back into the library, I fumbled about the mantelpiece and over the tables, but no matches! Then I went back to the door, and, after groping the passage to the kitchen; the door opened cautiously on opening; I entered and found the fire carefully raked out and still no matches! The thought as to how on earth I was to find my way to bed in the dark was almost unbearable; I remembered those ill-fated candles, and was on the point of going to bed without them, when I had an idea. A happy thought struck me—to toss for it, heads—I go, tails—I stay. Heads it was, and I probably must the side and awaken somebody with the noise; in the meantime I had found a box of matches in my pocket.

Desperation came to the rescue, and I firmly made up my mind to walk up the middle passage. I did so and felt the two end doors with my fingers (no rain) who was feel painted a number of I listened for the sound of breathing, to know which to open, but was unable to hear my own. Suddenly, as often in such scenes of extreme peril, the conception came strong upon me that it was the left-hand door. The thought, however, of mis-ake proved too much for me. I pictured to myself the inevitable shriek, followed by lowered lights, an uproar or unlocking of twenty doors, the awful figure of Miss Spinney in her leggings and nightcap bearing down on me candle in hand, the trembling crowd of teachers (Blue Eyes among them), servants, and pupils behind, myself the detected victim of the insupportable jeers, I clenched my teeth, and, grasping the handle tightly, turned it slowly and quietly. There was no sound, and in I stole. It was a room, and I was in it! that! A head on the pillow! Yes, by all that's sacred, the wrong room.

I got out of that room when I never knew. A cold shudder came over me when I found myself outside, and I was more inclined to remain standing in the passage than to go through it to go through any such ordeal again. But I got tired of standing, and calmer reflection induced me to go back and endeavor to find the secret of the horrible sensation I have described. I ventured in, and, after a considerable yelled found myself in the right room at last. Hastily I groped my way to the spare bed, and I saw a letter from Abbeville, S. C., readily, which states that it was with the utmost regret that I was informed that the will had since executed in favor of the Confederate Government. The Confederate Government had very little business to do with the property, and the possession of one of the only three half decisive wars ever waged by it at the Louisiana Purchase. This must was turned over to the Confederate Government in February, 1861, and in April Mr. Mountaineer, Colonel Alexander and Lieutenant Labbe, designs for silver half-dollars. Several drawing a pen here and there, they sent copies as a desert.

Some time ago, long times before his lungs healed, and much longer before the horrible wound became sound enough to resume the half-day's business which he had left unfinished, Mr. Mountaineer called on the Director of the Mint at Washington, and presented a crude pencil sketch of his design. The Director was interested, and told the artist to call again in a few days. When he returned he was presented with seven plates, representing the several stages of the design, and on the last there is a helmet cap, and entwined around it are stalks of sugar cane and cotton, with the inscription, "Confederate States of America." After four pieces were tried to overcome the difficulty, but when the irritation developed into a decided inflammation from the effects of the changing silver was formed, the wigs had been worn in March, 1861. Of the three pieces obtained, one in April 30, 1861. Of those four pieces obtained, one is at the possession of the Government here; one was presented to the Historical Society of Louisiana; one to Brasil Anna, and the fourth was presented to Dr. R. F. Taylor, the colonel, who now resides in Louisiana.

Among the curious paper money the archives contained a great quality which was paid for the Confederate Navy and half a million dollars of Confederate bonds, also two large sheets and two pages containing millions of dollars of Confederate bonds, which were engraved by gentle Bureau of Engraving and Printing. Specimens of this money have been exhibited at the Centennial and other expositions, and a complete variety of the Confederate Treasury Department, from the issue of the War Department, and this scrap book, which is filled with the bank notes of the Confederate Government, with money of every denomination, is now worth more than its weight in gold.

The Department has also a complete list of the Confederate Senators and Representatives as they appeared on the floor of the Congress at Montgomery, and resolutions introduced in Congress. The first Congress met at Montgomery, February 4, 1861, at Montgomery, Ala. It was first known as the Provisional Congress and was in session for a period of about four months. After the permanent Congress was established the provisional Congress, the first of which met February 18, 1861, during its existence Congress had on the 30 of May, 1864, still held over. The original journal is the journal is basic on the 18th of March, 1865. In this journal are the names of members for districts in Missouri and Kentucky, although the States had never seceded. But in the Provisional Congress the number of members of the House was two hundred and six, as it was afterward reduced to one hundred and sixty-six. Most of the siltings of the Confederate Congress were secret, and the Governor Jefferson Davis, the President had the right to sit in them and to speak on the floor. The Cabinet Ministers and Ministers often conferred with Congress on matters of policy, though President Davis did not appear in person. The Confederate Constitution was very much like that of the United States, with some few recognized slavery. It prohibited a protective tariff, but allowed a tariff for revenue. Strips of adhesive plaster were put in various directions over the dog's head, and after the hair on the entire wound had been dusted with chloroform and iodoform were applied. The sides and body had been previously strapped to the table with leather straps, and the head, and this was permitted to be moved only sideways. The patient's head was also held firmly by means of a towel passed to tame the strain from the neck and resists the head.

The operation took about an hour and a half, and when the bandages and sutures fortunately there was no vomiting from the ether. The resolve positions of the dog's head was very happy. The dog was fed regularly, but did not seem to relish food. Something to drink was splendid, and when the dog was taken out for a walk it would lap water freely united to the head. As the healing process set in the wound dropped out, till enough was left to make a nice form on the forehead. The experiment was remarkably successful, and as the dog's head was healed it was tried again with good results. The work was applied to, and there had been thirteen distinct operations on the dog's head, and after each the dog's head was successfully sewn two, and in these the dog's head was healed. It took two dogs to furnish the flesh, the first supplying about a third of the material for tion from blood poisoning. The second dog was killed, and plugs around and over the hole at his thigh. The patient's head is covered with hair, and it looks natural. The combed there is hardly a trace of deformity, but when the hair is raised scars can be seen on the head of the operated dog.

Why Young Wyns is Mad.

A young man named Wynn of Salem, Mass., was given a glass of cider by a young lady named Alice Powers. He subsequently went to purchase a glass containing cold, which she did. Then she sloped and was married to Charles Baldwin in the dress paid for with Wynn's money.

The new hall of the Knights of Labor at Hornellsville, N. Y., is being raised magnificently toward completion.

Canada is unusually complacent with England in the shipment of hearty hardwood timber. Admiralty oak is not to be mentioned are shovels in large quantities.

The annual product of the spelt manufacturers of Buffalo, N. Y., is said to be about $1,000,000, and that of two other cities of Union combined. Seven million bushels of corn are thus annually consumed. Seventy-five dollars whereupon the city derives a revenue of two of the company's trains. The result is a handsome dividend.

It is said the trustees of the Brooklyn bridge have used their power to order a large shipment of punched tickets that have been collected from passengers on the cars. In the event of a panic, or fire, or other cause crossing a great many queer articles are put into the boxes, and realizing four profits on their productions.

It is stated on good authority that at the present rate of progress the cotton seed oil is used in the manufacture of lard is only a question of time when all lard will be fully refined cotton seed oil. Experiments for the purpose, in one city alone, is said to be fully three hundred barrels.

An Oregon Bear still has discovered that by the substitution of sawdust for coal at the mines, fifty dollars per day can be saved. Its fuel bill per day is the same as that of any other bear, and the pecuniary value on that which was burned fore thrown away.

A scrappy export from the Mint, who, for some time past, has been testing the mineral resources of Texas, reports that various sections contain iron ore enough, and of a superior quality, to supply the world for centuries to come. Coal is also found there.

The statements have infused a life into mankind headers of that region.

Rates of Advertising.

Space	1 WEEK	2	3	4	5	6	1 MONTH	2	3	6	12
1 in.	2.00	3.00	4.00	5.00	6.00	7.00	8.00	12.00	16.00	24.00	40.00
2 in.	3.00	4.00	5.00	6.00	7.00	8.00	12.00	16.00	20.00	30.00	50.00
3 in.	4.00	5.00	6.00	7.00	8.00	9.00	16.00	20.00	24.00	36.00	60.00
¼ col.	5.00	6.00	7.00	8.00	9.00	10.00	20.00	24.00	30.00	45.00	75.00
½ col.	8.00	10.00	12.00	14.00	16.00	18.00	30.00	40.00	50.00	75.00	125.00
1 col.	15.00	18.00	20.00	25.00	30.00	35.00	50.00	75.00	100.00	150.00	250.00

All Electro's must be solid metal.
"Lists of Everything" column, 5 cts. per line.
Double rate, 50 per ct. advance of above rates.

WONDERFUL OPERATION.

A Newfoundland Dog's Hair Transplanted to a Mexican Hound.

A young and wealthy New Yorker, who has been so bald as a billiard-ball, and can get him in an early with a big curly hair which was procured for a transplanting from a dog, writes a New York correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer. The man is one of the most marvelous surgical operations ever known in this city and perhaps in the world. The young man is the only son and assistant of consulting surgeon of St. Elizabeth Hospital. He is the son of a well-known dry-goods merchant, and lives in an elegant home on Fifth avenue. The young man was graduated from Columbia College about two years ago, and was sent to the University of Heidelberg to complete his education. It was there that he met with the misfortune which has made him famous. He took courses in chemistry, and spent much of his time in the laboratory in the experimental department. One evening, while engaged in some experiments, a vessel of sulphuric acid, and before he could get to the open air fell unconscious. As he rolled over he struck his head and gave himself a terrible burn. He was taken to his father's house, and for three weeks hovered between life and death. He was delirious most of the time. When he regained consciousness he found that his head was entirely bald. The scalp had been effected, and he remained in bed for six months. There was a watery deposit in the lungs, but it could not be determined whether it was the result of scalding at the time of the scald or the damp from the fire. The latter theory became more rapidly, and all hope was given up by the family for his life. The physicians in Germany were called to attend him, and every thing was done that was known in the medical science. The scalp of the flesh sloughed off from the skull, and it was found that the bone was in spots as a desert.

Some time ago, long times before his lungs healed, and much longer before the horrible wound became sound enough to resume the half-day's business which he had left unfinished, Mr. Mountaineer called on the Director of the Mint at Washington, and presented a crude pencil sketch of his design. The Director was interested, and told the artist to call again in a few days. When he returned he was presented with seven plates, representing the several stages of the design, and on the last there is a helmet cap, and entwined around it are stalks of sugar cane and cotton, with the inscription, "Confederate States of America." After four pieces were tried to overcome the difficulty, but when the irritation developed into a decided inflammation from the effects of the changing silver was formed, the wigs had been worn in March, 1861. Of the three pieces obtained, one in April 30, 1861. Of those four pieces obtained, one is at the possession of the Government here; one was presented to the Historical Society of Louisiana; one to Brasil Anna, and the fourth was presented to Dr. R. F. Taylor, the colonel, who now resides in Louisiana.

Among the curious paper money the archives contained a great quality which was paid for the Confederate Navy and half a million dollars of Confederate bonds, also two large sheets and two pages containing millions of dollars of Confederate bonds, which were engraved by gentle Bureau of Engraving and Printing. Specimens of this money have been exhibited at the Centennial and other expositions, and a complete variety of the Confederate Treasury Department, from the issue of the War Department, and this scrap book, which is filled with the bank notes of the Confederate Government, with money of every denomination, is now worth more than its weight in gold.

The Department has also a complete list of the Confederate Senators and Representatives as they appeared on the floor of the Congress at Montgomery, and resolutions introduced in Congress. The first Congress met at Montgomery, February 4, 1861, at Montgomery, Ala. It was first known as the Provisional Congress and was in session for a period of about four months. After the permanent Congress was established the provisional Congress, the first of which met February 18, 1861, during its existence Congress had on the 30 of May, 1864, still held over. The original journal is the journal is basic on the 18th of March, 1865. In this journal are the names of members for districts in Missouri and Kentucky, although the States had never seceded. But in the Provisional Congress the number of members of the House was two hundred and six, as it was afterward reduced to one hundred and sixty-six. Most of the siltings of the Confederate Congress were secret, and the Governor Jefferson Davis, the President had the right to sit in them and to speak on the floor. The Cabinet Ministers and Ministers often conferred with Congress on matters of policy, though President Davis did not appear in person. The Confederate Constitution was very much like that of the United States, with some few recognized slavery. It prohibited a protective tariff, but allowed a tariff for revenue. Strips of adhesive plaster were put in various directions over the dog's head, and after the hair on the entire wound had been dusted with chloroform and iodoform were applied. The sides and body had been previously strapped to the table with leather straps, and the head, and this was permitted to be moved only sideways. The patient's head was also held firmly by means of a towel passed to tame the strain from the neck and resists the head.

The operation took about an hour and a half, and when the bandages and sutures fortunately there was no vomiting from the ether. The resolve positions of the dog's head was very happy. The dog was fed regularly, but did not seem to relish food. Something to drink was splendid, and when the dog was taken out for a walk it would lap water freely united to the head. As the healing process set in the wound dropped out, till enough was left to make a nice form on the forehead. The experiment was remarkably successful, and as the dog's head was healed it was tried again with good results. The work was applied to, and there had been thirteen distinct operations on the dog's head, and after each the dog's head was successfully sewn two, and in these the dog's head was healed. It took two dogs to furnish the flesh, the first supplying about a third of the material for tion from blood poisoning. The second dog was killed, and plugs around and over the hole at his thigh. The patient's head is covered with hair, and it looks natural. The combed there is hardly a trace of deformity, but when the hair is raised scars can be seen on the head of the operated dog.

Why Young Wyns is Mad.

A young man named Wynn of Salem, Mass., was given a glass of cider by a young lady named Alice Powers. He subsequently went to purchase a glass containing cold, which she did. Then she sloped and was married to Charles Baldwin in the dress paid for with Wynn's money.

The new hall of the Knights of Labor at Hornellsville, N. Y., is being raised magnificently toward completion.

Canada is unusually complacent with England in the shipment of hearty hardwood timber. Admiralty oak is not to be mentioned are shovels in large quantities.

The annual product of the spelt manufacturers of Buffalo, N. Y., is said to be about $1,000,000, and that of two other cities of Union combined. Seven million bushels of corn are thus annually consumed. Seventy-five dollars whereupon the city derives a revenue of two of the company's trains. The result is a handsome dividend.

It is said the trustees of the Brooklyn bridge have used their power to order a large shipment of punched tickets that have been collected from passengers on the cars. In the event of a panic, or fire, or other cause crossing a great many queer articles are put into the boxes, and realizing four profits on their productions.

It is stated on good authority that at the present rate of progress the cotton seed oil is used in the manufacture of lard is only a question of time when all lard will be fully refined cotton seed oil. Experiments for the purpose, in one city alone, is said to be fully three hundred barrels.

An Oregon Bear still has discovered that by the substitution of sawdust for coal at the mines, fifty dollars per day can be saved. Its fuel bill per day is the same as that of any other bear, and the pecuniary value on that which was burned fore thrown away.

A scrappy export from the Mint, who, for some time past, has been testing the mineral resources of Texas, reports that various sections contain iron ore enough, and of a superior quality, to supply the world for centuries to come. Coal is also found there.

The statements have infused a life into mankind headers of that region.

A REWARD OF MERIT.

An Incident Which Shows True Kindness Is Sometimes Appreciated.

A young commercial traveler was riding on the cars in the vicinity of Grand Rapids. There were, says the Detroit Free Press, a number of people in the same coach with him, but he noticed a very old man who looked as though he could not afford span of life, and a younger woman, tired and brave-stained, and accompanied by two small children, whose garments of the most economical description. He could not help overhearing a conversation between the old man and the woman. It appeared that the old man had been robbed of his money, and was going to his daughter's home in the country. The woman was a poor dressmaker, and lives in an elegant home on Fifth avenue. The young man was graduated from Columbia College about two years ago, and was sent to the University of Heidelberg to complete his education. It was there that he met with the misfort

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE, A. L. FORCE,
Editors and Proprietors.

Muhlenberg Hospital.

Dr. M. B. Long, the attending physician at Muhlenberg Hospital, makes the following official report of the patients cared for and treated at the Hospital for the month just passed:

Remaining in Hospital at date of last report..... 3
Admitted during same..... 6
Discharged cured..... 4
Discharged improved..... 1
Remaining in Hospital..... 4
Total number treated..... 9

M. B. LONG, Medical Director.

A Bicycle Road Race.

A number of Westfield's enterprising citizens have long desired to see a good bicycle road race. The result of such desire has been the subscribing of a generous fund for the purchase of three handsome prizes, and the arranging of a five-mile race, for the championship of the county, open to all amateur cyclers residing therein. The race will take place at Westfield July 23d, at 2:30 p. m., and we are promised that Mr. Marion Ackerman, the one-mile champion of the Plainfield Bicycle club, will uphold the credit of his club. The Elizabeth club has declined to have charge of the event. The race will be over a course measuring one-half mile, and repeat ten laps. The start and finish will be on Broad street near the hotel. The course will be to Central avenue, to North avenue and to Broad street again. From the entries that have been received by Secretary Arthur N. Pierson, every prospect of a close and interesting contest is apparent.

The Tennis Tournament Completed.

The finals in the tennis tournament between players of Elizabeth and this city, under the auspices of the Tennis Club, were completed Saturday afternoon with the results as given below. All those contesting in these finals are members of the Elizabeth club. Invitation to the President's formerly endorsed to-day, and I reiterate the invitation extended to him by the members of the standing of the Grand Army of the Republic here. I am an old Grand Army man, an old Abolitionist, and I am an old Black Republican to-day, as you know. I shall not one jot or tittle of my political antecedents or preferences, but I say as a citizen of St. Louis that no man deserves the President to visit St. Louis more than I do, and I say to you, my old comrades in the ranks of the Grand Army, and speaking for the men with whom I marched and fought, that the whole men of St. Louis will unite heartily in the invitation to the President of the United States, as President of the United States. [Applause.] And I speak for the Grand Army men of the city of St. Louis because I know them all as a Past Commander of a Post, and I know that if the President of the United States should come here as the guest of St. Louis, they would show him all the respect and attention of St. Louis would possibly show him. I believe I could speak for the whole of the Grand Army, and you know there are 300,000 men in that organization, and in 300,000 men there are liable to be a considerable number who haven't any sense. I want to say here that the Grand Army is not to be held responsible for the utterances of a few foolish men. I want to-day as a citizen of St. Louis and a member of the Grand Army to say that I heartily concur in what to the President of the United States, as such, to attend the festivities this Fall. I speak for the old men of the city, who gladly extend a hearty welcome to Grover Cleveland, and I say that when I say that he is the President of the United States, and I say this, as my political opinions differ from his, because a very position in which he has been placed he has shown himself a man of true patriotism and cheers.] When they learned on Tuesday last that an order had been issued by the Secretary of War to remove the flags, all the country to the Mexican border got up on its hind legs, and I must say I got up on my hind legs, for no man can get up and did not say that he had been deceived by any one, but that he had been misunderstood, but like a man he stood up and said: "I am a man who stands up before 50,000,000 people and say, 'I am wrong,' is a man who can stand up before 50,000,000 people and say, 'I am wrong,' is a man and deserves the respect of the people."

These were not the words of a Democrat, but of a life-long Republican, and a member of the Grand Army of the Republic who had risked personal safety upon the field of war for the sake of the Union, and not to gratify political venom.

We think if the roll of Grand Army soldiers was called, those willing to insult—aye insult the Presidency of the United States, would prove to be an insignificant squad. The great mass of Union soldiers forget to defend not relate it, to honor not insult.

The Internal Revenue receipts at the Somerville office for last week amounted to $12,107.62. The total receipts for the year were $647,100.00.

One of the New York dailies in speaking of the Montclair schools, says they claim to be fully the equal of "the public schools of Plainfield which stand the highest in the State."

The city of Trenton is like Plainfield in one respect at least, and that is, its limited amount of school room. In the Trenton public schools there is a seating capacity of 5,594 and the school population is 9,933.

The Trustees of the State Deaf and Dumb Institution in Chamberburg have organized by the election of Governor Green as President, State Superintendent Chapman as Secretary, and State Comptroller Anderson as Treasurer.

There are 240 newspapers in the State and only 109 permitted to publish the laws. According to the classification of the papers printed, thirty-four are democratic, thirty-four Republican, three German Democratic, three German Republican, two Labor, seventeen Independent, two German Independent, one Holland Republican and three Nondescript.

The laws of this State make it the duty of the Township Committee of each township to require the overseer of the highways to report annually at what place guide posts are required. The committees must within three months after the report erect the posts. The penalty for neglect is $10 for each, to be paid to the county.

There must be a post at the intersection of all highways.

Struck by Lightning.

During the heavy shower of rain Saturday a bolt of lightning struck the chimney on Mayor Justus H. Cooley's residence in North Plainfield, demolishing the stone, and tearing away a portion of the woodwork. The building did not take fire and consequently the only damage done was by the lightning. The only inmates of the house were Mrs. Cooley and an infant and they were visibly affected by the shock, but fortunately not injured.

Your Dogs Can't Bark.

Those of our citizens who have big dogs, Billy dogs, or yellow dogs with stump tails, should remember that the season for hydrophobia is at hand, and that a mad dog among the citizens is more to be dreaded than a wild Comanche on the war path. Your dogs may be very pretty, but in the Summer they are safer out of sight, and if you have a nice little dog try to induce him to stay at home, and see that he gets plenty of good fresh water and is well cared for, and you will have no hydrophobia about. If your dog persists in barking and howling the remedy is a simple one. Get the Court of Chancery to restrain him with an injunction. That Court has just granted an injunction to restrain the dogs of Mr. Dunn, of Flemington, from barking at night until the suit as to title is set. Friday's Press can be fully heard.

W. L. D. S.

Interesting Exercises at Trinity Reformed Church—Instrumental Music, Recitations and Singing.

The "Waldo Literary and Debating Society" is the name of a new organization recently formed by a number of the young ladies and gentlemen connected with the Trinity Reformed church and last Sunday school, the object of which is to meet from time to time at the residences of the various members and, enjoy an evening of general sociability, interspersed with spirited debates on prominent subjects. During the Winter these entertainments have been given at short intervals, and have become very popular among the members. The officers and members of the Society are as follows: President, Mr. Fred Lance; Vice-President, Mr. J. Ran Dunn; Secretary, Miss Lillie A. Force; Treasurer, Miss E. V. Whitley; Miss Jennie Dunn, Miss Lizzie Dunn, Miss Susie Van Winkle, Miss Emma U. King, Mr. S. J. Moore, Mr. Fred Cutter, Mr. Henry Williams, Mr. Julius Williams, Mr. Charles Geibner, Mr. Charles Wheeler.

Thursday last was the time set for the closing sociable of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of Trinity Reformed church, and the young people decided to offer the time at the disposal of the new society, and notwithstanding the distance and rain, a large crowd all day and evening, there were a large number of persons present to witness the interesting exercises, many of whom were there, upon invitation, from the other churches. Mr. S. J. Moore performed the duties as master of ceremonies in the absence of Mr. Crawford Himself. Each of the members of the society were beautiful hand painted silk badges, bearing the initials of the society. These were neatly executed vines and flowers, each of a different design, the same being the work of and presented by Mr. Moore. The programme was inaugurated by the promenade, accompanied by Prof. Durgee on the piano, after which the Superintendent of the Sunday school, Mr. E. E. Anthony, in a few appropriate words welcomed the pastor, Rev. Mr. Schenck, who responded in a touching tone, stating that his cordial greeting was altogether unexpected, but having selected a few remarks, then rendered according to the following announcement:

Instrumental Solo.....	Pia Dunn
Recitation.....	Somebody Knows.
	JENNIE DUNN.
Recitation.....	The Modern Belle.
	FRED. CUTTER.
Reading, Spoonopolis's Wrestle with a Bicycle.	CHAS. WHEELER.
Instrumental Duet.....	Di Brenna
	LILLIE FORCE, EMMA KING.
Recitation.....	The Dog and the Lobster.
	J. RAN DUNN.
Vocal Duet.....	Beautiful Moonlight.
	EMMA KING, EMMA WHITLEY.
Recitation.....	The Last Hymn.
	LILLIE FORCE.
Quartette.....	Selected.
S. KING, S. WHITLOCK, A. CARPENTER, C. WHEELER.

The oppressive heat probably caused the society to render a shorter musical programme, by responding to encores, although each and every piece was warmly received, and showed great talent on the part of the participants. An omission to the rule, however, was allowed the quartette, who were obliged to respond to persistent calls for "more."

President Gale of the Young People's Association, made a few appropriate remarks illustrating the object and advantages of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, after which an intermission was given for refreshments, which the writer will mark the beginning of the intermission Mr. W. E. Mattox gave a humorous recitation on "The Stubborn Mule," and Mr. Frank Coon sang a solo very effectively. The closing piece was by Messrs. Andrew Carpenter and Charles Wheeler, and after all united in singing "Blest be the tie that binds," the pastor dismissed the gathering with the benediction.

During the evening Messrs F. Dunn, Gale, Moore, Lucas and J. Ran Dunn amused themselves and the audience by attempting to sketch a pig on a black-board. Each one was blindfolded, and some of the scrawlings on the board might have been taken for a miniature map of South America, but all of them resembled the stubborn subject to a certain extent. Mr. Dunn's reproduction was considered the most life-like, and he therefore "took the cake."

That the entertainment was a grand success is apparent from the fact that those present attest to the universal sociability that prevailed, and the untiring efforts of those having the matter in charge to provide entertainment for the young and old alike. To this end the young ladies and gentlemen who compose the society, are to be congratulated on the success of their undertaking.

Credit Due the Cemetery Association.

The already great success of the Hillside Cemetery project is due mainly to the public spirit of the people and to good work in its Board of Trustees. The true philanthropy of their intents and the honesty of their purposes, are so openly apparent that opposition of such sort can never arise in the matter. Not one cent of profit to the past projectors or present managers of the scheme, comes out of it. Over $25,000 was already expended in the purchase of the grounds, and the proper laying of them out as far as completed. Nearly four hundred lots of lots amounting to about $32,000—according to the list compiled by THE PRESS and published in its issue of June 27th—subscribed for purchases and orders for ground not yet selected, swell the total for the two weeks since the opening of the sale to over $57,000. We do not remember a satisfactory a return in so short a time for any like amount of business risk, enterprise and philanthropy. This, as we said in the start, evidences the confidence of the people in the Trustees. The books of receipts and disbursements—if we mistake not—are open to examination at anytime, and each lot owner becomes immediately upon the recording of his purchase a voter in the affairs of the Association. The price per foot of ground is proved to have been judiciously determined, by the fact that the greatest demand and most money expended has been for the highest priced lots. Besides there are hundreds of lots offered as low as is charged for sites in the burying grounds about the city. When is appreciated the fact that all such will continue to be expended upon beautifying the entire cemetery, and in consequence each individual's possession, the prices seem remarkably low for the location and surroundings. In 10,000 young trees of healthy growth, that will begin to be transplanted as soon as proper season arrives. Work will be continued all about the grounds until Winter interferes, and the erection of a chapel at the entrance is soon to be commenced. In this building can be held services over the remains of those who are brought from distant places, or whose homes here are not available for friends to attend the funeral ceremonies. The Hillside Cemetery will be the most desirable place of its kind in the State before many years.

Praise Service.

In the chapel of Park avenue Baptist church Sunday evening, was held a special praise service that was largely attended and greatly enjoyed. The pastor, the Rev. A. R. Dills, preached an eloquent sermon on the question of praising God by service of song. The programme included two solos, a duet, and a quartette by an enlarged choir and the congregation. Mr. D. S. Bennett presided at the organ, and Mr. and Miss Bennett, of Cranford, sang a duet for base and contralto, as an offertory.

ANOTHER BARN BURNED.

An Incendiaries' Torch Causes a Loss of $2,500

For the past few months THE PRESS has periodically recorded the various incendiary fires in this locality, and that the old heading of "Another Barn Burned" is getting to be a chestnut. About 1.30 o'clock Tuesday morning, Miss Clara Denton, who is a sufferer from neuralgia, looked out of her bedroom window at her residence, corner of Hillside and Prospect avenue, and saw what she at first supposed to be the headlights of a locomotive. At the same time remarking—"how beautiful the moon is shining." In an instant, however, she discovered the barn on fire. The structure was a frame one, two stories high, with a basement, and about 30x40 feet in dimensions. The barn stood but a short distance from the house, and adjoining it on the north side was a wagon house. Miss Denton aroused the inmates of the house, and then hurried to the nearest neighbor, Mr. A. Stroud, with the intention of telephoning to this city. Mr. Denton went immediately to the barn and succeeded, with some difficulty in getting out all the live stock—two horses and two cows—but the barn and wagon house were totally destroyed, together with two carriages, (one new,) a buggy sleigh, a lot of harness, some hay, straw, grain and a quantity of farming implements. The fire originated in the East corner of the wagon house and burned with great rapidity, so that when the firemen responded to the alarm the structure was almost in ruins. The place is situated about a mile to the Southeast of the city, and consequently some minutes intervened between the time the alarm was sounded and the arrival of the firemen on the scene. When they arrived, however, they directed their attention to saving a neighboring barn which stood about thirty feet distant, and to that end they were successful. In order to get a stream on the fire, water had to be forced through a thousand feet of hose from Cedar brook and transmitted from one engine to another. No. 2 and 3 companies and Zeppo Hook and Ladder company were present and each company did effective work, for which Mr. L. J. Denton called us this afternoon and wished us to extend his thanks to the firemen and others who so kindly assisted in extinguishing the fire.

Mr. Denton told a PRESS reporter that he was accustomed to retire with a diary ogein, as none of the family were in the habit of smoking, and none of them had been in the barn during the evening. The property was insured for probably amount to $2,500, and that the barn, wagon-house and contents are covered by insurance to the amount of $1,500, the Liverpool, London and Company of Hartford and the remainder in the Home Company of New York.

Chief Dodd's Hearing.

Chief of Police Chas. W. Dodd, appeared before Justice Bethell Tuesday afternoon to answer to charges of assault preferred by Constable Garret P. Smith, of having obtained money under false pretenses, as noticed in Monday's PRESS. The complainant's charge was that Chief collected money from a German peddler named Herman Baskin giving him a receipt for the same, and also produced the following receipt, with no date attached:

"Received from Herman Baskin five dollars for a peddler's license in the city of Plainfield to March 1st 1888.

"CHAS. W. DODD, Chief of Police."

The complainant also produced an affidavit signed by the peddler, which was put in evidence.

Chief Dodd in his own behalf testified to the facts published in this paper yesterday, about meeting a German who asked him where he could obtain a license, and in the absence of the City Clerk the Chief took the man into City Judge Ulrich's office where he received five dollars for the license application, and fifty cents for the Clerk's fees, giving him in return the above receipt for his license money of five dollars. The Chief also swore to having written the following which he gave to the Clerk with the money:

"Herman Becher, New York, license money. "C. W. D."

City Clerk Leonard testified to having received the $5.50 cash together with the above note and believed to the best of his knowledge and belief that the application and money was presented and acted on by Council at its last meeting. Corporation Counsel Marsh appeared for Chief Dodd, and in summing up said that all persons were liable to make mistakes, especially in writing German names. The similarity in the names he said would readily show that they were meant for one and the same person. The case was concluded at four o'clock and the Justice discharged the accused.

Improving Music Hall.

Advantage will be taken of the season's rest, and work on the improvement of Music Hall acoustics and the repainting of its scenery is to begin at once. At the close of the past year's business, a balance upon the credit side of the books was shown. The Board of Directors instead of applying such surplus towards the payment of the outstanding mortgage of $25,000, decided to spend it in further effort and experiment to discover and remedy the always absent voices and ever present echoes that are lost or found in the Hall's dimensions. Nor is this all that is contemplated. The scenery is to be repainted, and possibly the drop curtain. The latter will be taken down and cleaned, anyway. The artist engaged is Mr. Seymour Parker, now engaged on the scenery for next season's road tour of "Michael Strogoff." He will begin his work here about the first of August, and as we have the promise that blue drawing-room set will be blotted out the first of all, we shall soon rejoice with those who will rejoice. The committee having all this in charge as appointed from the Board of Directors, is composed of Messrs. Alexander Gilbert, John W. Murray and Orville T. Waring.

A Boy Bitten by a Dog.

A lad named Robinson, residing on Grove street, North Plainfield, was passing along Mountain avenue on his way to a pasture field in the rear of Mr. Charles Hyde's residence on Wednesday, 6th, when he is reported to have been attacked and severely bitten by a mongrel dog belonging to a man on Mountain avenue. The dog fastened his teeth in one of the boy's legs, terribly lacerating the flesh and tearing his garments into fragments. The unfortunate youth was taken to his home, where he became delirious and remained in that condition for some time. A physician dressed the wounds and restored the boy to consciousness. The ordinance regulating to the muzzling of dogs, was adopted by the council at its meeting on Tuesday evening, and owners of dogs should attend to the matter and see that the ordinance is complied with strictly to the letter. Persons owning worthless curs should do well to hire some one to shoot them. With this latter class of canines, Plainfield is generously supplied.

Taken for an Electric Light.

The planet Venus now shines with such unusual brilliancy in the Western sky-space during the early part of the evening that some people in this locality and elsewhere are giving credence to the story that it is a new star, and that somebody sent up for us is sending up in a balloon, and that the gradual settling of the planet in the lower leg of the heavens. The planet is of unusual brilliancy, however, and some people still believe that it is a large and brilliant electric light. This fairest of stars has about the same relative position, apparently, from the sun, and shines like a young moon in the West. Jupiter is also very brilliant, and is visible near sunset, shining out of sight at midnight, below the Western horizon.

A Brilliant Affair.

A garden party and out-door high tea will be given on the spacious lawns of Captain Griswolde, U. S. N., at Netherwood, to-day, from 4.30 to 10.30 p. m. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the Episcopal church of Netherwood, and all arrangements for the occasion promise a brilliant affair. The residents and the Hotel guests will all favor the project by their presence and support, and its social and financial success is thus assured. The ladies who will take an active part include Miss Taylor of Brooklyn, a sister of Mrs. W. L. Brown, who will dress as a gypsy; and the Misses Haines, the Misses Griswolde, Miss Fatheringham, and Miss White, a sister of Mr. H. P. Talmadge. The grounds will be handsomely illuminated.

Saturday's Trotting Contests.

The race track of the Gentlemen's Driving Association at the Fair Grounds, was in an excellent condition on Saturday, and there was a fair attendance of spectators present to witness the usual Saturday afternoon trotting contests. The first race was between Edward Wartig's "Ledger Boy," H. S. Phillips' brown mare and August Fritz's brown horse. "Ledger Boy" won the race in 2:45. The next race was between Mr. O. T. Waring's "Copeland," John Osborne's "Care Not" and Mr. Zimmerman's "Tom Ochse." The first trotted to wagon and the two latter horses trotted to harness. "Copeland" won the heat in 2:38. Before the races were commenced a thunder storm set in, which during for the day was postponed. These weekly trials of speed are becoming quite popular, especially among owners of horse flesh. Admission to the grounds is free, and the sport is well worth a visit to the place.

Chief Dodd the Defendant.

Constable Garret P. Smith went before Justice Levi Hetfield on Saturday, and lodged a complaint against Chief Dodd charging him with an alleged obtaining of money under false pretenses. The complaint charges that on the — day of April last, the defendant collected money from one Herman Baskin a New York peddler who applied for a peddler's license, giving him in return a receipt for the same, which money he confiscated for his own personal benefit. The Chief appeared before the Justice, pleaded not guilty to the charge and demanded an examination.

To a reporter Chief Dodd said Monday morning that a great deal of the license money was collected on the street by the police, who would turn it over to the City Clerk, and the applicant would be given a receipt for the payment of the money. The latter part of last week Mayor Lewis and the application, among others, was sent into the Council at its regular meeting, Tuesday evening, 5th. The license was granted to the applicant, as the Mayor, and is now in the Clerk's office awaiting for the applicant to come after it. Referring to the charge in the complaint, the Chief said he was perfectly innocent.

Both Nines Beat.

Saturday was just the day to be either spectator or participant in a ball match. The sun was hid by the clouds, and the air was cool. All this was very satisfactory to the "Boddingtons" who played on the Park avenue grounds against the "Lilliputs," and just as welcome to the crowd, and to the fanny of both. A good ball game shall be played over the mouth of each day in each diameter as to the length of time, and any person who shall permit or suffer any dog owned or harbored by him to run at large in violation of the provisions of this ordinance, shall upon conviction thereof be punished by a fine not exceeding five dollars for each offense.

Sec. 2. That there shall be established for the purpose of impounding dogs found at large as provided in section 1st hereof, found running at large, a pound, to be in charge of a keeper, to be specially appointed. Two earnest persons shall be appointed impounders for the pound, who shall be sworn and impounded all dogs not entitled to be released as provided in section 3rd hereof. There shall be a fee of fifty cents for each dog delivered by him to the pound-master, which any person appointed to act as impounder may demand any dog other than such as are not muzzled as required by section 1st hereof, and no person be punished by a fine not exceeding five dollars, or imprisonment not exceeding five days, or both.

Sec. 3. That all dogs delivered to the pound-master shall be released by a charge of fifty cents per day or fraction of a day for their keeping, and a charge of twenty-five cents for the use of one collar to be paid by the owner of the dog to the pound-master for the redemption of which to the charge for keep. The pound-master shall keep a record of the name of the owner of each of the persons paid him, and the number of dogs for which he received pay, and shall on the first Monday of each month pay over to the Treasurer of the Township all moneys received by him during the preceding month, and shall be entitled to receive as compensation for his services the sum of ten cents per day for each dog delivered by him to the pound-master, which any person appointed to act as impounder may demand any dog other than such as are not muzzled as required by section 1st hereof, and no person be punished by a fine not exceeding five dollars, or imprisonment not exceeding five days, or both.

Sec. 4. That all dogs delivered to the pound-master shall be released by a charge of fifty cents per day or fraction of a day for their keeping, and a charge of twenty-five cents for the use of one collar to be paid by the owner of the dog to the pound-master for the redemption of which to the charge for keep. The pound-master shall keep a record of the name of the owner of each of the persons paid him, and the number of dogs for which he received pay, and shall on the first Monday of each month pay over to the Treasurer of the Township all moneys received by him during the preceding month, and shall be entitled to receive as compensation for his services the sum of ten cents per day for each dog delivered by him to the pound-master, which any person appointed to act as impounder may demand any dog other than such as are not muzzled as required by section 1st hereof, and no person be punished by a fine not exceeding five dollars, or imprisonment not exceeding five days, or both.

Sec. 5. That all ordinances inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed.

Adopted July 5, 1887.

Approved July 8, 1887. JOB MALE, Mayor.

Attest: O. D. LEONARD, City Clerk.

Reform Club.

The meeting Sunday night in Reform Hall was of decided interest. George M. Angleman and Rev. Mr. Honeyman occupied the speakers platform, and both gentlemen delivered earnest addresses in favor of total abstinence from the drink habit, holding up to view the manifold blessings Temperance is sure to confer, and quoting practical examples to show the terrible effects of indulging liquor. President French followed with a few well timed remarks, and during the closing music of Mr. Vanderbeck's choir two men came forward and signed the pledge. Dr. Honeyman delivered the benediction and the audience dispersed.

WESTFIELD

Dr. Gale has opened an ice cream saloon in his new Club house on Elm street.

Augustus K. Gale started Thursday on a two week's vacation at Montpelin, N. J.

Koster and Todd have received the contract for building a stone bridge on Broad street near Union avenue. A new bridge at that point has been wanted for some time—the old one having fallen in so as to stop the free passage of water through it.

The body of Miss A. T. MacIlmoree, the young lady that was killed last week in the explosion of the Celoinic factory at Arlington, N. J., was interred in Fairview cemetery on Sunday afternoon. The deceased was a neice of freeholder Pierson. Funeral services are to be held next Sunday in the Presbyterian church at Arlington.

NEW MARKET.

The School Trustees are going to overhaul the building and make some improvements in fencing—but not before it is wanted.

Dr. Edwards intends removing in a short time to Newark, N. J., where he has received a very advantageous offer in his profession.

Miss Nelson having resigned her charge of the primary department, Miss Mamie Titsworth, who recently graduated at Plainfield, has received a notification of her appointment.

A majority of the Trustees consider it desirable to make a change in the Principal, not because the scholars have failed to advance satisfactorily in their studies, but on account of a rather too lax system of discipline. That the late Principal was exceedingly popular with her scholars is beyond contradiction, as evinced by the testimonial presented to her by the scholars at the closing exercises, which was subscribed and paid for by a large proportion of the class each of the 4 or 5 cts. It certainly is a source of regret that one who is competent in every respect but one—and that one a very important one for consideration—should receive a dismissal which is not approved by a large number of the parents. No matter who the Trustees may employ they will find such a policy or infallible.

BROAD BRIM.

LIST OF ADVERTISED LETTERS.

REMAINING IN PLAINFIELD POST OFFICE FOR WEEK ENDING JULY 16, 1887.

Adams, Mrs Dr
Brown, Miss Julia
Burne, John
Cook, Mr. Frank (2)
Coffin, Mrs Will
Dunn, Samuel
Forman, Wm
Hall, Miss Sarah N
Hughes, Miss M
Lane, Mrs William
Moore, David
Morrison, Mrs Jane
Mingle, Mrs Edw J
Stewart, Wm
Sayler, Mrs Rebecca
Thompson, Mrs Peter D
Thompson, Mrs Marie F
Van Winkle, Mrs Jane
VanDerveer, Mrs W S
Wilson, Mrs
Wilson, Richard

Persons calling for above please say advertised.

W. L. FORCE, Postmaster.

AN ORDINANCE

Concerning Dogs.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That no dog shall be suffered by its keeper, shall be permitted to run at large within the city of Plainfield, between the 1st day of April and the 1st day of November, unless such dog shall be muzzled with a good and sufficient muzzle, to be approved by the Mayor of said city, and any person who shall permit or suffer any dog owned or harbored by him to run at large in violation of the provisions of this ordinance, shall upon conviction thereof be punished by a fine not exceeding five dollars for each offense.

Sec. 2. That there shall be established for the purpose of impounding dogs found at large as provided in section 1st hereof, found running at large, a pound, to be in charge of a keeper, to be specially appointed. Two earnest persons shall be appointed impounders for the pound, who shall be sworn and impounded all dogs not entitled to be released as provided in section 3rd hereof. There shall be a fee of fifty cents for each dog delivered by him to the pound-master, which any person appointed to act as impounder may demand any dog other than such as are not muzzled as required by section 1st hereof, and no person be punished by a fine not exceeding five dollars, or imprisonment not exceeding five days, or both.

Sec. 3. That all dogs delivered to the pound-master shall be released by a charge of fifty cents per day or fraction of a day for their keeping, and a charge of twenty-five cents for the use of one collar to be paid by the owner of the dog to the pound-master for the redemption of which to the charge for keep. The pound-master shall keep a record of the name of the owner of each of the persons paid him, and the number of dogs for which he received pay, and shall on the first Monday of each month pay over to the Treasurer of the Township all moneys received by him during the preceding month, and shall be entitled to receive as compensation for his services the sum of ten cents per day for each dog delivered by him to the pound-master, which any person appointed to act as impounder may demand any dog other than such as are not muzzled as required by section 1st hereof, and no person be punished by a fine not exceeding five dollars, or imprisonment not exceeding five days, or both.

Sec. 4. That all ordinances inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed.

Adopted July 5, 1887.

Approved July 8, 1887. JOB MALE, Mayor.

Attest: O. D. LEONARD, City Clerk.

Central Railroad of New Jersey

Station in New York—Foot of Liberty Street.

Time Table in Effect June 27, 1887.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 2.27, 5.45, 6.22, 7.01, 7.30, 7.59, 8.02, 8.35, 8.40, 9.32, 10.37, 11.10, 11.45, a. m., 12.35, 1.25, 2.35, 3.45, 4.30, 5.10, 5.35, 5.45, 6.40, 7.11, 11.16, p. m. Sunday—2.27, 8.02, 8.35, 9.32, 10.37, 11.10, a. m., 1.25, 5.10, 6.40, 7.11, 11.16, p. m.

Leave New York from foot of Liberty street, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00, 11.30, a. m., 12.00, 12.30, 1.00, 1.30, 2.00, 2.30, 3.00, 3.30, 4.00, 4.30, 5.00, 5.30, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00, 11.30, p. m. Sunday—8.00, 8.45, 9.00, a. m., 12.00, p. m., 1.30, 4.00, 4.30, 5.00, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 9.30, 10.00, 10.30, 11.00, 11.30, p. m.

Fare between New York and Plainfield, 50 cents.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5.30, 7.10, 8.30, 9.31, 11.08, a. m., 2.00, 3.10, 4.55, 5.45, 6.40, 7.11, 11.16, p. m. Sunday—5.30, 10.58, a. m., 5.45, 6.34, 6.40, 10.46, p. m.

Leave Somerville 6.00, 7.40, 8.40, 10.00, 11.38, a. m., 2.30, 3.40, 5.25, 6.15, 7.10, 7.41, 11.46, p. m. Sunday—6.00, 11.28, a. m., 6.15, 7.04, 7.10, 11.46, p. m.

Fare between Plainfield and Somerville, 25 cents.

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield 5.30, 7.10, 8.30, 9.31, 11.08, a. m., 2.00, 3.10, 4.55, 5.45, 6.40, 7.11, 11.16, p. m. Sunday—5.30, 10.58, a. m., 5.45, 6.34, 6.40, 10.46, p. m.

Leave Newark 6.00, 7.40, 8.40, 10.00, 11.38, a. m., 2.30, 3.40, 5.25, 6.15, 7.10, 7.41, 11.46, p. m. Sunday—6.00, 11.28, a. m., 6.15, 7.04, 7.10, 11.46, p. m.

Fare between Plainfield and Newark, 25 cents.

Leave Plainfield 8.30, 9.31, a. m., 2.00, 3.10, 4.55, 5.45, 6.40, 7.11, 11.16, p. m. Sunday—8.30, 10.58, a. m., 5.45, 6.34, 6.40, 10.46, p. m.

Leave Somerville 10.00, 11.38, a. m., 3.40, 5.25, 6.15, 7.10, 7.41, 11.46, p. m. Sunday—10.00, 11.28, a. m., 6.15, 7.04, 7.10, 11.46, p. m.

Fare between Somerville and Plainfield, 25 cents.

Leave Plainfield 8.30, 9.31, a. m., 2.00, 3.10, 4.55, 5.45, 6.40, 7.11, 11.16, p. m. Sunday—8.30, 10.58, a. m., 5.45, 6.34, 6.40, 10.46, p. m.

Leave Newark 10.00, 11.38, a. m., 3.40, 5.25, 6.15, 7.10, 7.41, 11.46, p. m. Sunday—10.00, 11.28, a. m., 6.15, 7.04, 7.10, 11.46, p. m.

Fare between Newark and Plainfield, 25 cents.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

LEAVE PLAINFIELD.

5.30, a. m.—For Boston, Albany, Rochester, Buffalo and Starch Creek.

8.30, a. m.—For Boston, Albany, Rochester, Buffalo, Dunkirk, Erie, Corry, Lehigh, Scranton, Binghamton, Elmira, Waverly, Owego, Ithaca, Geneva, Bridge Branch, Hackettstown, Lake Hopatcong, Mount Arlington, Dover, Morristown, Mount Olive, Chester, Hackettstown, Tennessee, Manunka Chunk, Delaware Water Gap, Stroudsburg, Easton, Allentown, Bethlehem, Reading, Harrisburg, Manch Chunk, &c.

8.30, a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge and Lebanon.

1.10, p. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge and Lebanon, connecting at Junction with Lehigh Valley R. R. for Easton, Allentown, Bethlehem, Reading, Harrisburg, Manch Chunk, &c.

4.55, p. m.—For Boston, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Manch Chunk, &c.

5.45, p. m.—For Boston, Albany, Rochester, Buffalo, Dunkirk, Erie, Corry, Lehigh, Scranton, Binghamton, Elmira, Waverly, Owego, Ithaca, Geneva, Bridge Branch, Hackettstown, Lake Hopatcong, Mount Arlington, Dover, Morristown, Mount Olive, Chester, Hackettstown, Tennessee, Manunka Chunk, Delaware Water Gap, Stroudsburg, Easton, Allentown, Bethlehem, Reading, Harrisburg, Manch Chunk, &c.

6.40, p. m.—For Boston, Albany, Rochester, Buffalo, Dunkirk, Erie, Corry, Lehigh, Scranton, Binghamton, Elmira, Waverly, Owego, Ithaca, Geneva, Bridge Branch, Hackettstown, Lake Hopatcong, Mount Arlington, Dover, Morristown, Mount Olive, Chester, Hackettstown, Tennessee, Manunka Chunk, Delaware Water Gap, Stroudsburg, Easton, Allentown, Bethlehem, Reading, Harrisburg, Manch Chunk, &c.

7.11, p. m.—For Boston, Albany, Rochester, Buffalo, Dunkirk, Erie, Corry, Lehigh, Scranton, Binghamton, Elmira, Waverly, Owego, Ithaca, Geneva, Bridge Branch, Hackettstown, Lake Hopatcong, Mount Arlington, Dover, Morristown, Mount Olive, Chester, Hackettstown, Tennessee, Manunka Chunk, Delaware Water Gap, Stroudsburg, Easton, Allentown, Bethlehem, Reading, Harrisburg, Manch Chunk, &c.

11.16, p. m.—For Boston, Albany, Rochester, Buffalo, Dunkirk, Erie, Corry, Lehigh, Scranton, Binghamton, Elmira, Waverly, Owego, Ithaca, Geneva, Bridge Branch, Hackettstown, Lake Hopatcong, Mount Arlington, Dover, Morristown, Mount Olive, Chester, Hackettstown, Tennessee, Manunka Chunk, Delaware Water Gap, Stroudsburg, Easton, Allentown, Bethlehem, Reading, Harrisburg, Manch Chunk, &c.

Through tickets to all points West, Northwest and Southwest, at the lowest rates, may be obtained at the office of the company, foot of Liberty street, New York.

Baggage checked from residence by Union Transfer Company. All information may be obtained at the office of the company, foot of Liberty street, New York, or at the ticket office, Plainfield.

A. A. HEARD, General Manager.
C. G. HANCOCK, General Passenger Agent.

GO TO ALLEN'S For Stationery.

23 E. FRONT STREET.

DEATHS.

BROWN—At Belleville, N. J., July 7th, 1887, Mr. William Brown, formerly of Scotch Plains, aged 72 years, 10 days.

OLDAK—In this city, Sunday, July 10th, 1887, of cholera infantum, Janet, only child of William and Janet Oldak, aged nine months.

HENDERSON—In this city, July 9th, Carrie, daughter of James and Thirsea E. Henderson, aged 9 years.

MORANLET—In North Plainfield, July 8th, Joseph B. Moranlet, son of Robert Moranlet, aged 9 years, 10 months.

MILLER—Sunday, July 10th, Donald, infant son of Lida Willet and Frank J. Miller.

PETTIT—In this city, July 9th, Charles J., son of Silas and Sarah Pettit, aged four years and four months.

STILL MAN—In this city, Monday, July 11, 1887, of cholera infantum, Harriet Elizabeth, only child of Harriet L. and Alba M. Stillman, aged 6 months and 12 days.

SPARLING—In this city, July 7th, Thomas Sparling in his 72nd year.

STUART—In North Plainfield, July 7th, of consumption, Robert and Harriet A. Stuart, aged 26 years, 10 months.

TALLIAFT—In North Plainfield, July 6th, Cyprian L. Talliaft, in his 59th year.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

FORD & STILES,
Funeral Directors
and Practical Embalmers.
Office, 37 Broadway, Corner Prince St.
No. 14 EAST FRONT STREET.
Telephone Call No. 41.
Residence—262 Jefferson Ave. E. STILES.

A. M. RUNYON & SON,
Undertakers and Embalmers,
50 Park avenue.
Telephone Call 56.
Residence—262 Jefferson Ave.
Telephone Call 56.
"Office of Hillside Cemetery."

P. CASEY & SON,
UNDERTAKERS.
Office, 107 Somerset street, Plainfield, N. J. Third street, corner New, Plainfield, N. J. Everything pertaining to the business furnished at short notice, and lower rates than any other firm in the State. All Calls Promptly Answered, Day or Night.—ly

OWNS AND OPERATES OVER
6,000 Miles
OF PERFECTLY CONSTRUCTED RAILWAY.
PENETRATES THE BEST PORTIONS OF ILLINOIS, IOWA, WISCONSIN, MINNESOTA, NEBRASKA,
DAKOTA, COLORADO AND WYOMING.
CHICAGO
AND NORTHWESTERN RAILWAY
AND MILWAUKEE, ST. PAUL,
AND CHICAGO RAILWAYS.
COUNCIL BLUFFS, OMAHA,
THE ONLY ROUTES OF MICHIGAN WITH THROUGH CAR SERVICE
AND NORTHERN NEBRASKA,
MICHIGAN, LINK

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST, - - City Editor.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE OF MAILS.

NEW YORK MAILS.
CLOSE—8.00 a.m; 10.00 a. m; 4.00 p.m; 7.30 p.m.
ARRIVE—1.30, 9 p.m; 11.45 a.m; 2.30 and 4.30 p.m.

NEW JERSEY, CENTRAL, &C., MAILS.
CLOSE—7.30 a. m; 4.30 p. m.
ARRIVE—8.30 a. m. and 4.30 p. m.

SUNDAY MAILS.—CLOSE—10.30 a. m. Office open from 4.30 a. m. to 10.30 a. m. Mail closed at 7 p. m.

Mail for Watchung closes Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 6 p. m.

Post Office opens at 7 a. m. and closes at 7.30 p. m. Saturdays closes at 8.30 p. m. Open every evening until 8.30 p. m. for letters at lobby.

Money order office open from 8 a. m., 10 p. m. Saturdays to 4 p. m.

W. L. Peace, Postmaster.

—It's having a great run—perspiration.

—Owing to the recent hot weather, complaints of foul gutters were unusually numerous in the Board of Health.

—Contractor Cottell of Dunellen has completed macadamizing Prospect avenue, and has made a first-class job of it.

—Books containing fifty trips between this city and New York, good for sale at any of the bearers, are on sale at the ticket office at eighteen dollars. Thirty-six cents each way.

—The Plainfield Singing and Turning Society netted about $200 on their Fourth of July picnic, which will be donated to the erection of their new building on Somerset street.

—The ball match between the married and single men of Dunellen, announced to take place there on Saturday, was postponed on account of the married men failing to put in an appearance.

—Mr. L. Heyniger, the Somerset street merchant, has recently purchased a handsome new delivery wagon, which is to be seen upon the streets of the city, delivering goods to his numerous patrons.

—To-day and every Friday is "ladies' day" on the Dunellen Club's tennis court. The fair sex are then permitted to share in the enjoyment of at least that portion of the pleasure of the selfish cyclist.

—One of the cleanest Park avenue butcher shop killed a large snake about eight inches long, in front of the store last week, but he emphatically denies the accusation that it emerged from his boots. This is no snake story.

—In our issue of June 29th, we proposed the giving of public band concerts in the City Park during one or two evenings of each week. The suggestion, we are glad to inform our readers, is meeting with consideration, and there is hope the idea will be adopted.

—A valuable horse, one of a $700 team belonging to Fred. Valentine of Central avenue, was seriously injured in the hay field a few days since, by stepping on a cradle. One of the animal's legs was terribly lacerated so as to render him almost useless.

—We understand from one of our city fathers, that some gruesome insists the Council should take steps towards the extermination of the present colonies and the prevention of further immigration of the potato-bug. Such foods make even boys of common sense tired.

—Complaint is made against the driver of a horse and railway wagon, who is allowed to go among the butchers during the hot weather, buying bones and tallow. The stench arising from the wagon is sometimes almost intolerable, and ladies have been known to cross the street to escape passing it.

—A lady drove a horse and phaeton so unexpectedly around the corner of Second and Second streets, Saturday afternoon, about six o'clock, that a rapidly riding cyclist jammed into the front wheel of the carriage, bounced himself off, and picked up the wreck of his machine as the lady disappeared up the street.

—There is a possibility of two or three Summer evening concerts—festivals in Central avenue church, during the present season. The programme will be of popular music. Mr. Taft of Clinton avenue church, Brooklyn, will be in charge, and the admission will be free. For all these reasons the attendance will be unlimited.

—The remnants of the two barns up Sixth street were picked up yesterday. They were destroyed by fire a few weeks ago, are left in such a position as to make it dangerous for pedestrians to pass along Sixth street. But a short time would be required to remove the debris, and all possibility of the timbers falling would thus be averted.

—Guests of The Netherwood and the residents of the adjacent cottages need no more come into town for their Sunday shave. "Chris" has the coolest little shaving parlor that could be desired, just off the main hall of the hotel, and years of experience enables him to please even the most cherubic growler that ever came and a hot towel.

—"Sol," a messenger boy at the depot, has taken a contract to dispose of cats, we are informed. A day or two ago, he threw a salt sack containing a feline on a passing coal train, bound for the coal fields in Pennsylvania. Any person who has diminished his supply of cats and other undesirable families in his house, is requested to fill the community of these "sweet voiced" animals, will confer a favor on the young man by informing him of the fact at once.

—We are told that it is the practice of some residents to take smooth the roadway in front of their property, and then place logs in the gutter at the boundary lines of their lots to prevent carriages from driving over the ground. Major Hoag, Lane A. Green, and others, on his way home through Sixth street, Saturday night, turned out for another vehicle, and striking one of the barriers of which we speak, wrecked his buggy considerably. Any Court will sustain his just claim for damages.

—Persons have been in the habit of dumping ashes on the low ground adjoining Mr. Isaac Brown's residence on Broadway, and some of them, it is said, have even dumped sewage matter there without Mr. Brown's knowledge or consent. The Health Inspector informs us that the owner of the land now compels all persons to cover their loads with earth before being allowed to dump anything on his land, so that he can see that nothing which is detrimental to the public health is permitted to be deposited there.

—The Sunday evening meetings at Warren Union Mission are largely attended. The one last Sunday was especially full of interest, and the service of song particularly pleasing. Solos were rendered by Mr. M. M. Dunham and Mr. George Belcher, with the choristers and congregation uniting in full chorus. Secretary Manning of the Y. M. C. A., had charge of the devotional exercises, and the meeting was as profitable as it was thoroughly enjoyable. After two more Sunday evenings, the meetings will close for the Summer months.

—The police were notified last Thursday that a lot of boys were in the habit of bathing in the brook opposite the Evona depot, and that they were frequently seen along the roadway on Rushville, very much to the inconvenience of persons who were obliged to pass the place on the way to and from their homes. The boys should remember that an ordinance in the book-ough prohibits bathing in a nude state, and if they are caught bathing on this side of the "brook" they are also liable to a fine of $5 per centum. Here is another point illustrating the necessity of a public bath in Plainfield.

—Gardens never looked finer.

—Drowning accidents are reported from all parts of the country.

—Lawn parties and lawn dresses are much in vogue.

—There is an immense amount of travel on the railroads.

—Many of the fashionable elite in the city are a prey to the worms.

—Most of the school teachers have gone from the city on vacation.

—There will be many vacant seats in the Sunday schools for several weeks.

—The big pumpkins, squashes, etc., are getting in trailing for the State fairs.

—Sailor hats were never so much worn by young misses and ladies as this season.

—Corn has taken a prodigious leap recently, and the hot nights did the business.

—Mr. J. W. Jackson and family of Crescent avenue went to Asbury Park, Monday.

—Lone mounted dogs are observed on the streets this season than in former years.

—There were 329 passengers on the W. C. T. U. excursion Friday, including about twenty from Elizabeth.

—Many of the lawns throughout the city present a charming appearance. The recent rains have benefitted them very much.

—As they came out of church, Saturday morning, the Seventh-Day Baptists were caught in the rain with their Sunday clothes on.

—The members of the Fire Board do not anticipate getting a decision in the tax case matter on the October term of the Supreme Courts.

—The Board of Appeals in cases of taxation, will sit in the City Court room on Wednesday, July 20th, between the hours of two and six p. m.

—Assessor Isaac Brokaw has commenced the erection of a two-story addition, 16x16 feet, to his already handsome residence on Park avenue. All the modern improvements will be put in.

—It is officially stated that the limit of redemption of the trade dollars does not expire with the Calendar year, but instead of July 1st, as heretofore announced.

—Subscribers of The Press and Constitutionalist having town, can have the paper sent to their address without additional cost, by furnishing their full names and address to this office.

—All of the hotel proprietors along the new Jersey coast report that their business for the month of June was far in excess of that of any previous year.

—The Plainfield Bicycle Club's roadrace to New Brunswick and back—from New Market to New Brunswick—now after much discussion at a club meeting of last Monday, very indefinitely postponed.

—Three children were left at Asbury Park when the excursion train started from there Friday evening, but they were returned to Plainfield, at extra expense of the railroad company, arriving here on the 9.29 p. m. train.

—Edward Staats, the colored youth who was accidently shot in the leg by the careless use of a revolver a few weeks ago, is now pronounced to be out of danger.

—The wound is healing nicely and the patient is able to walk out.

—A good excursion, for July 23d, is arranged for the accomodation of the new shore of the Baptists and their friends. No better planned, nor carefully managed excursion ever goes out of the city than one cold-water friends represent.

—Be careful of the little ones. Don't neglect the first sign of intestinal trouble. If any diseases are more fatal, particularly among adults as cholera infantum now is with the babies, the whole country would be panic-stricken over the epidemic.

—A special meeting of the Plainfield Bicycle Club will be held Monday evening, July 25th, for the consideration and adoption of a new constitution and set of by-laws revised and compiled by a committee consisting of Messrs. Martine, E. Ackerman and D. M. Runyon.

—Although not largely attended, the excursion to Ocean Grove, last Friday, under the management of the W. C. T. U., was a well conducted and most enjoyable one. If not a financial success, it will be the first time during the past decade that the ladies found the balance on the wrong side.

—The contests for the consolation prizes offered by the Plainfield Tennis Club for competition among the players, the first were destroyed by fire a few weeks ago, are left in such a position as to make it dangerous for pedestrians to pass along Sixth street. But a short time would be required to remove the debris, and all possibility of the timbers falling would thus be averted.

—Guests of The Netherwood and the residents of the adjacent cottages need no more come into town for their Sunday shave. "Chris" has the coolest little shaving parlor that could be desired, just off the main hall of the hotel, and years of experience enables him to please even the most cherubic growler that ever came and a hot towel.

—"Sol," a messenger boy at the depot, has taken a contract to dispose of cats, we are informed. A day or two ago, he threw a salt sack containing a feline on a passing coal train, bound for the coal fields in Pennsylvania. Any person who has diminished his supply of cats and other undesirable families in his house, is requested to fill the community of these "sweet voiced" animals, will confer a favor on the young man by informing him of the fact at once.

—We are told that it is the practice of some residents to take smooth the roadway in front of their property, and then place logs in the gutter at the boundary lines of their lots to prevent carriages from driving over the ground. Major Hoag, Lane A. Green, and others, on his way home through Sixth street, Saturday night, turned out for another vehicle, and striking one of the barriers of which we speak, wrecked his buggy considerably. Any Court will sustain his just claim for damages.

—Persons have been in the habit of dumping ashes on the low ground adjoining Mr. Isaac Brown's residence on Broadway, and some of them, it is said, have even dumped sewage matter there without Mr. Brown's knowledge or consent. The Health Inspector informs us that the owner of the land now compels all persons to cover their loads with earth before being allowed to dump anything on his land, so that he can see that nothing which is detrimental to the public health is permitted to be deposited there.

—The Sunday evening meetings at Warren Union Mission are largely attended. The one last Sunday was especially full of interest, and the service of song particularly pleasing. Solos were rendered by Mr. M. M. Dunham and Mr. George Belcher, with the choristers and congregation uniting in full chorus. Secretary Manning of the Y. M. C. A., had charge of the devotional exercises, and the meeting was as profitable as it was thoroughly enjoyable. After two more Sunday evenings, the meetings will close for the Summer months.

—The police were notified last Thursday that a lot of boys were in the habit of bathing in the brook opposite the Evona depot, and that they were frequently seen along the roadway on Rushville, very much to the inconvenience of persons who were obliged to pass the place on the way to and from their homes. The boys should remember that an ordinance in the book-ough prohibits bathing in a nude state, and if they are caught bathing on this side of the "brook" they are also liable to a fine of $5 per centum. Here is another point illustrating the necessity of a public bath in Plainfield.

Personalia.

C. Schepflin and family are registered at the Manhattan Beach Hotel.

General Van Buren and family of Ninth street, are summering at Spring Lake, N. J.

Miss Baker of Boston, is visiting at the residence of Mrs. W. F. Smith, at Netherwood.

Miss Maria Toohey, of Short Second street, is spending a few weeks visit at Long Branch.

Mr. D. Lowitz of West Sixth street, is registered at the Surf Avenue House, Ocean Grove.

Mr. Frank Ryno and wife, of Jersey City Heights, are spending a few days with relatives in the Borough.

Arthur Boone, the eldest son of Dr. W. C. Boone of this city has joined the family at Sunset Hall, Asbury Park.

Mr. John W. Murray's family of Central avenue are at the "Prospect House," Bay Shore, N. Y., for the Summer.

Mr. John Dunning formerly of this city, but now of Brooklyn, is spending a few weeks among his old friends here.

Mr. John W. Laing has about entirely recovered from the injuries and bruises received in his upset some few weeks ago.

Mr. Tiffany of Crescent avenue, has returned from the Adirondacks, where he has been rusticating for some time past.

George Vincent, son of Rev. Dr. J. H. Vincent, has gone to Chautauqua to attend the annual Assembly of the C.L.S.C.

Mr. H. B. Newhall, wife and children of East Seventh street, are recuperating at North Water, Pa., in the Pocono Mountains.

Mr. Taft, a gentleman from Brooklyn, and his family, have taken possession of the house on Park avenue, near Cedarbrook.

Mrs. C. A. Miller, Mrs. F. A. Chapman and Miss Nina Chapman of Third Place, are summering at the Crossman House, Alexander Bay, N. Y.

"Uncle Dan" Roberts has been giving the front of his livery and residence a coat of paint, which improves the appearance of the same greatly.

Miss Mary S. Hornby and Miss Anna Day, both teachers in the public schools, have gone to Belgium, N. Y., to spend their Summer vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Bonney of North Plainfield, accompanied by their two children, left the city Thursday afternoon, for a short sojourn at Ocean Grove.

Mr. John I. Holly has disposed of his handsome property adjoining the Fair Grounds to Gen. S. K. Schwenk, who is widowed as a new citizen of the city of Elms.

Mr. W. L. Jones of Seventh street and Park avenue is at present so seriously ill that there seems to be no hope of his entire recovery. A recent stroke has paralyzed his powers of speech.

Ex-Councilman John Cameron is progressing favorably in his work of constructing a railroad in North Carolina. There is no reality too "tiresome" for John to construct a railroad, when he takes a contract.

Judge Enos W. Runyon, a former resident of this city, and now of Asbury Park, is visiting brothers and sisters here. The Judge has been in ill-health for some time, but his many friends are glad to note that he is looking and feeling better.

The Elizabeth Herald in speaking of the tennis tournament here, says: "In the Watchung Mourns, Bo and Walt, of Plainfield, defeated Messrs. Elliott and Knapp, of this city, the latter being considered one of the strongest teams in New Jersey.

Among the latest arrivals at Asbury Park from this city, according to the Journal of that place, are Messrs. I. C. Pierson and J. B. Hallock at the Mount Hope; Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Platt at the "Leadley;" and Stephen Cahoone at "Norwood Hall."

Dr. C. M. Field, who is at present in Brooklyn within reach of the advice and consultation with the physicians of the highest repute in the World, expects to return home here soon for a few days. He probably will not, however, re-open his practice before Fall.

Captain A. L. C. Marsh of the Cyclers, is becoming quite an adept at lawn tennis since the construction of the Bicycle Club's tennis court. He may be noticed in earnest practice almost every evening, and is already one of the most skillful and graceful racket-holders in the Club.

Miss Julia E. Bulkley, Principal of the Plainfield Public Schools, who in company with Miss Florence Rasbmore and Miss Alice Lansing of this city, and Miss Lillie Osborn, of Chicago, sailed for Europe on the steamer "Germanic," Wednesday, June 22th, arrived at Liverpool, at eleven o'clock Friday last.

Miss Annie Buckley of Park avenue, who, with her sister, left town last week, joined by a party of friends from New York, to spend the Fourth at their home among the Catskills, has returned to Plainfield. Miss Kate Buckley still remains to enjoy the refreshing mountain breezes a while longer.

The extensive alterations that will be made in the residence ex-Councilman Thompson recently purchased at Central avenue and Sixth street, are from plans prepared by Architect Charles H. Smith. An extensive porch, an outside chimney and other features will change materially the style of the exterior.

Rev. Edgar Lorman Field of this city sailed on Saturday for a trip and short visit to the country of his birth. His address during his absence from America will be "21 Kensington, Thames, Saint Halia." On his return to the continent of equality and freedom, however, he'll again be plain "Peanutty Johnnie" of North Avenue.

The many who in passing express surprise and pleasure at the extensive improvements Dr. Long has made in the exterior of the residence of his father-in-law is occupying on Park avenue above Fourth street, would also greatly admire the result of the rearrangement of the interior. Electric lights and electric annunciators are also being placed through the house.

Mrs. John Lindsley of West Front street, in company of Mrs. John Marr and daughter, Miss Rachael, of Leland avenue, the latter a teacher in the North Plainfield public school, sailed for Scotland, per steamer "State of Georgia" of the State Line, at seven a. m., Thursday last. Mrs. Lindsley will spend the Summer with friends at Ayrshire, and Mrs. Marr and her daughter will spend several weeks visiting in various parts of Scotland.

Mrs. John Walker of Park avenue, received a letter on the 6th from her sister, Miss Nettie Wilson, who is summering in Scotland, stating that she had met and conversed with Capt. Geo. M. Phillips and wife of this city who sailed for Europe a few weeks ago, at the Glasgow Station in Scotland. Miss Wilson also stated in her letter that she had met William Howatt of West Second street, this city, in Glasgow, the same day, and that she, herself, was having a most delightful time. She will probably return to Plainfield in October.

The tobacco trade, and especially dealers in cigars and cigarettes, are just now working up over the trade mark clauses in the treaty adopted in Paris in 1883, and ratified last March. One of the New York papers recently devoted a great deal of space to the opinion of Mr. Rowland Cox, of this city, in the matter. The introductory part of the interview speaks of Mr. Cox as "the eminent trade-mark lawyer." His opinion is directly contrary to some other authorities, and holds that the effect of the treaty will be to compel the discontinuance by American manufacturers, for instances, of such stamps upon their boxes as "Habana," "Carolina," and similar marks borne by noted Cuban goods.

Mrs. D. E. Anthony is visiting at Merchantsville, N. J.

Miss Lucy H. Everett is summering at East Gloucester, Mass.

Miss Mabel Hotchkiss is sojourning at Seaside Sanitarium, Asbury Park.

Miss Nellie Smith of Dunellen, has returned from the Catskill Mountains.

Mrs. F. O. Herring of Ninth street has gone to Seaport, L. I., for the Summer.

Rev. Asa R. Dilks left Plainfield Tuesday for a few weeks visits to Providence, R. I.

Joseph Robinson of East Fourth street, is spending a few weeks at Northfield, Mass.

Mrs. S. D. White and the Misses White of Crescent avenue, have left for Cayuga Lake.

Miss Annie Adams, of London, Canada, is visiting Miss Rosina U. King, of Peace street.

Mrs. J. Monroe Brown of Belvidere avenue, Netherwood, has gone to the Adirondacks.

Miss Flo Randolph of Peace street, is enjoying herself with relatives at Stratford Conn.

Mr. Frank Lewis of New Market, is the guest of Mr. C. R. Moore of Alfred street.

Mrs. M. M. Whitney has gone to Ocean Grove for the Summer, registering at the Irvington House.

Miss Worthington, of First place and Church street, has returned to Spring Lake with her daughter.

Miss Wotherspoon is visiting her sister, Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers, at the latter's Summer cottage, Swarens.

Mrs. A. M. Rotgers of Madison avenue, has gone to Pine Hill, amid the Catskills, for a thorough change of air.

Little Allen Laing, of Park Place, North Plainfield, is spending the Summer with his grandmother at Easton, Md.

Rev. J. F. Potter and family have returned to their home on Park avenue, after a short sojourn at Asbury Park.

Dwight L. Moody, the Evangelist, will conduct services at Seabright, N. J., on Saturday and Sunday, July 23d and 24th.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank King and son, of Jersey City Heights, are visiting Mrs. I. Prescott, corner of Peace and Second streets.

Miss Lillie Randolph of West Seventh street, has gone to Lake Hopatcong, to enjoy the invigorating breezes of that delightful place.

Mrs. D. C. Smalley and two children of North avenue, have gone on a three weeks' visit to Mrs. Smalley's parents at Whitehall, Pa.

Miss Ida Randolph of Park avenue, has returned home from the University at Alfred Centre, N. Y., to spend the Summer with her parents.

Mr. W. L. Patten of East Ninth street, has rented for the Summer a beautiful cottage at North Long Branch, where he is residing with his family.

Mr. Daniel S. Berry on Monday disposed of a fifty-foot-front lot on Crain place, adjoining the German Reformed church building, to Mr. J. C. Dyer.

Mrs. H. D. Janes and family will summer at Stone Island, Me., stopping for a few days' visit with friends in Massachusetts and New Hampshire, en route.

An eighteen-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Kelcher of North Plainfield died about seven o'clock Sunday morning, from an attack of scarlet fever.

Through some misunderstanding, there was no clergyman present to conduct the service in First Presbyterian Church on Sunday morning, and consequently no service was held.

Rev. Dr. K. P. Ketcham, and daughter, Miss Beulah, who have been touring in Europe for several weeks past, sailed for home on the "City of Rome," from Queenstown, on the 6th.

Mr. Arthur P. Miller, a bright light in the galaxy of lawyers in this city, received an official notice from Chancellor McGill a few days ago informing him of his appointment as a Master in Chancery.

Rev. A. H. Tuttle, formerly the pastor of M. E. church in this city, has recently received the degree of D. D. from the Grant Memorial University, Tennessee, and the other from the Syracuse University of New York.

Dr. W. E. Stelle of Front street is erecting a handsome brick residence on Park avenue, adjoining that of Dr. T. B. Davis, at the corner of Sixth street. The building will not be ready for occupancy for seven or eight weeks to come.

The officers of the Auxiliary Board of Muhlenburg Hospital for the ensuing year are—President—Mrs. M. E. Edgerton; Vice-President—Miss Mary Cowperthwait; Secretary—Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson; Treasurer—Mrs. H. D. Burlingham; Auditors—Mrs. W. E. Lowe, Miss M. Tweedy.

The Rev. Dr. K. P. Ketcham will be the guest of honor at a reception to be given on Friday evening, July 29th, by the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor. The event will take place in the lecture room of the church, this evening. All the congregation and the pastor's friends are invited.

A very clever and humorous treatise upon the life and character of Shakespeare as evidenced by his own words, was recently read before the local circle of the C. L. S. C., by its skillful compiler, Miss Minnie A. Bargiff. It was also published in pamphlet form as eight-page leaflet for distribution by the Circle.

Rev. Jesse Lyman Hurlbut and family have left the city to participate in the exercises of the S. S. Assembly at South Framingham, Mass. Mr. Hurlbut will go to the Monroe Lake Assembly, at Madison, Wis. During the month of August they will be at Chautauqua, N. Y., to attend the annual exercises of the C. L. S. C.

Mrs. A. G. Chamberlin and child of Texas, has been visiting at the residence of Dr. T. H. Tomlinson on West Second street for a few weeks past. Mrs. Chamberlin is a daughter of Dr. R. F. Gillette of Brooklyn, who for a number of years was a resident on West Second street this city. She was at one time a pupil in the High School, graduating from that institution in 1879. Mrs. Chamberlin is now spending a few days with the family of ex-Postmaster Pope, previous to her departure for Texas.

George F. Sugdam, who with his wife and child are stopping at the Coleman House, Asbury Park, made a flying trip to Plainfield Monday. He returned to Coleman House, under the efficient management of Mr. S. V. Woodruff, formerly of Plainfield, on Tuesday, in good condition. The hotel is crowded to its utmost capacity, and on Saturday, about thirty persons who applied for rooms had to seek them elsewhere. Mr. Woodruff will open a number of private boarding houses near the Coleman House, in order to accommodate his increased patronage.

At the Warren Union Chapel, on North Plainfield, at four o'clock Sunday afternoon, occurred the double funeral of Mrs. Robert Stewart, who died on Thursday and her infant who passed away on Saturday morning. The Chapel was filled to its utmost with relatives and sympathizing friends of the deceased. Rev. Dr. Vincent paid a fitting tribute to the departed dead, whose life had been cut off while yet in young womanhood. The sense of mother and child in one casket was most affecting and there were but few dry eyes among the mourners. Mrs. Stewart was one of the first scholars to join the Warren Mission School, she having become a member about twenty years ago, when the Sunday afternoon service was held in a room on what is known as "Mud Lane."

Ex-Councilman D. J. Marshall of Park avenue, has gone to Saratoga.

Frank S. Newman of West Fifth street has gone to Pine Bush, New York state, for a short sojourn.

Mrs. M. E. Edgerton, of "Norwood," went to Wentworth Hall, Jackson, N. H., Tuesday, for the season.

Mr. J. E. Spicer, his son Artie, and Mr. Fred. S. Hubbard started Tuesday for Haines Falls, Catskill Mountains.

Mrs. J. D. Case closed her Church street residence, Tuesday, and will spend the season among a number of Summer resorts.

The family of ex-chief of the Plainfield Fire Department, A. Saltzman, left Saturday for the Catskills, where they will spend the Summer.

Rev. J. B. Cleaver has returned to Plainfield after a trip to Saratoga. He reports the weather very hot at that place, the thermometer registering as high as 112 degrees in the shade.

Mrs. Charles Burnett and daughters start to-morrow for the White Mountains for a stay of some weeks. Mr. Burnett will remain at Force's Hotel, being unable to leave his New York business that has grown so extensive.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Clarkson, and Miss Clarkson, of "The Elms," have engaged a suite of rooms at the Monmouth House, Spring Lake. They left Wednesday for a few weeks sojourn at that most charming of seaside resorts.

Miss Lillie Dunning, a graduate of the State Normal School at Trenton, and a former resident here, now of Bound Brook, is in Cape Town Tuesday after visiting for a few days with the family of Mr. Jarvis Freeman on Peace street.

Among the latest arrivals at Asbury Park from this city are Mr. J. Clark and wife at the Metropolitan; Miss Julia Skirm, at the Leadley; Mr. S. T. Hillman at the Minot House; Frank S. Brown and family at the Revidere, and Mr. J. W. Jackson at the Metropolitan.

Mrs. Ida C. Kelton, formerly of this city, is spending the Summer at "The Tenakill," Demarest, N. J. This hotel has become very popular under the management of Mr. C. L. Demarest. Under the management of the house, this city, was so successful a few years ago.

The family of Mr. Jacob Kirkner of Eighth street will leave next week for their Summer residence, "Prospect Villa," Stamford, Delaware county, N. Y. This beautiful scene is situated at the base of the last of the lofty peaks that form the celebrated range of Catskill mountains.

Charles Trotter, of Linden avenue, North Plainfield, met with an accident Friday, which will probably lay him up for several weeks. He was employed about Mr. James Connecly's place of business on Park avenue, when he slipped and fell, breaking a bone in his left foot. Dr. Price attended to the injury.

The loss to Mr. J. R. France—formerly of this city—by the explosion of his company's cannonite works at Arlington, as told in The Press of Friday, will probably be very great. Mr. R. S. Barnes, Superintendent of the collar and cuff department, is reported as much bruised and prostrated from his heroic efforts to rescue one of the victims that was burned alive. Mr. Barnes has many friends in this city where he resided so many years on Second street near Park avenue, and was engaged in business at No. 17 East Front street.

The Plainfield Homing Club.

At the residence of Mr. J. Hervey Doane, LaGrande avenue, Tuesday last, was organized a Homing Club of promising and young gentlemen owners of Antwerp pigeons in this city. Mr. Doane was elected president, and Mr. George Sanders, secretary and treasurer. Mr. Sydney Doaman, who owns some of the finest birds in the country, will be general manager. Mr. Charles Doane, whose loft is the most complete in this section of the country, here also part of the organization. The club now numbers a member of the Philadelphia Federation, and will have its first race for official record under the embracement of the Federation, probably on August 6th from Philadelphia to this city.

The State of the Case.

So long as the fossil-liker neglects his duties, communities will be misled by irresponsible statements of all sorts from irresponsible sources. The question of the sale of liquor on the boats chartered for excursions from Plainfield Secretary—Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson; Treasurer—Mrs. H. D. Burlingham; Auditors—Mrs. W. E. Lowe, Miss M. Tweedy.

Public School Matters.

The article published in The Press of yesterday in relation to the low salaries paid the public school teachers, refers, of course, only to the teachers of district schools. The teachers of our city's schools, be paid all the money the Board of Trustees are given by the people for the purpose. Nevertheless, that's too little, too.

President Kirkner and Messrs. Harper and Wadsworth of the Board of School Trustees, made a tour of inspection of the School buildings, yesterday afternoon. The janitors are notified to be in readiness for the visit that they may call the attention of the Trustees to any necessary repairs that must be made before the schools open again.

It will take about one hundred and fifty dollars to put the lots of school lot in order during the Winter, and the Board of Education will soon advertise for proposals. Although the lots are now in good order, all the Board has to buy its coal in Plainfield of those who are taxed with the rest of the community for the support of the schools, it is hardly more than fair that the Board buy its coal—and all supplies—wherever the coal is the cheapest.

Because of the efficient services of Janitors Munday, Clarkson and Hope, there will be little to be done in the way of repairing or freshening up the public schools of the city. The wood-work and furniture of the school at Fifth and Union can be made as fine as new after the oiling and polishing given it by Janitor Clarkson. The interiors of the other school buildings are being treated in the same way by Messrs. Munday and Hope.

Upon the completion of the tool works at Grant avenue, and the bringing to this city of its large colony of high-class mechanics, there will be no room for these hundred intelligent children, or more, to be accommodated with means of education? That question will be another thorn in the side of the Board of School Trustees. The present laws provide means whereby another building may be erected for the purposes of public education. But what is the use of other buildings when the Board has not the income to meet the expenses of such? Most of "We the people" think it is only necessary to provide the room to accommodate the increasing school rolls. The fact of the matter is, however, that it costs about $6,000 a year to run a school of eight classes.

Fire Board Meeting.

Bills Audited—Gazelle Engine to be Repaired and a New Hose Carriage for No. 3 Company.

The Board of Fire Commissioners held their regular July meeting in the City Court room Tuesday. President Jones called the meeting to order soon after eight o'clock and besides him the roll call showed the following members present: Messrs. Knowland, McClure and Rogers. Commissioners Brower and Livingston were absent.

The Clerk read the minutes of the last regular meeting of May 10th, and they stood approved as read.

Under the title of "Communications from any member of the Board," Mr. Knowland offered the following resolution, and upon motion it was adopted:

Resolved, That the President and Treasurer be empowered to borrow $1,500 to pay the note falling due on August 12th, 1887.

President Jones called for representatives from the various companies, and Charles Seibel from Warren Engine Company said the steam beater in that house was in a bad condition, it was impossible to have a fire in it, and the gas which escaped from the heater was detrimental to the men and horses. He said the beater had been out of repair for two months, and Mr. Knowland asked him why he did not log his complaint before the Board at its last meeting. A motion subsequently prevailed that the President be authorized to have the necessary repairs made.

The next in the order of business was the election of members whose names had been laid over for thirty days under the rule. A ballot was taken on the name of Mr. P. A. Emmons for active membership in Alert Hose Company, and he was unanimously elected.

Everitt Marsh was also elected a member of No. 2 Engine Company, after Mr. McClure had inquired as to whether or not he was connected with the fame at Netherwood which resulted in disbanding the Company in June, 1878.

BILLS.

Claims were presented as follows and ordered paid as soon as the funds would permit: D. S. Roberts, carriage hire (old bill) $7.25; J. E. Gable, services as engineer, $9; D. J. Smith, horse hire, $6.25; Levi Bird, horse hire, $6.25; Peter Seader, horse hire, $12.75; W. N. Rowe, sign, $2.50; J. A. Hubbard, sign assessment, $125; W. V. Mundy, Janitor, $10.50; T. W. Nash, delivering tax bills, $12.68; J. V. Whitlock, stone and carting for new well on South Second street, $40.50; S. J. Robinson, watching in tower, $2; W. L. Force & Bro., $25.50; Emil Scheidsleer, John Jackson and John Albert, for watching in tower, each two dollars) $6; A. Ustinger, repairs, $7.50; C. Seible, cleaning hose and use of horses, $21.30; J. A. Krinsy, services as sleeper, $6; R. Dupuy, washing hose, $11.60; E. M. Mosher, services as engineer $6; Wm. Kelly, ringing bell, $1; H. Goeller, hose hire, $27.75; Joseph Cooney, services as wheelman on truck, $2; P. Kelcher, services as engineer, $9; R. Searing, watching in tower, $2; T. D. Deane, material, labor, etc., $70.60.

Mr. Knowland said he thought it was just and proper for the Board to petition the City Council to offer a reward for the apprehension of the parties or persons who are instrumental in causing so many incendiary fires, and that if the Council did not see fit to comply with the petition the Board would at least be on paper before that August body. So far as he was aware, he said, no action had been taken to bring the criminals to justice, and he thought it was high time use every one else thinks, that some action should be taken in the matter. Mr. McClure remarked that action had already been taken in a quiet way, but in just what way and by whom he did not state. President Jones said that he would privately confer with Mr. Knowland in the near future and inform him what step had been taken by the Board at a private meeting held recently.

Mr. McClure said that in pursuance of a resolution passed at the last meeting the Board had instructed Mr. Knowland and himself to have the Gazelle engine repaired, but the Chief had told him that it would be imprudent to send it away before the Fourth of July; consequently the Chief was asked for instructions as to how the steamer should be sent, and Mr. Knowland said he would confer with General Freight Agent Wyatt of the Central Railroad, and thereby secure special rates for transportation.

The President called attention to the important matter of the Commissioners sitting as a Board of Appeals in cases of taxation, and it was decided that as in the City Court room on Wednesday, July 20th, between the hours of two and six p. m.

Chief Waters suggested that the Board purchase a suitable hose carriage for Warren & Engine Company, and that those now in use by the other companies, and Mr. Knowland offered a resolution that Mr. McClure and himself be authorized to use their own judgment in purchasing a carriage. The resolution was adopted, and the meeting then adjourned.

Cut Her Foot.

Mrs. William Grogan of West Front street, met with a painful accident Sunday, which nearly resulted in dismemberment of the toes on her right foot. She was about the house attending to her duties when she accidentally stepped on some fragments of glass, in a broken goblet which the children had dropped on the floor. The glass cut through the slipper and stocking she wore, penetrating to the bone. Mrs. Grogan bowed from the wound in profusion and it was some time before the flow could be checked. The wound although not considered dangerous will necessarily inconvenience Mrs. Grogan for some time.

A Little of Everything Column.

"Blackstock," a lasting and fragrant perfume. Price 25 and 50 cents. Sold by W. R. Voorhees.

Shiloh's Cure will immediately relieve Croup. Shiloh Cough and Consumption. Sold by W. R. Voorhees.

That Hacking Cough can be so quickly cured by Shiloh's Cure. We guarantee it. Sold by W. R. Voorhees.

Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy—A positive cure for Catarrh, Diphtheria and Canker Mouth. Sold by W. R. Voorhees.

Why will you cough when Shiloh's Cure will give immediate relief. Price 10 cents, 50 cents and $1. Sold by W. R. Voorhees.

The Rev. George H. Tracey, of Bourbon, Ind., says: "I have used Shiloh's Cure with our family and it has been prompt for Whooping Cough and Measles I ever saw."

The Question Settled.—Those eminent men, Dr. James Clark, Physician to Queen Victoria, and Dr. Ayer, of Lowell, Mass., have been tested by time. Dr. Clark's Consumption Cure, introduced by Dr. Ayer, has proved by extensive experience to be a perfect cure for all diseases of the throat and lungs.

The usual treatment of catarrh is very unsatisfactory, and thousands of fruitless remedies can testify. On this point a correspondent writes: "Ely's Cream Balm is a positive cure for catarrh." Many others have also recently written testimonials to the important results from the use of this remedy. Sufferer will be pleased with perfect safety and pleasantness in the process.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure.
This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER Co., 106 Wall-st., New York.—(2187)

DEMAREST'S

NEW STORE

Specialty in Creamery Butter, Ferris Hams, Bacon and Tongues, Pillsbury and La Favorita Flour, Fruits, and Vegetables all kinds. 3 pounds of French Prunes for 25c., No. 1 French Peas 20c., Ex. Quality Dates, 10c. All goods First-class and at Bottom Prices. Please call and examine stock and prices.

P. M. DEMAREST,
27 PARK AVENUE.

Special Notice!

Great Bargain Sale of Remnants AT POPE'S.

Remnants of Dress Goods.
Remnants of Lawns.
Remnants of Seersuckers.

WE HAVE JUST ADDED

CARPETS, MATTINGS, &C.
REGARDLESS OF COST.

500 BOYS' SUITS.

SPECIAL NOTICE.
New Store! New Goods! New Firm!
BARKALEW & DUNN,
Fancy and Staple Grocers,
NO. 18 NORTH AVENUE.
We sell for Cash and will give Special Inducements.

SOME AS LOW AS $2.00

SOME AS HIGH AS $7.50.

OUR OWN MANUFACTURE.

Sebring Bros.,
Music Hall Entrance.

COCKLE'S ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS,
THE GREAT ENGLISH REMEDY
For Liver, Bile, Indigestion

A TEXAS CATTLE RANCH.

One Million Acres of Land Under the Management of One Man.

The great Matador ranch, says a writer in the Chicago Times, is situated upon the headwaters of Pease river, and comprises nearly the whole of Motley County, almost constituted of Childress, about one third of Cottle, and several townships in Floyd County, and contains nearly three hundred more square miles than the State of Rhode Island. It is estimated that there are millions of acres of land, upon which there are more than one hundred head to the head of cattle. The location of this great ranch is one of peculiar advantage, both as to the scale of operations which characterizes it as one of the most complete and magnificent ranches in the West. It covers the three forks which form the head waters of Pease river, with all their affluents and entire water system, extending thence to the dead level, including some of the sources of the river. It is thus furnished with an ample supply of water for all the purposes. It is also traversed by thousands of small streams that feed from the innumerable springs that burst from the canyons, gulches and breaks of the plateau. The physical features are of every kind between the plains, which comprise about one-fourth of its area, and the broken and rocky country, which consist of valleys, hills and canyons of the latter description, which from the canyons and basins often have the appearance of mountains of every variety of shape, but all covered only the remnants of the plains extending out to peaks bounded by the walls of the surrounding gulches. These afford valuable shelter to the cattle in the inclement weather—"northers" as they are called in Texas, which sweep over the plains in the winter by taking to the mountains of the North and West.

The valley of the plains is called a red loam, that of the valleys and basins of a sandy loam, and that of the hills and plateaus clay or red and gravel. The prevailing rocks are gypsum and limestone, the latter sometimes containing fossil strata. There is no sign of any volcanic action, the general formation, the faces and the natural results of heat, air and water. The plains are covered with grass and a good growth of timber, the basins and broken country afford the best mesquite grass.

There are five different pastures for bulls and horses and two for beef cattle, one of which contains ninety thousand acres and the other one hundred thousand acres, and the varied classes of cattle are distributed throughout the ranch during the different seasons. There are sixteen complete and well-arranged corrals for marking and branding calves, situated in different parts of the ranch and in proximity to the water. The plains are covered with grass and a good growth of timber, the basins and broken country afford the best mesquite grass.

The average number of cowboys employed during the entire year is about seventy-five. Nine of these are stationed in quarter-sections by different parts of the ranch, whence they sally forth daily and traverse the ranch in every direction to see that all is well with the cattle, and if any of them whatever assistance may be necessary. Others attend to the wells and some repair the wagons and harness, and so on over a long list of duties, as squads of a dozen in charge of a foreman, carrying with them a wagon loaded with provisions, camp-outfit, utensils, bed and bedding and tents, for the purposes of breaking the ranges which avoid as well as to ride to the pens, separating the cattle included for one or the other purpose, and placing them in different pastures, and, during certain seasons, for the purpose of separating the bulls from the cows. There are all required to report promptly the result of their observations of the conditions of the cattle; to make a memorandum of all they find dead, and the cause of disease, and they are held to a faithful performance of their respective duties, and to a strict accountability of any negligence. Indeed, an almost military discipline is enforced in every department, and it pervades every feature of the management.

Mr. R. B. Campbell, the resident manager of the ranch, affords his boys every comfortable opportunity for self-improvement and self-elevation. He furnishes them with newspapers and periodicals, and invites them to improve their education and to be interested observers of passing events. He permits no intoxication, no card-playing and no swearing or quarreling at the ranch, and by his own kind treatment of all, sets an example and a spirit of kindness is created

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XX. PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, JULY 15, 1887. NO. 27.

LAWS OF NEW JERSEY.

[BY AUTHORITY.]

CHAPTER LXX.

An act providing for the pensioning of police officers and firemen disabled in the line of this State, and regulating the method by which the same may be granted and paid in those counties in and cities.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That hereafter any police officer or fireman in the police force of each city in this State, who shall have served upon said force for twenty years, and may have attained the age of sixty years, may be retired upon one-half pay.

2. And be it enacted, That any police officer having attained the age of fifty years, who shall have served upon the police force of his city for twenty years, shall, upon application to the board having charge of the police department of such city, be voluntarily retired upon half pay.

3. And be it enacted, That any member of such police force having received personal disability by reason of accident incurred at any time in the service, or by reason of disease contracted in the service after ten years in the service, shall be retired upon half pay.

4. And be it enacted, That every member of such force shall be laid full retirement pay or salary during honorary disability occasioned by injury in the performance of his or their duty.

5. And be it enacted, That no police officer or fireman in which this act shall become operative shall be entitled to the benefits provided by the board or authority having control of the police or fire department of such city shall borrow a sum sufficient to defray the expenses and matters above stated, to be paid during the next succeeding year, and the mayor of such city or municipality, or any permit the same to be done, and the board of chosen freeholders of such city or municipality not otherwise appropriated, shall make provision therefor by an annual tax levy raised in said city or municipality, according to the last tax list, and the duties of the officials in the aggregate paid to the police force of such city, and shall be applied exclusively as a fund out of which payment of the benefits provided for in this act stated shall be made as provided for in this act.

6. And be it enacted, That in any city or municipality in which there is a fire department, the board or committee having charge or control of the police department in such city or municipality shall have power to make improvement in the police and matters aforesaid, and make all requisite rules and regulations necessary therefor not inconsistent with this act.

7. And be it enacted, That the board or committee having charge or control of the police department in any city or municipality wherein this act shall be operative shall have power to appoint any such trustee or trustees, or board of trustees, as may be necessary for carrying the fund provided for in section five of this act, shall thereupon proceed to securely invest and keep safely all moneys received by them or so appropriated to the immediate payment of benefits to persons entitled thereto above stated in interest-bearing bonds of such city or municipality, and the interest thereof shall be held, kept and maintained separate and apart by the trustee or trustees appointed of such fund.

8. And it is enacted, That the board of aldermen or common council of any city may, by ordinance, provide for the payment by way of acceptance or rejection of this act to the benefits of any police officer or fireman, and if a majority of those who shall thereupon vote at any election held therein shall be in favor of the acceptance of this act, then the provisions of this act shall become applicable, and the grant of power herein made to any such board of aldermen or common council by such city, and such city shall be bound by this act, and the taxes necessary to be levied for the purposes of this act shall be collected

Days and Hours.

Why should it be that the ninety days,
Or the hours you measure,
In summer for in the winter,
Are always of different length?
With every pulse of the heart's red flow
It varies from end to end,
For the longest hours are the hours that go
And the first event by and by.

Why should we whine in nature's way
When the days are most note worthy,
We live the time of our lives each day,
From dawn to their sunset chime;
For the time we tasted at practical springs,
And the hours we used to be,
Are the simple mark day on the gradual steps
Of Hope and Memory.

—[Cleon Throckmorton in the Current and eighty-two.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That one hundred and fifty copies of which this is an amendment be amended to read as follows:

2. And be it enacted, That the remainder being in the office of trustees of any public library of the State of New Jersey, not less than one copy for each and every county of said city shall cause publication to be made in two newspapers of said city, the words "for the adoption for this city of the free public library act," and "against the adoption for this city of the provisions of an act entitled 'An act to authorize the establishment of free public libraries in this state,' approved March 27, 1878," and the ballots used at such election shall be printed or written or partly printed and partly written, and shall have the words "for the adoption for this city of the free public library act"

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.
W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY,
AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XX. PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, JULY 15, 1887. No. 28.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities."—MADISON.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

ALFRED D. BAILEY,
Attorney-at-Law,
Solicitor and Master in Chancery, Notary Public, No. 5 Front street, (Room 9) Plainfield, N. J.

O. L. JENKINS, M. D.,
Homœopathist,
(successor to Dr. Smith,) 28 East Front Street near Peace, Plainfield, N. J. Office Hours—7 to 9 a. m., 1 to 2 p. m., 7 to 9 p. m.—ap 15-1y.

JACKSON & CODINGTON,
Counsellors-at-Law,
Commissioners of Deeds, Masters-in-Chancery, Notaries Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.—jn6tf

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer,
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 128, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of Constitutionalist. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES R. THEIS,
Dentist,
20 West Front street. A new local anesthetic application for extracting teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty.—jn6tf

H. HAND,
Auctioneer,
P. O. Address, Lock Box 71, Scotch Plains, N. J. Orders left at C. Canfield's Bank Building, 2 and 4 West Front street, Plainfield, N. J., will receive prompt attention.—n12tf

OSCAR S. TEALE,
Architect,
Where he will be pleased to furnish his friends and patrons with the choicest brands of Imported and Domestic Liquors. m8tf

WM. K. McCLURE,
Attorney-at-Law,
MASTER IN CHANCERY, NOTARY PUBLIC.
Commissioners of Deeds. Office, North avenue opposite depot.—jn6tf

J. H. PERSTEN,
Veterinary Surgeon.
Office in Chas. Pine's livery office, corner Main street and Madison avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Day and night calls promptly attended. Telephone Call No. 2. Specialties—Diseases of all domesticated animals. Residence, 73 East Fifth street.—jn6tf

DR. GEORGE GIDNEY,
Veterinary Surgeon.
Removed from Second street to 113 West Front street, opposite Liberty.—jn6tf

ARTHUR P. MILLER,
Attorney-at-Law,
(Successor to the late W. S. Maxson), Solicitor in Chancery, Notary Public. Will buy and sell real estate, loan money, rent and take charge of property. Office over First National Bank.—jn6tf

F. A. DUNHAM,
Civil Engineer and Surveyor,
No. 7 Park avenue. Citizen's Interior Park and particular attention given to the adjustment of disputed boundary lines. Parties sent to all parts of the country.—jn6tf

DR. J. P. GRIFFEN,
Electric Baths.
Dr. Griffen treats all Nervous affections, Uterine complaints, Skin diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Insomnia. Dyspepsia and Chronic diseases generally by Electricity and Electric Baths. Consultation free. Lady attendant for ladies. 63 East Second street, corner Washington.—my14tf

BUSINESS CARDS.

TO THE PUBLIC!

We wish to inform our customers and the public generally that we have on hand the best quality of

LEHIGH COAL,

Fresh from the Mines.

It is under cover and well protected from the weather. We are prepared to deliver it well screened and in good order promptly. We are also prepared to furnish all kinds of Seasoned Lumber and Masons' Materials at short notice.

A. D. COOK & BRO.
jan1y

Park Avenue Bakery!
J. Hervey Doane,
9 PARK AVENUE.
[Formerly Clare's.]
Watches, Clocks And Jewelry.
Repairing neatly and promptly done.
ap1

WM. H. SHOTWELL,
DEALER IN GROCERIES, PROVISIONS, VEGETABLES, DRIED FRUIT, ETC.
CORNER EMILY AND DUER STREETS
North Plainfield, New Jersey.
Celebrated Pilsbury Flour,
THE BEST IN THE MARKET.
ORDERS CALLED FOR AND DELIVERED.
Thanks for past patronage I solicit a continuance Respectfully,
WILLIAM H. SHOTWELL.
ap21y

BOSTON CLOTHING HOUSE
42 W. FRONT ST.
Reliable Goods at Low Prices.
Order Department
Under the well-known Cutter,
NEWTON P. DRAKE.
Correct Styles. Right Prices
my21tf

Geo. A. Moore,
(Of the late firm of Moore Bros.)
Is now the sole proprietor of the old established market at
NO. 14 NORTH AVENUE,
Where he will continue to supply patrons with the finest grades of Fresh and Salt Meats. Fish of all kinds, Oysters, Clams, Game in Season at the lowest market prices. Anything not usually kept in stock furnished at short notice. m6tf

Edward Ramonetti,
OYSTER AND ICE CREAM SALOON.
OYSTERS BY THE QUART, 100 OR 1000.
CHARLOTTE RUSSE MADE TO ORDER.
All Orders Promptly Attended to.
24 NORTH AVENUE,
Plainfield, New Jersey. Telephone Call No. 33
jn20

HOTELS AND SALOONS.

Force's Hotel!
NORTH AVENUE
Near R. R. Depot, Plainfield, New Jersey.
JAMES H. FORCE, - - Proprietor.
A FIRST-CLASS FAMILY HOTEL.
Transient guests taken at reasonable rates.

Bottled Liquors a Specialty.

Laing's Hotel!
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
J. B. MILLER & BRO., - Proprietors.
A FIRST-CLASS FAMILY RESORT.

James Conneely
Wishes to inform the public generally that he has opened a first-class
WINE and LIQUOR ROOM,
AT NO. 32 PARK AVE.,
Where he will be pleased to furnish his friends and patrons with the choicest brands of Imported and Domestic Liquors. m8tf

TURF EXCHANGE HOTEL.
73 Courtlandt street,
CORNER WASHINGTON, NEW YORK CITY
FRED. W. BALLARD, - - Proprietor,
(formerly of Jersey City), is now conducting the business corner Washington and Cortlandt streets, New York, formerly kept by the late James Van Wagenen, Jr., with whom all their old friends will be most courteously received.
PURE WINES, LIQUORS AND SEGARS. jy16tf

SOMERSET HOTEL,
Cor. Somerset & Emily Sts., North Plainfield, N. J.
Permanent and Transient Board, at fair rates.
First-class Stables and Sheds attached.
Meals at all (reasonable) hours. 3jan1f

C. E. JOHNSON,
Of late firm of Shepard, Johnson & Godown.
CARPENTER AND BUILDER.
Office adjoining City Hotel on Second street, near Park avenue, Plainfield, New Jersey. Residence, 12 East Second street. Jobbing especially. mch31tf

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
SALESROOM—Madison Avenue near Front St. Plainfield, N. J.
Goods received on consignment.

MRS. E. J. MARTIN'S
MAGIC RENOVATING FLUID.
For taking out grease from any kind of goods, without changing the color, or leaving a spot. Also, for cleaning kid gloves, crape, lace, satin, bonnets, feathers, ribbons, etc., and for cleaning or velvet; removes grease spots and suits from carpets, &c. Price 25 cents per bottle. Sold at Mrs. Martin's residence, 41 North avenue, and at rooms, 53 East Front street, and at Mrs. W. L. Force's Fancy Goods Store, No. 8 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J. my27tf

JOHN JOHNSTON,
DEALER IN COAL!
YARD AND OFFICE, SOUTH AVENUE,
NETHERWOOD, NEW JERSEY.
The best quality of screened coal at the lowest market price for cash. Address all orders to Netherwood post-office.—jn27ly

Park Avenue Bakery!
JOHN WALKER, Prop'r
FAMILIES and HOTELS supplied with the Celebrated
VIENNA BREAD & ROLLS,
And all Varieties of Pies, Cake and Confectionery.
ap2tf

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS,
BEST IN THE WORLD.
ALL GOODS DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE.
ap6tf

MICHAEL UHDAL,
CONTRACTOR
AND LANDSCAPE GARDENER!
Residence:
NETHERWOOD, NEW JERSEY.
P. O. BOX 787, PLAINFIELD.

P. O. Box 5, Netherwood, N. J.
1y6tf

FINE FOOT WEAR,
BEST MAKES,
LATEST STYLES,
AT THE
NEW SHOE STORE
Doane & Van Arsdale
22 WEST FRONT STREET.

SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc. Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class, sanitary and workmanship manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Plumbers Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business at all times and in all cases.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 4 NORTH AVE. ap23tf Plainfield, N. J.

EDUCATIONAL.

DORSEY W. HYDE,
PRACTICAL TEACHER OF
Piano, Harmony & Guitar.
Fall Term commences MONDAY, Sept. 14th. SEND FOR CIRCULAR. P. O. BOX 1119. ag6tf

MR. LEAL'S SCHOOL
WILL RE-OPEN
Monday, Sept. 20, 1886.
Abundance of room and added facilities make it now possible to form another Class for Boys from eight to ten years of age. Several such pupils have been each year declined. Circulars and information on application.—ag12tf

A SCHOOL FOR BOYS
WILL BE OPENED IN THE PARLORS OF THE PARK AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH,
SEPTEMBER 15, '86,
APPLICATION MAY BE MADE AT NO. 90 PARK AVENUE, CORNER SIXTH STREET.
ANNA J. MOORE, Principal.
ag28 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

ARTESIAN WELLS.
F. & W. STOTHOFF
Are prepared to Sink Wells any depth up to 500 feet, and Tube them if need be. Pumps and Pipe furnished at fair prices. Refers to J. N. Jenkins, of Plainfield, P. O. address, Fleminton, N. J. jn13m3

MILLINERY.

Mme. J. BERNARD,
ASTROLOGIST.
Residence—Harmony street, North Plainfield, fourth house from Somerset street, left hand side. Information imparted as regards present and future events, likewise marriages, journeys, lawsuits, etc. Satisfaction guaranteed. She converses
In English, German and French.

Mrs. J. M. Dunn,
FASHIONABLE MILLINER,
LATEST SHAPES OF
BONNETS AND HATS.
FRENCH IMPORTED FLOWERS.
Feathers, Velvets, Plushes, Satines, Laces, etc. Also, Fancy Goods and Notions; Dress and Infants' Caps a Specialty.
PINKING, BLEACHING & PRESSING.
Feathers Dyed. Cleaned and Curled AT SHORT NOTICE.
14 West Front street.

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

M. C. DOBBINS,
OPPOSITE RAILROAD STATION.
MANUFACTURER OF
PURE HAVANA CIGARS.
Wholesale and Retail!
o16tf

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR,
The best 5 cent cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havana.
CLEAR HAVANA SEGARS A SPECIALTY.
A large assortment of the Choicest Brands of Foreign and Domestic Cigars, Cigarettes and Tobaccos, always on hand.
Smokers Articles in Great Variety.
ap9y

JOHN N. STEINER,
MANUFACTURER OF
SEGARS!
No. 11 PARK AVENUE.
Constantly on hand a large assortment of
Segars, Smoking & Chewing Tobacco, Snuffs, Pipes, &c.
Thankful for past patronage, I solicit a continuance of the same. 11y1

C. M. FINE,
Dealer in HAVANA & DOMESTIC
--SEGARS!!--
No. 21 PARK AVE., (near corner of SECOND ST.) PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smoker's Materials, of every description.
The celebrated "Old Judge" Smoking Tobacco, with other popular brands constantly on hand. 45m6

--PICTURE FRAMES--
OF ALL KINDS, AT
S. E. FLOWER'S,
at New York Prices, Studio 28 West Front street. Strainers for drawing and oil painting. ap29tf

Dr. King's Spectacles.
jy14y1

ALEX. THORN
(Late of Berry & Thorn.
CAN BE FOUND AT 27 SOMERSET STREET,
WITH A FULL LINE OF FURNACES,
RANGES,
STOVES,
TINWARE, Etc.
Repairing in His Line Promptly Attended To,
41y1

A. H. BOUGHTON,
44 West Fourteenth street, N Y.
(NEAR MACY'S.)
Boy's Clothing and Hats
EXCLUSIVELY.
The most complete stock of Boy's Fashionable Goods in the city and at popular prices.
KILT SUITS,
SHIRT WAISTS,
EXTRA PANTS.
Former stand of Taylor & Co.
ap6m3

PAINTERS & PAINTERS SUPPLIES

Paints, Varnishes, Glass.
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.
ap22

Weaver Bros.
House & Sign Painting, Graining,
Paper Hanging and Kalsomining a specialty.
Office and Shop in the rear of
16½ EAST FRONT STREET,
D. WEAVER. P. O. Box 581. P. WEAVER.

W. N. ROWE,
PAINTER AND DECORATOR,
Dealer in Paints, Oil, Varnishes, Glass, Brushes, etc. WALL PAPER and WINDOW SHADES. None but strictly first-class workmen employed and satisfaction guaranteed. No. 18 E. FRONT STREET, (C. O. Meeker's old stand,) Plainfield, N. J. P. O. Box 1289.—ap30y1

L. B. WOOLSTON. J. F. BUCKLE
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTER'S SUPPLIES. 25 NORTH AVENUE.
ap23tf

MAYNARD & HILL,
PRACTICAL BARBERS
AND
Artistic Hair Dressers,
No. 26 PARK AVENUE,
Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residences. Shaving, Shampooing, &c., satisfactorily performed. 41y1

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE. CHARGES REASONABLE.
Hugo Weigman,
20 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J. mch26tf

SUMMER
HATS.
CAPS, GLOVES,
Trunks, Valises, Etc
Call and Examine the Elegant Stock of
Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods at
F. A. POPE'S,
(Successor to H. Vermeule.)
No. 5 W. Front-st,
ap16tf

A. I. SMALLEY, N. B. SMALLEY.
Smalley Bros.,
DEALERS IN
Fresh and Salt Meats, Poultry, Etc.
28 SOMERSET STREET, NORTH PLAINFIELD.
Orders called for and delivered. A share of the public patronage is solicited.—f25tf

Benj. F. Moore,
[Late of Moore Bros.]
BUTCHER,
And dealer in FRESH AND SALT MEATS, POULTRY, etc., corner Park avenue and Second street will be open and ready for business WEDNESDAY, MARCH 30th. Orders called for and promptly delivered. Telephone Call 111.—mh26tf

BABY'S STORY.

Baby tells a little story,
On its mother's lap;
When the pretty eyes have opened
From their pleasant nap.

Its about the land of By-Lo,
And its flowers and streams;
Of the loving, smiling angels
Babies meet in dreams.

Mother's face is bending over,
So to catch each word—
Bending as a birdie's mother
Bends over her bird.

Never legend, penned by poet,
Is to her so dear;
Though the language is the quaintest
Any one could hear!

How the tiny tongue is trying
Something to impart!
Eagerly the mother listens—
Hears with all her heart!

Hears the story—understands it,
If no others do;
Though that story just commences,
As it ends, with "poo!"

—George Cooper in Demorest's Monthly.

IN ALGEBRA LODGE.

A Young Bachelor's Amusing Adventures in a Young Ladies' Seminary.

Some few years back I was spending a part of my first long vacation at Oxbridge with some friends in Camshire. Just as my visit was terminating, toward the end of July, I received a letter from home asking me to bring back with me a sister, whose term in school at Skipperton, a town in the same county, ended about that time. In an evil hour I consented and made my way to Skipperton. I got there on a Saturday, expecting to go on in the course of the same day; but it was not to be. Having left my luggage at this most perplexing of stations, I walked to the address, "Algebra Lodge," and found a fine old house of some size, fronted by a painfully trim gravel walk and meager flower beds.

On the door being opened in answer to my ring, I was ushered by a particularly tidy maid into a sitting-room of quite exceptional neatness. While everything was everywhere made me feel nervous. I recollected that I had been traveling, saw that my clothes were dusty, felt my necktie awry, and shuddered at the thought of a possible smudge on my face. However, there was no time to put things shipshape, for a rustling was heard and in came the head mistress herself. Now I had been a very bad scholar, I think, of Miss Spinney, for such was her name, from my sister and her friends. She was spiteful, cross as two sticks, would read letters, even open them when marked "private" with a double dash, always confiscated nice novels, and was quite too dreadfully suspicious of "cousins" who might wish to call. Being, I venture to say, a man of some experience in these matters, I had heavily discounted these notes of character, putting "sensational" instead of "nice" before novels, and considering that letters marked "private," with a double dash, were probably quite as suspicious as the "cousins" from whom they might emanate. (How often does the word "cousin" cover a multitude of sins!) Still I was not prepared for so nice a person as Miss Spinney turned out to be. She had ringlets, indeed, but not of the rigid black cork-screw description I had expected; here were of a soft gray color; instead of being angular she was decidedly round; instead of staring me out of countenance with hard, stony eyes, she beamed upon me most effusively through gold-rimmed spectacles.

After putting me thoroughly at my ease she informed me very pleasantly that my sister would not possibly be ready to leave before Monday. At this I was naturally aghast, but after a moment's consideration replied that I could put up for Sunday at the "Crown."

"The 'Crown,'" said the generous spinster, "no such thing! I can give you a spare room, and you will have all your meals in my part of the house, besides being near your sister."

Overcome by her warmth, I gave in at once and accepted her offer. No sooner had I started on my way to the station to fetch my luggage than my heart misgave me—but it was too late; the die was cast. Sadly I entered a cab, and gloomier grew my thoughts as I again approached Algebra Lodge.

After tea I proposed to take my sister for a drive, in order that I might see something of the country round. Leave was extended until nine, and a little pony trap was soon at the door. Now, I am a little vain of my driving powers, and therefore was not sorry to see all available windows occupied by curious faces as we got in. I gently shook the reins, but the pony stood stock still; I smartly touched him on the ear, in response to which he playfully kicked up his hind legs and flicked his tail. Again and again I repeated the dose, but with no more encouraging results. At last the knotted end of the lash caught him sharp on the nostril, and stung with pain he started forward with such a jerk that I lost my hat. After a severe struggle he was hauled in and my hat recovered, but altogether I felt that the whole incident had been without dignity, if not positively ridiculous, and my pleasure in the drive was utterly destroyed.

As soon as we got back, my sister was packed off somewhere or other, while I made my way to the library, where I found Miss Spinney and three of the teachers, one looking ratafia drunk like, the other two young and decidedly prepossessing, all gathered around the supper-table. This enjoyable meal over, Miss Spinney retired and left the four of us alone. We had got on excellently at supper after the first awkwardness had worn off, the duenna, in particular, thawing in the most surprising manner; and now she actually proposed a rubber. The rubber was great fun; my partner had pretty blue eyes, and used them in the most charming way to signal messages, which kept me always on the qui vive to interpret and reply to. Sometimes our telegraphic glances were interpreted by the duenna on my left; the first time I became preternaturally solemn and was instantly absorbed in my hand, but, looking out of the corner of my eye, I thought I noticed an amused expression flit across her face, so my courage was restored, and thenceforward our eyes were quite unbuttoning bold. But all happiness must have an end, and at 10:30 the duenna, resuming suddenly her severest aspect, declared we must now leave off. They bade me good-night, one by one. Blue Eyes last, and I will declare her hand pressed mine, or mine hers, longest and closest of all.

So I was left alone, and after mooning round the room for a few minutes, was about to follow their example, when my eye was caught by a shelf in a book-case behind the door, filled with yellow covers. "Ah!" thought I, "here are the confiscations." And so they were; a few French novels, dotted among a number of old English sensational yellow backs (I was horrified to find "Jane Eyre" represented by three copies; horrified, I mean, to find them confiscated) formed the choice collection. The bulk of them seemed mere sentimental twaddlings, but the picture on the cover of one roused my curiosity. It represented a gentleman lying dead on the floor of a room, with a peaceful scowl on his face, and on either side of him the kneeling figures of a woman, one fair, the other dark, the fair one wringing her hands, the dark one calmly putting a little revolver into its case. This was the one I selected to take down and read. It turned out to be an exciting bigamy, and I read on until a neighboring clock warned me that twelve had come. I rose with a feeling of relief, for I knew that the bigamy was going to result in murder, and what had gone before was harrowing enough. Carefully I put out the lights and stepped into the passage, where I found my candle, but no matches! Creeping back into the library, I fumbled about the mantlepiece and over the tables, but no matches! Then with a burglarious feeling I stole along the passage to the kitchen; the door creaked dismally on opening; I entered and found the fire carefully raked out, and still no matches! The thought as to how on earth I was to find my room in the dark was almost unbearable; I remembered that it was an end room, but as to which of the maze of passages it was the, and on which side, my mind was an absolute blank.

At length I mustered up courage enough to begin the ascent of the stairs; they groaned at each step, so I took off my boots. When I got to the top I made a long pause to consider. Before me was a long passage, which I certainly remembered from it branched several small passages, one of which led to my room. But which of them! Alas, I had no idea. A happy thought struck me—to toss for it, but again I was thwarted; in the first place I should probably not use the coin and awaken somebody with the noise; in the second place, if I did catch it I couldn't see it. So that was no use.

Desperation came to the rescue, and I firmly made up my mind to walk up the middle passage. I did so and felt the two end doors with my finger tips in vain; who can feel painted numbers? I listened for the sound of breathing, to know which to avoid, but could hear none but my own. Suddenly, as often in such cases of extreme despair, the conviction came strong upon me that it was the left-hand door. The thought, however, of mistake proved almost too strong for me. I pictured to myself the inevitable shriek, followed by twenty others, the opening or unlocking of twenty doors, the awful figure of Miss Spinney in dressing-gown and nightcap bearing down on me candle in hand, the trembling crowd of teachers (Blue Eyes among them), servants, and pupils behind, myself the detected criminal, boots off. Nevertheless, I clenched my teeth, and, grasping the handle tightly, turned it slowly and quietly. There was no sound, and in I stole. It must be my room. But what is that? A head on the pillow! Yes, by all that's sacred, the wrong room.

How I got out of that room I never knew. A cold shudder came over me when I found myself outside, and I felt more inclined to remain standing in the passage until daylight than to go through any such ordeal again. But I got tired of standing, and calmer reflection induced me to try another passage. With a renewal of the horrible sensation I have described, I ventured, and to my unspeakable relief found myself in the right room at last. Hastily I sprang into bed, but courted sleep in vain, for my brain was in a whirl after the excitement of the last half hour.

In the morning, with shattered nerves, I came down to breakfast, unfortunately not to be reassured at once. Who could be comfortable with twenty pairs of eyes to put one out, whose owners thoroughly enjoy the discomfiture they effect? Blue Eyes did her best for me, and saved me from feeling utterly miserable. A quarter to eleven saw the whole school but two and two to church. I did not accompany them; the influence of the fresh air in an orchard at the back of the house seemed more refreshing to my broken constitution. The midday dinner was almost as bad as the breakfast, the double line of eyes all down the table were privileged on me, and consequently mine on my plate—my plate save when they strayed to certain rosy fingers not far off, and upward to certain blue eyes of which alone they did not seem afraid. The afternoon brought a welcome change in my relations with the school; we all adjourned to the orchard before mentioned, and there, under the cool shade of an ample tree, I examined, each with its charming owner, some twenty albums. How fond they are of albums, those delightful girls of under seventeen!—I asked Blue Eyes to show me an album, but she said that pupil teachers never kept them, which I found her was a fib. Still, she sat down and talked instead of showing me an album, and this was really pleasanter.

On leaving such good friends next day I was, as is only natural, a little depressed; but my awful adventure of the wrong room still haunted me, and I felt safe, at any rate, when the cab of Algebra Lodge closed behind our cab.

There was much pleasure as well as pain in my experience of this unknown world of girldom, short and slight though that experience was; but on looking back I have to thank my stars that things were not worse, that my departure was easy and dignified instead of being a midnight scramble.

So ends my story as told to my friend of the smoking-room. I did not confide to them what I will now to you, my gentle reader. Two summers later my sister brought home for the holidays one of her teachers, whom she described as being "awfully jolly." It was Blue Eyes! One evening I told her the whole story of my adventure that night. She laughed so much at my misfortunes that I grew angry, and said she had no sympathy. Then she pouted; then I kissed her, and then she promised to marry me when I got a mastership or work at the bar. This is why I am working so hard now.—Roland Grœme, in Belgravia.

A Hen Commits Suicide.

A Sumter (Ga.) woman owned a guinea hen that wanted to sit; she had her nest broken up. She filled another and persisted in sitting, but the owner had determined otherwise, and again broke up the nest. The poor fowl looked on sorrowfully and saw her maternal hopes blighted, turned, with a drooping head, walked up to the well, flew up on the curbing, and then plunged head foremost into the deep waters below. When they got her out she was dead.

WAR AMONG MULES.

Famous Fights Over Piles of Salt in a South American Pasture.

At length we reached the first rendezvous where about three hundred wild mules were already assembled, waiting for the distribution of the much-prized salt, says a writer in the Youth's Companion, describing an adventure in South America. They were collected in groups of ten or a dozen, each group being presided over by a mare, who seemed to have trouble enough with her unruly followers. In order to keep up her dignity and to prevent disrespect for her chief authority she allowed no mule to approach within the radius commanded by her teeth or heels, laying down her ears and lashing out in all directions when they showed any inclination to press too closely upon her.

It was curious to observe that the mules never attempted to bite or kick their foster-mother in return for her rough treatment of them. Among themselves, however, there was no such kindly feeling, but each seemed to hate the other with mortal spite, and frequent and loud-sounding were the blows of jealous heels on unwary ribs. When all was ready, the salt bags were opened and the contents distributed upon the ground in several small heaps at sufficient distances apart.

When the battle began all respect, even toward the foster-parent, was forgotten in the intense eagerness of each animal to reach the salt. The law of the strongest and most courageous was paramount in the wild medley. Quite unlike mule, with ears laid well back and mouth wide open, would charge into the excited throng, and lash out with tremendous force, fury and rapidity, clearing a complete ring for one brief moment, during which it would have the salt heap all to itself. Another mule, rendered frantic by the sight of the salt disappearing would charge into the circle, and a savage duel would commence, during which other animals would slip in, and meeting each other all would again become an indescribable scene of fighting and tumult. The blows given and taken were sometimes frightful to witness, yet, as far as I could see, no animal exhibited any sign of pain, but again and again each would return furiously to the charge.

I recalled my own recent experience in mule-driving, and no longer wondered at the slight impression made by my heavy hunting crop. Compared with the punishment which these animals voluntarily endured for a single flick of a tail, such blows as mine had been but touches of a rat's tail.

The champion bounty-jumper was one John Hodgson, an English soldier, aged twenty-six, who was executed on April 27, 1787, in Suffolk, for highway robbery. He confessed at the gallows that, within six years, he had enlisted ninety-eight times with different recruiting parties in England, Ireland and Scotland; that he received as bounty money 507 guineas; that he seldom remained with the party more than two days; and that he committed a number of robberies, by which he gained £236 14s 8d. He kept a regular account of his receipts and disbursements, and died worth £30, which he took care to tranfer to a friend previous to his trial. He was taken up three times for desertion, and received three hundred and fifty lashes at Colchester, which he bore without even so much as a sigh.

A Paris writer in a London paper describes the girl students of Russia as very pitiable dressers, good musicians and hard smokers. It is said that many of them are children of influential families and they have stolen from home to attend the Parisian schools. The story is told of one, the daughter of the governor of a province, who was sent south by her family to be out of the way of restless spirits with whom she came into sympathetic contact in Moscow, working her way as a cabin boy to Varna. She then entered a hotel as "boots," stayed some time, and when she had money enough to buy a suit of clothes suitable to her sex, took service as a nursery maid in a family about to start for England. From there she worked her way through diverse difficulties and finally brought up in Paris.

CONFEDERATE RELICS.

Interesting Things Found Among the Archives of the War Department.

The archives of the Confederate Government form perhaps the most interesting set of historical relics in the possession of the Government, writes Frank George Carpenter in the Washington Critic. They were taken at Richmond and were handed over to the War Department. They have been carefully arraigned, and are now packed away from view in two or three rooms of the big State, War and Navy building. They are never shown to strangers, and the greatest care is taken in regard to them.

Among these relics is the seal of the Confederate Treasury. It is an iron affair, with a heavy handle, and its emblem is the palmetto tree of South Carolina. The die is a little larger around than a trade dollar, and about the outside of it run the words: "Confederate States of America," while inside and just over the palmetto tree reads: "The Treasury Department."

The great seal of the Confederacy was made shortly before its fall, and after this it mysteriously disappeared. One of its authors was Colonel A. R. Boteler, now of the Attorney-General's Office, who gave the design for the seal. This was sent off to the Confederate Minister at London, and the great seal was made of pure silver by Wyatt, the man who has for years made the great seals of England. When the Confederate Government left Richmond this seal was taken along, and I saw a letter from Abbeville, S. C., recently, which states that it was thrown into a well along the way, and that the well had since caved in. Whether this be so or not, I do not know.

The Confederate Government had very little bullion, and the War Department has possession of one of the only four silver half dollars which were coined by it at the Louisiana mint. This mint was turned over to the Confederate Government in February, 1861, and in April Mr. Memminger, Confederate Treasurer, sent out asking for designs for silver half-dollars. Several were received, but the one approved bore on one side a representation of the Goddess of Liberty surrounded by thirteen stars, denoting the thirteen States of the Confederacy, and on the lower rim the figures "1861." On the other side was a shield with seven stars, representing the seceding States, and above the shield there is a helmet cap, and entwined around it are stalks of sugar cane and cotton. The inscription is "Confederate States of America." After four pieces had been coined an order was received from the Secretary of the Treasury suspending operations on account of the difficulty of obtaining bullion, and the mint was closed on April 30, 1861. Of these four pieces coined, one is in the possession of the Government here; one was presented to Professor Riddle, of the University of Louisiana; one to Dr. Ames, of New Orleans, and the other retained by Dr. B. F. Taylor, the coiner, who now resides in Louisiana.

As to Confederate paper money the archives contained a great quantity when they were captured. Among them were a half a million dollars of Confederate bonds, two large chests and five bags containing millions of dollars of Confederate money, and in fact papers giving almost a complete history of the Confederacy. Specimens of this money have been collected into a scrap book by the clerks of the War Department, and this scrap book, which is filled with blank orders of the Confederate Government, with money and other curiosities, is now worth more than its weight in gold.

The Department has also a complete list of the Confederate Senators and Representatives as they appeared on the pay-rolls, together with the copies of bills and resolutions introduced in Congress.

The Confederate Congress met on February 4, 1861, at Montgomery, Ala. It was first known as the Provisional Congress and as such it had but one house and held four sessions. After the permanent Constitution was adopted there were two Congresses—the first of which met February 18, 1862, and which, during its existence, held four sessions. The second Congress met on the 2d of May, 1864, and it held only two sessions. It finally adjourned in haste on the 18th of March, 1865. In the first Congress there were members for districts in Missouri and Kentucky, although these States had never seceded. But in the second Congress the number of members of the House and Senate became much less. At its best estate the Confederate Senate numbered twenty-six and the House one hundred and six, and in both Congresses Thomas S. Bocock was Speaker. Most of the sittings of the Confederate Congress were secret, and the Government Ministers and the President had the right to sit in them and to speak upon the floor. I am told that the Cabinet Ministers often conferred with Congress in this manner, though President Davis did not appear in person. The Confederate Constitution was very much like that of the United States, save that it recognized slavery. It prohibited protective tariff and also prohibited the African slave trade.

The following is a full list of the members of President Jefferson Davis' Cabinet, with the States from which they came and the dates of their appointment. In the present agitation of war matters it will be found with interest:

State Department—Robt. Toombs, Georgia, February 21, 1861; S. M. T. Hunter, Virginia, July 3, 1861; Judah P. Benjamin, Louisiana, February 7, 1862. Treasury Department—Charles G. Memminger, South Carolina, February 21, 1861, and March 24, 1864; James L. Tremholm, South Carolina, June 13, 1864. War Department—L. Pope Walker, Mississippi, February 21, 1861; Judah P. Benjamin, Louisiana, November 13, 1861; James A. Seddon, Virginia, March 22, 1862. Attorney-General—Judah P. Benjamin, Louisiana, February 21, 1861; Thomas H. Watts, Alabama, September 10, 1861, and March 22, 1862; George Davis, North Carolina, November 10, 1863. Postmaster-General—Henry John Elliot, Mississippi, February 21, 1861; John H. Reagan, Texas, March 6, 1861, and March 2, 1865.

Novel Way of Selecting a Wife.

Jabez Hall, an aged and respected planter living near Mariana, Ark., advertised for a wife some time ago, and the answers were so numerous that he was at a loss how to choose. He has since settled the matter, however, by a very neat and satisfactory expedient. He gave each applicant a number, and, after writing the numbers on separate cards, put them in a box and shook them up well. Then he blindfolded his little grandchild and had her draw a card from the box. He is now corresponding with the lady to whom the card had been allotted, and it is probable that a wedding will result.

Looked for Them in His Boots.

A New Jersey editor says he recently saw a nest of forty-seven snakes. It is supposed he had been looking in his boots. When an editor sees such an exhibition he should keep quiet about it, for the credit of the profession.

FACETIOUS FLASHES.

The order of the bath—Go and soak your head.

Some people think twice before they speak; this is the better prepares them for saying something mean and aggravating.

Street-car courtesy is a thing of the dim, distant past—that is as practiced by the masculine persuasion. The feminine portion of humanity still retains its hold upon the respect of a nation and the handstraps of the cars of our land.—Puncho.

Photographs of the mummy of Rameses the Second are selling like hot cakes in the large cities. Old Rameses little thought that the day would come when all his fame would rest on the fact that his daughter found a tadpole in the bulrushes.

The most remarkable instance of absentmindedness on record was that of the traveling man who hired a comfortable bedroom for his valise and after depositing it safely therein, checked himself and bundled in among the trunk in the check-room.

"I say, waiter! Is this tea or coffee you have brought me?" "That, sir, is coffee, as you ordered, sir." "Aw, 'tis, eh! Well, my good fellow, if thawts coffee you may bring me tea, and if it's tea you may bring me some coffee, the stuff looks jewedly suspicious, you know. P. B. W.

An English judge lately rendered a decision in a case which for intricacy certainly would have been a poser to most men. The prisoner at the bar pleaded guilty to the charge of larceny but reconsidered the matter and withdrew the plea and said he was innocent. Upon his sensible uncertainty the jury acquitted him. In a very impressive manner the judge said: "Prisoner, a short time ago you said you were a thief; now the jury says you are a liar, consequently you are discharged."

WONDERFUL OPERATION.

A Newfoundland Dog's Hair Transplanted to a Human Head.

A young and wealthy New Yorker, who has been as bald as a billiard-ball, will soon go back into society with a head of curly hair which was procured for him by transplantation from a dog, writes a New York correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer. His case is one of the most remarkable surgical operations ever known in this city and perhaps in the world. The young man is the private patient of the consulting surgeon of St. Elizabeth Hospital. He is the son of a well-known dry-goods merchant, and lives in an elegant mansion on Fifth avenue. The young man was graduated from Columbia College about two years ago, and was sent to the University at Heidelberg to complete his education. It was there that he met with a painful accident. He had taken a special course in chemistry, and spent much of his time in the laboratory in the capacity of teachers' assistant. One evening, while alone, he was overcome by the vapor of sulphuric acid, and before he could get to the open air fell unconscious. As he rolled over his head entered an open fire-place, where there was a large log burning, and his hair caught on fire. He was found shortly afterward. His head was in a frightful condition. The flesh running from the forehead to the shoulders in the back was literally roasted. When he was lifted from the floor portions of the scalp fell off, exposing the bone. His face was not much injured, save for about an inch on the forehead. He was taken to his room, and there began the battle for his life. It was feared that the brain had been affected, as he remained in a comatose condition. There was a watery deposit in the lungs, but it could not be determined whether this was due to the inhaling of the vapor of the acid or the flame from the fire. The lung symptoms became worse rapidly, and all hope was given up of saving his life. The best physicians in Germany were called to attend him, and every thing was done that was known in medical science. Nearly all the flesh sloughed off from the skull, leaving a patch here and there, like an oasis in a desert.

It was a long time before his lungs healed, and much longer before the horrible wound became well enough to remove the skull-cap bandage which he wore. When he recovered his strength and came home, the terrible disfigurement of the cicatricial tissue in the scalp was hidden all right but for the fact that it set up an annoying irritation. Wigs of every sort were tried to overcome the difficulty, but when the irritation developed into a distressing inflammation from which a discharging ulcer was formed, the wigs had to be abandoned. The wig would have all right but for the fact that it set up an annoying irritation. Wigs of every sort were tried to overcome the difficulty, but when the irritation developed into a distressing inflammation from which a discharging ulcer was formed, the wigs had to be abandoned. When the hospital surgeon's attention was called to the case there was an ulc

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE, A. L. FORCE,
Editors and Proprietors.

HE DID RIGHT.

President Cleveland did right in promptly rescinding an order for the surrender of certain battle flags captured from Southern soldiers during the war for the Union.

He was prompted by the best of motives—national amity—when he signed the order, and evidenced honest and manly action by revoking what appeared to create discontent among many people of the North.

There the affair should and would have ended, but for a few intemperate and unprincipled politicians, who went even to the scandalous extent of promising insult to the President of the United States if he showed himself at the coming Grand Army assemblage in St. Louis, to which he had accepted an invitation.

Again, in our opinion, President Cleveland did exactly right in withdrawing his agreement to visit St. Louis at the time designated.

The event has created popular commotion in St. Louis, and at a large meeting of citizens held last Friday, among other prominent speakers was ex-Governor Fletcher who said:—

"I have been a citizen of Missouri all my life, and of St. Louis for many years. Whatever has been done by the Citizens' Committee which extended an invitation to the President I heartily endorse to-day, and I reiterate the invitation extended to him to be present at the meeting of the Grand Army of the Republic here. I am an old Grand Army man, an old Abolitionist, and I am an old Black Republican to-day, as you know. I abate not one jot or tittle of my political antecedents or preferences, but I say as a citizen of St. Louis that no man desires the President to visit St. Louis more than I do, and I say to you as one of the earliest members of the Grand Army, and speaking for the men with whom I marched and fought, that the Grand Army men of St. Louis unite heartily in the invitation to the President of the United States, as President of the United States. [Applause.] And I speak for the Grand Army men of the city of St. Louis because I know them all as a Past Commander of a Post, and I know that if the President of the United States should come here as the guest of St. Louis, they would show him all the respect any citizen of St. Louis could possibly show him. I believe I could speak for the whole of the Grand Army, but you know there are 300,000 men in that organization, and in 300,000 men there are liable to be a considerable number who haven't any sense. I want to say here that the Grand Army is not to be held responsible for the utterances of a few fools among them. I come to-day as a citizen of St. Louis and a member of the Grand Army to extend the same invitation to the President of the United States, as such, to attend the festivities this Fall. I speak for myself when I say that I gladly extend a hearty welcome to Grover Cleveland as a man, aside from the fact that he is the President of the United States, and I say this, as my political opinions differ from his, because in every position in which he has been placed he has shown himself to be a man. [Applause and cheers.] When they bounced on him about that order to return the flags, all the country of my persuasion got up on its hind legs, and I must say I got up on my hind legs. But the man got up and did not say that he had been deceived by any one, or that he had been misunderstood, but like a man he stood up and said: 'I did it, and I was wrong.' And a man who can stand up before 50,000,000 people and say, 'I am wrong,' is a man, and deserves the respect of the people."

These were not the words of a Democrat, but of a life-long Republican, and a member of the Grand Army of the Republic who had risked personal safety upon the field of war for the sake of the Union, and not to gratify political venom.

We think if the roll of Grand Army soldiers was called, those willing to insult—aye insult the Presidency of the United States, would prove to be an insignificant squad. The great mass of Union soldiers fought to defend not violate it, to honor not insult.

The Internal Revenue receipts at the Somerville office for last week amounted to $12,107.62. The total receipts for the year were $647,109.60.

One of the New York dailies in speaking of the Montclair schools, says they claim to be fully the equal of "the public schools of Plainfield which stand the highest in the State."

The city of Trenton is like Plainfield in one respect at least, and that is, its limited amount of school room. In the Trenton public schools there is a seating capacity of 3,594 and the school population is 9,033.

The Trustees of the State Deaf and Dumb Institution in Chambersburg have organized by the election of Governor Green as President, State Superintendent Chapman as Secretary, and State Comptroller Anderson as Treasurer.

There are 240 newspapers in the State and only 100 permitted to publish the laws. According to the classification of the papers selected, thirty-four are Democratic, thirty-four Republican, three German Democratic, three German Republican, two Labor, seventeen Independent, two German Independent, one Holland Republican and three Nondescript.

The laws of this State make it the duty of the Township Committee of each township to require the overseer of the highways to report annually at what place guide posts are required. The committees must within three months after the report erect the posts. The penalty for neglect is $10 for each, to be paid to the county. There must be a post at the intersection of all highways.

Struck by Lightning.

During the heavy shower at noon Saturday a bolt of lightning struck the chimney on Mayor Justus H. Cooley's residence in North Plainfield, demolishing the same, and tearing away a portion of the woodwork. The building did not take fire and consequently the only damage done was by the lightning. The only inmates of the house were Mrs. Cooley and an infant and they were visibly affected by the shock, but fortunately not injured.

Your Dogs Can't Bark.

Those of our citizens who have big dogs, little dogs, or yellow dogs with stump tails, should remember that the season for hydrophobia is at hand, and that a mad dog along the streets is more to be dreaded than a wild Comanche on the war path. Your dogs may be very pretty, but in the Summer they are safer out of sight, and if you have a nice little doggy, try to induce him to stay at home, and see that he gets plenty of good fresh water and is well cared for, and you will have no hydrophobia about. If your dog persists in barking and howling the remedy is a simple one. Get the Court of Chancery to restrain him with an injunction. That Court has just granted an injunction to restrain the dogs of Mr. Dahn, of Flemington, from barking at night until the suit as told in last Friday's Press can be fully heard.

Muhlenberg Hospital.

Dr. M. B. Long, the attending physician at Muhlenberg Hospital, makes the following official report of the patients cared for and treated at the Hospital for the month just passed:

Remaining in Hospital at date of last report	3
Admitted during June	5
Discharged cured	3
Discharged improved	2
Died	1
Remaining in Hospital	4
Dispensary patients	9
Total number treated	28

M. B. Long, Medical Director.

A Bicycle Road Race.

A number of Westfield's enterprising citizens have long desired to see a good bicycle road race. The result of such desire has been the subscribing of a generous fund for the purchase of three handsome medals, and the arranging of a five-mile race, for the championship of the county, open to all amateur cyclers residing therein. The race will take place at Westfield July 23d, at 3:30 p. m., and we are promised that Mr. Marion Ackerman, the one-mile champion of the Plainfield Bicycle club, will uphold the credit of this city. The Union county Wheelmen have charge of the event. The race will be over a course measuring one-half mile, and repeat for ten laps. The start and finish will be on Broad street near the hotel. The course will be to Central avenue, to North avenue and to Broad street again. From the entries that have been received by Secretary Arthur N. Pierson, every prospect of a close and interesting contest is apparent.

The Tennis Tournament Completed.

The finals in the tennis tournament between players of Elizabeth and this city, on the grounds of the Plainfield Tennis Club, were completed Saturday afternoon with the results as given below. All those contesting in these finals are members from Elizabeth, excepting Mr. Wotherspoon who was recently elected into the home club. At the close of the game of July 4th, Mr. Wotherspoon was slightly overcome by the heat and had been quite seriously ill ever since. Otherwise the result of the final in the singles might have been very different.

SINGLES.

Glazebrook beat Smith; 6—4, 3—6, 6—4.

Glazebrook beat Elliott; 6—4, 6—3.

Glazebrook beat Wotherspoon; 6—0, 6—2.

DOUBLES.

Green & Brandegee beat Glazebrook & Smith; 1—6, 6—2, 6—2.

Green & Brandegee beat Ranney & Harrison; 6—1, 6—0, 6—1.

The Netherwood Chapel Enterprise.

A conference was recently held at the residence of J. B. Dumont, Esq., between the people worshipping in the Netherwood Chapel and the rector and officers of Grace Church, respecting the proposed creation of a parish at Netherwood. The chapel congregation was represented by S. A. Haines, Mr. Burke, J. J. H. Poillon, Wilton Randolph, George Taylor, W. P. Smith and W. J. Leonard. The result of the conference was unfavorable to the parish scheme, but Grace Church urged the formation of a mission. At the conclusion of the conference it was decided that the wishes of Grace Church should be made known to the Netherwood congregation on Sunday, and that they in turn should report their views to the officers of Grace Church. The Netherwood people, accordingly, met after the services on Sunday morning, and, after considerable discussion, they unanimously agreed to favor the creation of a diocesan mission. A Netherwood committee will meet the rector and officers of Grace Church again this week, and present their views.

The Death Record.

Mr. C. L. Talliant of Manning avenue, North Plainfield, died about 11 o'clock last Friday evening. The cause of death assigned is inflammation of the brain. He was about 73 years of age and leaves a family. The funeral took place from the house on Monday at 3 p. m. Interment in the Presbyterian Cemetery.

Mrs. Robert Stewart, aged 33 years and 10 months, died at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Warren Squires, on Race street, North Plainfield, Thursday evening, after a lingering illness from consumption. The deceased was a resident of Asbury Park, and three weeks ago she came to Plainfield to visit her sister. She grew rapidly worse, although when her condition became most delicate, she was unable to remain in bed, being continually obliged to sit in a chair, in which position she quietly passed away. A husband and six children survive her, the youngest child, an infant, six months old, now lying dangerously ill with cholera infantum.

Since the above was written, we learn that the child died Saturday, and was buried with its mother Sunday afternoon.

A Narrow Escape.

The delivery wagon of a North avenue iced-cream dealer, ran over Wyatt Barnes, the eight-year old son of Mr. B. T. Barnes, of East Sixth street, last Thursday. The lad about seven o'clock was making a trial trip on a young companions' bicycle, and, although his first attempt, was succeeding remarkably well in riding along the macadamized roads in the vicinity of Crescent avenue church. He, however, lost control of the little machine just as Ramonetti's wagon came by, and the unfortunate lad rode directly into the side of the horse. He grabbed at the shafts in his nervous fright, and fell on his face directly in front of the wheels. The first wheel passed entirely over his body at the hips, but the efforts of the driver to save the boy from injury resulted in turning the horse to one side and the hind wheel only ran over one of the lad's legs below the knee. Wonderful to relate, he was able to walk home unassisted, and to bravely stand his pains and aches without a word of complaint. Dr. T. W. Davis was summoned, and upon examination found no broken bones. He pronounced it one of the most narrow escapes that had ever come into his experience. Friday morning the lad felt made up of bruised bones and flesh, but assures everybody, with pride, that "he's all right."

Our Public Library.

It rained so hard on the 6th, that the regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Public Library was almost postponed for want of a quorum. At 8:30, however, there was enough present to officially receive Librarian Tyler's monthly report, and to order paid a number of bills. The report which we print in full below shows a large circulation for a Summer month, and proves how judiciously selected and well assorted are the books that have been purchased, by the fact that so many are in demand. The number now in the library places this city near the head of the list of public libraries in the State, including the large College collections. It stands in fact number fourteen in a list of seventy-eight not including those having less than a thousand books.

LIBRARIAN'S REPORT FOR JUNE:

Vols. on Accession-book, May 31st	6,480
" added by purchase and exchange	315
" " gift	2
	6,797

Number of card-holders, 702; cash received from fines and sales, $15.14; from subscriptions of non-residents, $1; visitors to building, 1,620.

BOOK CIRCULATION:

Fiction	809
Juvenile	531
Biography	38
Travel, etc	45
Philosophy	2
Religion, etc	21
Sociology	19
Philology	1
Natural Science	20
Useful Arts	6
Fine Arts	26
Literature	99
History	26
Periodicals	1
Total	1,636

W. L. D. S.

Interesting Exercises at Trinity Reformed Church—Instrumental Music, Recitations and Singing.

The "Waldo Literary and Debating Society" is the name of a new organization recently formed by a number of the young ladies and gentlemen connected with the Trinity Reformed church and Sunday school, the object of which is to meet from time to time at the residences of the various members and enjoy an evening of general sociability, interspersed with spirited debates on prominent subjects. During the Winter these entertainments have been given at short intervals, and have become very popular among the members. The officers and members of the Society are as follows: President, Mr. Fred Lucus; Vice-President, Mr. J. Ran Dunn; Secretary, Miss Lillie A. Force; Treasurer, Miss E. V. Whitlock; Miss Jennie Dunn, Miss Lizzie Dunn, Miss Susie Van Winkle, Miss Emma U. King, Mr. S. J. Moore, Mr. Fred Cutter, Mr. Henry Williams, Mr. Julius Williams, Mr. Charles Gelbaar, Mr. Charles Wheeler.

Thursday last was the time set for the closing sociable of the Young People's society of Christian Endeavor of Trinity Reformed church, and the young people decided to offer the time at the disposal of the new society, and notwithstanding the intense heat that prevailed all the day and evening, there were a large number of persons present to witness the interesting exercises, many of whom were there, upon invitation, from the other churches. Mr. S. J. Moore performed the duties as master of ceremonies, in a manner highly creditable to himself. Each of the members of the society wore beautiful hand painted silk badges, bearing the initials of the society encircled in neatly executed vines and flowers, each of a different design, the same being the work of and presented by Mr. Moore. The programme was inaugurated with a promenade, accompanied by Prof. Durege on the piano, after which the Superintendent of the Sunday school, Mr. E. E. Anthony, in a few well chosen words, welcomed the pastor, Rev. Mr. Scheuck, who responded in a touching tone, stating that his cordial greeting was altogether unexpected. The various selections were then rendered according to the following announcement:

Instrumental Solo, ... Fra Diavola.
LILLIE FORCE.
Recitation, ... Somebody Knows.
JENNIE DUNN.
Recitation, ... The Modern Belle.
FRED. CUTTER.
Reading, ... Spoopendyke's Wrestle with a Bicycle.
CHAS. WHEELER.
Instrumental Duet, ... Di Bravins.
LILLIE FORCE, EMMA KING.
Recitation, ... The Dog and the Lobster.
J. RAN. DUNN.
Vocal Duet, ... Beautiful Moonlight.
EMMA KING, EMMA WHITLOCK.
Recitation, ... The Last Hymn.
LILLIE FORCE.
Quartette, ... Selected.
E. KING, E. WHITLOCK, A. CARPENTER, C. WHEELER.

The oppressive heat probably caused the society to resolve not to lengthen the programme, by responding to encores, although each and every piece was warmly received, and showed careful training on the part of the participants. An omission to the rule, however, was allowed the quartette, who were obliged to respond to prolonged applause.

President Gale of the Young People's Association, made a few appropriate remarks, illustrating the object and advantages of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, after which an intermission was given for refreshments, which were served up in abundance. Following the intermission Mr. W. R. Mattox gave a humorous recitation on "The Stubborn Mule," and Mr. Frank Coon sang a solo very effectively. The closing duett was by Messrs. Andrew Carpenter and Charles Wheeler, and after all united in singing "Blest be the tie that binds," the pastor dismissed the gathering with the benediction.

During the evening Messrs F. Dunn, Gale, Moore, Lucus and J. Ran Dunn amused themselves and the audience by attempting to sketch a pig on a black-board. Each one was blindfolded, and some of the scrawlings on the board might have been taken for a minature map of South America, but all of them resembled the stubborn subject to a certain extent. Mr. Dunn's reproduction was considered the most life-like, and he therefore "took the cake."

That the entertainment was a grand success is apparent from the fact that those present attest to the universal sociability that prevailed, and the untiring efforts of those having the matter in charge to provide amusement for young and old alike. To this end the young ladies and gentlemen who compose the society, are to be congratulated on the success of their undertaking.

Credit Due the Cemetery Association.

The already great success of the Hillside Cemetery project is due mainly to the confidence the people are bound to possess in its Board of Trustees. The true philanthropy of their intents and the honesty of their purposes, are so openly apparent no question of such sort can now or can ever arise in the matter. Not one cent of profit to the past projectors or present managers of the scheme, comes out of it. About $23,000 has already been expended in the purchase of the grounds, and the proper laying of them out so far as completed. Besides the first day's sales of lots amounting to about $12,000—according to the list compiled by THE PRESS and published in its issue of June 27th—subsequent purchases and orders for ground not yet selected, swell the total for the two weeks since the opening of the sale to over $15,000. We do not remember so satisfactory a return in so short a time, for any like amount of business risk, enterprise and philanthropy. This, as we said in the start, evidences the confidence of the people in the Trustees. The books of receipts and disbursements—if we mistake not—are open to examination at any time; and each lot owner becomes immediately upon the recording of his purchase a voter in the affairs of the Association. The price per foot of ground is proven to have been judiciously determined, by the fact that the greatest demand and most money expended has been for the highest priced lots. Besides such are hundreds of lots offered as low as is charged for sites in the burying grounds about the city. When is appreciated the fact that so much will continue to be expended upon beautifying the entire cemetery, and in consequence each individual's possession, the prices seem remarkably just. The Association has a nursery of 10,000 young trees of healthy growth, that will begin to be transplanted as soon as proper season arrives. Work will be continued all about the grounds until Winter interferes, and the erection of a chapel at the entrance is soon to be commenced. In this building can be held services over the remains of those who are brought from distant places, or whose homes here are not available for friends to attend the funeral ceremonies. The Hillside Cemetery will be the most desirable place of its kind in the State before many years.

Praise Service.

In the chapel of Park avenue Baptist church Sunday evening, was held a special praise service that was largely attended and greatly enjoyed. The pastor, the Rev. A. R. Dilts, preached an eloquent sermon on the question of praising God by service of song. The programme included two anthems, a duett, and hymns by an enlarged choir and the congregation. Mr. D. S. Bennett presided at the organ, and Mr. and Miss Bennett, of Cranford, sang a duett for bass and contralto, as an offertory.

ANOTHER BARN BURNED.

An Incendiaries' Torch Causes a Loss of $2,500

For the past few months THE PRESS has periodically recorded the various incendiary fires in this locality, so that the old heading of "Another Barn Burned" is getting to be a chestnut. About 1.30 o'clock Tuesday morning, Miss Clara Denton, who is a sufferer from neuralgia, looked out of her bedroom window at her residence, corner of Hillside and Prospect avenue, and saw what she at first supposed to be the bright moonlight, at the same time remarking—"how beautiful the moon is shining." In an instant, however, she discovered the barn on fire. The structure was a frame one, two stories high, with a basement, and about 30x40 feet in dimensions. The barn stood but a short distance from the house, and adjoining it on the north side was a wagon house. Miss Denton aroused the inmates of the house, and then hurried to the nearest neighbor, Mr. A. Streuli, with the intention of telephoning to this city. Mr. Denton went immediately to the barn and succeeded, with some difficulty in getting out all the live stock—two horses and two cows—but the barn and wagon house were totally destroyed, together with two carriages, (one new,) one sleigh, a lot of harness, some hay, straw, grain and a quantity of farming implements. The fire originated in the East corner of the wagon house and burned with great rapidity, so that when the firemen responded to the alarm the structure was almost in ruins. The place is situated about a mile to the Southeast of the city, and consequently some minutes intervened between the time the alarm was sounded and the arrival of the firemen on the scene. When they arrived, however, they directed their attention to saving a neighboring barn which stood about thirty feet distant, and to that end they were successful. In order to get a stream on the fire, water had to be forced through a thousand feet of hose from Cedar brook and transmitted from one engine to another. No. 2 and 3 engines and Zephyr Hook and Ladder company were present and each company did effective work, for which Mr. L. J. Denton called on us this afternoon and wished us to extend his thanks to the firemen and others who so kindly assisted in extinguishing the fire.

Mr. Denton told a PRESS reporter that the fire was undoubtedly of incendiary origin, as none of the family were in the habit of smoking, and none of them had been in the barn during the evening. He says that the total loss will probably amount to $2,500, and that the barn, wagon-house and contents are covered by insurance to the amount of $1,700—$500 in the Ætna Company of Hartford and the remainder in the Home Company of New York.

Chief Dodd's Hearing.

Chief of Police Chas. W. Dodd, appeared before Justice Hetfield Tuesday afternoon to waive examination on the charge preferred by Constable Garret P. Smith, of having obtained money under false pretenses, as noticed in Monday's PRESS. The complainant charged that the Chief collected money from a German peddler named Herman Baskin giving him a receipt for the same, and also produced the following receipt, with no date attached:

"Received from Herman Baskin five dollars for a license to peddle in the city of Plainfield to March 1st 1888.

"CHAS. W. DODD, Chief of Police."

The complainant also produced an affidavit signed by the peddler, which was put in evidence.

Chief Dodd in his own behalf testified to the facts published in this paper yesterday, about meeting a German who asked him where he could obtain a license, and in the absence of the City Clerk the Chief took the man into City Judge Ulrich's office where he received five dollars for the license application, and fifty cents for the Clerk's fees, giving him in return the above receipt for his license money of five dollars. The Chief also swore to having written the following which he gave to the Clerk with the money:

"Herman Becher, New York, license money.

"C. W. D."

City Clerk Leonard testified to having received the $5.50 cash together with the above note and believed to the best of his knowledge and belief that the application was the one presented and granted by the Council at its last meeting. Corporation Counsel Marsh appeared for Chief Dodd, and in summing up said that all persons were liable to make mistakes, especially in writing German names. The similarity in the names he said would readily show that they were meant for one and the same person. The case was concluded at four o'clock and the Justice discharged the accused.

Improving Music Hall.

Advantage will be taken of the season's rest, and work on the improvement of Music Hall acoustics and the repainting of its scenery is to begin at once. At the close of the past year's business, a balance upon the credit side of the books was shown. The Board of Directors instead of applying such surplus towards the payment of the outstanding mortgage of $5,000, decided to spend it in further effort and experiment to discover and remedy the always absent voices and over present echoes that are lost or found in the Hall's auditorium. Nor is this all that is promised. The scenery is to be repainted, and possibly, the drop curtain. The latter will be taken down and cleaned, anyway. The artist engaged is Mr. Seymour Parker, now engaged on the scenery for next season's road tour of "Michael Strogoff." He will begin his work here about the first of August, and as we have his promise that that blue drawing-room set will be blotted out the first of all, we shall soon rejoice with those who will rejoice. The committee having all this in charge as appointed from the Board of Directors, is composed of Messrs. Alexander Gilbert, John W. Murray and Orville T. Waring.

A Boy Bitten by a Dog.

A lad named Robinson, residing on Grove street, North Plainfield, was passing along Mountain avenue on his way to a pasture field in the rear of Mr. Charles Hyde's residence on Wednesday, 6th, when he is reported to have been attacked and severely bitten by a mongrel dog belonging to a man on Mountain avenue. The dog fastened his teeth in one of the boy's legs, terribly lacerating the flesh and tearing his garments into fragments. The unfortunate youth was taken to his home, where he became delirious and remained in that condition for some time. A physician dressed the wounds and restored the boy to consciousness. The ordinance relating to the muzzling of dogs, was adopted by the council at its meeting on Tuesday evening, and owners of dogs should attend to the matter and see that the ordinance is complied with strictly to the letter. Persons owning worthless curs would do well to hire some one to shoot them. With this latter class of canines, Plainfield is generously supplied.

Taken for an Electric Light.

The planet Venus now shines with such unusual brilliancy in the Western heavens during the early part of the evening that some people in this locality and elsewhere are giving credence to the story that it is an electric light which somebody west of us is sending up in a balloon, and that the gradual settling of the planet is the lowering of the baloon. The planet is of unusual brilliancy, however, and some people still believe that it is a large and brilliant electric light. This fairest of stars has about reached its greatest distance Eastward from the sun, and shines like a young moon in the West. Jupiter is also very brilliant, and is visible near sunset, sinking out of sight at midnight, below the Western horizon.

A Brilliant Affair.

A garden party and out-door high tea will be given on the spacious lawns of Captain Griswolde, U. S. N., at Netherwood, to-day, from 4:30 to 10:30 p. m. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the Episcopal church of Netherwood, and all arrangements for the occasion promise a brilliant affair. The residents and the Hotel guests will all favor the project by their presence and support, and its social and financial success is thus assured. The ladies who will take an active part include Miss Tatem of Brooklyn, a sister of Mrs. W L. Brown, who will dress as a gypsy; and the Misses Haines, the Misses Griswolde, Miss Anthony, and Miss White, a sister of Mrs. H. P. Talmadge. The grounds will be handsomely illuminated.

Saturday's Trotting Contests.

The race track of the Gentlemen's Driving Association at the Fair Grounds, was in an excellent condition on Saturday, and there was a fair attendance of spectators present to witness the usual Saturday afternoon trotting contests. The first race was between Edward Waring's "Ledger Boy," H. S. Phillips' brown mare and August Trust's brown horse. "Ledger Boy" won the race in 2:45. The next race was between Mr. O. T. Waring's "Copeland," John Osborne's "Care Not" and Mr. Zimmerman's "Tom McCan." The first trotted to wagon and the two latter horses trotted to harness. "Copeland" won the heat in 2:38. Before the races were completed, a rain storm set in, and the trotting for the day was postponed. These weekly trials of speed are becoming quite popular, especially among owners of horse flesh. Admission to the grounds is free, and the sport is well worth a visit to the place.

Chief Dodd the Defendant.

Constable Garret P. Smith went before Justice Levi Hetfield on Saturday, and lodged a complaint against Chief Dodd, charging him with an alleged obtaining of money under false pretenses. The complaint charges that on this —— day of April last, the defendant collected money from one Herman Baskin a New York peddler who applied for a peddler's license, giving him in return a receipt for the same, which money he confiscated for his own personal benefit. The Chief appeared before the Justice, pleaded not guilty to the charge and demanded an examination.

To a reporter Chief Dodd said Monday morning that a great deal of the license money was collected on the street by the police, who would turn it over to the City Clerk, and the applicant would be given a receipt for the payment of the money, which allowed him to peddle until the Council met and took action on the application. On June 13th last, the Chief says, a New York peddler named Herman Becher paid him the required amount of money for a license permit, and in the absence of the City Clerk, the man was given a receipt for the same. In due time the fees were paid over to City Clerk Leonard, and the application, among others, was sent into the Council at its regular meeting, Tuesday evening, 5th. The license was granted, has been signed by the Mayor, and is now in the Clerk's office awaiting for the applicant to come after it. Referring to the charge in the complaint, the Chief said he was perfectly innocent.

Both Nines Beat.

Saturday was just the day to be either spectator or participant in a ball match. The sun was hid by the clouds, and the air was cool. All this was very satisfactory to the "Brobdingnags" who played on the Park avenue grounds against the "Lilliputs," and just as welcome to the latter nine and the two hundred friends of both that had gathered to shout and heel for their respective favorites. Neither team was full when the time arrived to begin, but before the last round Tommy Martin's iced water—that a lemon had floated through in a rubber suit—had begun to have an effect because so strange. The balance of the nines were made up from the field, and included some of the best players of the lot—the three Cadmus brothers and Chamberlain. The "Heavy Weights" were led by Alderman Samuel Palmer Townsend Wilbur, that Tee Kay had the most to say. Mr. Charles Russ—who furnishes Elizabeth with all the nice things it ever gets to eat—coached the graceful 200-pounders around the bases; while Judge McCloud of the Communipau Supreme Court, stood about in graceful positions and gave the ladies present a chance to get on his shape and be happy. In the way of playing, however, the highest average is due Charley Smith for his left-handed catch of a difficult fly after a backward run from first base to right field. Although over fifteen years since he acted as catcher of the renowned "Haymakers," Charley proved that he had not forgotten how, and only missed two of the chances offered him. The pitcher and catcher together did not weigh as much as some of the others alone, but they got there just the same. The catching of George Cadmus was very creditable, and he took everyone of the hot balls his brother fired at him for nine innings, without gloves.

Of the "Crescents" we have so often written there is nothing new to say. There were but few errors committed by the nine, and many brilliant plays. One of the best fly catches we have ever seen on the field was made by J. Murray, Jr., who ran fully two hundred feet from centre to right field and just reached the ball as it neared the ground. Play was called at 3:45, and the teams settled to their work. The Brobdies majestic but nervous; the Lillies active but anxious. At the end of the fourth innings the Lillies were jubilant—their stock had gone up to 550—the score being 11 to 2. The Brobdies held a hurried consultation; their forms became erect, and they marched to the plate, their eyes radiant with the light of battle. Base hits followed in regular succession, and five runs were added in the inning. At the beginning of the ninth innings the score stood Brobdies 11, and Lillies 14, and the former—urged on by a mysterious courage obtained, no one knows where—made their last charge. It was wondrous. With three two-base hits, and three singles, they merrily danced around the bases and added five runs to their score which now stood 16 to 14 in their favor, with the last innings of the Lillies to be heard from. The rain was falling—the Lillies shaking and terrified besought the umpire to call the game. The Brobdies called "play ball," and went to the field. Buckley made an additional run for the Lillies, when the umpire seeing that old Pluvius had increased the size of his watering pot, reluctantly called the game on the score of the eighth innings.

BROBDINGNAGS.

	AB.	R.	O.	1B.	TS.	PO.	A.	E.
Keller, 3b	5	2	1	2	4	4	2	1
Smith, 1b	5	2	3	2	3	8	0	2
Russ, s. s	5	1	4	0	0	2	0	0
McCloud, c. f	5	1	4	2	1	1	0	0
Wilbur, r. f	5	2	2	1	2	2	0	0
Yoehl, 2b	4	1	3	2	2	2	0	3
W. Cadmus, p	4	1	2	0	0	0	6	2
Evans, l. f	4	1	0	0	0	0	0	0
G. Cadmus, c	4	2	2	2	4	8	2	2
	41	11	24	11	15	24	11	10

LILLIPUTS.

Cornwell, s. s	5	3	2	0	0	2	5	0
H. Cadmus, r. f	5	1	2	0	0	1	0	0
McMurray, c	5	2	1	1	1	2	0	1
Chamberlain, 3b	5	2	3	1	1	1	1	0
Doane, 2b	5	1	4	1	2	3	0	1
Murray, c. f	5	1	2	0	0	2	0	0
Townley, p	5	2	2	1	2	0	9	0
Tilney, 1b	5	1	1	0	0	9	0	0
Buckley, l. f	4	1	3	1	1	0	0	2
	44	16	24	7	7	24	16	5

BY INNINGS:

BROBDINGNAGS	2	0	0	0	0	0	4	0	—11
LILLIPUTS	5	2	2	1	0	0	3	0	—14

Earned runs—Brobdingnags, 7; Lilliputs, 4. First base on errors—Cornwell, 2; Chamberlain, 1; Murray, 1; Townley, 1; Tilney, 1; Buckley, 1; Keller, 1; Wilbur, 1; W. Cadmus, 1. Left on bases—H. Cadmus, 2; Chamberlain, 2; Murray, 2; Keller, 2; Smith, 1; Wilbur, 1; W. Cadmus, 2; Evans, 1. Hit with balls—Keller, 1; Murray, 1. Struck out by Cadmus—Cornwell, Doane, Townley, Tilney, 3. By Townley—Yoehl. Three base hit—G. Cadmus, 1; Buckley, 1. Two-base hits, Keller, 2; McCloud, 1; Chamberlain, 1. Double play—Chamberlain and Cornwell. Umpire, Samuel Gulliver. Scorer, A. Mountjoy.

Reform Club.

The meeting Sunday night in Reform Hall was of decided interest. George M. Angleman and Rev. Mr. Honeyman occupied the speakers platform, and both gentlemen delivered earnest addresses in favor of total abstinence from the drink habit, holding up to view the manifold blessings Temperance is sure to confer, and quoting practical examples to show the terrible effects of intoxicating liquor. President French followed with a few well timed remarks, and during the closing music of Mr. Vanderbeck's choir two men came forward and signed the pledge. Dr. Honeyman delivered the benediction and the audience dispersed.

WESTFIELD

Dr. Gale has opened an ice cream saloon in his new Club house on Elm street.

Augustus K. Gale started Thursday on a two week's vacation at Monticello, N. Y.

Koester and Todd have received the contract for building a stone bridge on Broad street near Union avenue. A new bridge at that point has been wanted for some time—the old one having fallen in so as to stop the free passage of water through it.

The body of Miss A. T. Muchmore, the young lady that was killed last week in the explosion of the Celonite factory at Arlington, N. J., was interred in Fairview cemetery on Saturday evening last. The deceased was a neice of freeholder Pierson. Funeral services are to be held next Sunday in the Presbyterian church at Arlington.

NEW MARKET.

The School Trustees are going to overhaul the building and make some improvements in fencing—but not before it is wanted.

Dr. Edwards intends removing in a short time to Newark, N. J., where he has received a very advantageous offer in his profession.

Miss Nelson having resigned her charge of the primary department, Miss Mamie Titsworth, who recently graduated at Plainfield, has received a notification of her appointment.

A majority of the Trustees consider it desirable to make a change in the Principal, not because the scholars have failed to advance satisfactorily in their studies, but on account of a rather too lax system of discipline. That the late Principal was exceedingly popular with her scholars is beyond peradventure, as evidenced by the testimonial presented to her by the scholars at the closing exercises, which was subscribed and paid for by a large proportion of the class and not by a few. It certainly is a source of regret that one who is competent in every respect but one—and that an excess of kindness and consideration—should receive a dismissal which is not approved by a large number of the parents. No matter who the Trustees engage they will find no one is perfect or infallible.

BROAD BRIM.

LIST OF ADVERTISED LETTERS.

REMAINING IN PLAINFIELD POST OFFICE FOR WEEK ENDING JULY 15, 1887.

Adams, Mrs Dr	Moses, David
Bowers, Miss Julia	McArtnie, Miss
Burne, John	Randolph, Mrs Edw J
Baldwin, Frank (2)	Stewart, Wm D
Coffin, Mrs Will	Snyder, Mrs Rebecca
Compton, Samuel	Smith, Mrs Florence B
Forman, Wm	Thompson, Mrs Phebe J
Griswold, Mrs Sarah N	Townsend, Mrs Phœbe
Hughes, Miss M H	VanDeventer, Mrs W H
Lutes, Mrs Wm	Wright, Mrs
	Wilson, Edward T

Persons calling for above please say advertised.

W. L. FORCE, Postmaster.

AN ORDINANCE

Concerning Dogs.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. That no dog, not in charge of its keeper, shall be permitted to run at large within the city of Plainfield, unless a good and sufficient muzzle shall be placed over the mouth of such dog in such manner as to render biting impossible; and any person who shall permit or suffer any dog owned or harbored by him to run at large contrary to the provisions of this ordinance, shall upon conviction thereof be punished by a fine not exceeding ten dollars for each offense.

SEC. 2. That there shall be established for the purpose of impounding dogs not muzzled as provided in section 1st hereof, found running at large, a dog pound, to be in charge of a pound-master to be specially appointed. Two suitable persons shall also be specially appointed whose duty it shall be to seize and impound all dogs not muzzled as required by section first, which shall be found running at large in the streets of said city. Said persons so appointed shall wear a shield as a badge of office, said shield to be provided by the city clerk, and shall be entitled to receive as compensation for his services, the sum of twenty-five cents for each dog delivered by him to the pound-master. Should any person appointed as aforesaid seize or impound any dog other than such as are not muzzled as required in section first, he shall upon conviction be punished by a fine not exceeding five dollars, or imprisonment not exceeding five days, either or both.

SEC. 3. That all dogs delivered to the pound-master shall be subject to a charge of twenty-five cents per day or fraction of a day for their keep while in charge of the pound-master, and a penalty of one dollar to be paid by the owner of the dog to the pound-master for its redemption in addition to the charge for keep. The pound-master shall receive as compensation for his services, one half of the penalties paid him, and shall be entitled further to the charges for keep but as mentioned. All dogs unclaimed or unredeemed at the expiration of four days after their being impounded shall be put to death by said pound-master in the most merciful and humane manner possible.

SEC. 4. That all ordinances inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed.

Adopted July 5, 1849.
Approved July 6, 1887.

JOB MALE, Mayor.

Attest: O B. LEONARD, City Clerk.

Central Railroad of New Jersey

Station in New York—Foot of Liberty Street.

Time Table in Effect June 27, 1887.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 3.27, 5.43, 6.32, 7.02, 7.30, 7.59, 8.02, 8.23, 8.40, 9.52, 10.37, 11.08, 11.42, a. m., 12.33, 1.21, 2.25, 2.57, 3.51, 5.25, 5.30, 5.54, 6.32, 6.55, 7.02, 8.46, 9.18, 11.16, p. m. Sunday—3.27, 801, 8.57, 10.33, 11.32 a. m., 1.27, 3.30, 5.16, 7.20, 7.28, 9.23 p. m.

Leave New York from foot of Liberty Street, 4.00, 6.00, 7.30, 8.30, 9.00, 10.15, 11.00 a. m., 1.00, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 3.45, 4.00, 4.30, 5.00, 5.15, 5.30, 5.45, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 8.15, 9.30, 10.30, 12.00 p. m. Sunday—4.00, 8.45, 9.00, a. m., 12.00, p. m.,

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST, - - City Editor.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE OF MAILS.

NEW YORK MAILS

CLOSE—8.00 and 10.00 A. M.; 2.00 and 5.30 P. M.
ARRIVE—1.30, 9.30, 11.45 A. M.; 2.30 and 6.30 P. M.

SOMERVILLE, EASTON, &c., MAILS.

CLOSE—9.30 A. M. and 4.30 P. M.
ARRIVE—8.30 A. M. and 6.30 P. M.

SUNDAY MAILS—Arrive at 8.30 A. M. Office open from 9.00 A. M. to 10.00 A. M. Mail closes at 7 P. M.

Mail for Warrenville closes Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 12 M.

Post Office opens at 7 A. M. and closes at 7.30 P. M. Saturdays, closes at 8.00 P. M. Open every evening until 8.30 P. M., to owners of lock boxes

Money order office open from 8 A. M., to 5 P. M. Saturdays to 4 P. M.

W. L. FORCE, Postmaster.

—It's having a great run—perspiration.

—Owing to the recent hot weather, complaints of foul gutters were unusually numerous in these days.

—Contractor Coriell of Dunellen has completed macadamizing Prospect avenue, and has made a first-class job of it.

—Books containing fifty trips between this city and New York, good in the hands of the bearer, are on sale at the ticket office at eighteen dollars. Thirty-six cents each way.

—The Plainfield Singing and Turning Society netted about $200 on their Fourth of July picnic, which will be donated to the erection of their new building on Somerset street.

—The ball match between the married and single men of Dunellen, announced to take place there on Saturday, was postponed on account of the married men failing to put in an appearance.

—Mr. L. Heyniger, the Somerset street merchant, has recently purchased a handsome new delivery wagon, which is daily seen upon the streets of the city, delivering goods to his numerous patrons.

—To-day and every Friday is "ladies day" on the Bicycle Club's tennis court. The fair sex are then permitted to share in the enjoyment of at least that portion of the pleasure of the selfish cycler.

—One of the clerks in a Park avenue butcher shop killed a garter snake about eight inches long, in front of the store last week, but he emphatically denies the accusation that it emerged from his boots. This is no snake story.

—In our issue of June 29th, we proposed the giving of public band concerts in the City Park during one or two evenings of each week. The suggestion, we are glad to inform our readers, is meeting with consideration, and there is hope the idea will be adopted.

—A valuable horse, one of a $700 team belonging to Fred. Valentine of Central avenue, was seriously injured in the hay field a few days since, by stepping on a cradle. One of the animal's legs was terribly lacerated so as to render him almost useless.

—We understand from one of our city fathers, that some ignoramus insists the Council should take steps towards the extermination of the present colonies and the prevention of further immigration of the potato-bug. Such fools make even boys of common sense tired.

—Complaint is made against the driver of a bone and tallow wagon, who is allowed to go among the butchers during the hot weather, buying bones and tallow. The stench arising from the wagon is sometimes almost intolerable, and ladies have been known to cross the street to escape passing it.

—A lady drove a horse and phaeton so unexpectedly around the corner of Peace and Second streets, Saturday afternoon about six o'clock, that a rapidly riding cycler jammed into the front wheel of the carriage, bounced himself off, and picked up the wreck of his machine as the lady disappeared up the street.

—There is a possibility of two or three Summer—evening organ—recitals in Crescent avenue church, during the present season. The programme will be of popular music, Mr. Taft of Clinton avenue church, Brooklyn, will be the performer, and admission will be free. For all these reasons the attendance will be unlimited.

—The remnants of the two barns on Sixth street near Park avenue, which were destroyed by fire a few weeks ago, are left in such a position as to make it dangerous for pedestrians to pass along Sixth street. But a short time would be required to remove the debris, and all possibility of the timbers falling would thus be averted.

—Guests of The Netherwood and the residents of the adjacent cottages need no more come into town for their Sunday shave. "Chris" has the coolest little shaving parlor that could be desired, just off the main hall of the hotel, and years of experience enables him to please even the most chronic growler that ever occupied a barber-chair.

—"Sci," a messenger boy at the depot, has taken a contract to dispose of cats, we are informed. A day or two ago, he threw a salt sack containing a feline on a passing coal train, bound for the coal fields in Pennsylvania. Any person who has diminished his supply of boot-jacks and other bedroom furniture in his eagerness to rid the community of these "sweet voiced" animals,—will confer a favor on the young man by informing him of the fact at once.

—We are told that it is the practice of some residents to rake smooth the roadway in front of their property and then to place logs in the gutter at the boundary lines of their lots to prevent carriages from driving over the ground. Major Eugene A. Gross, of Union avenue, on his way home through Sixth street, Saturday night, turned out for another vehicle, and striking one of the barriers of which we speak, wrecked his buggy considerably. Any Court will sustain his just claim for damages.

—Persons have been in the habit of dumping ashes on the low ground adjoining Mr. Isaac Brown's residence on Broadway, and some of them, it is said, have recently dumped some garbage there without Mr. Brown's knowledge or consent. The Health Inspector informs us that the owner of the land now compels all persons to pass through his door-yard before being allowed to dump anything on his land, so that he can see that nothing which is detrimental to the public health is permitted to be deposited there.

—The Sunday evening meetings at Warren Union Mission are largely attended. The one last Sunday was especially full of interest, and the service of song particularly pleasing. Solos were rendered by Mr. M. M. Dunham and Mr. George Belcher, with the choristers and congregation uniting in full chorus. Secretary Manning of the Y. M. C. A., had charge of the devotional exercises, and the meeting was a profitable one throughout. After two more Sunday evenings, the meetings will close for the Summer months.

—The police were notified last Thursday that a lot of boys were in the habit of bathing in the brook opposite the Evona depot, and that they were frequently seen along the roadway en dishabille, very much to the inconvenience of persons who were obliged to pass the place on the way to and from their homes. The boys should remember that an ordinance in the borough prohibits bathing in a nude state, and if they are caught bathing on this side of the "brook" they are also liable to a fine or imprisonment. Here is another point illustrating the necessity of a public bath in Plainfield.

—Gardens never looked finer.

—Drowning accidents are reported from all parts of the country.

—Lawn parties and lawn dresses are much in vogue.

—There is an immense amount of travel on the railroads.

—Many of the handsomest elms in the city are a prey to the worms.

—Most of the school teachers have gone from the city on vacation.

—There will be many vacant seats in the Sunday schools for several weeks.

—The big pumpkins, squashes, etc., are getting in training for the State fairs.

—Sailor hats were never so much worn by young misses and ladies as this season.

—Corn has taken a prodigious leap recently, and the hot nights did the business.

—Mr. J. W. Jackson and family of Crescent avenue went to Asbury Park, Monday.

—Less muzzled dogs are observed on the streets this season than in former years.

—There were 329 passengers on the W. C. T. U. excursion Friday, including about twenty from Elizabeth.

—Many of the lawns throughout the city present a charming appearance. The recent rains have beautified them very much.

—As they came out of church, Saturday morning, the Seventh-Day Baptists were caught in the rain with their Sunday clothes on.

—The members of the Fire Board do not anticipate getting a decision in the fire tax matter before the October term of the Supreme Court.

—The Board of Appeals in cases of taxation, will sit in the City Court room on Wednesday, July 20th, between the hours of two and six p. m.

—Assessor Isaac Brokaw has commenced the erection of a two-story addition, 16x16 feet, to his already handsome residence on Duer street. All the modern improvements will be put in.

—It is officially stated that the limit of redemption of the trade dollars does not expire until September 3d, instead of July 1st, as heretofore announced.

—Subscribers of THE PRESS and CONSTITUTIONALIST leaving town, can have the paper sent to their address without additional cost, by furnishing their full names and address to this office.

—All of the hotel proprietors along the new Jersey coast report that their business for the month of June was far in excess of that of any previous year.

—The Plainfield Bicycle Club's road-race to New Brunswick and back—from New Market to New Brooklyn—is now, after much discussion at a club meeting of last Monday, very indefinitely postponed.

—Three children were left at Asbury Park when the excursion train started from there Friday evening, but they were returned to Plainfield, at the expense of the railroad company, arriving here on the 9:29 p. m. train.

—Edward Staats, the colored youth who was accidently shot in the leg by the careless use of a revolver a few weeks ago, is now pronounced to be out of danger. The wound is healing nicely and the patient is able to walk out.

—A good excursion, for July 22d, is arranged for the accomodation at the sea shore of the Baptists and their friends. No better planned, nor carefully managed excursion ever goes out of the city than our cold-water friends represent.

—Be careful of the little ones. Don't neglect the first sign of intestinal trouble. If any disease was causing such mortality among adults as cholera infantum now is with the babies, the whole country would be panic-stricken over the epidemic.

—A special meeting of the Plainfield Bicycle Club will be held Monday evening, July 25th, for the consideration and adoption of a new constitution and set of by-laws revised and compiled by a committee consisting of Messrs. Martine, E. Ackerman and D. M. Runyon.

—Although not largely attended, the excursion to Ocean Grove, etc., Friday, under the management of the W. C. T. U., was a well conducted and most enjoyable one. If not a financial success, it will be the first time these earnest working ladies have found the balance on the wrong side.

—The contests for the consolation prizes offered by the Plainfield Tennis Club for competition among all who played the winners in the recent tournament, may come off next Saturday afternoon. It is not probable, however, that those of the Elizabeth club entitled to enter will be present.

—Mayor J. H. Cooley and Marshal Becker were Tuesday morning served with notices to appear before Justice Nodyne at his office on West Front street, on Tuesday, July 19th instant at two o'clock in the afternoon to answer Robert Simpson in an action of tort wherein the plaintiff demands $200.

—The Plainfield military company as a part of the Third Reg't, of N. J., seems to be non est. Another meeting was called for Tuesday, but no quorum was present and the organization as it stood has fallen through. The project of an independent company is now receiving the attention of those principally interested.

—It has been decided by the vote of the members present at a meeting of the Plainfield Bicycle Club, held last Monday, that the riding of "racers be not permitted in Club contests." This puts all on an equal footing so far as their machines are concerned, and the winner must now get there on his own personal merits and a roadster.

—Work has commenced on the new bridge at the intersection of Scott avenue and Sixth street in this city, which the Board of Freeholders granted recently. The structure is to run diagonally across the two thoroughfares and its greatest length will be about 70 feet over all. The total cost will be between five and six hundred dollars.

—A fatal runaway accident in New York, caused by the animal taking fright at a bicycle rider, illustrates, according to the New York Times, "the danger of allowing bicycles on the driving road." But it was not the bicycle that ran away. The accident illustrates more clearly the danger of allowing nervous and fractious horses on the driving roads.

—We are surprised to-day to learn from their own mouths of a dozen otherwise intellectual people, who—until THE PRESS published the fact—were not aware that the brilliantly shining Venus, that is now our evening star, is not a balloon-suspended electric light. A person's education, nowadays, depends entirely upon where they get their information.

—An exchange says: "If you have a boy named Bill, or Bud, or Sam, or Tom, you need not fear that he will be drowned during the swimming season. The boy who has a plug name and whose hair stands up straight like a hazel brush, and who has stone bruises on his feet, is not in danger of drowning. But if your son has curly hair, and if he wears shoes in Summer and has a pretty name, you had better let him swim in a washbowl."

—The Pennsylvania Railroad and other leading lines having insisted upon their Western connections ceasing the payment of commissions and other subsidiary amounts to their local agents, it is observed that several companies (notably the Chicago and Northwestern Railway) are applying the amounts so saved to the payment for new and attractive advertising in the newspapers; consequently there will be about as much Northwestern Railway money put in circulation in the East as heretofore.

Personalia.

C. Schepflin and family are registered at the Manhattan Beach Hotel.

General Van Buren and family of Ninth street, are summering at Spring Lake, N. J.

Miss Baker of Boston, is visiting at the residence of Mrs. W. P. Smith, at Netherwood.

Miss Maria Toohey, of Short Second street, is spending a two weeks visit at Long Branch.

Mr. D. Lowitz of West Sixth street, is registered at the Surf Avenue House, Ocean Grove.

Mr. Frank Ryno and wife, of Jersey City Heights, are spending a few days with relatives in the Borough.

Arthur Boone, the eldest son of Dr. W. C. Boone of this city, has joined the family at Sunset Hall, Asbury Park.

Mr. John W. Murray's family of Central avenue are at the "Prospect House," Bay Shore, N. Y., for the Summer.

Mr. John Dunning formerly of this city, but now of Brooklyn, is spending a few weeks among his old friends here.

Mr. John W. Laing has about entirely recovered from the injuries and bruises received in his upset some weeks ago.

Mr. Tiffany of Crescent avenue, has returned from the Adirondacks, where he has been rusticating for some time past.

George Vincent, son of Rev. Dr. J. H. Vincent, has gone to Chautauqua to attend the annual Assembly of the C.L.S.C.

Mr. H. B. Newhall, wife and children of East Seventh street, are recuperating at Swift Water, Pa., in the Pocono Mountains.

Mr. Taft, a gentleman from Brooklyn, and his family, have taken possession of the house on Park avenue, near Cedar brook.

Mrs. C. A. Miller, Mrs. F. A. Chapman and Miss Nina Chapman of Third Place, are summering at the Crossman House, Alexander Bay, N. Y.

"Uncle Dan" Roberts has been giving the front of his livery and residence a coat of paint, which improves the appearance of the same greatly.

Miss Mary S. Hornby and Miss Anna Day, both teachers in the public schools, have gone to Belgium, N. Y., to spend their Summer vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Bonney of North Plainfield, accompanied by their two children, left the city Thursday afternoon, for a short sojourn at Ocean Grove.

Mr. John I. Holly has disposed of his handsome property adjoining the Fair Grounds to Gen. S. K. Schwenk, who is welcomed as a new citizen of our fair city.

Mr. W. L. Jones of Seventh street and Park avenue is at present so seriously ill that there seems to be no hope of his entire recovery. A recent stroke has paralyzed his powers of speech.

Ex-Councilman John Cameron is progressing favorably in his work of constructing a railroad in Southern Missouri. There is no locality too "tiresome" for John to construct a railroad, when he takes a contract.

Judge Enos W. Runyon, a former resident of this city, and now of Asbury Park, is visiting brothers and sisters here. The Judge has been in ill-health for some time, but his many friends are glad to note that he is looking and feeling better.

The Elizabeth Herald in speaking of the tennis tournament here, says: "In the doubles Messrs. Bedbe and Walz, of Plainfield, defeated Messrs. Elliott and Knapp, of this city, the latter being considered one of the strongest teams in New Jersey.

Among the latest arrivals at Asbury Park from this city, according to the Journal of that place, are Messrs. I. C. Pierson and J. H. Hallock at the Minot House; Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Fish at the "Leadley;" and Stephen Cahoone at "Norwood Hall."

Dr. C. M. Field, who is at present in Brooklyn within reach of the advice and consultation with the physicians of the highest repute in the World, expects to return home here soon for a few days. He probably will not, however, re-open his practice before Fall.

Captain A. L. C. Marsh of the Cyclers, is becoming quite an adept at lawn tennis since the construction of the Bicycle Club's courts. He may be noticed in earnest practice almost every evening, and is already one of the most skillful and graceful racket-holders in the Club.

Miss Julia E. Bulkley, Principal of the Plainfield Public Schools, who in company with Miss Florence Rushmore and Miss Alice Lansing of this city, and Miss Washburn, of Chicago, sailed for Europe on the steamer "Germanic," Wednesday, June 23th, arrived at Liverpool, at eleven o'clock Friday last.

Miss Annie Buckley of Park avenue, who, with her sister, left town last week, joined by a party of friends from New York, to spend the Fourth at their home among the Catskills, has returned to Plainfield. Miss Kate Buckley still remains to enjoy the refreshing mountain breezes a while longer.

The extensive alterations that will be made to the residence ex-Councilman Thompson recently purchased at Central avenue and Sixth street, are from plans designed by Architect Charles H. Smith. An extensive porch, an outside chimney and other features will change materially the style of the exterior.

Signor Lorenzo Paoli of this city sailed on Saturday for a trip and short visit to the country of his birth. His address during his absence from America will be "di Segromigno, Tuscan, Lucca Italia." On his return to the continent of equality and freedom, however, he'll again be plain "Peanutty Johnnie" of North avenue.

The many who in passing express surprise and pleasure at the extensive improvements Dr. Long has made in the exterior of the residence he purchased and is occupying on Park avenue above Fourth street, would also greatly admire the result of the re-arrangment of the interior. Electric lights and electric annunciators are also being placed through the house.

Mrs. John Lindsley of West Front street, in company of Mrs. John Mair and daughter, Miss Rachael, of Leland avenue, the latter a teacher in the North Plainfield public school, sailed for Scotland, per steamer "State of Georgia" of the State line, at seven a. m., Thursday last. Mrs. Lindsley will spend the Summer with friends at Ayreshire, and Mrs. Mair and her daughter will spend several weeks visiting in various parts of Scotland.

Mrs. John Walker of Park avenue, received a letter on the 6th from her sister, Miss Nettie Wilson, who is summering in Scotland, stating that she had met and conversed with Capt. Geo. M. Phillips and wife of this city who sailed for Europe a few weeks ago, at the Glasgow Station in Scotland. Miss Wilson also stated in her letter that she had met William Howatt of West Second street, this city, in Glasgow, the same day, and that she, herself, was having a most delightful time. She will probably return to Plainfield in October.

The tobacco trade, and especially dealers in cigars and cigarettes, are just now worked up over the trade mark clauses in the treaty adopted in Paris in 1883, and ratified last March. One of the New York papers recently devoted a great deal of space to the opinion of Mr. Rowland Cox, of this city, in the matter. The introductory part of the interview speaks of Mr. Cox as "the eminent trade-mark lawyer." His opinion is directly contrary to some other authorities, and holds that the effect of the treaty will be to compel the discontinuance by American manufacturers, for instances, of such stamps upon their boxes as "Habana," "Carolina," and similar marks borne by noted Cuban goods.

Mrs. D. E. Anthony is visiting at Merchantsville, N. J.

Miss Lucy H. Everett is summering at East Gloucester, Mass.

Miss Mabel Hotchkiss is sojourning at Seaside Sanitarium, Asbury Park.

Miss Nellie Smith of Dunellen, has returned from the Catskill Mountains.

Mrs. F. O. Herring of Ninth street has gone to Seaport, L. I., for the Summer.

Rev. Asa R. Dills left Plainfield Tuesday for a two weeks visit to Providence, R. I.

Joseph Robinson of East Fourth street, is spending a few weeks at Northfield, Mass.

Mrs. S. D. White and the Misses White of Crescent avenue, have left for Cayuga Lake.

Miss Annie Adams, of London, Canada, is visiting Miss Emma U. King, of Peace street.

Mrs. J. Monroe Brown of Belvidere avenue, Netherwood, has gone to the Adirondacks.

Miss Flo Randolph of Peace street, is enjoying herself with relatives at Stratford Conn.

Mr. Frank Lewis of New Market, is the guest of Mr. C. R. Moore of Alfred Centre, N. Y.

Mrs. M. M. Whitney has gone to Ocean Grove for the Summer, registering at the Irvington House.

Mrs. Worthington, of First place and Ninth street, has returned to Spring Lake with her daughter.

Miss Wotherspoon is visiting her sister, Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers, at the latter's Summer cottage, Sewaren.

Mrs. A. M. Runyon of Madison avenue, has gone to Pine Hill, amid the Catskills, for a thorough change of air.

Little Allen Laing, of Park Place, North Plainfield, is spending the Summer with his grandmother at Easton, Md.

Rev. J. P. Taylor and family have returned to their home on Park avenue, after a short sojourn at Asbury Park.

Dwight L. Moody, the Evangelist, will conduct services at Seabright, N. J., on Saturday and Sunday, July 23d and 24th.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank King and son, of Jersey City Heights, are visiting Mrs. L. Prescott, corner of Peace and Second streets.

Miss Lillie Randolph of West Seventh street, has gone to Lake Hopatcong, to enjoy the invigorating breezes of that delightful place.

Mrs. D. C. Smalley and two children of North avenue, have gone on a three weeks' visit to Mrs. Smalley's parents at Whitehall, Pa.

Miss Ida Randolph of Park avenue, has returned home from the University at Alfred Centre, N. Y., to spend the Summer with her parents.

Mr. W. L. Patton of East Ninth street, has rented for the Summer a beautiful cottage at North Long Branch, where he is residing with his family.

Mr. Daniel S. Berry on Monday disposed of a fifty-foot-front lot on Craig place, adjoining the German Reformed church building, to Mr. J. C. Dyer.

Mrs. H. D. Janes and family will Summer at Mouse Island, Me., stopping for a few days' visit with friends in Massachusetts and New Hampshire, en route.

An eighteen-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Kelcher of North Plainfield, died about one o'clock Sunday morning, from an attack of scarlet fever.

Through some misunderstanding, there was no clergyman present to conduct the service in the First Presbyterian Church Sunday morning, and consequently no service was held.

Rev. Dr. K. P. Ketcham, and daughter, Miss Beulah, who have been touring in Europe for several weeks past, sailed for home on the "City of Rome," from Queenstown, on the 6th.

Mr. Arthur P. Miller, a bright light in the galaxy of lawyers in this city, received an official notice from Chancellor McGill a few days ago informing him of his appointment as a Master in Chancery.

Rev. A. H. Tuttle, formerly the pastor of M. E. church in this city, has recently received two degrees of D. D.—one from the Grant Memorial University, Tennessee, and the other from the Syracuse Univer sity of New York.

Dr. W. E. Stelle of Front street is erecting a handsome brick residence on Park avenue, adjoining that of Dr. T. S. Davis, at the corner of Sixth street. The building will not be ready for occupancy for several weeks to come.

The officers of the Auxiliary Board of Muhlenburg Hospital for the ensuing year are—President—Mrs. M. E. Edgerton; Vice President—Miss Mary Tweedy; Secretary—Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson; Treasurer—Mrs. H. D. Burlingham; Auditors—Mrs. W. E. Lowe, Miss M. Tweedy.

The Rev. Dr. K. P. Ketcham will be given a reception of welcome from his European trip, by the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor. The event will take place in the lecture room of the church, this evening. All the congregation and the pastor's friends are invited.

A very clever and humorous treatise upon the life and character of Shakspeare as evidenced by his own words, was recently read before the local circle of the C. L. S. C., by its skillful compiler, Miss Minnie A. Baright. It has since been printed as an eight-page leaflet for distribution by the Circle.

Rev. Jesse Lyman Hurlbut and family have left the city to participate in the exercises of the S. S. Assembly at South Framingham, Mass. On August 1st they go to the Monroe Lake Assembly, at Madison, Wis. During the month of August they will be at Chautauqua, N. Y., to attend the annual exercises of the C. L. S. C.

Mrs. A. G. Chamberlin and child of Texas, has been visiting at the residence of Dr. T. H. Tomlinson on West Second street for a few weeks past. Mrs. Chamberlin is a daughter of Dr. B. F. Gillette of Brooklyn, who for a number of years was a resident on West Second street this city. She was at one time a pupil in the High School, graduating from that institution in 1879. Mrs. Chamberlin is now spending a few days with the family of ex-Postmaster Pope, previous to her departure for Texas.

George P. Suydam, who with his wife and child are stopping at the Coleman House, Asbury Park, made a flying trip to Plainfield Monday. He reports the Coleman House, under the efficient management of Mr. S. V. Woodruff, formerly of Hotel Netherwood, in a flourishing condition. The hotel is crowded to its utmost capacity, and on Saturday, about thirty persons who applied for rooms had to seek them elsewhere. Mr. Woodruff will open a number of private boarding houses near the Coleman House, in order to accommodate his increased patronage.

At the Warren Mission Chapel, in North Plainfield, at four o'clock Sunday afternoon, occurred the double funeral of Mrs. Robert Stewart, who died on Thursday and her infant who expired on Saturday morning. The Chapel was filled to its utmost with relatives and sympathizing friends of the deceased. Rev. Dr. Yerkes paid a fitting tribute to the departed dead, whose life had been cut off while yet in young womanhood. The scene of mother and child in one casket was most affecting and there were but few dry eyes among the mourners. Mrs. Stewart was one of the first scholars to join the Warren Mission School, she having become a member about twenty years ago, when the Sunday afternoon service was held in a room on what is known as "Mud Lane."

Ex-Councilman D. J. Marshall of Park avenue, has gone to Saratoga.

Frank S. Newman of West Fifth street has gone to Pine Bush, New York state for a short sojourn.

Mrs. M. E. Edgerton, of "Norwood," went to Wentworth Hall, Jackson, N. H., Tuesday, for the season.

Mr. J. E. Spicer, his son Artie, and Mr. Frank J. Hubbard started Tuesday for Haines Falls, Catskill Mountains.

Mrs. J. D. Case closed her Church street residence, Tuesday, and will spend the season among a number of Summer resorts.

The family of ex-chief of the Plainfield Fire Department, A. Saltzman, left Saturday for the Catskills, where they will spend the Summer.

Rev. J. B. Cleaver has returned to Plainfield after a trip to Saratoga. He reports the weather very hot at that place, the thermometer registering as high as 118 degrees in the shade.

Mrs. Charles Burnett and daughters start to-morrow for the White Mountains for a stay of some weeks. Mr. Burnett will remain at Force's Hotel, being unable to leave his New York business that has grown so extensive.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Clarkson, and Miss Clarkson, of "The Elms," have engaged a suite of rooms at the Monmouth House, Spring Lake. They left Wednesday for a few weeks sojourn at that most charming of seaside resorts.

Miss Lillie Dunning, a graduate of the State Normal School at Trenton, and a former resident here, but now of Brooklyn, left town Tuesday after visiting for a few days with the family of Mr. Jarvis Freeman on Peace street.

Among the latest arrivals at Asbury Park from this city are Mr. J. Clark and wife at the Bristol; Miss Julia Atkins, at the Leadley; Mr. S. T. Hillman at the Minot House; Frank S. Brown and family at the Belvidere, and Mr. J. W. Jackson at the Metropolitan.

Miss Ida C. Kellum, formerly of this city, is spending the Summer at "The Tenakill," Demarest, N. J. This hotel has become very popular under the management of Mr. C. L. Johnson in whose hands the Park house, this city, was so successful a few years ago.

The family of Mr. Jacob Kirkner of Eighth street will leave next week for their Summer residence, "Prospect Villa," Stamford, Delaware county, N. Y. This beautiful home is situated at the base of the last of the lofty peaks that form the celebrated range of Catskill mountains.

Charles Trotter, of Linden avenue, North Plainfield, met with an accident Friday, which will probably lay him up for several weeks. He was employed about Mr. James Conneely's place of business on Park avenue, when he slipped and fell, breaking a bone in his left foot. Dr. Fritts attended to the injury.

The loss to Mr. J. R. France—formerly of this city—by the explosion of his company's cellonite works at Arlington, as told in THE PRESS of Friday, will probably be very great. Mr. H. S. Barnes, Superintendent of the collar and cuff department, is reported as much bruised and prostrated from his heroic efforts to rescue one of the victims that was burned alive. Mr. Barnes has many friends in this city where he resided so many years on Second street near Park avenue, and was engaged in business at No. 17 East Front street.

The Plainfield Homing Club.

At the residence of Mr. J. Hervey Doane, LaGrande avenue, Tuesday last, was organized a Homing Club of prominent young gentlemen owners of Antwerp flyers in this city. Mr. Doane was elected president, and Mr. George Sanders, secretary and treasurer. Mr. Sydney Dorman, who owns some of the finest birds, and Mr. Charles Doane, whose loft is the most complete in this section of the country, were also part of the organization. The club now becomes a member of the Philadelphia Federation, and will have its first race for official record under the endorsement of the Federation, probably about August 6th from Philadelphia to this city.

The State of the Case.

So long as the fool-killer neglects his duty, communities will be misled by irresponsible statements of all sorts from irresponsible sources. The question of the sale of liquor on the boats chartered to connect with excursions from Plainfield and other points along the line of the Central railroad, is just now, in one or two cases agitating our public's mind. The fact of the matter is, associations or individuals arranging water excursions from this city, charter with the boat all its privileges and thus control its use in every particular. If the Reform Club does not permit liquor to be sold on its excursion it will not be; and No. Two Engine company may allow the sale of anything it chooses.

Public School Matters.

The article published in THE PRESS of yesterday in relation to the low salaries paid State school teachers, refers, of course, only to the teachers of district schools. The teachers of our city's schools are paid all the money the Board of Trustees are given by the people for the purpose. Nevertheless, that's too little, too.

President Kirkner and Messrs. Harper and Wadsworth of the Board of School Trustees, made a tour of inspection of the School buildings, yesterday afternoon. The janitors are notified to be in attendance that they may call the attention of the Trustees to any necessary repairs that must be made before the schools open again.

It will take about one hundred and fifty tons of coal to heat our public schools during the Winter, and the Board of Education will soon advertise for proposals. Although it may be somewhat the duty of the Board to buy its coal in Plainfield of those who are taxed with the rest of the community for the support of the schools, it is much more the duty of the Board to buy its coal—and all supplies—wherever the cost is the cheapest.

Because of the efficient services of Janitors Munday, Clarkson and Hope, there is but little to be done in the way of repairing or freshening up the public schools of the city. The wood-work and furniture of the school at Fifth and Union streets, is all as fine as new after the oiling and polishing given it by Janitor Clarkson. The interiors of the other schools are being treated in the same way by Messrs. Munday and Hope.

Upon the completion of the tool works at Grant avenue, and the bringing to this city of its large colony of high-class mechanics and artisans, how can the three hundred contingent children, or more, be accommodated with means of education? That question will be another thorn in the flesh of our Board of School Trustees. The present laws provide means whereby another building may be erected for the purposes of public education. But what is the use of other buildings when the Board has not the income to meet the expenses of such? Most of "We the people" think it is only necessary to provide the room to accommodate the increasing school rolls. The fact of the matter is, however, that it costs about $6,000 a year to run a school of eight classes.

FIRE BOARD MEETING.

Bills Audited—Gazelle Engine to be Repaired and a New Hose Carriage for No. 3 Company.

The Board of Fire Commissioners held their regular July meeting in the City Court room Tuesday. President Jones called the meeting to order soon after eight o'clock and besides him the roll call showed the following members present: Messrs. Knowland, McClure and Rogers. Commissioners Brower and Livingston were absent.

The Clerk read the minutes of the last regular meeting of May 10th, and they stood approved as read.

Under the title of "Communications from any member of the Board," Mr. Knowland offered the following resolution, and upon motion it was adopted:

Resolved, That the President and Treasurer be empowered to borrow $1,200 to pay the note falling due on August 12th, next.

President Jones called for representatives from the various companies, and Charles Seibel from Warren Engine Company said the steam heater in that house was in a bad condition, it was impossible to have a fire in it, and the gas which escaped from the heater was detrimental to the men and horses. He said the heater had been out of repair for two months, and Mr. Knowland asked him why he did not lay his grievance before the Board at its last meeting. A motion subsequently prevailed that the President be authorized to have the necessary repairs made.

The next in the order of business was the election of members whose names had been laid over for thirty days under the rule. A ballot was taken on the name of Mr. P. A. Emmons for active membership in Alert Hose Company, and he was unanimously elected.

Everitt Marsh was also elected a member of No. 2 Engine Company after Mr. McClure had inquired as to whether or no he was connected with the fracas at Netherwood which resulted in disbanding the Company in June, 1878.

BILLS.

Claims were presented as follows and ordered paid as soon as the funds would permit: D. S. Roberts, carriage hire (old bill) $7.25; J. B. Gable, services as engineer, $9; D. J. Smith, horse hire, $6.25; Levi Bird, horse hire, $6.25; Peter Seader, horse hire, $12.75; W. N. Rowe, sign, $2.50; J. A. Hubbard, making assessment, $125; W. V. Mundy, Janitor, $10.50; V. W. Nash, delivering tax bills, $12.68; J. V. Whitlock, stone and carting for new well on South Second street, $49.50; S. J. Robinson, watching in tower, $2; W. L. Force & Bro., $25.50; Emil Scheidecker, John Jackson and John Albert, for watching in tower, (each two dollars) $6; A. Utzinger, repairs, $7.50; C. Seible, cleaning hose and use of horses, $13.90; J. A. Kriney, services as stoker, $6; P. Hapenny, washing hose, $11.60; E. M. Mosher, services as engineer $6; Wm. Keily, ringing bell, $1; H. Goeller, horse hire, $27.75; Joseph Cooney, services as wheelman on truck, $2; P. Keleher, services as engineer, $9; J. H. Searing, watching in tower, $2; T. O. Doane, material, labor, etc., $70.60.

Mr. Knowland said he thought it was just and proper for the Board to petition the City Council to offer a reward for the apprehension of the person or persons who are instrumental in causing so many incendiary fires, and that if the Council did not see fit to comply with the petition the Board would at least be on paper before that august body. So far as he was aware, he said; no action had been taken to bring the criminals to justice, and he thought it was high time (as every one else thinks) that some action should be taken in the matter. Mr. McClure remarked that that action had already been taken in a quiet way, but in just what way and by whom he did not state. President Jones said that he would privately confer with Mr. Knowland in the near future and inform him what step had been taken by the Board at a private meeting held recently.

Mr. McClure said that in pursuance of a resolution passed at the last meeting the Board had instructed Mr. Knowland and himself to have Gazelle engine repaired, but the Chief had told him that it would be imprudent to send it away before the Fourth of July; consequently the delay. He asked for instructions as to how the steamer should be sent, and Mr. Knowland said he would confer with General Freight Agent Wyckoff of the Central Railroad, and thereby secure special rates for transportation.

The President called attention to the important matter of the Commissioners sitting as a Board of Appeals in cases of taxation, and it was decided to sit in the City Court room on Wednesday, July 20th, between the hours of two and six p. m.

Chief Waters suggested that the Board purchase a suitable hose carriage for Warren 3 Engine Company, the same as those now in use by the other companies, and Mr. Knowland offered a resolution that Mr. McClure and himself be authorized to use their own judgment in purchasing a carriage. The resolution was adopted, and the meeting then adjourned.

Cut Her Foot.

Mrs. William Grogan of West Front street, met with a painful accident Sunday, which nearly resulted in dismembering three of the toes on her right foot. She was about the house attending to her duties when she accidentally stepped on some fragments of glass, from a broken goblet which the children had dropped on the floor. The glass cut through the slipper and stocking she wore, penetrating the flesh to the bone. Blood flowed from the wound in profusion and it was some time before the flow could be checked. The wound although not considered dangerous will necessarily inconvenience Mrs. Grogan for some time.

A LITTLE OF EVERYTHING COLUMN.

"Hickmetack," a lasting and fragrant perfume. Price 25 and 50 cents. Sold by W. H. Voorhees.

Shiloh's Cure will immediately relieve Croup, Whooping Cough and Bronchitis. Sold by W. H. Voorhees.

That Hacking Cough can be so quickly cured by Shiloh's Cure. We guarantee it. Sold by W. H. Voorhees.

Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy—a positive cure for Catarrh, Diptheria and Canker Mouth. Sold by W. H. Voorhees.

Why will you cough when Shiloh's Cure will give immediate relief. Price 10 cts. 50 cts. and $1. Sold by W. H. Voorhees.

The Rev. George H. Thayer, of Bourbon, Ind., says: "Both myself and wife owe our lives to Shiloh's Consumption Cure. Sold by W. H. Voorhees.

For Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, you have a printed guarantee on every bottle of Shiloh's Vitalizer. It never fails to cure. Sold by W. H. Voorhees.

Are you made miserable by Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Yellow Skin? Shiloh's Vitalizer is a positive cure. Sold by W. H. Voorhees.

It is illegal to kill upland Plover until Aug. 1st.

When baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she was a Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

The weak fish are now biting finely at Perth Amboy.

Mothers, teething and fretful children need Dr. Arnold's Soothing and Quieting Cordial. Druggists, 25c.

Dr. T. B. Myers, of David City, Nebraska, writes: "Dr. Seth Arnold's Cough Killer is the best remedy for Whooping Cough and Measles I ever saw."

The Question Settled.—Those eminent men, Dr. James Clark, Physician to Queen Victoria, and Dr. Hughes Bennett, say that consumption can be cured. Dr. Wistar knew this when he discovered his widely known Balsam of Wild Cherry and experience has proved the correctness of his opinion.

The usual treatment of catarrh is very unsatisfactory, as thousands of despairing patients can testify. On this point a trustworthy medical writer says: "Proper local treatment is positively necessary to success, but many, if not most of the remedies in general use by physicians afford but temporary benefit. A cure certainly cannot be expected from snuffs, powders, douches and washes." Ely's Cream Balm is a remedy which combines the important requisites of quick action, specific curative power with perfect safety and pleasantness to the patient.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and can not be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER Co., 106 Wall street, New York.—my21y1

DEMAREST'S

NEW STORE

Specialty in Creamery Butter, Ferris Hams, Bacon and Tongues, Pillsbury and La Favorita Flour, Fruits, and Vegetables all kinds. 3 pounds of French Prunes for 25c., No. 1 French Peas 20c., Ex. Quality Dates, 10c. All goods First-class and at Bottom Prices. Please call and examine stock and prices.

P. M. DEMAREST,
27 PARK AVENUE.

Special Notice!

WE HAVE JUST ADDE

500 BOYS' SU

A TEXAS CATTLE RANCH.

Six Million Acres of Land Under the Management of One Man.

The great Matador ranch, says a writer in the Chicago Times, is situated upon the headwaters of Pease river, and comprises nearly the whole of Motley County, about one-third of Dickens, about one third of Cottle, and about one-fourth of Floyd County, and contains nearly three hundred more square miles than the State of Rhode Island. It comprises more than one million of acres of land, upon which there are more than one hundred thousand head of cattle. The location of this great ranch is one of peculiar adaptability to the scale of operations which characterizes it as one of the most complete and magnificent ranches in the West. It covers the three forks which form the sources of Pease river, with all their affluents and entire water system, extending thence to the Brazos, and including some of the sources of the river. It is thus furnished with an ample supply of water in all its portions. It is also traversed by thousands of small streams that flow from the innumerable springs that burst from the canyons, gulches and breaks of the plains. Its physical features are divided between the plains, which comprise about one-fourth of its area, and the basins and broken country, which consist of valleys, hills and every diversity of landscape, which from the canyons and basins often have the appearance of mountains of every variety of shape, but are really only the remnants of the plains standing out in peaks hundreds of feet above the surrounding gulches. These afford valuable shelter to the cattle from the bleak winds or "northers" as they are called in Texas, which sweep over the plains in piercing icy blasts from the mountains of the North and West.

The soil of the plains consists of a red loam, that of the valleys and basins of a sandy loam, and that of the hills consists chiefly of sand and gravel. The prevailing rocks are gypsum and limestone, the former composing the principal strata. There is no sign of any volcanic action. Every formation is surficial and the natural results of heat, air and water. The plains are covered with gramma and mesquit grass, while the basins and broken country afford the best mesquit pasturage.

There are five different pastures for bulls and horses and two for beef cattle, one of which contains ninety thousand acres, and the other one hundred thousand acres, and the varied classes of cattle are distributed throughout the ranch during the different seasons. There are sixteen complete and well-arranged corrals for marking and branding calves, situated in different parts of the ranch and it requires more than three hundred miles of fencing to inclose the ranch and divide its pastures.

There are about four thousand bulls of different breeds on the ranch. There are about one thousand saddle and work-horses kept for the use of the ranch, and the average number of cowboys employed during the entire year is about seventy-five. Nine of these are stationed in guard-camps in different parts of the ranch, whence they sally forth daily and traverse the ranch in every direction to see that all is well with the cattle, and to give them whatever assistance may be necessary. Others watch the fences, some repair the wagons and harness, and some go over the ranch in squads of a dozen in charge of a foreman, carrying with them a wagon loaded with provisions, cooking utensils, branding irons and stake ropes, for the purpose of branding the calves which could not be gotten to the pens, separating the cattle intended for market from the stock cattle, placing them in different pastures, and, during certain seasons, for the purpose of separating the bulls from the cows. They are all required to report promptly the result of their observations and the conditions of the cattle; to make a memorandum of all they find dead, disabled or diseased, and they are held to a faithful performance of their respective duties, and to a strict accountability of any negligence. Indeed, an almost military discipline is enforced in every department, and it pervades every feature of the management.

Mr. H. H. Campbell, the proprietor of this ranch, affords his boys every compatible opportunity for self-improvement and self-elevation. He furnishes them with newspapers and periodicals to enable them to improve their education and to inform themselves of passing events. He permits no intoxication, no card-playing and no fighting or quarrelling on the ranch, and by his own kind treatment of all, sets an example to them of kindness to each other. The consequence is that the boys are gentlemanly in their bearing, and there has never been a charge of misdemeanor against any one while employed upon this ranch. Their quarters are ample, comfortable and neat.

The comforts and conveniences which surmount the residence are striking and instructive. It is situated near the foot of an elevated plain, which gradually slopes down to a beautiful running stream, and is surrounded by subdued and picturesque elevations in the distance. A short distance above the residence is a remarkable spring or cluster of springs which break out on the plain just above the head of a ravine which forms a deep rocky precipice a few yards from the house. Across the brow of this a dam has been erected which transforms the springs into a clear pool or fountain with a solid rock bottom, and which covers nearly half an acre. This fountain is as limpid and transparent as the waters of Castalia—clearer than glass. From this large spring the water is conveyed by pipes to a dairy-house constructed with every convenience, thence it is raised by a hydraulic ram into a tall and spacious reservoir, from which it can be readily thrown upon the house in the event of fire. It is also carried by pipes and distributed to the kitchen, bath rooms, and throughout the house, thence to the different shops and the quarters of the cowboys. The stream is then gathered up at the foot of the plain below and made to irrigate a large vegetable garden. There is a large warehouse for storing the commissary supplies of the ranch, from which the rations of the employes are weighed and distributed with military regularity. There is an ample and well-supplied smith's-shop, a large wood shop, and a complete harness shop, where every part of a set of harness can be readily mended and repaired. There is a store supplied with all kinds of clothing needed by the employes, and a first-class boot and shoemaker's establishment. Here, too, is a post-office, which furnishes all the postal facilities required, and through which the employes are supplied with whatever literature they may desire.

HUSBANDRY ITEMS.

To REMOVE warts from animals, apply frequently a strong solution of alum water.

CORTOS SEED hulls are largely used in the South as mulch around orange trees, and later in the season as a general fertilizer.

LATE statistics give the number of persons engaged in agriculture in the United States at 7,670,493, and yet this is a poor country for farmers.

COCKERELS that are given to fighting may be cured by putting them in with an old rooster who will always join in any little dispute and settle matters amicably and teach the young ones to fear him.

IN England soot is recognized as a superior article of fertilization. In one year 20,000 tons of soot were taken from the chimneys of London, the value of which as a fertilizer was placed at over two hundred thousand dollars.

IT is said of a certain farmer who devotes much time to his garden, that he finds so much work for his thumb-nails in the summer, in pinching shoots, etc., that he cultivates the growth of the nails as a substitute for the use of shears.

THE cow that is fresh in the winter, beside enabling the farmer to sell his butter at a season when the market is most favorable, can also be better attended, from the fact that the farmer is not so pressed with work as in the cropping season.

IN planting peas there is some difference of opinion as to the advantage of soaking them before planting; if the season is late before you can get them in it is a decidedly good plan to soak them till they sprout before planting, but when planted very early there is little or nothing gained by soaking.

SMALL seeds like Timothy, succeed best when pressed upon loose earth, barely enough to secure full contact. This they get by sowing on the surface the harrow of the cultivator. If they are harrowed in at all the lightest harrowing is best and it is more beneficial by loosening the earth than by covering the seed.

THE Grange, at the present time, is a National organization, whose influence is of inestimable value to the farmer in defeating many of the swindling schemes and speculations connected by the class of men who produce nothing, and who are ever striving to secure a part of the earnings of the producer without labor.

THE following is given as an excellent plan for the capture of sheep-killing dogs: Place a dead sheep in the field, then place four rails twelve feet long so as to form a square around it, next four rails ten feet long placed above the first ones, then four more each eight feet long, and continue till of sufficient height, leaving a hole at the top large enough to let a dog jump down into the enclosure. As a rule dogs use the blood only the first night and on the second eat the carcass. They can not get out of the pen and can be identified as to ownership or destroyed.

PRICE OF A SKULL.

Interesting Remarks Made by a Jovial Dealer in Human Bones.

There are men in Chicago, says the News of that city, who sell flowers, and there are also men who sell skeletons. It will please the optimists to know that the men who sell flowers are very largely in the majority. The trade in skeletons could not with correctness be termed large. The run of people care very little about skeletons. For though every man is said to have one in his closet, it has never been discovered that they gave any satisfaction or pleasure. Notwithstanding the dislike to having them escape, they are not prized. But the skeletons referred to are not of this impalpable sort. They are equally ghastly, but they are imported. The sort kept in closets are generally of home manufacture.

The skeletons of which are kept for sale come principally from Paris or the great cities of Germany.

"Time over here is too precious to waste on skeletons," said a prominent dealer in them. "Should we try to get any here we would find them very inferior."

"No reflections on the national bone, I suppose?"

"Not in the least. No doubt American bones are quite as good as any other fourth of its area, and the basins and broken country, which consist of valleys, hills and every diversity of landscape, which from the canyons and basins often have the appearance of mountains of every variety of shape, but are really only the remnants of the plains standing out in peaks hundreds of feet above the surrounding gulches. These afford valuable shelter to the cattle from the bleak winds or "northers" as they are called in Texas, which sweep over the plains in piercing icy blasts from the mountains of the North and West.

The soil of the plains consists of a red loam, that of the valleys and basins of a sandy loam, and that of the hills consists chiefly of sand and gravel. The prevailing rocks are gypsum and limestone, the former composing the principal strata. There is no sign of any volcanic action. Every formation is surficial and the natural results of heat, air and water. The plains are covered with gramma and mesquit grass, while the basins and broken country afford the best mesquit pasturage.

There are five different pastures for bulls and horses and two for beef cattle, one of which contains ninety thousand acres, and the other one hundred thousand acres, and the varied classes of cattle are distributed throughout the ranch during the different seasons. There are sixteen complete and well-arranged corrals for marking and branding calves, situated in different parts of the ranch and it requires more than three hundred miles of fencing to inclose the ranch and divide its pastures.

There are about four thousand bulls of different breeds on the ranch. There are about one thousand saddle and work-horses kept for the use of the ranch, and the average number of cowboys employed during the entire year is about seventy-five. Nine of these are stationed in guard-camps in different parts of the ranch, whence they sally forth daily and traverse the ranch in every direction to see that all is well with the cattle, and to give them whatever assistance may be necessary. Others watch the fences, some repair the wagons and harness, and some go over the ranch in squads of a dozen in charge of a foreman, carrying with them a wagon loaded with provisions, cooking utensils, branding irons and stake ropes, for the purpose of branding the calves which could not be gotten to the pens, separating the cattle intended for market from the stock cattle, placing them in different pastures, and, during certain seasons, for the purpose of separating the bulls from the cows. They are all required to report promptly the result of their observations and the conditions of the cattle; to make a memorandum of all they find dead, disabled or diseased, and they are held to a faithful performance of their respective duties, and to a strict accountability of any negligence. Indeed, an almost military discipline is enforced in every department, and it pervades every feature of the management.

Mr. H. H. Campbell, the proprietor of this ranch, affords his boys every compatible opportunity for self-improvement and self-elevation. He furnishes them with newspapers and periodicals to enable them to improve their education and to inform themselves of passing events. He permits no intoxication, no card-playing and no fighting or quarrelling on the ranch, and by his own kind treatment of all, sets an example to them of kindness to each other. The consequence is that the boys are gentlemanly in their bearing, and there has never been a charge of misdemeanor against any one while employed upon this ranch. Their quarters are ample, comfortable and neat.

The comforts and conveniences which surmount the residence are striking and instructive. It is situated near the foot of an elevated plain, which gradually slopes down to a beautiful running stream, and is surrounded by subdued and picturesque elevations in the distance. A short distance above the residence is a remarkable spring or cluster of springs which break out on the plain just above the head of a ravine which forms a deep rocky precipice a few yards from the house. Across the brow of this a dam has been erected which transforms the springs into a clear pool or fountain with a solid rock bottom, and which covers nearly half an acre. This fountain is as limpid and transparent as the waters of Castalia—clearer than glass. From this large spring the water is conveyed by pipes to a dairy-house constructed with every convenience, thence it is raised by a hydraulic ram into a tall and spacious reservoir, from which it can be readily thrown upon the house in the event of fire. It is also carried by pipes and distributed to the kitchen, bath rooms, and throughout the house, thence to the different shops and the quarters of the cowboys. The stream is then gathered up at the foot of the plain below and made to irrigate a large vegetable garden. There is a large warehouse for storing the commissary supplies of the ranch, from which the rations of the employes are weighed and distributed with military regularity. There is an ample and well-supplied smith's-shop, a large wood shop, and a complete harness shop, where every part of a set of harness can be readily mended and repaired. There is a store supplied with all kinds of clothing needed by the employes, and a first-class boot and shoemaker's establishment. Here, too, is a post-office, which furnishes all the postal facilities required, and through which the employes are supplied with whatever literature they may desire.

HUSBANDRY ITEMS.

TO REMOVE warts from animals, apply frequently a strong solution of alum water.

CORTOS SEED hulls are largely used in the South as mulch around orange trees, and later in the season as a general fertilizer.

LATE statistics give the number of persons engaged in agriculture in the United States at 7,670,493, and yet this is a poor country for farmers.

COCKERELS that are given to fighting may be cured by putting them in with an old rooster who will always join in any little dispute and settle matters amicably and teach the young ones to fear him.

IN England soot is recognized as a superior article of fertilization. In one year 20,000 tons of soot were taken from the chimneys of London, the value of which as a fertilizer was placed at over two hundred thousand dollars.

IT is said of a certain farmer who devotes much time to his garden, that he finds so much work for his thumb-nails in the summer, in pinching shoots, etc., that he cultivates the growth of the nails as a substitute for the use of shears.

THE cow that is fresh in the winter, beside enabling the farmer to sell his butter at a season when the market is most favorable, can also be better attended, from the fact that the farmer is not so pressed with work as in the cropping season.

IN planting peas there is some difference of opinion as to the advantage of soaking them before planting; if the season is late before you can get them in it is a decidedly good plan to soak them till they sprout before planting, but when planted very early there is little or nothing gained by soaking.

SMALL seeds like Timothy, succeed best when pressed upon loose earth, barely enough to secure full contact. This they get by sowing on the surface the harrow of the cultivator. If they are harrowed in at all the lightest harrowing is best and it is more beneficial by loosening the earth than by covering the seed.

THE Grange, at the present time, is a National organization, whose influence is of inestimable value to the farmer in defeating many of the swindling schemes and speculations connected by the class of men who produce nothing, and who are ever striving to secure a part of the earnings of the producer without labor.

THE following is given as an excellent plan for the capture of sheep-killing dogs: Place a dead sheep in the field, then place four rails twelve feet long so as to form a square around it, next four rails ten feet long placed above the first ones, then four more each eight feet long, and continue till of sufficient height, leaving a hole at the top large enough to let a dog jump down into the enclosure. As a rule dogs use the blood only the first night and on the second eat the carcass. They can not get out of the pen and can be identified as to ownership or destroyed.

CLIMBING A STEEPLE.

The Ticklish Process of Getting to the Top of a Wind-lowious Spire.

Mr. Harry Evans is regilding the cross and globe on the tall steeple of Christ Church, says a recent issue of the Philadelphia Register. Day before yes erday he simply got through with the preliminaries—putting up ropes and ladders and arranging his "block and fall." That work occupied about the four hours allotted to the daily task, all that an able-bodied man with courage and a steady brain is able to accomplish. At a distance of twenty-five feet below the ball a sort of belt or cornice two feet wide extends all around the steeple. To this Mr. Evans clung on Tuesday while he drew up the first of a series of four ladders to be braced against the slope, the foot of the first ladder resting on the cornice while the rope secures it to the steeple.

From the upper ladder of the series Mr. Evans threw a rope over the cross, and by its aid drew himself over the ball till he could climb the cross. Mr. Evans has been employed in these feats of climbing and repairing tall steeples in many parts of the country, and has been up so often that he feels quite at home at the most aerial heights. On Tuesday afternoon he actually stood on the dizzy pinnacle of the cross, and at the height of two hundred feet bowed to the people below. During the performance of this perilous work the crowd in the blocked street below stood watching the performer with intense anxiety. A mistake at any point, the mere slipping of a knot or sliding of a rope might have been instantly fatal.

At the point where Evans left the last ladder inside the steeple to emerge upon its exterior there are four windows at equal distances on the four sides. The first sight the people had of the climber was when he stepped upon the outer sill of one of those windows. He held one rope, small but very strong, and had another coiled round his waist. The small rope he got round the steeple on the outside by throwing it from window to window, and when the ends met the first window the climber, often securely fastening them, stepped boldly out for the ascent. This he accomplished by grasping the rope firmly with both hands, his feet spread wide apart, and pressing his feet, on which he wore shoes of india rubber, firmly against the steeple. Then swaying to right and left he threw the rope at each movement a little higher, and so followed it up, taking in the slack as he advanced. In half an hour he had reached a foothold in the steeple ten feet under the ball. Then from that point he drew up a board and basket containing hammer and nails. He nailed the board to the spire and drew up and fastened a ladder, which reached to the cross, over which he threw the rope, by which he drew himself up to the cross. His bow from the summit of that sacred emblem was the signal for a hearty burst of cheers from the crowd.

CRAZED BY BAD TEMPER.

Terrible Fate of a Beautiful But Headstrong Bride.

One of the prettiest girls of Zacatecas, belonging to one of the best families in the State, has just been admitted to the insane asylum in that city, a hopeless maniac. The story of the trouble which wrecked her reason, says the City of Mexico Two Republics, is one of the saddest that has ever been written. Born the daughter of wealthy parents, an only child, she was indulged in every thing, and in consequence her naturally sweet disposition was thoroughly spoiled, and whenever an attempt was made to cross her wishes she had the most frightful outbursts of temper, which always ended in all around her yielding and allowing her to carry her point. On the 4th of March of the present year she was married to a wealthy hacendado whose extensive place is located near Zacatecas. The wedding was a grand affair, and the young couple started life together with the brightest possible prospects. Soon after the marriage however, there arose slight disputes between husband and wife, which ended, as had been the case all through the girl's life, in her favor, the husband, naturally a high-spirited man, yielding invariably before her awful fits of violence. This finally, however, became unbearable to the young married man, and he determined to break his wife's frightful temper and assert his manhood, trusting that they would live more happily together in the end. So upon the next occasion when there arose a difference of opinion on some trifling matter he remained firm and utterly refused to yield his point. His wife stormed and flew into a perfect rage of passion, but he remained unmoved, and finally, when the exhibition of temper was assuming a phase where the young woman commenced breaking the breakfast dishes—they were at their morning meal when the trouble arose—in the impotency of her wrath she clutched her tightly by the arm and in a rough tone insisted that she should quiet down. She gave him one awful look, then with a wild shriek, she tore herself from his grip, and moving away a few steps fell to the ground foaming at the mouth. Medical aid was at once summoned, but for hours she lay unconscious, occasionally struggling violently, and then relapsing into quietness again. After awhile she opened her eyes, took a long look around upon the people gathered about her bed, and with a blood-curdling shriek sprang from the bed, and before any one could prevent her was out of the house and racing madly over the fields. All present gave chase, and after a long, exhausting run the mad woman was overtaken by her husband, and held fast until assistance arrived. The best medical aid procurable was obtained for her, but her reason remained in darkness, and the physicians pronounce there is positively no hope for her recovery.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS.

CALCINED magnesia and benzine form an excellent mixture for the cleaning of mirrors.

MILDEW on greenhouse plants has been successfully treated with sulphide of potash. A quarter of an ounce in a gallon of water sprayed on the affected foliage will destroy the mildew without injury to the plant.

FRIED APPLES.—Make a batter of two eggs, a pinch of salt, a cup of milk and six tablespoonfuls of flour. Slice, pare and core tart apples as thin as Saratoga potatoes. Dip them a spoonful at a time in the batter and fry. Eat with powdered sugar and cream or a liquid sauce.

SALT is recommended as excellent for cleaning smoked glass chimneys and globes. Wash first in warm water and soap, and while wet rub well with dry salt; wash in clear water and polish. Lamp wicks steeped in vinegar and dried well before using are not apt to smoke at all.

TO BOIL a pudding in a bag, dip bag (which should be made of thick cotton or linen) in hot water and rub the inside with flour before putting in the pudding; when done dip bag in cold water and the pudding will turn out easily. Always put a plate on the bottom of the kettle to keep the pudding from burning.

CHICKEN FRITTERS.—Cut into neat pieces some tender cold chicken, and lay them aside while you make a batter of lemon-juice, salt and pepper. Make a batter of milk, eggs, flour and salt, stir the chicken into it and fry in hot butter, a bit of chicken in each spoonful of batter. Serve very hot, first draining off all the fat. Garnish with parsley.

STRING BEANS.—Cover them with cold water, slightly salted, and let stand for an hour. Drain and cook twenty minutes in boiling water, salted. Pour off this and shake the beans in a colander. Then stir quickly with pepper, salt, a very little made mustard and a tablespoonful of vinegar; put back over the fire, toss the beans lightly with a fork until they are hot, and dish them.

A SUPERIOR remedy for plant lice will be found in a mixture of kerosene and soap. One-fourth pound of hard soap or one quart of soft soap can be mixed with one quart of water. It is heated till the soap is dissolved and then one pint of kerosene oil is added. This is agitated or churned until a complete emulsion or mixture is formed. Water is then added, so that there shall be one part of kerosene to fifteen parts of water.

IN warm weather all vegetable refuse and table scraps should be burned. If left in the kitchen or yard for even a half hour they begin to decay and are dangerous to the health of little children. Any unpleasant smell from the burning may easily be avoided. Place the refuse in the back part of the stove and cover with hot coal, also fresh coal if needed; push in the dampers and turn all draughts up the chimney; shut the stove up tight, and in a few moments all the matter will be thoroughly burned.

CAULIFLOWER SAUCE.—Boil a small head of cauliflower in two waters, changing when half done; of the last reserve half a teacupful; in another saucepan cook a minced onion and a head of celery; heat the cup of water, add to it a teacupful of milk; drain and chop fine the cauliflower, add it, with an onion and celery and three tablespoonfuls of butter covered with flour, to the liquid and cook in a few minutes. For sauce, add a teaspoonful of mixed parsley which has been boiled, cayenne pepper, salt, a slice or two of lemon, and beat it into a whipped egg.

THE hair should be brushed for five minutes every day, the brushes and combs kept clean and sweet by washing occasionally in luke-warm water to which has been added a few drops of ammonia. The turning gray of the hair, when hastened by disease or mental causes, can be checked by washing the hair frequently with sage tea, made in the same manner as green or black tea for drinking purposes. Saturate the hair thoroughly, using a coarse comb. Water, in which potatoes with their skins on have been boiled, is also an excellent thing for turning the hair dark.

THE WOMAN BORROWER.

A Female Nuisance Who Flourishes in All Good Sizes of Society.

The woman borrower flourishes in nearly all stations and conditions of life, and few neighborhoods are free from her. She seems to live with the idea that any one's and every one's possessions are legitimately hers, for a time at least, and borrows promiscuously from all. It does not matter to her, truthfully observes the Boston Budget, what the article is, or of what value it may be to the owner, if she thinks she ought to have it she generally succeeds in obtaining it. If told that the article wanted is a relic, of which you think a great deal, owing to being a gift or a reminder of some old association, and you do not like to lend it to any one, she will smooth it all over with, "I'll be so careful of it; I won't harm it in the least." She overcomes all your little excuses with her promises of carefulness, and goes away happy in the possession of the article, while you are in a continual worry until its return. If brought back safely, you are very thankful, for it was hardly what you expected, but if any thing happens to it, there is nothing to be done but to accept her apology as the mishap. She tells you she is sincerely sorry that any thing should have happened to it, and if the article was something that it was necessary for her to have you excuse her willingly; but usually this is not the case; for it is something that she does not need, unless for ornamentation, and you can't help thinking that she might have done without it. An accident of this kind would deter most women from borrowing from the same person again, but not so with the women borrower; she is ready to borrow the very next day from the same person, providing she has any thing that she may want. She never thinks that people may not wish to loan some things, yet will often do so, really against their judgment, rather than refuse, thinking a refusal might hurt her feelings. She is always one of the best-natured people among your acquaintances, and is really sincere when she says, "You are welcome to anything I have, I am sure," but she seldom has anything you want.

Borrowing is all very well when it is necessary, and frequently the best of housekeepers has to borrow from her neighbors. She has forgotten to order some article that she can not get along without, the store may be at a distance, or she can not go, and has no one to do the errand for her, so the best she can do is to borrow from a neighbor. She goes to the woman borrower, and that person remarks: "I was just going over to your house for that same thing." The neighbor says: "Oh, never mind, I'll get it of Mrs. ——," and she can't help thinking, "Does she have any thing?"

There is one thing that the woman borrower never borrows, and for which she should be commended. She never borrows trouble. She only makes it a little easier for her neighbors to borrow that commodity.

THE FATAL THIRTEEN.

A Singular Incident for the Consideration of the Superstitious.

There are lots of people in the world who attribute a good deal of importance to dreams; who have a mortal dread of the supposed fatal number thirteen sitting together at a table, and who think that an enterprise undertaken on Friday is sure to meet with disastrous failure.

If such people would stop to consider the phenomena of dreams; to compute the actual mortuary probabilities of thirteen adult persons in the course of a year; and setting aside the fact that Friday is almost universally hangman's day, compare its record with the other six days of the week, much of the superstitious nonsense would be dispeled. How many mirrors have been broken, how many parties of thirteen at a table have occurred without fatal results within the year, are not taken into account, but an occasional event of the kind suggested has been regarded by many as sufficient to fix the rule, rather than the exception. There is a sort of reasoning from effect to cause, rather than from cause to effect, that is resorted to in order to establish the theory.

The Lewiston, (Me.,) Journal is led to thus cogitate by a recent event:

It will be remembered that immediately after last year's Lewiston city government was organized, Councilman Adams of South Lewiston invited all its members down to his house to partake of his hospitalities and have an opportunity to get better acquainted with each other.

It is but proper to say that the worthy object of the councilman was accomplished, and a first-rate good time was had. Two tables were surrounded by the city fathers, who indulged in bits of repartee, mingled with graver matters of State, while the steaming bivalves were finding their way to the festal board.

Mayor Cowan occupied the head of one of the tables. Chancing to run his eye down either side, he remarked pleasantly:

"Gentlemen, if I was disposed to be superstitious I should refrain from sitting at this table—there are thirteen of us here!"

The discovery excited a little good-natured comment, but the savory bivalve soon put all thoughts of the matter out of the minds of those present.

Of course there was no especial significance to be attached to this incident, but yet it is a little singular that, just about one year later, the other persons then present should be called upon to attend the obsequies of Mayor Cowan.

CORSICAN ASSASSINS.

Why They Are Not Exposed By the Newspapers of the Island.

The vendetta still prevails in Corsica, and, according to the correspondence of the Paris Temps, one single feud of the kind in that island has recently furnished seven men killed, four wounded, one exiled and several threatened. In Porto-Vecchio twenty-four persons have been obliged to abandon their farms and take to the woods for safety. The farms are allowed to run wild. Nobody would dare to work them at any price. The undertaker would be glad of the workmen under fire. The cattle, for want of care, have also become wild, and over two hundred hogs are roaming about in the neighborhood of the town. The authorities are powerless and the press silent. There are about twenty newspapers published in the island, in which not a single trace of the state of affairs can be found. At Ajaccio an editor told the Temps correspondent that the silence of the Corsican press was due to patriotism. The editor did not wish to expose any thing that might bring disgrace upon the island; and besides, they often receive letters like the following: "Sir: You have doubtless just learned of the misfortune that has come upon our family, and we hope that you will not add to our troubles by publishing the details." The Corsican editors understand perfectly the true meaning of all such polite communications, and they respect the grief of the family accordingly.

RUNNING THE BLOCKADE.

How a Scotch Sailor Carried Off a Cargo of Cotton Under Difficulties.

The following story is told by Chambers' Journal of how Captain Wilson, who ran the blockade seventeen times during the war, saved a valuable cargo from a Federal blockading vessel:

He was in command of a large blockade runner which had safely entered one of the Southern ports. He attempted to escape during a fog in the evening. The fog suddenly lifted, and he found he had nothing but a swift pair of heels to rely upon, for a Federal cruiser was within range of him. The Federal fired across his bows, but the Captain took no notice he pond putting a little extra weight on the safety valve. His decks were piled high with cotton, which formed an excellent protection against small-arm fire. The Federal now opened the ball in good earnest, and shell after shell churned the water into foam around, but not one struck her. Just as she was getting out of range, however, a shell penetrated the side and lodged in the boiler, and the vessel was helpless. She had considerable way on her, so, though sinking, she was headed for shore.

The Federal ceased firing, and watched the disabled vessel until at last she was beached, half full of water. Captain Wilson and his crew fled to shore, and saw the Federal send off a boat to inspect their capture. Satisfied that the vessel was completely disabled, the Federal steamed off to her station in the assured hope that she had settled Captain Wilson this time. The misfortune, however, did not daunt him. He made his way to a neighboring plantation, obtained the assistance of a number of the hands, and as soon as the captor was out of sight and the tide had receded, unloaded the bulk of the cotton. With the assistance of a blacksmith he repaired the hull by covering the plates inside and outside the shot hole and filling the interspace with tar and cotton. The water in the boiler had put out the fuse of the shell; so, extracting his iron visitor, he rivoted new plates over the hole and made, with the assistance of his engineer, a strong if not very presentable repair.

The cotton was reshipped, and in the early gray of the morning as the Federal Captain appeared in the offing to take possession of his prize he beheld her steaming away to England as if nothing had happened, while a salute from Captain Wilson's single gun gave him a forcible idea of the resources of a "canny Scot" in a corner.

MISCELLANEOUS.

JOHN A. THICKSTUN,
DEALER IN
BEST QUALITIES
COAL, WOOD,
AND
BLUE-STONE.
YARD—Cor. 3rd st. and Madison ave.

MISCELLANEOUS.

John Brown,
(Successor to John Burke.)
Cesspools, Vaults,
Etc., Etc.,
CLEANED!
Plainfield, N. J. Orders left at CARNEY BROS., No. 11 Somerset street, or addressed to P. O Box 718, will receive prompt attention.

STOVES AND RANGES.
Builder's and House Furnishing Hardware.
READY-MIXED AJAX PAINT.
Breech-loading Shot Guns, Revolvers, etc., etc.,
IN VARIETY.
Ammunition and Gunner's Materials
Locks repaired, Keys fitted, Bells hung and Scissors ground a short notice—Ryder building,
J. A. Peebles & Co.,
40 WEST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

CASTORIA
for Infants and Children.
"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me." H. A. ARCHER, M.D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.
Castoria cures Colic, Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhœa, Eructation, Kills Worms, gives sleep, and promotes digestion, Without injurious medication.
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 182 Fulton Street, N. Y.

A. VANDERBEEK,
(CHAUTAUQUA BUILDING.)
NO. 33 PARK AVENUE, PLAINFIELD, N. J.
HAVING DISPOSED OF THE MUSICAL AND SPORTING

Goods Department I am now prepared to devote my entire time to the sale and renting of
—PIANOS AND ORGANS—
Having many years of experience in the Piano Trade I am prepared to furnish first-class Instruments as reasonable as they can be had in New York city. Pianos tuned. Give me a call before purchasing.

KASKINE
(THE NEW QUININE.)

GIVES
Good Appetite,
New Strength,
Quiet Nerves,
Happy Days,
Sweet Sleep.
A POWERFUL TONIC.
that the most delicate stomach will bear.
A SPECIFIC FOR MALARIA,
RHEUMATISM,
NERVOUS PROSTRATION.
and all Germ Diseases.
THE MOST SCIENTIFIC AND SUCCESSFUL BLOOD PURIFIER. Superior to quinine.
Mr. F. A. Miller, 220 East 125th street, New York, was cured by Kaskine of extreme malarial prostration after seven years suffering. He had run down from 175 pounds to 97, began on Kaskine in June, 1886, went to work in one month, and has kept at work for six months. Quinine did him no good whatever.
Mr. Gideon Thompson, the oldest and one of the most respected citizens of Bridgeport, Conn., says: "I am ninety years of age, and for the last three years have suffered from malaria and the effects of quinine poisoning. I recently began with Kaskine which broke up the malaria and increased my weight 20 pounds."
Mrs. T. A. Solomons, of 159 Halliday St., Jersey City, writes: "My son Harry, eleven years, was cured of malaria by Kaskine, after fifteen months' ill health, when we had given up all hope."
Letters from the above persons, giving full detail will be sent on application.
Kaskine can be taken without any special medical advice. $1.00 per bottle.
Sold by H. P. Reynolds, Plainfield, New Jersey, or sent by mail on receipt of price.
THE KASKINE CO., 54 Warren St., New York

Carney Bros.,
PRACTICAL
Plumbers, Tinners & Gas Fitters,
Heaters, Ranges and Stoves.
Dealers in all kinds of Stoves, Heaters and Ranges. Repairs for all kinds of Stoves constantly on hand. Stoves, Heaters and Ranges put in order under our personal supervision by first-class workmen. Don't fail to have them inspected as it will save expenses later on.
The Economic Gas Engine.
This little One Engine may be daily seen in operation in our window pumping 300 gallons of water per hour at the small cost of two cents. In a number of prominent residences we have put in these Motors and in every case we have unqualified endorsements of them.
Our Sanitary Plumbing
Department is, as it always has been, under our own direction, and our work in this branch in past years is the only recommendation we court. While we employ good workmen we see none but the best of materials and our patrons are always assured of a good job at a very reasonable price.
We Guarantee Our Work.
We are under many obligations to our numerous patrons of the past for their work and their unsolicited recommendation of the same to their friends, and we will endeavor to merit a continuance of the friendly relations heretofore and now existing by doing only first-class work.
7 and 9 Somerset street.

A. W. RAND,
(THE NEW QUININE.)
24 W. FRONT ST.
Fishing Tackle, Hammocks, Croquet, Tennis and other means of enjoying a Holiday.

WERNER'S
—ONE PRICE—
Clothing House!
Spring Opening!
COME AND SEE US IN OUR
NEW STORE,
NO. 30 W. FRONT STREET.
JUST RECEIVED.
The Newest Styles
OF SPRING GOODS
—IN—
OVERCOATS and SUITS
—FOR—
MEN, BOYS AND CHILDREN.
AND IN NECKWEAR AND GENT'S FURNISHING GOODS,
which we will gladly show you, even though you do not want to buy. Goods all fresh and new, and we are confident we can please you. Call and see us anyhow. Polite salesmen. No trouble to show goods.
WERNER'S
CLOTHING HOUSE,
NO 30 WEST FRONT STREET.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Accommodation Express,
PETER RICKERT, Proprietor
Office—Vanderbeek's Music store, Park avenue. The Accommodation Express will attend to the general carrying business of the city, delivering Goods or Baggage to and from the Depot, or from place to place. Moving of Furniture, Pianos, etc., with care and safety. Prompt attention given to all orders.

CHAS. YAEGER,
Practical Upholsterer
35 WEST FRONT STREET,
OPPOSITE MUSIC HALL.
25 Years Experience in all Branches.
P. O. BOX 152. o2d1y

LUTKINS & HUMMER,
DEALERS IN
Butter, Eggs & Produce,
Meats of all Kinds,
FRUITS and VEGETABLES IN THEIR SEASON.
NO. 54 PARK AVENUE, Plainfield, New Jersey.
Goods delivered to any part of the city.
A. LUTKINS. L. A. HUMMER. 31my

JAMES K. ARNOLD,
GROCER,
Corner Somerset and Chatham Sts., North Plainfield.

TWENTY
Years experience in the business,
SECOND STREET, 2 doors above Peace st.

Mr. JOHN H. STEVENS, Horse-shoer gives particular attention to Shoeing, Forging, Simbling and Interfering Horses. Speedy Cutters stopped in an incredibly short space of time. Horses with diseased feet treated in a particular manner by experienced workmen.

Fleming & Angleman,
BUTCHERS,
Fresh, Salt and Smoked Meats,
Poultry, Fish, Vegetables, etc.
ORDERS CALLED FOR AND DELIVERED.
No. 24 North avenue.
[Near the Depot.]
S. A. FLEMING. ap8tf J. P. ANGLEMAN.

LIVERY.
RICHARD H. DAY'S
City Livery Stable!
OPPOSITE DEPOT, PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Special attention paid to Boarding Horses by the day, week or month. All kinds of Turnouts day or night at short notice. Telephone Call, No. 121
my1y

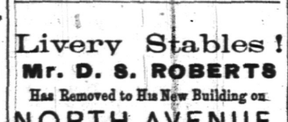
ALBERT HEDDEN,
Livery and Boarding Stables
FOURTH STREET,
Between Pease street and Park avenue, Plainfield. Pleasure or shopping calls promptly attended to. Careful, gentlemanly drivers. Horses boarded by the week or month. Telephone call No. 114.

Livery Stables!
Mr. D. S. ROBERTS
Has Removed to His New Building on
NORTH AVENUE,
Adjoining Force's Hotel. Mr. Roberts will always be found ready and able to answer demands for all kinds of turn-outs at short notice, and hopes for a continuance of past favors. The boarding and care of horses a specialty. 1aply

A. M. SEGUINE,
(Successor to John W. Laing.)
Laing's Hotel Stables

Front street, opposite Madison avenue.
Coaches for Weddings, Funerals and Private Calls. Light carriages of all descriptions for pleasure.
RIDING OR LIVERY.
Careful, safe drivers for shopping calls or pleasure drives. Special attention given to boarding horses by the day, week or month.—octly
TELEPHONE CALL, NO. 26.

ESTABLISHED 1886.
Westfield Horse Market.



IRVING & CO.,
DEALERS IN
Carriage Teams, Road, Draft, Speed, Saddle and General Business Horses. All horses guaranteed as represented.
Central avenue,
Near Depot, Westfield,

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XX. PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, JULY 15, 1887. NO. 27.

LAWS OF NEW JERSEY.

[BY AUTHORITY.]

CHAPTER LXX.

An act providing for the pensioning of police officers and policemen in certain cities of this State, and regulating the method by which the same may be accepted and become operative in said cities.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cities of this state all members of the police force of such city as shall have honorably served upon such force for twenty years, and may have attained the age of sixty years, may be retired upon one-half pay.

2. And be it enacted, That any member having attained the age of fifty years, who shall have honorably served upon the force for twenty years, shall, upon application to the board having charge of the police department of such city, be voluntarily retired upon half pay.

3. And be it enacted, That any member of such force having received permanent disability by reason of accident incurred at any time in the service, or by reason of disease contracted in the service after ten years in the service, shall be retired upon half pay.

4. And be it enacted, That every member of such force shall be paid full compensation or salary during temporary disability occasioned while in the performance of his or their duty.

5. And be it enacted, That in any city or municipality in which this act shall become operative in the manner herein provided, the board or authority having charge of the finances of such city or municipality shall borrow a sum sufficient to cover all pensions and matters above stated, required during the remainder of the current fiscal year of such city or municipality, and may issue the same to be paid out of any money of said city or municipality not otherwise appropriated, and shall thereafter annually put in the general tax levy raised in said city or municipality a sum equal to the aggregate amount of the moneys raised for or constituting the fund provided for in section five of this act, and thereupon proceed to securely invest any and all of such moneys not then required for or appropriated to the immediate payment of any of the pensions and matters above stated in interest-bearing bonds of the municipality in which such bonds shall be held, kept and maintained exclusively for the benefit, use, purposes and credit of such fund.

6. And be it enacted, That the board of aldermen or common council of any city may, by resolution, at any time submit the question of acceptance or rejection of this act to the voters at any charter or general election, and if a majority of those who vote upon the question of acceptance or rejection shall be in favor of accepting the provisions of act, then this act shall go into effect immediately, and the grant of power herein made to any such city shall be deemed to be accepted by such city and shall be used by the terms of this act; except entitled to vote at any charter or municipal election where this question is submitted to them, shall express their assent or rejection of this act by depositing ballots at the polls in the box provided for depositing ballots at such election in the election precincts or wards of any such city, and those who are in favor of the acceptance of this act and the grants and powers herein contained, shall each deposit a ballot containing the words "police pension accepted" written or printed, or partly written or partly printed thereon, and those who are opposed shall each deposit a ballot with the words "police pension rejected," written or printed, or partly written or partly printed thereon; and this acceptance or rejection may be expressed upon the ballot on which are the names of the state, city or ward officers, and no separate ballot shall be required for the purpose of such acceptance or rejection; canvass, on the return of the votes upon this question of such acceptance or rejection, made by the election officers in the same way and manner as votes are canvassed at such election, and if a majority of the ballots upon which there shall be either the words "police pension accepted," or "police pension rejected" shall be found to be for the acceptance of this act, it shall thereupon go into effect and be binding upon such city wherein such vote shall have been taken.

Approved March 31, 1887.

CHAPTER LXXI.

A supplement to an act entitled "An act concerning corporations" (Revision), approved April seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the said act entitled as aforesaid, of which the name is hereby amended so as to read as follows, to wit:

32. And be it enacted, That in case of the insolvency of any corporation the laborers thereof or the persons employed by the same shall have a lien upon the assets thereof for the amount due them respectively, which shall be paid prior to any other debts or debts of said company; and the word "laborers" shall be construed to include all persons doing labor or service of whatever character for or as workmen or employes in the employ of such corporations; and the lien shall have preference to and comprise all claims for such labor or service rendered to such corporation before the date which the court adjudges to be the time when the insolvency occurred which gives it jurisdiction, whether such "laborers" were in the usual employ of such corporation at that time or not.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall not only apply to the proceedings in insolvency hereafter begun, but as well to any now pending where the assets have not been distributed.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 31, 1887.

CHAPTER LXXII.

An act regulating the pay of officers and men of paid fire departments in cities of this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cities of this state having a paid fire department the pay or salaries per annum of the following named officers and employes shall be as hereinafter specified, namely: of the chief engineer the sum of not less than two thousand dollars, to the assistant engineer the sum of not less than one thousand four hundred dollars, to the clerk of the board the sum of not less than one thousand four hundred dollars, to the superintendent of telegraph the sum of not less than one thousand three hundred and fifty dollars, to the inspector of horses the sum of not less than eleven hundred and fifty dollars, to engineers of steamers the sum of not less than one thousand dollars, to stokers of steamers the sum of not less than eight hundred and fifty dollars, to drivers of engines the sum of not less than the sum of not less than eight hundred and fifty dollars, to tillermen of trucks the sum of not less than nine hundred dollars, to the telegraph lineman the sum of not less than eight hundred and fifty dollars, to permanent foremen and permanent truckmen the sum of not less than eight hundred dollars, to foremen of companies the sum of not less than two hundred and fifty dollars, to hosemen at call and truckmen at call the sum of not less than seventy-five dollars, in lieu of all other compensation whatsoever.

2. And be it enacted, That the provisions of this act shall not apply to any city or municipality until the common council shall by a resolution therefor of the common council or board having control of the fire department of said city be submitted to a vote of the legal voters of said city and ascertained to be by a majority of all the legal votes cast at any regular charter or general election to be hereafter held in such city or municipality next after the passage of such resolution; such submission shall not be made unless said resolution shall be passed at least thirty days before the fourth day of July, first Monday in September to be known as labor day), thanksgiving day, twenty-fifth day of December, and any day upon which a general election shall be held for members of assembly in each year, and also any day set apart by proclamation of the governor of this state or by the president of the United States, for the purpose of public observance, shall be a legal holiday, and no court shall be held upon said days except in the cases where said court would now sit upon a Sunday, and no person shall be compelled to labor upon any of said days by any person or corporation.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 8, 1887.

CHAPTER CXV.

An act to amend an act entitled "An act to authorize the establishment of free public libraries in the cities of this State," passed April first, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section two of the act to which this is an amendment be amended to read as follows:

2. And be it enacted, That the provisions of this act shall remain inoperative in any city in this state until assented to by a majority of the legal voters thereof voting on this act at an election, at which the question of its adoption shall be submitted to vote by direction of the board of health of such city, either at the time fixed by law for the election of municipal officers or at a special election to be held for that purpose, of the time and place of holding which election the city clerk of said city shall cause public notice to be given by advertisements signed by himself and set up in at least five public places in said city for at least ten days prior to the day of such election and published for the same period in two newspapers of such city; the ballots used at such election shall be printed or written or partly printed or written, and the same may be printed or written on the general ballots used at such election, or both may be either the words "for the adoption for this city of the provisions of an act entitled 'An act to authorize the establishment of free public libraries in the cities of this state,'" or, "against the adoption for this city of the provisions of an act entitled 'An act to authorize the establishment of free public libraries in the cities of this state;'" the election officers of said city shall return to the canvassing board of the same a true and correct statement in writing under their hands of the result of said election, the same to be entered at large upon the minutes of said body.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 8, 1887.

Of the 390,000 immigrants who arrived in the United States last year, 6000 went south of the Potomac to reside. The 6000, however, were first-class, as the majority were either colonists or skilled workmen.

A well known New York physician recently said: "I vaccinate infants when they are six weeks old. Until an infant is vaccinated I do not allow it to go out into the air. There is more small-pox in this city than people imagine, but the fact is kept quiet."

The Baltimore American thinks that if a man has a "reasonably well-shaped mouth he should not wear a mustache; the same paper is authority for the statement that mustaches are less worn than formerly, all of which will be hailed with satisfaction by the barbers.

So largely have the Chinese increased in Hawaii that the island bids fair to become a Chinese colony. All other population is decreasing, owing to the ravages of diseases induced by the vices of civilization. The Chinese number fifteen thousand and have already great power and influence. They are industrious and economical, and these qualities give them a grip on every land where they are allowed to come.

A correspondent says: "There is some reason to believe, judging from the tone of Novoe Vremya and other Russian journals, that the tax on foreign residents in Russia, which these journals so strongly advocate, may shortly be introduced by the government. A report is current that this tax will be fixed at 150 gold roubles per annum, which makes about 255 roubles in the ordinary currency, or about $125. The effect of such an impost would of course be to drive out of the country the more skilled and industrious artisans of foreign nationalities. Like the foreign passport tax, it will act as another check to Russia's foreign commerce."

The late Dr. Hugh J. Glenn, of Colusa County, California, was regarded as the largest wheat grower in this country, with the possible exception of some of the bonanza wheat farmers of Dakota. He had 70,000 acres of land in Colusa County, and one could ride for seventeen miles along the Sacramento River without leaving his possessions. He had 40,000 acres sown in wheat, and in harvest-time a small army of men were employed. It was thought when he died, about two years ago, that the great ranch would be split up, and would thus afford homes to hundreds of families; but the heirs decided to allow it to remain intact, and this year the manager of the estate reports that fully as much land is in wheat as during the doctor's life.

A steam yacht is an expensive luxury. Jay Gould seldom cruises on the beautiful Atlanta and more seldom has guests aboard, yet she costs him $6000 a month. W. K. Vanderbilt has made one cruise in his new Alva—to the Bermudas—and has planned others and he calculates that it will cost him at least $10,000 a month to maintain his steam pleasure craft. Wm. Astor keeps his steam yacht, the Nourmahal, tied up most of the time, and consequently he gets off more cheaply—$2000 to $3000 a month. The most extensive and most famous for its good cheer of all New York steam yachts is James Gordon Bennett's Namouna. For twelve months in the year he keeps her in commission and hardly a week passes when her cabin is not the scene of some lavish entertainment. Entertainments, more or less lavish, cost money, but how much Mr. Bennett spends in that way will remain a mystery. It is only known that the sum total of actual expenses on the Namouna is $48,000 a year.

Until one goes through the twenty-nine examining divisions of the United States Patent Office, and takes at least a glance at its 186 classes of subjects, subdivided into 3000 sub-classes, but little conception can be had of the diversified subjects of invention to be seen there, or of the immense amount of labor that must necessarily be bestowed upon their examination before a patent can be issued, as no part of a device can conflict with somebody else's device. The number of persons employed in these divisions and the cost of examining and "keeping the run" of over 3000 sub-classes of devices, in round numbers are: Persons employed, 243; cost per annum of running the divisions, $379,160. It cost for photographing or otherwise producing plates of these devices for the Patent Office Official Gazette, for five years ending 1886, $183,886.58, and for producing copies of drawings of the weekly issues of patents, designs, trade marks and pending applications, and for the reproduction of exhausted copies, for the same period, $368,872.13.

Hope and Memory.

Why should it be that the misty past,
Or the future yet unseen,
In dearer far to the heart, alas!
Than the present which lies between?
With every pulse of the heart's red flow
It woves a dream and a sigh,
For the happy days of the long ago,
And the glad sweet by and by.

There is a wisdom in nature's way
Which the doubting heart no'er knows,
We live the best of our lives each day,
From dawn to their sunlit close;
For the bliss we tasted at youthful springs,
And the joys which are to be,
Are brought each day on the gracious wings
Of Hope and Memory.

—[Nixon Waterman in the Current.

THE LOST DEED.

BY ISABEL HOLMES.

"It's mighty queer about that deed," Reuben Hill was saying to his wife, as he wiped the perspiration from his face with his red, polka-dotted handkerchief.

"Nathan was so methodical like about his papers and everything. It wasn't like him to mislay it. But I have looked through all the drawers of that old mahogany desk and among his other papers fifty times, I guess. I know he meant the Red Brook Farm for Oscar, but if that deed is never found I suppose his own boys will take it."

Mrs. Hill was bending over the kitchen stove with flushed face, for the day was hot. The odor of fried ham filled the air. She stood back and looked at Reuben by the open window, with a meditative air.

"It is queer about it," she echoed. "It will be mean enough if Oscar gets cheated out of a share in the property. He worked faithfully for Nathan till he was of age, more faithfully than his own boys, and Nathan thought so much of him, too."

"And meant to do the square thing by him," Reuben continued. "You don't suppose Robert or Will had a hand in—"

Reuben interrupted himself to look up, as a strange shadow fell across the square of sunlight in the kitchen door. A girl, a stranger, carrying a valise, was standing there. Her comely face was flushed, and she seemed somewhat overcome with the heat.

Mrs. Hill looked at her with an encouraging smile. The girl stepped inside the doorway in response to the mute welcome.

"Don't you want to hire a girl at low wages through the hot weather?" she enquired abruptly.

"We do our own work," Mrs. Hill responded. "Our own girls, Addie and Lottie, are both at home this summer. Have you come far? You look heated. Won't you sit down where it is cool and rest?"

"I have walked from Kennebunk this forenoon," said the girl. "I am pretty tired."

She sat down in the Madras-covered chair by the open door. Her eyes wandered around the kitchen as if she recognized something familiar in the surroundings, although she was a stranger.

"You've come a pretty long stretch," Reuben volunteered, giving her a quick, shrewd glance. He was apt to be on the lookout for strangers.

Mrs. Hill regarded her with the kind motherliness she felt for her own girls.

"You'll feel better after you have had some dinner with us," she said.

"Just left a place, I s'pose," Reuben commented.

"Yes," said the girl. She spoke with a slight Scotch accent. She seemed a little embarrassed with the question, and her eyes wandered through the door to the hired men coming up to dinner from the hay field.

"I—I had a pretty good place, but I wanted a change," she said, bringing her glance to bear upon Reuben's face bashfully.

"A girl ought to stick to a good place," he ventured.

She made no reply to this "feeler," but something like a smile flitted over her face.

"Sort of odd, I guess," was Reuben's thought.

Mrs. Hill removed the "sizzling" spider from the hot stove, and taking up the platter of brown slices of ham, she said to the girl:

"Come in this way and take off your hat."

The girl followed her into the cool dining-room and gave the same peculiar glance around. Mrs. Hill set the platter on the invitingly laid table and then conducted the stranger into her own bedroom adjoining, where the high feather bed stood, covered with a patch-work quilt of pink and white "basket work."

"Just lay your things on the bed and come right out to dinner," Mrs. Hill said. "Here's a little girl who wants a place to work," she said to Lottie, who just then came out of the buttery with a huge apple pie, which she placed on the table.

"Well, there's enough work to be done here, dear knows," Lottie returned briskly, with a friendly nod to the newcomer. "There's sewing enough to keep Addie busy six months, and that spinning—I don't believe you'll get round to it before Christmas. It takes us both all the time to potter round with the household. I do think ours beats all the houses in the neighborhood to pile up work. Yet we are always at it, late and early."

The hired men now came in and the family gathered around the table, Oscar, a tall, rather good-looking fellow, sat directly opposite the girl. She was looking around upon the assembled faces with that strange look of half recognition she had worn since she crossed the threshold. She met the eyes of Oscar suddenly. She colored and kept her eyes on her plate the rest of the dinner hour.

In the after-dinner concleve she gave her name as Sara McKay. She had come to the "States" from Prince Edward Island about a year ago, and landed in Portland, and found her way to Kennebunk, where she had lived in a family ever since.

"I'd be willing to work for my board awhile, it seems so much like home here," she said.

"Well, you're welcome to stay and help when you feel like it? Mrs. Hill responded for her heart had gone out to the stranger from the first. "We never feel as if we can pay wages in the house, because we have to keep hired help on the farm all the time. But you can stay through the hot weather, and I dare say a place will turn up for you before long."

"I can spin," Sara said, eagerly. "All the girls on the island learn to do that."

"I couldn't draw a thread to save my life," said Addie.

So it was settled. The wheel and reel, so common in our grandmothers' days, were brought out and set in the shed because it was cool. Sara, with the fluffy "rolls" heaped high on a chair back at her left hand, drew out her thread and filled the spindle rapidly, with a nonchalance and easy command of the situation that won the admiration of the girls, it being such an unusual accomplishment among them.

A week went by. Sara was talkative about her island home, but non-committal regarding her reasons for leaving the place in Kennebunk.

"Whatever it means she's a good, nice girl," Mrs. Hill said to the girls privately.

Reuben Hill still ruminated over the disappearance of the deed. Oscar came into his meals quietly, having very little to say at any time. He had lived there since the death of Nathan Hill, six months before. Once or twice he caught Sara regarding him with a curious, fixed expression and answered her with a grave look of inquiry that brought the furious blushes to her face.

One day Sara had finished her dinner and gone out into the shed, leaving the family to rise, one after the other, leisurely. The soft whirr of the wheel, mingled with the murmur of insects in the hot summer noon, reached the dining room.

"It's queer how she happened to come here," Addie remarked, reflectively.

"And she's so secret about leaving her place," added Lottie.

"Well, I do like to see her round," Mrs. Hill said in her own placid fashion.

Mr. Hill, going out through the shed on his way to the big barn, stopped in consternation. Sara was sitting on an old red chest in the corner, in great distress seemingly. He gave one glance, then hurried back, and called startlingly through the kitchen door.

"Mother! girls! Come! Sara's in a fit!"

They came hurrying out with various exclamations. Her eyes were wide open, but unseeing. Her face was working convulsively.

"Perhaps she's subject to them," suggested Mrs. Hill.

"Oscar," said Mr. Hill, "tell Tim to jump on the gray mare and ride to the corner for a doctor. Quick now!"

Sara became quiet all in a moment. "Don't send for a doctor," she said. "I'm not sick."

Her eyes were still open and unseeing, but her voice had changed, and was falling upon their ears in gruff, familiar accents.

"Nathan's voice, if I ever heard it in my life," Reuben told the doctor afterwards.

"Don't you know me?" she asked in that familiar voice. "I've been wanting to come and tell you about the deed. I have never been able to come before. You've overlooked a secret drawer in the mahogany desk. It is close under the bookcase. The deed is there. Go now and look."

Like one dazed Reuben went up stairs and searched for the secret drawer in the old-fashioned piece of furniture, a combined bookcase and writing desk, which had been removed there, with other things, after Nathan's death. It must be confessed that he felt pretty nervous. How did Sara know about the deed? It had never been mentioned in her presence.

He returned. "There ain't any drawer there," he said.

"But there is," persisted Sara. "There is a spring, the color of the wood, about the size of a pin head, close under the bookcase on the left of the writing desk. Pass your finger nail over the surface and you'll find it."

Reuben went again. It must be admitted that he felt a thrill of superstitious fear.

He did as she directed, touched the spring and the drawer flew open. There sure enough, was the deed.

He went back to the group, who greeted him with various exclamations.

Sara started, shivered slightly and looked around upon the faces with seeing, questioning eyes.

"What has happened?" she asked. "Have I been asleep? I felt awful strange the last I know, and thought I'd sit down on the chest a few minutes."

"You've been asleep, or something," Mrs. Hill said slowly.

Sara went to the wheel and, taking up the thread she had left half twisted, began spinning, with a rather shame-faced expression. They all looked at her so strange, and Oscar's eyes seemed riveted upon her.

"How did you know about the secret drawer?" Reuben asked, abruptly.

"Secret drawer?" Sara repeated with a genuinely mystified look.

"You were in some kind of a trance, I think," Mrs. Hill said.

"I thought you were in a fit," said Addie.

"And I thought you were going crazy," laughed Lottie, now that her fear was gone.

Mrs. Hill explained about the deed. Sara listened, then said deliberately:

"I never told you how I came to leave my place. I thought you might think it was silly. It was all on account of a dream I had."

The group were listening breathlessly.

"I saw this house with the long piazza and green blinds," she went on, "the big barn, with the great doors open, the bee hives, your faces, everything just as plain in my dream as I saw them when I came that day. I thought I was to come here to help some one. I didn't understand what it meant, but I awoke with the feeling that I must come, whether I wanted to or not. I had seen the long, dusty road stretching ahead of me, and the house and barn on the hill. When I got there I was half frightened, but you all seemed as if you had been expecting me. You made me feel at home."

"Strange," said Mrs. Hill, with a sort of awe in her voice.

"Aunt Samantha would explain it," said Lottie. "She's been going to seances at the corner lately."

From the day that the deed was found Oscar began to show open preference for Sara.

It was not until she became his wife and they were living quietly in the little house on the Red Brook farm that she confessed to having seen his face in her dream the plainest of all, and that she had been told that she was to marry him.

Reuben Hill is not quite such a hard-headed skeptic as formerly. He has to admit that there may be stranger things in the universe than his philosophy has dreamed of.

We give the facts, as they came under our notice, without pretending to account for them.—[New York Mercury.

Some portion of the mining operations in Mexico, about which we hear so much, consists in attempts to undermine the government.

FOOD AND HEALTH.

An Athlete's Observations on What to Eat.

The Digestibility of Various Articles of Food.

"It is very peculiar to consider the various systems that are published to preserve health and become athletic," remarked a well-known athlete to a New York Mail and Express reporter. After a pause the fine specimen of physical manhood continued: "One writer will say don't drink green tea, another thinks going to bed on a full stomach is the road to vigor, and I say that what is food for one person is poison for another. It is the adaptability of each constitution to certain hygienic rules. "Oh, you should eat rare meat to grow stout and strong," dogmatically asserts one authority. If rare meat is craved by the appetite it will be easily assimilated and digested, but to force it does more harm than good. Well-cooked, plain food is always considered healthier than raw stuff. I once suffered from dyspepsia and made a study of food. After several years I found that the following were generally more easy of digestion than anything I ate: Partridge, chicken, turkey, mutton, venison, hare, sweetbread, pheasant, grouse, beef tea, mutton broth, milk, turbot, haddock, flounders, sole, fresh fish generally, roasted oysters, stale bread, rice, tapioca, sago, arrowroot, asparagus, sea kale, French beans, cauliflower, baked apples, oranges, grapes, strawberries, peaches, toast water, black tea. In a moderate scale of easy digestion I placed beef, rabbit, duck, young pigeon, wild waterfowl, woodcock, snipe, soups, eggs not hard boiled, butter, turtle, cod, pike, trout, raw or stewed oysters, potatoes, beets, turnips, cabbage, spinach, artichoke, lettuce, celery, apples, apricots, currants, raspberries, bread, farinaceous puddings, jelly, marmalade, rhubarb plant, cooked fruits, cocoa, coffee. Those very hard to digest I discovered to be: Clams, pork, roast veal, goose, liver, heart, brain, salt meat, sausages, hashes, mackerel, eels, salmon, herrings, halibut, salt fish, lobster, crabs, shrimps, mussels, oil, melted butter, hard-boiled eggs, cheese, fresh bread, muffins, buttered toast, pastry, cakes, custards, nuts, pears, plums, cherries, pineapples, cucumbers, carrots, parsnips, peas, beans, mushrooms, pickles, chocolate.

"Persons in good, sound health, who have splendid digestion, of course can partake of any of the food mentioned without danger, provided they do not gorge. It requires frequently a great deal of strength to dispose of the gourmand's meal, and the food he has eaten acts as a slow poison, draining his vitality. Everybody who has good health constitutes herself or himself a lecturer and authority upon the subject. I notice many recommend frequent rubdowns and baths. To bathe and rub the skin dry is healthful after exercise, but too much of it does more harm than good. There is a limit to all things: Too much exercise is injurious, and having fine muscles does not indicate a vigorous, healthy circulation. Long walks taken at a slow pace do no good whatever. Walking exercise should be brisk enough to start a gentle perspiration, and then great benefit is derived. There is no specific rule to become healthy and strong save one—plenty of open air exercise, temperance, wholesome food, sufficient sleep, cleanliness and a good conscience."

A Reward of Merit.

A young commercial traveller was riding on the cars in the vicinity of Grand Rapids. There were few people riding in the same coach with him, but he noticed a very old lady who seemed to have passed the allotted span of life, and a younger woman, tired and travel-stained, and accompanied by two peevish, restless little ones, who were never still for a moment.

The old lady was unattended and sat by herself, seeming oblivious of all her surroundings. The mother, with her children, occupied double seats. She looked worn out from fatigue. The young man sat comfortably in the rear of the coach and read or amused himself with his thoughts.

But when an opportunity came for him to be of service, he improved it.

He closed the window for the old lady, who feebly thanked him. He gave the tiresome children some picture cards to keep them out of mischief. He told them stories, and gave them innumerable drinks of water from the tank near by, while their tired mother caught a nap. He divided an orange among them and prepared another for the old lady, who declared it tasted cool and grateful.

Before they reached the station where the young man was to leave the train, and while he was getting his satchel down, the old lady beckoned him to her.

"My son," she said, in a quivering voice, "I live at Grand Rapids; perhaps you have heard of me? I am the old lady who sent 300 pin-cushions out to the Soldiers' Home there. I am 83 years old and all I do is to make pin-cushions and give them away to deserving people. Young man, I have watched you, and here is your pin-cushion."

It was a homely little round of pasteboard, but that young man declares he will never part with it as long as he lives. —[Detroit Free Press.

Living on the Wagon Pole.

When Emerson said "Hitch your wagon to a star," he meant, of course, that the wheels of the wagon should roll on earth, but that the forces which pulled it along should be higher and nobler than mere worldliness. It was a good thought excellently expressed, and when carried out it leads to success. There are some people, however, who in their efforts to hitch their wagon to stars, elevate themselves on the wagon poles until they reach convenient clouds, upon which they crawl and spend the rest of their lives midway between heaven and earth. A man who passes away his life in this suspended condition is a very curious character. He is just high enough up to look down with a cold, aristocratic condescension on the rest of mankind, and he is just low enough down for mankind to see that he is only an ordinary member of the human race. It is not a very graceful position, and the people are generally disposed to criticise the man occupying it; but the suspended genius, propped up by his inordinate vanity, and blinded by the haziness of his surroundings, sees only himself, and imagines, like Alexander Selkirk, he is monarch of all he surveys. All the time the people below laugh at his antics, and the angels above, doubtless, weep.

CLIPPINGS FOR THE CURIOUS.

Some flashes of lightning are believed to reach a length of ten miles.

A New York lady gave the baker of an Atlantic City hotel $50 for his receipt for making delicious muffins.

If the natives of the Friendly Islands suffer from a spreading ulceration they have the limb cut off with a sharp shell.

The longest train that was ever drawn over the Erie Railway by a single engine passed west the other day. It consisted of 144 empty cars.

The Indian River in Florida is called the straightest in the world. A straight line can be drawn through seventy-five miles of it without touching shore.

A turtle caught in York River, Va., and taken to Baltimore, weighed 500 pounds. It measured nearly seven feet from the head to the tip of the tail.

Cathay was the old name given to China by Marco Polo, who in the employ of the Khan of Tartary visited it in the early part of the thirteenth century.

The first regular census under the Constitution of the United States was taken in 1790-91, and it credited the Union with a population of 3,921,326 persons.

The only medal bestowed by the Confederates during the civil war was that presented to the Davis Guards, for their repulse of the Federals at Sabine Pass. Each one of the men received a small silver medal.

In nearly all the Sussex (England) villages not only boys, but grown up and even very aged men, play at marbles on Good Friday. It is considered as wrong to omit this solemn duty as to go without the Christmas pudding, etc.

The Germans are training dogs to do outpost duty in the army and to perform all sorts of military services. In addition to the canine contingent the Prussians are mobilizing a lot of hawks for the capture of the French carrier pigeons.

On the day, in 519, that King Arthur won a great victory over the Saxons, Dewi, or David, afterwards Archbishop of St. David's, ordered the Welsh soldiers to place a leek in their caps. It is to this circumstance that the leek's selection as the emblem of Wales is ascribed.

Very few people know that, as the violet was the chosen flower of the Napoleons, scarlet carnation was the chosen flower of the Stuarts. To this day mysterious hands yearly deposit at Frascati, and in St. Peter's in Rome, where lie the remains of the cardinal of York and other members of the house of Stuart, wreaths of scarlet carnations.

Ten Things a Baby Can Do.

It can beat any alarm clock ever invented waking a family up in the morning.

Give it a fair show and it can smash more dishes than the most industrious servant girl in the country.

It can fall down oftener and with less provocation than the most expert tumbler in the circus ring.

It can make more genuine fuss over a simple brass pin than its mother would over a broken back.

It can choke itself black in the face with greater ease than the most accomplished wretch that was ever executed.

It can keep a family in a constant turmoil from morning till night, and night till morning, without once varying its tune.

It can be relied upon to sleep peacefully all day when its father is down town and cry persistently at night when he is particularly sleepy.

It may be the naughtiest, dirtiest, ugliest, most fretful baby in all the world, but you can never make its mother believe it, and you had better not try it.

It can be a charming and model infant when no one is around, but when visitors are present it can exhibit more bad temper than both of its parents together.

It can brighten up a house better than all the furniture ever made; make sweeter music than the finest orchestra organized; fill a larger place in its parents' breast than they knew they had, and when it goes away it can cause a greater vacancy and leave a greater blank than all the rest of the world put together.—[Philadelphia News.

An Impertinent Man.

Alex. Walker, clerk of the Capital Hotel in Little Rock, although a handsome young man, has lost much of the hair that once occupied a prominent position on the top of his head. One evening recently a well-dressed stranger registered at the hotel, and, just as he had completed the work of spreading his double great-primer name on the book he glanced at Walker, stepped back and said:

"Great Cæsar! Another baldheaded man! It is my misfortune, it seems, to be thrown with this class of men. I ought not to say it, perhaps, but I don't believe that bald-headed men are honest."

"Look here," said Walker, "your remarks are personal and insulting."

"I did hope that I would never see another bald-headed man," the stranger continued, "but here I am compelled to stop with one."

"Get out of this house!" Walker hotly exclaimed.

The stranger stepped back and took off his hat, revealing the fact that he had not a hair on his head.

"My dear friend," said Walker, extending his hand, "I have just received a box of Havana cigars. Come around and enjoy yourself."—[Arkansaw Traveler.

A Squidge.

"Among circus and theatrical people an admission ticket is called a 'squidge,'" said a man at Forepaugh's circus last week to a Chicago Herald reporter. "The origin of this expression goes back many years. Along in the '60's a negro boy applied for admission at a circus in one of the southern towns. He had neither money nor tickets. The door tender stopped the lad at the entrance and told him that he could not get into the tent unless he had money or its equivalent. The poor boy ran crying to his parents, who asked him why he was not at the circus. With a sob and a face wet with tears the lad blurted out that he couldn't get in until he got some money or a 'squidgulum.' The man at tent door was very much amused when the boy's tale was told to him, and ever after that a ticket has been known among the boys as a 'squidge,' or 'squidgulum.'"

Consoling.

Collector. "I am losing a great deal of time trying to collect this bill from you."

Debtor. "Don't worry about losing time. I'm going to pay you in time."—[Siftings.

'OFF WITH HIS HEAD."

Interview with Chinese High Executioners in Canton.

Brutal and Repulsive Forms of Oriental Punishment.

During our wanderings in Canton, says a writer in the Pall Mall Gazette, our ears were assailed with the Cathay synonym of the Egyptian backsheesh cry, till the caverns of our brains resounded and echoed with it. "Cumshaw! cumshaw!" yelled immature possessors of pigtails, and mature possessors echoed the sound wherever we went. When the youngsters' requests were not complied with, they after a little invariably changed their cry to "Fanqui! fanqui!" (foreign devil, foreign devil). We marched into the magisterial yamun to the accompaniment of the cumshaw tune. Here we were shown the instruments whereby bamboo chow chow is given to the nadal callosities of the wicked, also rattans and short bludgeons for slapping the faces of untruthful witnesses, thumb-screws and racks for exacting confessions (no criminal can be executed according to the laws of China until he has confessed his crime), canquls, a species of collar which for largeness and uncomfortableness even outstrip the masters', and which are rectangular planes of wood with neck and hand holes. The gloomy, small depository-room of these torture implements we thought to be a fair representation of what a European mediæval chamber of "justice" has been.

We were next taken in our sedan chairs through an overcrowded busy part of the city to the execution ground, passing on our way the new Roman Catholic cathedral, whose gigantic spires pierce the clouds. The execution ground we found to be a small enclosed rectangular space, about fifteen yards by fifty, entered by a gate. On the right on entering ran a row of small squalid houses, the habitations of potters whose rough, unbaked work lay all about on the ground, drying in the sun, but we were informed that it was cleared away whenever an execution was about to take place. Facing the potters' houses was a high wall, at whose base and leaning against it were some large crocks, all of which had their mouths earthed over except one. Here our guide introduced us to two poorly dressed Chinamen, whom we noticed gambling at a fan tan table near the gate on our arrival. One, a big, brutish-looking fellow with a villainous cast in one of his eyes, was the head executioner, and the other two, who were smallish men, were his assistants. Through our guide we told the head executioner that we wished to see the instruments of his calling, and thereon he produced a short, very heavy two-handed sword and a long knife. The following conversation was carried on between us and this "boss" through the medium of our guide:

"How do you use this sword? Where is the block?"

"We don't use a block. What we do is to make the prisoners kneel down in two rows facing one another, and bending their heads down. Then I take the sword, and chop, chop, one on each side, and the heads fall off; so on till they're all done, as you'd switch the tops of green weeds with your walking-stick."

"But you don't always chop a head off with one blow?"

"Always."

"What is the knife for?"

"For the ling che, or death by many cuts. We tie the culprit who is condemned to this death to that cross there (pointing to two rough unbarked sticks roughly crossed), and we begin by cutting off the eyelids, ears, nose, and so on, ending by sticking the knife into the heart. The cuts vary in number from eight to a hundred and twenty, according to the heinousness of the culprit's crimes."

"What class of criminals are condemned to the ling che?"

"Parricides, matricides and women who have killed and mutilated their husbands form the majority."

"Do the executions interfere with your appetite and sleep?"

The three executioners grinned sardonically at this question, so we asked:

"How many persons have you executed in a day?"

"I have chopped twenty heads off myself in two minutes. See that dark looking place on the ground over there—that's caused by the blood of the last batch we had."

"What is done with the bodies?"

"The friends take the bodies away, but we keep the heads in the crocks over by the wall there, and when we have a large number which are no longer recognizable we bury them; would you like to see some of the heads?"

We declined, and one of my companions began to grow pale and complain of not feeling well, so we ordered the guide to lead us away.

"Gentlemen, give twenty cents each, cumshaw, to the executioners," said the guide, which we gladly did to escape from the staring of the "boss" butcher's swivel eye; and so ended our interview with these High Executioners of the Great Chinese Empire."

The Writing of Modern Hymns.

Know that man? It's William H. Doane, and he makes $20,000 a year writing hymns, or rather that's the royalty he gets. He is engaged with Fay & Co., but in his leisure moments he hunts around and finds a touching bit of poetry and he works it into a hymn. Oh, it's a paying business; beats any kind of writing I ever heard of, but it's not everybody that can catch on to that sort of a style. It's harder than writing variety songs or even Ledger stories or detective yarns of blood and thunder romances. You see, a man must have some of the divine afflatus mixed with a good deal of piety in order to be a success as a hymnologist. He lives in a fine residence on Mount Auburn and some time ago he had a falling out with John Mitchell—something about a boundary line. They got the matter in courts, when Mitchell said he'd fix him, so he erected a long row of three story bricks right adjoining. He said he was going to put up a hundred, but he only got as far as seventy.—[Cincinnati Inquirer.

Teddy's Interpretation.

The golden text for a certain Sunday school was: "And the child grew and waxed strong in spirit."—Luke ii., 40. The Christian Register says: Little Ted's arm went up like a flash when the superintendent asked: "Can any of these bright, smiling little boys or girls repeat the golden text for to-day? Ah! how glad it makes my heart to see so many little hands go up! Teddy, my boy, you may repeat it; and speak good and loud that all may hear." And they all heard this: "And the child grew and waxed strong in spirit like 2:40."

FOR FARM AND GARDEN.

Care of Young Chickens.

All young chicks are tender, and especially liable to be chilled by running in wet grass. There is little difference in this respect, though some kinds get in full feather earlier than others, after which time they are less liable to be injured. There is, however, much difference in the liability of different breeds to be draggled around in the wet by their mothers. The kinds that are good foragers are for that very reason poor mothers. They are too enterprising, getting up and running around early in the morning for food, while the heavier Asiatic breeds will sit and brood their young until the dew has dried off. The tenderness of young turkey chicks is mainly due to the propensity of the turkey hen to forage early in the morning. They need to be kept shut up until nine or ten o'clock, and be fed once or twice before being let out. When turkeys become as large as quails they can run anywhere, and with their mother will thrive better than with a common hen, as she will travel farther.—[Cultivator.

Grafting.

A correspondent of the New York World communicates to that journal his mode of grafting as follows: "I take two parts rosin, one part beeswax and one part tallow: melt all together until hot and stir well. Now take strips of good muslin, say three quarters of an inch wide by six inches long, and then dip them in, then remove, letting them drip off. When the grafts are inserted I take one of these strips and wrap the stock up tight. This makes the parts joined fit closer than any other way. One spring a part of my grafts I bound with strips and on a part only used the wax. Those wrapped with strips all grew, the others about one-half grew also. Some of the former grew eight feet the first season, the waxed ones without the strings not making over that growth. The whole top of a small tree may be cut off. Then put one graft in the stub (as I have done with some 10 trees and not lost one), then wrap up very tight with waxed strip, and my word for it you will never graft in any other way when you see how your grafts grow."

Propagating by Layers.

A layer is only a cutting that is allowed to remain attached to the parent plant until it has produced roots through which it may collect sustenance for self-support. Various methods are employed to produce this result, such as ringing, girdling, twisting, tonguing, or partly dividing that portion of the stem or branch on which it is desired that roots shall be formed. All these distortions of the stem or branches of the plant layered are for one object, that is, to check the downward flow of sap. Roots then became necessary for supplying sustenance to the cutting, or layer, and are consequently formed. The most common method of preparing layers is that of making a tongue on the under side of the branch. The operation is performed thus: Make an incision in the branch or part of the plant to be layered, just below a bud, cutting through the bark and into the branch to the depth of one-quarter to one-half its diameter; then pass the knife upward for an inch or more, according to the size and nature of the plant being layered, splitting the branch lengthwise, forming the tongue. The branch is then bent down and fastened in place by means of a hooked peg, and the end tied up to a stake. That part on which the incision is made is covered with soil or other material that will exclude it from light and air, while at the same time keeping it moist, thus aiding the development of roots. In making layers of certain kinds of small herbaceous plants and slender vines, it will not be necessary to use pegs or stakes to hold the layer in place; but with larger plants they are usually needed for keeping the layered branch steady and in one position while the new roots are being emitted.—[American Agriculturist.

Fence Posts.

An experimental writer on this subject very rationally remarks: "To have a fence that will last we must have good posts, for that is the part that gives out first by rotting off at the surface of the soil. Then the fence has to come down, new posts set, and the boards replaced. Sixteen years ago I experimented with my fences, and find seasoned oak posts, oiled, and then tarred with boiling coal tar, makes them last the longest. I took green posts that were sawed five inches square at one end and 2 by 5 inches at the other, and seven feet long. I tarred half as many as would build my fence, and the other half I put in the ground green, with nothing done to them. In five years after the tarred posts were nothing but a shell under ground, all of the inside being decayed. Some of the other posts were rotted off, and some were about half rotten.

"Two years after I built another fence with seasoned oak posts, same size as the first, giving them all a good coat of oil, and in a few days after tarred them, as I did before, with coal tar, heated in a can made for the purpose, four feet deep and large enough to hold four posts set on end. I left them in the boiling tar for about ten minutes, then took them out and sanded them; and now, after fourteen years, not one in the ten needs replacing. I shall never build a fence for myself requiring posts without first thoroughly seasoning, then oiling, and then tarring them. If they are tarred when green the tar does not penetrate the wood, and in a short time will all scale off. When the wood is seasoned the oil penetrates the wood and the coating of coal tar keeps out the moisture, thereby preserving the wood from decay.

Shall We Wash Our Sheep?

To determine just the shape in which we shall sell any product we should know, says the Farm and Fireside, the views and wishes of the dealers and the manufacturers. Sometimes our own convenience may be consulted. For instance, there is some cheat in our wheat—can we afford to take less for it per bushel or be at the expense and pains of cleaning it perfectly? There may be burrs in our fleeces—can we better afford to sell it as burry wool than to pick those burrs out by hand? The question of washing has several sides to it besides the condition of the wool. No careful handler of pure-blooded sheep would for a moment hesitate to answer no to the question. No reasonable man would consent to wash thinskin sheep in cold spring water. The washing of sheep in muddy water cannot be recommended nor in cold spring water on sanitary conditions. There was a time when fleece-sold higher if washed. Growers of course tried to do as required, especially when well paid to do so. In one instance a flock of several hundred were put through a pool of shallow water which had a sandy bottom. The results can be readily imagined. The buyer stood by the shearing table and saw that the shearers had to stop every two or three minutes to whet their shears on account of the sand in the wool. The buyer knew no better, but he assured the manufacturer was the loser. The wants of the manufacturer are what we need to know and consider. They do not object to the dirt—shrinkage—in the wool if they can determine just what per cent. that amounts to. The wool-grower can ask nothing fairer, and when the grower sells direct to the manufacturer nothing can be easier than to ascertain exactly the shrinkage, if both parties are honest and wishing to be fair in the matter. It was once considered honest enough to stuff fleeces with anything that would weigh, provided the trick was not detected. But all tricks are mean, and dishonesty will not pay in the long run. Men nowadays have to look to their self-respect in all transactions.

A Horseman's Hints.

Mr. H. H. Hill, Poultney, Vt., who has sold fifty horses of his own breeding and training, offers good advice in an address reported by The New England Farmer, from which we excerpt as follows:

"As good, plucky horses cannot be raised on a low, level, soft country like the prairies as in the bracing air of higher lands. The Western horse has less muscle and less ambition, and gets too much corn for his best development. The stable should be so warm that the colts will not have to eat too much hay to keep up the animal heat. Too much hay is what causes heaves in horses of all ages. Box stables give some opportunity for exercise, which is highly important. Earth floors are needed to keep the feet moist and the legs sound. Plank floors for colts cause dry, shrunken feet, and such feet ruin the horse. Earth floors should be covered with a few inches of bedding, which should be removed once or twice a week, and some of the earth should be removed and replaced by fresh as often as necessary for comfort and health. Ventilation should allow bad air to roll out at the bottom of the stalls. Educating is a better word than 'breaking.' Horses must like their owner or their master to be safe and serviceable. Horses are much like their drivers; cool, careful men have cool, safe horses.

"Nervous men who are quick-motioned and speak hastily and without consideration have horses that are without courage to face supposed danger. No horse is balky by nature, though some are made balky more easily than others. The old-time method of scaring and cruelly torturing the colt when breaking him to harness was all wrong. Colts should be treated kindly and humanely at all times. No man with an ungovernable temper is fit to handle colts. His children caress them as they pass their stalls, and all are on terms of familiarity and good feeling. Firmness, however, is necessary to beget confidence. Ripley's method of 'biting' was commended. Colts should be educated chiefly in the biting harness, but not long at a time, nor in a cruel manner. The aim is to teach them to carry the head naturally, and to answer to the reins freely and perfectly. Harness with a steady old horse first, to teach the ways of the world. Young well-trained horses are much more easily matched than many suppose; they adapt themselves to each other by a few months' work together."

The Gypsies.

The gypsies are supposed to be descendants of the low-caste Hindoos, expelled by Timour about 1399. They appeared in Germany and Italy early in the fifteenth century and in Paris in 1427. They had become so numerous in England in the sixteenth century that an act was passed against their itinerancy, and such was the prejudice against them during the reign of Charles I. that thirteen persons were executed at one assizes for having associated with gypsies for about a month. Many communities of them still exists in Great Britain, and the names of those in this country show them to have come of the English branch of this nomadic people. The original gypsies in America came over from England during the Revolution, having been impressed into the army of King George for service against the colonists. Many who came over in this way remained after the conclusion of the war, and were the pioneers of their people here.—[Cultivator.

Smoke and the Weather.

How often we hear

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.
W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY.
AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XX. PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, JULY 23, 1887. No. 29.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union as it is; its limitations as in its authorities."—MADISON.

Rates of Advertising

Space	1 Week	2 Weeks	3 Weeks	1 Month
1 in.	$1.00	$1.50	$2.00	$3.00
2 in.	1.50	2.00	2.50	4.00
3 in.	2.00	2.50	3.00	5.00
4 in.	2.50	3.00	3.50	6.00
5 in.	3.00	3.50	4.00	7.00
6 in.	3.50	4.00	4.50	8.00
7 in.	4.00	4.50	5.00	9.00
8 in.	4.50	5.00	5.50	10.00
9 in.	5.00	5.50	6.00	11.00
10 in.	5.50	6.00	6.50	12.00
11 in.	6.00	6.50	7.00	13.00
12 in.	6.50	7.00	7.50	14.00

All Notices must be sold metal.
"Lists of Everything" column, 5 cts. per line.
Double cols. 30 per ct. advance of above rates.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

C. L. JENKINS, M. D.,
Homeopathist,
Office and residence, 20 East Front Street, near Park, Plainfield, N. J. Office hours—7 to 9 a. m., 1 to 2 p. m., 7 to 9 p. m. apr 10-87.

JACKSON & CODINGTON,
Counsellors-at-Law,
Commissioners of deeds, Masters-in-Chancery, Notaries Public, Offices, corner of Park avenue and Second street.—jy23

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer,
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 108, Dunellen, N. J., or address 10 Park Place, Plainfield, N. J. All communications promptly attended to.—jy23

OSCAR R. TEALE,
Architect,
247 Broadway, New York city, Rooms 52 and 53. (Importers' and Traders' Exchange Building.) Residence, Plainfield, N. J.—jy23

WM. K. MCCLURE,
Attorney-at-Law,
MASTER IN CHANCERY, NOTARY PUBLIC.
Commissioner of Deeds. Office, North avenue opposite depot.—jy23

J. H. FENSTER,
Veterinary Surgeon.
Office in Thos. Smith's Livery Stable, near Main street and No. 1 Union avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Day and night calls promptly attended to. Telephone call No. 16. Consultation on diseases of all domesticated animals, at residence, 75 East Fifth street.—jy23

DR. GEORGE GILBERT,
Veterinary Surgeon.
Removed to second house from the First Presbyterian church, opposite Liberty.—jy23

ARTHUR P. MILLER,
Attorney-at-Law,
(Successor to W. M. Symmes), Solicitor in Chancery, Notary Public. Will buy and sell real estate on commission, and attend to all business connected therewith. Office, Corner First National Bank.—jy23

F. A. DUNBAR,
Civil Engineer and Surveyor,
No. 7 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Particular attention given to the adjustment of disputed boundaries. Parties sent to all parts of the country.—jy23

DR. J. F. GRIFFEN,
Electric Baths.
Dr. Griffen treats all forms of nervous affections, Uterine complaints, Skin diseases, Asthma, Catarrh, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia and Chronic Diseases generally, by Electricity and Electric Baths. Consultation free. Office hours, 9 to 12 a. m., 2 to 5 p. m. 2 East Second street, corner Washington.—apr16

BUSINESS CARDS.

TO THE PUBLIC !

We wish to inform our customers and the public generally that we have on hand the best quality of

LEHIGH COAL,

Fresh from the Mines.

It is under cover and vast protected from the weather. We are prepared to deliver it well screened and in good order promptly. We are also prepared to supply Factories, Public Buildings and Masons' Materials at short notice.

A.D. COOK & BRO.

Depot

J. Hervey Doane,

9 PARK AVENUE.

(Formerly Clark's.)

Watches,
Clocks
And Jewelry.

Repairing neatly and promptly done.

WM. H. SHOTWELL,

DEALER IN GROCERIES. PROVISIONS, VEGETABLES. DRIED FRUIT, ETC.

CORNER EMILY AND DUER STREETS

North Plainfield, New Jersey.

Celebrated Pillsbury Flour,
THE BEST IN THE MARKET.

ORDERS CALLED FOR AND DELIVERED. Thankful for past patronage I solicit a continuance respectfully.

WILLIAM H. SHOTWELL.

BOSTON CLOTHING HOUSE

12 W. FRONT ST.

Reliable Goods at Low Prices.

Order Department

Under the well-known Cutter,

NEWTON P. DRAKE.

Correct Styles. Right Prices

Geo. A. Moore,

(Of the late firm of Moore Bros.)

Is now the sole proprietor of the old established market at

NO. 14 NORTH AVENUE.

Where he will continue to supply patrons with the finest grades of Fresh and Salt Meats, Fish of all kinds, Oysters, Clams, Game in season at the lowest prices. Anything not usually kept in stock furnished at short notice.

Edward Ramonetti,

OYSTER AND ICE CREAM SALOON.

OYSTERS BY THE QUART, 100 OR 1000.

CHARLOTTE RUSSE MADE TO ORDER.

All Orders Promptly Attended to.

24 NORTH AVENUE,

Plainfield, New Jersey. Telephone Call No. 28

HOTELS AND SALOONS.

Force's Hotel !

NORTH AVENUE

Near R. R. Depot, Plainfield, New Jersey.

JAMES H. FORCE, - - Proprietor.

A FIRST-CLASS FAMILY HOTEL.

Transient guests taken at reasonable rates.

Bottled Liquors a Specialty.

Laing's Hotel !

PLAINFIELD, N. J.

J. B. MILLER & BRO., - Proprietors.

A FIRST-CLASS FAMILY RESORT.

James Conneely

Wishes to inform the public generally that he has established a

WINE and LIQUOR ROOM,

AT NO. 39 PARK AVE.,

Where he will be pleased to furnish his friends and customers with choicebrand of domestic and imported Liquors.

TURF EXCHANGE HOTEL.

75 Courtlandt street,

CORNER WASHINGTON, NEW YORK CITY

FRED. W. BALLARD, - - Proprietor.

(Formerly of Jersey City). Is now conducting the TURF EXCHANGE HOTEL, 75 Courtlandt street, New York, formerly kept by the late James Van Ness. The house has been refitted throughout with the most modern improvements.

PURE WINES, LIQUORS AND SEGARS. jy10ly

SOMERSET HOTEL,

Cor. Somerset & Emily Sts., North Plainfield, N. J.

Permanent and Transient Board, at fairrates.

First-class Rooms and Meals attached.

Meals at all reasonable hours. 3jan87

C. E. JOHNSON,

"I'm late from el Shepherd, Johnson & Godman,

CARPENTER AND BUILDER.

Office adjoining City Hotel on Second street, where plans, drawings and estimates will be furnished. Residence, 13 East Second street. Jobbing especially solicited.—jy23

T. J. GILLIES,

Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.

SALESROOM—Market Avenue, near Front St. Plainfield, N. J.

Goods received on consignment.

MRS. E. J. MARTIN'S

MAGIC RENOVATING FLUID.

For removing grease from any kind of goods, also, for cleaning kid gloves, crape, lace, veils, &c., so nothing but gloves, crape, lace, veils, &c., so nothing but gloves, crape, lace, veils, &c., so nothing but

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE, A. L. FORCE,
Editors and Proprietors.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

Replying to the question—"Who is your choice for President in 1888?"—a leading agricultural citizen of Tennessee the other day promptly made answer—Grover Cleveland, because he is honest and upright, and knows his duty, and is not afraid to perform it."

That truthfully expressed character of President Cleveland reveals the cause of his solid popularity with the masses of the people.

Corrupt lobbyists and spoils politicians are not in favor of President Cleveland, but the voting sovereigns of the country are, and why?

Because he's honest and upright.

Because he has the manhood to do what he thinks right.

A glorious and just reputation.

That is exactly the kind of public official the people of the United States have learned to value and respect, and for whom the independent vote, every year growing wider and stronger, will be enthusiastically cast.

HONESTY is rapidly becoming the battle cry of the honest people, regardless of partisanship, in worthy contests.

By that sign can Good Government alone conquer.

THE FLAG.

There is one flag in this broad Union of States about which no controversy whatever exists among citizens of the American Republic, be they high or low, white skinned or colored.

That flag is as beautiful as the rainbow hues of Heaven, as brilliant as the cloudless dome of night.

It represents victorious many and great, both on land and sea.

But it also heralds the grand triumphs of peace.

It proclaims to all the world the blessings of civil and religious liberty, and the success of free representative government.

It is the guarantee of national greatness, as from Maine to Texas, and from ice-crowned Alaska to flower-decked Florida, it floats in majestic authority over a united and happy country.

It is the star-spangled banner.

The flag of flags.

The pride of the past and the hope of the future.

Rally round it!

CLADSTONE.

The Tories of England do not relish the formal and influential congratulations sent by citizens of the United States to Mr. Gladstone.

All right, Messrs. Tories!

The Americans, as in their duty, thank Mr. Gladstone for endeavoring to secure to Ireland the right of local self-government, which right your tyranny did ancestors, the Lord North's of King George's day, strove to withhold from America.

Like it or not, the people of these United States, with the exception of an insignificant minority, are on the side of Gladstone and Home Rule for Ireland, and what is more, they boldly declare where they stand.

We, as a people, would be ungrateful, if we did not cheer on the advocates of free government in Ireland and everywhere else under the sun.

Freedom forever!

DEMOCRATIC EDITORS IN SESSION.

The second annual meeting of the Democratic Editorial Association of New Jersey, convened at the Cahill House, Asbury Park, yesterday. Among other business transacted was the election of the following officers:

President—Col. H. C. Page, at the Herald, of Bayonne City. Vice-Presidents (one for each Congressional District—First, Alexander Schlesinger, of the Gazette, Camden; Second, John Reisel, of the Enquirer, of Trenton; Third, William L. Force, of the Constitutionalist, of Plainfield; Fourth, John L. Jones, of the Democrat-Advertiser, of Flemington; Fifth, Harry D. Winton, of the Democrat, of Englewood; Sixth, Wm. C. Hutchinson, of the Evening Journal, of Newark; Seventh, Charles S. Clark, of the Argus, of Jersey City. Treasurer—L. L. Snar, of the True American, of Trenton. Secretary—St. George Kempson, of the Democrat, of Perth Amboy.

Resolutions were adopted endorsing the administrations of President Cleveland and Governor Green.

The New Jersey State Dental Society opened its seventeenth annual session at the Coleman House, Asbury Park, Wednesday.

The loss by fires in the United States during June amounted to $10,182,100. This exceeds the average for the seven months in past years by nearly $4,000,000. At this rate, the nation will loose absolutely a sum equal to the national debt within a dozen years. The "fire-loss" is a source of frightful and needless waste. It would pay to enforce stringent regulations as to the erection of buildings, as that they would not be mere tinderboxes.

The Republicans of the County do not appear to be harmonious in their relation to the nominations for candidates to be supported at the approaching Fall election. There are two or three different "combines" at work. The principal one appears, "to a person up a tree," to be Elias B. Pope, of Plainfield, for Senator; Samuel Oliver, of Railway, for County Clerk; Fred. P. Gladge, of Elizabeth, for Sheriff, and Geo. T. Parrot, of Elizabeth, for Surrogate. Then there are other combinations and individuals who are willing to place themselves "in the hands of their friends." For instance, Hon. Wm. Chamberlain has been named by different ones in connection with Senator, County Clerk and Surrogate; ex-Sheriff Ayman Sheldon for one of the principal offices; Sheriff Stiles for Senator and County Clerk; Assemblyman Cortis for Senator; Street Commissioner Mateen, of Elizabeth, and D. J. Bunn, of this city, for Sheriff—and the returns have only commenced to come in.—Rahway Dem.

A Farmer Robbed

A farmer, whose name we are unable to learn and who occupies what is known as the Sandford farm on the Greenbrook road in the North-west of Dunellen was robbed by his hired man Friday morning. The farmer drove his family to the depot this morning, where they took passage on the N. E. Saturday excursion train for Asbury Park, leaving the hired man at home to look after the place. When he returned from the station, he discovered that the man was missing and that almost all about the house was in general disorder. An investigation was immediately instituted, and among other things that were missed was the hired man's wages—$30 in cash. Search was also made for the thief but he was nowhere to be found. The farmer drove rapidly to Dunellen but was not able to discover any trace of the man there. He next came to Plainfield and sought the service of Chief Dodd, who has been keeping a sharp watch for the robber, but as yet has failed to locate him. The farmer said that he engaged the man from an intelligence office in New York about a week ago, and that since then he had worked indifferently up to this morning, when he suddenly took his departure.

His Foot Cut Off by the Cars.

Charles Schwier, aged fourteen years, and a brother-in-law of Charles Arnold, a butcher doing business on Liberty street, had his left foot cut off by the cars at Madison avenue bridge about half-past eleven o'clock Friday. Engine No. 139, in command of conductor Wharf, was backing down the last local coal train was passing at the time when the boy, who was running alongside the train, stumbled and fell, the wheels of the rear car passing over his left leg, lengthwise. None of the crew on the coal train saw the boy fall, but soon after the accident occurred he was discovered lying between the tracks. A stretcher was procured and the wounded boy was taken to the freight house. He remained conscious all of the time and exhibited his experience to those around him. Some people are inclined to believe that the boy attempted to catch on the train, but he says he was only running along the track at the time when he stumbled and fell as above stated. The foot was terribly mangled, so that amputation will probably have to be performed above the ankle joint. The boy evidently experienced but little pain, as he lay quietly on the stretcher at the freight house. The shoe was torn from his foot and the heel smashed. Absent noon the injured boy was taken to Mr. Arnold's residence on Liberty street where a physician dressed the wounds.

The Netherwood Lawn Party.

The Garden Party at Netherwood, Friday evening, was not only the most successful affair of its kind in many particulars, but the most novel in many of its features. The profits of this affair will reach about one hundred and fifty dollars, and be quite an assistance towards the purchase of a new organ in place of the vocalion now in use at the Netherwood Church. Generally the result of events of the kind is the presence of less guests than looked-for causes, but upon this occasion the large attendance was drawn from this city and the Hotel outnumbered even the many ladies who were in the active service of the affair. So successful was the affair in every respect socially and financially, another is to be given within a fortnight. The ladies who served the ice cream and cake, in the pretty booth under the star studded canopy of Heaven, were Miss Ella and Miss Mary Haines, Miss Schmidt, Miss White, Mrs. Pullen, Mrs. Holly, Mrs. Brewster and Mrs. Haines. Miss Anthony, in charming cap and diamond necklace, was the seller of perfume as sweet; Mrs. W. L. Brown ladled out the delectable punch that, unlike others not yet inebriates; the Misses Griswold presided over the candy tower and the lemonade well; and Miss Morris read from a Punch and Judy show indoors, that added greatly to the net results. One novel source of entertainment was that of fortunetelling, at which game of talent and mental arithmetic the Marquis Michael Carachie, Herbert Bowen, Esq., and Mr. Hotchkiss, Consul of the Italian Consul General, all took the cake.

Reception to Dr. Ketcham.

One of the most delightful receptions that has occurred for a long time in Metuchen, took place last Friday in the parlors of the First Presbyterian church, when the congregation of that church welcomed their pastor and his daughter home from their foreign tour. Not only were all the leading members of the church present, but we noticed also that Rev. Dr. Bowen, Rev. Mr. Kirkpatrick, Rev. Mr. Honeyman, Rev. Mr. Rodman, Rev. Mr. Goodrich, Rev. Mr. Scheuck and Rev. Mr. Lowrie were among those who gave Dr. Ketcham a warm welcome, and rejoiced at his safe return. Shortly after eight o'clock Mr. St. John read an address of welcome on behalf of the congregation, assuring the Doctor that while they were glad that he went away, they were also very glad that he had returned, and in an evidence of their regard for him, he wished to state that the people had obeyed strictly his parting injunction and refrained from holding any meeting and Sabbath services. Mr. Henry Opdyke then made an address on behalf of the Elders and Sabbath school. In feeling and choice language he spoke of their deep regard for him, and of their joy at his return. He alluded, touchingly, to the late colloquium service, when they felt that they were not blessed in the way they present in spirit, as they broke the bread and poured forth the wine.

Mr. Manning, Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., followed with an address on behalf of the Society of Christian Endeavor, and said that words could not express their feelings, nor could they in a formal manner tell how grateful they were to God for bringing him and his back to them again.

Dr. Ketcham in response said that the best part of his trip was the getting home, for that revealed the deep regard of valued friends. After all there was nothing so great on earth as home affection, and nothing so precious as human love. He had greatly enjoyed his trip, and been greatly favored, for Providence had been very kind to him. The weather had been perfect, and he had seen Naples and Vesuvius, and Sorrento and Switzerland in all their glory, but more delightful than all that he had seen was the evidence of affection manifested since his arrival by his people and by his friends. He desired to thank them sincerely for what they had done, and also for this reception, and he desired to thank his brethren in the ministry for their kindness. Their sermons had, without exception, been excellent, and he doubted not, profitable, and he was deeply grateful for their aid.

Dr. Ketcham's speech was loudly applauded, after which Mr. Geo. Kempson gave a violin solo to the great delight of the audience. Miss Gavett acted as accompanist on the piano. Refreshments in another sote by the youthful violinist. Solos were also given by Miss Smalley, Miss Ketcham, and Mr. Elmer Runyon, which were highly appreciated by all present.

Dr. Ketcham seems to be in perfect health and in excellent spirits, while his daughter, Miss Beulah is as bright and cheerful as ever. The congratulations they received were enough to fill them with joy, and bind them to their Plainfield friends with bands of iron.

—The Y. M. C. A. ball nine of Plainfield is to be one of the strongest teams in the Y. M. C. A. league.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

John Hammond Has a Miraculous Escape from Instant Death—The Shoes Torn From His Feet and His Body Scorched.

What is considered a miraculous escape from instant death occurred to John Hammond a gardener employed by Mr. D. D. Shepard at South Plainfield one day evening. The man has been employed by Mr. Shepard to work about his spacious grounds for the past fifteen years. He resides with his children on East Second street, near the gravel pits, and walks to and from his work every morning and evening. About half-past six o'clock on Saturday evening Mr. Hammond was walking along East Front street on his way home. He noticed a shower approaching from the Northwest and as a willow tree standing in a field, a short distance from the road way. He had reached there but a short time when a bolt of lightning split the tree, felling him to the ground, unconscious. When he regained his senses, nearly an hour afterward, he was unable to get on his feet or limbs and could not speak above a whisper. He tried to signal some persons who were passing but was unable to attract their attention. Presently two little man girls passed and he succeeded in bringing them to his side. The girls could not understand what he meant by motioning, but finally ran and informed a milkman named Gordon, who hastened to the spot and found the prostrate man lying under the tree wet and bleeding from his wounds. The shoe on the right foot was completely torn from the foot, while the other one was badly torn and burned. Both legs were swollen to enormous proportions and the left arm and shoulder were terribly burned. Blood flowed profusely from the left ear, and the left cheek was swollen and discolored. Mr. Gordon procured a wagon, and with assistance brought the injured man to his home on East Second street. Doctors Fudge and Tomlinson were summoned and did all in their power to alleviate the man's sufferings. A Press reporter who called at the house this morning, found Mr. Hammond very weak and confined to his bed. He said that at the time he was struck, he was carrying a dinner pail, but does not remember what became of it until he noticed some people passing along the road. He also says that the wounds about the head are the most pain ful and that both of his legs and arms are badly singed. The shoe on the right foot was literally torn off and on the bottom of the foot the flesh is severely burned. Mr. Hammond said the report that he had never before been afraid of lightning, but the shower last evening made him very timid and caused him much pain. To-day he is much improved, but his thrilling experience in Saturday's storm will probably result in his confinement to the house for some time. The man, although nervous, related his story in a straightforward manner, and is himself cognizant of the fact that his escape from death was most wonderful. He is a Christian and is to be pitied. Recently he lost his wife and several children all within a period of about eighteen months. He is, however, fortunate to have been in the employ of so kind and generous a family as that of Mr. Shepard, who will see that he is made as comfortable as possible.

Death of a Well-Known Resident.

About midnight of the 14th, the death of William L. Jones occurred at his residence at Park avenue and Seventh street. Since our notice of his very critical condition a week ago, the unfortunate gentleman lay helpless, stricken down with paralysis, while his life steadily ebbed away. He was seventy-two years of age, and a native of Wales. He came to this country by way of Canada when about eighteen, and shortly after came to reside permanently in the State of New Jersey. He married a Miss Davenport of Pinckney, who survives him. He accumulated much wealth after many years as a New York crockery merchant, and upon retiring from business about twenty-two years ago, took up his residence in this city. He first boarded with Mrs. Richard Cook, where that lady still resides on West Fourth street, while awaiting the completion of the handsome residence where he now lies dead. He was most public spirited in his ways, and probably did more in the beginning than any other person towards making this thriving town in which he lived one of the choicest. One daughter lived to reach maturity, and during the late war her husband, Col. Harvey Kinney, of the Cavalry, was shot at the head of his troops. She afterward married Mr. Fred. Barnard, Chief Engineer of Maintenance of Way, of the lines of the Pennsylvania R. R. Co. The deceased was the uncle of G. W. Smalley, the celebrated London correspondent of the New York Tribune, whose wife is the daughter of the Hon. Wendell Phillips. Mrs. Jones survives her husband, as does his daughter Mrs. Barnard, and her children—the oldest a son of the late Col. Janeway. The remains were deposited in the receiving vault at Hillside Cemetery, Monday morning.

A Pleasant Picnic Party.

The dam across the Raritan river, at the Five Mile Lock, just below Bonhamtown Brook, is a favorite resort for anglers. Besides the success generally accorded fishermen who "cast their lines" in the flowing waters beneath the dam, the place has become prominent of late years, by reason of picnic parties and families visiting the locality to enjoy a day's outing where cool breezes, shady spots and good fishing are obtainable. The cleanliness and perfectness of the locality, is mainly due to the fact that the New Jersey Game and Fish Protective Society, who hold the lease of the shore property, have kept all former nuisances away from the premises, and kept a watchful eye over the property, so that no nuisance is allowed. The public are cordially invited to the grounds, no restriction being placed on the use or occupancy. Recently a pleasant picnic party visited the locality, consisting in part of Mr. George Thatcher and daughter of Bridgewater, wife, his niece and nephew, Mr. George and Nellie Wheeler, of Baltimore, Md., Mr. Alex. Robinson, (George's former friend also of Baltimore, Md.) and Mrs. Wm. J. Bogart, of Westfield, and friends from this city. The ladies furnished the lunch, the gentlemen the fish, and both proved a success in point of excellence and number. "Alex." returned home proud with the knowledge that he had captured, all alone by himself, the largest black bass caught during the day. His mode of landing the gamey fish differs somewhat from the regular style, inasmuch as he passes from "My Maryland," where the angler "yanks" the fish out of its native element by a tremendous surge. Rod and line have to be made expressly for such purposes, however, we think, if Alex. visits this section another season, he will know more about how to land fish than he does of heavy weight than he now does. George is as careful about how he lands his bass as he is about giving a good talented entertainment. He uses scientific judgment. That is, he says so, but "Alex." disagrees with him. "All the same," the party all round had a pleasant time, and returned each home with a bass of fine, full, burned faces and satisfied consciences. They all say—"let's go again."

A Proposed New Club.

Since the existence of Union Club—that far from too social organization of Plainfield gentlemen—expired by limitation of its pleasures and profits, so many rumored of the rising of another club from the ashes of the past, have reached us. As was stated three months ago in the columns of The Constitutionalist, a club is to be formed by a number of the more liberal members of the late Union, but nothing in that direction save a casual consideration of the matter, as mentioned in Pall. There has been some talk of a purchase of "The Crescent" by a stock company of wealthy citizens, and its alteration to serve every purpose desired of a club —including a small hall for the club's own entertainments or for rental, a gymnasium, swimming baths, etc. Such a project is still under deliberation. Then again, about a dozen old members of the Union, stand ready to subscribe $1,000 each towards a fund for the purchase of the Washington Rock property and the establishment of a club house there, that will also be at the service of the general public.

The latest of all the schemes, however, that comes to our knowledge, is confessed to us in confidence by a prominent architect who has been consulted as to plans and cost of alterations. We are not at liberty to divulge his name, just now, nor the exact location of the property in view, but yet. The house is the one of those forming the new club, is a handsome and commodious one situated on Crescent avenue. The architect has gone over its interior as it now exists, and after such inspection has designed the following plan of re-arrangement and decoration that will result in the creation of one of the most convenient and elegant club houses in the State. The entrance hall is to be paved with the choicest minton tile, and from it will ascend a grand staircase of old English oak, lighted by an immense leaded stained-glass window. Opposite the lower landing of this staircase will be a capacious fire-place for log burning, furnished with hammered steel andirons and foot-rests in artistic designs. To the left of the entrance, the reception room—floored in marquetry, wainscoted with mahogany, and with rough-finished walls finished in neutral shades; the ceiling panelled and artistically treated, and the grate fire-place said to be an imported chimney piece. On the right of the entrance, a lounging and smoking room with library and reading room back of it, both richly furnished in the style of which will have polished oak floors strewn with Persian rugs, walls and ceilings frescoed, and open fire-places in harmony with the rooms, with mantels and mirrors. Back of the library, the restaurant light and airy, surrounded by windows arranged to overcome draught from any direction, and lighted also from stained glass. Opening into this dining-room is to be a conservatory filled with tropical and other rare plants, with a fountain in the centre, and arranged and heated that it will be used as a Winter garden. In an addition to the built is situated the billiard room lighted by day from the ceiling of stained glass. From this—the basement floor—is to be constructed the bowling alleys with the latest improved means for overcoming all sound of rolling balls and falling pins. On the same floor will be the Steward's office and private room, as well as his store rooms, servant's hall, scullery, etc. On the second floor will be the ladies' parlors to be arranged private dining rooms, card rooms, and two luxuriously furnished bedrooms, and the servant's quarters. The house is to be heated throughout with steam, and lighted by electricity. There will be lavatories on every floor. The grounds will be laid out for lawn, croquet etc., and surrounded by a heavy granite coping on which will be mounted an elaborate iron railing of an intricate and baronge pattern. Further improvements in the matter of the formation of any club of the sort, will, of course, be first known to the readers of THE PRESS.

The Palermos Sent to Jail.

Mrs. Palermo, her daughter and Mrs. Fillmore Bloss, three of the persons who were implicated in the brutal assault upon Mr. and Mrs. Embly Stewart, Miss Davis, a sister of Mr. Stewart and John Stewart, a son of the old couple in Stiger Alley on Friday night, were arraigned before Justice Wadsworth at the station house Tuesday afternoon. Two sets of warrants were issued for the arrest of the entire party of Palermos, but through a mutual agreement on the part of the two Justices who issued the warrants, Judge Wadsworth presided at the examination, and he was assisted by Justice Nash. The station house was crowded with people who were desirous of ascertaining what disposition would be made of the several complaints. All of the injured persons, including Embly Stewart, whose wounds were considered the most dangerous, were driven to the station house in carriages about four o'clock and given seats in the court room. Mr. W. R. Codlington of the firm of Jackson and Codlington appeared for the defendants, and when the case was called he said the defence was ready to proceed with the examination. The first prisoner called to the bar was Mrs. Fillmore Bloss the wife of an Italian shoe maker of North avenue. The Judge read three separate complaints against her, the first by John H. Stewart, the second by Embly Stewart and the third by Harriett Stewart his wife, each charging her with assault and battery, by striking the complainant with a broomstick on the head and face. Mr. Codlington on behalf of the prisoner, who could not understand English, entered a plea of "not guilty."

John H. Stewart was the first witness sworn. He related the story of his driving in the lane and tying his horse in front of his father's residence, which was told in these columns. He said that Palermo first struck him without provocation and that the prisoner at the bar followed up the assault. He was interrupted by the defendant who said "me no fighter." "Shut up," said her husband, and Stewart continued: All of the prisoners and Palermo were present and engaged in the clubbing. He said that his father, mother, his aunt and Mary Verbeck could all testify to that fact.

Embly Stewart next took the stand. His head was completely covered with bandages, and he appeared weak from loss of blood, and somewhat excited. He was allowed to remain sitting while giving in his testimony. The witness had brought with him one of the bed slats, which he said was broken over his head, and also another one that was used in the combat, but which remained intact. The weapon measured about six feet in length, by four inches in width and one inch thick. He related his experience in the fracas, and said he saw the shoemaker's wife strike his son. He said that if it had not been for his wife the Italians would have killed his son, John. "All of them had sticks," said he, "and it was just like Cuba and Maryland." The witness said that Mrs. Stewart rushed out and grabbed her son, telling him to run for his life; he had never spoken to the prisoner but had frequently seen her at the Palermos.

Harriet Stewart was the next witness sworn. She also saw the woman strike her son John with a broomstick. "It was same slat; she got between her son and the infuriated Italians and received a terrible beating. Her testimony in effect corroborated that of the other witnesses.

Mary Vermeule was called, but she failed to respond, and Catherine Davis took the stand. She testified to having seen Palermo strike the first blow, and to John's falling from the wagon; she was too much frightened to definitely note the proceedings which followed, although she, too, came in for her share of the beating. In answer to a question she said, "I would not tell a lie to save all the Italians." Margaretta, the eleven-year-old daughter of the Palermos, acted as interpreter for Mrs. Bloss. The Judge asked her if she knew the consequence of telling a falsehood, when the youthful interpreter answered, "to be hung up." She was sworn, and from the principal's testimony the latter was 12 years old, married, and a native of Italy. Mrs. Bloss denied in toto that she assaulted the Stewarts, and in answer to the question as to whether she was all the time, said she was making whitewash in Mrs. Palermo's house. Judge Wadsworth said that as a consultation was necessary he had no right to put the defendant under oath, unless she so desired it. Neither was the prisoner obliged to answer any question that would tend to criminate her case, so any conduct on her part could be used against her when the case came up before the Grand Jury. The Court ruled that the defence could produce no witnesses in their behalf, whereupon Mr. Codlington asked for the discharge of the prisoner, as the only evidence out against was that offered by the witnesses for the prosecution. Judge Wadsworth explained his duties in the matter, and said that as there was a probable cause for holding the accused for the Grand Jury, and that the State had clearly proven its case, he would hold the prisoner in the sum of $200 bail. The amount of bail was forthcoming in addition to $100, and her husband deposited $65 cash for her appearance when wanted, which amount the Justice accepted. The husband of Mrs. Bloss was likewise freed from the court room for interfering with the proceedings.

The case of Mrs. Palermo was then taken up, and after the three witnesses had been read, implicating her in the outrage, the Stewarts were again called, individually, and each related what they had seen

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST, - City Editor.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE OF MAILS.

NEW YORK MAILS.
CLOSE—4.45 and 10.00 A. M.; 2.00 and 5.30 P. M.
ARRIVE—1.30 A. M.; 11.45 A. M.; 2.30 and 5.30 P. M.
WESTERN, EASTERN, &C., MAILS.
CLOSE—8.30 A. M. and 4.30 P. M.
ARRIVE—10.30 A. M. and 6.30 P. M.
SUNDAY MAILS.—ARRIVE at 8.30 A. M. Office open from 9.30 A. M. to 10.30 A. M. Mail closes at 7 P. M.

Mail for Hartington closes Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 12 M.

Post Office open at 7 A. M. and closes at 7.30 P. M. SATURDAY, 8.30 A. M. and 8.30 P. M. Open every evening until 9 P. M., to owners at box boxes.

Money order office open from 9 A. M., 10.5 P. M. Saturdays 10 A. M.

W. L. PARKS, Postmaster.

—The Democratic Editorial Association of New Jersey held its annual meeting at the Cahill House, Asbury Park, Monday, July 18th, at 8 p. m.

—There will be a ball with the M. E. excursion, Friday, and every one was as happy as the day was long. Those who went along, speak of it in particular as one of the best ordered of the kind.

—D. S. Berry has contracted with John Bodine for the erection of a first-class dwelling house on the lot adjoining Cashier Wilson's, Park avenue, near Craig Place. Work was commenced on Monday.

—Saturday was considered the hottest day of the season, at 10 o'clock in the morning the thermometer registered 80 degrees in the shade, and it was much warmer during the afternoon, running up to 90 degrees.

—All the excursions of this season to Ocean Grove are on Fridays with the exception of that under the management of Messrs. Laing and Nelson. Its date is fixed for Wednesday, August 17, with bathing hours all day.

—Kossuthing, the tonsorial artist of Park avenue, has made a new departure which could be appreciated by all interested. He announces that hereafter his place of business will be closed on Sunday at 12 o'clock m., and 10 o'clock p. m. Saturday nights.

—A fresh supply of letter sheets has just been received at the post office. So great has been the demand for this new postal favor, that it has been difficult to secure a sufficient supply from the Government. The public will now again find them on sale at the postoffice.

—The Street Department would be obliged to its creditors—those claims have been audited and ordered paid, as published in THE PRESS—if they would call at his office on North avenue, opposite the station, and get the checks that are already drawn in payment of the bills.

—William Traynor of North Plainfield was sent to the County Jail at Somerville, Friday afternoon, by Mayor Cosby, for sixty days. He was accused by his neighbors of being a habitual drunkard, of being drunk and disorderly the night before, and of ill treating his boy. Marshal Becker arrested him.

—A good story is told of a young lady who resides within a hundred miles of the fire alarm tower. When the fire bell sounded the alarm on the 12th, the young lady rose up and had quite a time before she uttered the word "chestnuts," falling back on the pillow, soon to return to sound dreamland.

—The Common Council of Morristown has just passed an ordinance providing for the trimming of shade trees, on the public highways, to a height of thirteen feet. But if it is no more effectively enforced than a Plainfield ordinance with the same provision, the expense of its adoption might better have been saved.

—The shed which was built from the foot John Hammond by lightning on Saturday evening, together with a piece of the iron pump handle, which was used in the deadly work of the Italian family in the heads of Mr. and Mrs. Embly Stewart, is Stiger's alley, on Monday, can be seen in the windows of THE PRESS office on North avenue.

—An excited man rushed into town on Saturday evening and told the police that a murder was being committed on the Bonhamtown road. They went to the place and found a regular old fashioned family "knocking-out" match in progress, such as is characteristic of that locality. One arrest was made and the offender was fined five dollars.

—Since Tom Evans exploded the false report causing the planet Venus to be taken for an electric light in the Wardell shop, all small knots of people cease to congregate on the street corners and discuss the possibility of illuminating the heavens by electricity. But the report that Henry Lindel's bakery on West Front street. A general alarm was sent out, and the fire department was soon on the spot and at work. The fire originated in the rear of the loft, and the building being of brick, consequently it was kept from spreading to the adjoining frame buildings adjoining. In the building were stabled two horses belonging to Mr. Liefke, and there were also three wagons, some harness, and a sleigh or two stored therein. The horses were led to a place of safety; but about ten buskels of corn and a half ton of hay were burned, and fourteen pigeons were suffocated. Mr. Liefke had a frame cottage in the rear of the store, and alone in the house at the time the fire broke out. About twenty minutes previous to that time he went out in the yard, but saw nothing unusual. He says that as the night was warm, the stable door had been left open, but the windows were all closed, and that he locked the front and rear door later in the evening. The interior of the second story was completely gutted of its contents, and the roof burned and partly burned so as to render them valueless. Mr. Liefke's loss is trivial, and there was no insurance on the articles burned. The building was owned by Mr. John H. French, President of the Reform Club. His loss will probably reach several hundred dollars, and is said to be covered by insurance.

The fire is another, the origin of which is attributed to an incendiary. Mrs. William H. Warner, who resides on the second floor above on West Front street, was sitting in her kitchen when the fire broke out. The barn stands but a few yards distant, and within twenty or thirty feet of Camelin engine house and the house of Zephyr hook and ladder company. Mrs. Warner says she heard footsteps in the neighborhood of the barn, and when looking out of the window, which commands a fine view of the surroundings, she discovered the form of a man disappear around the south corner of the structure, going directly in the yard in the rear of the engine and truck house. The man cried "fire," and Hammond Stevens, who saw a bright light in the hay mow, Mrs. Warner had her shoes off at the time, but says if her husband had been at home, he could have easily traced the criminal. The timely discovery of the fire probably averted a most disastrous conflagration, and but for the fact that the building was in close proximity to several frame dwelling houses. Fires of a similar nature are becoming an altogether too frequent occurrence, and the general impression is abroad that the "fire-bug" is none other than a resident here. It is said that since January last there had been more hayes burned in Plainfield than in all the rest of New Jersey in the same time. The fires by incendiary causes have averaged one a week for several months past, but the fact that the fire originated in the hay during attempt at incendiarism that has been perpetrated here for a long time.

—Such authentic information as we might secure, rather inclines us to believe there will be no parade of the Plainfield Fire Department, this Fall.

—Weather reports indicate that the Baptists will have a rainy day this Friday for their excursion to Long Branch and Asbury Park. Their trains go in two sections—one leaving at 7.00 and the second at 9.56 o'clock, a. m., returning, leave the Park at 6.30 p. m.

—Mr. J. C. Zimmerman of Grove street, North Plainfield, appeared before Justice of the Peace Squire Austin, Tuesday, to answer a charge of assault and battery entered against him by his coachman. After a hearing of the case, the Justice dismissed the complaint as without foundation.

—Search is still being made for the owner of the carriage that drove into a young lad on Park avenue, Monday afternoon, and rode over the front wheel of his bicycle. A polite invitation to pay for wheel's damages will be given, to be sent, probably, by stronger measures if amicable settlement is declined.

—Music may have charms to soothe some savages, but it anything but soothes the savage neighbors of the young man on Fifth street, who plays banjo on an accordeon all the week, and "Just as I am, without one plea" on Sundays. He'll die early if he continues to dilate on the instrument. The cats in the vicinity are all bald.

—The New York papers Thursday last said that Chief Dodd threatens to bring suit for criminal libel against Constable Smith, who charged him with having appropriated to his own use money he had collected from a peddler as license fee. In conversation with a Press representative the Chief said that the statement was made without his authority, and that no steps have been taken to that end.

—Mr. J. B. Conover of Dunellen, called on us Wednesday and denied the report that he or his family were in direct communication with Frank Conover, his son, whom the authorities say is the "Kid" the boy was familiarly known, has not been at home since June 1886, and that the last time he saw his son was in the vicinity of Washington Square, Philadelphia, on the Sunday following Thanksgiving Day in 1886. Mr. Conover says he feels very much grieved at the report in question, and gladly publish the denial at his own request.

Curiosities of Enterprise.

A piece of the iron pump-handle that was thrown over the heads of Mr. and Mrs. Embly Stewart by the Palermos, yesterday, is on exhibition in the office of this paper, and has attracted a great number of curious visitors. We have also the shoes that were torn off the feet of John Hammond as he was struck by lightning, on East Front street, Saturday evening. Mr. Hammond's story of his experience related exclusively in THE PRESS of Monday, is most interesting. All our readers are welcome to call in and see these trophies secured by the young men who write for THE PRESS.

A Child Severely Burned.

Frank Hall Sherwood, son of James Whitely, of North avenue, was playing with some matches Thursday afternoon, when his clothing took fire, and he was severely burned about the face and body. The child's cries attracted his mother's attention, who rushed to his rescue and succeeded in extinguishing the fire before clothes were, by this time, all in a blaze. Her clothing also caught fire, and she was considerably burned, though not seriously. Accordingly, Mr. Whitely went for a doctor, and he seized a bed-quilt, wrapping the same around his wife and child, and finally succeeded in extinguishing the fire. He was badly burned on the right wrist.

No Consolation for Us.

The contests for the consolation prizes offered as part of the awards of the second annual Lawn Tennis tournament, were played off Saturday afternoon, at 3.30 o'clock, on the Central avenue grounds, and resulted in the two ties not having been played with the final winner, a chance at one another. Those eligible in the doubles were not present, but as no Plainfield player was to be included in the "consolation sets" were unnecessary. The singles were between Messrs. Elliott and Smith of Elizabeth, and Wotherspoon of Plainfield—Glasscock the third player having been defeated each on the preceding Saturday. The result was:

Elliott beat Wotherspoon: 6-4, 6-4, 6-1.
Elliott beat Smith: 6-4, 6-3.

Sunday Night's Fire.

About 9o'clock Sunday evening fire was discovered in the two-story brick barn situated in the rear of the bakery of Henry Liefke on West Front street. A general alarm was sent out, and the fire department was soon on the spot and at work. The fire originated in the rear of the loft, and the building being of brick, consequently it was kept from spreading to the adjoining frame buildings adjoining. In the building were stabled two horses belonging to Mr. Liefke, and there were also three wagons, some harness, and a sleigh or two stored therein. The horses were led to a place of safety; but about ten bushels of corn and a half ton of hay were burned, and fourteen pigeons were suffocated. Mr. Liefke had a frame cottage in the rear of the store, and alone in the house at the time the fire broke out. About twenty minutes previous to that time he went out in the yard, but saw nothing unusual. He says that as the night was warm, the stable door had been left open, but the windows were all closed, and that he locked the front and rear door later in the evening. The interior of the second story was completely gutted of its contents, and the roof burned and partly burned so as to render them valueless. Mr. Liefke's loss is trivial, and there was no insurance on the articles burned. The building was owned by Mr. John H. French, President of the Reform Club. His loss will probably reach several hundred dollars, and is said to be covered by insurance.

The fire is another, the origin of which is attributed to an incendiary. Mrs. William H. Warner, who resides on the second floor above on West Front street, was sitting in her kitchen when the fire broke out. The barn stands but a few yards distant, and within twenty or thirty feet of Camelin engine house and the house of Zephyr hook and ladder company. Mrs. Warner says she heard footsteps in the neighborhood of the barn, and when looking out of the window, which commands a fine view of the surroundings, she discovered the form of a man disappear around the south corner of the structure, going directly in the yard in the rear of the engine and truck house. The man cried "fire," and Hammond Stevens, who saw a bright light in the hay mow, Mrs. Warner had her shoes off at the time, but says if her husband had been at home, he could have easily traced the criminal. The timely discovery of the fire probably averted a most disastrous conflagration, and but for the fact that the building was in close proximity to several frame dwelling houses. Fires of a similar nature are becoming an altogether too frequent occurrence, and the general impression is abroad that the "fire-bug" is none other than a resident here. It is said that since January last there had been more hayes burned in Plainfield than in all the rest of New Jersey in the same time. The fires by incendiary causes have averaged one a week for several months past, but the fact that the fire originated in the hay during attempt at incendiarism that has been perpetrated here for a long time.

Personals.

Dr. Chauncy Mitchell Field is in the city again for a few days.

Miss Kate Potter is enjoying a Summer visit with friends at Haverstraw, N. Y.

Mrs. A. C. Baldwin of Park and Crescent avenues, has gone to Schooley's Mountain.

Miss Florence Pellitreau of Brooklyn, N. Y., is a guest of Mrs. R. C. Dingee of East Fifth street.

Mrs. W. B. Shaw, of Marietta, Ohio, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. E. E. Taylor, of 20 Duer street.

Miss Georgie Chamberlin of Madison avenue, is sojourning at Chautauqua Lake, New York State.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Wright, child and nurse, have gone to Long Island Sound for a few days' rest.

Miss Alberti, the elocutionist, formerly residing in Plainfield, is a guest at the Grand Central Hotel, Asbury Park.

Mr. A. Swahn and family have gone to their cottage at Somerset, in New York State, to be absent until September.

Miss Sarah Stern, of Easton, Pa., is visiting Mrs. Schwed, at the latter's charming little house on East Sixth street.

Mr. Ernest Knaiffl of East Front street will lecture before the art class at the Chautauqua Assembly this Summer.

Mrs. J. H. Ackerman and family of Seventh street will spend the month of August in the Summer at Atlantic City.

Mr. George A. Hoadley of Seventh and Union streets, has so far recovered from his recent illness as to be able to go out.

Mrs. John Taylor Johnston and Miss Eva Johnston left on the 10:27 train Tuesday morning on their way to Bar Harbor, Me.

Mr. E. P. Thorn and partner caught thirteen black bass in the Raritan river, Monday, and eleven fine ones on Thursday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Mattox, of New street, have great reason to feel proud of the beautiful little girl baby that arrived about noon of Sunday.

Mr. J. D. Clark of Alfred Center, N. Y., is visiting the family of Mr. Geo. H. Babcock of Eighth and Union streets—Mrs. Babcock being his sister.

Mrs. Lindley Vail and granddaughter, Miss Emma Vail, of Marylan, are visiting the family of Theodore Vail of Madison avenue and Fifth street.

Mrs. Theodore Vail of Madison avenue will depart, soon, on a visit to Cape May for a week's visit with her daughter at Chappaqua, in upper New York State.

The Ocean Grove dispatches to the New York papers speak Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Burr and Miss Florence G. Burr of this city at the Hotel Grand, Ocean Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Jacobus, and Mr. Russell Jacobus, of Front street, East, left Thursday last for some time at Blue Mountain Lake, amid the Adirondacks.

Mrs. Elston Marsh is suffering from a return of the severe illness and serious troubles that almost culminated in her death some weeks ago. Her condition just now is very critical.

Mr. and Mrs. Carman Parse, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel C. Adams, and Miss Adams, went to Blue Mountain Lake, Hamilton county, New York, for their usual Summer sojourn, Wednesday.

Mrs. H. N. Case and son will leave Plainfield this week for an extended trip through the mid-West of Maine, and a visit to Saratoga, Spring Lake and other fashionable resorts later in the season.

A letter received from one of the members of Miss Bulkley's party to Europe, says the weather was continuously delightful, and so one at all ill with the exception of one young lady slightly so.

Mr. Winfield Angleman, the journalist, of this city, has been secured as editor of the Pine Hill Sentinel, and will take charge of that paper in the heart of the Catskill mountains, during the month of August.

The improvement in the health of Miss Mary Lewis since her removal to the seashore, is so marked and unexpectedly satisfactory, that her parents and physicians are naturally much encouraged and quite hopeful.

Mr. Percy C. Ohl of this city has been appointed Judge of "setters" and other dogs entered by the New Jersey Kennel Club, which is arranging another bench show to be held in connection with the State Fair, at Waverly.

Mr. Muir and Miss Rachael Muir of Leland avenue, and Mrs. John Lindsey of West Front street, arrived at Glasgow, Scotland, last Sunday. They sailed by the steamer "State of Georgia," Thursday morning, July 7th.

Eloise, the young daughter of Mr. M. H. and Ella M. Brandon of Plainfield avenue, died Friday. The child was but two years, eight months and twelve days old, and her death is a severe shock to her parents and immediate friends.

Mr. Daniel S. Roberts, the North avenue livery man, accompanied by his wife, are visiting relatives in Mason City, Ill. During their absence, the business of Mr. Roberts is being ably conducted by his son Charley—who knows just how to run a livery hotel.

The Elizabeth Journal says: "Mr. Warren Ackerman, of Scotch Plains, has a furnished cottage "among the Hills" at Glenside Park, formerly Feltville, where about sixty persons are enjoying the delightful breezes and refreshing spring water from the pretty glen."

The Somerville Gazette says—"Mr. W. A. Codington, of Bound Brook, has begun the study of law in the office of City Judge Ulrich, at Plainfield. Mr. Codington has had charge of a public school in Bound Brook for some time past, but has a decided preference for the legal profession."

While at the unveiling ceremonies of the 13th N. J. Regiment at Gettysburg recently, Geo. W. Moore of East Front street, had the pleasure of meeting one of the surviving members of the regiment, posed directly in front of the monument. Mr. Moore has one of the photographs hanging in his store on East Front street.

Mr. Eli Sherman, a brilliant young journalist who for the past few months has been doing quite some able work from this city for New York papers and the Philadelphia Press, left Plainfield Saturday. Our best wishes go with him, that he may find renewed health and a prosperous future whether in this State or the Wild West.

In the latter part of August, Mr. William Bonn, the renowned caravaner, will row a match race against Geo. Dubear, of England, for a stake of $1,000. Mr. Joseph B. Miller, of this city, will back Bonn and Thomas Murphy, Esq., of New York, champions Mr. Dubear. The location of the race has not yet been decided upon.

Mr. J. Hervey Doane, President of the Plainfield Homing Club, took one of his most valuable carrier pigeons to Ocean Grove with him, Friday, and released it upon arrival there. The bird started direct for Plainfield almost as soon as it was let loose. At what time it made its appearance at this end of the line is not known, but it was home, of course, many hours before its owner's return.

Already the foundations for three of the handsomest monuments that will grace early autumn Hillside Cemetery, are laid, and they are located on the plots purchased by Dr. Frank L. Wells, whose late wife will be laid there; Capt. John E. Stewart, who died in the early part of July, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Ann Smith, who died in the early part of June. The foundations for the three monuments are of the most substantial character, and will be completed in a few days.

Miss Mabel Woodruff is spending a few days among friends at Rahway.

Miss Ball, of Newark, is visiting Miss Grace Yerkes, of Seventh street, West.

Miss Minnie Force and Miss Susie Van Winkle are visiting friends in Philadelphia.

Mrs. George P. Sayding and daughter are guests at the Coleman House, Asbury Park.

Master Albert Martin, of Central avenue and Eighth street, is visiting relatives in Brooklyn, N. Y.

George Kirkner and sister, Miss Carrie, of Eighth street, are sojourning for the present at Asbury Park.

Mrs. Frank C. Green and daughter Carrie, are enjoying the pleasures of Asbury Park at the Wyatt House.

Miss Hotchkiss of Front street, East, has gone to West Randolph, N. Y., for the balance of the season.

Mrs. Herman Force and Mrs. J. Wilkins of this city, are at "Tyler Cottage," Cookman avenue, Asbury Park.

Mrs. Dr. Kennedy of Crescent avenue and now of New York, is visiting among a host of her friends in this city.

The Hon. John Vetterlein's, wife and children are at their cottage at Somerset and sea baths on the shores of Asbury Park.

Mrs. George W. Bandshaw and daughter Belle of Newark, are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Dosbe, West Fourth street.

Mr. and Mrs. Roe, and their granddaughter, Miss Depew, of Crescent avenue, left on Saturday for the West End Hotel, at Long Branch.

Councilman John B. Dumont, was one of the committee appointed by the New York Stock Exchange to represent that body at the funeral of its late Vice-President Hill.

Mr. Carmon Parse and wife, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Adams, and Miss Adams, left Wednesday for a month at Blue Mountain Lake, Adirondacks.

Mrs. Grant, Mrs. Talmadge, Mrs. Worthington and Miss Grant, of Washington, of Franklin and First place, left last Wednesday for Lake Placid, N. Y., where they will remain for the rest of the Summer.

Fish Commissioner William Wright was in our city Monday, in consultation with Fish Warden Force on matters pertaining to stocking certain waters with game fish.

Mr. George Sanders commenced Monday a series of trial flys for the training of his young Antwerp carriers. Five of this year's batch were released at Round Brook, and the time they made home again was so fast that their enthusiastic owner is entirely satisfied.

Lieut. Taylor, of the U. S. Navy, has just returned from a four years' cruise, and with his wife is visiting at the residence of Mrs. Taylor's father, Mr. I. M. Holcomb, of Central avenue. He found the weather in New York, recently, as hot as in equatorial latitudes.

It is rumored that J. Reginald Talbot, Esq., of this city is especially partial to the belles of Netherwood society. This may not be so, but it seems that such portion of his time as he devotes to tennis and his devotion, is spent in the courts of the Netherwood cottagers. So justly popular a gentleman, however, cannot have much to complain of in the light that he is in, and his camera exclusively towards our suburban maids.

Joseph Wittor Kelley, the seven-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Kelley, died at the residence of its parents on West Second street, Tuesday afternoon, after a short illness from cholera infantum. Mr. Keller was making a business tour through the East at the time, and was first apprised of the child's dangerous condition by telegram. He immediately started for home, but did not arrive until after the little one had expired. The funeral will take place from the house on Thursday, at 3, p. m.

Reform Club Meeting.

The usual meeting was held at Reform Hall Monday night, notwithstanding the intense heat. President French and Musical Director Vanderbeek were at their respective posts of duty. Dean Rodman contributed the usual services and "said a few words made the address of the evening." He spoke with accustomed vigor and ability on behalf of practical temperance, and severely criticised the inconsistency and signing of applications for licenses to sell intoxicants, dealt the Common Council of this city a rap over the knuckles for its authority of law to seek traffic. Doctor Rodman, in conclusion, expressed the opinion that the time was coming when public sentiment throughout the country would abolish the evil.

The Death Roll.

Little Frankie Stevens, the seven-months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Stevens, was another victim on the 13th to the epidemic of cholera infantum that these spells of hot weather bring.

Edwin Booth (colored), the only son of Agnes Booth, an unnatural father that had deserted his family some eight months ago, died on the 19th of cholera infantum. The child was seven months and twenty days old.

Dr. Frederick P. Chase of No. 106 East Front street, died at his residence on the 14th, aged 72 years, 11 months and 20 days. He was an old resident of Plainfield, and possessed of quite large wealth. He leaves a widow with two sons.

Little Percy, formerly residing with her parents on Water street, this city, died at Flushing, L. I., and her remains were deposited Tuesday last in the North Plainfield cemetery. The deceased was a pupil of the Grace public school, and is fondly remembered by a large circle of young acquaintances in this community.

Adelaide M. Whitely, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whitely, died at the residence of her parents on North avenue, the 13th, from cholera infantum. The little one was but seven months and twenty-three days old, and in the brief life brought only joy and sunshine to her parents, who will now mourn over her demise.

John R. Miller who lived midway between Plainfield and Westfield, died during the 19th, aged 78 years. He was a sufferer from consumption for many years and was recently stricken down by apoplexy. A congestive chill, however, that had set in, was the immediate cause of his death. The deceased was an old and well known resident of this vicinity. His son died recently at Scotch Plains under circumstances related in THE CONSTITUTIONALIST at the time. The son was a member of the petit jury at Elizabeth, and he was excused, because not well, during its sitting. He died a few days afterwards.

During Sunday afternoon at about five o'clock, the death occurred of Thomas Fitz Randolph, son of the late Shadrach Randolph. The deceased was born on Plainfield avenue, this city, April 3d 1825, and was one of the oldest residents of Plainfield. He had been ailing for the past five years from catarrhal and bronchial affections, but had only been confined to his bed about a week. He died at home surrounded by his family. On Thursday last, suffocative pneumonia set in, and death resulted. Dr. Tomlinson, the attending physician, pronounced the immediate cause of dissolution. The deceased leaves two daughters, Isabel, Carrie and Sarah, and one son, Thomas Stillman Randolph, survive him. The deceased was a descendant of Edward Randolph, who was in the employ of ex-councilman Joseph Cutter, and upon leaving him started the grocery business at Second street and Madison avenue, which he conducted until his death. He was a widower. The funeral services will be held in the Seventh Day Baptist church, Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock.

A BRUTAL ATTEMPT AT MURDER.

An Old Couple Beaten Almost to Death by An Italian and His Wife.

Soon after twelve o'clock Monday, Vincenzo Palermo and his wife, the latter the peanut vender at the corner of Front street and Park avenue, made a most brutal attempt to murder Embly Stewart, an old man, and his wife who reside in Stiger Alley, just North from East Front street. Harriet Spalding, also a resident in the alley, lodged a double complaint against Palermo and a woman named Kate Board before Justice Nash this morning charging them with using foul and offensive language. The accused were arraigned before the Justice who presided them for a hearing on Wednesday. Soon after the Italian was released he returned to Stiger alley where himself and family eke out a miserable existence in a rookery which has for many years been an eyesore to the respectable citizens who reside in that immediate neighborhood. Mr. and Mrs. Stewart also occupy quarters in the alley, and Mr. Stewart is a hatter by trade, and is said to be a hard-working and industrious citizen. He is about sixty-seven years old, and his wife is about sixty-five years younger. When the Italian returned to his rookery he is said to have made threats that he would murder all who lived in the alley. All the forenoon Palermo was sullen and obstinate, and between eleven and twelve o'clock, when John Stewart, a son of the old gentleman, drove into the alley and tied his horse in front of his father's residence, the Italian appeared to be greatly excited, and at once began to assault him with a club. John Stewart was being considerably worsted, when his father and mother, both old and feeble, rushed out of the house to protect their son. Palermo and his wife were both busy at this time, showering blow after blow upon the defenseless man, and the appearance of the old couple would have maddened them beyond description, for they immediately set upon Mr. Stewart and his wife, now with an iron pump handle and the other clutching a fence plank, and beat them both about the head and body in a shocking manner. Mrs. Stewart succumbed to the storm of unstopped murder and in a few minutes at least 100 persons were on the spot. The crowd grew frantic with excitement and cries of "hang him," "string him up" and "Lynch him," were heard on all sides. The Italian evidently knew that his life would be short if he remained in that locality, and leaving his victims bleeding and faint in their decrepit, hastened from the scene of the tragedy. His wife sought refuge in the house, strongly barricading the doors behind her. Meanwhile John Stewart ran into Justice Nash's office and said that his father and mother were being murdered. Special Officer Mattox and a Press reporter accompanied him to the place and found everything in excitement. Mr. and Mrs. Stewart still in the doorway of their residence, sweltering in blood, and surrounded by their friends and neighbors. The spectacle was sickening, as the top of each one's head appeared to have been battered to a jelly. The most deadly weapon used in the assault was an iron pump handle about two feet long and about an inch and a half wide. This was broken in two places, and bourits were splintered over the heads of the old couple. Officer Mattox arrested Mrs. Palermo and locked her up in the station house. A posse of excited men and boys started in pursuit of Palermo, and for over an hour chased him from one place to another in North Plainfield, finally losing track of him near Scribner's brick yard. Doctors Pelsacker and Hodges were at the place and dressed the wounds inflicted on the old couple. An examination disclosed severe scalp wounds on the head of Mrs. Stewart, nearly to the bone, but no fracture of the skull was discovered. It is almost too soon after the tragedy to determine the extent of the injuries, but the only immediate danger of the wounds proving fatal is the setting in of brain fever. Dr. Probasco informs us that as yet there is no sign of the fever setting in. Much pity is expressed for Mr. Stewart and his wife, and much indignation is aroused over the action of the Italian and started the search anew, and if found, a fearless old couple, as was the case in this instance. While the excitement was being perpetrated, Mrs. David Squires, another resident in the alley, fainted at the sight of such inhuman treatment on the part of Palermo and his wife. Other cases of this kind might have occurred but for the timely warning in her horror expecting that Mr. and Mrs. Stewart were being beaten to death.

Late in an hour after the affair took place, Maggie, the fourteen-year-old daughter of Palermo, openly made threats that she would burn down the house. Special Officer Noel arrested her, and she now languishes with her mother in the station house, awaiting for the officers to conquer her father.

Chief Dodd also started in pursuit of Palermo but after following him for a long distance gave up the chase. About seven o'clock the Italian entered the back smith shop owned by a man named Mair on Mountain avenue between this city and Scotch Plains. He was barbecued and in his shirt sleeves, and asked the owner of the shop to loan him a hat, stating that he had lost one of his children and that he had started out in search. Instead of looking for the child, and that he was on his way to Scotch Plains, also in search of it. Mr. Mair gave him a hat and he resumed his journey.

Stiger Alley has been, of late, the scene of many brawls and fights, and it is a noticeable fact that Palermo generally participated in them. A little over a month ago he was arrested for a murderous attack with a pitchfork upon a man named Gordon. The latter escaped, but a grand jury indicted him, he was tried and convicted and sentenced to pay a fine of five dollars. It is thought he is only a matter of a very short time before he will be back to his former haunts, and when captured he will in all probability be sent to State Prison, unless something else turns up. It is said he should die, then he will be tried jointly with his wife for murder.

Public Band Concerts.

The Plainfield Citizens' Band has about completed all arrangements for its first public concert. It will probably be given at Crescent Square, during the evening of Thursday, August 4th. An elaborate programme is being selected, and as successful will the whole affair be, we believe there will arise an interest among the citizens sufficient to result in a financial support for a series of concerts to follow. Many think there is no expense attached—that the band merely stands out-doors and blows. The fact is, each concert costs about thirty-five or forty dollars. As instructor must be procured for at least four rehearsals of the programme before it is given. Soloists must be engaged to give interest and variety; and a programme for free distribution among the audience, has to be printed. Incidental expenses besides, run up the cost of each concert to the figures we estimate. In the first concert Levere of Elizabeth, one of the finest artists in the State, will give us a baritone solo, "The Blue Bells of Scotland" with variations, and a number of others will be rendered by well-known and talented performers.

An Important Decision.

In the matter of James Ralph, Justice Wadsworth decided Saturday that "unlawfully having in possession, or selling, taking or exposing for sale any article of food adulterated in violation of the laws of the statute, and subjects the offender to a penalty of fifteen dollars for each bird."

A LITTLE OF EVERYTHING COLUMN.

For sale hard, side or chest, and Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Price 25 cents. Sold by Field & Randolph.

Croup, Whooping Cough and Bronchitis immediately relieved by Shiloh's Cure. Sold by Field & Randolph.

Shiloh's Vitalizer free with each bottle of Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Sold by Field & Randolph.

Shiloh's Cough and Consumption Cure is sold by us on a guarantee. It cures consumption. Sold by Field & Randolph.

Sleepless nights made miserable by that terrible cough. Shiloh's Cure is the remedy for you. Sold by Field & Randolph.

Will you suffer with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint? Shiloh's Vitalizer is guaranteed to cure you. Sold by Field & Randolph.

Catarrh, Diphtheria, Sore Throat and Canker mouth relieved by Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Sold by Field & Randolph.

When baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure.
This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. ROYAL BAKING POWDER Co., 106 Wall Street, New York.—apr27

DEMAREST'S
NEW STORE
Specialty in Creamery Butter, Ferris Hams, Bacon and Tongues, Pillsbury and La Favorita Flour, Fruits, and Vegetables all kinds. 3 pounds of French Prunes for 25c., No. 1 French Peas 20c., Ex. Quality Dates, 10c. All goods First-class and at Bottom Prices. Please call and examine stock and prices.
P. M. DEMAREST,
27 PARK AVENUE

Special Notice
WE HAVE JUST ADDED
500 BOYS' SUITS,
SOME AS LOW AS $2.00
SOME AS HIGH AS $7.50
OUR OWN MANUFACTURE
Sebring Bros.,
Music Hall Entrance.

COCKLE'S ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS
THE GREAT ENGLISH REMEDY
For Liver, Bile, Indigestion, &c. Free from Mercury. Of all Druggists, or 18 Cliff Street, New York.

A Destructive Caterpillar.
The caterpillars are unusually numerous this year and very destructive. They don't seem to have any special liking for any particular kind of vegetation, but devour anything they can get hold on. Apple, pear, cherry, plum, quince, and some kinds of Maple trees, are some of them nearly stripped of their leaves. The grapes and smaller fruits are also to their liking. In the grape they are particularly destructive, as they eat off the stem as with a knife or scissors and it soon falls drop. The ground under the vines lies full of bunches and berries, and unless the destroyers are destroyed the grape crop will turn out short. The insects are somewhat advanced it is a more difficult matter to get rid of these pests as they have attained considerable size and have nearly left. The best method for deliverance from this destructive ravager would be to keep a sharp lookout for the nests when first hatched, as they are then all together and can easily be taken off by cutting the branches and burning them, or by putting them under the pressure of a fifty pound weight.

CLOSING OUT BALANCE OF Special Sale!
AT LOW PRICES!
AT R. H.
WHITNEY'S!
Dry Goods & Carpet House.
8 EAST FRONT STREET—T. H. C. A. HALL.

PECK'S CORNER. PECK'S CORNER.
White Goods and Embroideries.
ASSORTMENTS GOOD. PRICES LOW.
AT PECK'S!
IT'S WORTH KNOWING!
Edsall's stock of Laces, Ribbons, Silk, Lisle and Kid Gloves, Hosiery, Handkerchiefs, Ruchings, Collars and Cuffs, Muslin and Gauze Underwear, Dry and Fancy Goods of all kinds, Carpets, Mattings, etc., is the largest and most complete of any similar stock in this part of the State, and the prices are guaranteed to be the lowest and the quality of the goods the best. You need not go to New York to get the necessary articles to complete your wardrobe to go on your Summer vacation. Patronize home trade when you can save time and trouble by so doing. Don't forget that Edsall's is the most popular, coolest and most convenient place to buy at.
EDSALL'S!

Great Bargain Sale of Remnants AT POPE'S.
Remnants of Dress Goods.
Remnants of Lawns.
Remnants of Seersuckers.
CARPETS, MATTINGS, &C.
REGARDLESS OF COST.

SPECIAL NOTICE.
New Store! New Goods! New Firm!
BARKALEW & DUNN,
Fancy and Staple Grocers,
NO. 18 NORTH AVENUE.
We sell for Cash and will give Special Inducements.

A. M. Vanderbeek & Co.,
(Successors to A. Vanderbeek.)
DEALERS IN SPORTING GOODS,
Musical Instruments,
SHEET MUSIC, CUTLERY, ETC.
No. 33 Park avenue, Plainfield, New Jersey.

C. K. COMPTON,
Confectioner and Ice Cream Caterer,
Only the Best of Ice Cream and Ices Furnished for Weddings, Parties, Receptions.
TRY MY CREAM AND HOME-MADE BREAD.
First-class stock. Hot in the afternoon at 5 o'clock. Please remember I manufacture my own Candy and use only the best of sugar and No. 1 flavoring matter and vegetable coloring materials. Goods promptly delivered.
C. K. COMPTON,
26 West Front Street. Near the Opera House.

HALL'S
MACHINE PICKED.
STEAM AND DRY AIR DRIED FEATHERS
NO QUILLS. NO ANIMAL MATTER. NO ODOR. NO DUST.
Prepared only by PATENTED MACHINERY. FRANK A. HALL, NEW YORK.
The CLEANEST and BEST for Family Use.
Packed in Bleached Muslin Bags of the following sizes: 2 lbs., 3 lbs., 5 lbs., 10 lbs., 25 lbs., 50 lbs.
Every bag bears the above TRADE MARK in RED INK. TAKE NO OTHER.
ASK YOUR DEALER FOR THEM.

BEFORE DEATH.

How much would I care to-day, I wonder,
When I am under the grass or ocean,
If the world should cease to feel a beat of me
Folded and quietly laid away?
The spirit is gone from me and I care,
And somewhere away around the stars
They would be type-blind if I should write
What praise or blame or heedless neglect,
Whatever could touch me in death or more,
It matter could help me harm me now?

If midst of my toil, they had but thought
To stretch a finger to ease my load,
Gladly each act, to bear me through
Some better duty I had for it.
And when it was done, had I not heard
One inward approbation, and would wonder
One cry of "courage!" amid the strife,
No weighted for me, with double my power?
How would it have served my soul to strew
Through the whirl of the contest my spirit
With
What use for the rose, if of no use thing
Till the swimmer's grasp to the reef has closed?
What help in a cordial's fragrance lost
While the parch'd Alpine's heights is past?
What need that the sparrow perish ere
When the rescuer is safe beyond the pale?
What worth a strength unused to-day
When whispered in ears that are tuned to thrush?
No! No! if you know but a word of cheer,
Speak it while I am alive to hear!
—Edmund Gosse, in Longman's Magazine.

DESTROYED IN A MINUTE.

A Whole Village Annihilated in a Trice by a Terrible Earth-Shock.

Some time has elapsed, says a writer in the London Graphic, since the little Hamlet of Rosaro in Mexico was sixteen to its foundation by one of the most violent earthquakes ever recorded. Only a few months past the memory of that appalling time is still fresh in the minds of the people, and Americans residing in the State at the time was a young student, a member of the scientific staff of the Mexican Central Railway, who, best on holidays and pleasure, was fond of a gun and a day's sport, and he vividly describes the scenes which followed the first awful shock of that memorable day, and many disastrous as well as wonderful and ludicrous events which succeeded.

The town of Magdalena, where the shock was most severely felt, is situated on a tableland, containing about seventy-five square leagues, built of sun-dried adobe bricks, built with no cement but mud, substantial facts not seen in the bank. Those who are not in the secret would have no conception of the enormity that the town contained. Its inhabitants, a mixed race of Indian and Spanish descent, numbered about 3,000 souls, and the town was the principal one in the district. Its streets were wide and regular, and the houses, all built on one floor, were large and commodious, with massive walls and heavy roofs of tiles. Many of the houses were two stories high, and were built of stone and brick.

"It was on the 31 of May," said the narrator, "that the first and confidence in the earth received its greatest shock, and I reckon if a year ever be forgotten I vow to that time accounts of earthquakes, with an appraisal either in newspapers or pamphlets, had made little of any impression upon me, but when I felt the first shock at eleven o'clock that night and shake beneath my feet, when great underground noises, like the rumbling of a train of cars, and the sound of artillery firing across those vast mountain regions, and when even the mountains seemed to reel under the pressure of massive volumes of water, then I was convinced that language failed to describe the awful reality. Without detail, substantial facts can only be given. Those who have not felt an earthquake have no conception of the enormity that the term contained. The first violent shock, caused among the inhabitants people, and though little more than a minute elapsed during the warning and the terrible shock, into that brief space were crowded a multitude of sensations that are more fearful, overwhelming and horrifying than human ingenuity can conceive. The first warning was a sensation of the ground, and clouds of dust obscure the rapidly-disappearing day—and then all was quiet. In the midst of the awful scene, during the first moments of a succeeding pause, I was conscious that the earth was warring among themselves. At each step a tremendous effort was required to keep from staking buildings in their very foundations. Even as I looked, I saw the solid and great works of earth rent and fell into the gulf below me like the crumbling of a sand-bank. Then, as the little—little single-story affairs—began to tremble when the tremor of the first shock was felt, and the walls of the houses they began to rock, and to another instant they were prostrate. Those who were unable to withstand the strain, broke to pieces and the roof came crushing down. The walls of the houses, with their strong structures, smashing every thing beneath. That was the moment of the first intimation of my danger. A scene of confusion followed. Men, women and children, all the citizens of the town, were rushing madly to and fro in the streets, which were

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XX. PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, JULY 22, 1887. NO. 28.

LAWS OF NEW JERSEY.

[BY AUTHORITY.]

CHAPTER CXVI.

An act giving the right of suffrage to all persons, being or about to become citizens of the United States, by naturalization in this state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That every citizen of the United States of the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a resident of this state for one year, and of the county in which he or she may offer to vote five months next before said meeting, shall have the right to vote at any general election or school district of the state wherein they may reside; provided, that persons in the military, naval or marine service of the United States, by reason of residence at any garrison, barracks or military or naval forts or stations, shall not thereby gain a residence for the purpose of voting; nor shall any person, idiots, insane persons, or persons convicted of bribery, or of any infamous crime, before his or her time for taking a vote, unless restored by law to the right of suffrage, shall enjoy the right to vote at any school meeting.

Approved April 6, 1887.

CHAPTER CXVII.

An Act to provide for the transfer of insane criminals from the county prison to the state asylum for the insane.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That if any person confined in any county jail or penitentiary house of this state, charged with or convicted of what appears to be insanity, the judge of the court of oyer and terminer before which the person is situated shall, upon information of the fact by the keeper of the prison, institute a careful investigation, and if two reputable physicians, after personal examination, shall certify that the person is insane, and that the public safety requires his confinement in the state asylum for the insane, it shall be the duty to so inform the governor, and if he shall think it necessary, he may issue his warrant to the director of the place of the fact of his or her insanity, and that the person is to be removed to the prison to serve out the unexpired portion of his or her term of imprisonment.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 6, 1887.

CHAPTER CXVIII.

A Supplement to "An act for the punishment of crimes," approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That all persons who shall, within this state, engage in trade in any property, goods or chattels which constitute the stock in trade, or the description of which is filed and registered, according to law, in the office of the county clerks of this State, without the consent of the owner or owners thereof, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by fine not exceeding two hundred dollars or imprisonment at hard labor not exceeding two years, or both.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 6, 1887.

CHAPTER CXIX.

Supplement to an act entitled "An act to provide for the regulation and incorporation of insurance companies," approved April ninth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That all insurance companies organized under the laws of other states, and now transacting or transacting insurance in this state, shall, during the first month of each year, make and transmit to the secretary of state, a statement of the condition of such company, duly verified by oath, according to the forms and regulations prescribed by the secretary specifying the name of the company, where and when incorporated, the amount of capital and assets, of which they are composed, and the nature and character of investments, whether in bonds, mortgages, real estate, stocks or other securities, and particularizing the amount of each, and the actual cash value, amount of income for the year past, the amount of losses paid, the amount and nature of claims unpaid, the amount necessary for reinsurance, the whole number of policies issued during the year, the amount received during the year, the gross amount of such premiums in force at the end of the year, the name, state and residence of each agent in this state, and such other information as may be called for by such during the preceding year; and it shall be the duty of the said secretary to prepare a form of statement to be filled up by such companies, and to furnish the same, upon obtaining evidence of transacting the business of insurance in this state, and to make and transmit to the agents of such companies, on demand, a sufficient number of such blanks for the purpose of making such statements.

2. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be the duty of the assessor of any city or town ship or township in that state to ascertain from the agents of such foreign insurance companies, residents of such township or township, or persons doing business in such city or town ship; provided, however, such officials shall not be required to perform the duties hereof free of any fee, compensation or reward.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 9, 1887.

CHAPTER CXXI.

An act to amend "A supplement to an act entitled 'An act relating to the settlement of the administration of intestates' estates,'" (Revision), approved April twenty-fifth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four, which supplement was approved February nineteenth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the first section of the supplement mentioned in the title of this act be and the same is hereby amended so that the same shall read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That any executor or administrator, by virtue of letters ordinary, who shall neglect or refuse to take any action or cause such action upon any matter relating to the estate of any deceased person as his letters had been granted in the state, for the space of one year after the granting of such letters, shall first file in the office of the clerk of the court in which he is about to proceed an affidavit, setting forth the reasons why he or she cannot receive or be ready to proceed with the said matter, and shall thereupon give security for costs may be ordered from time to time by the court, and shall file a new account of his doings.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 9, 1887.

CHAPTER CXXII.

A Further supplement to an act entitled "An act to prevent the adulteration of food or drugs," approved March twenty-second, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the state dairy commissioner shall be and he is hereby authorized to act in the enforcement of the provisions of an act entitled "An act to prevent the adulteration of food or drugs," approved March twenty-second, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one, entitled "An act to prevent the adulteration of food or drugs," and in all preliminaries in the court of chancery in relation to the granting of writs of injunction ordered to be sent thereunto, instead of requiring the attendance of the complainant in the suit of the state or the state's counsel in the said court of chancery, it shall be lawful for the master in chancery, if he shall be satisfied by the affidavit of the complainant or his counsel that the defendant is about to sell, dispose of or remove from the state the property complained of, to issue the writ of injunction without the attendance of the complainant or his counsel, and the said writ shall be returnable before the chancellor or vice-chancellor of the state, at such time as he may appoint, and the said writ shall be served upon the defendant or his agent, and the said defendant shall be required to appear before the chancellor or vice-chancellor at the time appointed in the said writ, and show cause why the said writ should not be made perpetual, and the said chancellor or vice-chancellor shall hear the proofs and allegations of the parties, and shall make such order in the premises as to him shall seem just and equitable.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 11, 1887.

CHAPTER CXXIII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act concerning corporations" (Revision), approved April twenty-first, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the first section of the act to which this is a supplement be and the same is hereby amended so that the same shall read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That any corporation created by or under the laws of this state, for the purpose of carrying on the business of acquiring, holding, manufacturing, selling or conveying real estate, or any interest or estates therein, or any part thereof, or any mortgage, lease or other conveyance for the purpose of acquiring, holding, manufacturing, selling or conveying real estate, or any part thereof, or any interest or estates therein, shall be authorized to purchase the interest of any such corporation in any real estate, and to hold, manage, sell, mortgage, lease and convey the same, and to purchase the interest of any such corporation in any mortgage, lease or other conveyance for the purpose of acquiring, holding, selling or conveying real estate, or any part thereof, or any interest or estates therein, and to hold, manage, sell, mortgage, lease and convey the same, and to purchase the interest of any such corporation in any mortgage, lease or other conveyance for the purpose of acquiring, holding, selling or conveying real estate, or any part thereof, or any interest or estates therein, and to hold, manage, sell, mortgage, lease and convey the same, and nothing in this act or in the act to which this is a supplement shall be construed to prevent any corporation from purchasing old bachelor or bachelor could not be sold or will be sold by any such executor, administrator thereof, at the time they receive the same, nor by any person or persons for them or in trust for their benefit, at any time within two years next after the same shall be so received, but shall be sued for and recovered by the surrogate or clerk of said county, and shall be paid by such executor, or so as those of the most public places in the county of Kings, and shall be paid to the county treasurer of said county, to be applied to the use of the said county; and it shall be the duty of the said surrogate or clerk, on application of any person or persons, to issue such citation and to prosecute the same for the benefit of the said county; and it shall be the duty of the said surrogate or clerk to examine all the accounts of all executors, administrators and guardians, and to report to the said county treasurer, in writing, whether any moneys belonging to any estate have been received by such executor, administrator or guardian, and not accounted for by him, and whether any moneys have been paid by him without the order of the surrogate or clerk, and whether any moneys belonging to any estate have been improperly withheld by any such executor, administrator or guardian, and the said surrogate or clerk shall make such report in every case where any estate shall remain in the hands of such executor, administrator or guardian for more than two years from the granting of letters testamentary or of administration thereon, unless such executor, administrator or guardian shall render to the said surrogate or clerk a certificate in writing, stating the reasons why such estate has not been settled, and the said surrogate or clerk shall make such report annually thereafter, until such estate shall be settled; and it shall be the duty of the said surrogate or clerk to report to the said county treasurer the name of every executor, administrator or guardian who shall neglect or refuse to render the account required by this section, or to make the report required by this section, within the time herein prescribed, and the said county treasurer shall thereupon proceed to collect the moneys due from such executor, administrator or guardian, and the said surrogate or clerk shall be entitled to receive from the moneys collected by him as the county treasurer, the same fees and commissions as executors are entitled to receive for receiving and paying over moneys, and the said surrogate or clerk shall be allowed his actual and necessary expenses incurred in the discharge of his duties under this section, to be audited by the board of supervisors of said county, and paid out of the county treasury.

2. This act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 27, 1887.

In Vanity Fair.

Through Vanity Fair, in days of old,
There passed a woman, young and fair, of gold,
And a pedlar opened his tempting pack,
Crying: "O, my pretty lass! what d'ye lack!
Here's ribbon to bind your hair,
Costly and rare,
Come, buy—oh, come, buy!
In Vanity Fair."

"Silks and satins are not for me! I
Love is for damsels of high degree;
The lads would laugh in our country town,
If I came out in such garish gown;
But put there's a ware,
Precious and rare,
That would suit me
In Vanity Fair."

"Pray roll me, sir, from your motley store
A heart that will love me forever more,
That, whatever the world shall praise or blame,
Through sorrow or joy will be still the same."
"In the only ware
For which I care
Did all the treasures
In Vanity Fair."

"Much it grieves me, O lassie dear,"
The pedlar said, "But I greatly fear
The hearts that lovel in the old event way
Have been left behind in this many a day;
And gold alone
Is all the wave
You will find for your money
In Vanity Fair."
—[Florence Tyler.

HUMOROUS.

Short and sweet—stick of candy.

Acrobats report that business is jumping.

Stands to reason—The gentleman who has the floor.

It is better to rise with the lark than with the boot-jack.

The rivers which run smoothest are those with most springs.

The Czar is called his August majesty because he reigns in a summary manner.

When a man goes out of the poultry business he tears the tattered hen sign down.

Even fishermen who wouldn't steal are always ready to hook something if they get a chance.

"The people like tyrants," says a magazine writer. Maybe that's why the people get them.

Because people usually use the right hand in manipulating a handkerchief the majority of noses are said to turn to the right. How lot somebody explain why so many noses turn up.

"That's a sham," growled Jones, as his pillow which had appeared full and soft to the eye, collapsed beneath the pressure of his head. "Yes," returned Smith with philosophical composure, "it's pillow shaped."

Losing a sale.—Elderly spinster (in drug store). "I declare to goodness I've forgot what I came in for! As' it was so my tongue's and just a minute ago. Clerk (trying to help her out). "Sir,—face-powder, or hair-dye, or—or—" Exit elderly spinster.

Natural Metallic Iron.

On the North Saskatchewan river, in the Northwest Territory of Canada, about 70 miles above the town of Edmonton, Alberta, there is an interesting example of natural metallic iron. Along the river bank a lignite formation crops out for several miles, overlaid by clay shales and soft, argillaceous sandstones containing nodules of clay ironstone. Some of these are similar to others found in Edmonton, and proved by analysis to be carbonates of iron, containing 34.96 per cent. of metallic iron. The Saskatchewan bed of lignite has, at some places or other, been burned, leaving a bed of ashes, clinkers and burned clay, in places 20 feet thick, and now covered by a dense growth of grass and underbrush. From this bed of burned clay pieces of metallic iron can be picked out, weighing in some cases 15 or 20 pounds. They have evidently been reduced from the nodules above mentioned by the heat of the burning lignite. Most of the pieces of iron are much rusted; but when scratched with a file, they show a bright surface. The observation is interesting, as it is one may help to explain how primitive man originally discovered the reduction of iron ore.

Interesting Case of Insanity.

An interesting instance of fighting insanity by insanity has recently been noticed among the Hackwell's inland patients. Two farmers named Jones received who were disposed to commit suicide. In addition each possessed a special delusion, one to the effect that he was now, on the other that his head was all made of glass, and he was afraid along the floor. They carried these beliefs into action, one striking his head against the padded walls of his cell, the other cutting himself, as he thought, his body with it, along the floor. The two patients were placed together, and each was privately informed of the other's weakness and warned to watch his companion to prevent him doing his own life. Thus each had a charge in the other. Their vigilance was unceasing. Each supposed himself perfectly sane, and this belief was strengthened by considerable scorn for the other's weakness of intellect and accompanying delusion. Gradually under the influence of this treatment the patients were observed to be improving. To have their attention centered on definite duty and on objects external to themselves proved a tonic to their diseased minds, and gradually a complete cure was effected, and they rejoined their discharge from the asylum.—[Scientific American.

No Apology Needed.

Jones (who had been interrupted in telling a long story by Smith's arrival—departure)—By the way, old man, I have quite forgotten what I was telling you the other day.

Smith (gratefully)—Thanks. — [Modern Society.

Paint Smoke.

Spring is a season dreadful fair,
With visions it has in her golden hair,
And the lovely maiden in her train
Of the primrose path and country scent
Search forth from their wintry wishing-stool,
And the forest leaves pray out to me
When the sun's warm influence thaw me in.

Little Bessie Bliss had not the least idea how picturesque he looked, with his mother's trousers rolled above the knees, and hitched up by a string and a nail, and the ragged edges of his hat-brim resting irregular shadows on his sunburned face.

Mrs. Bliss hurriedly took her arms out of the wash tub, and wiped the silver fringes of soap suds with the roller towel.

"Oh, dear," she sighed, "I wish the fine ladies would select any other than a wash day morning to make their visits. But the best hearted and most hospitable heart stung her for the reflection.

"Run, Bessy," she said, "and let the tin-pail down the well—and be careful, for there's a big butter hanging there to cool—and pour the water into the speckled pitcher—the one without the cracked spout, dear—and bring it in, with the glass tumbler."

"What's company, mother?"

"Oh, dear, there isn't but one!" sighed Mrs. Bliss, hurriedly trying on a clean gingham apron to conceal the deficiencies of her well-worn wash-day gown. "The other was company, you know, the edges of the sink this morning. And be sure it's clean and bright, Bessy, there's a dear."

Then spaking, Mrs. Bliss lifted the boiler of clothes off of the stove, to make sure of no mishap in her absence, shut the door to keep out a buff hen, with six buff chicks, who were marauding around the step, and hurried into the genteel gloom of the "best room" where the green-paper shades were pulled down, and yesterday's bunch of cinnamon roses was withering in a solitary glass tumbler.

"The people like tyrants," says a magazine writer. Maybe that's why the people get them.

Because people usually use the right hand in manipulating a handkerchief the majority of noses are said to turn to the right. How lot somebody explain why so many noses turn up.

"That's a sham," growled Jones, as his pillow which had appeared full and soft to the eye, collapsed beneath the pressure of his head. "Yes," returned Smith with philosophical composure, "it's pillow shaped."

Losing a sale.—Elderly spinster (in drug store). "I declare to goodness I've forgot what I came in for! As' it was so my tongue's and just a minute ago. Clerk (trying to help her out). "Sir,—face-powder, or hair-dye, or—or—" Exit elderly spinster.

Natural Metallic Iron.

On the North Saskatchewan river, in the Northwest Territory of Canada, about 70 miles above the town of Edmonton, Alberta, there is an interesting example of natural metallic iron. Along the river bank a lignite formation crops out for several miles, overlaid by clay shales and soft, argillaceous sandstones containing nodules of clay ironstone. Some of these are similar to others found in Edmonton, and proved by analysis to be carbonates of iron, containing 34.96 per cent. of metallic iron. The Saskatchewan bed of lignite has, at some places or other, been burned, leaving a bed of ashes, clinkers and burned clay, in places 20 feet thick, and now covered by a dense growth of grass and underbrush. From this bed of burned clay pieces of metallic iron can be picked out, weighing in some cases 15 or 20 pounds. They have evidently been reduced from the nodules above mentioned by the heat of the burning lignite. Most of the pieces of iron are much rusted; but when scratched with a file, they show a bright surface. The observation is interesting, as it is one may help to explain how primitive man originally discovered the reduction of iron ore.

Interesting Case of Insanity.

An interesting instance of fighting insanity by insanity has recently been noticed among the Hackwell's inland patients. Two farmers named Jones received who were disposed to commit suicide. In addition each possessed a special delusion, one to the effect that he was now, on the other that his head was all made of glass, and he was afraid along the floor. They carried these beliefs into action, one striking his head against the padded walls of his cell, the other cutting himself, as he thought, his body with it, along the floor. The two patients were placed together, and each was privately informed of the other's weakness and warned to watch his companion to prevent him doing his own life. Thus each had a charge in the other. Their vigilance was unceasing. Each supposed himself perfectly sane, and this belief was strengthened by considerable scorn for the other's weakness of intellect and accompanying delusion. Gradually under the influence of this treatment the patients were observed to be improving. To have their attention centered on definite duty and on objects external to themselves proved a tonic to their diseased minds, and gradually a complete cure was effected, and they rejoined their discharge from the asylum.—[Scientific American.

No Apology Needed.

Jones (who had been interrupted in telling a long story by Smith's arrival—departure)—By the way, old man, I have quite forgotten what I was telling you the other day.

Smith (gratefully)—Thanks. — [Modern Society.

MILES OF FLAME.

Trying to Subdue a Great Fire in the Comstock Mines.

Three Planes Thousands of Feet Under Ground.

The Comstock lode at Virginia City, Nev., is of itself one of the world's wonders. It is, moreover, wonderful as a spot in which the greatest marvels of mining are to be seen. Down in the bowels of the great bonanza was being worked 4,000,000 feet of timber were lowered into the deeps and set in place monthly for forty months. Well, that mass of timber is about to be burned in the next week, and there is the grocer's account. After the bonanza days of the Ophir and Mexican dollars was only a drop in the bucket, and I don't know what on earth I am to do!"

She went into the best room when the wedding was done and the clothes were distributed, and sat down in a chair with a shudder at the vacant place under the gilt looking glass.

"How could I—how could I!" she cried aloud, "when I might have known it would be all left out of the house, and I'm as determined to try to drown the fire with carbonic acid gas. The trial is now on. Thousands of tons of rock, timber, heads, and an solid walls of masonry were built sixteen feet in thickness to ward off the terrible fire. But the walls were broken but and the fatal gas generated by the fire found its way out into the chambers of the mine. Then the thing else had to be done, and so it was determined to try to drown the fire with carbonic acid gas. The trial is now on. Or rather it has been on for 48 hours, and the result is not known. Some say that the great chambers are being worked 4,000,000 feet of timber were lowered into the deeps and set in place monthly for forty months. Well, that mass of timber is about to be burned in the next week, and there is the grocer's account. After the bonanza days of the Ophir and Mexican dollars was only a drop in the bucket, and I don't know what on earth I am to do!"

She went into the best-room when the wedding was done and the clothes were distributed, and sat down in a chair with a shudder at the vacant place under the gilt looking glass.

"How could I—how could I!" she cried aloud, "when I might have known it would be all left out of the house, and I'm as well Grandfather Bliss' old family Bible!"

And she sat down under the lilacs on the doorstep and began to weep softly, with the corner of her apron for a pocket-handkerchief.

"Mrs. Bliss—B-bessy! Why, what's the matter? Is there any one sick or dead?"

Mrs. Bliss dashed away the tears, as they faltered, as her eyes met the inquiring gaze of Walter Wheelock, the village lawyer—"no family Bible has gone."

"The family Bible! Has some one stolen it?"

"No; I've sold it—to Mrs. Sevier, at the hotel."

"Humph!" Mr. Wheelock knitted his dark brows until they made a level, and then his face shone his eyes. "What was that for?"

"For money," flashed out Mrs Bliss. "If you must know it, Walter Wheelock, I sold those dollars to pay old Deacon Bliss' note at the bank. I'm a debtor to the deacon's estate, particularly those who die in public almshouses.

The strongest strike on record is that reported from the Island of Sole by the Rev. Thomas Bliss. Her parishes of the Greek church were bestowed with their tithes and they were introduced by the bishop. The priests stopped their work of marrying, baptizing and burying the dead, and these matters were taken in hand by the laity.

A Medicinal Beauty.

About three years ago a distinguished French naturalist, M. Guillmeth, who was traveling in Tasmania, came suddenly upon a grove of gigantic eucalyptus trees, from 900 to 980 feet high, and with a trunk large in the base that it took forty of his Kanakaw, joining hands, to reach around one of them. High in these lofty trees he discovered the nest of the wild bee, which produces the delicious Tasmanian honey, this wild bee has its longest rather more developed than that of the domestic bee. M. Guillmeth attempted unsuccessfully to domesticate it. He succeeded, however, in carrying off them immense trees to be felled, and secured the honey. The largest individual store of honey weighed as much as 11,000 pounds avoirdupois.

The honey is described as a thick, homogeneous, somewhat transparent syrupy liquid of a deep orange color; having no color suggestive as once of its origin. Its flavor is delicious, and is the result of experiments on himself and one of his friends, Dr. Thomas Cressman states that, on taking a tablespoonful of the honey in a little tepid water or milk, after a few moments he experienced a gentle, agreeable warmth take possession of the whole person. At the end of half an hour, the elimination of the active principles by the lungs becomes perceptible, the voice becomes clearer and the breath perfumed; the lungs feel more elastic, more supple. Having continued the use of the honey for a week, four tablespoonfuls a day, the doctor thus speaks of himself as respectively dealy, found that he could go up two pairs of stairs, two steps at a time, without stopping to take breath, or feeling at all blown.—[New York Medical Journal.

Why She Adored the Minister.

The Rev. S. H. Calthrop, Unitarian minister in Syracuse, has been encouraged recently, and now he is glad some when he preached down in Marblehead. His wife had come to him and said there was a dear little girl who had attended church for the first time, a regular attendant at church. She had such a great admiration for Mr. Calthrop she had never missed hearing him, even wading through the snow. She thought he was the most perfect minister. He went. He was met by the little girl's mother, who began a repetition of the story that the minister's wife had told, as the child stood shyly by the side-room. There the child lay, propped up, and overheard the last statements from her mother of her own delight in the pastor's preaching.

"Yes," said the child, "I like him, do not know how to tax skins, but when they're purging and fining their fields. Horse is the most important grain they grow. It is cultivated in all parts of Africa. Sorghum, manioc, and betates are grown in the lower countries, maize and millet in the higher ones. In Uganda, bananas are the principal food. Stock raising is the favorite occupation of many East African tribes. The herdsmen are frequently warlike nations who make predatory incursions into the Galla, Wahuma, and Wakuta have founded empires of this kind. On the upper Nile the natives are engaged in both stock-raising and agriculture. Cattle, sheep, goats, dogs, and poultry are raised by these people.

The most remarkable industry of Africa is that of iron-working, which is known in all the regions beyond the Sahara, and is the principal trade. Many tribes without agriculture in Central Africa, except the Dwarfish Watwa and Akka. Though their implements are very simple, they show the greatest dexterity in their use.

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.
W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY,
AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XX. PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, JULY 22, 1887. No. 29.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities."—MADISON.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

C. L. JENKINS, M. D.,
Homœopathist.
Successor to Dr. South.) 38 East Front Street, near Peace, Plainfield, N. J. Office Hours—7 to 9 a. m., 1 to 3 p. m., 7 to 9 p. m.—ap 15-1y.

JACKSON & CODINGTON.
Counsellors-at-Law,
Commissioners of deeds, Masters-in-Chancery, Notaries Public. Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street.—jes1f

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer,
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 182, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of CONSTITUTIONALIST. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES R. THEIRS,
Dentist,
20 West Front street. A new local anesthetic application for extracting teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty.—jes1f

H. HAND,
Auctioneer,
P. O. Address, Lock Box 71, Scotch Plains, N. J. Orders left at Th. Cartlitz nursery, hand store, 52 West Front street, Plainfield, N. J., will receive prompt attention.—ajl3f

OSCAR S. TEALE,
Architect,
247 Broadway, New York city. Rooms 21 and 22. (Importers' and Traders' Exchange Building.) Residence, Plainfield, N. J.—jes1f

WM. K. McCLURE,
Attorney-at-Law,
MASTER IN CHANCERY, NOTARY PUBLIC.
Commissioners of Deeds. Office, North avenue opposite depot.—jes1f

J. H. FERSTER,
Veterinary Surgeon.
Office in Chas. Pine's livery office, corner Main street and Madison avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Day and night calls promptly attended. Telephone call No. 18. Consultation on diseases of all domesticated animals. Residence, 72 East Fifth street.—jes1f

DR. GEORGE GIDNEY,
Veterinary Surgeon.
Removed from Second street to 114 West Front street, opposite Liberty.—jes1f

ARTHUR P. MILLER,
Attorney-at-Law,
(Successor to the late W. B. Maxson), Solicitor in Chancery, Notary Public. Will buy and sell real estate, negotiate loans, and take charge of property. Office over First National Bank.—jes1f

F. A. DUNHAM,
Civil Engineer and Surveyor,
No. 7 Park avenue, Coward's building. Particular attention given to the adjustment of disputed boundary lines. Parties sent to all parts of the country.—jes1f

DR. J. F. GRIFFEN.
Electric Baths.
Dr. Griffen treats all Nervous affections, Uterine complaints, Skin diseases, Asthma, Catarrh, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia and Chronic diseases generally by Electricity and Electric Baths. Consultation free. Lady attendant for the ladies. 20 East Second street, corner Washington.—my14tf

BUSINESS CARDS.

TO THE PUBLIC!
We wish to inform our customers and the public generally that we have on hand the best quality of
LEHIGH COAL,
Fresh from the Mines.
It is under cover and well protected from the weather. We are prepared to deliver it well screened and in good order promptly. We are also prepared to furnish all kinds of Seasoned Lumber and Masons' Materials at short notice.
A. D. COOK & BRO.
jan8y1

J. Hervey Doane,
9 PARK AVENUE.
[Formerly Clare's.]
Watches,
Clocks
And Jewelry.
Repairing neatly and promptly done.
my21

WM. H. SHOTWELL,
DEALER IN GROCERIES, PROVISIONS, VEGETABLES, DRIED FRUIT, ETC.
CORNER EMILY AND DUER STREETS
North Plainfield, New Jersey.
Celebrated Pilsbury Flour,
THE BEST IN THE MARKET.
ORDERS CALLED FOR AND DELIVERED.
Thankful for past patronage I solicit a continuance Respectfully,
my21y WILLIAM H. SHOTWELL.

BOSTON CLOTHING HOUSE
42 W. FRONT ST.
Reliable Goods at Low Prices.
Order Department
Under the well-known Cutter,
NEWTON P. DRAKE.
Correct Styles. Right Prices
my21tf

Geo. A. Moore,
(Of the late firm of Moore Bros.)
Is now the sole proprietor of the old established market at
NO. 14 NORTH AVENUE,
Where he will continue to supply patrons with the finest grades of Fresh and Salt meats, Fish of all kinds, Oysters, Game in Season at the lowest market prices. Anything not usually kept in stock furnished at short notice. my7-tf

Edward Ramonetti,
OYSTER AND ICE CREAM SALOON.
OYSTERS BY THE QUART, 100 OR 1000.
CHARLOTTE RUSSE MADE TO ORDER.
All Orders Promptly Attended to.
24 NORTH AVENUE,
Plainfield, New Jersey. Telephone Call No. 39
jly9

HOTELS AND SALOONS.

Force's Hotel!
NORTH AVENUE
Near R. R. Depot, Plainfield, New Jersey.
JAMES H. FORCE, - - Proprietor.
A FIRST-CLASS FAMILY HOTEL.
Transient guests taken at reasonable rates.
Bottled Liquors a Specialty.

Laing's Hotel!
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
J. B. MILLER & BRO., - Proprietors.
A FIRST-CLASS FAMILY RESORT.

James Conneely
Wishes to inform the public generally that he has opened a first-class
WINE and LIQUOR ROOM,
AT NO. 39 PARK AVE.,
Where he will be pleased to furnish his friends and patrons with the choicest brands of imported and Domestic Liquors. ms11f

TURF EXCHANGE HOTEL.
73 Courtlandt street,
CORNER WASHINGTON, NEW YORK CITY
FRED. W. BALLARD, - - Proprietor,
(formerly of Jersey City), is now conducting the business corner Washington and Cortlandt streets, New York, formerly kept by the late James Van Pelt, and by Wm. Shillingsburg. All their old friends will be most courteously received.
PURE WINES, LIQUORS AND SEGARS. jy16tf

SOMERSET HOTEL,
Cor. Somerset & Emily Sts., North Plainfield, N. J.
Permanent and Transient Board, at fair rates.
First-class Stables and Sheds attached.
Meals at all (reasonable) hours. 3jan1f

C. E. JOHNSON,
Late firm of Shepherd, Johnson & Godson.
CARPENTER AND BUILDER.
Office adjoining City Hotel on Second street, near Park avenue, Plainfield, New Jersey. Residence, 15 East Second street. Jobbing especially. mch31tf

T. J. CILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
SALESROOM—Madison Avenue near Front St. Plainfield, N. J.
Goods received on consignment.

MRS. E. J. MARTIN'S
MAGIC RENOVATING FLUID.
Will take out grease from any kind of goods, without changing the color or leaving a spot. Also, for cleaning kid gloves, crape, lace, satin, ribbons, felt hats, gents' clothing. Raises the nap on velvet; removes grease spots and scale from carpets, &c. Price 25 cents per bottle. Sold at drug stores, at Mrs. E. J. Martin's dress-making rooms, 53 East Front street, and at Mrs. W. L. Force's Fancy Goods Store, No. 8 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J. my20tf

JOHN JOHNSTON,
DEALER IN COAL!
YARD AND OFFICE, SOUTH AVENUE, NETHERWOOD, NEW JERSEY.
The best quality of screened coal at the lowest market price for cash. Address all orders to Netherwood post-office.—je27ly

Park Avenue Bakery!
JOHN WALKER, Prop'r
FAMILIES and HOTELS supplied with the Celebrated
VIENNA BREAD & ROLLS,
And all Varieties of
Pies, Cake and Confectionery.
29jly1

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
Repairing neatly and promptly done.
my21

No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS,
BEST IN THE WORLD.
ALL GOODS DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE.
ap8tf

MICHAEL UHDAL,
CONTRACTOR
AND LANDSCAPE GARDENER!
Residence:
NETHERWOOD, NEW JERSEY.
P. O. BOX 787, PLAINFIELD.
P. O. Box 8, Netherwood, N. J. 19my1

FINE FOOT WEAR,
BEST MAKES,
LATEST STYLES,
AT THE
NEW SHOE STORE
Doane & Van Arsdale
22 WEST FRONT STREET.

SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc. Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in strictly first-class, sanitary and workmanship manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Plumbers' Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and pay-as-you-go men. I believe in every man running his own business at all times and in all cases.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 8 NORTH AVE. ap16tf Plainfield, N. J.

EDUCATIONAL.

DORSEY W. HYDE,
PRACTICAL TEACHER OF
Piano, Harmony & Guitar.
Fall Term commences MONDAY, Sept. 14th. SEND FOR CIRCULAR. P. O. BOX 1178. ag7tf

MR. LEAL'S SCHOOL
WILL RE-OPEN
Monday, Sept. 20, 1886.
Abundance of room and added facilities make it now possible to form another Class for Boys from eight to ten years of age. Several such pupils have been each year declined. Circulars and information on application.—ag13tf

A SCHOOL FOR BOYS
WILL BE OPENED IN THE PARLORS OF THE PARK AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH,
SEPTEMBER 15, '86.
APPLICATION MAY BE MADE AT NO. 20 PARK AVENUE, CORNER SIXTH STREET.
ANNA J. MOORE, Principal.
ag20 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

ARTESIAN WELLS.
F. & W. STOTHOFF
Are prepared to Sink Wells any depth up to 500 feet, and Tube them if need be. Pumps and Pipe furnished at fair prices. Refers to J. N. Jenkins, of Plainfield, P. O. address, Flemington, N. J. jy23m3

Mme. J. BERNARD,
ASTROLOGIST,
Residence—Harmony street, North Plainfield, fourth house from Somerset street, left hand side. Information imparted as regards present and future events, likewise marriages, journeys, lawsuits, etc. Satisfaction guaranteed. She converses in English, German and French.

My husband is a first-class Cooper, and repairs tubs, pails, barrels, etc., cheap for cash.

Electrical Work!
ELECTRICAL WORK—WE ARE PREPARED to furnish estimates for all kinds of Electrical work, from a call bell to a completely equipped house. We guarantee all our work. We will for a fixed price take care of electrical apparatus by the year, visiting and inspecting it at regular times and maintaining it in thorough working order.
PLAINFIELD DISTRICT TELEGRAPH CO., NO. 4 PARK AVENUE.
C. M. GODDARD, - Manager.
jy23tf

NETHERWOOD FARM!
MOUNTAIN AVE., NEAR FARRAGUT AVE.
A JERSEY STOCK FARM!
OVER
50 HEAD OF JERSEY CATTLE 50
Good family cows for sale at Moderate Prices. Milk and Cream delivered anywhere in Plainfield. Visitors are always welcome.
S. B. WHEELER, Manager.
J. HERBERT JOHNSTON, Plainfield, N. J. my6m6

CAREY'S
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE, NO. 45 WEST FRONT STREET,
Nearly opposite Laing's Hotel, Plainfield, N. J
Having leased the above premises I am prepared to buy and sell second-hand Furniture, Carpets, Stoves, etc. I will also take Furniture in exchange for moving. Furniture etc., stored. P. O. Box 492.—my21

JOHN MORTON,
PURE SPRING WATER
-ICE-
Delivered daily to any part of the city at the lowest market prices. Residence 169 West Front st. P. O. Box 986. Orders left at Sherwin's shoe store, No. 23 West Front street, will receive prompt attention. I hereby return my thanks to my old patrons for past patronage, and take pleasure in announcing that I have increased my business by purchasing the crop and good-will of Messrs. John Rose & Son, whereby I am better prepared to supply all with the best ice in the market.—ap15f

DOOR NUMBERS,
DOOR BELLS,
DOOR PLATES,
AT
DICKINSON & CLAWSON'S,
13 PARK AVENUE.
Sole Agents for

Dr. King's Spectacles.
jy14y1

ALEX. THORN
(Late of Berry & Thorn.
CAN BE FOUND AT 27 SOMERSET STREET,
WITH A FULL LINE OF FURNACES,
RANGES,
STOVES,
TINWARE, Etc.
Repairing in His Line Promptly Attended To.
d7y1

A. H. BOUGHTON,
44 West Fourteenth street, N. Y.
(NEAR MACY'S.)
Boy's Clothing and Hats
EXCLUSIVELY.
The most complete stock of Boy's Fashionable Goods in the city and at popular prices.
KILT SUITS,
SHIRT WAISTS,
EXTRA PANTS.
Former stand of Taylor & Co.
ap30m

PAINTERS & PAINTERS SUPPLIES

Paints, Varnishes, Glass.
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.
ap23

Weaver Bros.
House & Sign Painting, Graining.
Paper Hanging and Kalsomining a specialty.
Office and Shop in the rear of
16½ EAST FRONT STREET,
D. WEAVER. P. O. Box 331. P. WEAVER

W. N. ROWE,
PAINTER AND DECORATOR,
Dealer in Paints, Oil, Varnishes, Glass, Brushes etc. WALL PAPER and WINDOW SHADES. None but strictly first-class workmen employed and satisfaction guaranteed. No. 19 E. FRONT STREET. (C. O. Hacker's old stand.) Plainfield, N. J. P. O. Box 1288.—ap30y1

L. B. WOOLSTON. J. P. BUCKLE
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTER'S SUPPLIES. 25 NORTH AVENUE.
ap23tf

MILLINERY.

Mrs. J. M. Dunn,
FASHIONABLE MILLINER,
LATEST SHAPES OF
BONNETS AND HATS.
FRENCH IMPORTED FLOWERS.
Feathers, Velvets, Plushes, Satines, Laces, etc. Also, Fancy Goods and Notions; Dress and Infants' Caps a Specialty.
PINKING, BLEACHING & PRESSING.
Feathers Dyed. Cleaned and Curled AT SHORT NOTICE.
14 West Front street.

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

M. C. DOBBINS,
OPPOSITE RAILROAD STATION.
MANUFACTURER OF
PURE HAVANA CIGARS.
Wholesale and Retail!
o16tf

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR,
The best 5 cent cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havanas.
CLEAR HAVANA SEGARS A SPECIALTY.
A large assortment of the Choicest Brands of Foreign and Domestic Cigars, Cigarettes and Tobaccos, always on hand.
Smokers Articles in Great Variety.
ja2tf

C. M. FINE,
Dealer in HAVANA & DOMESTIC
—SEGARS!!—
No. 28 PARK AVE., (near corner of SECOND ST.) PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smoker's Materials, of every description.
The celebrated "Old Judge" Smoking Tobacco, with other popular brands constantly on hand. 14my6

--PICTURE FRAMES--
OF ALL KINDS, AT
S. E. FLOWER'S.
at New York Prices, Studio 28 West Front street. Strainers for drawing and oil painting. ap29tf

A. I. SMALLEY, N. B. SMALLEY
Smalley Bros.,
DEALERS IN
Fresh and Salt Meats, Poultry, Etc.
70 SOMERSET STREET, PLAINFIELD.
Orders called for and delivered. A share of the public patronage is solicited.—f26tf

Benj. F. Moore,
(Late of Moore Bros.)
BUTCHER,
And dealer in FRESH AND SALT MEATS, POULTRY, etc., corner Park avenue and Second street; will be open and ready for business WEDNESDAY, MARCH 30th. Orders called for and promptly delivered. Telephone Call 131.—mh26tf

MAYNARD & HILL,
PRACTICAL BARBERS
AND
Artistic Hair Dressers,
No. 26 PARK AVENUE,
Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residences. Shaving, Shampooing, &c., satisfactorily performed.
fly1

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE. CHARGES REASONABLE.
Hugo Weigman,
20 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J. mch26tf

GO TO ALLEN'S
For Stationery.
23 E. FRONT STREET.

SUMMER
HATS.
CAPS, GLOVES,
Trunks, Valises, Etc
Call and Examine the Elegant Stock of
Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods at
F. A. POPE'S,
[Successor to H. Vermeule.]
No. 5 W. Front-st,
ap16tf

Rates of Advertising.

Space	WEEKS. 1	2	3	MONTHS. 1	2	3	6	12
1 in.	$1.00	$1.50	$2.00	$2.50	$4.00	$5.00	$6.50	$15.00
2 in.	1.50	2.50	3.00	4.00	6.00	8.00	12.00	20.00
3 in.	2.50	3.00	4.00	5.00	8.00	12.00	18.00	25.00
4 in.	3.00	7.50	5.00	6.00	9.00	15.00	20.00	32.00
5 in.	3.50	4.50	6.00	8.00	12.50	18.00	25.00	37.00
¼ col.	4.50	6.00	8.00	10.00	15.00	20.00	30.00	50.00
½ col.	7.00	10.00	12.00	15.00	24.00	32.00	44.00	80.00
1 col.	12.00	16.00	20.00	25.00	35.00	50.00	85.00	140.00

All Electro's must be solid metal.
"Little of Everything" column, 5 cts. per line.
Double cols. 30 per ct. advance of above rates.

RHYMES OF THE TIMES

Trust Her Always.

Trust your mother, noble youth,
Turn not from the paths of truth;
In Temptation's evil hour,
Seek her, ere it gains new power.
She will never go do you wrong:
Faith in her will make you strong.
Trust your mother; aim to prove
Worthy of her fondest love.

Trust your mother, maiden fair;
Love will guide your steps with care.
Let no cloud e'er come between,
Let no shadow e'er be seen,
Hiding from your mother's heart
What may prove a poisoned dart.
Trust your mother; seek to prove Worthy of her faithful love.
—N. Y. Herald.

The One Idea.

"George! talk to me," the maiden cried,
To break the silence drear;
"I can't. To-night," the beau replied,
"I haven't one idea."

"Indeed, how strange," she answered, mild,
"Why so?" he asked to hear.
"Because I know," she sweetly smiled,
"That you have won high, dear."

"Oh! Ah! Miss Jones, you flatter me; Pray make your meaning clear."
"I guess I'll have to, sir," laughed she,
"You see the one I hear."

"I fail to see the point," he blushed,
"So far and yet so near."
"Then open both your eyes," she flushed,
"You are not the one-eyed bear."

"You said I was," the stupid sighed,
"And now I'm not—how queer."
"To what I've said I would," she cried,
"Have near a one's side ear."

And then in pity sofi she laid
Her hand in his sincere,
And then he understood the maid
And said: "I've won high, dear."
—H. C. Dodge, in Yonkers Gazette.

The Runaway Maiden.

Beside a little brooklet
There sate a little maiden,
Who counted a little booklet,
And she was not afraiden;
Her glossy, sun-y ringlets
Shone like as they were golden;
An angel without wingiets
This maiden was, I'm tolden.

She had a prettie flowret
Within her hande were shapen,
For to this leafy bowret
The maiden had escapen
From gloomy convent outlet,
Which was, perchance, left open—
She'd come here for to poutlet,
And likewise for to mopen.

But here she found the pamphlet,
Concerning which I've spoken—
It told about a trampiet,
Which means a man that's broken.
She read until the owlet
With hoots awoke the welkin;
Then she began to howlet,
And, furthermore, to yelkin.

The wailing of the damsel
Aroused a neighboring hamlet—
Folks thought it was a timbrel
A-bleating for its damlet.
When night began to darken
The western clouds of violet,
And wolves began to barken,
That little maid did diolet.

Love's Vigil.

I watched her window for four long hours,
Waiting to catch one glimpse of her:
Oh her window ledge I could see my flowers,
As the night wind made her curtain stir.

The mellow light through the curtain soft
Came sifting, glimmering over the way,
And I thought how many a time and oft
My heart had gladdened at that bright ray.

"Will she never come? Does she not surmise
I wait for a glimpse of her dear form?
Ere she closes in sleep those dear, dark eyes,
Will she lift her sash?" (for the night was warm.)

Slowly the moments crept apace
Till the mystic hour was twelve times told.
Still no sign of the dear one's face
For a fond "good-night" as in days of old.

But soft! She comes! My love! My sweet!
I shall see at last. Great Cæsar's bones!
They have shifted around, across the street,
And given her room to old Bill Jones!
—Judge.

Mine Enemy.

Upon the street he passed me by
To-day, my bitter enemy.
My heart was full of bitterness,
Which 'twould have pleased me to express
In some way, so that he might know
In what contempt I held my foe.
But better feelings o'er me came;
My cheeks burned with the flush of shame.
How could I have been so unkind?
He might have trouble on his mind.
My heart was full of bitterness—
His might be weighted with distress.
To injure him I fled the will—
His wife or children might be ill,
And they, his cherished ones, must be
As dear to him as mine to me.
Thus musing 'twixt regret and shame,
To this conclusion there I came:
If we of one great family
Each form a separate part,
There is no room for enmity
In any human heart.

Les Miserables.

The gorgeous rise of the sun in the east,
When breaks on the world the morn,
Does not interest or amuse in the least
The man who has a corn.

The radiant splendor of a moonlit night,
The reflection of stars in the lake,
The girl in whose eyes there dances love-light—
All pale on the man with toothache.

The life of that man is void of joy
And full of care and turmoil—
There's nothing that pleases, but all things annoy—
The man with a troublesome boil.

The man thinks the world but a fleeting show—
If he weren't a man he'd pout—
When he rocks in his chair by the fire to and fro,
With a cruel attack of the gout.
—Cincinnati Telegram.

About This Time.

When swift through glade and meadow green
Trips the light-footed dawn,
The mower from his slumber wakes,
Springs from his bed, his toilet makes,
And soon the noise of his machine
Is heard upon the lawn

Then farewell sleep, the friend of man!
It's talk is brave et' sooth:
We toss and turn and groan and sigh
In vain. We can not close an eye,
And we pronounce the mower an Unmitigated cuss.
—Boston Courier.

TRIALS OF DRUGGISTS.

Why They Must at Least Pretend to Some Knowledge of Medicine.

To be successful in these times a druggist must be something of a physician, or at least pretend to some knowledge of medicine. It is no longer sufficient that he should compound the prescriptions of doctors; he must be able to prescribe as well. Few realize the number of persons who apply to him each day for medicine. A writer for the New York Mail and Express was sitting in a drug store on Sixth avenue recently waiting for a prescription to be made up, when an old woman entered and approaching the counter said in a husky voice:

"Can't you tell me what'll cure this trouble I have in my throat? Seems sometimes as I'd go off with it."

Numerous remedies were suggested, but she had tried them all. The clerk, however, who was experienced in the business, was equal to the occasion. He began by asking doctor fashion, the exact nature of her ailment, nodding his head wisely at each answer she gave him. When she had finished, he said, in a confident manner:

"I guess we can fix you all right. Be seated one moment, and I will mix you a medicine that will make you feel ten years younger."

He then poured a variety of fluids from several bottles on the shelves into a phial, shook them well together, adjusted a label with written directions as to how the medicine should be taken, wrapped it in paper and handed it to the old lady, who walked out of the store with an air of great satisfaction.

"That old lady is a type of many who come here every day," he observed. "I do not know why they place so much confidence in the judgment of a druggist, but they do, nevertheless. The practice of physicians must suffer by it. Why, there is one old gentleman who never thinks of going to a regular practitioner to cure his gout, but whenever an attack approaches, limps around here and takes whatever prescription we give him with perfect faith. Of course a druggist can tell by the prescriptions he compounds for physicians what is good to give in many cases, but he cannot be expected to make a diagnosis of disorders and recommend the proper remedies.

"In cases where people are poor and can not afford to pay a doctor's bill, we are only too willing to do the best we can for them. A great many such people depend entirely upon our judgment, especially in extreme cases. But that's what we're hired the expense, as we are to a regular practicing physician."

WHEN JANIE MILKED THE COWS.

The daisy held her dainty cup
To catch the dew-drops bright;
The bee had kissed the clover lobs,
And bade them all good-night;
The katy-did had tuned her song
Among the apple boughs,
And farther stretched the shadows long
When Janie milked the cows.

The swallows flitted here and there,
The bat had left his bower,
The primrose, with a bashful air,
Unclosed her petaled flower;
The whippoorwill his plaintive tale
Proclaimed 'neath wooded boughs,
And twilight dropped her dusky vail,
While Janie milked the cows.

And Ben, the plowboy, strolling by,
Comes through the open bars,
While softly in the western sky
Shine out the tranquil stars.
And while the corn-blades whisper low,
Two lovers pledge their vows,
Amid the twilight's purple glow,
While Janie milks the cows.

* * * * * * *

A little cottage, snug and new,
With hop-vines at the door;
The sunbeams peeping softly through,
Lit dancing on the floor.
And when the first pale evening stars
Shine through the forest boughs,
Young farmer Ben, beside the bars,
Helps Janie milk the cows.
—Helen Whitney Clarke, in Good Housekeeping.

ROMANCE OF A PRISON.

An Aged Father and His Son Meet in the Garb of Convicts.

Georgy Washington, whose real name, George Bosworth, was revealed in a romantic manner, was received at the Indiana State Prison south, the other day, says the Louisville Courier-Journal, to serve a term of one year for horse-stealing. The crime was committed last February in Brown County, and Washington, or Bosworth, was captured by the sheriff of Mahalasville, twenty-five miles north of the scene of the robbery, surrendering after receiving a gun-shot wound in his right arm.

As best he could by signs, he explained to the officer that he was deaf and dumb, and could not communicate with him on account of his injured arm. He was taken to Nashville, the county seat, and placed in jail to await his trial. A physician attended his wounded arm, which healed in a short time, but was useless, Washington claiming that it was paralyzed. He remained in jail until the latter part of April, when he was arraigned for trial. No one had ever seen the criminal before, and he excited much curiosity. He was fairly well dressed and of a prepossessing appearance, being about twenty-seven years of age, and showing evidences of intellect and excellent raising. The trial was commenced and was gone through very slowly. A blackboard had been arranged and on this the questions asked of Washington were written. He still held out that it was impossible to write with his left hand, and, the right being useless, a lot of cards with letters printed on them were obtained, and to every question the answer would be given by arranging the letters in the proper order to construct words. By his penitent and innocent appearance Washington gained the sympathy of the court and all the spectators. The lad es of the town began to sympathize with him, and all kinds of delicacies were sent to the jail. Every body in the county seemed to be on his side except Farmer Elmere, whose horses he had stolen, who insisted that he should have the full benefit of the law, employing other counsel besides the prosecuting attorney to prosecute the case against him. When Washington was arrested he had less than two dollars on his person, and in order to employ an attorney to defend him a subscriptival was given. The trial progressed to the hearing of the evidence for the State, when Washington made known that he would like to have time to prepare a statement. The letters were taken to the jail, and to his attorney he made a statement, in substance as follows: "I plead guilty to the charge against me, and am aware of the enormity of the crime committed. I throw myself on the mercy of the court. The committing of the deed was never thought of until within a short time before being done. My life has been an honest one, and I was never before arrested on any charge. One year ago I left my home in Brooklyn, N. Y., with several hundred dollars in my possession, to make my home in Los Angeles, Cal. At St. Louis I stopped off for a few days' visit to my cousin, who induced me to remain with him, giving me employment as a clerk in his establishment. I was persuaded to loan him the money I had. A fire destroyed all he owned, and left both of us penniless. After ineffectual attempts to find employment I became discouraged, and started back to my former home a tramp. On the night the horses were taken I sought refuge from the storm in the hay-mow of the barn. When the horses were brought in by the owner a sudden impulse led me to steal and dispose of them to raise funds to reach home."

While the statement was being read nearly every lady in the court-room gave way to tears. The laws of Indiana make the crime of grand larceny punishable by a sentence to the State prison of from one to fourteen years, according to the value of the property stolen. Horse-stealing is classed as a crime almost equal to murder, and for any ordinary horse being stolen the punishment frequently is assessed at ten years' imprisonment. The court was in a quandary as to what it should do, and after taking nearly two weeks to think over the matter sentenced Washington to prison for one year, the lowest possible punishment.

A petition was put into circulation asking for Executive clemency, and the criminal was held just as long as possible, in the hope that a pardon would be granted. Hope was at last abandoned, and it was concluded to convey him to the prison. Hundreds of persons visited jail to bid him good-bye. The trip to Jeffersonville was uneventful, Washington never by the least sign showing that he was other than a deaf-mute, and the arm which had been wounded hung limp and apparently useless by his side.

After he had been delivered to the officers of the prison, and as he was just about to enter the door that led to the cell house, he turned around with a laugh, and extending the supposed paralyzed arm said: "Good bye, sheriff; give my thanks to the good old judge and the ladies of Nashville for their kind treatment, and tell them I played the same racket in Allen County eighteen months ago, and received one year in the Northern prison for riding a horse away belonging to a farmer named Anderson, near Fort Wayne. I had just been out two weeks when again captured, and if it had not been for a shoe coming off one of the horses you would have never got me."

This, the first utterance heard from the lips of Washington, nearly paralyzed the sheriff, and he vowed that if he returned to his home and told how Washington had played it on them, he would be accused of being drunk in Jeffersonville, and had a certificate made out to the effect that the prisoner was deaf and dumb.

By the time Washington had donned his prison garb it was supper time, and he was placed in the rear of the ranks filing into the dining-room. Whenever a new convict is received he is called a fresh fish by the older ones. During the first meal they are subjected to the scrutiny of those occupying tables near to them. Washington was destined to be the most sensational "fish" caught for some time. At the same table, and immediately opposite him, was an old gray-haired convict—Alexander Bosworth—who was sent to prison eight years ago, from Ripley County, to serve a seventeen years' sentence for counterfeiting. Bosworth took as much interest in the new arrival as the rest of the convicts. Suddenly he turned deathly pale and shook like a leaf. His head fell forward and he cried: "My son." With great difficulty he again raised his head and looked at the new convict. The recognition was mutual, and the son, whose name was supposed to be Washington, said: "Yes, I am your son."

The meal of both was untouched. The old man sat in silence, misery being discernible in every line of his face. The convict heard the discovery as best he could, and when supper was over each followed his line to different quarters in the cell-house. The old man bowed down by his own disgrace and the discovery that his son was a felon in the same building, was almost heart-broken, and, after his arrival at his cell, threw himself on his cot and gave vent to his pent-up grief in silent weeping. Toward night he became more composed, and gave the story of his life.

For many years he was a merchant in Cincinnati at first in a small way, but by economy and strict attention the business increased, and at the age of forty he found himself in command of sufficient means to buy a small piece of property. He then married a lady a few years his junior, the result of the union being a daughter, Amelia, and the convict son, George. The business continued to prosper, and a few years found him comparatively well off. The daughter died at the age of twelve, and within a year she was followed by the mother. At her death it was her request that the son be given a collegiate education, and, if possible, he be induced to become a preacher. After the death of wife and child, Bosworth became negligent of his business, and devoted the greater portion of his time to the welfare of his son. George, being a boy of quick learning, was, at the age of sixteen, prepared to enter the primary department of an Ohio college. He was at first supplied with all the money he desired, but the father, during his lonesome hours at home, was led into several speculative schemes that in the end completely broke him up. In order that the desires of his dead wife might be carried out he began casting his thoughts around for some way to obtain money to keep the son at school.

In the spring of 1878, while in the vicinity of the Ohio & Mississippi railway depot, he fell in with a stranger, and together they walked up Mill street toward the business part of the city. During their walk Bosworth and the stranger engaged in talking about business matters, and the stranger they walked up Mill street toward the business part of the city. During their walk Bosworth and the stranger engaged in talking about business matters, and the straitened condition of the once prosperous merchant was revealed to the companion. The stranger, who afterward turned out to be a young Rittenhouse, and a member of the then broken-up gang of counterfeiters by that name, which had been carrying on the manufacture of bogus money for years near Napoleon, Ripley County, Ind., took kindly to the old man, and informed him that he was very quietly manufacturing queer money, and he would furnish it to him very cheaply, and as the article he made was first class in workmanship, he would run but little risk in circulating it. Bosworth at first hesitated about going into the business, but after several drinks had been taken, and the humiliation it would cause his son to leave his studies considered, he consented and before he had separated from his new-found friend he was in the possession of one hundred five-dollar counterfeit bills that Rittenhouse had on his person wrapped up in a piece of paper.

Bosworth succeeded in his new business without being detected, and made frequent trips to the home of Rittenhouse for a supply of the spurious whenever he would run out. Unawares to him he was at last suspected, and a detective shadowed him. The sheriff of Ripley County was made aware of the business carried on, and in December, 1878, as Bosworth was about to board a train at Osgood for Cincinnati, he was arrested. His partner, however, got wind of the affair, and fled before an arrest could be made.

The county court was in session at Versailles, the county seat, and after an indictment was secured the prisoner found it would be useless to make any attempt to fight the case, pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to seventeen years in the prison at Jeffersonville, where he arrived early in 1879.

The disgrace was so keenly felt by the father, whose name had never been before blackened, that he concluded to keep his son in ignorance of his fate. He never communicated with him afterward, and was unaware of his whereabouts until he met him at the supper table in the prison. Nothing is known as to how George Bosworth came to embark in the life of a horse-thief. It is but natural to suppose that, after his father had abandoned him, he returned to his former home; and, not finding any trace of his father, and being without means, fell in with some of the notorious gang of thugs that infested the city at that time, who had their headquarters in the vicinity of Fourth and Sycamore streets, and became a professional thief. The circumstances related are not often met with, and only go to show what prison life sometimes reveals.

A NEW OLIVER TWIST.

The Strange Story Told by a Fourteen-Year-Old Chicago Boy.

According to a St. Joseph (Mo.) special a veritable Oliver Twist was discovered in that city the other day in Alexander McKay, a small-sized fourteen-year-old boy, hailing from Chicago. The Fagan in the case, as described by McKay, is a large, black-bearded man, the chief of a band of robbers whose headquarters are in some den in the southern part of the city. The boy's story is that in Lincoln Park, Chicago, he was invited to drink from a bottle by the man before mentioned. He did so and became unconscious. When he regained his senses he found himself in a box-car with the man on a moving train. They stopped at Davenport, Ia., and in the night boarded a freight-train, arriving at St. Joseph two days later.

The boy was taken to a saloon near the railroad yards, the headquarters of the gang, and kept close prisoner. It was explained to him that he was expected to assist in housebreaking, pocket-picking, etc., and he was threatened with death if he refused. He was sworn to secrecy, and then given instructions. The next night he was taken out by a man they called "Smifty" to try his hand at picking pockets. When they reached the Union depot the boy yelled to the first policeman he saw: "Help! help!" His companion struck him a terrible blow on the head and fled, and so far all have escaped arrest. The boy was taken in charge by the chief of police and his father in Chicago communicated with by telegraph, who verifies the story of his mysterious disappearance.

THE INCOMING SENATE.

Interesting Gossip About Its New Members and Their Families.

The election of Senator Chandler, from New Hampshire, completes the list of Senators and Senators-elect of the Fiftieth Congress, says a Washington special. The roll will stand, Republicans, thirty-nine, including Mr. Riddleberger, of Virginia, and Democrats, thirty-seven. California, Ohio and Virginia are the only States whose Senators are divided. This is the closest political unity in the Senate by States since the war. Political differences in the last Congress, between Senators, existed in those from Ohio, New Jersey, Nevada, Indiana and at one time California, and, in the Forty-eighth Congress the divisions were between those from California, Indiana, Nevada, New Jersey, Ohio and Oregon. Senators-elect Stewart, of Nevada; Hearst, of California, and Paddock, of Nebraska, are also ex-Senators.

Senator-elect Chandler has been in public life for over twenty years, and is the second member of the late President Arthur's Cabinet to be elected to the Senate. Mr. Teller, of Colorado, having served under the last Administration as Secretary of the Interior.

The new faces will be the Democratic Senators from Florida, Indiana, New Jersey, Tennessee and West Virginia, and the Republican Senators from Michigan, Minnesota and Pennsylvania. The new Senator from Florida, Mr. Samuel Pasco, is fifty-three. When he comes to Washington he will meet a few of his boyhood friends whom he has not seen for over thirty years. Among them are Dr. Charles F. McDonald, superintendent of the money order system of the Post-office Department, and Naval Constructor Phil p Hichborn, United States navy, now on duty in Washington. Mr. Pasco and Mr. Hichborn were the only boys in the class who graduated at the Charleston high-school in 1854. When they entered the class it was composed of forty pupils. It dwindled down to e

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE, | A. L. FORCE,
Editors and Proprietors.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

Replying to the question—"Who is your choice for President in 1888?"—a leading agricultural citizen of Tennessee the other day promptly made answer—Grover Cleveland, because he is honest and upright, and knows his duty, and is not afraid to perform it."

That truthfully expressed character of President Cleveland reveals the cause of his solid popularity with the masses of the people.

Corrupt lobbyists and spoils politicians are not in favor of President Cleveland, but the voting sovereigns of the country are, and why?—

Because he is honest and upright.

Because he has the manhood to do what he thinks right.

A glorious and just reputation.

That is exactly the kind of public official the people of the United States have learned to value and respect, and for whom the independent vote, every year growing wider and stronger, will be enthusiastically cast.

HONESTY is rapidly becoming the battle cry of the honest people, regardless of partisanship or wordly condition.

By that sign can Good Government alone conquer.

THE FLAG.

There is one flag in this broad Union of States about which no controversy whatever exists among citizens of the American Republic, be they high or low, white skinned or colored.

That flag is as beautiful as the rainbow hues of Heaven, as brilliant as the cloudless dome of night.

It represents victories many and great, both on land and sea.

But it also heralds the grand triumphs of peace.

It proclaims to all the world the blessings of civil and religious liberty, and the success of free representative government.

It is the guarantee of national greatness, as from Maine to Texas, and from ice-crowned Alaska to flower-decked Florida, it floats in majestic authority over a united and happy country.

It is the star-spangled banner.

The flag of flags.

The pride of the past and the hope of the future.

Rally round it!

GLADSTONE.

The Tories of England do not relish the formal and influential congratulations sent by citizens of the United States to Mr. Gladstone.

All right, Messrs. Tories!

The Americans, as is their duty, thank Mr. Gladstone for endeavoring to secure to Ireland the right of local self-government, which right your tyranny clad ancestors, the Lord North's of King George's day, strove to withhold from America.

Like it or not, the people of these United States, with the exception of an insignificant minority, are on the side of Gladstone and Home Rule for Ireland, and what is more, they boldly declare where they stand.

We, as a people, would be ungrateful, if we did not cheer on the advocates of free government in Ireland and everywhere else under the sun.

Freedom forever!

DEMOCRATIC EDITORS IN SESSION.

The second annual meeting of the Democratic Editorial Association of New Jersey, convened at the Cahill House, Asbury Park, yesterday. Among other business transacted was the election of the following officers:

President—Col. H. C. Page, of the Herald, of Bayonne City. Vice-Presidents (one for each Congressional District)—First, Alexander Schlesinger, of the Journal, of Camden; Second, John Briest, of the Emporium, of Trenton; Third, William L. Force, of the Constitutionalist, of Plainfield; Fourth, John L. Jones, of the Democrat-Advertiser, of Flemington; Fifth, Harry D. Winton, of the Democrat, of Englewood; Sixth, Wm. Hutchinson, of the Evening Journal, of Newark; Seventh, Charles S. Clark, of the Argus, of Jersey City. Treasurer—J. L. Naar, of the True American, of Trenton. Secretary—St. George Kempson, of the Democrat, of Perth Amboy.

Resolutions were adopted endorsing the administrations of President Cleveland and Governor Green.

The New Jersey State Dental Society opened its seventeenth annual session at the Coleman House, Asbury Park, Wednesday.

The loss by fires in the United States during June amounted to $10,182,100. This exceeds the average for the same months in past years by nearly $4,000,000. At this rate, the nation will loose absolutely a sum equal to the national debt within a dozen years. The "fire-loss" is a source of frightful and needless waste. It would pay to enforce stringent regulations as to the erection of buildings, so that they would not be mere tinderboxes.

The Republicans of the County do not appear to be all harmonious in relation to the nominations for candidates to be supported at the approaching Fall election. There are two or three different "combines" at work. The principal one appears, "to a person up a tree," to be Elias R. Pope, of Plainfield, for Senator; Samuel Oliver, of Rahway, for County Clerk; Fred. F. Glasby, of Elizabeth, for Sheriff, and Geo. T. Parrott, of Elizabeth, for Surrogate. Then there are other combinations and individuals who are willing to place themselves "in the hands of their friends." For instance, Hon. Wm. Chamberlain has been named by different ones in connection with Senator, County Clerk and Surrogate; ex-Assemblyman Sheldon for one of the principal offices; Sheriff Stiles for Senator and County Clerk; Assemblyman Corbin for Senator; Street Commissioner Matson, of Elizabeth, and D. J. Bunn, of this city, for Sheriff—and the returns have only commenced to come in.—Rahway Dem.

A Farmer Robbed.

A farmer, whose name we are unable to learn and who occupies what is known as the Sandford farm on the Greenbrook road to the North-west of Dunellen was robbed by his hired man Friday morning. The farmer drove his family to the depot this morning, where they took passage on the M. E. Sunday school excursion train for Asbury Park, leaving the hired man at home to look after the place. When he returned from the station, he discovered that the man was missing, and everything about the house was in general disorder. An investigation was immediately instituted, and among other things that were missing with the man were about $20 in cash. Search was also made for the thief but he was nowhere to be found. The farmer drove rapidly to Dunellen but was unable to find any trace of the man there. He next came to Plainfield and sought the service of Chief Dodd, who has been keeping a sharp watch for the robber, but as yet he has failed to hunt him down. The farmer said that he engaged the man from an intelligence office in New York, about a week ago, and that since then he had worked industriously up to this morning, when he suddenly took his departure.

His Foot Cut Off by the Cars.

Charles Schwier, aged fourteen years, and a brother-in-law of Charles Arnold, a butcher doing business on Liberty street, had his left foot cut off by the cars at the Madison avenue bridge about half-past eleven o'clock Friday. Engine No. 190, in command of conductor "Whit" Barber, attached to an east bound coal train was passing at the time when the boy, who was running alongside the train, stumbled and fell, the wheels on the cars passing over his foot, lengthwise. None of the crew on the coal train saw the boy fall, but soon after the accident occurred he was discovered lying between the tracks. A stretcher was procured and the wounded boy was taken to the freight house. He remained conscious all of the time, and related his experience to those around him. Some people are inclined to believe that the boy attempted to catch on the train, but he says he was only running along the track at the time, when he stumbled and fell as above stated. The foot was terribly mangled, so that amputation will probably become necessary to save his life. The boy evidently experienced but little pain, as he lay quietly on the stretcher at the freight house. The shoe was wrenched from his foot and the heel smashed. About noon the injured boy was taken to Mr. Arnold's residence on Liberty street where a physician dressed the wounds.

The Netherwood Lawn Party.

The Garden Party at Netherwood, Friday evening, was not only the most successful affair of its kind in many particulars, but the most novel in many of its features. The profits of the affair will reach about one hundred and fifty dollars, and be quite an assistance towards the purchase of a new organ in place of the vocalion now in use at the Netherwood chapel. Generally the result of events of the kind is the presence of less guests than hostesses, but upon this occasion the large attendance of patrons from this city and the Hotel outnumbered even the many ladies who were in the active service of the affair. So successful was the entertainment socially and financially, another is to be given within a fortnight. The ladies who served the iced cream and cake, tea and sandwiches, under the star-studded canopy of Heaven, were Miss Ella and Miss Mary Haines, Miss Schmidt, Miss White, Mrs. Poillon, Mrs. Holly, Mrs. Henry Bowen and Mrs. Haines. Miss Anthony, in charming cap and diamond necklace, was the seller of perfume as sweet; Mrs. W. L. Brown ladled out the chocolate-punch that neither cheers nor yet inebriates; the Misses Griswold presided over the candy bower and the lemonade well; and Miss Morris read your answer in your palms. The gentlemen who assisted were Messrs. John H. Taber and James Anthony, Mr. Buchanan, and Foreman Canfield, of the Sharpe jury. Mr. James Anthony also conducted a Punch and Judy show indoors, that added greatly to the net results. One novel source of the entertainment was a beau-guessing, at which game of talent and mental arithmetic the Marquis Michael Carachie, Herbert Bowen, Esq., and Mr. Hetchell, Secretary of the Italian Consul General, all took the cake.

Reception to Dr. Ketcham.

One of the most delightful receptions that has occurred for a long time in Plainfield, took place last Friday in the parlors of the First Presbyterian church, when the congregation of that church welcomed their pastor and his daughter home from their foreign tour. Not only were all the leading members of the church present, but we noticed also that Rev. Dr. Yerkes, Rev. Mr. Richards, Rev. Mr. Honeyman, Rev. Mr. Rodman, Rev. Mr. Goodrich, Rev. Mr. Schenck and Rev. Mr. Love were among those who gave Dr. Ketcham a warm welcome, and rejoiced at his safe return. Shortly after eight o'clock Mr. St. John made an address of welcome on behalf of the congregation, assuring the Doctor that while they were glad that he went away, they were still more glad that he had returned. As an evidence of their regard for him, he wished to state that the people had obeyed strictly his parting injunction—to attend regularly the prayer-meeting and Sabbath services. Mr. Henry Opdyke then made an address on behalf of the Elders and Sabbath school. In neat and choice language he told of their deep regard for him, and of their joy at his return. He alluded, touchingly, to the late communion service, when they felt that though absent in body he was present in spirit, as they broke the bread and poured forth the wine.

Mr. Manning, Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., followed with an address on behalf of the Society of Christian Endeavor, and said that words could not express their feelings, nor could they in a formal manner tell how grateful they were to God for bringing him and his back to them again.

Dr. Ketcham in response said that the best part of his trip was the getting home, for that revealed the deep regard of valued friends. After all there was nothing so grand on earth as human affection, and nothing so precious as human love. He had greatly enjoyed his trip, and been greatly favored, for Providence had been very kind to him. The weather had been perfect, and he had seen Naples and Vesuvius, and Sorrento and Switzerland in all their glory, but more delightful than all that he had seen was the evidence of affection manifested since his arrival by his people and by his friends. He desired to thank them sincerely for what they had done, and also for this reception, and he desired to thank his brethren in the ministry for their kindness. Their sermons had, without exception, been acceptable, and he doubted not, profitable, and he was deeply grateful for their aid.

Dr. Ketcham's speech was loudly applauded, after which Mr. Leo. Feininger, gave a violin solo to the great delight of the audience. Miss Gavett acted as accompanist on the piano in this and also in another solo by the youthful violinist. Solos were also given by Miss Smalley, Miss Ketcham, and Mr. Elmer Runyon, after which refreshments were served.

Dr. Ketcham seems to be in perfect health and in excellent spirits, while his daughter, Miss Beulah, is as bright and cheerful as ever. The congratulations they received were enough to fill them with joy, and bind them to their Plainfield friends with bands of iron.

—The Y. M. C. A. ball nine of Plainfield is to be one of the strongest teams in the Y. M. C. A. league.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

John Hammond Has a Miraculous Escape from Instant Death—The Shoes Torn From His Feet and His Body Scorched.

What is considered a miraculous escape from instant death occurred to John Hammond a gardener employed by Mr. A. D. Shepard at Scotch Plains on Saturday evening. The man has been employed by Mr. Shepard to work about his spacious grounds for the past fifteen years. He resides with his children on East Second street, near the gravel pits, and walks to and from his work every morning and evening. About half-past six o'clock on Saturday evening Mr. Hammond was walking along East Front street on his way home. He noticed a shower approaching from the North-west and as he ascended what is known as Cole's hill, midway between this city and Scotch Plains, the rain began to fall in torrents. In order to escape a severe drenching, Mr. Hammond says he sought shelter under an apple tree, but as the storm increased in violence, he ran a short distance and again stopped under a large willow tree standing in a field, a short distance from the road way. He had remained there but a short time when a bolt of lightning split the tree, felling him to the ground, unconscious. When he regained his senses, nearly an hour afterward, he was unable to move his lower limbs and could not speak above a whisper. He tried to signal some persons who were passing but was unable to attract their attention. Presently two German girls passed and he succeeded in bringing them to his side. The girls could not understand what he meant by motioning, but finally ran off and informed a milkman named Gordon, who hastened to the spot and found the prostrate man lying under the tree wet and bleeding from his wounds. The shoe on the right foot was completely torn from the foot, while the other one was badly torn and burned. Both legs were swollen to enormous proportions and the left arm and shoulder were terribly burned. Blood flowed profusely from the left ear, and the left cheek was swollen and discolored. Mr. Gorden procured a wagon, and with assistance brought the injured man to his home on East Second street. Doctors Jenkins and Tomlinson were summoned and did all in their power to alleviate the man's sufferings. A PRESS reporter who called at the house this morning, found Mr. Hammond very weak and confined to his bed. He said that at the time he was struck, he was carrying a dinner pail, but does not remember anything else until he noticed some people passing along the road. He also says that the wounds about the head are the most painful and that both of his legs and arms were badly singed. The shoe on the right foot was literally torn off and on the instep of the foot the flesh was severely burned. Mr. Hammond told the reporter that he had never before been afraid of lightning, but the shower last evening made him very timid and caused him much pain. To-day he is much improved, but his thrilling experience in Saturday's storm will probably result in his confinement to the house for some time. The man, although nervous, related his story in a straightforward manner, and is himself cognizant of the fact that his escape from death was most wonderful. Mr. Hammond is to be pitied. Recently he lost his wife and several children all within a period of about eighteen months. He is, however, fortunate to have been in the employ of so kind and generous a family as that of Mr. Shepard, who will see that he is made as comfortable as possible.

Death of a Well-Known Resident.

About midnight of the 14th, the death of William L. Jones occurred at his residence at Park avenue and Seventh street. Since our notice of his very critical condition a week ago, the unfortunate gentleman lay helpless, striken down with paralysis, while his life steadily wasted away. He was seventy-two years of age, and a native of Wales. He came to this country by way of Canada when about eighteen, and shortly after come to reside permanently in the State of New Jersey. He married a Miss Davenport of Pluckamin who survives him. He accumulated much wealth after many years as a New York crockery merchant, and upon retiring from business about twenty-two years ago, took up his residence in this city. He first boarded with Mrs. Catherine Vail where that lady stills resides on West Fourth street, while awaiting the completion of the handsome residence where he now lies dead. He was most public spirited in his ways, and probably did more in the beginning than any other man towards making the neighborhood in which he lived one of the choicest. One daughter lived to reach maturity, and during the late war her husband, Col. Hugh Janeway, of the 1st Cavalry, was shot at the head of his troops. She afterward married Mr. Fred. Bannard, Chief Engineer of Maintenance of Way, of the lines of the Pennsylvania R. R. Co. The deceased was the uncle of G. W. Smalley, the celebrated London correspondent of the New York Tribune, whose wife is the daughter of the Hon. Wendell Phillips. Mrs. Jones survives her husband, as does his daughter, Mrs. Bannard, and her children—the oldest a son of the late Col. Janeway. The remains were deposited in the receiving vault at Hillside Cemetery, Monday morning.

A Pleasant Picnic Party.

The dam across the Raritan river, at the Five Mile Lock, just below Bound Brook, is a favorite resort for anglers. Besides the success generally accorded fishermen who "cast their lines" in the foaming waters beneath the dam, the place has become prominent of late years, by reason of picnic parties and families visiting the locality to enjoy a day's outing where cool breezes, shady spots and good fishing are obtainable. The cleanliness and perfectness of the locality, is mainly due to the fact that the New Jersey Game and Fish Protective Society, who hold the lease of the shore property, have kept all former nuisances away from the premises, and kept a watchful eye over the property, so that no nuisance is allowed. The public are cordially invited to the grounds, no restriction being placed on the use or occupancy. Recently a pleasant picnic party visited the locality, consisting in part of Mr. George Thatcher (of minstrel notoriety) and wife, his niece and nephew, Mr. George and Nellie Wheeler, of Baltimore, Md., Mr. Alex. Robinson, (George's bosom friend) also of Baltimore, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Bogart, of Westfield, and friends from this city. The ladies furnished the lunch, the gentlemen the fish, and both proved a success in point of excellence and number. "Alex." returned home proud with the knowledge that he had captured, all alone by himself, the largest black bass caught during the day. His mode of landing the gamey fish differs somewhat from the regular style, inasmuch as he comes from "My Maryland," where the angler "yanks" the fish out of its native element by a tremendous surge. Rod and line have to be made expressly for such purpose. However, we think, if Alex. visits this section another season, he will know more about how to land a black bass of heavy weight than he now does. George is as careful about how he lands his bass as he is about giving a good minstrel entertainment. He uses scientific judgment. That is, he says so, but "Alex." disagrees with him. "All the same," the party aforesaid had a pleasant time, and returned home with a fine lot of fish, sunburned faces and satisfied consciences. They all say—"let's go again."

A Proposed New Club.

Since the existence of Union Club—that far from too social organization of Plainfield gentlemen—expired by limitation of its pleasures and privileges, many rumors of the rising of another club from the ashes of the past, have reached us. As was stated three months ago in the columns of The Constitutionalist, a club is to be formed by a number of the more liberal members of the late Union, but nothing in that direction save a casual consideration of the scheme, will occur before Fall. There has been some talk of a purchase of "The Crescent" by a stock company of wealthy citizens, and its alteration to serve every purpose and desire of a club—including a small hall for the club's own entertainments or for rental, a gymnasium, swimming baths, etc. Such a project is still under deliberation. Then again, about a dozen old members of the Union, stand ready to subscribe $1,000 each towards a fund for the purchase of the Washington Rock property and the establishment of a club house there, that will also be at the service of the general public.

The latest of all the schemes, however, that comes to our knowledge, is confessed to us in confidence by a prominent architect who has been consulted as to plans and cost of alterations. We are not at liberty to divulge his name, just now, nor the exact location of the property in view, just yet. The house in the eye of those forming the new club, is a handsome and commodious one situated on Crescent avenue. The architect has gone over its interior as it now exists, and after such inspection has designed the following plan of re-arrangement and decoration that will result in the creation of one of the most convenient and elegant club houses in the State. The entrance hall is to be paved with the choicest minton tile, and from it will ascend a grand staircase of old English oak, lighted by an immense leaded stained-glass window. Opposite the lower landing of this staircase will be a capacious fire-place for log burning, furnished with hammered steel andirons and foot-rests in artistic designs. To the left of the entrance, the reception room—floored in marquetry, wainscoted with mahogany, and with rough-finished walls tinted in neutral shades; the ceiling panelled and artistically treated, and the grate fire-place sunk in an imported chimney piece. On the right of the entrance, a lounging and smoking room with library and reading room back, both of which will have polished oak floors strewn with Persian rugs, walls and ceilings frescoed, and open fire-places in massive oak chimney pieces with cabinets and mirrors. Back of the library, the restaurant light and airy, surrounded by windows arranged to overcome draught from any direction, and its light subdued by stained glass. Opening into this dining-room is to be a conservatory filled with tropical and other rare plants, with a fountain in its centre, and so arranged and heated that it will be used as a Winter garden. In an addition to be built is situated the billiard room lighted by day from its ceiling of ground glass. Beneath this—the basement floor—is to be constructed the bowling alleys with the latest improved means for overcoming all sound of rolling balls and falling pins. On the same floor will be the Steward's office and private room, as well as his store rooms, servant's hall, scullery, etc. On the second floor of the main building will be arranged private dining rooms, card rooms, and two luxuriously furnished bedrooms, and the servant's quarters. The house is to be heated throughout by steam, and lighted by electricity. There will be lavatories on every floor. The grounds will be laid out for tennis, croquet etc., and surrounded by a heavy granite coping on which will be mounted an elaborate iron railing of an intricate arabesque pattern. Further developments in the matter of the formation of any club of the sort, will, of course, be first known to the readers of THE PRESS.

The Palermos Sent to Jail.

Mrs. Palermo, her daughter and Mrs. Filimere Rossa, three of the persons who were implicated in the brutal assault upon Mr. and Mrs. Embly Stewart, Miss Davis, a sister of Mr. Stewart and John Stewart, a son of the old couple in Stiger Alley on Monday, were arraigned before Justice Wadsworth at the station house Tuesday afternoon. Two sets of warrants were issued for the arrest of the entire party of Italians, but through a mutual agreement on the part of the two Justices who issued the warrants, Judge Wadsworth presided at the examination, and he was assisted by Justice Nash. The station house was crowded with people who were desirous of ascertaining what disposition would be made of the several complaints. All of the injured persons, including Embly Stewart, whose wounds were considered the most dangerous, were driven to the station house in a stage about four o'clock and given seats in the court room. Mr. W. R. Codington of the firm of Jackson and Codington appeared for the defendants, and when the case was called he said the defence was ready to proceed with the examination. The first prisoner called to the bar was Mrs. Filimere Rossa the wife of an Italian shoe maker of North avenue. The Judge read three separate complaints against her, the first by John H. Stewart, the second by Embly Stewart and the third by Harriett Stewart his wife, each charging her with assault and battery, by striking the complainant on the back and shoulders with a bed slat. Mr. Codington on behalf of the prisoner, who could not understand English, entered a plea of "not guilty."

John H. Stewart was the first witness sworn. He related the story of his driving in the lane and tying his horse in front of his father's residence, as already told in these columns. He said that Palermo first struck him without provocation and that the prisoner at the bar followed up the assault. He was interrupted by the defendant who said "me no fightee." "Shut up," said her husband, and Stewart continued: All of the prisoners and Palermo were present and engaged in the clubbing. He said that his father, mother, his aunt and Mary Vermeule could all testify to that fact.

Embly Stewart next took the stand. His head was completely covered with bandages, and he appeared weak from loss of blood, and somewhat excited. He was allowed to remain sitting while giving in his testimony. The witness had brought with him one of the bed slats, which he said was broken over his head, and also another one that was used in the combat, but which remained intact. The weapon measured about six feet in length, by four inches in width and one inch thick. He related his experience in the fracas, and said he saw the shoemaker's wife strike his son. He said that if it had not been for his wife the Italians would have killed his son, John. "All of them had sticks," said he, "and it was just like threshing buckwheat." The witness said Mrs. Stewart rushed out and grabbed her son, telling him to run for his life; he had never spoken to the prisoner but had frequently seen her at the Palermos.

Harriet Stewart was the next witness sworn. She also saw the woman strike both John and her husband, with the same slat; she got between her son and the infuriated Italians and received a terrible beating. Her testimony in effect corroborated that of the other witnesses.

Mary Vermeule was called, but she failed to respond, and Catherine Davis took the stand. She testified to having seen Palermo strike the first blow, and to John's falling from the wagon; she was too much frightened to definitely note the proceedings which followed, although she, too, came in for her share of the beating. In answer to a question she said, "I would not tell a lie to save all the Italians."

Margaretta, the eleven-year-old daughter of the Palermos, acted as interpreter for Mrs. Rossa. The Judge asked her if she knew the consequence of telling a falsehood, when the youthful interpreter answered, "to be hung up." She was sworn, and from the prisoner learned that the latter was 21 years old, married, and a native of Italy. Mrs. Rossa denied in toto that she assaulted the Stewarts, and in answer to the question as to where she was all the time, said she was making whitewash in Mrs. Palermo's house. Judge Wadsworth said that as a committing magistrate he had no right to put the defendant under oath, unless she so desired it. Neither was the prisoner obliged to answer any question that would tend to injure her case, as any omission on her part could be used against her when the case came up before the Grand Jury. The Court ruled that the defence could produce no witnesses in their behalf, whereupon Mr. Codington asked for the discharge of the prisoner, as the only evidence submitted was that offered by the witnesses for the prosecution. Judge Wadsworth explained his duties in the matter, and said that as there was a probable cause for holding the accused for the Grand Jury, and that the State had clearly proven its case, he would hold the prisoner in the sum of $200 bail. The amount of bail was subsequently reduced to $100, and her husband deposited $85 cash for her appearance when wanted, which amount the Justice accepted. The husband of Mrs. Rossa was twice ejected from the court room for interfering with the proceedings.

The case of Mrs. Palermo was then taken up, and after the three charges had been read, implicating her in the outrage, the Stewarts were again called, individually, and each related what they had seen of Mrs. Palermo's part in the affair. Embly Stewart said he grabbed the woman by the hair after she had struck his wife and sister, when Palermo came and shouted "me kill," "me kill." While again telling of his experience, Mr. Stewart became greatly excited, and declared that he was not deeply in love with the Italians. When asked who struck him, he said "that thing," pointing to Mrs. Palermo. He was of the opinion that the battle lasted about ten minutes, the Italians finally running him into his own apartments. "I tell you," said Mr. Stewart, "they worked lively while they were at it," and his wife declared that it was "just like driving a parcel of sheep." Mrs. Stewart said she went out to protect her husband and would do so every time. This statement brought forth a ripple of applause in the court room. The witness finally vouched for the assertion that the Italians looked like animals, and while the excitement was at fever heat, their eyes were as large as trade dollars.

Mrs. Annie Palermo, the prisoner at the bar said she was forty-six years old. She denied being present when the fight took place and said she was in her own house at the time, assisting Mrs. Rossa in making whitewash. Her first intimation of the brutal affair was when she saw a large crowd of people in the alley, and looking out of the door, saw the old couple covered with blood; she supposed, according to her statement, that Mr. Stewart and his son had been fighting, but she saw no blows struck; neither did she take any part whatever in the matter.

Mr. Coddington said that there were two things he would like the Court to take into consideration. One of these was Mrs. Palermo's denial and the other, the matter of fixing bail at a nominal sum, so that the prisoner could secure a bondsman, and continue to work for the support of her children. Judge Wadsworth said he was aware of the fact that Mrs. Palermo had been a hard-working woman, and had strived day and night, in sunshine and rain, for the support of her little ones and herself, and that in her abandoned condition he would deal leniently with her and make her bond reasonable, with the understanding, however, that she must be on her good behavior, and in case she took part in any disturbance, of whatever nature, the bail would be forfeited, and the prisoner must expect to go to jail. Mrs. Palermo's bail was fixed at $100.

Margaretta was the next prisoner called, and all the witnesses for the State, excepting John Stewart and Miss Davis, were positive that she took part in the affray. She was also required to furnish bail in the sum of $25 to await the action of the Grand Jury. Neither Mrs. Palermo or her daughter could get bail, and both were taken to Elizabeth this morning.

WASHINGTONVILLE.

Mr. Milliken, of New York city, has again taken up his residence in the Valley for the Summer.

The peach growers in this region are requested to meet in the Washington Valley school house on Saturday evening, the 16th instant.

The peach crop in this locality promises to be unusually heavy. Most of the trees are loaded heavily with fruit of the very best quality, and most of the farmers expect to realize fair prices for their crops.

The Mountain View Farm House, situated a short distance to the northwest of Washington Rock, is a favorite resort for Plainfielders. Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Searing, the host and hostess, are now having their "harvest" with Summer boarders.

The Somerset county freeholders are now engaged repairing the bridges over the streams in this section. Some of the smaller bridges are in a dangerous condition, and the prompt action of the freeholders in strengthening the structures is to be commended.

There are at present more New York people Summering among the mountains about Washingtonville than in former years. Whole families come here to chase the brindle cow and hunt the festive Jersey mosquito, and when they return to the city their complexion resembles that of a Creole.

The few fishermen who can find time to cast their line in the waters of the Passaic river, report meeting with good luck. A few bass are taken from the stream, and a few more remain, awaiting the arrival of the quartette of Plainfield fishermen who have declared their intention to exterminate black bass from the Passaic.

The farmers in Washington Valley, like those in other portions of the State, are busy with their hay and harvest. The yield of hay and grain is comparatively heavy. Help, however, is very scarce around here. One farmer, named Aaron Allen, engaged the services of two men to help him through "hay and harvest," and the men celebrated their engagement by first getting drunk. The men were put to work and became very obstinate when spoken to by their employer, several times threatening to "clean out the house." The men worked one day, and finally left after brutally assaulting Mr. Allen.

Trotting at the Fair Grounds.

The usual weekly trials of speed took place on the track at the fair grounds, Saturday afternoon. There were a number of spectators in attendance and the sport was greatly enjoyed by those present. The first trot was between John Osborn's horse, "Care Not" and a horse belonging to a Mr. Trust named "Butcher Boy." The latter won two straight heats in 2.39¼ and 2.40¼. The next race was between Mr. Edward Waring's "Ledger," William Van Syckle's "Sagwaw" and Mr. H. S. Phillips brown mare. "Ledger" won the race in 2.43¼.

—Thomas Martin the colored man who administers to the wants of the thirsty at the Park avenue ball field, requests us to "reject" the assertion that a piece of lemon floated through his lemonade in a rubber suit the day the "heavy weights" played with the "Crescents." He says he used as many as four lemons in preparing the beverage.

The Zephyr Ball.

The Crescent was comfortably filled, on the 13th, with as satisfied a crowd of merry dancers as ever attended a Plainfield ball. The event was given under the management of a committee of Zephyr H. & L. Co., members, who entered into the project to secure a profit for a new horse. The Committee was composed of Messrs. John Shephard, Charles Davis, P. A. Glaentzer, Charles Trotter and Frank Fine, and their earnest efforts resulted in much success. The grand march—which was slightly interrupted by an accident to the electric light machinery—included about one hundred couples; and at times, during the programme, as many more would join in the dances. The music was led by Prof. Sause of New York, and was kept up until daylight of the next morning. The refreshments were good, and everything to bring about the pleasure of all was arranged. The efficient Floor Manager was Mr. Joseph Cueney, assisted by Messrs. S. J. Robinson and E. H. Sebring. By the efforts of these gentlemen partners were introduced, sets rapidly formed and dance followed dance with no delay. The head officers of this Company that does so much for the safety of life and property at Plainfield's numerous fires, are: Foreman—Jacob Blimm; 1st Assistant—C. Westerfield; 2nd Assistant—George Ball. It is believed that the ball will result also in a financial success, and the labors of the gentlemen who had charge of the affair deserve such reward.

WESTFIELD.

Mr. H. J. Alpers and wife and Mr. S. C. Hall are stopping at the West End, Asbury Park, and Rev. J. K. Folwell is a guest at the Oriental. Mr. Arthur N. Pierson is sojourning at the Atlanta.

During the heavy thunder shower on Saturday afternoon, a bolt of lightning struck a house on Prospect street, destroying the chimney to the roof, and, passing across the street between two new dwelling houses, entered the ground near Elm street.

Saturday afternoon Mr. J. Warren Brown's horse, attached to a buggy, stood tied to a post in front of Wilcox's harness shop. It became frightened at a dog passing under him, broke loose and ran up Broad to Elm street and across the vacant lot to the brook, upsetting the wagon and wrecking it badly. The horse was secured by liveryman Burtis.

The Board of Trustees of School District No. 10, have engaged Marcus A. Weed, of Brooklyn, as principal to succeed J. A. Demarest, who has resigned. Mr. Weed has had charge of a public school in Brooklyn, with thirty teachers under him. He also was connected with Adelphi Academy for over seven years, and comes highly recommended. They have also re-engaged as teachers, Miss Stryker, Miss Gilman, Miss Moore, Miss Morehouse, and also Miss Mary Clark, daughter of James L. Clark.

Westfield's military company met recently, when E. K. Adams, Jr., of Cranford, declined the Second Lieutenancy, and Dr. F. A. Kinch, Jr., of Westfield, was elected in his place. The following non-commissioned officers were elected: First Sergeant, R. P. Moore; Second Sergeant, L. F. Lightfoot; Third Sergeant, C. P. Wilcox; Fourth Sergeant, A. N. Pierson; Fifth Sergeant, W. H. H. Du Bois; First Corporal, C. A. Echman; Second Corporal, Kenyon Messick; Third Corporal, William Stitt; Fourth Corporal, Harry Harden; Fifth Corporal, Theo. Ward. Adjt. Mandeville was present and addressed the meeting.

LIST OF ADVERTISED LETTERS.

REMAINING IN PLAINFIELD POST OFFICE FOR WEEK ENDING JULY 22, 1887.

Bacon, Josephine Miss
Bullock, Mrs B
Brown, Miss Dellie
Crawford, M Mrs
Dunn, Anna E Mrs
Demarest, Mrs
Fisher, Mary R Mrs
Gaven, Catherine
Grant, Chas Mr & Mrs.
Harris, Mars Miss (2)
Henschel, Jos
Latten, C Edward Mrs
McClus, Mary C
Miller, Otto
Moore, L M
Merrill, J
Shumas, J M
Strong, Lizzie A Mrs
Shannod, Francis
Whiting, ——
Wheeler, N H Mrs
Wolf, S
Young, Cora Miss
Young, Lulu Miss

Persons calling for above please say advertised.

W. L. FORCE, Postmaster.

DEATHS.

BOOTH—In this city July 14, Edwin, son of Frederick and Agnes Booth, aged 7 years.

BRANDON—In this city July 15, Eloise, daughter of M. H. and Ella L. Brandon, aged 2 years and 8 months.

CHASE—In this city July 14, Dr. Frederick P. Chase, aged 72 years.

COOPER—At Dunellen, July 16, James, son of John and Mary Cooper, aged 2 months.

JONES—In this city July 15th, William L. Jones, aged 72 years and 4 months.

KELLER—In this city July 10, Joseph Williams, son of Thomas H. and Susie E. Keller, aged 7 months.

KIRLY—In this city July 17, Mary, wife of John Kirly, aged 36 years.

MILLER—In this city July 13, John R. Miller, aged 78 years.

MOORE—In this city July 10, Walter F., son of William H. and Sarah F. Moore, aged 7 months and 24 days.

MOGHAN—At Dunellen July 18, Mary Moghan, aged 40 years.

MORRIS—In this city July 17th, Albert Martin, son of James H. and Allie Hayes Morris, aged 3 months and 6 days.

RANDOLPH—In this city July 17, Thomas F. Randolph, in his 63d year.

SPILLANE—In this city July 17, Margaret, wife of Michael Spillane, in her 37th year.

STEVENS—In this city July 14, Frank, son of Martin and Mary Stevens, aged 8 months.

TIER—In this city July 19, George V., son of the late George V. and Josie M. Tier, aged 18 years.

ULRICH—At Asbury Park July 15, John, son of John and Rosalie Ulrich, aged 8 months.

VARIAN—In this city July 18, Jane Varian, in her 82nd year.

WHITELY—In this city July 13, Adalaide M., daughter of James and Agnes Whitely, aged 7 months.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

FORD & STILES,
Funeral Directors
and Practical Embalmers.
Office, Warerooms and Residence
No. 14 EAST FRONT STREET.
Telephone Call No. 64.
Geo. C. Ford, ap29y1 Geo. M. Stiles

A. M. RUNYON & SON,
Undertakers and Embalmers
60 Park avenue.
Telephone Call 69.
Residence—48 Madison avenue
Telephone Call 37
"Office of Hillside Cemetery." ap1y

P. CASEY & SON.
UNDERTAKERS.
Office, No. 1 Somerset st.; Residence, No. 11 Third street, corner New, Plainfield, N. J. Everything pertaining to the business always on hand, and lower than any other firm in the State. All Calls Promptly Answered by day or Night.—o18y1

WANTS and INFORMATION

15 Cents for an insertion of 5 Lines. Each additional line, 5 cents extra. Fifteen cents for each subsequent insertion of ads.

FOR SALE OR EXCHANGE FOR A PHAETON—bay horse, 16 hands high. Address Box 201 Plainfield. 7-19-tf

TO RENT—AT WESTFIELD, NEW JERSEY, "Seven Oaks" cottage on South avenue, the direct drive to Netherwood and Plainfield. The house is modern in style, contains nine rooms and large cellar and attic, is about twelve minutes walk from station and stands in the midst of a beautiful grove of native trees. There is about four acres of land, part of which is in garden and orchard. Rent, $300. For further particulars inquire on the premises of SAMUEL HARRIS. 7-15-w3

100,000 CELERY PLANTS FOR SALE. JOHN TINGLEY, Dunellen, N. J. 7-8-w3

FOR SALE—IN MORRIS COUNTY, SIX MILES from Summit, a good farm of 67 acres, suitable for raising grain, hay or stock; 15 minutes walk from Berkeley Heights R. R. station, on the D. and R. R. R. Address D. E. TOWNLEY, Berkeley Heights, N. J. jy1m1

A SMALL PLEASANT ROOM TO LET WITH board in first class family, near depot. Terms reasonable. Private family. Apply at THIS OFFICE.—m6tf

STORAGE—First-class accommodations in new brick partitioned rooms. All thoroughly cleaned and free from vermin. Separate rooms if desired. Apply at Pope's, 1st store, or of owner, M. VANDEUSEN. Two blankets for sale cheap.—ja23tf

WANTED—AN INTELLIGENT ACTIVE BOY about 15 or 16 years old. Address in own handwriting stating name, age, and where previously employed. P. O. Box 21. m15tf

MISCELLANEOUS.

PROPOSALS FOR COAL.

Sealed proposals will be received by either of the undersigned until Saturday, July 30th inst., for best quality Lehigh Coal, say 110 tons Chestnut and 65 tons Furnace, the same to be properly screened, and delivered free of expense within the Public School Buildings of this city, at such time as the Board of Education may direct. Bids to specify whether short or long tons. The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

One Hundred & Seventy-five Tons

By order of the Board of Education.
NATHAN HARPER,
LOUIS F. WADSWORTH,
Special Committee.
Plainfield, N. J., July 18, 1887. 2w

THE ORIENT GUANO MANUFACTURING CO.
OFFICE:
16 & 18 Exchange Place, N.Y.
"Orient Works" at Orient, Long Island.
Manufacturers
SULPHURIC ACID, FISH OIL,
Dissolved BONE, Ammoniated & Dried FISH SCRAP and HIGH GRADE Chemical Fertilizers
Our facilities and advantages entitle us to say that we can and produce better or cheaper goods than our competitors. Having the control of We want some well qualified Local and General Agents in New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Call for our Circular, and particulars of Agency. All good farmers should remember the special $100 premium for the best field (not less than 5 acres) of winter wheat grown with our fertilizers. Send to us. Agricultural Society committees to judge.

A. W. RAND,

24 W. FRONT ST.

Fishing Tackle, Hammocks, Croquet, Tennis and other means of enjoying a Holiday.

OWNS AND OPERATES OVER
6,000 Miles
OF PERFECTLY CONSTRUCTED RAILWAY.
PENETRATES THE BEST

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST, - - City Editor.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE OF MAILS.

NEW YORK MAILS.
CLOSE—6.40 and 10.00 A. M.; 2.00 and 5.30 P. M.
ARRIVE—7.30, 9.30, 11.45 A. M.; 2.30 and 5.30 P. M.

SOMERVILLE, RARITON, &C., MAILS.
CLOSE—9.30 A. M. and 6.30 P. M.
ARRIVE—6.30 A. M. and 6.10 P. M.

SUNDAY MAILS—Arrive at 9.10 A. M. Office open from 9.00 A. M. to 10.00 A. M. Mail closes at 7 P. M.

Mail for Warrenville closes Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 12 M.

Post Office opens at 7 A. M. and closes at 7.30 P. M. Saturdays, closes at 9.00 P. M. Open every evening until 8.30 P. M., to owners of lock boxes.

Money order office open from 8 A. M., to 5 P. M. Saturdays to 6 P. M.

W. L. FORCH, Postmaster.

—The Democratic Editorial Association of New Jersey held its annual meeting at the Cahill House, Asbury Park, Monday, July 18th, at 8 p. m.

—There were 650 with the M. E. excursion, Friday, and every one was as happy as the day was long. Those who went along, speak of it in particular as one of the best ordered of its kind.

—D. S. Berry has contracted with John Bodine for the erection of a first-class dwelling house on the lot adjoining Cashier Carmon Parse's residence on Craig Place. Work was commenced on Monday.

—Saturday was considered the hottest day of the season. At ten o'clock in the morning the thermometer registered 80 degrees in the shade, and it was much warmer during the afternoon, running up to 99 degrees.

—All the excursions of this season to Ocean Grove are on Fridays with the exception of that under the management of Messrs. Laing and Nelson. Its date is fixed for Wednesday, August 17, with bathing hours all day.

—Kesselring, the tonsorial artist of Park avenue, has made a new departure which ought to be appreciated by all interested. He announces that hereafter his place of business will be closed on Sundays after 12 o'clock m., and 11 o'clock p. m. Saturday nights.

—A fresh supply of letter sheets has just been received at the post office. So great has been the demand for this new postal form that it has been difficult to secure a sufficient supply from the Government. The public will now again find them on sale at the postoffice.

—The Treasurer of the Fire Department would be obliged to its creditors—whose claims have been audited and ordered paid, as published in THE PRESS—if they would step into his office on North avenue, opposite the station, and get the checks that are already drawn in payment of the bills.

—William Traynor of North Plainfield was sent to the County Jail at Somerville, Friday afternoon, by Mayor Cooley, for sixty days. He was accused by his neighbors on Manning avenue of being drunk and disorderly the night before, and of ill treating his boy. Marshal Becker arrested him.

—A good story is told of a young lady who resides within a hundred miles of the fire alarm tower. When the fire bell sounded the alarm on the 12th, the young lady rose up in bed and in a dazed condition uttered the word "chestnuts," falling back on the pillow, soon to return to sweet dreamland.

—The Common Council of Morristown has just issued an ordinance providing for the trimming of shade trees, on the public highways, to a height of thirteen feet. But if it is no more effective nor enforced than a Plainfield ordinance with the same provision, the expense of its adoption might better have been saved.

—The shoe that was torn from the foot John Hammond by lightning on Saturday evening, together with a piece of the iron pump handle, which was used in the deadly work of the Italian family on the heads of Mr. and Mrs. Embly Stewart, in Stiger's alley, on Monday, can be seen in the windows of THE PRESS office on North avenue.

—An excited man rushed into town on Saturday evening and told the police that a murder was being committed on the Boulevard. The police went to the place and found a regular old fashioned family "knocking-out" match in progress, such as is characteristic of that locality. One arrest was made and the offender was fined five dollars.

—Since THE PRESS exploded the false report causing the planet Venus to be taken for an electric light in the Western sky, small knots of people cease to congregate on the street corners and discuss the possibility of illuminating the heavens by electricity. There are people who would believe that the moon was made of "green cheese," if some lunatic should declare it so.

—The macadamizing of Somerset street, which has been under the personal supervision of the Street Committee of the Borough Council, and the Street Commissioner, is now about completed from Green Brook to Jackson avenue, a distance of over 1,600 feet. So far as completed the roadbed is now in an excellent condition, and one of the most substantial driveways in the city.

—The road-race for the five-mile bicycle championship of this county, is to take place next Saturday at Westfield. It was to have been decided last Saturday, but the sad death of Miss Muchmore, who was killed in the cellonite explosion at Arlington, caused its postponement. The victim was the cousin of Mr. A. N. Pierson who is Secretary of the Union county Wheelmen, and the favorite in the coming race.

—The boom in building in the vicinity of the proposed Tool Works, already makes quite a show in completed and progressing cottages. Those who were far-sighted enough to get the best locations, will reap the richer rewards. One young man of shrewdness and brains, bought up quite a piece of land adjoining Muhlenberg Hospital. That institution, in consequence, to secure some that was most necessary for it to have, was obliged to pay a higher figure than they were given the first chance of buying at.

—The first regatta on the Cranford river, given under the auspices of the Cranford River Improvement Association, which was postponed from last Saturday on account of necessary repairs being made to the dam, will take place on Saturday, July 23rd, at four p. m. The following prizes will be awarded: Three silver medals; one ladies' watch; one handsome table gong; two pairs spoon oars, and the Cahill Challenge Cup. Any lady or gentlemen desiring to enter, will please send their names to F. I. Van Saun, Secretary, by July 18.

—Mr. L. J. Denton, whose barn was totally destroyed by fire last week, says that his loss on farming implements alone, which he had been collecting for the past twenty years, will amount to about $1,000. About fifty trees which stood in close proximity to the barn, were also burned. Mr. Denton is the owner of an extensive nursery on Hillside avenue, and had the fire communicated with the hot houses, several hundred dollars' worth of choice plants would have been destroyed. He is now left without tools to till his land, and until the insurance companies adjust his claims, his business is practically at a stand still. Mr. Denton says that for the present he will erect a frame shed for the purpose of housing the live stock and few other things he saved from the fire.

—Such authentic information as we might secure, rather inclines us to believe there will be no parade of the Plainfield Fire Department, this Fall.

—Weather reports indicate that the Baptists will have a fair day this Friday for their excursion to Long Branch and Asbury Park. Their trains go in two sections—one leaving at 7:50 and the second at 8:05 o'clock, a. m., returning, leave the Park at 6:30 p. m.

—Mr. J. C. Zimmerman of Grove street, North Plainfield, appeared before Justice of the Peace, Squire Austin, Tuesday, to answer a charge of assault and battery entered against him by his coachman. After a hearing of the case, the Justice dismissed the complaint as without foundation.

—Search is still being made for the owner of the carriage that drove into a young lad on Park avenue, Monday afternoon, and rode over the front wheel of his bicycle. A polite invitation to pay the wheel's damages will be given, to be followed, probably, by stronger measures if amicable settlement is declined.

—Music may have charms to soothe some savages, but it anything but soothes the savage neighbors of the young man on Fifth street, who plays ballads on an accordeon all the week, and "Just as I am, without one plea" on Sundays. He'll die early if he continues to dilate on the instrument. The cats in the vicinity are all bald.

—The New York papers Thursday last said that Chief Dodd threatens to bring suit for criminal libel against Constable Smith, who charged him with having appropriated to his own use money he had collected from a peddler as license fee. In conversation with a PRESS representative the Chief said that the statement was made without his authority, and that no steps have been taken to that end.

—Mr. J. B. Conover of Dunellen, called on us Wednesday and denied the report that he or his family were in direct communication with Frank Conover, his son, whom the authorities are now looking after, for his alleged implication in the Bound Brook postoffice robbery, several months ago. He says that "Winkie" as the boy was familiarly known, has not been at home since June 1886, and that the last time he saw his son was in the presence of Warden Breen at Elizabeth, on the Sunday following Thanksgiving Day in 1886. Mr. Conover says he feels very much grieved at the report in circulation, and we gladly publish the denial at his own request.

Curiosities of Enterprise.

A piece of the iron pump-handle that was broken over the heads of Mr. and Mrs. Embly Stewart by the Palermos, yesterday, is on exhibition in the office of this paper, and has attracted a great number of curious visitors. We have also the shoes that were torn off the feet of John Hammond as he was struck by lightning, on East Front street, Saturday evening. Mr. Hammond's story of his experience related exclusively in THE PRESS of Monday, is most interesting. All our readers are welcome to call in and see these trophies secured by the young men who write for THE PRESS.

A Child Severely Burned.

Frank Whitely, the young son of James Whitely, of North avenue, was playing with some matches Thursday afternoon, when his clothing took fire, and he was terribly burned about the head and body. The child's cries attracted his mother's attention, who rushed to his rescue and wrapped her dress about the boy, whose clothes were, by this time, all in a blaze. Her clothing also caught fire, and she was considerably burned, though not seriously. Fortunately, Mr. Whitely was near by, and he seized a bed-quilt, wrapping the same around his wife and child, and finally succeeded in extinguishing the fire. He was badly burned on the right wrist.

No Consolation for Us.

The contests for the consolation prizes offered as part of the awards of the Plainfield Lawn Tennis tournament, were played off Saturday afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock, on the Central avenue grounds. These contests were to give all who had played with the final winner, a chance at one another. Those eligible in the doubles were not present, but as no Plainfield players were included in the list, "consolation sets" were unnecessary. The singles were between Messrs. Elliott and Smith of Elizabeth, and Wotherspoon of Plainfield—Glazebrook the final winner having defeated each on the preceding Saturday. The result was:

Elliott beat Wotherspoon: 6-4, 0-6, 6-1.
Elliott beat Smith: 6-4, 6-3.

Sunday Night's Fire.

About 9 o'clock Sunday evening fire was discovered in the two-story brick barn situated in the rear of Mr. Henry Liefke's bakery on West Front street. A general alarm was sent out, and the fire department was soon on the spot and at work. The fire originated in a lot of hay in the loft, and the building being of brick, consequently it was kept from spreading to some frame buildings adjoining. In the building were stabled two horses belonging to Mr. Liefke, and there were also three wagons, some harness and a sleigh housed therein. These were all removed to a place of safety; but about ten bushels of corn and a half ton of hay were burned, and fourteen pigeons were suffocated. Mr. Liefke told a PRESS reporter that he was alone in the house at the time the fire broke out. About twenty minutes previous to that time he went out in the yard, but saw nothing unusual. He says that as the night was warm, the stable door had been left open, but the windows were all closed, and that he intended to close the door later in the evening. The interior of the second story was completely gutted of its contents, and two store counters were burned so as to render them valueless. Mr. Liefke's loss is trivial, and there was no insurance on the articles burned. The building belonged to Mr. John H. French, President of the Reform Club. His loss will probably reach several hundred dollars, and is said to be covered by insurance.

The fire is another, the origin of which is attributed to an incendiary. Mrs. William H. Warner, who occupies apartments over her store on West Front street, was sitting in her kitchen when the fire broke out. The barn stands but a few yards distant, and within twenty or thirty feet of Gazelle engine house and the house of Zephyr hook and ladder company. Mrs. Warner says she heard footsteps in the neighborhood of the barn, and when looking out of the window, which commands a fine view of the surroundings, she discovered the form of a man disappear around the south corner of the structure, going directly in the yard in the rear of the engine and truck house. The man cried "fire," and immediately thereafter she saw a bright light in the hay mow. Mrs. Warner had her shoes off at the time, but says if her husband had been at home, he could have easily traced the criminal. The timely discovery of the fire probably averted a most disastrous conflagration, situated as the building was, in close proximity to several frame dwelling houses. Fires of a similar nature are becoming an altogether too frequent occurrence, and some people assert that the "fire-bug" is none other than a resident here. It is said that since January last there had been more barns burned in Plainfield than in all the rest of New Jersey in the same time. The fires by incendiary causes have averaged one a week for several months past, but the one of last evening was the most daring attempt at incendiarism that has been perpetrated here for a long time.

Personalia.

Dr. Chauncy Mitchell Field is in the city again for a few days.

Miss Kate Potter is enjoying a Summer visit with friends at Haverstraw, N. Y.

Mrs. A. C. Baldwin of Park and Crescent avenues, has gone to Schooley's Mountain.

Miss Florence Pellitreau of Brooklyn, N. Y., is a guest of Mrs. R. C. Dingee of East Fifth street.

Mrs. W. B. Shaw, of Marietta, Ohio, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. E. R. Taylor, of 28 Duer street.

Miss Georgie Chamberlin of Madison avenue, is summering at Chautauqua Lake, New York State.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Wright, child and nurse, have gone to Long Island shores for a few weeks.

Mme. Alberti, the elocutionist, formerly residing in Plainfield, is a guest at the Grand Central Hotel, Asbury Park.

Mr. A. Swahn and family have gone to their usual Summer resort in New York State, to be absent until September.

Miss Sarah Stern, of Easton, Pa., is visiting Mrs. Schwed, at the latter's charming little home on East Sixth street.

Mr. Ernest Knauff of East Front street will lecture before the art class at the Chautauqua Assembly this Summer.

Mrs. J. H. Ackerman and family of West Seventh street will spend the remainder of the Summer at Atlantic City.

Mr. George A. Hoadley of Seventh and Union streets, has so far recovered from his recent illness as to be able to go out.

Mrs. John Taylor Johnston and Miss Eva Johnston left on the 10:37 train Tuesday morning on their way to Bar Harbor, Me.

Mr. E. P. Thorn and partner caught thirteen black bass in the Raritan river on Monday, and eleven fine ones on Thursday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Mattox, of New street, have great reason to feel proud of the beautiful little girl baby that arrived about noon of Sunday.

Mr. J. B. Clark of Alfred Centre, N. Y., is visiting the family of Mr. Geo. H. Babcock of Eighth and Union streets—Mrs. Babcock being his sister.

Mrs. Lindley Vail and granddaughter, Miss Emma Vail, from Maryland, are visiting the family of Theodore Vail of Madison avenue and Fifth street.

Mrs. Theodore Vail of Madison avenue and Fifth street, has returned from a few week's visit with her daughter at Chappaqua, in upper New York State.

The Ocean Grove dispatches to the New York papers locate Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Burr and Miss Florence G. Burr of this city at the Hotel Grand, Ocean Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Jacobus, and Mr. Russell Jacobus, of Front street, East, left Thursday last for some weeks at Blue Mountain Lake, amid the Adirondacks.

A patent was recently issued to Mr. W. Hipperling, of New York, for an apparatus for the manufacture of tin cans, who assigned the same to Mr. S. A. Ginna, of Broadway, this city.

Mrs. Elston Marsh is suffering from a return of the severe illness and serious troubles that almost culminated in her death some weeks ago. Her condition just now is very critical.

Mr. and Mrs. Carman Parse, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel C. Adams, and Miss Adams, went to Blue Mountain Lake, Hamilton county, New York, for their usual Summer sojourn, Wednesday.

Mrs. H. N. Case and son will leave Plainfield this week for an extended trip along the coast of Maine, and a visit to Saratoga, Spring Lake and other fashionable resorts later in the season.

A letter received from one of the members of Miss Bulkley's party to Europe, says the weather was continuously delightful, and no one at all ill with the exception of one young lady slightly so.

Mr. Winfield Angleman, the journalist, of this city, has been secured as editor of the Pine Hill Sentinel, and will take charge of that paper in the heart of the Catskill mountains, during the month of August.

The improvement in the condition of Miss Mary Lewis since her removal to the seashore, is so marked and unexpectedly satisfactory, that her parents and physicians are naturally much encouraged and quite hopeful.

Mr. Percy C. Ohl of this city has been appointed Judge of "setters" and other classes, by the New Jersey Kennel Club, which is arranging another bench show to be held in connection with the State Fair, at Waverly.

Mrs. Mair and Miss Rachael Mair of Leland avenue, and Mrs. John Lindsley of West Front street, arrived at Glasgow, Scotland, last Sunday. They sailed by the steamer "State of Georgia," Thursday morning, July 7th.

Eloise, the young daughter of Mr. M. H. and Ella M. Brandon of Plainfield avenue, died Friday. The little one was but two years, eight months and twelve days old, and her death is a severe shock to her parents and immediate friends.

Mr. Daniel S. Roberts, the North avenue liveryman, accompanied by his wife, are visiting relatives in Mason City, Ill. During their absence, the business of Mr. Roberts is being ably conducted by his son Charley, who knows just how to run a livery hotel.

The Elizabeth Journal says: "Mr. Warren Ackerman, of Scotch Plains, has a furnished cottage "among the Hills" of Glenside Park, formerly Feltville, where about sixty persons are enjoying the delightful breeze, and refreshing spring water from the pretty glen."

The Somerville Gazette says—"Mr. W. A. Codington, of Bound Brook, has begun the study of law in the office of City Judge Ulrich, at Plainfield. Mr. Codington has had charge of a public school in Bound Brook for some time past, but has a decided preference for the legal profession."

While at the unveiling ceremonies of the 13th N. J. Regiment at Gettysburg recently, Geo. W. Moore of East Front street, had his picture taken in a group of the surviving members of the regiment, posed directly in front of the monument. Mr. Moore has one of the photographs hanging in his store on East Front street.

Mr. Eli Sherman, a brilliant young journalist who for the past few months has been doing quite some able work from this city for New York papers and the Philadelphia Press, left Plainfield Saturday. Our best wishes go with him, that he may find renewed health and a prosperous future whether in this State or the Wild West.

In the latter part of August, Mr. Wallace Ross, the renowned oarsman, will row a match race against Geo. Dubear, of England, for a stake of $1,000. Mr. Joseph B. Miller, of this city, will back Ross and Thomas Murphy, Esq., of New York, champions Mr. Dubear. The location of the race has not yet been decided upon.

Mr. J. Hervey Doane, President of the Plainfield Homing Club, took one of his most valuable carrier pigeons to Ocean Grove with him, Friday, and released it upon arrival there. The bird started direct for Plainfield almost as soon as it was let loose. What time it made is not known, as it was home, of course, many hours before its owner's return.

Already the foundations for three of the handsomest monuments that will eventually adorn Hillside Cemetery, are laid. They are located on the plots purchased by Dr. Frank S. Wells, whose late wife will be laid there; Capt. John E. Stewart, whose son Robert's remains will be transferred from the receiving vault; and Kimball E. Stiles, Esq., whose deceased daughter will be placed thereunder.

Miss Mabel Woodruff is spending a few days among friends at Rahway.

Miss Ball, of Newark, is visiting Miss Grace Yerkes, of Seventh street, West.

Miss Minnie Force and Miss Susie Van Winkle are visiting friends in Philadelphia.

Mrs. George P. Suydam and daughter are guests at the Coleman House, Asbury Park.

Master Albert Martin, of Central avenue and Eighth street, is visiting relatives in Brooklyn, N. Y.

George Kirkner and sister, Miss Carrie, of Eighth street, are sojourning for the present at Asbury Park.

Mrs. Frank C. Green and daughter Carrie, are enjoying the pleasures of Asbury Park at the Wyatt House.

Miss Hotchkiss of Front street, East, has gone to West Randolph, N. Y., for the balance of the season.

Mrs. Herman Force and Mrs. J. Wilkins of this city, are at "Tyler Cottage," Cookman avenue, Asbury Park.

Miss Tyler, recently of Crescent avenue and now of New York, is visiting among a host of her friends in this city.

The Hon. John Vetterlein's, wife and children, are enjoying the ocean breezes and sea baths on the shores of Asbury Park.

Mrs. George W. Bradshaw and daughter Belle of Newark, are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Doane, West Fourth street.

Mr. and Mrs. See, and their granddaughter, Miss Depew, of Crescent avenue, left on Saturday for the West End Hotel, at Long Branch.

Councilman John B. Dumont, was one of the committee appointed by the New York Stock Exchange to represent that body at the funeral of its late Vice-President Hill.

Mr. Carmon Parse and wife, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Adams, and Miss Adams, left Wednesday for a month at Blue Mountain Lake, Adirondacks.

Mrs. Grant, Mrs. Talmadge, Mrs. Worthington and Miss Laura Worthington, of Franklin and First place, left last Wednesday for Lake Placid, N. Y., where they will remain for the rest of the Summer.

Fish Commissioner William Wright was in our city Monday, in consultation with Fish Warden Force on matters pertaining to stocking certain waters with game fish.

Mr. George Sanders commenced Monday a series of trial flys for the training of his young Antwerp carriers. Five of this year's hatch were released at Bound Brook, and the time they made home again was so fast that their enthusiastic owner is entirely satisfied.

Lieut. Taylor, of the U. S. Navy, has just returned from a four years cruise, and with his wife is visiting at the residence of Mrs. Taylor's father, Mr. I. M. Holcombe, of Central avenue. He found the weather in New York, recently, as hot as in equatorial latitudes.

It is rumored that J. Reginald Talbot, Esq., of this city is especially partial to the belles of Netherwood society. This may not be so, but it seems that such portion of his time as he devotes to tennis and its devotees, is spent in the courts of the Netherwood cottagers. So justly popular a gentleman, however, cannot have been so discourteous as to turn his eyes and his camera exclusively towards our suburban maids.

Joseph Wilbur Keller, the seven-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Keller, died at the residence of its parents on West Second street, Tuesday afternoon, after a short illness from cholera infantum. Mr. Keller was making a business tour through the East at the time, and was first apprised of the child's dangerous condition by telegram. He immediately started for home but did not arrive until after the little one had expired. The funeral will take place from the house on Thursday, at 3, p. m.

Reform Club Meeting.

The usual meeting was held at Reform Hall Sunday night, notwithstanding the intense heat. President French and Musical Director Vanderbeek were at their respective posts of duty. Dean Rodman conducted the devotional services and afterwards made the address of the evening. He spoke with accustomed vigor and ability on behalf of practical temperance, and severely criticising the singular wording and signing of applications for licenses to sell intoxicants, dealt the Common Council of this city straight out blows for giving the authority of law to such a traffic. Doctor Rodman, in conclusion, expressed the opinion that the time was coming when public sentiment throughout the country would abolish the evil.

The Death Roll.

Little Frankie Stevens the seven-months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Stevens, was another victim on the 13th to the epidemic of cholera infantum that these spells of hot weather bring.

Edwin Booth (colored), the only son of Agnes Booth and an unnatural father that had deserted his family some eight months ago, died on the 13th of cholera infantum. The child was seven months and twenty days old.

Dr. Frederick P. Chase of No. 106 East Front street, died at his residence on the 14th, aged 72 years, 11 months and 22 days. He was an old resident of Plainfield, and possessed of quite large wealth. He leaves a widow with two sons.

Lillie Perry, formerly residing with her parents on Water street, this city, died at Flushing, L. I., and her remains were deposited Thursday last in the North Plainfield cemetery. The deceased was a past student of our public schools, and is kindly remembered by a large circle of young acquaintances in this community.

Adelaide M. Whitely, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Whitely, died at the residence of her parents on North avenue, the 13th, from cholera infantum. The little one was but seven months and thirteen days old, and while she lived, her life brought only joy and sunshine to her parents, who will now mourn over her demise.

John R. Miller who lived midway between Scotch Plains and Westfield, died during the 13th, aged 78 years. He was a sufferer from consumption for many years and was recently stricken down by apoplexy. A congestive chill, however, that had set in, was the immediate cause of his death. The deceased was an old and well known resident of this vicinity. His son died recently at Scotch Plains under circumstances related in THE CONSTITUTIONALIST at the time. This son was a member of the petit jury at Elizabeth, and was excused, because not well, during its sitting. He died a few days afterwards.

During Sunday afternoon at about five o'clock, the death occurred of Thomas Fitz Randolph, son of the late Simeon Randolph. The deceased was born on Plainfield avenue, this city, April 3d 1825, and was one of the oldest inhabitants of Plainfield. He had been ailing for the past five years from catarrhal and bronchial affections, but had only been confined at home for about three weeks. On Thursday last, suffocative pneumonia set in, and death resulted. Dr. Tomlinson, the attending physician, pronounced the disease as bronchial consumption. Three daughters, Isabel, Carrie and Sarah, and one son, Thomas Stillman Randolph, survive him. The deceased for a number of years was in the employ of ex-councilman Joseph Cutter, and upon leaving him started the grocery business at Second street and Madison avenue that still exists. The funeral services will be held in the Seventh Day Baptist church, Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock.

A BRUTAL ATTEMPT AT MURDER.

An Old Couple Beaten Almost to Death by An Italian and His Wife.

Soon after twelve o'clock Monday, Vincennece Palermo and his wife, the latter the peanut vender at the corner of Front street and Park avenue, made a most brutal attempt to murder Embly Stewart, an old man, and his wife who reside in Stiger Alley, just North from East Front street. Harriet Squires, also a resident in the alley, lodged a double complaint against Palermo and a woman named Kate Beard before Justice Nash this morning charging them with using foul and offensive language. The accused were arraigned before the Justice who paroled them for a hearing on Wednesday. Soon after the Italian was released he returned to Stiger alley where himself and family eke out a miserable existence in a rookery which has for many years been an eyesore to the respectable citizens who reside in that immediate neighborhood. Mr. and Mrs. Stewart also occupy quarters in the alley. Mr. Stewart is a hatter by trade, and is said to be a hard-working and industrious citizen. He is about sixty-seven years old, and his wife is about three years younger. When the Italian returned to his rookery he is said to have made threats that he would murder all who lived in the alley. All the forenoon Palermo was sullen and obstinate, and between eleven and twelve o'clock, when John Stewart, a son of the old gentleman, drove into the alley and tied his horse in front of his father's residence, the Italian appeared to be greatly excited, and at once began to assault him with a club. John Stewart was being considerably worsted, when his father and mother, both old and feeble rushed out of the house to protect their son. Palermo and his wife were both busy at this time, showering blow after blow upon the defenceless man, and the appearance of the old couple seems to have maddened them beyond description, for they immediately set upon Mr. Stewart and his wife, one with an iron pump handle and the other clutching a strong plank, and beat them both about the head and body in a shocking manner. Neighbors rushed to the scene of the attempted murder and in a few minutes at least 100 persons were on the spot. The crowd grew frantic with excitement and cries of "hang him," "string him up" and "Lynch him," were heard on all sides. The Italian evidently knew that his life would be short if he remained in that locality, and leaving his victims bleeding and faint in their dooryard, hastened from the scene of the tragedy. His wife sought refuge in the house, strongly barricading the doors behind her. Meanwhile John Stewart ran into Justice Nash's office and said that his father and mother were being murdered. Special Officer Mattox and a PRESS reporter accompanied him to the place and found everything in excitement. Mr. and Mrs. Stewart sat in the dooryard of their residence, sweltering in blood, and surrounded by their friends and neighbors. The spectacle was sickening as the top of each one's head appeared to have been battered to a jelly. The most deadly weapon used in the assault was an iron pump handle about two feet long and about an inch and a half wide. This was broken in two places, and boards were splintered over the heads of the old couple. Officer Mattox arrested Mrs. Palermo and locked her up in the station house. A posse of excited men and boys started in pursuit of Palermo, and for over an hour chased him from one place to another in North Plainfield, finally losing track of him near Scribner's brick yard. Doctors Probasco and Hedges went to the place and dressed the wounds inflicted on the old couple. An examination disclosed severe scalp wounds on the head, penetrating nearly to the bone, but no fracture of the skull was discovered. It is almost too soon after the tragedy to determine the extent of the injuries, but the only immediate danger of the wounds proving fatal is the setting in of brain fever. Dr. Probasco informs us that as yet there is no sign of the fever setting in. Much pity is expressed for Mr. Stewart and his wife, and much indignation is aroused over the action of the Italian and his wife, in so brutally beating a defenceless old couple, as was the case in this instance. While the outrage was being perpetrated, Mrs. David Squires, another resident in the alley, fainted at the sight of such inhuman treatment on the part of Palermo and his wife. Other persons who were witnesses the affray turned away in horror expecting that Mr. and Mrs. Stewart were being beaten to death.

About an hour after the affair took place, Maggie, the fourteen-year-old daughter of Palermo, openly made threats that she would burn down the house. Special Officer Noel arrested her, and she now languishes with her mother in the station house, awaiting for the officers to capture her father.

Chief Dodd also started in pursuit of Palermo but after following him for a long distance gave up the chase. About two o'clock the Italian entered the blacksmith shop owned by a man named Mair on Mountain avenue between this city and Scotch Plains. He was bareheaded and in his shirt sleeves, and asked the owner of the shop to loan him a hat, stating that he had lost one of his children and that his wife had started out in one direction looking for the child, and that he was on his way to Scotch Plains, also in search of it. Mr. Mair gave him a hat and he resumed his journey.

Stiger Alley has been, of late, the scene of many brawls and fights, and it is a noticeable fact that Palermo is generally implicated in them. A little over a month ago he was arrested for a murderous attack with a pitchfork upon a man named Gordon. The last session of the Grand Jury indicted him, he was tried and convicted and sentenced to pay a fine of five dollars. It is thought to be only a matter of a very short time before he will return to his former haunts, and when captured he will in all probability be sent to State Prison, unless, however, either one of his victims should die, then he will be tried jointly with his wife for murder.

Public Band Concerts.

The Plainfield Cornet Band has about completed all arrangements for its first public concert. It will probably be given at Crescent Square, during the evening of Thursday, August 4th. An elaborate programme is being selected, and so successful will the whole affair be, we believe there will arise an interest among our public spirited citizens that will result in a financial support for a series of concerts to follow. Many think there is no expense attached—that the band merely stands out-doors and blows. The fact is, each concert costs about thirty-five or forty dollars. An instructor must be secured for at least four rehearsals of the programme before it is given. Soloists must be engaged to give interest and variety; and a programme for free distribution among the audience, has to be printed. Incidental expenses besides, run up the cost of each concert to the figures we estimate. In the first concert Levere of Elizabeth, one of the finest artists in the State, will give as a baritone solo, "The Blue Bells of Scotland" with variations. A number of other solos will be rendered by well-known and talented performers.

An Important Decision.

In the matter of James Ralph, Justice Wadsworth decided Saturday that "unlawfully having in possession, or killing, taking or exposing for sale any woodcock on the first day of July is a violation of the statute, and subjects the offender to a penalty of fifteen dollars for each bird."

Plainfield to Make its Mark.

The Young Men's Christian Associations throughout the State are or have been organizing base ball nines from their membership, and already a series of games have commenced to decide the championship of New Jersey. That this city will be somewhere near the top of the list when the season closes, is evidenced by the material that composes the Plainfield Y. M. C. A., ball nine just organized. It includes such players as Messrs. S. St. J. McCutchen, George Cornwell, J. Hervey Doane, A. R. Dilts, A. J. Gavett, Percey Stuart, R. F. Murray, C. H. Hillman, R. Munger, J. Murray, Jr., McMurray and others. The first game this nine will take part in, will be during Wednesday afternoon of next week at New Brunswick with the Y. M. C. A., nine of that city.

Washington Rock.

Washington Rock, that historic landmark of Revolutionary fame is frequently visited by picnic parties from Plainfield, Dunellen and other near points. The rock itself has recently been freshened by a coat of whitewash. From its summit on a clear day, one can see with a naked eye the broad expanse of water constituting Raritan Bay in the neighborhood of Perth Amboy. The cool, invigorating air, which has long been a feature of this romantic spot, is most delightful at this season of the year, and should the proposed new railroad ever become a reality through Washington Valley, the place would in all probability prove a great attraction to Summer boarders. Besides the heavy freight traffic from that section into New York city, the passenger travel into the country during the Summer would likewise be unusually heavy. Until a railroad is built in the Valley, Washington Rock is doomed to remain in its present condition.

Plainfield's Proposed City Hall.

The New York World of Sunday contains the following, which, among other lesser inaccuracies, quotes the wrong gentlemen as members of the committee having the matter in hand. The Councilmen appointed were Messrs. Rowland Cox, Orville T. Waring and John B. Dumont. The article reads:

"Mayor Job Male, of Plainfield, sent a letter to the last meeting of the Common Council strongly urging the necessity of the erection or purchase of a building by the city suitable for municipal purposes. In it he showed that the actual cost to the city in rents and such incidentals was more than double the amount of interest on $20,000. He advised that $40,000 be appropriated for the erection of some building, and showed by figures that it would result in an actual saving to the city of many hundred dollars per annum. A committee consisting of Councilman Dumont and Bowers was appointed to make inquiries and submit proposals at some subsequent meeting. In Plainfield the idea meets with universal favor. Several prominent sites have been suggested, the most feasible one being the Crescent Rink Building."

Public Bath.

The people of Plainfield are clamoring for a public bath, and this paper recently called attention to the matter, but as yet no action has been taken toward establishing a bath in this city. The old Casino rink is spoken of as a desirable place; and it is said that water could easily be run into the building from Green Brook. The rink has had its day, and about the only thing now to do with the building is to cut it up into dwelling houses or remodel it for a public bath—the latter a great necessity in this city. Another desirable spot for a bath is along Cedar brook, near Arlington avenue where there is thought to be an abundant supply of clear spring water. An attractive building erected along the brook at that point would be a decided improvement over the present appearance of the place, and property in that locality would not depreciate in value. At present there is no place whatever in this neighborhood, where bathing can be indulged in without interference on the part of the authorities who only attend to their duty in enforcing the ordinances both here and in North Plainfield. The city of New Brunswick is likewise in need of a public bath, and the newspapers of that place are advocating the erection of one. Let some of our philanthropic citizens become interested in the matter, and the project will soon be regarded as a reality. Until then "the fat and the lean, the good and the mean" must bathe in a wash-bowl and swim in a tub.

Evona Depot Robbed.

About 1 o'clock a. m., Saturday, Mrs. Edward Meader, the wife of the station agent at the Evona depot, was awakened by a noise which originated in the waiting rooms under their apartment. She got out of bed and looking out of the window discovered two men hastily leaving the premises. The night was dark and the men hurried away so rapidly that she was unable to describe them. Some time afterward an investigation was made when it was discovered that the depot had been broken into and robbed. Entrance to the place was effected by breaking out a pane of glass in the waiting room and the door leading to the ticket office was pried open with some instrument resembling a "jimmy." A few dollars is money was taken and about fifteen tickets between Evona and this city were also missing. Station agent Meader informed Special Constable Jacob Kriney of the robbery and that official in turn notified Chief Dodd; but as the burglars left no clew to their identity no arrests have as yet been made. The Evona depot was robbed a few months ago while in charge of Mrs. Wheeler, but the criminal or criminals were never apprehended.

A Destructive Caterpillar.

The caterpillars are unusually numerous this year and very destructive. They don't seem to have any special liking for any particular kind of vegetation, but destroy anything they happen to light on. Apple, pear, cherry, plum, quince, and some kinds of Maple trees, are some of them nearly stripped of their foliage. The grapes and smaller fruits are also to their liking. In the grape they are particularly destructive, as they cut off the stem as with a knife or scissors and the bunches drop. The ground under the vines lies full of bunches and berries, and unless the destroyers are destroyed the grape crop will turn out slim. As the season is somewhat advanced it is a more difficult matter to get rid of these pests as they have attained considerable size and have scattered. The best method for deliverance from this destructive ravager would be to keep a sharp lookout for the nests when first hatched, as they are then all together and can easily be taken off by cutting the branches and burning them, or by putting them under the pressure of a fifty pound weight.

A LITTLE OF EVERYTHING COLUMN.

For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Price 25 cents. Sold by Field & Randolph.

Croup, Whooping Cough and Bronchitis immediately relieved by Shiloh's Cure. Sold by Field & Randolph.

A Nasal Injector free with each bottle of Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Sold by Field & Randolph.

Shiloh's Cough and Consumption Cure is sold by us on a guarantee. It cures Consumption. Sold by Field & Randolph.

Sleepless nights, made miserable by that terrible cough. Shiloh's Cure is the remedy for you. Sold by Field & Randolph.

Will you suffer with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint? Shiloh's Vitalizer is guaranteed to cure you. Sold by Field & Randolph.

Catarrh cured, health and sweet breath secured by Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Nasal Injector free. Sold by Field & Randolph.

When baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she was a Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and can not be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER Co., 106 Wall street, New York.—m21y1

DEMAREST'S

NEW STORE

Specialty in Creamery Butter, Ferris Hams, Bacon and Tongues, Pillsbury and La Favorita Flour, Fruits, and Vegetables all kinds. 3 pounds of French Prunes for 25c., No. 1 French Peas 20c., Ex. Quality Dates, 10c. All goods First-class and at Bottom Prices. Please call and examine stock and prices.

P. M. DEMAREST,

27 PARK AVENUE

Special Notice

WE HAVE JUST ADDE

500 BOYS' SUITS,

SOME AS LOW AS $2.00

SOME AS HIGH AS $7.50

OUR OWN MANUFACTURE

Sebring Bros.,

Music Hall Entrance,

aply1

COCKLE

BEFORE DEATH.

How much would I care for it, could I know,
That when I am under the prison or snow,
The ravelled garment of life's brief day
Folded and quietly laid away;
The spirit let loose from mortal bars,
And somewhere away among the stars;
How much do you think it would matter then
What praise was lavished upon me, when,
Whatever might be its stint or store,
It neither could help nor harm me more?

If midst of my toil, they had but thought
To stretch a finger, I would have caught
Gladly such aid, to bear me through
Some bitter duty I had to do;
And when it was done, had I but heard
The breath of applause, and cheering word—
One cry of "Courage!" amid the strife,
So weighted for me, with death or life—
How would it have nerved my soul to strain
Through the whirl of the coming surge again!

What use for the rope, if it be not flung
Till the swimmer's grasp to the rock has clung?
What help in a comrade's bugle blast
When the peril of Alpen's heights is past?
What need that the spurring paean roll
When the runner is safe beyond the goal?
What worth is eulogy's blandest breath
When whispered in ears that are hushed in death?
No! No! If you have but a word of cheer,
Speak it, while I am alive to hear!

—Margaret J. Preston, in Colonel Ellis.

DESTROYED IN A MINUTE.

A Whole Village Annihilated in a Trice by a Terrible Earth-Shock.

Some time has elapsed, says a writer in the Boston Globe, since the little State of Sonora in Mexico was shaken to its foundations by one of the most violent earthquakes geological history has recorded, yet the memory of that appalling time is still fresh in the public mind. Among the Americans residing in the State at the time was a young student, a member of the scientific school connected with Harvard College, who, bent on business and pleasure, was making a tour of the country, and he vividly describes the scenes which followed the first announcement of the shock and the many disastrous as well as wonderful and ludicrous events which succeeded.

The town of Magdalena, where the shock was most intense, is a small mining hamlet, containing about seventy-five adobe houses, built of massive unbaked brick.

"It was on the 31 of May," said the narrator, "that my trust and confidence in this earth received its greatest shock, and I doubt if it will ever be restored. Previous to that time accounts of earthquakes, which appeared either in newspapers or magazines, had made little if any impression upon me, but when I felt the first and solid earth tremble, quiver and shake beneath my feet; when great undulating waves of earth chased each other across those vast mountain regions; when even the mountains at my feet split open, sending up massive volumes of rock, then I was convinced that imagination might have figured in those stories, but cold, substantial facts had been their basis. Those who do not see the occurrence have no conception of the dismay that the first rumbling sound, the forerunner of the initial shock, caused among an industrious people. And though little more than a minute elapsed between the warning and the terrible shock, into that brief moment are crowded experiences that are more fearful, exciting and multifarious than human ingenuity can conceive. On this 31 of May not a sound broke the quiet of the air save the echoes from the distant mines. Away off to the south, where the mountain peaks seemed to touch the sky, the smoke from the black smoke curled upward, till they were lost in the clouds, which scurried along before the wind. Occasionally the rumble of a distant ore team rattling along the mountain side awakened reverberations on every hand, and gradually the echo of the wheels would die away, and clouds of dust obscure the rapidly disappearing drays. Then all was quiet. In the center of Magdalena, and serving the purpose of a recreation ground, is an immense plaza. Children rolled about the half-seared grass, bleating lambs strayed restlessly in search of some cool nook, and the elders wandered carelessly back and forth, indifferently alike to heat and sun, almost facing the plaza is the church Santa Bordino, which formed my headquarters during my stay in that portion of Sonora, and it was in this place that on the eventful 31 of May was brought to us the first warning of the earthquake. It was early in the day, and the windows were opened wide to catch the passing breeze. And with the breeze came the faint sound, growing louder and louder. Looking out of the window nothing could be seen. For miles about every thing was apparent desolation. Even as I looked, however, the rumblings increased, and a moment later crowds of men, women and children came rushing down the mountain sides, making directly for the plaza, and, though at first I could not understand their hustle and evident terror, it dawned on me that danger threatened them, but from what source it was impossible to judge. Instinctively, however, I rushed from the house and made for the open land. Not a sign was there yet of an ore team or wagon of any kind. The rumblings had increased, until now they resembled the firing of heavy artillery. Occasionally the reports would be followed with short, sharp peals, like claps of thunder that with each succeeding peal the roaring would increase as though the elements beneath the surface of the earth were warring among themselves. At each clap of thunder the earth gave one great jump, shaking buildings to their very foundations. The earth itself began to rock, and great waves of earth rose and fell like the billows on the ocean, and houses—little single-story affairs—began to tremble when the tremor of the first shock ran along the earth. Gradually they began to rock, and in another instant the rotten timbers of the roofs, no longer able to withstand the strain, broke in pieces and the roof came crashing down. The walls toppled in, great heavy brick structures, standing for years, crumbled beneath, and but a few minutes after the first intimation of my danger a score of dwellings were leveled to the earth. Of the seventy-five dwellings two-thirds were mud to roofless, and it is safe to say that not a single structure escaped the consequences of the earth's convulsions. Then the destruction did not cease here. Shocks succeeded each other in rapid succession, and those who attempted to escape the falling houses, were buried beneath the ruins. Nor did this constitute the damage done. Great rents were made in the earth several feet wide, gaping, dangerous chasms right in the mountain side, and from many of them poured solid streams of water, throwing into the air some fifty feet. At the same time the mountains in the distance began to feel the effects of the first shock. Massive boulders, which lay capping the very pinnacles of the cliffs, were overthrown and came tearing down the mountains, causing a spark here and there as they crashed, but not one more stirring incident than the sight of the fire which once all-some illumined the country for miles around and made the summits of the hills, where the smoke curled in enormous wreaths, look like burning active volcanoes, only awaiting the consummation of nature's work to explode in molten lava about the earth. But all these marvelous events occurred almost as rapidly as the mind conceives them, and in a thousandth part of the time it takes to tell what was over. Slowly the reverberation died away, passing along the sides of the steep, rugged hills, and apparently mixing with the clouds that hid their tops. Occasionally during the day a single shock would awake new fears, and the next morning came one final reading of the earth and all was quiet.

"But in that day and night the terrors of the simple people can but be imagined. There they were huddled together on the plaza, weeping piteously and praying and screaming through fright, not daring even to move from the single place affording safety from the treacherous grounds about. And when the night came their fears increased, and the solid wall of flame which rose in the southward as though from the bosom of the earth served to add to the terror which the past incidents occasioned. With daylight, however, there was hope, and slowly the unfortunate ones picked their way across the chasms of but a few hours' build, and, clambering over the ruins of their homes, sought to extract from the indistinguishable mass of ruin a few articles of use, and then when the second day passed without a repetition of the former horrors, confidence was restored, and slowly the work of reconstruction of the little town was begun. To-day little remains to tell of those few hours of mental anguish, save the ragged fissures in the rocks, through which steam of hot boiling spouting springs that irrigate the soil, and for the first time in the history of Magdalena affords good pasturage for the few stray herds. With the disappearance of the earthquake from Sonora came reports of its terrors in various parts, even near Tombstone; At Tucson, at Yuma, at the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe road for nearly two hundred feet were bent in to a depth of at least five inches. It was near Tombstone, too, that similar springs to those of Magdalena were formed. Some dried up and immediately disappeared, but others send forth a flow to this day, and, years, and hardly had the tears ceased from the surprise of their presence than they were taken up and locked under the water laws of the United States, by enterprising Yankees.

"Of the ludicrous affairs, perhaps, the most comical was the adventure of a mountaineer, which has, however, just that tinge of tragedy to it that gives zest of its humor. It was on the morning of the first shock, while traveling on horseback over the mountains of Magdalena, that the horse and rider came upon a great yawning fissure in the rocky roadway. Neither had seen the danger, and the horse was the first to scent it. Pricking up his ears, he darted across the path, unseating the rider, who was thrown directly upon the brink of the gap. But hardly was he conscious of his danger than the two jagged edges of the momentary chasm came together as if by magic, leaving nothing to tell the startled traveler of his experience save a long, irregular crack in the solid rock, extending some hundred feet in width. That man until to-day believes that the opening in the earth was a trap set by the devil to catch him, and you can't convince him that he's wrong.

"Singular as it may appear, the hundreds of miners at work, three hundred or four hundred feet below the surface of the earth, were not at any time conscious of any land disturbance, nor did they feel the effects of any of the different shocks. Another remarkable fact is that, while the country is so arid, so almost totally destitute of running water, great springs of clear, pure water should start from the very rocks themselves, and flow upward from the earth with every indication of a plentiful source."

WALKING ON THE WATER.

The Strange Feats Performed by a Stranger on the Fair Chicago River.

It was about 4:30 o'clock the other afternoon when a little party of invited guests arrived at the little boat-building shop under the north abutment of Clark street bridge to see Mr. Alphonse King try his water bicycle and water shoes, but owing to the constant passage of boats it was deemed desirable to postpone the exhibition until five o'clock. At that hour his water bicycle was launched for a sort of preliminary jaunt just to show the crowd that the navigation of the water was no such difficult thing as is popularly supposed. The water bicycle consists of two long, air-tight the cylinders, pointed at both ends, surmounted by a seat and wheel very similar to those of the ordinary bicycle. The wheel has small paddles on it, and when put in motion they strike the water between the two cylinders and furnish the propelling power. The steering apparatus consists of a miniature wheel placed just in front of the seat connected with the rudder by cords. On this strange machine Mr. King made the trip from Clark to Wells street and back very quickly and easily. Both bridges and the docks and buildings between them were crowded with spectators, who greeted him with applause, frequently interspersed with remarks and suggestions. One little street-arab caused considerable amusement by running along the dock shouting: "Hey, cully! Open der bridge quick, afore he knocks it down." In passing under the bridge Mr. King was compelled to lie down, but quite a swell, but the bicycler successfully rode it by taking it with his machine below, not a little to the disappointment of the crowd.

Then came the great feat of the afternoon. Mr. King opened a big box lying on the dock and took out a pair of big tin shoes. He calls them "aquatic shoes," and they are his own invention. Air-tight and made in the shape of a fish, they are thirty-two inches long, eight inches wide and nine inches high, surrounded by tin fins that work automatically. There is also a rudder attached, with the aid of which he can turn in the space of six feet. Having put these on he started for the piles that support the bridge in the middle of the river, apologizing for the shortness of his trip by saying that he was out of practice, and did not wish to run any risk of a dip in the dirty water of the Chicago river. A boat followed closely, and the Irishman rowing the same grew more and more enthusiastic as he proceeded. He had witnessed the ride without making any comment thereon, but this walking on the water was quite another thing, and he gave vent to his approval when Mr. King finally reached the piles in a wild "Hurroo! hurroo! Begorra he's walked on the water just like St. Peter!" The crowd, too, was deeply interested, following Mr. King's every movement as he made the trip and cheering him when it was accomplished.

When Mr. King is in practice he can walk any reasonable distance on the water. He is a resident of Belmont, Staten Island, New York, he has walked across the Niagara river below the falls, and across the Ohio and the Mississippi. These are the most notable of his feats.

TRADE AND LABOR NOTES.

COMMON labor is now better paid than it has been for years.

COOPERAGE in the Northwest report trade prospects improving.

A COAL development company has been formed in Rhode Island.

UNION LABOR party clubs are being formed in several Western States.

THE coal mines at Kirkville, Ia., employ about five hundred miners at present.

THE trades unions in Spain have been agitating for an eight-hour working day.

TEN hours is now the legal limit of a day's work in New York on the street cars.

THE American Federation of Labor is making active canvass to strengthen itself.

THE glass factories in the Ohio valley generally report a good trade and bright prospects.

THE Knights of Labor of Kentucky are initiating a movement to organize a State Assembly.

THERE are now 226 unions under the jurisdiction of the International Typographical Union.

SEVERAL furniture firms in Boston and vicinity have promised to grant a Saturday half-holiday.

THERE is a quiet distribution of the Chinese population of the Pacific coast throughout the Eastern States.

ALL the machine-shops of the country are full of orders and have excellent prospects for the rest of the year.

QUITE a number of mechanics have found employment in Kentucky and Tennessee during the past three months.

THE lumber cut this season made 10,000,000 feet of logs, which if sawed will yield 20,000,000 feet of lumber.

THE next convention of the International Typographical Union will be held in Kansas City, Mo., the first Monday in June, 1888.

AN iron mill is about to be erected at Fort Worth, Texas. The whole is said will be the first establishment in this country to manufacture real Russia iron.

THE Kansas City carpenters are looking a long way ahead. They announce that they won't work more than eight hours after June, and want 35 cents an hour.

THE expressed opinion of labor delegates at the various trade conventions is that the improving condition of things justifies the advances they desire to have made.

A COMPANY is being formed in Pittsburgh for growing, decorticating and spinning ramie into yarn. Another will be operated in a few months at Newburg, with machinery brought from France.

THE European laboring classes are rapidly uniting under the banner of the Knights of Labor. In some sections of the old country the order bids fair in the near future to outgrow in numbers and strength its parent in the New World.

THE London papers are complaining that the fast an British workmen leave their shores the ground is filled up with German workmen and workmen from Russia. They don't want the labor of the continent "shot" there. The remedy is in the highest degree obscure.

WESTERN cities and towns are developing their manufacturing capabilities rapidly. Denver, Col., is becoming an important manufacturing center, and will produce $30,000,000 worth of products this year. Eastern manufacturers are poncering over the West seeking opportunities.

COMMISSIONER WRIGHT, of the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics, in his report on convict labor, will suggest, as has been done by other investigators, that the solution of the convict labor problem lies in the employment of convicts upon land work solely for the account of the State.

THE builders in the small towns all over the country are reporting an increasing demand for small houses. The building and loan association fever is spreading in the West. The outflow of money from sluggish financial localities in the East is stimulating enterprise in a great many small channels.

SINCLAIR, Ga., has doubled its population in a year. Fourteen large manufacturing establishments are now being built. The Simons will there throws out enough gas in one year to do the work of 356,310 tons of coal. Two companies are preparing to lay one hundred and fifty miles of pipe this summer. Over $25,000 per week is paid out to laborers. Gas is furnished for fifteen cents per month to private or business houses, or five cents per lot per month.

THERE is a widespread movement among the Knights for separate National trade associations. The horse-makers will want one, the brass-workers have asked for one, the iron-workers have organized for one, and the coopers, painters and dressmakers insist on separate centers. A score of other crafts are asking for a separate room in the great order where they can talk things over. The experiments already made show that there is nothing in the movement of a disintegrating character, but that in reality this step is a cementing one.

A Silver-Throated Mule.

A mule with an artificial throat is the latest thing in musical instruments. A valuable animal was afflicted with a disease similar to laryngitis. A veterinary surgeon finding that it would be impossible for the animal to breathe through his windpipe, a portion of the pipe was removed and a silver tube was inserted, and now the mule breathes freely.

HOME.

In childhood's days the world is small,
And though from house to house we roam,
A mother's smile, a mother's heart
Will always make each house the home.

With childish faith we hear her tell
Of mansions fair and Heaven's bright dome;
But all we know or dream of Heaven
We always find within the home.

In after years the world grows wide,
And distant lands and ocean foam
May stretch between; our hearts still turn
With love and longing for our home.

But ah! the dread time comes at last;
The heart is stilled, the hand at rest,
The faithful heart and willing hands,
That made the home so loved and blest.

Then wider, longer, grows the space
O'er which our loving thoughts must fly,
Far, far beyond earth's confines small,
To "worlds of light beyond the sky."

With tearful eyes and broken hearts,
Back to our childhood's faith we come;
Where'er she is we know is Heaven,
Where'er she dwells we still call home.

—Bishop Argus.

RIBAUD, THE MISER.

A Thrilling French Detective Story Told in an Attractive Way.

For five years up to the 25th of December, 18—, James R band lived in a little roadside cottage within a stone's throw of a post-house on the highway leading from the village of Raincy to Paris. He was a little hunchback old man and a miser. Report had it his hoardings were nearly a million of francs. He had lived alone, but once his house was entered by robbers and himself beaten so terribly that his life for a time was despaired of. The robbers got nothing for their pains. He then resolved to live no longer alone.

He engaged a young and sharp-eyed girl from Raincy as a house servant. Unknown to him the girl Fanchette had a lover—Adelphe, a student—whom once a week she was in the habit of slyly meeting at the post-house. Once a month she had a holiday and passed it with her lover at Raincy. Ribaud, as the neighbors said, had once been a ragpicker in Paris. On the morning of December 29 Fanchette had her usual holiday and went to Raincy, returning to her miser master's house at nightfall.

During the night two of the hostlers of the post-house, who by the light of a lantern were playing cards in one of the stables, heard a wild cry of agony, as of one in mortal terror. It seemed to proceed from the direction of Ribaud's cottage. They laid down their cards and listened, then went outside. All was silence at the cottage; not even another sound did they hear. They returned, to their game of cards. In the morning they informed the landlord of what they had heard. "Stupids! why did you not go to the cottage! Now you go there and see if all is right."

The hostlers obeyed, and reaching the cottage, to their surprise found no one stirring. The miser was always an early riser. They knocked and called loudly, but no answer came. They tried the door. It was unlocked. In the front room they beheld a horrible, ghastly spectacle. They saw Ribaud lying in the middle of the floor, his throat cut and his head beaten as if with a heavy bludgeon. Blood was scattered and clotted on the floor, on the walls, on the bed. In the rear room they heard a woman's voice faintly crying, as if smothered: "Help! Help!" There they saw Fanchette, gagged and bound, hand and foot, face downward.

The two men ran out and gave the alarm. The girl Fanchette was released, and when sufficiently recovered, told her story. It was brief. She did not see the old man murdered. She only knew that, just as she was preparing to undress and the miser allowed her no light—a heavy hand was clasped over her mouth; she was then thrown violently backward. She fainted and knew no more. When she came to consciousness an hour later she was helpless; all was silent as a tomb. She knew nothing about his hidden hoards. The cottage was searched but no valuables were discovered. The police were at fault, they could only suspect robbery. The miser was buried, the cottage razed to the ground, and Fanchette returned to Raincy.

On January 2 the account of the murder was published in the Paris papers. On the 31 a shabby old man came to the Prefecture of the Seine.

"Monsieur," he said, "I am a rag-picker. I knew this poor Ribaud, the miser. We worked together until he left Paris."

"But what has that to do with the murder? Why come to me?"

"Because, Monsieur, I may aid in finding his murderers. You see, he had one treasure of which only he and myself knew. You remember that ten years ago a jeweler of the Rue Biron lost and set the police in search of two magnificent diamonds, the largest ever seen in Paris, except those in the Emperor's possession. They were intended for the Duc d'Aumale."

"Well, ragman?"

"They were never found, for Ribaud had them safely hidden. He had them in his cottage."

"Nonsense! The diamonds were lost, not stolen."

"Not stolen! That depends. I know Ribaud had them. Monsieur, you will see me again. The person who has the diamonds is the murderer of Ribaud and knew where to find them."

The rag-picker left the office, but at the corner of the street he was arrested by an officer of the Prefect.

"This fellow knows more than he will disclose. I'll keep him awhile in secret."

During the following month of February Paris had a sensation in the appearance of a dashing couple. The Count and Countess De Trouville, as they reported, had just returned from a Continental tour, on their way to their chateau near Malines. They hired magnificent apartments in the Faubourg St. Germain, and astonished even the ancient noblesse with the extravagance of their style. At the opera, the theaters, on the boulevards, among the shop-keepers and tradesmen, they became notorious. Evidently the Count's wealth was inexhaustible. In their apartments they held at times high revel, and the Count and the friends he had made had the wildest orgies. The police kept a very eye upon them, for they could gather no information as to where the Count obtained his funds.

July came, with the heat. Meanwhile the rag-picker was released, but still kept in surveillance. Jacquard, one of the keenest of Parisian detectives, was sent to Raincy by the Prefect to endeavor to find a clew to the murderer of Ribaud, the miser. The girl, Fanchette, had disappeared. Her lover, the student, it was said, had gone off with her. She asserted that she had received a large legacy from an aunt in Normandy. The detective proceeded to Paris with only a minute description of Fanchette and her lover.

One day he saw the Count and Countess De Trouville on the boulevard in an open carriage. To the Prefect he said:

"The student lover Adolphe and Fanchette, the servant of the miser, are in Paris. They are now called the Count and Countess De Trouville."

"Suppose they are. That does not connect them with the murder of Ribaud."

"Monsieur, you do not forget the rag-picker's story of the lost diamonds!"

"Well!"

"Yesterday one of them was offered in pawn at Monte de Piete by a man evidently disguised as to hair and beard and wearing shabby clothes. Noting a look of suspicion from the bank official, and being asked as to where he got it, he fled away, leaving the jewel behind. That was one of the lost solitaires of the Duc d'Aumale. The official's description of the man leads me to believe it was the Count."

"Then he is not likely to return for it."

"Within ten days I will satisfy myself. If it was he, then he has the other solitaires, and we have a clew to the murderers."

The detective went to work hopefully. Dressed with faultless elegance, he looked every inch the Parisian swell. In two days he made the acquaintance of the Count. On the third he contrived to obtain an invitation to his apartments. The Count received him in a boudoir called his "den," a small room elegantly furnished save in one respect. The open grate, half filled with cinders and half-burned coals, was unscreened with the usual cover.

"Ah, every body notices that grate. It is my fancy to have it exposed. It is a contrast which, to my eye, makes the surroundings appear all the richer. I do not permit the servants to disturb it. Besides, you see, it is a handy receptacle for cigar ends and paper scraps."

Wine was ordered. The Count was delighted with his new friend. Adroitly the detective turned the conversation upon gems, and casually mentioned the incident of the Duc d'Aumale's solitaires, keeping his keen gaze upon the Count's face.

Instinctively the Count's eyes turned towards the grate. The detective poured out a glass of wine; the Count did the same.

"By the way," said the disguised official, "those diamonds must have been very large—too large for ordinary use. Once them—let me see, must have been" (here the detective glanced at the coals in the grate) "as large as—this piece of half-burned coal;" and reaching down to the grate he laughingly took up a large ashen lump in his fingers.

Like a madman the Count sprang to grasp the piece from the detective's hand, and his face became almost livid.

"No, no! throw it back. It—it will soil—"

"I beg your pardon, Monsieur," said the detective, coolly, "but really this is the lightest bit of coal for its size. Why"—brushing the ashes from it—"why, it is as light as wood. What is the matter, Count? Are you ill?"

The Count sat glaring, trembling. The detective saw that the bit of coal was somehow leading him to the end of the trail, to the diamond and the man. He examined the lump carefully, but only for a moment. Then he quietly placed it in his po ket.

"I will keep this, Count, as a souvenir of my visit. An odd souvenir, is it not?"

With one bound the Count De Trouville sprang between his visitor and the door and quietly drew a pistol.

"Monsieur, your words are an insult. Either toss that bit of coal back into the grate, or I will make you."

The detective took out the lump. Suddenly dropping it upon the carpet, he placed his heel heavily upon it. It cracked apart beneath the pressure like wood, and there, as he stepped back, lay the other lost diamond.

"You may keep the coal, I will take the diamond and you."

Before the Count could comprehend the movement the detective, by an adroit trick peculiar to his profession, sprang upon him, dashed the pistol from his hand and held him at his mercy.

"You are my prisoner, Adolphe, alias the Count De Trouville, as Fanchette will be within an hour. I arrest you as the murderer of Ribaud, the miser of Raincy, and use as your accomplice."

An hour later the woman Fanchette, resplendent in silks, returned from her drive, was put under arrest and with her companion was sent on her way to prison.

That night she sent for the Prefect, and with tears and lamentations confessed her guilt as an accomplice to the murder of her old master, Ribaud, the miser. Briefly, her story was this:

While in his service she one day came upon him unawares, and unseen by him, saw him remove a brick from the jam of the fire-place in his room and take out two large diamonds, and after examining them, replace them in their concealment. After this she was stimulated to watch him still closer, and she at last found where he had hidden his money—under a water barrel in the cellar. Three hundred thousand francs in coin; besides in the oak chest were 100,000 francs in notes. All this he had amassed while in Paris a rag-picker and by the purchase of a lucky ticket in the lottery.

She told her lover all. He was poor, unscrupulous. He proposed to murder him and make away with the body. She was to admit him, and the horrible work being done and the robbery accomplished, he was to gag and bind her and leave her there to ward off suspicion. All worked well. As the Count and Countess De Trouville they came to Paris. The cry that the hostlers heard while playing cards was the death-shriek of the miser. The weapons used were a bludgeon and a bread knife. It was the Count who tried to pawn the diamond at the Monte de Piete. Fearing that—being tracked by the bank officials and the house searched—the remaining diamond would be found, he devised the idea of concealing it in a bit of wood, over which, with a coating of glue, he sprinkle l coal-dust ashes, and placed it carefully in the open grate, keeping always the door of the room locked.

Adolphe was hanged and Fanchette was sent to a penal settlement for life.

To Jacquard the Duc d'Aumale made a generous reward. On the morning following Fanchette's confession the rag-picker came to the Prefect.

"You see, monsieur, what I said was true. The diamonds and the murderer were together, eh!"

"How came Ribaud to have them?"

"Ah! he found them in the case as they were dropped by the ass of a jeweler bringing them from the Duc d'Aumale in his carriage. Ribaud saw them drop, he, threw his rag-bag over them until the jeweler entered his shop and then made way with his prize. That's all."—N. Y. World.

Intelligent African Jurymen.

South African juries are not always very wise. A girl was charged at the Riversdale circuit court with administering poison to the family which she served. The first verdict returned was "murder." "Impossible," said the Judge; "no one has been killed!" The jury went back, and returned with a verdict of "suicide." "But the girl is still alive!" expostulated the judge. On this the jury gave it up, and returned a verdict of "not guilty!"

The Richest Man Who Ever Lived.

In speaking of the wealth of some of the ancients, says a writer in the New Orleans Times-Democrat you class Tiberius as the wealthiest at $118,125,000, and give that of Cræsus, the Lydian, at about $8,000,000. You have not mentioned one wealthier than them all, who was Pythius, son of Aty, the Lydian, who possessed in silver and gold together $4,516,000, which, added to his possession of land and slaves at a proportionate value, would swell his wealth to about $500,000,000. I mean his gold at the Doric value of $5 22; if reckoned at the value of the stater siebus it would give him in coin $6,026,000, and with slaves and lands in proportion, a wealth of over $130,000,000. This man Pythius, without counting his silver and gold, entertained at the City of Celænæ the army of Xerxes, over 5,000,000 strong, in his invasion of Greece, and on a previous occasion made King Darius, Xerxes' father, a magnificent present—a golden plane tree and vine. This Pythius, then, was the wealthiest man in the world, and it is doubtful if there has been any one before or since to equal him.

MALARIA is being successfully treated in the medical stations of the Punjaub with prorate of ammoniac, the usual dose is fifteen one-eighth of a grain for one and a half grains four or five times a day in pill. Half a grain is a fair average dose. Thus given the result is soon visible. In the great majority of the cases treated one-half grain doses in the interval prevented the recurrence of the next attack of the fever, while in about twenty per cent. of the patients two or three attacks followed before the fever ceased. In only one case of quartan ague, despite large doses of the salt, the fever recurred for six periods, gradually diminishing in intensity, and then yielding to it. It is equally successful in all the forms of ague, but it is a curious fact that the cases in which it failed to cure were all of the tertian variety.

RUNNING THE BLOCKADE.

How a Scotch Sailor Carried Off a Cargo of Cotton Under Difficulties.

The following story is told by Chambers' Journal of how Captain Wilson, who ran the blockade seventeen times during the war, saved a valuable cargo from a Federal blockading vessel:

He was in command of a large blockade runner which had safely entered one of the Southern ports. He attempted to escape during a fog in the evening. The fog suddenly lifted, and he found he had nothing but a swift pair of heels to rely upon, for a Federal cruiser was within range of him. The Federal fired across his bows, but the Captain took no notice beyond putting a little extra weight on the safety valve. His decks were piled high with cotton, which formed an excellent protection against small-arm fire. The Federal now opened the ball in good earnest, and shell after shell churned the water into foam around, but not one struck her. Just as she was getting out of range, however, a shell penetrated the side and lodged in the boiler, and the vessel was helpless. She had considerable way on her, so, though striking, she was headed for shore.

The Federal ceased firing, and watched the disabled vessel until at last she was beached, half full of water. Captain Wilson and his crew fled to shore, and saw the Federal send off a boat to inspect their prize. Satisfied that the vessel was completely disabled, the Federal steamed off to her station in the assured hope that she had settled Captain Wilson this time. The misfortune, however, did not daunt him. He made his way to a neighboring plantation, obtained the assistance of a number of the hands, and as soon as the captor was out of sight and the tide had receded, unloaded the bulk of the cotton. With the assistance of a blacksmith he repaired the hull by riveting iron plates inside and outside the shot hole and filling the interspace with tar and cotton. The water in the boiler had put out the fuse of the shell; so, extracting his iron visitor, he riveted new plates over the hole and made, with the assistance of his engineer, a strong if not very presentable repair.

The cotton was reshipped, and on the early gray of the morning as the Federal Captain appeared in the offing to take possession of his prize he beheld her steaming away to England as if nothing had happened, while a salute from Captain Wilson's single gun gave him a forcible idea of the resources of a "canny Scot" is a corner.

Latest Freak of the Dudes.

There are men who wear corsets. It is generally known that for some time individuals of that mental caliber have existed in limited numbers. It remained, however, for the present style of big legged breeches to bring us still another caper for the "daft" young men. The boys have taken to wearing hoopskirts. It takes a hoop for each leg and the hoops fasten at the hips. They are used to keep the big-legged breeches in shape. Societies will probably come next and then we may expect to see the too utterly too-too young men with birds in their hats.

OF INTEREST TO TOILERS.

LOTS news from Southern mines shows a great improvement in demand, growing out of the spread of manufacturing industries.

A CO-OPERATIVE brick company with $50,000 capital has been established in Chicago. One hundred men will be employed.

THE labor of 300 convicts in the South Carolina penitentiary is offered at 40 cents a day for women and boys, and 50 cents for men.

THE Brazilians refused German locomotives at $5,600 and purchased Baldwin engines at $3,000, says the British Consul at Rio de Janeiro. There were no English bidders.

ELECTRIC-LIGHT plants are going up very rapidly. Chicago electricians say they can light all Chicago with fifteen electric plants, costing $45,000 each. It cost that city in 1885 $634,651.42 for gas.

MECHANICS attending boilers and engines are being taught to regulate the water feed in such a way that there will be no irregular flow, which is found to be productive of a tendency to explode.

DUBUQUE, Ia., has 2,600 Knights in seven locals. Nonpareil Assembly is composed entirely of ladies, and has inaugurated several improvements in the factories, and will soon operate an overall factory on the co-operative plan.

A CHICAGO firm uses from 8,000 to 10,000 gallons of blood, daily, to make buttons, besides breastpins, beltclasps, combs and trinkets. Evaporation leaves pure albumen, which is dried into thin sheets and broken up and pressed into various shapes.

ROBERT GARRETT and others have purchased about two thousand acres of timber and iron ore lands near Baltimore, which they will develop. They have an option on the furnace property at Canton, of D. M. Reese & Sons, and propose to establish car wheel works.

A NEW labor organization has been formed in North Carolina called the Co-operative workers of America. It is the intention of its founders to make it a National association, and its declaration of principles closely resembles that of the Knights of Labor.

THE American Association has bought and will develop fifty thousand acres of coal and iron lands at and near Cumberland Gap, Tenn. The company will build a railroad to connect their properties north and south with the L. & N., the N. & W. and the R. & D. systems.

AMERICAN manufacturers of cotton goods are sending samples of goods to Mexico, accompanied by a code by which telegraphic orders can be sent for goods, which are sent by next steamer. This quick way of doing business is slowly driving out other foreign trade.

THE weekly payment system went into effect on the 1st of July throughout Connecticut. The law requires all corporations to pay eighty per cent. of each week's wages to working-men upon application, the penalty of refusal being $50, one-half to go to the complainant.

THE Cameron Iron and Coal Company has decided to locate its furnaces in Emporium, Pa., and contracts have been made for a large portion of the work and material for the first furnace, and work will soon be commenced here in its construction. The company proposes to build four furnaces, which will be followed by rolling mills and other iron manufactories.

WESTERN coal prospectors are laying the foundation for a great industry in the Rocky Mountains. Both bituminous and anthracite coal is found in Colorado, and one vein is twenty-one feet thick. The discovered supplies are practically inexhaustible, and are said by some sanguine promoters of new enterprises to be greater than even the Pennsylvania coal-fields.

KASKINE
(THE NEW QUININE.)

GIVES
Good Appetite,
New Strength,
Quiet Nerves,
Happy Days,
Sweet Sleep.

A POWERFUL TONIC.
that the most delicate stomach will bear.
A SPECIFIC FOR MALARIA, RHEUMATISM, NERVOUS PROSTRATION.
and all Germ Diseases.

THE MOST SCIENTIFIC AND SUCCESSFUL BLOOD PURIFIER. Superior to quinine.

Mr. F. A. Miller, 630 East 187th street, New York, was cured by Kaskine of extreme malarial prostration after seven years' suffering. He had run down from 170 pounds to 97, began on Kaskine in June, 1886, went to work in one month, regained his full weight in six months. Quinine failed him no good whatever.

Mr. Gideon Thompson, the oldest and one of the most respected citizens of Bridgeport, Conn., says: "I am ninety years old, age, and for the last three years have suffered from malaria and the effects of quinine poisoning. I recently began with Kaskine which broke up the malaria and increased my weight 22 pounds."

Mrs. T. A. Solomons, of 259 Halliday St., Jersey City, writes: "I was for many years, eleven years, wracked of malaria by Kaskine, after fifteen months ill ness, when we had given up all hope."

Letters from the above persons, giving full details will be sent on application.

Kaskine can be taken without any special medical advice. $1.00 per bottle.

Sold by H. P. Reynolds, Plainfield, New Jersey or sent by mail on receipt of price.

THE KASKINE CO., 54 Warren St., New York

Central Railroad of New Jersey

Station in New York—Foot of Liberty Street.

Time Table in Effect June 27, 1887.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 3.27, 5.43, 6.32, 7.02, 7.30, 7.59, 8.02, 8.23, 8.40, 9.52, 10.37, 11.06, 11.42, a.m., 12.33, 1.21, 2.26, 2.57, 3.31, 5.25, 5.30, 5.54, 6.32, 6.54, 7.02, 8.46, 9.13, 11.32, p. m. Sunday—3.27, 4.35, 5.05, 5.35, 10.33, 11.32 a. m., 1.27, 5.30, 5.16, 7.30, 7.58, 8.23 p. m.

Leave New York from foot of Liberty Street, 4.00, 6.00, 7.30, 8.05, 8.35, 9.00, 11.00 a. m., 12.00 m., 1.00, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 3.45, 4.00, 4.30, 5.00, 5.15, 5.30, 5.45, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.15, 9.30, 10.30, 12.00 p. m. Sunday—4.00, 4.45, 8.00, 8.30, 9.00, 12.00 m., 1.30, 4.00, 5.30, 6.30, 9.30, 12.00, p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield 5.43, 6.32, 7.02, 7.30, 8.02, 8.40, 9.52, 10.37, 11.08, 11.42, a. m., 12.33, 1.21, 2.26, 2.57, 3.31, 5.25, 5.54, 6.32, 7.02, 8.46, 9.28, 11.16, p. m. Sunday—8.57, 10.33, 11.32, a. m., 1.27, 5.30, 5.16, 7.28, 9.23, p. m.

Leave Newark—6.30, 7.34, 8.35, 9.03, 10.35, 11.00, a. m., 1.05, 1.35, 2.40, 3.40, 4.00, 4.35, 5.05, 5.35, 5.50, 6.30, 7.30, 7.35, 8.30, 9.30, p. m., 12.00 night. Sunday—8.50, a. m., 12.30, 1.45, 4.10, 5.35, 9.15, p. m.

Passengers for Newark change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5.10, 7.14, 8.22, 9.21, 11.30, a. m., 2.08, 2.16, 4.36, 5.16, 6.26, p. m. Sunday—5.10, 10.14, a. m., 2.45, 5.14, 6.43, 10.45, p. m.

Leave Somerville 6.05, 8.35, 1.00, 7.39, 7.55, 8.15, 8.35, 10.15, 11.15, a. m., 12.05, 3.05, 5.00, 5.32, 8.15, 8.40, p. m. Sunday—8.30, 11.05, a. m., 1.00, 4.50, 7.00, 8.50, p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield 5.10, 8.22, 9.21, a. m., 2.08, 2.16, 4.36, 5.16, 6.26, p. m. Sunday—5.10, a. m., 6.43, p. m.

Leave Easton 6.55, 8.57, a. m., 12.40, 4.15, 7.00, p. m. Sunday—7.15, a. m., 7.00, p. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

LEAVE PLAINFIELD.

5.10, a. m.—For Easton, Allentown, Reading and Mauch Chunk.

7.14, a. m.—For Easton, Wind Gap, Mauch Chunk, Drifton, Upper Lehigh, Scranton, &c.

8.22, a. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Schooley's Mountain, Lake Hopatcong, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Nanticoke, Upper Lehigh, Scranton, &c.

2.08, p. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, &c.

4.36, p. m.—For Easton, Wind Gap, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Williamsport, Drifton, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, &c.

5.16, p. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Branch, Schooley's Mountain, Lake Hopatcong, Easton, &c.

6.26, p. m.—For Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, &c.

Long Branch, Ocean Grove, &c.

Leave Plainfield 2.27, 5.43, 8.02,

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XX. PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, JULY 22, 1887. NO. 28.

LAWS OF NEW JERSEY.

[BY AUTHORITY.]

CHAPTER CXVI.

An act giving the right of suffrage to all persons, whether male or female, in any school meeting in any school district of the state.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That every citizen of the United States of the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a resident of this state for one year, and of the county in which he or she claims a vote for five months next before said meeting, shall have the right to vote at any school meet in any school district of the state wherein they may reside; provided, that no person in the military or marine service of the United States, by being stationed in any garrison, barrack or military or naval forces or station within the state, and no pauper, idiot, insane person, or person convicted of a crime, which at the time disfranchises him or her from being a witness, unless restored by executive or by law to the right of suffrage, shall enjoy the right to vote in any school meeting.

Approved April 8, 1887.

CHAPTER CXVII.

An Act to provide for the transfer of insane criminals from the county prison to the state asylum for the insane.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That if any person confined in any county jail or penitentiary of this state under sentence of imprisonment shall appear to be insane, the judge of the circuit court of the county in which the prison is situated shall, upon information of that fact from the physician of the prison, institute a careful inquiry, and shall call two respectable physicians and other credible witnesses, if necessary; notify the prosecutor of the pleas, whereupon it shall be his duty to aid in such inquiry; and, if he shall think it necessary, call a jury, and for that purpose he is hereby fully empowered to compel the attendance of witnesses, and jurymen; and if it be satisfactorily proved that said prisoner is insane, said judge may order his or her safe custody and treatment in such one of the state lunatic asylums as may have been legally designated for the reception of the insane or indigent lunatics of the county in which such jail or penitentiary is situated, where he or she shall remain at the expense of the state until restored to his or her right mind; and then, if his or her term of imprisonment shall not have expired, the superintendent of the asylum shall inform the said judge and the prosecutor of the pleas of the fact of his or her recovery, whereupon he or she shall be remanded to the prison to serve out the unexpired portion of his or her term of imprisonment.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 8, 1887.

CHAPTER CXVIII.

A Supplement to "An act for the punishment of crimes," approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That if any person shall purchase, sell, dispose of or traffic in any property, goods or chattels which contain the words "not to be sold," a description of which property shall be registered, according to law, in the offices of the county clerks of this State, without the consent of the owner or owners thereof, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding three hundred dollars or imprisonment at hard labor not exceeding two years, or both.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 8, 1887.

CHAPTER CXIX.

Supplement to an act entitled "An act to provide for the regulation and incorporation of insurance companies" [Revision], approved April ninth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That all insurance companies organized under the laws of other states or foreign governments, and transacting insurance in this state, shall, during the month of January of each year, furnish to the secretary of state, a statement signed and sworn to by their president and secretary specifying the name of the company, where located, the amount of paid up capital and assets, of which they are possessed, showing the manner of investment, whether in bonds, mortgages, real estate, public stocks or other securities, and particularizing the amount of each class of investment; also the amount of income for the year past, the amount of losses for the same time, the amount of claims unpaid, the amount necessary for reinsurance, the whole number of policies issued in this state for the preceding year, the gross amount of cash premiums received therefor, for the same period, the name and residence of the agent in this state, and the amount of premiums received by each during the preceding year; and it shall be the duty of the secretary of state to prepare a form of statement to be filled up by such companies, associations or individuals establishing agencies or transacting the business of insurance in this state, which shall conform to the above requirements; provided, however, that mutual or assessment accident associations, companies or associations, incorporated and organized under the laws of other states may be admitted to transact in this state the business of accident insurance solely, provided that such companies or associations be the possessor of and maintain assets invested in securities to be approved by the secretary of this state to the amount of at least fifty thousand dollars.

Approved April 8, 1887.

CHAPTER CXX.

An Act to authorize police service in townships.

WHEREAS, Trespasses, malicious mischief and like offences are frequently committed in and upon public property, farms, gardens and like places in this state, and especially in and upon such places in rural localities adjacent to cities, towns and villages in this State; therefore, for the more effectual suppression of said offences, and for the more certain and speedy apprehension of such offenders,

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for the township committee of any township or townships in this state to appoint, one or more suitable and proper persons residents of such township or townships, to be police officers of such township or township; provided, however, such suitable and proper persons will accept such office and perform the duties thereof free of any fee, reward or compensation.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 9, 1887.

CHAPTER CXXI.

An act to amend "A supplement to an act entitled 'An act concerning executors and the administration of intestates' estates'" [Revision], approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four, which supplement was approved February nineteenth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the first section of the act to which this is a supplement be and the same is hereby amended so that the same shall read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That all insurance companies organized under the laws of other states or foreign governments, and transacting insurance in this state, shall, during the month of January of each year, furnish to the secretary of state, a statement signed and sworn to by their president and secretary specifying the name of the company, where located, the amount of paid up capital and assets, of which they are possessed, showing the manner of investment, whether in bonds, mortgages, real estate, public stocks or other securities, and particularizing the amount of each class of investment; also the amount of income for the year past, the amount of losses for the same time, the amount of claims unpaid, the amount necessary for reinsurance, the whole number of policies issued in this state for the preceding year, the gross amount of cash premiums received therefor, for the same period, the name and residence of the agent in this state, and the amount of premiums received by each during the preceding year; and it shall be the duty of the secretary of state to prepare a form of statement to be filled up by such companies, associations or individuals establishing agencies or transacting the business of insurance in this state, which shall conform to the above requirements; provided, however, that mutual or assessment accident associations, companies or associations, incorporated and organized under the laws of other states may be admitted to transact in this state the business of accident insurance solely, provided that such companies or associations be the possessor of and maintain assets invested in securities to be approved by the secretary of this state to the amount of at least fifty thousand dollars.

Approved April 8, 1887.

CHAPTER CXXII.

An Act to amend section ninety-nine of an act entitled "An act concerning corporations" [Revision], approved April seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section ninety-nine of the act recited in the title hereof shall be amended so as to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for foreign corporations to purchase, hold and convey real estate in this state as may be necessary for the purpose of carrying on the business of such corporations in this state, or such as they may acquire by way of mortgage or otherwise, in good faith, in payment of debts previously contracted in the course of their dealings; and foreign corporations having charter authority to engage in the business of acquiring, holding, mortgaging, leasing and conveying real estate are hereby authorized to pursue the conduct of such business in this state; and to hold, acquire, hold, mortgage, lease and convey real estate in this state; and any conveyances or mortgages to or by such foreign corporations of lands in this state heretofore executed are hereby declared to be good and valid in this state, both in law and equity.

Approved April 11, 1887.

CHAPTER CXXV.

A further supplement to an act entitled "An act concerning the sale of railroads, canals, turnpikes, bridges and plank roads," approved March twenty-fifth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever any railroad, canal, turnpike, bridge or plank road of any corporation created by or under any law of this state, or by any con current, joint or consenting legislative action of this state, any other adjoining state, shall be or has been sold and conveyed, under and by virtue of any process or decree of any court of this state or the United States, or by any other lawful authority, the person or persons for or on whose account such railroad, canal, turnpike, bridge, or plank road may be or has been purchased, and the person or persons in whom title in the same is vested by mesne conveyances and assignments by such purchasers or their vendees, and by which the sale has been made, or by operation of law the said sale is made subject to the lien of any such prior mortgage or other encumbrance, or divest or impair any prior mortgage or other lien secured upon the property or franchises conveyed under the original sale of said property or franchises, when by the terms of the decree or judgment of the court of this state, said testator or intestate should not be sold as will be sufficient to pay his debts or the residue thereof, as the case may require, which order shall contain a description of the lands, tenements, hereditaments and real estate to be affected by such order, and shall be signed by the surrogate or clerk of said courts, and shall be founded upon affidavit set up at three of the most public places in the county for six weeks successively; and copies of the said order shall be served upon all the devisees and heirs of the said testator or intestate, and upon the guardian or guardians (if any there be) of such as are minors at least four weeks before the day named in the said order for the hearing thereon; and in case any of such heirs or devisees are non-residents of this state, or cannot be found therein, then the said order shall be published in one or more of the public newspapers of this state, to be designated by the said court, for six weeks successively, once in each week before the return day of said order; and in case of such publication, a copy of such order shall be mailed to such absent heir or devisee prepaid, directed to him at the postoffice nearest his residence, unless such residence or postoffice be unknown and cannot be ascertained upon diligent and careful inquiry; provided that no order for the sale of such lands, tenements, hereditaments and real estate shall be made upon such application until satisfactory proof be made to the court of the service or publication of such order as aforesaid.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall be deemed a public act and take effect immediately.

Approved April 21, 1887.

In Vanity Fair.

Through Vanity Fair, in days of old,
There passed a maiden with locks of gold,
And a pedler opened his tempting pack,
Crying: "O, my pretty lass! what d'ye lack?
Here's many a ware
Costly and rare.
Come, buy—oh, come, buy!
In Vanity Fair."

"Silks and satins are not for me;
Lace is for damsels of high degree;
The lads would laugh in our country town,
If I came clad in a broidered gown;
But yet there's a ware,
Precious and rare,
I fain would buy me
In Vanity Fair."

"Pray sell me, sir, from your motley store
A heart that will love me forever more,
That, whether the world shall praise or blame,
Through sorrow or joy will be still the same."
'Tis the only ware
For which I care
'Mid all the treasures
In Vanity Fair."

"Much it grieves me, O lassie dear,"
The pedler said, "But I greatly fear
The hearts that love in the old sweet way
Have been out of fashion this many a day;
And gilded care
Is all the ware
You will get for your money
In Vanity Fair."

—(Florence Tyler.

HUMOROUS.

Short and sweet—stick of candy.

Acrobats report that business is jumping.

Stands to reason—The gentleman who has the floor.

It is better to rise with the lark than with the bent pin.

The rivers which run smoothest are those with the most springs.

The Czar is called his August majesty because he reigns in a summary manner.

When a man goes out of the poultry business he tears the tattered hen sign down.

Even fishermen who wouldn't steal are always ready to hook something if they get a chance.

"The people like tyrants," says a magazine writer. Maybe that's why the people get married.

Because people usually use the right hand in manipulating a handkerchief the majority of noses are said to turn to the right. How let somebody explain why so many noses turn up.

"That's a sham," growled Jones, as his pillow which had appeared full and soft to the eye, collapsed beneath the pressure of his head. "Yes," returned Smith with philosophical composure, "a pillow sham."

Losing a sale.—Elderly spinster (in drug store). "I declare to goodness, I've forgot what I came in for! An' it was on my tongue's end just a minnit ago." Clerk (trying to help her out). "Er,—face-powder, ma'am, or hair-dye, or—or—" Exit elderly spinster.

Natural Metallic Iron.

On the North Saskatchewan river, in the Northwest Territory of Canada, about 70 miles above the town of Edmonton, Alberta, there is an interesting example of naturally reduced iron. Along the river bank a lignite formation crops out for several miles, overlaid by clay shales and soft, argillaceous sandstones containing nodules of clay iron-stone. These nodules are similar to others found in Edmonton, and proved by analysis to be carbonates of iron, containing 34.98 per cent. of metallic iron. The Saskatchewan seam of lignite has, at some time or other, been burned, leaving a bed of ashes, clinkers and burned clay, in places 20 feet thick, and now covered by a dense growth of grass and underwood. From this mass of burned clay pieces of metallic iron can be picked out, weighing in some cases 15 or 20 pounds. They have evidently been reduced from the nodules above mentioned by the heat of the burning lignite. Most of the pieces of iron are much rusted; but when scratched with a file, they show a bright surface. The observation is interesting, and to some may help to explain how primitive man originally discovered the reduction of iron ore.

Interesting Case of Insanity.

An interesting instance of fighting insanity by insanity has recently been noticed among the Blackwell's Island patients. Two lunatics had been received who were disposed to commit suicide. In addition each possessed a special delusion, one to the effect that he was a cow, the other that his head was an iron ball, and was to be rolled along the floor. They carried these beliefs into action, one striking his head against the padded walls of his cell, the other rolling his head, and, of course, his body with it, along the floor. The two patients were placed together, and each was privately informed of the other's weakness and warned to watch his companion to prevent him taking his own life. Thus each had a charge in the other. Their vigilance was unceasing. Each supposed himself perfectly sane, and this belief was accompanied by considerable scorn for the other's weakness of intellect and accompanying delusions. Gradually under the influence of this treatment the patients were observed to improve. To have their attention centered on definite duty and on objects external to themselves proved a tonic to their diseased minds, and gradually a complete cure was effected, and they received their discharges from the asylum.—[Scientific American.

No Apology Needed.

Jones (who had been interrupted in telling a long story by Smith's sudden departure)—By the way, old man, I have quite forgotten what I was telling you the other day.

Smith (gratefully)—Thanks. — [Mail and Express.

Four Seasons.

Spring is a maiden divinely fair,
With violets in her golden hair.
At the balmy touch of her dainty feet
The primrose pale and cowslip sweet
Burst forth from their wintry winding-sheet;
And the forest leaves peep out to see
Who this beautiful, bountiful maid can be.

Summer's a warrior flushed with fame.
His rides o'er earth in his car of flame;
His whip is the whirlwind's circling lash,
His shout is the deafening thunder's crash,
His spear is the lightning's blinding flash.
He breathes, and the hills are parched and dry,
And the rivulets, fading, in vapors fly.

Autumn's a merchant of princely mien,
The earth's best fruits at his feet are seen.
His wondrous stores of golden grain
Are garnered high on the sunlit plain,
And flow like seas o'er his rich domain.
And his nut-brown children shout with glee
As they gather his treasures around his knee.

Winter's a monster of fiendish guise,
With famine and woe in his baleful eyes.
He blights the air with his icy breath,
His scourges the life from the land beneath.
The waters he binds in the chains of death
And he laughs to hear the plaintive wail
Of the famishing poor in the frozen vale.

—[C. A. Carpenter.

A FRIEND IN NEED.

BY HELEN FORREST GRAVES.

"Mother, mother! there's one of the fine ladies from the hotel a-settin' in the best room a-askin' for a drink o' water. And she says she wants it drawed right outen the old well; and how can it when the bucket's broke!"

Little Bennie Bliss had not the least idea how picturesque he looked, with his trousers rolled above the knees, and hitched up by a string and a nail, and the ragged edges of his hat-brim casting irregular shadows on his sunburned face.

Mrs. Bliss hurriedly took her arms out of the wash tub, and wiped the silver fringes of soap suds with the roller towel.

"Oh, dear," she sighed, "I wish the fine ladies would select any other than a wash day morning to make their visits."

But the next instant her hospitable heart stung her for the reflection.

"Run, Benny," she said, "and let the tin-pail down the well—and be careful, for there's a firkin of butter hanging there to cool—and pour the water into the speckled pitcher—the one without the cracked spout, dear—and bring it in, with the glass tumbler."

"Which tumbler, mother?"

"Oh, dear, there isn't but one!" sighed Mrs. Bliss, hurriedly trying on a clean gingham apron to conceal the deficiencies of her well-worn wash-day gown. "The other was cracked against the edge of the sink this morning. And be sure it's clean and bright, Benny, there's a dear."

Thus speaking, Mrs. Bliss lifted the boiler of clothes off the stove, to make sure of no mishap in her absence, shut the door to keep out a buff hen, with six buff chicks, who were marauding around the step, and hurried into the genteel gloom of the "best room," where the green-paper shades were pulled down, and yesterday's bunch of cinnamon roses was withering in a no-handled milk-jug.

Mrs. Sevier sat there, in a dress of pale lilac muslin, looped here and there with ribbons of a deeper shade, an immense Japanese fan in her hand, and a prevailing scent of frangipanni surrounding her as with an atmosphere.

No greater contrast could have been presented than that between this butterfly of languid leisure and the poor little working bee who stood opposite her, in the calico dress, and the face flushed with homely exercise.

"So sorry to trouble you!" smiled Mrs. Sevier. "But my poor throat was parched, and the well under the button-ball-trees did look so refreshing!"

"Oh, it's no trouble!" said Mrs. Bliss, with more politeness than truth. "My boy will bring you a drink directly. Here he comes now."

And Master Benny made his appearance with a pitcher of cool water in one hand and the one remaining family tumbler in the other.

"Is it out of that dear, old-time well?" lisped Mrs. Sevier.

"Yes'm!" said Benny, eagerly. "I drawed it myself. The bucket's broke, but I let down a tin-pail. The butter's gone headlong down the well, mother, for—"

"Hush, Benny!" said Mrs. Bliss, concealing her anguish as best she might under an exterior of forced calmness.

"Delicious!" ejaculated the visitor, setting down the tumbler. "Like liquid diamonds frozen into coolness. Ah, by-the-way, ma'am, I've been looking at that dear old family Bible of yours!" As her capricious glance fell on a pondorous russet-bound volume which occupied the post of honor on the cherry-wood table beneath the gilt-framed looking-glass.

Mrs. Bliss flushed with pardonable pride.

"Yes," said she, "it has been in our family for over seventy years. It belonged to my poor husband's grandfather."

"I am rather an enthusiast on the subject of family bibles," simpered Mrs. Sevier, who was one of those ladies who are always posing to imaginary audiences. "In fact, I'm making a collection of them. And if you don't mind parting with it, I'll give you five dollars for this one."

Mrs. Bliss recoiled a little, as if something had struck her.

"Oh, I couldn't!" said she. "It belonged to my poor husband's grandfather, and—"

"Yes, so you said before," Mrs. Sevier hastened to observe. "But, seeing that the binding is in good preservation and the dates are unimpeachable, I don't mind saying ten dollars."

"If you were to say twenty—" cried Mrs. Bliss, reddening a little.

But just here Benny pattered into the room.

"Mother," he whispered, very audibly, "old Mr. Jennings is in the kitchen, and he says he called to see about the money you owe him."

The crimson had flooded Mrs. Bliss' whole face now; she shrank back from Benny's words.

"And he says," went on the urchin, unconsciously merciless, "it's the third time he's called."

Mrs. Bliss looked piteously at the fine lady in the lilac muslin and the fluttering ribbon-bows, then at the family Bible. Mrs. Sevier felt magnetically that a crisis had arrived and was vaguely agitating the atmosphere.

"Say fifteen," she spoke up, with a wheedling air.

Mrs. Bliss took the family Bible from its resting-place on a crochet mat under the gilt looking-glass.

"Take it," she said, hurriedly. "Benny shall carry it home for you if you can make it convenient to let me have the money at once."

Mrs. Sevier drew out her purple-plush purse without loss of time, and placed three bills in Mrs. Bliss' hands.

"So much obliged to you!" she murmured, with the sweet smile which her deceivers were apt to compare to a perpetual flow of New Orleans molasses.

And she went on her way with Benny trudging behind with the family Bible wrapped in brown paper and tied with a piece of blue twine.

"I feel exactly as if I'd sold one of the children," said the poor woman, wringing her hands, after Mr. Jennings had been paid his bill, had written out a receipt and was gone. "But what was I to do! I owed old Jennings the money for last year's coal bill, and the interest on the mortgage was due last week, and there is the grocer's account, and—oh, dear, dear! After all, the fifteen dollars was only a drop in the bucket, and I don't know what on earth I am to do!"

She went into the best-room when the washing was done and the clothes were fluttering on the line, and looked with a shudder at the vacant place under the gilt looking glass.

"How could I—how could I!" she cried aloud. "I might have known it would take all luck out of the house to sell Grandfather Bliss' old family Bible!"

And she sat down under the lilacs on the doorstep and began to weep softly, with the corner of her apron for a pocket-handkerchief.

"Mrs. Bliss—Betsey! Why, what's the matter! Is there any one sick or dead?"

Mrs. Bliss dashed away the tears.

"No," she faltered, as her eyes met the inquiring gaze of Walter Wheelock, the village lawyer—"only the family Bible has gone."

"The family Bible! Has some one stolen it?"

"No; I've sold it—to Mrs. Sevier, at the hotel."

"Humph!" Mr. Wheelock knitted his dark brows until they made a level, shaggy line above his eyes. "What was that for?"

"For money," flashed out Mrs Bliss, "if you must know it, Walter Wheelock—for fifteen dollars to pay old Jennings the balance on our last year's coal bill! And if you've come to get the interest on the mortgage to-day, I may as well tell you, first as last, that I hain't got the money nor no prospect of getting it; and so you may as well foreclose, and done with it. If I and the two children have got to go to the poor house—But, after all," she added, with a sudden tide of hopefulness, "there ain't no danger of that, so long as I have two hands to work with, thank the Lord!"

"Don't talk nonsense, Betsey!" said Mr. Wheelock, rather curtly.

"But if I could only get the family Bible back again," cried Mrs. Bliss, hysterically. "Oh, I'd give anything to the one who would bring the old family Bible back to me!"

"Anything, eh!" said Wheelock.

"Yes, anything!" said Mrs. Bliss, rocking herself back and forth on the door stone. "It would bring good luck with it—oh, I know it would! I was such a fool ever to let it go."

"Well, we won't say anything about this interest money to-day," said Wheelock, with his hands in his pockets. "Perhaps some other time."

"All times are the same to me," said the little widow, recklessly. "Forty-five dollars, isn't it? Well, I'm not likely either to find a gold mine or strike an oil-well between this and some other day."

And she fell to tearing off the dust-browned lilac leaves, with a hand that trembled with nervous agitation.

Presently she rose up with a sigh.

"I may as well get the children's dinner," she said. "Walter Wheelock went away dreadfully sudden, I was thinking perhaps he might come back, but I guess maybe that he was offended by something that I said. I didn't mean no harm (with a momentary suffusion of her poor swollen eyes), but p'raps I spoke without thinking; I shouldn't like to offend Walter Wheelock—he's one of the few friends I used to have before Bliss married me. But, deary me, when money and courage is gone, friends go, too! That's my experience, anyhow."

On the doorstep, however, she paused, her hand still on the rusted latch. A footstep had sounded on the hard-beaten earth of the path; there was the rustling of lilac leaves, as if some one were coming up the lane.

"It's Walter Wheelock himself!" she cried, with a little catching for breath. "Walter—and what has he got in his arms! The old family Bible, I declare! The old family Bible itself!"

Her face brightened; she ran to meet him.

The dark-brown lawyer smiled.

"I went to your Mrs. Sevier, Betsey," he said. "At first she wouldn't listen to a word about returning it; but I told her that heirlooms couldn't be bought and sold like other merchandise. I talked to her about the law and the penalties accruing to those who broke its clauses. I deluged her with instances from the law reports, and hinted darkly at prosecutions on the part of the state, until she began to cry and wish 'that she never had seen the old thing.' So then I offered her fifteen dollars, and she was glad enough to see the book carried out of the house. Here it is, Betsey. And now, do you remember that you said you would give anything to the one who brought back the old family Bible?"

"But I haven't got anything to give!" faltered Betsey.

"You have got what I want most of anything in the world, Betsey—yourself! I've always wanted you," he added; "even before you married Royal Bliss. But somehow I never could muster up courage to ask you to have me. People's cowardice runs in strange streaks, don't it? But now that I have earned you, tell me, Betsey, will you give me yourself?"

At that moment, with the color rising in her cheek, the eyes full of soft, shy brightness, Betsey Bliss looked almost pretty in spite of her forty years.

"If you really care for such a poor gift," said she. "But, Walter—the children?"

"I guess I'm able to support two little chits like that," said he, with a smile, as he drew her towards him. "I'll do my best to be a good father to 'em, Betsey."

"Walter!"

"Well, Betsey?"

"I ain't saying but that I'm glad to get the family bible again," whispered the widow; but—"

"Well, Betsey?"

"If you'd asked me the same question, I'd have said yes to it before I sold the old family bible," said Betsey.

And Walter Wheelock felt that he was paid for everything.—[Saturday Night.

MILES OF FLAME.

Trying to Subdue a Great Fire in the Comstock Mines.

Three Flames Thousands of Feet Under Ground.

The Comstock lode at Virginia City, Nev., is of itself one of the world's wonders. It is, moreover, wonderful as a spot in which the greatest marvels of mining have been performed. When the great bonanza was being worked 3,000,000 feet of timber were lowered into the deeps and set in place monthly for forty months. Well, that mass of timber has been on fire for two or three years past, and at last has become so terrible a feature that it must be subdued or that portion of the great lode abandoned. Some time ago it was hoped that the fire might be arrested by bulkheads, and so solid walls of masonry were built sixteen feet in thickness to ward off the terrible fire. But the walls soon became hot and the fatal gas generated by the fire found its way out into the open chambers of the mine. Something else had to be done, and so it was determined to try to drown the fire with carbonic acid gas. The trial is now under way, and Dan De Quille, in the Virginia City Enterprise, gives a description of it. It reads like the description of a battle between mortals and gnomes. From the intensely interesting statement we condense some naked facts. A furnace for the manufacture of the gas is placed in position on the 1700 lever of the Ophir mine. The furnace is iron, like a steam boiler, lined with brick, and the material used for the manufacture of the gas is coke and charcoal. The furnace is fed at one end and the gas is discharged through a twelve-inch pipe at the other. The account says: "The draft through the furnace is very strong, and when the door is open the flames within roar like a blast furnace. Cast iron, or any ordinary metal would be melted in a moment in the great heat. The furnace makes 40,000 feet of carbon gas daily, and it is estimated that fifty days will be required to subdue the fire, as it is believed that it fills 2,000,000 feet of the mine. The pipe is at a white heat when the gas leaves the furnace. This is carried down to a tank or flume, eighty feet in length, over which ten inches of water flows constantly and cools it. Then the pipe enters the main incline, still lying in the trough, and goes down seventy feet to the 1700 level. The water dashes down through this trough and over and around the pipe with the noise of a small Niagara." On that level the pipe enters the bulkhead, which at that point is twenty-four feet in thickness. The pipe is stamped in with clay, which is kept constantly wet. The account says: "A tremendous draft inside the bulkhead sucks in the carbonic acid gas brought there through the pipe. When the bulkhead was cut through for the purpose of inserting the end of the pipe, all were astonished at the draft that was disclosed. It was so great that the workmen were obliged to be on their guard against being sucked in and carried into the regions of interior fire." This may appear to be an exaggeration, but an anemometer placed in the current of air showed it to have a velocity of 500 miles an hour. On the surface of the earth eighty miles an hour is thought to be an awful gale, but here is a gale of 500 miles. This brings into one's mind at once thoughts of the tremendous gaseous disturbances to which the surface of the sun is subject.

Of course this draft was not long left open, the inrush of the atmospheric air, combining with the carbonic oxide gas within, being liable to form an explosive compound. The pipe was in readiness, with its lower end closed, and it was at once thrust through the opening and the work of filling in around it began.

As the gas passes in behind the bulkhead it settles down into the lowest part of the enclosed space, being heavier than the carbonic oxide gas within, and also heavier than atmospheric air. It will go down to the 1900 feet level. There it will be stopped off and prevented sinking farther by water. Thus all the enclosed space in which are the smoldering timbers will be filled up with carbonic acid gas, which will displace the carbonic oxide gas, just as water poured into a bottle displaces the air.

When all the burning section has been thus filled up the fact will be known by carbonic acid gas flowing out through the pipe on the 1500 level through which the gas from the fire is now escaping into the old Consolidated Virginia shaft.

It may be stated that after the enclosed section shall have been filled to overflowing with the carbonic acid gas it will be allowed to so remain a month or two before any of the bulk-heads are opened. The opening will be very cautiously done, and only after carbonic acid gas has taken the place of the carbonic oxide gas at the escape pipe. This may be known by several tests. A very simple one is to introduce the gas into lime water, when a precipitate will at once be formed of the contained lime.

The rock in the mine will retain heat a long time, but this may be overcome by the use of water thrown on through a hose, once the fire is out and the gas gone.—Salt Lake Tribune.

Parliamentary Language.

You may say that a man is not wedded to the truth;

Or sometimes suffers from a spirit of exaggeration;

Or occasionally finds it difficult to confine himself strictly to actualities;

Or is unfettered by the four corners of hard matter-of-fact;

Or is a past master in the pleasing art of realistically romancing;

Or is partial, in describing nature, to borrowing from the pages of romance;

Or is much given to an artificial recollection of misleading statistics;

Or cannot distinguish the false from the true, with a bias toward the former;

Or has a distinct liking for the utterance of statements of a misleading character;

But you must not! No, you must not! you really must not! Call him a liar!

The World's Silver Supply.

Of the amount of silver in existence, $4,000,000,000 is estimated to be in coin and bullion, $1,200,000,000 in watches, and the remainder in plate, jewelry and ornaments. Of the amount in existence, $4,754,000,000 is estimated to have been obtained from North America, $736,000,000 from South America, $63,000,000 from Europe, $47,000,000 from Africa, and $31,000,000 from Asia, including Australia, New Zealand and Oceanica. The amount of the precious metals in existence is estimated at $13,974,000,000.

CLIPPINGS FOR THE CURIOUS.

A Chinese name for wine is "Fountain of Misery."

The oldest known MS. is part of the Iliad found in Upper Egypt.

The art of engraving originated in some experiments of Maso Finiguerra, a Florentine, in the first half of the fifteenth century.

The meteor of 1783, seen all over Europe nearly at the same moment, was believed to be as large as Great Britain and 120 miles high.

Victoriano, an Indian, of San Jacinto, Cal., once a chief of the Serranos, is thought to be at least one hundred and twenty-five years old.

"The Imitation of Christ," "Pilgrim's Progress" and "Uncle Tom's Cabin," are the books that have gone through the greatest number of editions.

A Berlin jeweler has in his possession the shell of a pearl oyster containing no fewer than forty pearls. As a rule each pair of shells is found to contain only one or two pearls.

A German medical man says that telegraph operators are afflicted by a disease which makes their finger nails drop off. It is caused by continual tapping on the telegraph key.

Indigo, the dye obtained from the wood plant Isatis tinctoria, was used by Egyptians and other ancient nations. After the passage of the Cape of Good Hope, in 1497, it was gradually superseded by the Eastern indigo got from the indigofera.

The danger of infection from the promiscuous use of the mouthpieces of telephones is attracting attention. It is recommended that the mouthpiece be disinfected every time after using by means of a disinfecting fluid kept at every telephone station for the purpose.

Potter's Field is the name of an ancient burial place for strangers in Jerusalem. It is on a hill overlooking the valley of Hinnom. In the modern times the name has been applied to those burial plots where the poor and friendless are given sepulchre, particularly those who die in public almshouses.

The strangest strike on record is that reported from the Island of Scio by the St. James Gazette. Many parishes of the Greek church were beskward with their tithes and they were interdicted by the bishop. The priests stopped their work of marrying, baptizing and officiating at burials of the dead, and these matters were taken in hand by the laity.

A Medicinal Honey.

About three years ago a distinguished French naturalist, M. Guilmeth, who was traveling in Tasmania, came suddenly upon a grove of gigantic eucalyptus trees, from 260 to 390 feet high, and with a trunk so large at the base that it took forty of his Kanackas, joining hands, to reach around one of them. High in these lofty trees he discovered what he at first took to be enormous galls, but which he soon ascertained to be the dwelling-places of swarms of small, black wild bees of a variety before unknown to him. Besides being black and smaller than the ordinary honey bee, this wild bee has its tongue rather more developed than that of the domestic bee. M. Guilmeth attempted unsuccessfully to domesticate it in Tasmania. He caused some of these immense trees to be felled, and secured the honey. The largest individual store of honey weighed as much as 11,000 pounds avoirdupois.

The honey is described as a thick, homogeneous, somewhat transparent syrupy liquid of a deep orange color; having an odor suggestive at once of its containing eucalyptus principles. As the result of experiments on himself and one of his friends, Dr. Thomas Caraman states that, on taking a tablespoonful of the honey in a little tepid water or milk, after a few moments one perceives a gentle, agreeable warmth take possession of the whole person. At the end of half an hour, the elimination of the active principles by the air passages having begun, the voice becomes clearer and the breath perfumed; the lungs feel more elastic, more supple. Having continued the use of the honey for a week, four tablespoonfuls daily, the author, who speaks of himself as respectively fleshy, found that he could go up two pairs of stairs, two steps at a time, without stopping to take breath or feeling at all blown.—[New York Medical Journal.

Why She Adored the Minister.

The Rev. S. R. Calthrop, Unitarian minister in Syracuse, speaking of getting encouragement recently, told how he got some when he preached down in Marblehead. His wife had come to him and said there was a dear little girl who had injured herself. She had been such a regular attendant at church. She had such a great admiration for Mr. Calthrop she had never missed hearing him, even wading through the snow—that he ought to visit his young parishioner. He went. He was met by the little girl's mother, who began a repetition of the story that the minister's wife had told, as they walked along to the sick-room. There the child lay, propped up, and overheard the last statements from her mother of her own delight in the pastor's preaching.

"Yes, sir," chimed in the girl, as the minister stood by her bedside, "it's beautiful to hear you preach, you holler so!"—[Chicago Herald.

Lawyer and Judge.

A young Chicago lawyer a few years ago had a case in the Federal court before a judge who, while noted for his wisdom and his integrity, is exceedingly impatient of contradiction. The attorney propounded the rule applicable to a certain point, when the court abruptly declared: "That is not the law."

"I beg the court's pardon," said the young attorney, "but I have a case exactly in point."

"Do you mean to contradict me?" demanded the court, mad as a decapitated hen.

"O, no, certainly not, I don't. The Supreme Court of the United States does, though, and I want to read this case to show you what a fool that court was."—[Chicago Tribune.

Something Good in Him.

"John," said a wife to her husband, "I've heard say that there is something good in everybody, but I declare that boy of ours, it seems to me, has positively not a good thing in him. He is the worst boy I ever saw."

"You are mistaken, Maria. That boy certainly has something good in him, for I just saw him steal a jar of your best preserves, and he has eaten over half of them now. You must admit that he has that much good in him, or else acknowledge that your preserves are no good."—[Danville Breeze.

THE STURGEON.

How a Great Fish is Caught Off the New Jersey Coast.

Preparing Three Hundred Pound Monsters for Market.

A Bay side (N. J.) correspondent to the New York Mail and Express writes: There is at least $100,000 invested in the sturgeon fishing interest in the New Jersey end of the line, with headquarters at Bay Side, Cumberland county. The sturgeon grows rapidly, and a fish of six years old weighs 300 pounds. A big sturgeon yields from four to six Yankee buckets of roe like unto shad roe, with larger eggs, which are first rubbed through a coarse sieve, then salted and rubbed through a finer seive till the fibre is disengaged from the egg, and the remainder, after draining, is emptied into kegs and becomes what Shakespeare calls "caviare to the general." It is then shipped via New York to Europe, where the supply is not equal to the demand. The modus operandi with a sturgeon is to cut off his tail and let him bleed, the large artery running through the tail. The roe is then taken out of the live fish. A broadaxe is then used to decapitate the fish, then the skin is taken off, the backbone or cartilage is then taken out with a sharp knife and leaves two sturgeon sides boneless. The fish is thoroughly wiped out with a coarse whalebone broom, then the flesh is put into an ice-box and is shipped to New York, where it readily sells as good "Albany beef." If the market is glutted the sturgeon meat is kept till fall in the ice house at a temperature of 4 degrees below zero, and is then found good eating. The head, tail and backbone furnish the famous sturgeon oil.

The sturgeon has no weapons of defense against the shark and flies from this lawyer of the sea. I found two sturgeon in the haul made by moonlight with the entire nose bitten off by a shark. A net entirely dry weighs 500 pounds, the cotton lead twine alone weighing 300 pounds, costing 20 cents a pound. The meshes of the net are from thirteen to fifteen inches wide, and a sixteen-foot board twelve inches wide can be shot through the net, so no shad or small fish are ever caught in a sturgeon net. A sixty-pound rock is sometimes found in the sturgeon gill net. The net is 1,328 feet long, seven feet under water, with no lead or other sinker, the weight of the twine holding the net down. The float, or cork, remains on top of the water fast to the lanyard, which is fast to the float. At each drift say two hours before low water, from one to ten sturgeon is the usual catch, and the cork indicates when a big fish gets his gills entangled in the meshes of the net. The fish yields easily to fate and shows no game.

The water at Tampa is transparent, and a spear is used to kill the fish, but the fisherman is desperately vexed with what he calls "foul fish," the sawfish and devilfish. The latter, weighing 1600 pounds, frequently tear a net to pieces, and the sight of a sawfish drives the fishermen to shore. Frequently a 400-pound green turtle is bagged—with no market for turtle.

The sturgeon feeds down on the bottom on the crustacea, and can be seen rooting like a hog on the bottom. The savants or scientists have never discovered where the sturgeon spawns, and it may be in the Black sea or in Delaware bay, where the huge she-sturgeon has been seen to shed her spawn on the surface of the bay or river in the months of April and May. At Bay Side, as soon as the fish finds himself entangled in the fourteen-inch meshes of the net, he flounders to the surface, and the stalwart piscator, with an iron hook, strikes the fish on the head and hauls the fighting sturgeon into the boat. The fish strikes hard with his tail when landed in the boat.

Central African Negroes.

The majority of the negroes live on the products of agriculture and stock-raising. There are no tribes without agriculture in Central Africa, except the dwarfish Watwa and Akka. Though their implements are very simple, they clear the dense woods and fence in their fields. Horse is the most important grain they grow. It is cultivated in all parts of Africa. Sorghum, manioc, and batatas are grown in the lower countries, maize and pulse on the highlands. In Uganda, bananas are the principal food. Stock raising is the favorite occupation of many East African tribes. The herdsmen are frequently warlike nations who have subdued warlike tribes. The Galla, Wahuma, and Watuta have founded empires of this kind. On the upper Nile the natives are engaged in both stock-raising and agriculture. Cattle, sheep, goats, dogs, and poultry are raised by these people.

The most remarkable industry of Africa is that of iron-working, which is known in all parts, the bushmen alone being unacquainted with it when they became known to the Europeans. The Africans know how to obtain the iron from the ores, and manufacture beautiful instruments of it. Besides iron, they manufacture copper implements and make copper and iron wire. The negroes do not know how to tan skins, but soften them by scraping and beating; neither do they practice the art of joining wood; while carving, plaiting, and weaving are highly developed.

The civilization of the negroes is not at all a low one. Their mode of life, their industry, and their political institutions are ample proof of this. Large empires founded by men excelling on intelligence and character, and extensive migrations of energetic nations, are characteristic of its history. The observations of all explorers show that arts and industry are far more developed in the interior than near the coast. Here, as everywhere else, the contact with nations of a higher civilization, the whites and Arabs, tends to destroy the native culture. Here the ruthless Arabian slave-hunters devastate regions which were flourishing before their arrival, and the final destiny of the Africans will depend to a great extent on the end of the final struggle between the whites and the Arabs.

From Bad to Worse.

After a certain concert a well-known German cantatrice asked a gentleman to whom she had been introduced how he liked her duet. "You sang charmingly, madame. But why did you select such a horrid piece of music?"

"Sir, that was written by my late husband."

"Ah, yes, of course. I did not mean—But why did you select such a cow to sing with you?"

"Ach Himmell that is my present husband."—[Chambers' Journal.

THE FARM AND GARDEN.

Food for Pigs.

Pigs are benefited by having some fibrous food mixed with their grain. They have been found to do better on finely ground cob meal than upon clear corn-meal. The reason is that they digest their food better when it goes into the stomach in a porous condition. The cob separates the particles of meal, so that the gastric juice can circulate through the mass. I have known pigs to do well upon corn meal mixed with short cut clover hay, and all cooked together. The clover hay in this case performs the important office of rendering the corn meal porous in the stomach. Besides, the pig is naturally as much a grass eating animal as the horse. Cob meal and bran, mixed with hot water, and allowed to ferment slightly, is an excellent food for pigs.

The Carrot as a Field Crop.

The carrot, says a Connecticut farmer in the New York Weekly, is a most profitable field crop, and especially desirable because it is little liable to disease. There is no better root for cows and horses, sheep and oxen. Fed in connection with hay or grain carrots seem to increase the value of the latter. That is, the carrot itself not only contains much nutriment but it appears to cause the other food to digest more perfectly, so that little or none is wasted. This is certainly the case with grain. As a substitute for hay carrots prevent constipation when much dry food is used. Like oil they brighten up the coats of animals, giving a sleek, glossy look. Carrots also improve the color and quality of milk and butter. When cooked they are good for poultry, and fed either cooked or raw they are valuable for hogs.

Ailments of Poultry.

A hen with a bunch on her leg filled with blood is complained of. We should open the bunch with a sharp knife and press out the contents, and bathe with arnica or witch hazel oil twice a day. Indigestion is caused by over-feeding, unwholesome food, debilitated system, etc., and if neglected will cause enlargement of the liver to a serious extent. Give warm, soft, cooked food twice a day, mixing a little crushed charcoal in it once a day, and keep shells and gravel where they can get all they want. Give sulphur in the soft food once a week. Use a tonic in the drinking water made as follows: One ounce of sulphuric acid and one pound of copperas, dissolved in one gallon of water, using at the rate of a teaspoonful of this to each pint of drinking water. If any are very badly off, give a pill daily of five grains of rhubarb and one-fourth of a grain of calomel. Finely chopped onions, given daily in the soft feed or alone, will be very beneficial.—[Farm and Home.

Clover on Wet Land.

Durable as clover is for mellowing and deepening the soil, it is essential that it be grown on dry land. Where stagnant water remains clover roots will not penetrate the subsoil, and it is almost a pity, for there is scarcely any better vegetable pump than a field of growing clover, with several tons of leaves and stems constantly exhaling moisture. If clover can get a start on wet land, its network of roots soon dry out the surface and penetrate the subsoil, where they form natural watercourses, needing only to connect with some drain to make the subsoil always dry. After a wet piece is underdrained, one of the first things to be done is to get the land covered with as large a growth of clover as can be got to grow. Nothing is more improving to the efficiency of the underdrain. The roots of clover open up undiscovered treasures of plant food in the subsoil, which before draining no roots of any crop could ever reach. But some outlet for the stagnant water in the subsoil must be first provided. In short, it is the province of the clover plant to diminish the amount of underdraining required. The old directions to run drains every rod or every two rods in width are all right, if based on the supposition that the land is always to be kept under the plow. But if it is to be seeded with clover every other year or every third year, put the drains through the wettest places, save the enormous expense of buying and laying so many tiles, and trust to clover for the rest. The land with such treatment will be in better condition with the clover than it would with the lateral drains and no clover.—[Cultivator.

Aphides or Plant Lice.

Perhaps no insect with which we have to contend is so difficult to battle successfully in the open air. With nursery trees and herbaceous plants, kerosene emulsions or solutions of whale-oil soap prove partially satisfactory. But the insects are so small and so numerous, that it is impracticable to reach them all, and owing to their extremely rapid multiplication the few that escape soon envelope the plants anew. In the case of large trees, their destruction becomes much more difficult. On the whole, the mastery of the aphis in the open air must be regarded as one of the unsolved problems in horticulture.

The life histories of the aphidæ are subjects of peculiar interest to the entomologist. The mode of propagation, the relation of the sexes to each other, and the methods of depositing the eggs, are all strikingly peculiar. The first plant lice that appear in spring are hatched from eggs laid the previous autumn, and are exclusively females. From these the species is propagated throughout the season by what is known as asexual generation, the young being born alive through many successive generations, and without any pairing of the sexes. The males and perfect females—i. e., those capable of depositing fertile eggs, only appear late in the season. It is said that the male form of the cabbage aphis has not yet been discovered. Until quite recently the eggs of the hop aphis had not been found, but it is now thought that they are deposited on the terminal twigs of plum trees, and several other species are believed to deposit their eggs on plants entirely distinct from the ones upon which they feed.—American Agriculturist.

Farm and Garden Notes.

Thorough weeding is a most important point in profitable onion culture.

The land planted with early peas and beans may be made to carry a late crop of squashes or cucumber pickles.

A little more care for the ornamental trees would add greatly to the beauty and value of the farm homestead.

The greatest economy in growing corn consists in the manner of planting it by listing, affirms an advocate of this plan.

Upon the first appearance of holes in the currant leaves apply white hellebore. Mulch the bushes; this will prolong the season.

Celery plants are sometimes set out on land adapted to them after clearing off early crops of spinach, onions, lettuce, etc., and ploughing.

Wire netting, two-inch mesh, is now cheaper than boards as material for fencing poultry, and can be more easily arranged and with less labor.

As a rule, allow a newly planted grape to bear but a single shoot. Do not allow young vines to overbear. Two clusters to a cane are enough.

"The earlier fruit is thinned the more profitable the operation," says the American Agriculturist, "if one has fine early apples, peaches or pears for a near market."

No farmer need sit down and expect some one to furnish him a ready-made system or plan of conducting his farm. He must make it himself, is the opinion of an acute agriculturist.

At sheep shearing employ only skilled and careful hands. Care in folding the fleece affects its price. Ticks will leave the shorn sheep and go to the lambs, which should be dipped into tobacco or other dip.

In choosing plants for bedding, those that combine fine flowers in profusion, with a short stemmed stocky habit, presenting a round pleasing bush, with the blossoms a little above the foliage are to be preferred.

A grower of forest trees in Kansas plants the trees two feet apart, in rows eight feet from each other, and in this space raises a row of corn and potatoes each year till the trees are large enough to shade the ground.

Sheep multiply fast and returns come from them quickly. The owner of a well-managed flock has wool to sell in the latter part of spring, lambs in mid-summer and mutton at other times of year, besides supplying his own table.

The asterilinum, which used to be known almost wholly as the snapdragon and which few persons who grow it call by its proper name even now, is one of our standbys among flowers. It is a perennial, but it will bloom well the first summer.

One of the best border plants is the astilbe. It has very pretty foliage, above which its plumes of purest white flowers are borne in an airy, graceful fashion which makes it a conspicuous object wherever seen. Very easily grown and always a favorite.

In haying, be ready to cut a field as soon as the grass is in proper condition; a delay of a few days will greatly injure the quality of the hay. Do not start the mower until the dew is off, and cut only so much as can be well cured and cared for. Hay caps often pay for their cost in a single season.

A Colonel's War-Pa

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.
W. J. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY,
AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XX. PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, JULY 29, 1887. No. 20

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities."—MADISON.

Rates of Advertising.

Space	1 week	2 weeks	1 month
1 in.	$ 1 00	$ 1 50	$ 2 00
2 in.	1 50	2 00	3 00
3 in.	2 00	3 00	4 00
4 in.	2 50	3 50	5 00
5 in.	3 00	4 00	6 00
6 in.	3 50	4 50	7 00
7 in.	4 00	5 00	8 00
8 in.	4 50	5 50	9 00
9 in.	5 00	6 00	10 00
10 in.	5 50	6 50	11 00
11 in.	6 00	7 00	12 00
12 in.	6 50	7 50	13 00
13 in.	7 00	8 00	14 00
14 in.	7 50	8 50	15 00
15 in.	8 00	9 00	16 00
16 in.	8 50	9 50	17 00
17 in.	9 00	10 00	18 00
18 in.	9 50	10 50	19 00
19 in.	10 00	11 00	20 00
20 in.	10 50	11 50	21 00

All Electric must be sold cash.
"Little of Everything" column, 5 cts. per line.
Double rate, 50 per ct. advance of above rates.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

C. L. JENKINS, M. D.
Homeopathist.
Office and residence, 20 East Front Street, next door to Dr. Clark's. Office hours—7 to 8 A. M., 1 to 2 P. M., 7 to 9 P. M. apr 15-1y

JACKSON & ODDINGTON,
Counsellors-at-Law,
Chancery Solicitors, &c., of Smith, Masterman, Chancery Solicitor Paulin, Solicitor Counsel of Park avenue and Second street. apr2

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer,
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 136. Residence, 15 Somerset street, or Clerk Force's hardware. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES H. TERRIS,
Dentist,
No West Front street, over the local mosquito office. Satisfaction guaranteed or money back. Office hours—8 A. M. to 5 P. M. Evenings by appointment.

H. HAND,
Auctioneer,
P. O. Address, Lock Box 71, South Plainfield, N. J. Orders left at W. T. Clark's Retail Coal Yard, 1 West Front street, Plainfield, N. J., will receive prompt attention. apr15-1y

OSCAR S. TEALE,
Architect,
241 Broadway, New York city. Rooms 20 and 21, (Elevator on Fourth Street.) Send for circular. Plainfield, N. J.—apr15

WM. R. MCCLELLAN,
Attorney-at-Law,
MASTER IN CHANCERY, NOTARY PUBLIC,
Commissioner of Deeds. Office, North avenue, opposite depot. may6

J. H. PENDRY,
Veterinary Surgeon.
Office and Horse Infirmary, rear corner Main street and Madison avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Day and night calls left in Plainfield, Dunham's, or Hall No. 10, Constitution, or Grocers of Kilgore, Somerville, or Dr. Van Pelt's Pharmacy, 34 East Fifth street, New York. Satisfaction guaranteed. apr15-1y

DR. GEORGE GIDNEY,
Veterinary Surgeon.
Removed from Somerset street to 110 West Front street, opposite Library.—may6

ARTHUR L. WILLIS,
Attorney-at-Law,
(Successor to the late W. B. Maxson), Solicitor in Chancery, Conveyancer, &c. Will buy and sell real estate, loan money, rent and collect rents, and transact a general business. Office, Plainfield Bank.—apr15

F. A. DEGRAW,
Civil Engineer and Surveyor,
No. 7 Park avenue, Cleveland's building. Particular attention given to the adjustment of disputed boundary lines. Parties must be all parts of the country.—apr15

DR. C. F. GUITTER,
Electric Baths.
Dr. Guitter treats all Nervous affections. Diseases of the Stomach, Kidneys, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Consumption, Diseases of the Blood, Skin, Scrofula, and Chronic Sores. Consultation free. Office hours—9 A. M. to 12 M., 2 to 5 P. M. Electric Baths, Turkish, Russian, Sulphur, Medicated, Vapor, Shower, Needle, and Electric Vapor Baths.—apr15-1y

BUSINESS CARDS.

ROBERT JAHN,
TIN AND COPPER-SMITH,
Scotch Plains,
(Successor to J. Reading, Stove and Range work, Tin, Copper and Sheet Iron Work, Metal work, Tinning and Soldering Boilers, Cleaning and repairing Stoves, &c. Agent for the celebrated Steam Cooker, Economy Washing Machine, Ventilating Stove Pipe Shelf, Ventilating Stove Pipe Thimble, Ventilating Stove Pipe Elbow, Ventilating Stove Pipe Damper, Ventilating Stove Pipe Register, Ventilating Stove Pipe Cap, Ventilating Stove Pipe Collar, Ventilating Stove Pipe Flange, Ventilating Stove Pipe Ring, Ventilating Stove Pipe Plate, Ventilating Stove Pipe Screw, Ventilating Stove Pipe Nut, Ventilating Stove Pipe Washer, Ventilating Stove Pipe Gasket, Ventilating Stove Pipe Packing, Ventilating Stove Pipe Cement, Ventilating Stove Pipe Paint, Ventilating Stove Pipe Varnish, Ventilating Stove Pipe Oil, Ventilating Stove Pipe Grease, Ventilating Stove Pipe Soap, Ventilating Stove Pipe Brush, Ventilating Stove Pipe Broom, Ventilating Stove Pipe Mop, Ventilating Stove Pipe Duster, Ventilating Stove Pipe Feather, Ventilating Stove Pipe Fan, Ventilating Stove Pipe Bellows, Ventilating Stove Pipe Pump, Ventilating Stove Pipe Hose, Ventilating Stove Pipe Nozzle, Ventilating Stove Pipe Valve, Ventilating Stove Pipe Cock, Ventilating Stove Pipe Faucet, Ventilating Stove Pipe Tap, Ventilating Stove Pipe Spigot, Ventilating Stove Pipe Bung, Ventilating Stove Pipe Plug, Ventilating Stove Pipe Stopper, Ventilating Stove Pipe Cork, Ventilating Stove Pipe Bottle, Ventilating Stove Pipe Jug, Ventilating Stove Pipe Pitcher, Ventilating Stove Pipe Mug, Ventilating Stove Pipe Cup, Ventilating Stove Pipe Saucer, Ventilating Stove Pipe Plate, Ventilating Stove Pipe Dish, Ventilating Stove Pipe Spoon, Ventilating Stove Pipe Knife, Ventilating Stove Pipe Fork, Ventilating Stove Pipe Table, Ventilating Stove Pipe Chair, Ventilating Stove Pipe Bed, Ventilating Stove Pipe Mattress, Ventilating Stove Pipe Pillow, Ventilating Stove Pipe Blanket, Ventilating Stove Pipe Sheet, Ventilating Stove Pipe Quilt, Ventilating Stove Pipe Counterpane, Ventilating Stove Pipe Curtain, Ventilating Stove Pipe Shade, Ventilating Stove Pipe Blind, Ventilating Stove Pipe Screen, Ventilating Stove Pipe Door, Ventilating Stove Pipe Window, Ventilating Stove Pipe Sash, Ventilating Stove Pipe Glass, Ventilating Stove Pipe Putty, Ventilating Stove Pipe Nail, Ventilating Stove Pipe Screw, Ventilating Stove Pipe Bolt, Ventilating Stove Pipe Rivet, Ventilating Stove Pipe Hinge, Ventilating Stove Pipe Lock, Ventilating Stove Pipe Key, Ventilating Stove Pipe Latch, Ventilating Stove Pipe Bar, Ventilating Stove Pipe Rod, Ventilating Stove Pipe Wire, Ventilating Stove Pipe Cable, Ventilating Stove Pipe Chain, Ventilating Stove Pipe Rope, Ventilating Stove Pipe Twine, Ventilating Stove Pipe Thread, Ventilating Stove Pipe Needle, Ventilating Stove Pipe Pin, Ventilating Stove Pipe Button, Ventilating Stove Pipe Hook, Ventilating Stove Pipe Eye, Ventilating Stove Pipe Loop, Ventilating Stove Pipe Ring, Ventilating Stove Pipe Staple, Ventilating Stove Pipe Clasp, Ventilating Stove Pipe Buckle, Ventilating Stove Pipe Strap, Ventilating Stove Pipe Belt, Ventilating Stove Pipe Suspender, Ventilating Stove Pipe Garter, Ventilating Stove Pipe Sock, Ventilating Stove Pipe Shoe, Ventilating Stove Pipe Boot, Ventilating Stove Pipe Slipper, Ventilating Stove Pipe Hat, Ventilating Stove Pipe Cap, Ventilating Stove Pipe Bonnet, Ventilating Stove Pipe Veil, Ventilating Stove Pipe Glove, Ventilating Stove Pipe Mitten, Ventilating Stove Pipe Handkerchief, Ventilating Stove Pipe Scarf, Ventilating Stove Pipe Tie, Ventilating Stove Pipe Ribbon, Ventilating Stove Pipe Lace, Ventilating Stove Pipe Embroidery, Ventilating Stove Pipe Trimming, Ventilating Stove Pipe Fringe, Ventilating Stove Pipe Tassel, Ventilating Stove Pipe Ornament, Ventilating Stove Pipe Jewelry, Ventilating Stove Pipe Watch, Ventilating Stove Pipe Clock, Ventilating Stove Pipe Chain, Ventilating Stove Pipe Key, Ventilating Stove Pipe Seal, Ventilating Stove Pipe Ring

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE, } A. L. FORCE.
Editors and Proprietors.

OUR CANDIDATE.

Mr. Thurman, the eminent Democratic statesman of Ohio, attributes the great personal popularity of President Cleveland to the fact that "he possesses undoubted honesty and undoubted courage, and that the American people like a brave and an honest man."

That is the truth forcibly stated.

The official who honestly and assiduously strives to discharge duty, with an eye single to law, justice and the public good, is worthy of the highest honor; and it is a happy omen for the future of free government that the people of this country are increasingly in favor of such noble characteristics.

President Cleveland has fairly won the honorable designation conferred upon him by Allen G. Thurman and scores of other prominent citizens.

He is a man of unblemished integrity.

With him official obligations are sacred trusts.

He meets every duty with promptitude and intelligent ability.

His constant endeavor is to do right.

No mercenary pelf ever soiled his hands.

No unworthy ambition ever blocked his straightforward pathway.

No letter man can fill the Presidential chair.

For President,
1888,
GROVER CLEVELAND,
of New York.

PRACTICAL PROOF.

The Savings Banks throughout the United States show large increase of deposits during the present Democratic National Administration.

It is a significant fact.

Savings Banks are reliable thermometers of industrial prosperity or depression, and the record we thus bring to mind affords additional and positive evidence of political misrepresentation.

The leading opponents of Democracy rang loud and long the charge that the election of a Democratic President would ruin the country; demoralize business, lessen employment, overthrow confidence, upset values, and create general distress.

Thousands of well-meaning, but timid people, were induced to believe such false predictions of unprincipled politicians and to vote accordingly.

They will not again be caught in that kind of a trap.

Truth has dissolved the mists of wily partisanship and revealed things as they really are.

The Democratic party is in power, and the country in good condition and at peace from centre to circumference.

That argument is unanswerable.

Some business gentlemen, ardent followers of Blaine, actually declared that if Cleveland was elected they would immediately shut up shop and retire.

That may have been only political bluster, but, should it be pretended, not one of them is known to have carried his threat into execution. Not one.

Why?

Because a Democratic Administration made business interests sounder and better than they were before its advent.

Another sweeping argument.

For nigh unto a hundred years the party of Democracy has been the recipient of every species of false accusation, yet it has survived all opposition, both open and covert, and advancing steadily forward, stands to-day as fully prepared to Constitutionally govern the land on behalf of public honor and the rights and welfare of the people, as at any former period of our national history.

It is said that women voted in New Jersey from 1776 to 1807.

The County Clerk's office at Elizabeth will close on Saturday at three p. m. during this month and August.

Prosecutor Winfield, of Hudson county, is very much dissatisfied with the verdict of the Coroner's jury in the collusive explosion case in Arlington. He has written a letter to ex-Judge McCarter, of Newark, who represented the State at the inquest, expressing surprise that the Coroner did not hold the parties responsible for the explosion, notwithstanding the verdict, and he says that he will bring the matter before the next Grand Jury.

Persons who won't pay for their newspapers should paste the following in a conspicuous place: Some time since a newspaper publisher in Illinois brought suit against forty-three men. They were not pay for their subscriptions and obtained judgment in each for the full amount of the claim. Twenty-eight of the defendants made affidavit that they owned no more property than the law allowed them, thus preventing attachments. Then under the Supreme Court decision they were arrested for petty larceny and put under bonds of from $200 to $500. All but six gave bonds, but the six went to jail. The postal law makes it larceny to take a newspaper and refuse to pay for it.

Governor Green has been interviewed upon the political prospect, and he spoke for the Democracy of the State when he said: "I believe Hill will stand and serve Mr. Cleveland would be nominated by acclamation. No other name is mentioned in New Jersey. The party is unanimous. I am satisfied that Mr. Cleveland can carry the State by a much larger majority than he did before. If Mr. Blaine were his opponent Mr. Cleveland's election would be certain. All the floating votes in New Jersey which Mr. Blaine got in 1884 would go to Mr. Cleveland. The President is very popular here, and his renomination is accepted by New Jersey as a matter of course. The people of this State look upon the war as something belonging to the past. As for the people of the South they will look at the attempt to excite the old war feeling. They know that the war in its results was a blessing to them, and they will be too busy developing the resources of the South and making money to listen to demagogues."

Remy C. Kelsey, Secretary of State of New Jersey, is at the Ocean House, Rockport. Governor Green, of New Jersey, and Mayor Ahrens arrived there this morning and are guests of Pres. C. W. Sanford, at Gales Point.

Paying No Royalties West.

Out in Iowa they still consider an unsettled the question of Mr. Green's right to back royalties on driven wells. The following letter of last week, is from a prominent firm of lawyers, of Independence, Iowa, to a well-known citizen of the Borough of North Plainfield:

DEAR SIR.—Yours of the 20th inst., in regard to the driven well case from the 2d ward, now pending in the U. S. S. C., received, and noted. The case against Mr. Green will be set for trial the December term, and we expect to be ready to argue it at that time. We are confident of the Court, and would advise you to stand pat and let the case be decided.

Our fee in the case is $100, and we think they are acting upon the same, and no one here is paying anything. Yours truly, LANE & HARMON.

Again at the Front.

In another part of this issue of THE CONSTITUTIONALIST is an announcement of the resumption of business by Mr. Frank C. Brown, furniture dealer, at the old stand corner of Park avenue and Second street. After weeks of hesitation and stoppage of business, Mr. Brown has successfully overcome the temporary embarrassment of his affairs, and now opens his spacious store and warerooms with a fresh and carefully selected stock of new and elegant goods, which is offered to the public at prices that should induce the people of Plainfield to purchase in their own town instead of going out of town to do so. Attentive and courteous clerks are always in attendance to show goods.

The City's Boarders.

Two men woke up in the station house Sunday morning, and were obliged to gaze at the daylight from behind the bars. All day Sunday they occupied their four by six foot quarters, bathing their heads and listening to the gentle patter of the rain against the windows. Officer Green declared that no men roaming about town on Saturday evening, both drunk and disorderly. On Monday one of them was arraigned before Judge Ulrich. He gave his name as DeCamp, but this is thought to be assumed. He pleaded with the Judge to be lenient and said that he knew his fault. The prisoner declared that he could not live long behind the bars, and said that he hoped the lesson he had learned would do him some good. Judge Ulrich said he hoped so too, and in view of this open confession, the Judge said he would let him off with a nominal fine—five dollars.

Frank Callahan was next arraigned. He was severely reprimanded and after promising to do better in the future, his mother paid five dollars for his release.

Funeral of George Tier.

The funeral of the late George Tier, who died at an early hour on Tuesday, July 19th, took place from the residence of his uncle, John H. Tier, on Bank place, Thursday. The house was filled with the friends of the family, including a delegation a large number of his former associates, to whom he had become greatly attached and who were present to pay their respects to his memory. The floral display was elaborate, showing the high esteem in which the young man was held by his acquaintances. Among the more prominent floral designs was a large anchor of yellow and white, presented by the teachers of the Trinity Reformed Sunday-school, a beautiful yellow and white star, composed of a wreath of roses and ferns, the same the gift of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of Trinity Reformed church, and a floral star, composed of pinks and roses from the relatives, and a wreath from one of the recent employees in Mr. A. M. Griffin's store. The beautiful floral display was tastefully arranged by Miss A. E. Lisbolm, the Park avenue florist. Rev. Dr. N. E. Cornell, pastor of Trinity, a former pastor in this city, officiated, and paid a fitting tribute to the deceased. He was assisted by Rev. Dr. Schenck, the present pastor of Trinity Reformed church, who also eulogized the life of one who had been called away in early manhood. The service was most solemn and impressive, and all were visibly affected. The pall-bearers were Masters Fred Cutler, Andrew carpenter, Alvin Terhune, and Charles Wheeler, and after an opportunity had been given to view the remains, the casket was borne to the hearse and conveyed to Evergreen Cemetery, where the closing scenes were enacted.

OBITUARY.

MRS. MILLICENT HUMPSTON.

Mrs. Millicent Humpston, widow of the late William Humpston, died Sunday at the residence of her son, Samuel, on West Second street, at the advanced age of 76 years. The deceased had been ailing for a long time, but the direct cause of her death was paralysis. She was born in Yorkshire, England, in 1756, and came to this country at the age of 23 years. For the past 33 years she has been a resident of this state, living most of the time at Bound Brook.

DANIEL C. VAN WINKLE.

As announced in THE PRESS, the death occurred at half-past one o'clock p. m. of Saturday, of Daniel C. Van Winkle, one of the oldest and most highly-esteemed citizens of North Plainfield. Although not confined to his bed for several occasions, slight paralytic strokes, which he would soon overcome, and again be around, attending to his business. Three weeks previous to the day of his death, July 2d, he was again stricken down with paralysis, and after a severe left his bed, and despite the skill of one of our most eminent physicians, and the kind and loving care of his children, he succumbed to his fate. He was frequently passed away on Saturday, surrounded by his sons and daughter, who are now only consoled by the assurance that he is more at rest with his Maker, "who doeth all things well."

The deceased was born at Jersey City Heights, Hudson county, New Jersey, on February 16th, 1802, and he was therefore in the eighty-sixth year of his age at the time of his death. At the age of twenty-four years he married Miss Sarah Broome, a sister of the late William J. Broome. In 1845, he purchased a farm near New Market, at a place now known as Van Winkle's corners, and resided there until the place until 1864, when he sold it and again bought a home near Cedmus' saw mill in Somerset county. Four years ago in 1883 he disposed of the property and bought of the late Rev. Mr. Dorr, a plot at the corner of Grove street and Seventh avenue, North Plainfield. In 1872, Mr. VanWinkle built the house in which he died, corner of Dorr street and Mercer avenue, moving with his family thereto in 1879. Four years previous to that time, April 16th, 1875, his wife closed a useful career, leaving, besides the husband, six sons and two daughters to mourn her loss. One of the daughters died in the West a few years ago.

Mr. Van Winkle was a man of sterling qualities of unquestionable veracity and strict integrity, whose life was characterized by his many good traits. He was a life-long christian, and since early manhood was a consistent member of the Reformed Dutch church. He was public-spirited, and although frequently tendered offices of public trust, he never held but one, and that was the political office in Jersey City, and two sinews are the only living relatives.

From the Daily Press of Tuesday.

JOHN H. VINCENT, D. D.,
CHANCELLOR, CHAUTAUQUA UNIVERSITY.

REV. J. L. HURLBUT,
PRINCIPAL OF THE C. L. S. C.

The Chautauqua.

It is with great satisfaction to ourselves, and to the great pleasure of our readers, that we are to-day able to present as above our readers with the portraits of the two eminent divines our city proudly claims and boasts of—the able exponents of the Chautauqua idea and the founders, organizers of the Assembly. More and more every day is spreading throughout the World the blessings of the Chautauqua and its methods—the greatest University of Universal Knowledge in the Universe. But a few years ago its first class graduated less than two thousand members—its class commencing last year, numbered nearly twenty-five thousand. All over the World are its members included, and even the higher class of the illustrated periodicals are engaging the services of eleven artists to picture its out-door Assembly. In the last number of Frank Leslie's is devoted a page to scenes and incidents from photographs, with an article in connection. The portraits are the same as those above.

We know of no better way of telling the few who know not, what the Chautauqua idea is, than by quoting freely from an article on the subject by the Rev. Mr. Herbut, in the early January of 1878, while Dr. Vincent was crossing the Atlantic, homeward bound from a breathing-spell under the Alps, the plans of the C. L. S. C. were matured and its details arranged. It was to involve a course of reading and study, covering the principal subjects of the college curriculum, but omitting of necessity the drill in Languages and mathematics, giving to the English reader an outlook over the field of learning, and some acquaintance with the masterpieces of literature, science and modern; employing hand-books and compendiums for the mastery of outlines, and Settling up the Estate.

On July 13th inst., the court passed the count, authorizing W. R. Codington, of the firm of Jackson & Codington, as one of the executors of the estate of Mrs. Melbourne to proceed with the settlement of the various claims against Melbourne, and on the following day the Assignee of the estate audit the claims. After paying the laborers' claims in full, aggregating upwards of $1,000, each of the other claimants received at the rate of 40½ cents on the dollar. Most of them, however, consider themselves fortunate to get even this amount.

All the Italians Now at Large.

After the murderous attack on the Stewart family by the Palermo and Mrs. Fillmorre Rossa, in Siger' alley, resulting, the Count Palermo quietly disappeared, Mrs. Rossa was bailed by her husband, and the Comtessa Palermo and her daughter Margarella were sent to Elizabeth jail. Friday evening the train reaching Plainfield at 6.59, brought back to the freedom of the city the old lady and the Signorina. They were released on the consent with the court of $245 in cash by Mr. Leid Vietom, of Plainfield. It is rumored that Palermo himself furnished the necessary cash.

Public Bath.

Since THE PRESS recently called attention to the necessity of a public bath in this city, and urged that some philanthropist take the matter in hand, the subject has been taken up by the residents of Plainfield and is being discussed in the newspapers of that place. A correspondent to the Messenger thus alludes to the Subject:

"Why can we not have a public bath? We have water in abundance, and very clean water at that. Next to a building for a Public Library and Reading Room, much on the principle that cleanliness is next to godliness. The people of Plainfield are clamoring for one, infants cry for it, boys and the young ladies are more interested in the subject than in ice cream—much to the delight of their impecunious swains. Our growth as a town has been very conservative and somewhat slow, but we have at last passed the days of creeping, and in the future we will have to introduce the improvements in keeping with the age. Let us begin with a bath and swimming school. It will be worth much more than it costs. As a matter of village pride, we should put a stop to the field to get ahead of us in this matter, especially as we are well provided with water and our sister city has not comparatively little. Let Plainfield take the soap and set the project in motion."

Middlesex Gun Club.

A regular meeting of members of the Middlesex Gun Club was held at the Park Hotel, Saturday evening, July 23d, at which much interesting business was discussed and transacted. Necessary arrangements are being made to make the grand five day's tournament on the grounds at Dunellen, Oct. 3d, 4th, 5th, 6th and 7th, an interesting occasion. In consequence of the continued absence of vice-president S. G. Smith, to Dakota, for his health during September and October, he desired that some other member be placed on the committee of arrangements in his place. Mr. Thomas Kellar was therefore appointed, and the committee now consists of Messrs. W. Fred Quimby, Mr. Richards of the Atlantic Ammunition company, of New York, and Mr. Kellar, who will constitute a committee that will have a grand meeting of the members, at Dr. Wm. Matherson of Somerville, was proposed as a new member by President Robinson. It was resolved that the Board of Directors purchase handsome badges to be contested for by members on each regular club shoot days. Two of these are to be known as "Live Pigeon Trophy," designated Class A and B., and two others as "Inanimate Target Trophy," Class A and B. These trophies are to be contested for by members on regular club shoot days, the event to be a special shoot at seven live birds and ten inanimate targets each. The Board of Directors are to classify the shooters. To become owners of the trophies contestants must win them three times. The members will begin competing for them on the first regular club shoot day in August. The use of the club's grounds were tendered to St. John's R. C. church at Dunellen, on which to hold their picnic. Invitations were extended to the members of the Essex, Jersey City Heights, North Side and Union Gun Clubs to participate in sweepstake shooting on the grounds at Dunellen next Wednesday. After a long and pleasant chat over matters of interest to the club the meeting adjourned to meet at the same place one week hence. In the approaching October tournament many of the crack shots at Dunellen, on which to hold their picnic. Invitations were extended to the members of the Essex, Jersey City Heights, North Side and Union Gun Clubs to participate in sweepstake shooting on the grounds at Dunellen next Wednesday. After a long and pleasant chat over matters of interest to the club the meeting adjourned to meet at the same place one week hence. In the approaching October tournament many of the crack shots of the country will be present and participate in the exercises.

appointing more extensive works to be read; a course which the individual could pursue alone, if necessary, yet adapted for associated study; sufficiently simple to invite the masses, and to lead them on without discouragement from its difficulties or its extent; yet so thorough as not to be deemed superficial by the more learned. The outline of study is planned to cover four years, and may be accomplished by some readers in an hour a day, during ten months of each year. Of course, no untutored person can secure a finished education by merely reading an hour per day for four years; yet so much time spent with thoughtful and wisely-chosen books will impart to any mind a knowledge of literature, a measure of intelligence, and an intellectual finishing, by no means to be despised. It embraces the general subjects of History, Science, Literature, and the Bible study, with a few branches which might be included under Home and Health. There is an arrangement whereby each member, however distant, is kept in connection with the office of the Circle at Plainfield. Here Miss K. F. Kimball, the secretary, aided by her corps of assistants, maintains a supervision over the details of the work. With every mail come letters of inquiry, and, in answer thereto, circulars explaining the plan, and blanks for those desiring membership are despatched. Applications for union with the Circle are received, including the annual fee of fifty cents, which is the sole expense of the association, except of course, the cost of books.

Attintervals there is sent to every member a large envelope containing various documents, such as circulars and announcements of the course, a list containing address from the—Superintendent of instruction, Dr. J. H. Vincent, and "Outline Memoranda" on the current topics of study. These latter are sent both as a guide and an examination, and consist of large sheets, one on each department of study, containing questions, with blanks for answers, outlines, hints on study, and a catechism of important facts to be memorized. The items of printing and postage, and the cost of these sheets for the whole thousand people, are considerable. Lest any may imagine a financial aim in the enterprise, let it be remarked, in passing, that the fees received scarcely cover the expenses of the office, and that the president receives absolutely nothing for his services.

An inspection of the records and of the letters pigeon-holed in the general office in this city reveals many noteworthy facts. Names are found representing all creeds and all lands. There are several hundred members in the Dominion of Canada, and individual students in England, India, Japan, the Sandwich Islands, and Alaska. So many Churches with various shades of belief are embraced in the membership, that it is difficult to keep the list reasonable as any other Sunday-School. Four thousand mortals to be found on the planet.

As to the beneficial results of the organization there can scarcely be a question. Any system which will bring thousands of people into communion with the thought of the world cannot fail of blessing the race.

Resolution of Appreciation.

At a meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of this city, held recently, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That intensely interested as we are in ought which touches our hearts centers in the welfare of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, of which, of course, we are deeply appreciative of the action taken by H. H. Baldwin, General Passenger Agent of the C. R. R. of N. J., whereby this year he considers any applications for excursions where loss or injury of any kind is to be sold; and we desire to express to him in this the gratitude of many a wife, mother and sister.

July 14, 1887.

A Mining Company of Painhelders.

There has just been organized a company of Plainfield capitalists, who are the owners of extensive tracts of land in Virginia and Kentucky, for the purpose of mining and lumbering. The title is The Cumberland Mining and Lumbering Co., and its capital stock is placed at $200,000. Its incorporators are Mr. Jacob Kirkner, President of the Board of Education; Fire Commissioner William H. Brokaw; ex-City Physician John T. Fritts; M. H. Seymour G. Smith, Esq., of Central avenue, and Mr. William C. Kelly, a large owner of real estate in this city. Besides these, a number of wealthy and far-sighted citizens are interested as stockholders to a great extent. The objects of the Company are mining and smelting, the buying and selling of real estate; the developing and improving of mineral and timber lands; the preparing for commercial uses, iron, coal and other minerals, and lumber; and the conveying of the same to market.

WESTFIELD.

Mrs. Isaac L. Scudder and her mother, Mrs. Cornelia Benfield, are sojourning at Ocean Grove, for two weeks.

Among recent patents issued, was one to Dr. Sherman Cooper of this town for an improved suspensory bandage.

Benjamin H. Woodruff has broken ground for a three story brick store on Broad street adjoining the truck house.

Doctor Bayard is feeling very bad over the loss of a fine shade tree adjoining his house on Orchard street. The severe wind and rain last week having blown it down.

The valuation of the real and personal property of Westfield Township for the year 1887 is $795,000, an increase of $37,000 over last year. The county tax is $4,076.93, and State school tax is $1,917. The county tax is $520 less than last year.

Several small children have had narrow escapes from being injured by the practice of some of our wheelmen in riding their wheels upon our main side walks. This should be discontinued, before one of the children receive injuries that may be fatal.

Westfield Township, under the supervision of our Town Committee, has about completed the North avenue improvement towards Cranford. We now have as fine a section of crushed stone road as any in the county. Mr. Robert Woodruff, Jr., had charge of the work.

On Monday, 18th. Mrs. Nancy Baker, aged 98 years, and who owns a small farm in our Township, engaged a neighbor to cut the grass on her farm with a mowing machine, but she herself was in the field for a number of hours with a scythe and attes cutting the grass near the fences which the machine failed to reach. We doubt whether there is a woman of her age in the State who is as able and does as much work as Mrs. Baker.

There are a number of complaints about the condition of our roads. Next to Dorcas No. 9, it being that portion of Broad street lying south of the railroad, between Osborne and Scotch Plains avenues. The overseer for a number of years past has spent most of the road money on South avenue. The road bed on Broad street has flattened out. It needs grading, and one foot and the gutters cleaned out, so that the water will have a free passage and not lay in the center of the road as it has for the past week.

Under the direction of the clergymen of the various denominations in this place, a large tent, eighty feet, with seating capacity of over 800, has been erected and gospel meetings will be held at least once a week. The pastors want to reach the masses, who seldom or never go to church. As one of the pastors recently puts it, they will preach the "old gospel truths with the modern incentions knocked off." A short vocal and instrumental praise service will be held at every meeting. Rev. Mr. Folwell, of the Baptist church; Rev. Mr. Patton, of the Congregational church, and Rev. Mr. Cornell, of the Methodist Episcopal church, worked with their costs or in erecting the tent.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Mr. Peter Frazer has received the contract for the mason work on the new club house of the Fanwood Amusement Company, and Messrs. Bowman & Co., are the carpenters. Ground has been broken for the building on South avenue, opposite the depot.

The Fanwood Stone Crushing company have received and are now placing in position at their works on the mountain side back of Scotch Plains, a large "Gates" stone crusher of one hundred tons, daily capacity, which will be run by a 20-horse power engine. The whole plant is being set up under the direction of Chas. Mosher, than whom there is no more competent and thorough mechanic in this State.

The "World" Wrong Again.

A rather inaccurate statement was published on Saturday in the New York World and copied into a local paper respecting Netherwood Park affairs. Among other things, reference was made to an alleged conference between "the residents of Netherwood and the rector of Grace church, in the interest of study field," at which, it was stated, the decision to form a diocesan mission at Netherwood was agreed upon. There has been no such conference held, which was duly noted in THE PRESS, but a final adjustment of the matter, as we then stated, was not arrived at. Since then further negotiations have been in progress, but the Netherwood people have had no official notice of any decision of Grace church in the case.

Successful Transfer of Bees.

Commissioner William Wright of Newark, stocked Lake Carvallo, at Lakewood, Ocean county, recently, with several hundred black bees which were transferred from Greenwood Lake, in charge of two men who constantly aerated the water and cooled it with ice. The fish were nine hours in transit and during the whole of this time the temperature of the air was above 90 degrees. Five changes of cars were made in the ninety miles between the lake and Lakewood. The fish were delivered in fine condition, only one dead fish being found in the cans. The bees were kept in the water over night for several days before shipment. Commissioner Wright is zealous in his endeavors to fulfill the duties of his office, and is meeting with success. He is a Republican.

In the New Colony.

Upon and along the site of the Pond Tool Works, near Grant avenue station, building of all kinds is being carried on. About the factory itself, a large force of men are at work, and the work is going along very rapidly. Mr. John R. Moore, treasurer and manager of the Land Improvement company, with Mr. Wm. C. Hyde, C. E., engineer, and superintendent of the company's possessions in the vicinity and Plainfield, visited the spot Tuesday, 19th. They made a tour of inspection of the company's possessions in the vicinity and decided to begin the erection of at least twenty cottages at once, but did not locate them. Those cottages will be of a style and finish, that will please and please the taste of the high-class of machinists that are connected with such *works, and at the same time not be be*yond the purse of the mechanic. Mr. J. Noel has already completed some pretty little dwellings of the kind, and has almost finished a three-story brick building, containing stores and flats above, and two stores below that are leased to two of our enterprising merchants. The building is 32x62, located near the corner of the intersection of Second and West Third streets, and when completed will be quite an addition to that part of the city. The Hospital Conservices have come to an agreement with Mr. Noel, by which the latter, who purchased the whole tract adjoining, sells to the Hospital Board 237 feet to add to their grounds.

LIST OF ADVERTISED LETTERS.

REMAINING IN PLAINFIELD POST OFFICE FOR WEEK ENDING JULY 23, 1887.

Aldrich, A Mrs.
Bowden, Miss Jennie
Bowden, John
Corbett, C. M Miss
Baker, Ella Miss
Bergen, James S Mrs
Baldwin, Asa
Cox, C. P.
Cardonne, Martha Mrs
Cook, Sarah Mrs
Canavan, Annie E Miss
Dell, J. P.
Gerthart, Annie Miss
Hagerty, M. T Mrs
Hoyt, L. M.
Lewis, A. H.
Mitchell, Mary Miss
Moore, Anna Miss
Moore, R. J.
Mc Mahon, Mary Miss
Mc Gill, Sarah Mrs
Rose & Co.
Rose, Mary E Miss
Read, M & H
Tyler, N. S.
Van Arsdale, Peter
Wm. A. Mrs.

Persons calling for above please say advertised.
W. L. FORCE, Postmaster.

DEATHS.

BURR—In this city, July 24, Frank Dexter, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Xavier Burr, aged 9 months and 1 day.

HUMPSTON—On Sunday, July 24, of paralysis, Mrs. Millicent Humpston, aged 76 years. The Rev. Wm. Humpston, aged 36 years, 4 months, 10 days.

MARTIN—On Sunday, July 24, of cholera infantum, Lizzie Mary Martin, aged 1 year, 3 months, 21 days. Rev. Mr. Martin, aged 6 weeks.

VAN WINKLE—In this city, on Saturday, July 23d, 1887, of paralysis, Daniel C. Van Winkle, aged 85 years, 5 months and 7 days.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

FORD & STILES,
Funeral Directors
and Embalmers,
Office, Warerooms and Residence
No. 14 EAST FRONT STREET.
Telephone Call.
GEO. C. FORD. 4287. GEO. M. STILES

A. M. RUNYON & SON,
Undertakers and Embalmers,
60 Park avenue.
Telephone Call.
Residence of A. M. Runyon
Telephone Call.
"Office of Hillside Cemetery."

P. CASEY & SON,
UNDERTAKERS,
Office, No. 1 Somerset st., Plainfield, N. J.
Residence, No. 3 Somerset st., Plainfield, N. J.
Successors to the business of
Casey & Cannon, established in 1870.
Telephone Call, No. 4287. Formerly Answered
Day or Night.—4287

WANTS and INFORMATION

50 Cents for each insertion of 5 lines. Each additional line 10 cents. Displayed advertisements charged by the square of space.

TO RENT—AT WESTFIELD, NEW JERSEY, the new dwelling house on Elm street, next door to the residence of Mrs. Dr. Ayres. Address direct drive to Northwood and Plainfield. The house is modern in all its appointments, and large cellar and attic, is about twelve minutes walk from depot, and commands a fine view of a beautiful grove of native trees. There is good water, and plenty of shade trees. Apply to Mrs. Dr. Ayres, Westfield, N. J., or to Mrs. Dr. Ayres, 10 Park place, New York City. 7-15-tf

CHOICE CELERY PLANTS FOR SALE. JOHN T. BOGART, Dunellen, N. J. 7-27-1w

FOR SALE—IN MORRIS COUNTY, SIX MILES from Somerville, 2½ miles from Bernardsville, 50 by 100 feet, with a fine view, suitable for summer cottage, barn or truck; 15 minutes walk from depot. Price $200. Apply to Jas. D. Ludlow, Somerville, N. J. 7-27-1w

A SMALL PLEASANT ROOM TO LET WITH board, in a private family. Terms reasonable. Private family. Apply at THIS OFFICE.

TO RENT—Five small cottages, containing seven rooms each, with bath room, hot and cold water and gas from reservoir. Separate rooms if desired. Apply to or address, JOHN T. BOGART, Dunellen, N. J. 7-27-1w

WANTED—AN INTELLIGENT ACTIVE BOY to learn the printing business. Apply at the advertising office, 108 and 110 North Second st., Philadelphia, Pa.

WANTED—AN INTELLIGENT ACTIVE BOY to learn the printing business. Apply at the advertising office, 108 and 110 North Second st., Philadelphia, Pa.

MISCELLANEOUS.

TO FRANK MORTIMER REDDINGTON CASEY.

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey made on the day of the date hereof in a cause wherein Mary Odden Casey is complainant and you are defendant, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the complaint exhibited against you in this cause by seventh day of September next, or the said complaint will be taken as confessed against you.

The said petition is filed against you for a divorce from the bond of matrimony.
JACKSON & CODDINGTON,
Solicitors of Complainant.
Dated the twenty-ninth day of July, eighteen hundred and eighty-seven. 7-29-6

PROPOSALS FOR COAL.

Sealed proposals will be received by either of the undersigned until Saturday, July 30th inst. for best quality Lehigh Coal, say 110 Chestnut and 65 Stove Furnace, the same to be properly screened, and delivered free of expense within the Public Schools buildings in this township. Bids to specify whether coal is to be delivered in bulk or carefully weighed in bags. The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

175 TONS

By order of the Board of Education.
NATHAN HARPER,
LOUIS F. WADSWORTH,
Special Committee.
Plainfield, N. J., July 26, 1887. 7-27-2t

THE ORIENT GUANO MANUFACTURING CO.
164 & 18 Exchange Place, N.Y.
Office, 164 Exchange Place.
Works, Kearny, N. J.
SULPHURIC ACID, FISH OIL,
Dissolved BONE, FISH SCRAP and other Chemical Fertilizers

OWNS AND OPERATES OVER
6,000 Miles
OF PERFECTLY CONSTRUCTED RAILWAY.
PENETRATES THE BEST PORTIONS OF ILLINOIS, IOWA, WISCONSIN, MICHIGAN, MINNESOTA, DAKOTA, NEBRASKA, and WYOMING.
CHICAGO & NORTHWESTERN RAILWAY
Running Elegant Trains of most complete Equipment BETWEEN CHICAGO
MILWAUKEE, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS, COUNCIL BLUFFS, OMAHA:
THE IRON REGIONS OF MICHIGAN
THE FREE LANDS OF DAKOTA
AND NORTHERN NEBRASKA.
THE ONLY LINE TO THE BLACK HILLS.
THE PIONEER LINE TO CALIFORNIA.
For maps, time tables, and further information in the future send address on postal card to
H. A. CROSS, Trave ling Agt., Lakewood, N. J.
HARRIS HOBART, N. C. WICKER, E. P. WILSON
President. Traffic Manager. Gen. Pass. Agt.

Carney Bros.,
PRACTICAL
Plumbers, Tinners & Gas Fitters.
Heaters, Ranges and Stoves.
Dealers in all kinds of Stoves, Ranges and Heaters. Repairing for all kinds of stoves constantly on hand. Stoves, Heaters and Ranges put in order under our personal supervision. Satisfaction guaranteed or a good job at a very reasonable price.
We Guarantee Our Work.
We are under many obligations to our numerous patrons of the past for their work and their endorsement of the same, and we will endeavor to merit a continuance of the favors bestowed, and to secure many new ones by doing only first-class work
7 and 9 Somerset street.

WERNER'S
—ONE PRICE—
Clothing House!
—ONE PRICE—
Spring Opening!
COME AND SEE US IN OUR
NEW STORE,
NO. 30 W. FRONT STREET.
JUST RECEIVED.
The Newest Styles
OF SPRING GOODS
—IN—
OVERCOATS and SUITS
—FOR—
MEN, BOYS AND CHILDREN.
AND IN SHOWERAR AND GENT'S FURNISHING GOODS,
which we will gladly show you, even though you do not want to buy. Come all, and we will be pleased to see you. Remember the number, 30 West Front street, and the name, WERNER'S. Any location to know goods.
WERNER'S
CLOTHING HOUSE,
30 W. FRONT STREET.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS. NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Pure Wines and Liquors,
Persons desirous of procuring Pure Liquors for Family use are requested to call, as my goods are of the choicest brands, while the prices are lower than those charged by first-class grocers in the larger cities, and quality superior.
E. P. THORN, 17 PARK AVENUE.
None but the best is offered and the National and European reputation of the different brands of Ales, Wines, Beers, Liquors, etc., is a guarantee, and a liberal public endorsement the result, of this carefully selected mellow stock.
NO EXTRA CHARGE TO DELIVER GOODS.

NOW FOR SUMMER!
It has been rather tardy, and recent storms gave little promise of its coming; but "it's got here all the same." It's safe now to divest ourselves now of Winter underwear and don a Summer suit. Nature herself hardly assumes a greater change in color, style and beauty, than do our counters as the seasons make their approach. Summer suits are blooming now in great variety. Look at our $10 Chester Moses Cheviots. Don't judge by the price, that's deceiving; the goods won't deceive you, though. This suit not only can't be beat, it can't be approached in this town. Step to the next table and behold a blue flannel (full indigo) for $12, which for appearance and real lasting service is unequaled by any other fabric at or near the price. One moment. We want you to be sure and see the new blue and black Serge coats and vests at $10. These garments are beauties. No custom tailor would think of making them for less than $18: Sawyer Cassimeres in a dozen different styles to suit as many tastes. In the Children's Stock—Let us see what to mention among so many. Fine suits for the little ones we have at all seasons, but at this time of year nature invites them to romp, an invitation by the way not all necessary—and it don't pay to buy anything very fine for them. Suppose you look at our Princeton Blouse at $2.75, and from that up to 46.50, in Norfolk and all other approved styles of Blouse. Serviceable colors; serviceable goods But time would fail us, or you would, were we to attempt a detailed description of our preparation to serve you this Summer. Let us close with a question. Our assortment is unequaled. Our styles are nearly perfect. Our clothing the well and wears well, and of our prices it is unnecessary to speak. What more can you want? Know. Do you? Come in and tell us and we will supply whatever is lacking, if possible.
McGregor & Co.
850--852 BROAD STREET,
NEWARK, N. J.
The Plainfield Electric Light Co.
OFFICE, 35 AND 37 NORTH AVENUE.
Opposite R. R. Station. Mulford's Real Estate Agency.
The Economic Gas Engine.
This little Gas Engine may be daily seen in operation in our window pumping water from our well for hour at the small cost per hour of a fraction of a cent. Number of prominent residences in this city have them in operation and in every case we have unqualified testimonials.
Our Sanitary Plumbing
DOMESTIC LIGHTING BY INCANDESCENCE.
HOUSES CAN BE WIRED WITHOUT DEFACEMENT TO WALLS AND CEILINGS, AND EXISTING GAS FITTING CAN BE USED.
DOMESTIC RATES—PER ANNUM:
1st lamp $7
2d lamp 25
3d lamp 45
4th lamp 55
5th lamp 70
6th lamp 80
7th lamp 90
And all additional Lamps at ..... $7 per lamp each.
ALEX. P. WRIGHT, Manager.
Bowker's and Stockbridge Fertilizers.
IRON AND STEEL.
Peach Baskets.
PLUMBING AND TINNING.
A. M. GRIFFEN,
13 EAST FRONT STREET.
TELEPHONE CALL, 8.

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST, - - CITY Editor.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE OF MAILS.

NEW YORK MAILS
Closes—8.00 and 11.00 A. M. and 2.30 and 5.30 P. M.
Arrive—7.30, 9.30, 11.45 A. M., 2.00 and 5.30 P. M.
SOMERVILLE, RARITAN, &c., MAILS.
Closes—9.00 A. M. and 4.30 P. M.
Arrive—9.30 A. M. and 4.30 P. M.
SUNDAY MAILS—Arrive at 9.30 A. M. Office open from 8.00 A. M. to 10.00 A. M. Mail closes at 7 P. M.
Mail for Warrenville closes Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 12 M.
Post Office opened 7 A. M. and closes at 7.30 P. M. Saturdays, closes at 8.30 P. M. Open every evening until 9 P. M. for delivery only. Money order office open from 8 A. M. to 5 P. M. Saturdays to 6 P. M.

W. L. PARCE, Postmaster.

—Already one month of the vacation has passed and the scholars of the public school are not yet tired of it.

—The monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held in Reform Hall, on Tuesday, Aug. 2nd, at three, p. m.

—William Traynor who was committed to the Somerville Jail recently for sixty days, was released Thursday, on account of illness.

The Y. M. C. A. camp in Upper New York State broke up on the 20th, and the campers returned home on the following day.

—The Singing Section of the Plainfield Grange and Tune Vereis will have an excursion to New Brunswick, Sunday, the 31st inst. They have invited their friends and their families.

—During the hot weather but one service is held in the Church of the Holy Cross on Sunday. Rev. T. Logan Murphy, the rector, has preached a most able sermon at that church Sunday forenoon.

—At a regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. of Westfield, held last week, the following members were elected superintendents. "That we work together as a band of Christian women, non-partisan, non-sectarian."

—The regular monthly meeting of the Plainfield Building Loan Association was held in Cutter's Hall, Monday. Dues to the amount of $1,200 were paid in and business of a routine nature transacted.

—A little intelligent flesh in a newspaper will oftentimes make a man an enemy to the paper for life. But it won't stop him from reading it. It merely changes him from a subscriber to a borrower.

—The members of the Fire Board who met the Commissioners of Appeal, on the 24th, adjourned to hear their decision on the assessment of fire taxes. This again proves how universally satisfactory has Assessor Hubbard's valuations and assessments.

—The Roselle Electric Light company, would not object to lighting Westfield by electricity, but as the Plainfield company is one of the best equipped companies of the kind in the State, it will probably refuse the contract when the Westfield people are ready.

—In the case of Robert Simpson ex-Mayor Cooley and Marshal Becker, the defendants with their Counsel Johnpff, Jackson appeared before Justice Wallace North for the trial Thursday last. Counsel for Counsel Marsh was not ready and the case was on his application adjourned one week.

—It is said of a number of young ladies who reside in the Second ward, not far from Cedar brook, that one evening recently they dressed up as gypsies, and went about telling the fortunes, or pretended fortunes. They did not, however, escape the of a Romo reporter, who is responsible for this item.

—Mr. Harry C. Munger led the Young Men's Meeting in the Y. M. C. A. Hall, Monday last. The hall was delightfully cool, and each young man grasped a palm leaf fan on entering. Mr. Munger had his hold to wipe the perspiration from his brow. Nevertheless the meeting was interesting and instructive throughout.

—The young gentlemen of East Fifth street, who makes life hideous by his accordeonic performances, stands a good chance of being shot if he does not stop now. A correspondent writes us the musician is playing "White Wings" on earth, at present, but that in the sweet subsequently he will be wearing black ones in Hades.

—The Paternos and their peanut cart again occupied their accustomed place at the corner of Front street and Park avenue, Saturday evening. Since they brutally beat old Mr. Stewart and his wife, a week ago, their patronage has greatly decreased, most people thinking it unfortunate law-abiding citizens rather than those who are disposed to be quarrelsome.

—Mr. Robert Jahn, formerly connected with the establishment of H. P. Reynolds, has opened a shop of his own as saloon and cigar store. He is prepared to do all kinds of sheet metal work, and refers for evidence of his ability to the numerous of the Crescent building. McIntyre's block on North avenue, and many other specimens of his artistic ability in that direction.

—The Van Deposie Electric railway at Elizabeth is making very favorable progress in obtaining the consent of property owners along the line of the proposed route. Signatures from unexpected quarters have been obtained, and the people generally favor the enterprise. It is also a fact that property owners along the road, but formerly out of the way, has already advanced fifty per cent. in value.

—A lad named Neill from Elizabeth was arrested on Wednesday afternoon in this afternoon for stealing ride on coal trains. Justice Nash fined him three dollars. The practice of jumping on and off trains by boys in this city, is one that is on the increase, and notwithstanding the repeated warnings the boys have, they still continue to indulge in the dangerous habit. Nearly every week the police are officers in their endeavor to put an end to such business.

—A young man from this city who is boarding out an advertisement at Asbury Park, became infatuated with one of the young ladies on the Baptist excursion Friday, and before they left, declared that he must marry her. He called at the gender over after they returned to Plainfield. Accordingly a photographer was intimidated into loading his camera, and, after going through the form of taking the young ladies from giggling, he eventually pulled the cap and got a picture. Total cost, $3.

—Nothing definite has been heard from the Italians, who took a prominent part in the brutal clubbing affray in Stager Alley on Monday, and some people are disposed to think that it will be just as well for all hands if he is never heard from. It is said that Paterno left Italy for a similar attack on a fellow being, which resulted fatally. His wife and two of his children were safely lodged in jail at Elizabeth yesterday, and the fall crop of peanuts will probably be ripe when they are released.

—At the Netherwood this evening, Mr. Alfred Young will give a parlor entertainment of dramatic recitals, with interludes of comedy sketches. He is a young actor who is commended to the public as a "graceful and unaffected elocutionist, whose work on the reading platform will be a pleasure and profit in favor of its own, and whose repertory, made up from the brightest and best in current and standard literature, will be appreciated by those who enjoy a refined, unbackneyed entertainment."

Personalia.

Mrs. J. J. Heidloff has gone to Asbury Park for some weeks.

Miss Annie Ward of New Brunswick, is visiting friends in this city.

Mrs. John D. Runyon and sister, Miss Annie Boice, are at Asbury Park.

Mr. E. B. Clark is stopping at the Mansion House, White Lake, N. Y.

Miss Cesse of Cliffwood, is visiting her cousin, Miss Adelle Gardner of Central avenue.

Miss Florence Randolph has returned from a three weeks' visit with relatives at Stratford, Conn.

Mrs. F. C. Green, and daughter, Carrie, have returned from their Summer outing at the seashore.

Sheriff George M. Stiles and family left town Monday for a little recreation at Bridgeport, Conn.

Mr. S. H. Whitney, with his wife and the daughter, left last Friday for the Pocono Mountains.

Mr. Charles J. Noel, of West Third street, is the father of a bouncing baby boy, since Sunday week.

Mrs. Seymour G. Smith and son of Central avenue, are summering in the Northern part of New York State.

Hon. J. W. Yates, wife and Miss Cathie Yates are at the Rip Van Winkle House, Pine Hill, Ulster County, N. Y.

Mr. Fred Sheffey, wife and family, of Kensington avenue, left on the 20th for a six weeks absence in the coolfish State.

The Misses Christina and Edith Yawger, of Brooklyn, are visiting friends in this Plainfield, where they formerly resided.

Gov. and Mrs. Green are to be the guests of Col. and Mrs. E. H. Wright, of Newark, at their Summer residence New London, Conn.

Among those registered at the Spray View Hotel at Ocean Grove are Edwin Schenck and family and D. F. Knight and family of this city.

The Point Pleasant correspondent to the New York World, locates Mr. John Mortimer and family, of this city, at the Land's End Hotel.

Mr. Eugene V. Lorton and family are camping at Ocean Grove for the Summer. They have taken a tent with Councilman Walter Herfield this season.

Mr. Willard Pierce, formerly connected with the establishment of H. P. Reynolds, has just been given the position of head clerk of one of the principal pharmacies of Newark.

Mr. T. B. Green, Secretary of the Home Insurance company of New York, who always spends his Summers in Plainfield, is now with his wife stopping at the residence of Mr. E. MacDonald.

Mr. Charles Pfeilson, the gentlemanly clerk in Mr. M. Betz's stationery store on Park avenue, will, on the 8th inst., lead to Springfield, Mass., where he will enter for a Y. M. C. A. training course.

Among the seashore sojourners at Asbury Park are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bell, St. J. McCutchen, of North Plainfield, and Miss Marsh, a elder of the latter, who have registered at The Berkeley.

Mr. Fred W. Yates, of Seventh street, promisesously but as gracefully as ever, fell all over the floor at Dance and Fitts' last Saturday.

The Misses Woodland of Somerset street, have taken rooms at Ocean Beach for the rest of the Summer. They left for there Saturday, accompanied by their brothers, Messrs. Charles and Hasten Woodland.

Mr. Chas Smith, who recently purchased of Dr. A. Berry, the property on Cedar Place, near Dudley street, is setting an example for others to follow, by flagging the sidewalks and curbing the gutters in front of said property.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Dorman, their son Ferdie and daughter, Miss Lilian, of Central avenue, left on Monday for a fortnight's sojourn at Lake George, after which they will go to Bar Harbor, Me., for the remainder of the season.

A subscriber sends us the following: "Mr. Frank Bowers, of Bowers' Hotel, Stager alley, left the city on the 20th morning for a season at Hotel de Bress, Elizabeth. Mr. Palermo started for the mountains during the 20th of last month."

Chauncey M. Field, M. D., of this city, sailed Saturday by the Inman steamer for Europe where he will remain for the rest of the Summer. Dr. Field will probably take up his residence at Paris, or in its vicinity, and by thorough rest regain his general good health.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Davis of Ninth street will shortly go into camp at Lake Hopatcong with a number of other members of the St. Kattchi and their wives. This club is composed of art circles in the country, for the remarkable individual talents of all its members.

Mr. and Mrs. Emsley Stewart, the aged people who were brutally beaten by the Italians in Stager alley, recently, are now rapidly recovering from the effects of their injuries. The wounds on Mrs. Stewart's head and body the parents are pronounced out of danger by the attending physician.

Louis F., the six months-old infant son of Louis and Annie D. Nolan of Netherwood Heights, died of cholera infantum, Friday. Rev. E. M. Rodman conducted the funeral services from the house at 3.30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Interment was had in the Presbyterian cemetery in North Plainfield.

Col. Dietrich has lost from his private ponds a handsome Turkish carp, of about seven pounds, that he prizes as a personal possession many years. It was so tame with its owner, it ate the crumbs from his hand, and recognized him at sight. Its disappearance has caused the old hawk (without wings) has boasted the fish.

Mr. David Roach, formerly of this city, has been lying seriously ill for the past six weeks, in East 125th street, New York. Mr. Roach, for many years past, has been a trusted family retainer of the late William H. Vanderbilt and his surviving family, and his illness will be a cause of great anxiety with the family for their usual Summer trip.

Mr. Justice Bradley recently handed down his opinion in the case of the Collinsville Manufacturing company against Brown, Co., of this city, against the Collonite Manufacturing company, in favor of the former. His conclusion is based on the ground that the latter is not entitled to an injunction against the defendant's use of the name "Collonite Manufacturing Company," because of their previous and extensive business purchasers and lead them to suppose they were purchasing the goods of the "Collinsite" company.

While Mr. W. L. Dewitt was absent on his recent trip to Manchester, Vermont, Roxbury, and other Eastern resorts, he saw in Boston at the office of the inventor, a model of a street railroad that is to be erected in Washington, D. C., in a few months. The propelling power is created in pneumatic tubes, but the passenger cars are moved confined in these tubes themselves. An attachment to the car is made to fit air-tight in the tubes, and is forced at any degree of rapidity through them like a ball in a putty-blower.

"Uncle John" Dunning, who has been visiting friends here, recently received a letter from his son Will—a graduate of our High School, and one of its greatest lights—informing him that he had left Omaha. Young Mr. Dunning writes that the weather is perfect, and rejoices over the fact that he has caught a real boss, weighing over 200 pounds. The latter of the catches used out about six dollars. Other expenses included brought the price of the fish up to four dollars, and proved how valuable a Sab Mr. Will Dunning did catch.

Mrs. Robert Manning is at Ocean Beach.

Mrs. Ahorn of Seventh street, is at the Clifton House, Asbury Park.

Miss Florence Tilsworth is visiting friends at Hackettstown, N. Y.

Hon. Job Male has so far recovered from his recent illness as to be able to go out.

Dr. David Godfrey Atwood leaves this week for a month among the Thousand Islands.

Miss Kitty Case of Ninth street has returned from Brooklyn, where she has been visiting friends.

Miss Nettie French of East Fifth street, is at the Victoria, Asbury Park, with her friend Miss Newell.

Mr. James L. Anthony of Netherwood is home again after a brief but most enjoyable trip to Europe.

Mrs. George Polhemus and family, of North Plainfield, are spending the Summer in Washington Valley.

A party of Plainfield people, at present at the Oakhill House, Catskill mountains, New York.

Miss Carrie Dewey of West Fifth street, is spending a few weeks recreation at Pine Bush, in New York State.

Miss Bennett of Framingham, Mass., formerly a teacher here, is visiting Miss Lillian Newman of Fifth street.

Miss Pearle J. Herrig, who has been spending some weeks at the Park House, left Friday for a visit to Red Bank.

Miss Kitty Manning of Front street, and Miss May Sanford of Seventh street, are at the Ocean House, Asbury Park.

Miss K. F. Newell, Mrs. T. Newell and Mrs. E. Van Dorn, all of this city, are registered at The Victoria, Asbury Park.

Mr. and Mrs. James Scott of West Seventh street and Plainfield avenue, were presented with a young son, Friday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Bushnell of East Second street, have gone to Asbury Park for a month, stopping at the Grand Central Hotel.

Councilman T. J. Carey and family of Central avenue, left Monday for a month's visit at Bedminister, Somerset county, New Jersey.

Mrs. R. C. Fisher and the Misses Fisher of West Fifth street, are reported among the recent arrivals at the Norman House, Ocean Grove.

An infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Martin, of Fifth street, died Sunday of cholera infantum. The little one was but six weeks old.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Marshall, of Park avenue, returned from Saratoga on Saturday, where they have been spending a week or two for the benefit of their health.

In a few weeks, Mr. Frank J. Hubbard of Fifth street, expects to go West for about a year—not particularly to grow up with the country, but to seek health and recreation.

Rev. Father T. J. O'Hanlon, pastor of St. Joseph's church, was taken suddenly ill just before the second mass Sunday morning, and consequently no service was held. To-day he is reported as improving.

Mr. Herman Force, formerly Superintendent of the Oil Cloth works, left Monday for Westchester county, New York, ostensibly to attend camp meeting, but probably to catch on the fish of the fresh water streams thereabouts.

Frank Decker, the nine-months-old infant son of Samuel D. Vy and Evelina Burr, of West Second street, died Sunday. The child's death resulted from an attack of cholera infantum, which it was taken ill some days before.

The young ladies from this city who attend school at Wellesley College, Mass., will regret to learn that Miss Freeman, the estimable President of that institution, has resigned her position to take unto herself a life partner in the person of Prof. Palmer, an instructor in Harvard College.

Addison L. Laing, with his wife and son, are the guests, for a few days, of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Houan of West Fifth street. Mr. Laing was formerly a resident here, being an employee in the Central Times office. At present he is residing in Brooklyn, and is employed on the Eagle.

Among those at Asbury Park this Summer, are noticed a number from our Evona suburb. They include Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Fish, Misses Ellen and Emma Fish, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Lewis, Mrs. Oscar Stevens and Miss Kitty Manning. Mrs. A. W. Fish has just returned after a two weeks sojourn.

Mr. E. Wood Perry, of New Orleans, La., is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Capt. A. D. Holmes, of East Fifth street. Mr. Perry is the father of the celebrated actor, E. Wood Perry, Jr., one of whose works loomed for the curious, excited so much admiration at the opening of the Jolo Male Art Gallery.

Mr. George Thatcher, of the well-known Thatcher, Primrose and West Minstrel Combination, left Westfield, his home, on Saturday, to open up at Milwaukee on the 30th inst. The company will visit this city during September, when the members will undoubtedly be greeted with a crowded house.

The funeral of the late John Rommer, the gardener at Netherwood, who was drowned in a clay pit on Wednesday, took place from St. Mary's church at ten a. m., Monday. Rev. Father Smyth officiated at the services, and spoke in the wife of the deceased, and some of the relatives. Rev. Father Clemes of New Jersey was present, and delivered a short but impressive, and at the close the body was interred in St. Mary's cemetery.

The remains of the late Mary A. Crane, the aged mother of L. F. Randolph, Esq., arrived from Boston on Saturday afternoon, and deposited in the First Baptist Cemetery. The Rev. Dr. Yerkes conducted a brief burial service at the grave, in the midst of a severe rain storm that prevented most of those present from leaving the carriages. The deceased was also the aunt of Mr. T. E. Randolph of New York, a large holder of Plainfield real estate.

Mr. John C. Van Dyke of this city was much but most agreeably surprised to receive a check for $100, recently, from his employers, a wealthy firm of cigar manufacturers. The cause was that the firm had offered a prize to each of the three salesmen selling the largest number of cigars within a certain period, and Mr. Van Dyke was one who had won. He is so genial and popular that his cigars always sell themselves, and he is consequently surprised at his own success.

The Sunday News of Altoona, Pa., says: "About one of the most gentlemanly and genial traveling men we ever met, is Mr. Charles Wann, general agent for the Union Fire Alarm Company, of New York. Mr. Wann has been in our city for several days, and during his sojourn has added quite a number of our best citizens to his list of friends and acquaintances. The Union company is to be congratulated on having such a thoroughly gentleman to represent their interests throughout the country."

John Hammond, the gardener for Mr. A. D. Sheppard, at Scotch Plains, who was struck by lightning while sitting in a tree from a thunder shower under a tree near Colts' hill on Saturday, the 16th inst., has recovered sufficiently to return to work. James Moore, the coachman for Mr. Sheppard, says that many persons believing he was the man who was struck by lightning, have called at his house to make inquiries regarding his condition. Mr. Moore says the lightning did not injure him in any way, and he requests that persons call on him so that his friends will know that he is in perfect health.

TUESDAY NIGHT'S STORM.

Dams Break Away—Bridges Swept Down the Streams Like Chaff in the Wind—Narrow Escape of a Woman and Two Children—The Loss Cannot be Estimated, But Will Aggregate Thousands of Dollars.

The severe rain storm which set in soon after midnight Wednesday, was undoubtedly the heaviest of the season, and the amount of damage done to some respects will exceed that done by the storm of two years ago, the coming September. While it lasted, for over an hour, the shower was heavier than any experienced in this city for many years past, and some of the older inhabitants declare that it was the severest they have ever witnessed. All during yesterday afternoon heavy black clouds passed over the city, with an occasional rainfall, but soon after the heavens brightened up, only to be followed by another shower, and an additional fall of rain. During the day the heat was very oppressive, and notwithstanding the immense amount of rain that fell, the atmosphere was but little changed, and some people were obliged to fan themselves to sleep, so hot was their bedchamber. About one o'clock the storm broke forth with renewed vigor, and for over an hour the rain came down in torrents, completely submerging many of the streets. Lightning flashed incessantly, and there were several heavy claps of thunder, but in this immediate locality no serious damage by the lightning has as yet been reported. The dam at Seeley's Mill, near Fellville, gave way, wrecking a portion of the building and damaging the stock and machinery to the amount of several thousand dollars. The immense volume of water from the mill pond flowed into Green Brook, sweeping the stream on to make it resemble a huge river. All along the line between Scotch Plains and this city the banks of the numerous small streams and bridges gave way to the watery element, and at many places the debris was piled high on the roads. Fully one hundred yards from the course of the stream. The beautiful lawns of John Taylor Johnston and other residents on Front street have been completely washed away, and many choice plants and flowers, rustic seats and Summer houses were demolished and swept away. A fine bridge back of Mr. Charles Hyde's residence was carried away. Trees were uprooted and fences sent whirling down the stream. The approach of the water was heralded in this city some little time before it arrived, and soon afterward the water in Ter's lake raised several feet. The great volume of water twice flooded the bank a few feet from the dam on the North Plainfield side, and this somewhat relieved the great strain on the dam. The race-bank also broke through in several places, through which minature rivers flowed, emptying into Green Brook. The Somerset street bridge was slightly damaged, and at John W. Laing's livery stable the horses were all removed to a place of safety when the water became so high that it was expected it would float them in the stable. Mr. P. M. French succeeded in removing all of his fine stock, with the exception of one horse, which it was found impossible to reach as the water was then up to the animal's shoulders as it stood in the stall. A large shed, evidently built many years growth, washed down the stream and lodged against the abutments under the Somerset street bridge. Cedar Brook is greatly swollen, but so far as is known all of the bridges remained intact, and outside of the loss to crops, fences, etc., the damage will be light.

IN WASHINGTON VALLEY

the damage by the storm was far greater than in this city. People who reside in the Notch say that the rainfall did not appear to be so great, but the thunder and lightning was terrific. Like the residents of this city, all were thoroughly awakened by the storm, and several narrow escapes from drowning are reported from that locality. At one o'clock this morning the water in Stony brook, which runs through Washington Valley and winding through the Notch passes on through North Plainfield and Dunellen, was raised but little more than usual. Half an hour afterward the water raised fully twenty feet, flooding Somerset street to a depth of three feet. The cause of this sudden rising was the giving away of the dam at Stiles' saw mill in the Valley, where great damage was done. The dam near Andrew Wilson's place next gave way, increasing the immense volume of water to an alarming extent, and when the flood reached Spencer's cider mill, where several smaller streams flow into Stony Brook at that point, the water was made by the rushing waters to have been deafening. Mr Spencer's house which stands on a knoll was flooded to a depth of several feet, and all the inmates were driven from the place, this being the fourth time they have had similar experiences. The large wooden bridge at that point was carried away, as was also the one leading to French's mill in the Notch. The Washingsville school house was flooded, so that this morning about a foot of mud was in the school rooms. On the water rushed madly, carrying with it debris of all descriptions. At Bleeker's Hotel the sudden rush of the water was noticed about 1:30 o'clock. Mr. Denler experienced some difficulty in rescuing his live stock, and he was obliged to anchor his well curb with ropes to keep it from floating away, and in order to tell where the well was located. A short distance below Bleeker's hotel, at Wetumpka Falls, is situated the Wilson steam-crusher. Here the dam at the Falls remained in position, but about fifty feet of the roadway was washed out and the bank badly undermined, so that some portions of the roadway are hardly passable. All of the top dressing of shale which were put on Somerset street when that thoroughfare was macadamized several years ago, was washed off, so that the road is now in a very rough state for a long distance, and several thousand dollars will be required to put it in a good condition again. To-day the amount of damage done along the line of the stream was at Messrs. J. W. & H. Coddington's place, a few hundred yards below the Falls. A large wooden bridge, several flooring mills, ice houses and stables of the Coddington Brothers, and but a few yards North of the ice houses is another dam. The water did not give out at this way, but the water broke out at either end of the dam, tearing away rods upon rods of earth, and washing deep gullies in the banks. On the opposite side of the street is the beautiful villa of Mr. Frederick Chase, and in front of his residence the sidewalk and gutters are damaged to the extent of $100. The West corner of Coddington's ice house was undermined, but otherwise the building was uninjured. Water flowed through the mill to the depth of three or four feet, damaging a lot of flour, feed, etc., on the ground floor. Near the mill several horses were standing, but it was considered useless to attempt to rescue them, although the animals made desperate efforts to get out. The water reached up to the top of the horse's backs, but they were found alive, and appeared to be thankful for their release. Besides the great damage done to the Coddington Brothers' property, a bridge leading to their ice house was washed away. Mr. Coddington, however, told a Press reporter that he hoped to be able to go on with the delivery of ice by to-morrow. About fifty chickens belonging to the firm were washed into eternity or lodged further down the stream; and a fine ice wagon was carried a long distance and deposited in pieces along the roadway. A half-dozen other wagons and carts belonging to the firm were also washed away, as heard from. Near the Falls a dump-cart was overturned and left at the edge of the water, many feet below the roadbed. Mr. Coddington says his loss will probably reach $3,000, and is total.

The next object in the path of the rushing water was a large wooden bridge in front of the Wadley property on Somerset street. This was carried bodily away —nothing remaining but the foundation walls.

A THRILLING EXPERIENCE—MOTHER AND DAUGHTERS RESCUED BY BEANS OF A MOTE.

A few hundred feet below stood a two-story French roof house, which was occupied by Lewis Coddington, his wife and two daughters, Jennie Isabella aged seven years and Gracie, aged one year and eight months, the latter lying dangerously ill at the time with cholera infantum. To a reporter who called at the house this morning, Mrs. Coddington said that although they were up at the time, the first intimation they had that the water was so high was when they heard the logs striking against the beams in the cellar, some of which broke through the window on one side of the building and floated out another window. When looking out of the window, as far as the eye could see appeared to be one broad expanse of water. She says her husband was about to descend into the cellar to see how deep the water was while the water was flowing over the platform, but she finally prevailed upon him to return. Mr. Coddington is thankful that he heeded the timely warning of his wife, for he was unable to swim a stroke, and when the water lowered it was discovered that the cellar was entirely gone, and that it was a hole ten feet in diameter and several feet deep. The entire front porch and steps were carried down stream, nearly a mile, and deposited against a tree near Green brook road and Grove street. The work of rescuing Mrs. Coddington and her children from the house was exciting, although the elder of the two children told the reporter this morning that she "wasn't a bit scared." Messrs. W. Coddington and Charles H. Sayre, neighbors of the other neighbors went to the rescue, and after a chalk line had been thrown to the women this was drawn to a strong rope and stretched from the opposite side of the street, to the house. Mrs. Coddington and her daughter were then carried safely across, one by one, to the place of safety, and Mr. Coddington, who was the last to leave the house, then waded through the swift current and joined his family. A horse stabled in the rear of the house was left to the mercy of the waters, but the animal managed to keep his head above water and was apparently none the worse for the wetting.

At the intersection of Grove street and Green Brook road the water carried away pretty much all of the trees, in the place is greatly inconvenienced. A quarter of a mile further on, a new barn about 40x30 feet in dimensions belonging to Martin I. Cooley, of Rockview avenue, and standing in the rear of his residence was washed down the stream and to-day demolished. Near it stood a frame barn belonging to Mr. George P. Dupee. This was obliterated, and no trace of the building could be found this morning. A third barn, the property of Mr. Palser, was rescued. In the Cooley barn there were two carriages (one new) and a sleigh belonging to that gentleman, a new sleigh belonging to Mr. Day, and a phaeton belonging to Mr. Taylor. These were all washed down the stream an eighth of a mile, and totally wrecked with the barn. The roof of the building was carried about fifty feet further and deposited high in the bank. A wagon belonging to Mr. Palser of Rockview avenue, was also carried a long distance and badly damaged. The total loss on the carriages will reach about $1,200, and the two barns were worth in the neighborhood of $600 each. The bridge crossing the creek at Rockview avenue, was lifted bodily from the foundation, and a portion of it was left in a field nearly an eighth of a mile below. The foot bridges of Messrs. Palser, Cooley and Taylor, leading to their barns, are among the missing, and Mr. Palser's barn was considerably damaged, but remained in position. Mr. D. M. Brookfield's, of Mercer avenue, lost about fifty panels of fence, which is the only loss he sustained. That gentleman made an attempt to ford the stream on horseback this morning, but was unsuccessful, so as to reach his pasture field; when in midstream the horse came in contact with a stump, and the animal had to swim to the opposite side, which was subsequently reached with much difficulty. Below the Rockview avenue bridge nearly all of the fences on the stream were completely damaged, and the water passed out into the Raritan river.

The total loss, here about, cannot yet be estimated, but in all probability will aggregate thousands of dollars. Most of the damage done to bridges, will fall on Somerset county, as the fine bridges in this city are thought to be fast little injured.

Director Hubbard and Freeholder Van Doren of the County Board of Freeholders made a thorough examination of all the county bridges Wednesday. They found that the Grove street bridge was damaged to the extent of about fifty dollars. The wing-wall on the Somerset county side had been washed loose by the flood of waters, and will have to be rebuilt. All of the bridges on Green Brook from Plainfield to the city line at Dunellen were ill order, and none of the bridges on Cedar brook were damaged.

Two young lady residents whose veracity has been unquestioned heretofore—but who will be a little late of four and suffering that was experienced by an aged Dutch woman and her husband, between one and two o'clock Wednesday morning. He name is Peter Schniderlein and her's is Gretchen, and they live just over the second mountain. As the story is told—by the midst of the several of the storm, the aged couple were awakened by the fearful noise that burst above their little home almost swamped it, and flooded road and barn yard to the depth of many inches. The good man was so frightened by the storm that he fell in a faint, while his wife hurriedly dressed and swam to the stable to release the stock. But in sight of the cow by the falling in of the roof and that was then entirely underwater by the water. The cow was rescued, however, and a moment later there was a flash, a loud report of rattling musketry, and the lightning seemed to cut a deep gash in the water close to the stable door. There was a hissing sound as the water boiled up for an instant, and a cloud of steam is said to have arisen from the spot. There was no concussion from the brain Mrs. Schniderlein, and then a dull sickening thud. In relating her experience to the young ladies she called in sympathy and charity this morning, she said, that the fire seemed to descend directly into her eyes. She thought she was struck blind, and then distinctly felt the flame penetrate her entire body like lightning. One shoe was torn from her foot, and as it sunk to the bottom of the stable she described above the water throughout the Township. All that was left of the shoe was brought to Plainfield in a wagon this morning, and by our reporter at the office of The Press. The young ladies who tell the story, however, escaped. They should be exhibited too.

Supp'ing the M. E. Pulpit.

Rev. Dr. Van Meter, pastor of the M. E. church, has gone to Mountain Lake Park, Maryland, to conduct a Sunday school Assembly. He will be absent from his pulpit two Sundays. On next Sunday the pulpit will be supplied by Rev. William Forster, pastor, now stationed at Elizabeth; and on the following Sunday by Rev. L. Janes, of Illinois, son of the late Bishop Janes. The evening service will be conducted by Mr. Stephenson. The Sunday school meets at 2.30 p. m.

We Envy Them.

At last Elizabeth is to have an electric street railway, and it naturally rejoices greatly thereover. The city's papers say:

"Street cars to be run over an entirely new line, by electric motors, are promised to the citizens of Elizabeth by their Plainfield Railway Company. The public are certainly to be congratulated, and particularly that portion of the city which has heretofore been without street railway accommodations, and through which the new cars are to run rapidly, safely and regularly, according to promises.

"The company has adopted the Van Depoele Electric Railway system for the construction of the road. This system has many points of superiority over other electric railway systems, and of the four lines cities now having electric motors for propelling signed cars eight are using the Van Depoele system."

Exempt Firemen's Meeting.

The members of the Exempt Firemen's Association of this city met in the parlors of "Gamble" engine house, last Monday, for the transaction of business. President Titsworth was in the chair, and in the absence of the Secretary, Mr. G. Thorn was chosen Secretary pro tem. Mr. H. J. Martin submitted a report on behalf of the Committee on By-Laws. It was received and adopted. The following of fixers will retain their positions until the next election, which occurs in April— President—A. Titsworth; Vice-President—T. J. Gillies; Secretary—J. B. Martin; Treasurer—D. Rogers. The Board of Trustees consists of a member from each Company, as follows: S. C. Ryder, "Gamble"; H. J. Martin, "No. 2"; Charles Seibel, "Warren"; S. J. Robinson, "Zephyr"; Hall & Hallman, "Alert" Hose. The meeting adjourned to meet again in the Truck house on Monday evening next.

The Death Record.

Peter Herlick, the infant son of Peter and Hattie Herlick, of Dunellen, died Monday of cholera infantum.

Annie C., the infant daughter of Frank Sprague and Helen C. Martin died at the residence of her parents in Hillside avenue, Wednesday of last week.

Avis Amelia McKown, aged four months and eighteen days, the only child of Alfred and Josephine McKown, died at her parents residence at Bound Brook, at 2.30 p. m., last Monday, from cholera infantum. On Monday the child was considered dangerously ill, and thinking perhaps the sea breeze would do it good, the father kept the little one on the latter all day. But the change of air seemed to benefit it but little, and the child continued to grow worse until death relieved it of its suffering.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. S. C. Peck has been indisposed for a few days. His business goes on just the same, however, thanks to competent and willing clerks.

Among others who are sojourning at the seashore are Mr. and Mrs. W. Van Alstyne and son of this city, who are guests at The Berkeley, Asbury Park.

Miss Maud Ayres, of Crescent avenue, has been visiting Mrs. Charles Hyde of West Front street, since the return of the former from an extended European trip.

Mr. J. Marc Martin and family of Park avenue, will on Saturday, leave town to spend the remainder, of the season in Upper New York State, near Kingston.

Miss Maria Tredgey, who has been spending a vacation of several weeks at Long Branch, returned to her home in this city, Tuesday, greatly pleased with her visit.

Mrs. W. H. Shaw and daughter of Louisville, Ky., Miss Sue Baker, of Pelasware, Ohio, and Miss Mattie Angle of Clinton, N. J., are the guests of the family of Mr. E. J. Shaw, on East Second street.

Mr. T. B. Brooks and family of Seventh street will go to Monmouth Beach about the first of August, for a few weeks. They will there be joined by Lieut. and Mrs. Almy, who, since their recent visit to Mrs. Brooks, have found even Asbury Park and Atlantic Highlands without charm.

One of the most charming surnouns that attract admiration upon our streets, is a well appointed and thoroughly English dog-cart, driven by Miss Carrie Plum of New York, one of the young-lady guests at The Netherwood. The horse is a handsome bay, set off by a neat and unlimited imported harness. The establishment throughout is the correct thing.

Mrs. Barnes, nephew and twelve children need, be was obliged to anchor his well curb with ropes to keep it from floating away, and in order to tell where the well was located. A short distance below Bleeker's hotel, at Wetumpka Falls, is situated the Wilson steam-crusher. Here the dam at the Falls remained in position, but about fifty feet of the roadway was washed out and the bank badly undermined, so that some portions of the roadway are hardly passable. All of the top dressing of shale which were put on Somerset street when that thoroughfare was macadamized several years ago, was washed off, so that the road is now in a very rough state for a long distance, and several thousand dollars will be required to put it in a good condition again. To-day the amount of damage done along the line of the stream was at Messrs. J. W. & H. Coddington's place, a few hundred yards below the Falls. A large wooden bridge, several flooring mills, ice houses and stables of the Coddington Brothers, and but a few yards North of the ice houses is another dam. The water did not give out at this way, but the water broke out at either end of the dam, tearing away rods upon rods of earth, and washing deep gullies in the banks. On the opposite side of the street is the beautiful villa of Mr. Frederick Chase, and in front of his residence the sidewalk and gutters are damaged to the extent of $100. The West corner of Coddington's ice house was undermined, but otherwise the building was uninjured. Water flowed through the mill to the depth of three or four feet, damaging a lot of flour, feed, etc., on the ground floor. Near the mill several horses were standing, but it was considered useless to attempt to rescue them, although the animals made desperate efforts to get out. The water reached up to the top of the horse's backs, but they were found alive, and appeared to be thankful for their release. Besides the great damage done to the Coddington Brothers' property, a bridge leading to their ice house was washed away. Mr. Coddington, however, told a Press reporter that he hoped to be able to go on with the delivery of ice by to-morrow. About fifty chickens belonging to the firm were washed into eternity or lodged further down the stream; and a fine ice wagon was carried a long distance and deposited in pieces along the roadway. A half-dozen other wagons and carts belonging to the firm were also washed away, as heard from. Near the Falls a dump-cart

A LITTLE OF EVERYTHING COLUMN.

—Hackmetack, a lasting and fragrant perfume. Price 25 and 50 cents. Sold by Field & Randolph.

—Shiloh's Cure will immediately relieve Croup, Whooping Cough and Bronchitis. Sold by Field & Randolph.

—It is understood that Mr. Emmons, the builder, has purchased property on Sycamore avenue, North Plainfield, formerly belonging to Mr. Ribendum, and intends erecting a building thereon immediately.

—Mothers, nothing and fretful children need, be was obliged to anchor his well curb with ropes to keep it from floating away, and in order to tell where the well was located. A short distance below Bleeker's hotel, at Wetumpka Falls, is situated the Wilson steam-crusher. Here the dam at the Falls remained in position, but about fifty feet of the roadway was washed out and the bank badly undermined, so that some portions of the roadway are hardly passable. All of the top dressing of shale which were put on Somerset street when that thoroughfare was macadamized several years ago, was washed off, so that the road is now in a very rough state for a long distance, and several thousand dollars will be required to put it in a good condition again. To-day the amount of damage done along the line of the stream was at Messrs. J. W. & H. Coddington's place, a few hundred yards below the Falls. A large wooden bridge, several flooring mills, ice houses and stables of the Coddington Brothers, and but a few yards North of the ice houses is another dam. The water did not give out at this way, but the water broke out at either end of the dam, tearing away rods upon rods of earth, and washing deep gullies in the banks. On the opposite side of the street is the beautiful villa of Mr. Frederick Chase, and in front of his residence the sidewalk and gutters are damaged to the extent of $100. The West corner of Coddington's ice house was undermined, but otherwise the building was uninjured. Water flowed through the mill to the depth of three or four feet, damaging a lot of flour, feed, etc., on the ground floor. Near the mill several horses were standing, but it was considered useless to attempt to rescue them, although the animals made desperate efforts to get out. The water reached up to the top of the horse's backs, but they were found alive, and appeared to be thankful for their release.

VARIED VERSE.

Discretion.

I met a frenchified village boy,
Who lectured by the way;
Showed me his left, his prettiest side
And left nothing worth the while.

"Oh whistler bird, sacrificial bird,
Beneath this blazing sky!"
"I'm going home—but leave to wait Until my hair is dry!"

Her Wording.

I don't know which white other men
Undertake to tell their love.
Whether my act be initial—or without;
As playwrite, friend and lover—
Had worshipped all my life, and now
I stood a witness of her pledge and marriage vow.

Others had loved her, too, as I
Alone had loved her for her life
Could love and wed but once—and so you see—
The vows were mine by right.
We longed to press, with solemn voice,
Promises the same as one who on her screen-heart's choice."

I longed to bring, a happy man
And proud, the pendants in that room;
I vowed, and that with reason. Was I not the groom?

—Life.

An Orphan Horn.

I am a lone, unfathered child,
Of artificial birthing;
A pitiful, a piteous thing,
By happier mothered chicks reviled,
From all emotionalism aloof,
To do my own hard knocking.

Far Scotsmen smiled upon my birth
And ere my parent perished,
Had sent the sounds of Scottish mirth
To lands of more fertile worth;
I am alone in all the earth—
An orphan without hoarding.

Sank I my mother? I would fain
A heartless persecutor;
I, 'tis my boast, have iron stomach,
With stampings ancestors interminated
And pointed every hunting thicket—
A patent hunchback.

It wearies me to think, you see—
Death's head upon her bridge; unless
Should children ever be born to me,
Or heart's pain come desire.
My little coat, then, would be
A tombstone's epitaph.

And when to earth I did adieu,
To seem a greater;
I with not be laid upon the pit
Where no one joins the sorrowful crew,
For I will not be plastered in
The mortuary.

—Colonel J. Monday, in Brooklyn Eagle.

In Playtime.

In the morning, rosy and early,
When a man feels mighty saucy,
And his step is light,
Pretty fly!
And the world is in the swing
With its intended lot pelting;
When the birds are all singing,
Pretending to be happy,
Women him out with excitement snapping!
Dash his dog fly!
Dash the fly!

Even-Tempus.

It ain't no use for grumble,
Nor it ain't no use to fret;
Some day you'll get your rumble
By a stickle all quiet.
It's a the book of temper
That is often sure to win.
Or what can't allows kicks!
That is gittin' hairs in.

That bug that's alers squeakin'
Gits the meanest share of eats;
An' the man that's down growlin'
Never raises half a peck.
An' often when a feller
Gits a fair deal from fate,
The man that talked the hottest
Just looked mighty blank.

Vanished.

Come, sweet Vacation, restful season, sweet
When, for the many, we may leave the town
To list the music of the bobbin' bees, hum,
And breathe the fragrance of the country air!

With sorrows mind the hornet's nest explode,
And find for where bees hide their honey.

Coiled, faint shade and breath of cooling grass,
Refuge from garish glare of sunshine's rays,
Whereunto is corn until the day declines,
And slowly recumbent leaves the sun of day,
K. will the joyous dream our fancy-visions,
No metropolitan makes our pleasure.

Come, luscious lake, wherein our forms we
Freshing a balm, daintybird to each orisons,
Plunging and sporting in the limpid wave
To, to bear, and to drink, and to be merry!
The ringing laugh and then the piercing
Of mirthfulness!
Also! we do see but melt for lucheon.

Come, then, Vacation, precious season, come!
Visit each one to his or her appointed place;
Bring in the train of pleasantness the sum
Of all that thought can picture!
Come with the treasury with which them art rich,
Magazines, Bee, seance, skies shift and "pack."

—Boston Budget.

The Parable.

Once on a time he used to dream
And gaze at stars to watch the wind,
And drive with motley song and beam
To meadows for the sweet new hay.

Then for the pipe he'd fill the trough
And for the market he would be ready,
Sometimes he'd sow, sometimes he'd hoe
Instead.
Against a brass-post he'd rough.

And there he'd answer her with a laugh
To teach her better anybody;
He guessed he'd make the hay enough
Without, a-dreaming, was hard to guess.

In winter, when his work was through,
A little time he'd study deeply,
He'd wonder with his pin and shoupe,
And note of course he noticed.

Sometimes he'd hoist along the cheap
For stake that do oh low three-penny,
And then a new pole or a prop
Which he with joy would proudly stoop.

Even unexplained, withered by a knap,
He'd stretch and shiver his back to bend
By languishers and there a scrap
Of bole propped up with a prop.

Sometimes a snake that used its stoop
Would scare him so he'd run and plough
Into the ground with enough
He'd yell until he raised a rough.

But rough work makes the farmer sough,
And sometimes he'd get mad and swear
He guessed he'd take his pitch and trough
Where—I mean, would be content enough.

—Oil City Derrick.

INTERESTING VARIETY.

Mended butter retains its purity and flavor; and will command the highest price when well produced.

A dairyman's success may justly feel proud of their reputation for turning out perfect work, both as regards material and manufacture.

A picture of "John the Terrible" after striking the head of his children at Moscow was said to have been so realistic that its effect upon the lady visitors caused sudden death.

In all the extent of the broad fair land where is the man, O, where is he, who can deny that the greatest writer of the age is the largest restaurant writer-blogger in that land a week ago?

The recent decision of a New York judge, that tampering was a crime must have been rendered in the interest of some young cross lots, where the fences were all torn down and the eggs stolen.

At Arkansas will meet at Northampton, Mass., by a silk manufacturer, in 2,661 feet above the sea level, and 1,000 feet above Lake Champlain. The latter has been through sanitized, and has been a summer resort for years.

Cheese Pudding.—Grated cheese and bread crumbs; saturate this thoroughly with boiling milk; add a little butter and pepper; place in a saucepan over the fire and stir until it is quite thick; serve it warm in a greased pie dish.

Yankee Tomatoes.—One pint flour, one pint tomatoes, a beaten egg, one teaspoon and a teaspoonful butter with milk enough to make a stiff batter; add a teaspoon of soda, flour and pinch in the edges of pastry; fry in hot fat and serve with cream sauce.

"Sea cure" is another name for a preventive remedy in regard to the monotony of sea voyages. Commodore Vanderbilt's Ten Like It." Chase, shipowner, set to make an honorable retreat; though not well and bearable, yet will soon be quite unfagged." The way in which the phrase got into that form is not known, but the sense and the joke turns up that fact.

A worm-in a cask, foot caused by a fuel pan of sawdust, which has been allowed to be enlarged by cutting away the bore and the bung hole, and the cask is then filled from the top. Then insert the part with hot water, inserting the bung and driving it with a mallet. Finally, inject a little carbolic acid myrrh and bind the fact to a cord, to keep out the insects. Every few days for a few days will remedy the injury.

Home Vinegar.—Make a syrup in the proportion of a gallon of water to each one and one-quarter pounds of sugar and boil twenty minutes. Let it stand until the liquid is from seventy-five to eighty degrees of heat and then add to each gallon then rest it of fine, dry, unbleached rye flour. Stir thoroughly and put in a warm corner for and one month or two, when it will be fit for use. Keep in a cool place.

Bakery Rolls.—Grate two cold potatoes on a little hot water, add a little salt, the potatoes. Then add half a teacup of yeast, thickening it well, and let it rise. Then put a small piece of lard in a frying-pan and pour in a part of milk. When it is warm then add the yeast, make it into a spoonful; when light make it into rolls, and let them rise again. Bake in a hot oven well set, and eat hot. Small cakes may be made in the same way, and fried in deep lard instead of baking. Let them rise again before they are fried.

GOOD DAY FOR REPTILES.

A Big King Snake and Other Reminiscences of Rattlesnakes in Pennsylvania.

One day last week, says a Lock Haven (Pa.) correspondent of the New York Sun, Messrs. Clark and John Lappert, surveyors, were running out some lots along Kettle Creek. In the course of their surveying the day merged thirteen rattlesnake rattles. Because of them the boys call the chase a hundred yards or more, and he came near losing his life in the attempt. The snake didn't exactly stopped on. One of these tried to strike John in the foot, but he was too quick for the snake. He put his foot and sank its fangs in his new boot. Then he turned around and the snake pressed slowly, and made the two men save their rattles by passing them.

Wilson Lappert and Frank Jay, of Paine Heights, went up the Run the same day and happen to meet him at the forks. They came back to this place that night. They had one big rattlesnake and said they saw many from six others. They will start on other creeks soon.

Jerry Brady, who works for John S. Strickland on his farm near Middletown, was harvesting in a field on Friday, when a big black snake came out of a hollow stump and made at him. He ran to his employer's house and got a shotgun. Brady struck at the snake with his whip, when it left the field and started for the river. Brady took to his heels and the snake followed. He struck at the snake with the gun stock and turned on the approaching one and began shooting it. He missed it every time. Then the snake left him, and he came within a yard of Brady he mechanically struck at it with his whip. The snake wound around the stock of the gun and fastened its fangs in it. Brady then interested all the animation, and turned to get away. Brady held on to the whip, and succeeded in laying the snake's head and fastening it on the reptile's head and dispatched it. It was some time after the fight was over that the racer species. During the day Brady killed eight more of the same species. He says it was the best day's harrowing he ever had.

Elias Moser, of Lynn township, Lehigh county, is one of the most successful farmers of that county. He owns a big farm, and is a strictly temperate and prosperous man. A few days ago, he says, he was going along the edge of a piece of woods on his farm when he saw the snake and he supposed was simply a very large specimen of the ordinary black snake that abounds in the bottom lands of a fence. He up with a stone and tried to hit the snake. He missed, however, and the rail above it. The instant the stone struck the rail the snake sprang at him and belonged to begun to come out from its hiding place. Farmer Moser backed away from the snake, and when the snake appeared until the reptile stretched between the farmer and the fence, and Moser could not get to the snake. He soon enough, and turned his back on the serpent and started for home. After he had run several rods he looked around over his shoulder. The snake was after him and gaining on him, carrying its head high above the ground. Moser increased a high school way from the snake, and the pursuer just at that spot, and jumped down behind it on the other side. The snake glided on the rail and kept on after farmer Moser says he knew there was no fence between the farmer and the house, and so he grabbed a big stone off the rail and hurled it at the snake. It missed him

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XX. PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, JULY 29, 1887. NO. 29.

LAWS OF NEW JERSEY.

[BY AUTHORITY.]

CHAPTER CLIII.

A further supplement to the act entitled "An act respecting the court of chancery" (Revision), approved March 27, 1874, and the several supplements thereto.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the fourth section of said act be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

2. And be it enacted, That if the complainant in any of the causes mentioned in the first section of this supplement to this act shall have given to a defendant a notice in writing of a motion to be made by such complainant for a decree pro confesso, and such defendant shall not appear within the time limited by the rules of the court to be heard thereon, the complainant may proceed to the hearing of the cause, and the court may make a decree pro confesso against such defendant, and may order the bill to be taken as confessed against him, and may proceed to hear the cause ex parte as to such defendant, and may grant such relief as may be proper upon the bill and the evidence taken in the cause, and may direct a reference to a master to take proof of the allegations of the bill, and to report the same to the court, and may direct the master to report his opinion upon the matters referred to him, and may make such decree and order in the premises as may be proper, and may direct the payment of the costs of the complainant by the defendant, or by the solicitor of the defendant, if he shall have been guilty of any neglect or misconduct in the premises, and may enforce the same by attachment or otherwise; and the court may, at any time after the filing of the bill, upon the application of the complainant, and upon such terms as the court shall think just, order the defendant to pay into court the amount not exceeding the amount sworn to in the bond, or into the court of chancery, the amount not exceeding one hundred dollars, or such larger sum as the court may direct, and in default thereof may order the sequestration of the estate and effects of the defendants for costs, and whether the defendants shall appear or not, may proceed to the hearing and final decree in the cause, and may grant such relief in the premises as the court shall think just; and if the defendant shall appear and plead, answer or demur, and the said bill shall be dismissed with costs, the court may, upon the application of the defendant, order the said sum of money, or the said bond, to be delivered out to the defendant to be applied in payment of his costs, and the residue, if any, to be paid to the complainant, or his solicitor; and the said bond shall be void; and if the said bill shall be dismissed without costs, the said sum of money, or the said bond, shall be delivered out to the defendant, or to the person who shall have become bail for his appearance, without any order for that purpose.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 21, 1887.

CHAPTER CLIV.

Supplement to an act entitled "An act regulating the expenses for the preservation of elevation of the Palisades," approved April twenty-eighth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the township committee, board of freeholders or other governing body of any city, township, town or borough in this state having control of the district in the Palisades, or any city, borough, are hereby empowered to appoint a police force to protect the Palisades and to enforce the observance of the provisions of the act to which this is a supplement.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall be deemed a public act and take effect immediately.

Approved April 21, 1887.

CHAPTER CLV.

An act to authorize the boards of chosen freeholders of the several counties of this state to acquire by purchase or condemnation, in fee simple, such lands and premises as may be deemed necessary and convenient for the laying out of roads for the use of the county, and to open, improve and use the same.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for the board of chosen freeholders of any county of this state to acquire by purchase or condemnation, in fee simple, any lands or tracts of land not exceeding in all thirty acres of land for the laying out of any road or roads in the county farm, to be used for the poor or other public use, and to open, improve, construct and use the same for the use of the county.

2. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful for any such board of chosen freeholders to make contracts with the owner or owners of such lands with the owner of owners of the tract or tracts of land, of which such lands shall form part and land and premises necessary for the purposes aforesaid, and the said board of chosen freeholders shall be and is hereby authorized to purchase and take a deed or deeds in fee simple for such lands and premises, and to pay for the same such sum and sums of money as may be agreed upon between the said board of chosen freeholders and the owner or owners of such lands and premises.

3. And be it enacted, That if any such board of chosen freeholders shall not be able to agree with the owner or owners of any such tract or tracts of land, or if any other cause or disability to acquire by purchase or to quantity required or price to be paid for the same, or if any of the owners of said tract or tracts of land are minors, or are under any other legal disability, or if the owner or owners of said land cannot be ascertained, or cannot be found by the sheriff of the county, or if any other cause shall exist which shall render it impossible or impracticable for the said board of chosen freeholders to purchase the said lands and premises, then it shall be lawful for such board of chosen freeholders to cause a survey or surveys to be made of such tract or tracts of land, if the same can conveniently be done, and to cause a map or maps to be made of the same, and of the land required to be taken for the purposes aforesaid, and to cause a description or descriptions of such tract or tracts of land, if the same can conveniently be done, to be made by the surveyor or surveyors employed, and a copy or copies made of the said map or maps, and of the description or descriptions, which copy or copies shall be certified by the chief engineer of the board of chosen freeholders, or by such other person as the said board of chosen freeholders may appoint for the purpose, and the said board of chosen freeholders shall be unable to contract for the purchase of the said lands and premises, and to agree upon the price to be paid for the same, then it shall be lawful for such board of chosen freeholders to cause a bond to be prepared and issued in the name of the county, and it shall be the duty of the county collector, with the seal of said board of chosen freeholders affixed thereto, and signed by the director of said board, and verified either by affidavit or by the oath of some one of the members of said board, before some officer authorized to take acknowledgments of deeds, and who is not a member of said board, and when so prepared and executed, it shall be the duty of the said county collector, at the time and place when and where said commissioners shall be directed by said board to be and attend, to produce the said bond, and to deliver the same to the said commissioners, and to make return of his doings in the premises to the said board of chosen freeholders at their next meeting thereafter.

4. And be it enacted, That the said commissioners shall not be obliged to meet at any time sooner than fifteen days after the making and presentation of the said bond to them, and the said justice shall direct a notice to be given by the said commissioners, by publication in some newspaper or newspapers published in the county of lands, if known and in this state, or if unknown, in such newspaper as the said justice may direct, for such time as he may deem sufficient, not less than ten days, of the time and place of the meeting of said commissioners, and of the general purpose of their meeting, and the said commissioners shall meet at the time and place mentioned in said notice, and before entering upon the duties of their appointment shall take and subscribe an oath or affirmation before the said justice, or before some other officer authorized to administer oaths or affirmations, faithfully to examine the lands in question and to make a just and impartial appraisement thereof according to the best of their skill and understanding, and to the end that the said commissioners may be enabled to view the premises in the county they, or most of the time and place and direct the said justice to appoint the said tract or tracts of lands, how the chairholders of property and having from time to time, if necessary, and as often as they shall think proper, adjourned their meetings to such time and place as they shall appoint, and the said commissioners shall have full power and authority

CHAPTER CLXXVIII.

An Act concerning the courts of pleas and quarter sessions. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That hereafter the courts of pleas and quarter sessions shall be public records and open to the inspection of the public by any person or persons or other resort to the same.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved May 4, 1865.

CHAPTER CLXXIX.

An act to allow persons to locate in trap lots or ratable.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for the treasurer of the State of New Jersey, upon the warrant of the comptroller, to the several persons entitled thereto, the sums set opposite their names, viz:

Item No. 1. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, $1,887 50

Item No. 2. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses in the contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Charles Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 3. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 4. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to state's department, eighty-seven dollars and eighty cents, 87 80

Item No. 5. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 6. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 7. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses in the contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Charles Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 8. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 9. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to state's department, eighty-seven dollars and eighty cents, 87 80

Item No. 10. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 11. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 12. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses in the contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Charles Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 13. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 14. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to state's department, eighty-seven dollars and eighty cents, 87 80

Item No. 15. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 16. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 17. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses in the contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Charles Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 18. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 19. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to state's department, eighty-seven dollars and eighty cents, 87 80

Item No. 20. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 21. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for advertising for proposals for one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 2,887 50

Item No. 22. To Frederick Walter, for services rendered as clerk to committee on contested election case of Frederick Walter, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 23. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 24. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 25. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 26. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for advertising for proposals for one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 2,887 50

Item No. 27. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 28. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses in the contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Charles Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 29. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 30. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to state's department, eighty-seven dollars and eighty cents, 87 80

Item No. 31. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 32. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for advertising for proposals for one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 2,887 50

Item No. 33. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 34. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses in the contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Charles Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 35. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 36. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to state's department, eighty-seven dollars and eighty cents, 87 80

Item No. 37. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 38. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for advertising for proposals for one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 2,887 50

Item No. 39. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 40. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses in the contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Charles Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 41. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 42. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to state's department, eighty-seven dollars and eighty cents, 87 80

Item No. 43. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 44. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for advertising for proposals for one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 2,887 50

Item No. 45. To R. F. Hoffmire, for bill for services rendered as clerk to committee on election on bill revision, as per resolution passed at session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, seventy-five dollars, 75 00

Item No. 46. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 47. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses in the contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Charles Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 48. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 49. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to state's department, eighty-seven dollars and eighty cents, 87 80

Item No. 50. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 51. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for advertising for proposals for one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 2,887 50

Item No. 52. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 53. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses in the contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Charles Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 54. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 55. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to state's department, eighty-seven dollars and eighty cents, 87 80

Item No. 56. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 57. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for advertising for proposals for one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 2,887 50

Item No. 58. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 59. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses in the contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Charles Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 60. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 61. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to state's department, eighty-seven dollars and eighty cents, 87 80

Item No. 62. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 63. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for advertising for proposals for one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 2,887 50

Item No. 64. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 65. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses in the contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Charles Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 66. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 67. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to state's department, eighty-seven dollars and eighty cents, 87 80

Item No. 68. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 69. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for advertising for proposals for one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 2,887 50

Item No. 70. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 71. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses in the contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Charles Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 72. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 73. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to state's department, eighty-seven dollars and eighty cents, 87 80

Item No. 74. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 75. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for advertising for proposals for one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 2,887 50

Item No. 76. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 77. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses in the contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Charles Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 78. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 79. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to state's department, eighty-seven dollars and eighty cents, 87 80

Item No. 80. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 81. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for advertising for proposals for one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 2,887 50

Item No. 82. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 83. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses in the contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Charles Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 84. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 85. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to state's department, eighty-seven dollars and eighty cents, 87 80

Item No. 86. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 87. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for advertising for proposals for one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 2,887 50

Item No. 88. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 89. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses in the contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Charles Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 90. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 91. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to state's department, eighty-seven dollars and eighty cents, 87 80

Item No. 92. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 93. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for advertising for proposals for one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 2,887 50

Item No. 94. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 95. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses in the contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Charles Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 96. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 97. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to state's department, eighty-seven dollars and eighty cents, 87 80

Item No. 98. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 99. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for advertising for proposals for one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 2,887 50

Item No. 100. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 101. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses in the contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Charles Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 102. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 103. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to state's department, eighty-seven dollars and eighty cents, 87 80

Item No. 104. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 105. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for advertising for proposals for one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 2,887 50

Item No. 106. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 107. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses in the contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Charles Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 108. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 109. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to state's department, eighty-seven dollars and eighty cents, 87 80

Item No. 110. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 111. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for advertising for proposals for one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 2,887 50

Item No. 112. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 113. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses in the contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Charles Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 114. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 115. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to state's department, eighty-seven dollars and eighty cents, 87 80

Item No. 116. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 117. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for advertising for proposals for one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 2,887 50

Item No. 118. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 119. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses in the contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Charles Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 120. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 121. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to state's department, eighty-seven dollars and eighty cents, 87 80

Item No. 122. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 123. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for advertising for proposals for one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 2,887 50

Item No. 124. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 125. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses in the contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Charles Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 126. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 127. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to state's department, eighty-seven dollars and eighty cents, 87 80

Item No. 128. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 129. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for advertising for proposals for one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 2,887 50

Item No. 130. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 131. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses in the contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Charles Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 132. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 133. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to state's department, eighty-seven dollars and eighty cents, 87 80

Item No. 134. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 135. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for advertising for proposals for one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 2,887 50

Item No. 136. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 137. To John Reitz, services rendered committee on election, and furnishing ice for honored assembly and committee, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, fifty dollars, 50 00

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 138. To Thomas Hand, for services rendered committee on election, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, one hundred dollars, 100 00

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 139. To Richard C. Dilts, services rendered committee on election, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, seventy-five dollars and sixty-two and one-half cents, 75 62½

Item No. 140. To Harvey Atkinson, for services rendered committee on election, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, seventy-five dollars, 75 00

Item No. 141. To Joseph C. Bedle, for services rendered committee on election, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two hundred and fifty dollars, 250 00

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 142. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 143. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses in the contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Charles Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 144. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 145. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to state's department, eighty-seven dollars and eighty cents, 87 80

Item No. 146. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 147. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for advertising for proposals for one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 2,887 50

Item No. 148. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 149. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses in the contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Charles Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 150. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 151. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to state's department, eighty-seven dollars and eighty cents, 87 80

Item No. 152. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 153. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for advertising for proposals for one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 2,887 50

Item No. 154. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 155. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses in the contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Charles Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 156. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 157. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to state's department, eighty-seven dollars and eighty cents, 87 80

Item No. 158. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 159. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for advertising for proposals for one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 2,887 50

Item No. 160. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 161. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses in the contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Charles Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 162. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 163. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to state's department, eighty-seven dollars and eighty cents, 87 80

Item No. 164. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 165. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for advertising for proposals for one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 2,887 50

Item No. 166. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 167. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses in the contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Charles Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 168. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 169. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to state's department, eighty-seven dollars and eighty cents, 87 80

Item No. 170. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 171. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for advertising for proposals for one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 2,887 50

Item No. 172. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 173. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses in the contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Charles Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 174. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 175. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to state's department, eighty-seven dollars and eighty cents, 87 80

Item No. 176. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 177. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for advertising for proposals for one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 2,887 50

Item No. 178. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 179. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses in the contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Charles Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 180. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 181. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to state's department, eighty-seven dollars and eighty cents, 87 80

Item No. 182. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 183. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for advertising for proposals for one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 2,887 50

Item No. 184. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 185. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses in the contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Charles Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 186. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 187. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to state's department, eighty-seven dollars and eighty cents, 87 80

Item No. 188. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 189. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for advertising for proposals for one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 2,887 50

Item No. 190. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 191. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses in the contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Charles Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,887 50

Item No. 192. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered committee on election in Union county, transcribing testimony in contested election case of Haines and Taylor versus Ellis, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars, 1,887 00

Item No. 193. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to state's department, eighty-seven dollars and eighty cents, 87 80

Item No. 194. To John Hand, to services rendered committee on election in Hudson county, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty dollars, 1,887 50

Not approved, Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 195. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for advertising for proposals for one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 2,887 50

Item No. 196. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses in the case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Richard Stockton, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars and fifty cents, 1,

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.
W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY,
AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XX. PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, JULY 29, 1887. No. 80

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its limitations as in its authorities."—MADISON.

Rates of Advertising

Spaces	1 WEEK	2	3	1 MONTH	2	3	6	12
1 in.	$1.00	$1.50	$2.00	$3.50	$4.00	$5.00	$6.50	$10.00
2 in.	1.50	2.00	3.00	4.00	5.50	8.00	12.00	20.00
3 in.	2.50	3.50	4.00	5.00	8.00	12.00	18.00	25.00
4 in.	3.00	4.50	5.00	6.00	9.00	16.00	20.00	30.00
½ col.	3.50	4.50	6.00	8.00	12.50	18.00	25.00	37.00
¼ col.	4.50	6.00	8.00	10.00	15.00	20.00	30.00	40.00
½ col.	7.00	10.00	12.00	15.00	24.00	32.00	54.00	80.00
1 col.	12.00	16.00	20.00	25.00	35.00	50.00	85.00	140.00

All Electro's must be solid metal.
"Little of Everything" column, 5 cts. per line.
Double cols. 30 per ct. advance of above rates.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

O. L. JENKINS, M. D.,
Homeopathist.
successor to Dr. Smith,) 26 East Front Street, near Peace, Plainfield, N. J. Office Hours—7 to 9 a. m., 1 to 3 p. m., 7 to 9 p. m.—ap 15-1y.

JACKSON & GIDDINGTON,
Counsellors-at-Law,
Commissioners of Deeds, Masters-in-Chancery, Notaries Public, Offices corner of Park avenue and Second street, Plainfield. 2jan87

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer.
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 183, Dunellen, N. J., or address in care of CONSTITUTIONALIST. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES R. THEIS,
Dentist,
20 West Front street. A new local anesthetic application for extracting teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty.—jn3d

H. HAND,
Auctioneer,
P. O. Address, Lock Box 71, Scotch Plains, N. J. Orders left at T. J. Carey's second-hand store, 45 West Front street, Plainfield, N. J., will receive prompt attention.—ap23f

OSCAR S. TEALE,
Architect,
217 Broadway, New York city, Rooms 26 and 28. (Importers' and Traders' Bank Building.) Residence, Plainfield, N. J.—jn21

WM. K. MCCLURE,
Attorney-at-Law,
MASTER IN CHANCERY, NOTARY PUBLIC.
Commissioners of Deeds. Office, North avenue opposite depot. jn21f

J. H. FORSTER,
Veterinary Surgeon.
Office in Chas. Pine's livery office, corner Main street and Madison avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Day and night calls promptly attended. Telephone call No. 18. Consultation on diseases of all domesticated animals a specialty. 19 East Fifth street.—jn21f

DR. GEORGE SIDNEY,
Veterinary Surgeon.
Removed from Second Street to 119 West Front street, opposite Liberty.—jn21f

ARTHUR P. MILLER,
Attorney-at-Law,
(Successor to the late W. B. Magown), Solicitor in Chancery, Notary Public. Will buy and sell real estate, loan money, rent and take charge of property. Office over First National Bank.—jn21f

F. A. DUNHAM,
Civil Engineer and Surveyor.
No. 7 Park avenue, Coward's building. Particular attention given to the adjustment of disputed boundary lines. Parties sent to all parts of the country.—jn21f

DR. J. F. GRIFFEN,
Electric Baths.
Dr. Griffen treats all Nervous affections, Uterine Disorders, Acute and Chronic Rheumatism, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia and Chronic diseases generally by Electricity and Electric Baths. Consultation free. Lady Attendant for the ladies. 23 East Second street, corner Washington.—my14f

BUSINESS CARDS.

ROBERT JAHN,
TIN AND COPPER-SMITH,
Scotch Plains,
(Fanwood) N. J. Roofing, Stove and Heater work, Pumps, Tinware, and all kinds of sheet metal work. The best and the cheapest Snake and Ventilated Caps. Repairing promptly attended to.—jn21f

TO THE PUBLIC!
We wish to inform our customers and the public generally that we have on hand the best quality of
LEHIGH COAL,
Fresh from the Mines.
It is under cover and well protected from the weather. We are prepared to deliver it well screened and in good order promptly. We are also prepared to furnish all kinds of seasoned Lumber and Masons' Materials at short notice.
A. D. COOK & BRO.
jan1y

J. Hervey Doane,
9 PARK AVENUE.
[Formerly Clare's.]
Watches,
Clocks
And Jewelry.
Repairing neatly and promptly done. dly1

WM. H. SHOTWELL,
DEALER IN GROCERIES, PROVISIONS, VEGETABLES, DRIED FRUIT, ETC.
CORNER EMILY AND DUER STREETS
North Plainfield, New Jersey.
Celebrated Pilsbury Flour,
THE BEST IN THE MARKET.
ORDERS CALLED FOR AND DELIVERED.
Thankful for past patronage I solicit a continuance Respectfully,
WILLIAM H. SHOTWELL.
ap23y

BOSTON CLOTHING HOUSE
42 W. FRONT ST.
Reliable Goods at Low Prices.
Order Department
Under the well-known Cutter,
NEWTON P. DRAKE.
Correct Styles, Right Prices
my21f

Geo. A. Moore,
(Of the late firm of Moore Bros.)
Is now the sole proprietor of the old established market at
NO. 14 NORTH AVENUE,
Where he will continue to supply patrons with the finest grades of Fresh and Salt Meats, Fish of all kinds, Oysters, Clams, Game in season at the lowest market prices. Anything not usually kept in stock furnished at short notice. mar-tf

Edward Ramonetti,
OYSTER AND ICE CREAM SALOON.
OYSTERS BY THE QUART, 100 OR 1000.
CHARLOTTE RUSSE MADE TO ORDER.
All Orders Promptly Attended to.
24 NORTH AVENUE,
Plainfield, N. J. Telephone Call No. 29
jn24

HOTELS AND SALOONS.

Force's Hotel!
NORTH AVENUE
Near R. R. Depot, Plainfield, New Jersey.
JAMES H. FORCE, - - Proprietor.
A FIRST-CLASS FAMILY HOTEL.
Transient guests taken at reasonable rates.

Bottled Liquors a Specialty.

Laing's Hotel!
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
J. B. MILLER & BRO., - Proprietors.
A FIRST-CLASS FAMILY RESORT.

James Conneely
Wishes to inform the public generally that he has opened a Sport-class
WINE and LIQUOR ROOM,
AT NO. 32 PARK AVE.,
Where he will be pleased to furnish his friends and patrons with the choicest brands of Imported and Domestic Liquors. mh13f

TURF EXCHANGE HOTEL.
73 Courtlandt street,
CORNER WASHINGTON, NEW YORK CITY
FRED. W. BALLARD, - - Proprietor,
(formerly of Jersey City), is now conducting the business corner Washington and Cortlandt streets, New York, formerly kept by the late James Van Pelt, and by Mrs. Sullivan. All their old friends will be most courteously received.
PURE WINES, LIQUORS AND SEGARS. jy16tf

SOMERSET HOTEL,
Cor. Somerset & Emily Sts., North Plainfield, N. J.
Permanent and Transient Board, at fair rates.
First-class Stables and Sheds attached.
Meals at all (reasonable) hours. 3jan1f

C. E. JOHNSON,
Of late firm of Shepherd, Johnson & Gedney.
CARPENTER AND BUILDER.
Office adjoining City Hotel on Second street, near Park avenue, Plainfield, New Jersey. Residence, 18 East Second street. Jobbing especially. mch31f

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent.
SALESROOM—Madison Avenue, near Front St., Plainfield, N. J.
Goods received on consignment.

MRS. E. J. MARTIN'S
MAGIC RENOVATING FLUID.
For taking out grease from any kind of goods, without causing the color, or leaving a spot. Also, for cleaning kid gloves, crape, lace, resin, ribbons, felt hats, gents' clothing. Makes the rag carpets, oil cloths, chamber, grease spots and soils from carpets, &c. Price 25 cents per bottle. Sold at our stores, at Mrs. E. J. Martin's dress-making establishment, 22 Front street, and at Mrs. Sutphen Force's Fancy Goods Store, No. 8 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J. my21f

JOHN JOHNSTON,
DEALER IN COAL!
YARD AND OFFICE, SOUTH AVENUE, NETHERWOOD, NEW JERSEY.
The best quality of screened coal at the lowest market price for cash. Address all orders to Netherwood post-office. jn27f

Park Avenue Bakery!
JOHN WALKER, Prop'r
FAMILIES and HOTELS supplied with the Celebrated
VIENNA BREAD & ROLLS,
And all Varieties of
Pies, Cake and Confectionery.
22 West Front street.

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.
THORBURN & CO'S GARDEN SEEDS, BEST IN THE WORLD.
ALL GOODS DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE. ap6tf

MICHAEL UHDAL,
CONTRACTOR
AND LANDSCAPE GARDENER!
Residence:
NETHERWOOD, NEW JERSEY.
P. O. BOX 787, PLAINFIELD.
P. O. Box 8, Netherwood, N. J. jn26f

FINE FOOT WEAR,
BEST MAKES,
LATEST STYLES,
AT THE
NEW SHOE STORE
Doane & Van Arsdale
22 WEST FRONT STREET.

SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in a strictly first-class, skilful and workmanship manner.
Having associated myself with the Master Plumbers Association of New York City, I employ none but first-class mechanics and non-union men. I believe in every man running his own business as all times and in all places.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 8 NORTH AVE. ap23tf Plainfield, N. J.

EDUCATIONAL.

DORSEY W. HYDE,
PRACTICAL TEACHER OF
Piano, Harmony & Guitar.
Full Term commences MONDAY, Sept. 14th. SEND FOR CIRCULAR. P. O. BOX 1178. ap21f

MR. LEAL'S SCHOOL
WILL RE-OPEN
Monday, Sept. 20, 1886.
Abundance of room and added facilities make it now possible to form another Class for Boys from eight to ten years of age. Several such people have been each year declined. Circulars and information on application.—ap23tf

A SCHOOL FOR BOYS
WILL BE OPENED IN THE PARLORS OF THE PARK AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH,
SEPTEMBER 15, '86.
APPLICATION MAY BE MADE AT NO. 90 PARK AVENUE, CORNER SIXTH STREET.
ANNA J. MOORE, Principal.
ap23 3y

MISCELLANEOUS.

ARTESIAN WELLS.
F. & W. STOTHOFF
Are prepared to Sink Wells any depth up to 500 feet, and Tube them if need be. Pumps and Pipe furnished at fair prices. Refers to J. N. Jenkins, of Plainfield, P. O. address, Plainfield, N. J. jn21m3

Mme. J. BERNARD,
ASTROLOGIST.
Residence—Harmony street, North Plainfield, fourth house from Somerset street, left hand side. Information imparted as regards present and future events, likewise marriages, journeys, law suits, etc. Satisfaction guaranteed. She converses
In English, German and French.
My husband is a first-class Cooper, and repairs tubs, pails, barrels, etc., cheap for cash.

Electrical Work!
ELECTRICAL WORK—WE ARE PREPARED to furnish estimates for all kinds of Electrical work, from a call bell to a completely equipped house. We guarantee all our work. We will for a fixed price take care of electrical apparatus by the year, visiting and inspecting it at regular times and maintaining it in thorough working order.
PLAINFIELD DISTRICT TELEGRAPH CO.,
NO. 4 PARK AVENUE.
C. M. GODDARD, - Manager.
jy29tf

NETHERWOOD FARM!
MOUNTAIN AVE., NEAR PARSAGUTAVE.
A JERSEY STOCK FARM!
OVER
50 HEAD OF JERSEY CATTLE 50
Good family cows for sale at Moderate Prices. Milk and Cream delivered anywhere in Plainfield. Visitors are always welcome.
J. S. WHEELER, Manager.
J. HERBERT JOHNSTON, Plainfield, N. J. mh6d

CAREY'S
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE, NO. 46 WEST FRONT STREET.
Nearly opposite Laing's Hotel, Plainfield, N. J.
Having leased the above premises I am prepared to buy and sell second-hand Furniture, Carpets, Stoves, etc. I will also take Furniture in exchange for moving. Furniture, etc., stored. P. O. Box 492.—my21

JOHN MORTON,
PURE SPRING WATER
ICE
Delivered daily to any part of the city at the lowest market price. Residence 120 West Front st. P. O. Box 986. Orders left at Sherwin's shoe store, No. 32 West Front street, will receive prompt attention. I hereby return my thanks to my old patrons for past patronage, and take pleasure in announcing that I have increased my business by purchasing the crop and good-will of Messrs. John Hoes & Son, whereby I am better prepared to supply all with the best ice in the market.—ap15f

DOOR NUMBERS,
DOOR BELLS,
DOOR PLATES,
AT
DICKINSON & CLAWSON'S,
13 PARK AVENUE.
Sole Agents for

Dr. King's Spectacles.
jy14y1

ALEX. THORN
[Late of Berry & Thorn.
CAN BE FOUND AT 37 SOMERSET STREET,
WITH A FULL LINE OF FURNACES,
RANGES,
STOVES,
TINWARE, Etc.
Repairing in His Line Promptly Attended To. dly1

A. H. BOUGHTON,
44 West Fourteenth street, N. Y.
(NEAR MACY'S.)
Boy's Clothing and Hats
EXCLUSIVELY.
The most complete stock of Boy's Fashionable Goods in the city and at popular prices.
KILT SUITS,
SHIRT WAISTS,
EXTRA PANTS.
Former stand of Taylor & Co. ap23tf

PAINTERS & PAINTERS SUPPLIES

Paints, Varnishes, Glass.
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield. ap22

Weaver Bros.
House & Sign Painting, Graining,
Paper Hanging and Kalsomining a specialty.
Office and Shop in the rear of
16½ EAST FRONT STREET,
D. WEAVER. P. O. Box 251. P. WEAVER.

W. N. ROWE,
PAINTER AND DECORATOR,
Dealer in Paints, Oil, Varnishes, Glass, Brushes, etc. WALL PAPER and WINDOW SHADES. None but strictly first-class workmen employed and satisfaction guaranteed. No. 15 E. FRONT STREET, (C. O. Hecker's old stand,) Plainfield, N. J. P. O. Box 1289.—ap30y1

L. B. WOOLSTON, J. P. BUCKLE
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTER'S SUPPLIES. 28 NORTH AVENUE ap23tf

MILLINERY.
Mrs. J. M. Dunn,
FASHIONABLE MILLINER,
LATEST SHAPES OF
BONNETS AND HATS
FRENCH IMPORTED FLOWERS.
Feathers, Velvets, Plushes, Satines, Laces, etc. Also, Fancy Goods and Notions; Dress and Infants' Caps a Specialty.
PINKING, BLEACHING & PRESSING.
Feathers Dyed, Cleaned and Curled AT SHORT NOTICE.
14 West Front street.

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.
M. C. DOBBINS,
OPPOSITE RAILROAD STATION.
MANUFACTURER OF
PURE HAVANA CIGARS.
Wholesale and Retail!
ap16tf

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best 5 cent cigar in the State, and made on the premises from the finest Havanas.
CLEAR HAVANA SEGARS A SPECIALTY.
A large assortment of the Choicest Brands of Foreign and Domestic Cigars, Cigarettes and Tobaccos, always on hand.
Smokers Articles in Great Variety. Taply

C. M. FINE,
Dealer in HAVANA & DOMESTIC
—SEGARS!!—
No. 28 PARK AVE., (near corner of SECOND ST.) PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smoker's Materials, of every description.
The celebrated "Old Judge" Smoking Tobacco, with other popular brands constantly on hand. 26tf

--PICTURE FRAMES--
OF ALL KINDS, AT
S. E. FLOWER'S,
at New York Prices, Studio 39 West Front street. Strainers for drawing and oil painting. ap29tf

A. I. SMALLEY, N. B. SMALLEY
Smalley Bros.,
DEALERS IN
Fresh and Salt Meats, Poultry, Etc.
75 SOMERSET STREET, P. O. BOX 78 PLAINFIELD.
Orders called for and delivered. A share of the public patronage is solicited.—ap21f

Benj. F. Moore,
[Late of Moore Bros.]
BUTCHER,
And dealer in FRESH AND SALT MEATS, POULTRY, etc., corner Park avenue and Second street will be open and ready for business WEDNESDAY, March 30th. Orders called for and promptly delivered. Telephone Call 113.—mh25tf

MAYNARD & HILL,
PRACTICAL BARBERS
AND
Artistic Hair Dressers,
No. 26 PARK AVENUE,
Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residences. Shaving, Shampooing, &c., satisfactorily performed. 11y1

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE. CHARGES REASONABLE.
Hugo Weigman,
20 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J. mch26tf

GO TO ALLEN'S
For Stationery.
23 E. FRONT STREET.

SUMMER
HATS.
CAPS, GLOVES,
Trunks, Valises, Etc
Call and Examine the Elegant Stock of
Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods at
F. A. POPE'S,
[Successor to H. Vermeule.]
No. 5 W. Front-st.
ap23tf

CURRENT RHYMES.

The Old and New.

"In olden times, when people heard
Some swindler brag, hail come to grief,
They used a good old Saxon word,
And called that man a 'thief.'

"But language such as that to-day
Upon men's tender feelings grates;
So people smile, and simply say,
He—'rehypothecates.'"

Tempora Mutantur, Etc.

His pretty little pigeon and
His dainty little dove,
His bird of paradise she was
When he began to love.

Of then he said her singing it
Was sweeter than the lark's;
And made all sorts of similar
And sillier remarks.

He said she was his dearie, and
He said she was a duck;
He said she was a nightingale,
His charming little chuck.

But things are changed since they were wed,
All's not couleur de rose;
She "chatters like a magpie," and
Her "voice is like a crow's."

When she pours out her soul in song,
He'll wish her at the devil;
And if she dares to speak a word,
It's "O, you are a goose!"

"Love in a cot" their motto was,
But, Oh, the truth it stings!
Tho' she is just as bird-like still,
'Tis love alone has wings.
—Boston Globe.

Positivism.

A woman's will is strong.
Believe it though you don't,
But you'll find out ere long
It's weaker than her won't.
—Somerville Journal.

A Wanton Zephyr.

A zephyr—on a frolic bent—
A-wooing through the meadows went;
He kissed the daisies, then caressed
The buttercups, and then professed
A passion for the dewy clover
Purpling the sunny meads all over.
But tiring soon he straightway flew
To where some lingering violets grew.
He wantonised there awhile, and, then
Resumed his fickle course again.
But still no flower to his mind
This wanton zephyr seemed to find.
At length, beyond the meadows pied,
A blushful will rose he espied,
Nestling her bright green leaves among
That to and fro about her swung.
And her he woo—and won her too,
Ere yet the wooing was half through—
And then enamored of her charms,
He fondly clasps her in his arms,
And from her fresh and fragrant lips
This dewy nectar hotly sips;
And then he breaks a petal fair—
And flies—and leaves her mourning there.
—H. R. M.

Caught.

We sat together on the shore,
One day in leafy June,
Where we had often sat before,
Or walked beneath the moon.

A costly jointed fishing-rod
I held, while she at ease
Lounged idly on the velvet sod
Beneath the arching trees.

For hours we sat together there,
Till the red sun sank down;
Then she slowly through the cool night air
We sauntered back to town.

No fish had I—not once a bite—
And yet 'twas not for naught
We sat there in the shifting light—
For I was safely caught.
—Somerville Journal.

Grace and the Moon.

Dear little Grace at the window stood,
Watching, that winter night,
The great round moon in the far blue sky,
Where it shone so big and bright.

Till a cloud swept over its shining face,
Then she turned with a little pout:
"I wanted to look at the moon," she said,
"But somebody's blowed it out!"
—Wide Awake.

Future Joys.

Sing sweetly a song for the days that are gone,
They were merry and glad and free.
But oh, for the days that are yet to be!
And the joys that are yet to be!

How fair is the East, when the morning shines,
And the green earth awakes from rest.
But how dear, for, when the day declines,
Are the glories that fill the West.

To-morrow will beam with a brighter light
Than yesterday ever knew,
For a pleasure, unknown, and a new delight
Will gladden it through and through.

Then sing for the light-hearted, by-gone times,
They were merry and gay and free.
But oh, sing in fuller and happier rhymes
Of the joys that are yet to be!
—D. H. Morhead, in N. Y. Mail and Express.

A STORY OF THE CORNER

Ups and Downs of a Young Man Who Started Out to Get Rich in the Recent Chicago Wheat Deal—Narrow Escape from Ruin.

I had watched the markets for a long time, and had made numerous deals in my mind, with uniform and astonishing success before I actually went into a speculator, writes a contributor to the Chicago Herald. Probably I might have gone on indefinitely contentedly rolling up my mental profits, but for young Bagley and the glowing newspaper accounts of the great June wheat deal. Bagley was a clerk, like myself, on a small salary, with poor prospects of any increase. But while I was careful and had little to show for my economy at the end of each month, he was liberal in his expenditure and always had money. He was a speculator. Often he showed me big rolls, which he said were profits. One day he unfolded four hundred dollars before my eyes.

"I cleaned this up in a deal in July," he said, fingering the luscious stuff lovingly. "Why don't you catch on? June wheat will go to one dollar. Do you want to be a clerk all your life?"

The papers had glowing accounts every day of the great clique's doings. Every body was talking about them, and predicted that they would send wheat soaring. "Th y'r'e sure to do it," said Bagley, and he decided me.

I drew from the safety vault the bond in which I had invested my savings for four years and marched down to a broker's office near the big stone building on Jackson street. It was an elegant building. To fit it up must have cost thousands. There were a dozen men lolling in the luxurious Russia leather chairs, all of them dressed in the h ight of fashion. No one looked up as I entered. They were all watching a boy chalk up figures on a big blackboard that occupied one end of the room. I found a seat there and told him my business. He didn't appear impressed with the beautiful scrolls and engraving in my bond, but looked sharply at the date of the last coupon. He tossed it carelessly over a railing to a d minutive clerk with an old face and then said to me:

"Now, what do you want to do, buy or sell?"

I told him buy. He wrote something on a slip of paper, rang a bell sharply and gave the slip to a boy, who disappeared with it like a sprite in a pantomime. In a moment he was back. "Five-eighths," said the broker to me, and I walked into his private office. This was disappointing. I expected a nice, long talk with him, and to have him tell me some of the secrets of the market I felt sure he possessed. But he did not seem to care much about pleasing me. The only other occasion on which he addressed me during my experience in the office was when he asked me for more margin.

I drooped into a chair and looked around. There was a lively young fellow near me, who kept running to the ticker. The boy couldn't post the quotations fast enough for him.

"Wheat is strong to-day," I ventured.

"You be it is," he answered; "the shorts are coming in."

"I've just bought some."

"Then you better buy some more," he replied. "This clique will put it up to the ceiling, sure."

I took my friend's advice and bought more. Wheat did go up that day, and I had the exquisite pleasure of seeing myself $130 ahead when the bell tapped at 2:15 o'clock. It was the first money I had ever made except by hard work. I drew it out. We had a great time that night, the boys and I.

I was successful again the next day and the day after that. In fact, for more than three weeks my good luck continued. Money rolled in on me—more than I had ever had before. I fell with the greatest ease into the habit of lunching on terrapin with a bottle of chambertin and dining sumptuously at night. Occupying a box at the theater instead of my old seat in the family circle seemed perfectly natural to me. I smoked quarter cigars instead of five-centers and rode home every night in a hansom. My young acquaintance encouraged me.

"Look at the way those fellows around here live. Do Princes have any more luxury?" he would say. "They have their horses and mansions and yachts and European trips and society flirtations and money to throw away. Look at Jack Cudahy. Ten years ago he was a butcher. Now he's more than a millionaire. Norman Ream, another millionaire—he was poor a very few years ago. Nat Jones, Leopold Bloom, Bill Linn, Andrews, Brega, Roche and scores of others—they're all come up from nothing in no time. Why shouldn't you and I, particularly now when we have a chance to tail on to the June deal?"

Why shouldn't I, indeed! I followed my young friend's advice and continued buying June wheat, tailing on the clique. It went my way rapidly. Every thing looked nice. Visions appeared of long drawn-out luxury. I was about to inform my employers that I should resign shortly, and had already told my landlady that I was going to live at a down-town hotel, when an event occurred.

Wheat had a reaction of two cents.

I immediately concluded not to resign my place, nor to move to the hotel at present. "Don't be alarmed," said my young friend; "the clique are letting it off to encourage more of a short interest. It will be all right."

There were columns of war news in the papers of the next day, and the market opened strong and climbed up excitedly. I was ahead again, and that night I moved into sumptuous quarters and enjoyed an extra fine dinner. But a change came the next day. The market broke again. My spirits fell. An elderly man with a face as expressionless as a brick wall sat next to me. I asked him what he thought about the market.

"It looks lower," he answered.

"Well, I think it's going higher."

"Possibly it is," he said. "You can probably guess it as well as any body else. It has cost me $30,000 and twenty-five years of my life to find out that I know nothing about it."

"I'm long on June wheat. Don't you believe the clique will put it up?"

"I suppose you are," he went on in a voice as unemotional as his face. "Outsiders are always tailers. It's nothing to them that every corner ever attempted on the board without hardly an exception has ended with a panic and the bankruptcy of its conductors. Outsiders learn nothing from this. They come in at the eleventh hour. They are what every clique wants. They learn something, though. Stay, and you will learn something, too."

Wheat was dull for a few days, but edged lower gradually. I postponed my European trip. One day it broke sharply. I moved back to my old boarding house. Then came a few days of irregular fluctuations, of alternating hope and fear. The elderly man seemed to shine best at such times, and sometimes I kr alister gleam in his fishy eyes. He was fond of pointing out wrecks to me.

"That young man who comes in furtively and sneaks out again—do you know what he wants? He wants to beg a quarter. He lost an inheritance of $100,000. He is left fit for nothing, like every one who gambles.

That rag-bag on the corner, the other beggar who just joined him—the first one was once a power in corn, and refused to take a profit of $175,000 on one occasion because it was too little. The other man was a prosperous manufacturer, and lived on Michigan avenue. His wife takes in washing now to support the family. There's another man. He was once a leading railroader. He made $200,000 in wheat in a single summer, and lost it in the winter. Now look at him. They say he is a crank. I wonder what he gets to eat. Speculation ruins any one for life. There's a fellow who came here to peddle soap. He blundered into $51,000 profits, lived on canvas back duck for a month, then lost his money. Now he can't even go back to peddling soap. He must hang around and watch the game, like them all."

"But some men make money. Some are lucky."

"Oh, yes. Some do make money. They borrow it from the game. If they stay long enough they pay it all back. The lucky men are the ones that get away when they are even. They are few—they are few."

The market continued declining. One by one my dreams were broken. I got a sharp note from my employers about my frequent absence from the office. It had become impossible, nearly, for me to tear away from that alluring blackboard. No picture of radiant beauty was half so fascinating.

The broker called on me for more margin money. I pawned my newly purchased watch and diamond to supply it. A few days more of depression, when the clique took hold and up wheat started. In a day I was safe. In another day I had a profit and a good one.

"Buy more," said my young friend, and I bought more all the way up, doubling and quadrupling my original line. The excitement carried me away. "Better take your profit," my broker advised. I laughed at him. I might have sold out and quit with $45,000. I wanted sixty thousand. Then came the break on Saturday. Again my broker urged me to sell out. It was seventy-five thousand with me then.

The after effects of a luxurious supper the night before had kept me awake, and I was late in getting down on that memorable Tuesday, the 14th of June. The great corner had collapsed. Wheat had already broken eight cents. The figures on the blackboard swam before my eyes. I sank faint and sick into a chair. The sharp voice of my broker aroused me. "We must have $12,000 additional margin from you or we will have to close your wheat out."

"Close it," I said, and left the office, every thing a blur before my eyes, and the wild roar of five hundred frantic men on the floor of the board I scarcely heard. My prospective future had vanished like a soap-bubble.

A few days later I wandered back to the broker's office. The storm had passed. He met me smilingly:

"Made a funny error in selling out your wheat. We sold a little too much, and bought in the over quantity for your account at a profit which just covers your original margin. Here's your account of purchase and sale for the whole thing."

He gave me back my beautifully-engraved bond. In the hall I met the elderly man.

"Even!" he asked.

"Yes."

"Going!"

"Yes."

"Ever coming back!"

"Never."

"Shake."

We shook, and I understand he speaks of me as one of the luckiest men he ever knew.

They say a big head is a great thing, and the saying has been verified by a Californian, the father of a large number of children, who not long since conceived the novel scheme of utilizing the physical force of his numerous offspring. He dug a well upon his sand tract for the purpose of furnishing the constant irrigation required, put in a pump and to this geared a beam to be turned by an oscillatory motion. To this he attached a swing, and telling his children to swing as long as they wished, he thus provided motive power sufficient to throw a large stream of water and render his ground fertile and productive.

Wood-shavings prepared by special machinery have been introduced into Germany by America. Since its introduction this article has become popular, and shavings are now made in eight different sizes, from the broad, coarse quality to that as fine as wool. Coarser qualities are used instead of straw or paper cuttings as a packing material, whilst the finer qualities are used as stuffing for the cheaper class of furniture, and the finest for hygienic purposes, instead of hair. Intermediate sorts can be used for the cleaning of machinery, in substitution of cotton waste, and also for filtering purposes.

Colored prints and muslins require very careful washing in two soapy waters (no soap being rubbed on them), and rinsing in clear, cold water. In washing colored articles there are a great number of ways by which the color may be preserved in such as are liable to fade. For buff, greys, or any very delicate colors, a tablespoonful of black pepper to a bucket of water will settle the color. If boiled in vinegar, white cotton goods will never lose their freshness. Ox gall is also excellent to preserve colors, and is particularly useful in washing delicate-tinted stockings. All colored goods should be hung in the shade to dry.

A strange story of human sacrifice comes from the Madras Presidency, says a Madras correspondent to the New York Times. A woman was supposed to be possessed with a devil. Her father consulted an exorcist, who said that human sacrifice was necessary. Accordingly one night her father, the exorcist, and five or six others, met, and after some religious ceremonies sent for the selected victim. He came without suspecting treachery, and was piled with drink till he was senseless, when his head was cut off, and his blood, mixed with rice, was offered to some deity. The body was then hacked so as to deceive the police and thrown into a tank. The murderers, having been arrested, made a full confession.

NATURAL BORN THIEVES.

Some of the Queer and Amusing Traits of Intelligent Monkeys.

It would, indeed, be a mistake to suppose that all monkeys are naturally mischievous, says the Chicago Herald. The little Tamarin handles its playthings more carefully than most children, and the females, especially seem almost afraid to stir without their keeper's permission. Gratuitous destructiveness is rather a distinctive trait of the African quadrumana, and their representative in this respect is, perhaps, the Moor-monkey, or mona, as they call him in Spain, a fellow who seems to consecrate his temporal existence to mischief, with an undivided and disinterested devotion. This maurus and his cousin, the rock-baboon, are the terror of the Algerian farmer; but the baboon contents himself with filing his belly, while the other tears off twenty ears of corn for one he eats, and often enters a fig garden for the purpose of stripping the trees of their leaves and unripe fruit. In captivity he can not be trusted even with a leather jacket, and, finding nothing else to spoil, does not hesitate to exercise his talent upon his younger relatives, to the detriment of their woolly fur. If an unchained monaaco gets a five minutes' chance at a kitchen or parlor, he can be relied upon to commit all the havoc a creature of his strength can possibly execute in five times sixty seconds; an instinct bordering on inspiration seems to tell him at the first glance where and how to perpetrate the greatest amount of actual damage in the shortest possible time. In a harbor hotel of Cartagena I saw (writes Felix Oswald, M. D.) a mono whose terpsichorean talents had made him a more than local celebrity. He could dance the Moorish zameca, besides the bolero and fandango, and was sometimes released at the request of his admirers, who pitied his constant collisions with the lock of his drag-chain; but on such occasions the landlady used to charge a real extra, for even her presence did not prevent the mono from indulging his ruling passion. Under pretext of returning the carcass of his visitors he managed to abstract their buttons, upset a flower pot or two, or interrupted his performances to make a grab at a litter of poodle puppies on the veranda. His scarlet skull proved that the lot of the transgressor is hard; but the depilated condition of his neck was owing to a peculiar trick of his, as the ponders complained it. He would hug a poodle near his couch under the veranda, and, stretching his head back and his tongue out, would twist his neck to and fro, as if in the agonies of strangulation. During a temporary absence of their mother he once succeeded in deceiving the children by these symptoms of distress. They loosened his chain-strap an inch or two, but happily took the precaution to shut the house door and the cellar gate. But they had forgotten the poultry house, and when the lady returned in the evening her sixteen hens had been converted into Platonic homunculi—"birds without feathers and without the power of volitation."

The anthropoid apes are a somewhat taciturn race, but a chimpanzee's murmur of affection is very expressive, and quite different from his grunt of discontent. A sick orang-outang's sheds tears, moans piteously, or cries like a pettish child; but such symptoms are rather deceptive, for the orang, as well as the chimpanzee, is a great mimic, not of men only, but of passions and pathological conditions. Two years ago I took temporary charge of a young chimpanzee who was awaiting shipment to the Pacific coast. His former landlord seemed to have indulged him in a penchant for rummaging boxes and coffers, for whenever I attempted to circumscribe the limits of that pastime my lunatic relied to bring down the house, metaphorically and literally; by throwing himself upon the floor and tugging violently at the curtains and bell-ropes. If that failed to soften my heart, Pansy became sick. With groans and sobs he would lie down in a corner, preparing to shed the mortal coil, and adjusting the pathos of the closing scene to the degree of my obstinacy. One day he had set his heart upon exploring the letter department of my chest of drawers, and, after driving him off several times, I locked the door and pocketed the key. Pansy did not suspect the full meaning of my act until he had pulled at the knobs and squinted through the keyhole, but, when he realized the truth, life ceased to be living; he collapsed at once, and had hardly strength enough left to drag himself to the stove. There he lay moaning his untimely fate, and stretching his legs as if the rigor mortis had already overcome his lower extremities. Ten minutes later his supper was brought in, and I directed the boys to leave the basket behind the stove, in full sight of my guest. But Pansy's eyes assumed a far-off expression; earth had lost its charm; the inhumanity of man to man had made him sick of this vale of tears. Meaning to try him, I accompanied the boy to the stair-case, and the victim of my cruelty gave me a parting look of intense reproach as I left the room. But, stealing back on tip-toe, we managed to come upon him unawares, and Pansy looked rather sheepish when we caught him in the act of enjoying an excellent meal.

From the moment that he is weaned a young monkey has to steal, for Dr. Brehm's observation applies strictly and literally to every species of quadrumana: the mother monkey robs her own child and forces it to eat its food by stealth. The proprietor of the Zoological Coffee Garden, in Savannah, Ga., has been very successful in rearing young monkeys, and the visitors of his happy-family department can witness the same scene thrice a day—a number of half-grown capuchin babies fleeing from the wrath of their own parents. As soon as the dinner bucket is brought in the young rascals hide in the corner and watch their opportunity, for while their elders are feeding there is no hope of a crumb or a drop of milk; but sooner or later the old ones are sure to fall out, and during a general scrimmage for a tidbit the children sometimes get a chance at the bucket, and take care to make the best of it. But woe unto them if their progenitors get them in flagranti! Sires, mothers and aunts combine to avenge the sacrilege, and the noise of the punishment often sets the whole menagerie agog. I have seen a she-m caque jamming her bantling up against the wall and extracting from its cheek-pouches the gifts of a charitable visitor, together with all the crumbs and scraps the little one had gleaned from the floor, and then adding outrage to injury by cuffing the victim's ears.

The coloring of iron is now accomplished in Germany by a simple process. A mixture is made of a solution of one hundred and forty grains of hyposulphite of sodium in one litre of water, and of a solution of thirty-five grains of acetate of lead in one litre of water; this is heated to the boiling point, and a piece of iron then plunged in, which takes a blue coloring like that which is obtained

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE, | A. L. FORCE,
Editors and Proprietors.

OUR CANDIDATE.

Mr. Thurman, the eminent Democratic statesman of Ohio, attributes the great personal popularity of President Cleveland to the fact that "he possesses undoubted honesty and undoubted courage, and that the American people like a brave and an honest man."

That is the truth forcibly stated.

The official who honestly and assiduously strives to discharge duty, with an eye single to law, justice and the public good, is worthy of the highest honor, and it is a happy omen for the future of free government that the people of this country are increasingly in favor of such noble characteristics.

President Cleveland has fairly won the honorable designation conferred upon him by Allen G. Thurman and scores of other prominent citizens.

He is a man of unblemished integrity.

With him official obligations are sacred trusts.

He meets every duty with promptitude and intelligent ability.

His constant endeavor is to do right.

No mercenary pelf ever sullied his hands.

No unworthy ambition ever blocked his straightforward pathway.

No better man can fill the Presidential chair.

For President,
—1888—
GROVER CLEVELAND,
of New York.

PRACTICAL PROOF.

The Savings Banks throughout the United States show large increase of deposits during the present Democratic National Administration.

It is a significant fact.

Savings Banks are reliable thermometers of industrial prosperity or depression, and the record we thus bring to mind affords additional and positive evidence of political misrepresentation.

The leading opponents of Democracy rang loud and long the charge that the election of a Democratic President would ruin the country, demoralize business, lessen employment, overthrow confidence, upset values, and create general disorder.

Thousands of well-meaning, but timid people, were induced to believe such false predictions of unprincipled politicians and to vote accordingly.

They will not again be caught in that kind of a trap.

Truth has dissolved the mists of wily partisanship and reveled things as they really are.

The Democratic party is in power, and the country in good condition and at peace from centre to circumference.

That argument is unanswerable.

Some business gentlemen, ardent followers of Blaine, actually declared that if Cleveland was elected they would immediately shut up shop and retire.

That may have been only political bluster, but, sincere or pretended, not one of them is known to have carried his threat into execution. Not one.

Why?

Because a Democratic Administration made business interests sounder and better than they were before its advent.

Another sweeping argument.

For nigh unto a hundred years the party of Democracy has been the recipient of every species of false accusation, yet it has survived all opposition, both open and covert, and advancing steadily forward, stands to-day as fully prepared to Constitutionally govern the land on behalf of public honor and the rights and welfare of the people, as at any former period of our national history.

It is said that women voted in New Jersey from 1776 to 1807.

The County Clerk's office at Elizabeth will close on Saturday at three p. m. during this month and August.

Prosecutor Winfield, of Hudson county, is very much dissatisfied with the verdict of the Coroner's jury in the cellonite explosion case in Arlington. He has written a letter to ex-Judge McCarter, of Newark, who represented the State at the inquest, expressing surprise that the Coroner did not hold the parties responsible for the explosion, notwithstanding the verdict, and he says that he will bring the matter before the next Grand Jury.

Persons who won't pay for their newspapers should paste the following in a conspicuous place: Some time since a newspaper publisher in Illinois brought suit against forty-three men who would not pay their subscriptions and obtained judgment in each for the full amount of the claim. Twenty-eight of the defendants made affidavit that they owned no more property than the law allowed them, thus preventing attachments. Then under the Supreme Court decision they were arrested for petty larceny and put under bonds of $300 each. All but six gave bonds, but the six went to jail. The postal law makes it larceny to take a newspaper and refuse to pay for it.

Governor Green has been interviewed upon the political prospect, and he spoke for the Democracy of the State when he said: "I believe that as things stand now Mr. Cleveland would be nominated by acclamation. No other name is mentioned in New Jersey. The party is unanimous. I am satisfied that Mr. Cleveland can carry the State by a much larger majority than he did before. If Mr. Blaine were his opponent Mr. Cleveland's election would be certain. All the floating votes in New Jersey which Mr. Blaine got in 1884 would go to Mr. Cleveland. The President is very popular here, and his renomination is accepted by New Jersey as a matter of course. The people of this State look upon the war as something belonging to the past. As for the people of the South they will laugh at the attempt to excite the old war feeling. They know that the war in its results was a blessing to them, and they will be too busy developing the resources of the South and making money to listen to demagogues."

Henry C. Kelsey, Secretary of State of New Jersey, is at the Ocean House, Newport. Governor Green, of New Jersey, and Mrs. Green arrived there this morning and are guests of Prof. C. W. Shields, at Ocean Point.

Paying No Royalties West.

Out in Iowa they still consider as unsettled the question of Mr. Green's right to back royalties on driven wells. The following letter of last week, is from a prominent firm of lawyers, of Independence, Iowa, to a well-known citizen of the Borough of North Plainfield:

DEAR SIR.—Yours of the 19th inst., in regard to the driven well cases from this State now pending in the U. S. S. C., received, and noted. The case against Geo. Hoyer is No. 16 on the calendar for October term, 1887. We expect to be ready to argue and submit it at the opening of the Court, and should advise your people to not pay anything until the case is decided.

We are so advising the people here and they are acting upon the same, and no one here is paying anything. Yours Truly,
LAKE & HARMON.

Again at the Front.

In another part of this issue of THE CONSTITUTIONALIST is an announcement of the resumption of business by Mr. Frank C. Green, furniture dealer, at the old stand corner of Park avenue and Second street. After weeks of litigation and stoppage of business, Mr. Green has successfully overcome the temporary embarrassment of his affairs, and now opens his spacious store and warerooms with a fresh and carefully selected stock of new and elegant goods, which is offered to the public at prices that should induce the people of Plainfield to purchase in their own city instead of going out of town to do so. Attentive and courteous clerks are always in attendance to show goods.

The City's Boarders.

Two men woke up in the station house Sunday morning, and were obliged to gaze at the daylight from behind iron bars. All day Sunday they occupied their four by six feet quarters, bathing their heads and listening to the gentle patter of the rain against the windows. Officer Grant found the two men roaming about town on Saturday evening, both drunk and disorderly. On Monday one of them was arraigned before Judge Ulrich. He gave his name as DeCamp, but this is thought to be assumed. He pleaded with the Judge to be lenient and said that he knew his fault. The prisoner declared that he could not live long behind the bars, and said that he hoped the lesson he had learned would do him some good. Judge Ulrich said he hoped so too, and in view of this open confession, the Judge said he would let him off with a nominal fine—five dollars.

Frank Callahan was next arraigned. He was severely reprimanded and after promising to do better in the future, his mother paid five dollars for his release.

Funeral of George Tier.

The funeral of the late George Tier, who died at an early hour on Tuesday, the 19th, took place from the residence of his uncle, John H. Tier, on Bank place, Thursday. The house was filled with the many friends of the deceased, including a large number of his former associates, to whom he had become greatly attached and who were present to pay their respects to his memory. The floral display was elaborate, showing the high esteem in which the young man was held by his acquaintances. Among the more prominent floral designs was a large anchor of yellow and white, presented by the teachers of the Trinity Reformed Sunday school, a beautiful yellow and white cross, standing on a bed of roses and ferns, the same the gift of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of Trinity Reformed church, of which the deceased was a member; a broken column from his employer; a floral star, composed of pinks and roses from the relatives, and a wreath from one of the recent employees in Mr. A. M. Griffin's store. The beautiful floral display was tastefully arranged by Miss A. E. Lincoln, the Park avenue florist. Rev. Dr. N. E. Smith, of Brooklyn, a former pastor in this city, officiated, and paid a fitting tribute to the deceased. He was assisted by Rev. Mr. Schenck, the present pastor of Trinity Reformed church, who also eulogized the life of one who had been called away in early manhood. The service was most solemn and impressive, and all were visibly affected. The pall-bearers were Masters Fred Cutter, Andrew Carpenter, Alvin TenEyck and Charles Wheeler, and after an opportunity had been given to view the remains, the casket was borne to the hearse and conveyed to Evergreen Cemetery, where the closing scenes were enacted.

OBITUARY.

MRS. MILLICENT HUMPSTON.

Mrs. Millicent Humpston, widow of the late William Humpston, died Sunday at the residence of her son, Samuel, on West Second street, at the advanced age of 92 years. The deceased had been ailing for a long time, but the direct cause of her death was paralysis. She was born in Derbyshire, England, in 1796, and came to this country at the age of 21 years. For the past 33 years she has been a resident of this State, living most of the time at Bound Brook.

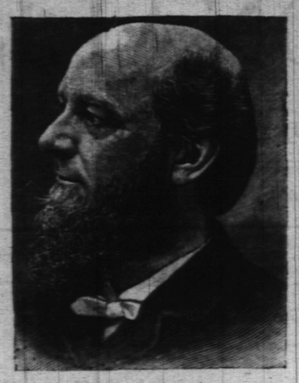
DANIEL G. VAN WINKLE.

As announced in THE PRESS, the death occurred at half-past one o'clock p. m. of Saturday, of Daniel G. Van Winkle, one of the oldest and most highly-esteemed citizens of North Plainfield. Although advanced in years, the deceased had enjoyed excellent health up to within about five years ago, when he was stricken with paralysis, from the effects of which he never fully recovered. He was, however, able to be about, and his face became one of the most familiar on the streets of the city and Borough. Subsequently he had, on several occasions, slight paralytic strokes, which he would soon overcome, and again be around, attending to his duties. Three weeks previous to the day of his death, (July 24) he was again stricken down, and from that time on he never left his bed, and despite the skill of one of our most eminent physicians, and the kind and loving care of his children, he succumbed to his complaint, and quietly passed away on Saturday, surrounded by his sons and daughter, who are now only consoled by the assurance that he is now at rest with his Maker, "who doeth all things well."

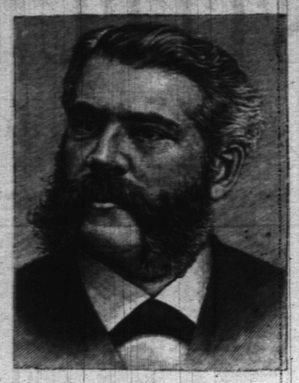
The deceased was born at Jersey City Heights, Hudson county, New Jersey, on February 14th, 1802, and he was therefore in the eighty-sixth year of his age at the time of his death. At the age of twenty-two years, he married Rachel Roome, a sister of the late William J. Roome. In 1845, he purchased a farm near New Market, at a place now known as Randolphville, and continued to farm the place until 1864, when he sold it and again bought a house near Cadmus' saw mill in Somerset county. Four years later, in 1868, he disposed of the property and bought of the late Rev. Mr. Duer, a plot at the corner of Grove street and Mercer avenue, North Plainfield. In 1872, Mr. VanWinkle built the house in which he died, corner of Duer street and Mercer avenue, moving with his family thereto in 1879. Four years previous to that time, April 10th, 1875, his wife closed a useful career, leaving, besides the husband, six sons and two daughters to mourn her loss. One of the daughters died in the West a few years ago.

Mr. Van Winkle was a man of sterling qualities, of unquestionable veracity and strict integrity, whose life was characterized by his many good traits. He was a life-long christian, and since early manhood he has continually held the office of deacon or elder in the church up to his eightieth year. At the time of his death he was a member of the Trinity Reformed church in this city, and died an example of a conscientious and christian life. He was one of the founders of the Bloomington (Bound Brook) Reformed Dutch church. He was public-spirited, and although frequently tendered offices of public trust, he never held but one, and that a judicial office in Jersey City. A nephew and two nieces are the only living relatives.

From the Daily Press of Tuesday.



JOHN H. VINCENT, D. D.,
CHANCELLOR, CHAUTAUQUA UNIVERSITY.



REV. J. L. HURLBUT,
PRINCIPAL OF THE C. L. S. C.

The Chautauqua.

It is with great satisfaction to ourselves, and to the great pleasure of our readers, that we are to-day able to present as above such remarkably fine portraits of two eminent divines our city proudly claims and boasts of—the able exponents of the Chautauqua idea and the farseeing organizers of the Assembly. More and more every day is spreading throughout the World the blessings of the Chautauqua and its methods—the greatest University of Universal Knowledge in the Universe. But a few years ago its first class graduated less than two thousand members—its class commencing last year, numbers nearly twenty-five thousand. All over the World are its members included, and even the higher class of the illustrated periodicals are engaging the services of clever artists to picture its out-door Assembly. In the last number of Frank Leslie's is devoted a page to scenes at Chautauqua from photographs, with an article in connection. The portraits are the same as those above.

We know of no better way of telling the few who know not, what the Chautauqua idea is, than by quoting freely from an article on the subject by the Rev. Mr. Hurlbut. In the early Summer of 1878, while Dr. Vincent was crossing the Atlantic, homeward bound from a breathing-spell under the Alps, the plans of the C. L. S. C., were matured and its details arranged. It was to involve a course of reading and study, covering the principal subjects of the college curriculum, but omitting of necessity its drill in languages and mathematics, giving to the English reader an outlook over the field of learning, and some acquaintance with the masterpieces of literature, ancient and modern; employing hand-books and compendiums for the mastery of outlines, and appointing more extensive works to be read; a course which the individual could pursue alone, if necessary, yet adapted for associated study; sufficiently simple to invite the masses, and to lead them on without discouragement from its difficulties or its extent; yet so thorough as not to be deemed superficial by the more learned. The course of study is planned to cover four years, and may be accomplished by some readers in an hour a day, during ten months of each year. Of course, no unlettered person can secure a finished education by merely reading an hour per diem for four years; yet so much time spent with thoughtful and wisely-chosen books will impart to any mind a knowledge of literature, a measure of intelligence, and an intellectual training, by no means to be despised. It embraces the general subjects of History, Science, Literature, and the Bible study, with a few branches which might be included under Home and Character. There is an arrangement whereby each member, however distant, is kept in constant connection with the office of the Circle at Plainfield. Here Miss K. F. Kimball, the secretary, aided by her corps of assistants, maintains a supervision over the details of the work. With every mail come letters of inquiry, and, in answer thereto, circulars explaining the plan, and blanks for those desiring membership are dispatched. Applications for union with the Circle are received, inclosing the annual fee of fifty cents, which is the sole expense of the association, except, of course, the cost of books.

At intervals there is sent to every member a large envelope containing various documents, such as circulars and announcements of the course, an encouraging address from the Superintendent of instruction, Dr. J. H. Vincent, and "Outline Memoranda" on the current topics of study. These latter are sent both as a guide and an examination, and consist of large sheets, one on each department of study, containing questions, with blanks for answers, outlines, hints on study, and a catechism of important facts to be memorized. The items of printing and postage, in sending all this material to twenty-four thousand people, are considerable. Lest any may imagine a financial aim in the enterprise, let it be remarked, in passing, that the fees received scarcely cover the expenses of the office, and that the president receives absolutely nothing for his services.

An inspection of the records and of the letters pigeon-holed in the general office in this city reveals many noteworthy facts. Names are found representing all creeds and all lands. There are several hundred members in the Dominion of Canada, and individual students in England, India, Japan, the Sandwich Islands, and Alaska. So many Churches with various shades of belief are embraced in the membership, that it is difficult to keep the departments of Theology and Church History out of the arena of polemics from some quarter. And American history can scarcely be written in a way satisfactory to the members on both sides of the St. Lawrence and on both sides of the Potomac. Yet complaints are comparatively few, and the members of the C. L. S. C. are as reasonable as any other twenty-four thousand mortals to be found on the planet.

As to the beneficial results of the organization there can scarcely be a question. Any system which will bring thousands of people into communion with the thought of the world cannot fail of blessing the race.

Settling up the Estate.

On July 13th inst., the Court passed the count, authorizing W. R. Codington, of the firm of Jackson & Codington, assignee for Isaac S. Melbourne to proceed with the settlement of the various claims against Melbourne, and on the following day the Assignee began to audit the claims. After paying the laborers' claims in full, aggregating upwards of $1,000, each of the other claimants received at the rate of 46½ cents on the dollar. Most of them, however, consider themselves fortunate to get even this amount.

All the Italians Now at Large.

After the murderous attack on the Stewart family by the Palermos and Mrs. Fillimere Rossa, in Stiger alley, recently, the Count Palermo quietly disappeared, Mrs. Rossa was bailed by her husband, and the Comtessa Palermo and her daughter Margaretta were sent to Elizabeth jail. Friday evening the train reaching Plainfield at 6.59, brought back to the freedom of the city the old lady and the Signorina. They were released on the deposit with the court of $125 in cash by Mr. Leid Vietom, of Plainfield. It is rumored that Palermo himself furnished the necessary cash.

Public Bath.

Since THE PRESS recently called attention to the necessity of a public bath in this city, and urged that some philanthropist take the matter in hand, the subject has been taken up by the residents of Somerville and is being discussed by the newspapers of that place. A correspondent to the Messenger thus alludes to the subject:

"Why can we not have a public bath? We have water in abundance, and very clean water at that. Next to a building for a Public Library we need the bath, much on the principle that cleanliness is next to godliness. The people of Plainfield are clamoring for one, infants cry for it there, and the young ladies are more interested in the subject than in ice cream—much to the delight of their impecunious swains. Our growth as a town has been very conservative and somewhat slow, but we have at last passed the days of creeping, and in the future we will have to introduce the improvements in keeping with the age. Let us begin with the bath and swimming school. It will be worth much more than it costs. As a matter of village pride, we should not allow Plainfield to get ahead of us in this matter, especially as we are well provided with water and our sister city has but comparatively little. Who will furnish the soap and set the project in motion?"

Middlesex Gun Club.

A regular meeting of members of the Middlesex Gun Club was held at Force's Hotel, Saturday evening, July 23d, at which much interesting business was discussed and transacted. Necessary arrangements are being made to make the grand five day's tournament on the grounds at Dunellen, Oct. 3d, 4th, 5th, 6th and 7th, an interesting occasion. In consequence of the contemplated absence of vice-president S. G. Smith, to Dakota, for his health during September and October, he desired that some other member be placed on the committee of arrangements in his place. Mr. Thomas Kellar was therefore appointed, and the committee now consists of Messrs. W. Fred Quimby, Mr. Richards of the Atlantic Ammunition company, of New York, and Mr. Kellar, who will constitute a committee that will insure a grand success of the tournament. Dr. Wm. Matherson of Somerville, was proposed as a new member by President Robinson. It was resolved that the Board of Directors purchase handsome badges to be contested for by members on each regular club shoot days. Two of these are to be known as "Live Pigeon Trophy," designated Class A. and B., and two others as "Inanimate Target Trophy," Class A. and B. These trophies are to be contested for by members on regular club shoot days, the event to be a special shoot at seven live birds and ten inanimate targets each. The Board of Directors are to classify the shooters. To become owners of the trophies contestants must win them three times. The members will begin contesting for them on the first regular club shoot day in August. The use of the club's grounds were tendered to St. John's R. C. church at Dunellen, on which to hold their picnic. Invitations were extended to the members of the Essex, Jersey City Heights, South Side and Elizabeth Gun Clubs to participate in sweepstake shooting on the grounds at Dunellen next Wednesday. After a long and pleasant chat over matters of interest to the club the meeting adjourned to meet at the same place one week hence. In the approaching October tournament many of the crack inanimate target and pigeon shooters of the country will be present and participate in the exercises.

Lifted a Threshing Machine.

Two men named Walter Elliott and Aaron Brower, made a bet of five dollars in a Front street resort Monday, that each could outlift the other. After raising and lowering numerous schooners with apparent ease, some little time was consumed in choosing a suitable referee and stakeholder. Finally the money was put up, and the contestants, accompanied by a half-dozen of their friends, drove over to the Brower farm at South Plainfield. The men began by lifting a pump-handle, which they worked vigorously, and finally Brower to show his strength, raised from the ground the front part of a threshing machine, on which were standing three men. He carried off the prize, and afterward, it is said, spent twice the amount to quench the thirst of the spectators, but he got the prize all the same.

Funeral Services.

The funeral of the late Daniel G. Van Winkle who died on Saturday, took place from the house, corner of Duer street and Mercer avenue, Tuesday afternoon. There was a large number of persons present, including many of the oldest inhabitants in the city, noticeable among them being Hon. Job Male. The service was in charge of Rev. Cornelius Schenck, who, during his remarks eulogized the christian example set by the deceased, and paid deserved credit to the children who have so tenderly nursed and faithfully watched over their father during his illness. Comforting remarks were also made by Rev. Dr. Ketcham, followed by prayer. Among the offerings was a sheaf of wheat presented by the teachers of Trinity Reformed Sunday School and a sickle by the scholars of Messrs. John H. and Daniel Van Winkle's Sunday School classes, both of which were very appropriate. Of the living descendants, thirty-three in number, thirty were present at the obsequies. At the close of the service, the remains were interred by the side of his wife in the Presbyterian Cemetery, Messrs. R. R. Field, Alex. Willett, Wm. Swaim, P. R Van Arsdale, Peter Dumont and Geo. L. Van Emburgh acting as pall-bearers.

Drowned in a Clay Pit.

About 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, the 20th, John Rummer, a waiter at The Netherwood, was drowned in the clay pit, some distance back of the Hotel, where the Scribner brick yard was formerly located. The unfortunate man with about a half-dozen of his companion waiters, having finished the duties of luncheon time, went to the pit for a bath. About and acre in extent is there flooded by the rains and possible springs, to a general depth of about four feet. Rummer could not swim, and as his companions were rollicking among themselves when they first entered the water, he waited and did not go in until the others were some distance off. It is supposed that he waded into a hole, for he sank out of sight suddenly and without a word. Mr. George Swain, a guest of the Hotel, was sitting on the bank, and first noticed the man's head come up above the surface of the water and immediately disappear. As he gazed horrified at the place he had seen him, the top of the man's head appeared once more and for the last time. Those in the water hurried to the spot, and one—an expert swimmier—dived again and again, but could not find the body although he thoroughly searched the bottom. The unfortunate man was about thirty-five years of age, and one of the most efficient and well liked of the corps of waiters. He had been married only a few years, and leaves a young wife but no children. During the Winter he kept a lodging house in Clinton Place, New York, where his wife is now living. About half-past four o'clock Mr. Miller sent for Sheriff Stiles. The latter procured a rope and some grappling irons, and with his assistants, Moses Terrell, and Daniel Schenck and Daniel Randolph, went to the clay pit and worked for nearly three hours grappling for the body from an improvised raft which they floated. David Hand, the owner of the place also worked unceasingly to recover the body, and at two different times Sheriff Stiles and his men gave up the search, but Mr. Hand continued to grapple for it. About half-past seven o'clock however, he was rewarded by bringing the body to the surface of the water, and with assistance carried it to the shore. The remains presented a ghastly appearance, the face and body being badly discolored, and blood flowed from the mouth. The body was removed to Ford & Stiles' morgue in this city, and Thursday a messenger was sent to deliver the sad news to the unfortunate man's wife in New York city. County Physician Westcott of Fanwood came up and deeming an inquest unnecessary, issued the death certificate.

—Mr. H. J. Martin of Jackson avenue, North Plainfield, lost a valuable road horse early Saturday morning.

Resolution of Appreciation.

At a meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of this city, held recently, the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That intensely interested as we are in ought which touches our hearts and homes, we, as members of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, of Plainfield, N. J., are deeply appreciative of the action taken by H. B. Baldwin, General Passenger Agent of the C. R. R. of N. J., in refusing this year to consider any applications for excursions where beer or liquor of any kind is to be sold; and we desire to express to him in this way the gratitude of many a wife, mother and sister.

July 14, 1887.

A Mining Company of Plainfielders.

There has just been organized a company of Plainfield capitalists, who are the owners of extensive tracts of land in Virginia and Kentucky, for the purpose of mining and lumbering. The title is The Cumberland Mining and Lumbering Co., and its capital stock is placed at $200,000. Its incorporators are Mr. Jacob Kirkner, President of the Board of Education; Fire Commissioner William H. Brower; ex-City Physician John T. Fritts; M. D.: Seymour G. Smith, Esq., of Central avenue, and Mr. William C. Kelly, a large owner of business property on Park avenue. Besides these, a number of wealthy and far-sighted citizens are interested as stockholders to a great extent. The objects of the Company are: mining and lumbering; the buying and selling of real estate; the developing and improving of mineral and lumber lands; the preparing for commercial uses, iron, coal and other minerals, and lumber; and the conveying of the same to market.

WESTFIELD.

Mrs. Isaac L. Scudder and her mother, Mrs. Frazee Hetfield, are sojourning at Ocean Grove, for two weeks.

Among recent patents issued, was one to Dr. Sherman Cooper of this town for an improved suspensory bandage.

Benjamin H. Woodruff has broken ground for a three story brick store on Broad street adjoining the truck house.

Doctor Bayard is feeling very bad over the loss of a fine shade tree adjoining his house on Orchard street. The severe wind and rain last week having blown it down.

The valuation of the real and personal property of Westfield Township for the year 1887 is $795,000, an increase of $37,000 over last year. The county tax is $4,492.90, and State school tax is $1,917. The county tax is $520 less than last year.

Several small children have had narrow escapes from being injured by the practice of some of our wheelmen in riding their wheels upon our main side walks. This should be discontinued, before some of the children receive injuries that may be fatal.

Westfield Township, under the supervision of our Town Committee, has about completed the North avenue improvement towards Cranford. We now have as fine a section of crushed stone road as any in the county. Mr. Robert Woodruff, Jr., had charge of the work.

On Monday, 18th, Mrs. Nancy Baker, aged 98 years, and who owns a small farm in our Township, engaged a neighbor to cut the grass on her farm with a mowing machine, but she herself was in the field for a number of hours with a scythe and stick cutting the grass near the fences which the machine failed to reach. We doubt whether there is a woman of her age in the State who is as able and does as much work as Mrs. Baker.

There are a number of complaints about the condition of the road bed in District No. 9, it being that portion of Broad street lying south of the railroad, between Osborne and Scotch Plains avenues. The Overseer for a number of years past has spent most of the road money on South avenue. The road bed on Broad street has flattened out. It needs raising at least one foot and the gutters cleaned out, so that the water will have a free passage and not lay in the center of the road as it has for the past week.

Under the direction of the clergymen of the various denominations in this place, a large tent, 40x80 feet, with seating capacity of over 400, has been erected and gospel meetings will be held at least once a week. The pastors want to reach the masses, who seldom or never go to church. As one of the pastors tersely puts it, they will preach the "old gospel truths with the modern incrustations knocked off." A short vocal and instrumental praise service will be held at every meeting. Rev. Mr. Folwell, of the Baptist church; Rev. Mr. Patton, of the Congregational church, and Rev. Mr. Owen, of the Methodist Episcopal church, worked with their coats off in erecting the tent.

NEW MARKET.

Mrs. Stanley Day, accompanied by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. George W. Day, and her son, Mr. Charles S. Day, left last week for Canada—paying a visit to her daughter, Mrs. A. E. Ahrens.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Mr. Peter Frazer has received the contract for the mason work on the new club house of the Fanwood Amusement Company, and Messrs. Boorman & Co., are the carpenters. Ground has been broken for the building on South avenue, opposite the depot.

The Fanwood Stone Crushing company have received and are now placing in position at their works on the mountain side back of Scotch Plains, a large "Gates" stone crusher of one hundred tons, daily capacity, which will be run by a fifty horse power engine. The whole plant is being set up under the direction of Chas. Mooney, than whom there is no more competent and thorough mechanic in this State.

The "World" Wrong Again.

A rather inaccurate statement was published on Saturday in the New York World and copied into a local paper respecting Netherwood Chapel affairs. Among other things, reference was made to an alleged conference between "the residents of Netherwood and the rector and officers of Grace church, Plainfield," at which, it was stated, the decision to form a diocesan mission at Netherwood was agreed upon. There has been only one such conference held, which was duly noted in THE PRESS, but a final adjustment of the matter, as we then stated, was not arrived at. Since then further negotiations have been in progress, but the Netherwood people have had no official notice of any decision of Grace church in the case.

Successful Transfer of Bass.

Commissioner William Wright of Newark, stocked Lake Carvaljo, at Lakewood, Ocean county, recently, with several hundred black bass which were transported from Greenwood Lake, in charge of two men who constantly aerated the water and cooled it with ice. The fish were nine hours in transit and during the whole of this time the temperature of the air was above 90 degrees. Five changes of cars were made in the ninety miles between the lake and Lakewood. The bass were delivered in fine condition, only one dead fish being found in the cans. The bass were kept in a spring water pond for several days before shipment. Commissioner Wright is zealous in his endeavors to fulfill the duties of his office, by stocking the waters of the State with black bass. He is a Wright man in the right place.

In the New Colony.

Upon and around the site of the Pond Tool Works, near Grant avenue station, building of all kinds is being carried on. About the factory itself, a large force of men are pushing the work of erection along very rapidly. Mr. John R. Moore, treasurer and manager of the Land Improvement company, with Mr. Wm. C. Ayres, the company's representative in Plainfield, visited the spot Tuesday, 19th. They made a tour of inspection of the company's possessions in the vicinity and decided to begin the construction of at least twenty cottages at once, but did not locate them. These cottages will be of a style and finish that will attract and please the taste of the high-class of machinists that are connected with such works, and at the same time not be beyond the reach of their incomes. Mr. C. J. Noel has already completed some pretty little dwellings of the kind, and has almost finished a three-story brick building, containing apartment flats above, and two stores below that are leased to two of our enterprising merchants. The building is 32x42, located most eligibly at the intersection of South Second and West Third streets, and when completed will be quite an addition to that part of the city. The Hospital Governors have come to an agreement with Mr. Noel, by which the latter, who purchased the whole tract adjoining, sells to the Hospital Board, 237 feet to add to their grounds.

LIST OF ADVERTISED LETTERS.

REMAINING IN PLAINFIELD POST OFFICE FOR WEEK ENDING JULY 29, 1887.

Aldrich, A Mrs	Hagerty, M T Mrs
Achin, Augusta Miss	Hart, Lena Miss
Bertorn, John	Lewis, A H
Burnett, C M Miss	Muller, Otto
Brand, Eliza Miss	Moore, Anna Miss
Bowers, Agnes B Mrs	Murwich, H J
Baldwin, Asa	Nicholson, Mr
Bule, C Dr	Nourrie, Cath Mrs
Caedmas, Martha Mrs	Rose & Co
Cain, Sarah Miss	Runion, Mary E Miss
Canaran, Annie E Miss	Read, M & H
Clack, J B	Terrer, Sire
Gerbhart, Susie Miss	Tyler, N E
Gormley, Thomas	Taylor, Chas W & Sons
	Wilson, L S Mrs

Persons calling for above please say advertised.
W. L. FORCE, Postmaster.

DEATHS.

BURR—In this city, July 24, Frank Dexter, infant son of Samuel D. V. and Eveline Burr, aged 9 months and 1 day.

HUMPSTON—On Sunday, July 24, of paralysis, Mrs. Millicent Humpston, widow of the late Wm. Humpston, aged 90 years, 6 months, 10 days.

MARTIN—On Sunday, July 24, of cholera infantum, Susie May, infant daughter of Frederick H. and Susan B. Martin, aged 6 weeks.

VAN WINKLE—In North Plainfield, on Saturday, July 23d, 1887, of paralysis, Daniel G. Van Winkle, aged 85 years, 5 months and 9 days.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

FORD & STILES,
Funeral Directors
and Practical Embalmers.
Office, Warerooms and Residence
No. 14 EAST FRONT STREET.
Telephone Call No. 44.
GEO. C. FORD. GEO. M. STILES

A. M. RUNYON & SON,
Undertakers and Embalmers,
60 Park avenue.
Telephone Call 40.
RESIDENCE—48 Madison avenue
Telephone Call 37.
"Office of Hillside Cemetery."

P. CASEY & SON,
UNDERTAKERS.
Office, No. 1 Somerset st.; Residence, No. 11 Third street, corner New, Plainfield, N. J. Everything pertaining to the business always on hand, and lower than any other firm in the State. All Calls Promptly Answered day or Night.—o15y1

WANTS and INFORMATION

25 Cents for one insertion of 5 lines. Each additional line, 5 cents extra. Fifteen cents for each subsequent insertion of each.

TO RENT—AT WESTFIELD, NEW JERSEY, "Seven Oaks" cottage on South avenue, the direct drive to Netherwood and Plainfield. The house is modern in style, contains nine rooms and large cellar and attic, is about twelve minutes walk from station, and stands in the midst of a beautiful grove of native trees. There is about four acres of land, part of which is in garden and orchard. Rent, $300. For further particulars inquire on the premises of SAMUEL HARRIS. 7-15-w3

100,000 CELERY PLANTS FOR SALE. JOHN TINGLEY, Dunellen, N. J. 7-9-w3

FOR SALE—IN MORRIS COUNTY, SIX MILES from Summit, a good farm of 97 acres, suitable for raising grain, hay or truck; 15 minutes walk from Berkeley Heights R. R. station, on the D. and R. R. R. Address D. E. TOWNLEY, Berkeley Heights, N. J. jy7m1

A SMALL PLEASANT ROOM TO LET WITH board. Location near depot. Terms reasonable. Private family. Apply at THIS OFFICE.—m6tf

STORAGE—First-class accommodations in newly partitioned rooms. All thoroughly cleaned and free from vermin. Separate rooms if desired. Apply at Pope's hat store, or of owner, M. Vanarsdale. Two baggage for sale cheap.—jan3tf

WANTED—AN INTELLIGENT ACTIVE BOY about 15 or 16 years old. Address in own handwriting stating name, age, and where previously employed. P. O. BOX 21. m17tf

MISCELLANEOUS.

TO FRANK MORTIMER REDDINGTON CASEY.

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey made on the 6th day of the date hereof in a cause wherein Mary Odora Casey is petitioner and you are defendant, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the petitioner's petition, on or before the twenty-seventh day of September next, or the said petition will be taken as confessed against you.

The said petition is filed against you for a divorce from the bond of matrimony.

JACKSON & CODINGTON,
Solicitors of Petitioner.
Cor. of Park ave. and 2d st., Plainfield, N. J.
Dated the twenty-sixth day of July, eighteen hundred and eighty-seven. jy27w4

PROPOSALS FOR COAL.

Sealed proposals will be received by either of the undersigned until Saturday, July 30th inst., for best quality Lehigh Coal, say 110 Chestnut and 65 tons Furnace, the same to be properly screened, and delivered free of expense within the Public School Buildings of the city, at such time as the Board of Education may direct. Bids to specify whether short or long tons. The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

175 TONS

By order of the Board of Education.
NATHAN HARPER,
LOUIS F. WADSWORTH,
Special Committee.
Plainfield, N. J., July 18, 1887. jy27w2

THE ORIENT GUANO MANUFACTURING CO.
OFFICE,
16 & 18 Exchange Place, N. Y.
"Orient Works" at Orient, Long Island.
Manufacture SULPHURIC ACID, FISH OIL,
Dissolved BONE, Acidulated & Dried FISH SCRAP and HIGH GRADE Chemical Fertilizers
Our facilities and advantages entitle us to the claim to one can produce better or cheaper goods than ourselves, considering the quality. We want some well qualified Local and General Agents in New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Send for our Circular, and correspond with us. All good farmers should compete for our $100 premium for the best field (not less than 5 acres) planted with our fertilizers. Entries close 1st Oct. Agricultural Society committee to judge.

OWNS AND OPERATES OVER
6,000 Miles
OF PERFECTLY CONSTRUCTED RAILWAY.
PENETRATES THE BEST PORTIONS OF ILLINOIS, IOWA, WISCONSIN, MICHIGAN, MINNESOTA, DAKOTA, NEBRASKA, and WYOMING.
CHICAGO AND NORTHWESTERN RAILWAY
Running Express Trains of most complete and modern equipment BETWEEN CHICAGO AND MILWAUKEE, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS, COUNCIL BLUFFS, OMAHA.
THE IRON REGIONS OF MICHIGAN.
THE FREE LANDS OF DAKOTA AND NORTHERN NEBRASKA.
THE ONLY LINE TO THE BLACK HILLS.
THE PIONEER LINE TO CALIFORNIA.
For maps, time tables, and information in the fullest detail, address (mentioning this paper)
H. A. GROSS, Trave lling Agt., Lancaster, Pa
MARVIN HUGHITT, President. H. C. WICKER, Traffic Manager. E. P. WILSON, Gen. Pass. Agt.

Carney Bros.,
PRACTICAL
Plumbers, Tinners & Gas Fitters.
Heaters, Ranges and Stoves.
Dealers in all kinds of Stoves, Heaters and Ranges. Repairs for all kinds of Stoves constantly on hand. Stoves, Heaters and Ranges put in order under our personal supervision by first-class workmen. Don't fail to have them inspected as it will save expenses later on.
The Economic Gas Engine.
This little Gas Engine may be daily seen in operation in our window pumping 250 gallons of water per hour at the small cost of two cents. In a number of prominent residences we have put in these Motors and in every case we have unqualified endorsements of them.
Our Sanitary Plumbing
Department is, as it always has been, under our own direction, and our work in this branch in past years is the only recommendation we court. While we employ good workmen we use none but the best of materials and our patrons are always assured of a good job at a very reasonable price.
We Guarantee Our Work.
We are under many obligations to our numerous patrons of the past for their work and their unsolicited recommendation of the same to their friends, and we will endeavor to merit a continuance of the friendly relations heretofore and now existing by doing only first-class work
7 and 9 Somerset street.

WERNER'S
—ONE PRICE—
Clothing House!
Spring Opening!
COME AND SEE US IN OUR
NEW STORE,
NO. 30 W. FRONT STREET.
JUST RECEIVED.
The Newest Styles
OF SPRING GOODS
—IN—
OVERCOATS and SUITS
—FOR—
MEN, BOYS AND CHILDREN.
AND IN NECKWEAR AND GENT'S FURNISHING GOODS,
which we will gladly show you, even though you do not want to buy. Goods all fresh and new and we are confident we can please you. Call and see us anyhow. Polite salesmen. No trouble to show goods.
WERNER'S
CLOTHING HOUSE,
NO 30 WEST FRONT STREET,

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS. NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Pure Wines and Liquors,
Persons desirous of procuring Pure Liquors for Family use are requested to call, as my goods are of the choicest brands, while the prices are lower than those charged by first-class grocers in the larger cities, and quality superior.
E. P. THORN, 17 PARK AVENUE.
None but the best is offered and the National and European reputation of the different brands of Ales, Wines, Beers, Liquors, etc., is a guarantee, and a liberal public endorsement the result, of this carefully selected mellow stock.
NO EXTRA CHARGE TO

CITY DEPARTMENT.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST, - - City Editor.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE OF MAILS

NEW YORK MAILS

CLOSE—8.00 and 10.00 A. M.; 2.00 and 5.30 P. M.
ARRIVE—7.30, 9.30, 11.45 A. M.; 2.00 and 5.30 P. M.

SOMERVILLE, BOUND BROOK, &c., MAILS.

CLOSE—9.30 A. M. and 4.30 P. M.
ARRIVE—8.30 A. M. and 6.10 P. M.

SUNDAY MAILS—Arrive at 5.10 A. M. Office open from 9.00 A. M. to 10.00 A. M. Mail closes at 7 P. M.

Mail for Warrenville closes Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 12 M.

Post Office opens at 7 A. M. and closes at 7.30 P. M. Saturdays, closes at 8.00 P. M. Open every evening until 8.30 P. M., to owners of lock boxes.

Money order office open from 8 A. M. to 5 P. M. Saturdays to 6 P. M.

W. L. FORCE, Postmaster.

—Already one month of the vacation has passed and the scholars of the public school are not yet tired of it.

—The monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held in Reform Hall, on Tuesday, Aug. 2nd, at three, p. m.

—William Traynor who was committed to the Somerville Jail recently for sixty days, was released Thursday, on account of illness.

—The Y. M. C. A. camp in Upper New York State broke up on the 20th, and the campers returned home on the following day.

—The Singing Section of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein will have an excursion to New Brunswick, Sunday, the 31st inst. They have invited their friends and their families.

—During the hot weather but one service is held in the Church of the Holy Cross on Sunday. Rev. T. Logan Murphy, the rector, preached a forcible sermon in that church Sunday forenoon.

—At a regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. of Westfield, held last week, the following motion was made and carried: "That we work together as a band of Christian women, non-partizan, non-sectarian."

—The regular monthly meeting of the Plainfield Building Loan Association was held in Cutter's Hall, Monday. Dues to the amount of $1,200 were paid in and business of a routine nature transacted.

—A little insignificant item in a newspaper will oftentimes make a man an enemy to the paper for life. But it won't stop him from reading it. It merely changes him from a subscriber to a borrower.

—The members of the Fire Board who met as Commissioners of Appeal, on the 20th, allowed but four claims for incorrect assessment of fire taxes. This again proves how universally satisfactory are Assessor Hubbard's valuations and assessments.

—The Roselle Electric Light company, would not object to lighting Westfield by electricity, but as the Plainfield company is one of the best equipped companies of the kind in the State, it will probably receive the contract when the Westfield people are ready.

—In the case of Robert Simpson vs. Mayor Cooley and Marshal Becker, the defendants with their Counsel John H. Jackson appeared before Justice Wadsworth for trial Tuesday last. Corporation Counsel Marsh was not ready and the case was on his application adjourned one week.

—It is said of a number of young ladies who reside in the Second ward, not far from Cedar brook, that one evening recently they dressed up as gypsies, and went about from house to house telling fortunes. They did not, however, escape the of a Press reporter, who is responsible for this item.

—Mr. Harry C. Munger led the Young Men's Meeting in the Y. M. C. A. Hall, Monday last. The hall was delightfully cool, and each young man grasped a palm leaf fan and only relinquished his hold to wipe the perspiration from his brow. Nevertheless the meeting was interesting and instructive throughout.

—The young gentleman of East Fifth street, who makes life hideous by his accordeonic performances, stands a good chance of being shot in the neck, just now. A correspondent writes us the musician is playing "White Wings" on earth, at present, but that in the sweet subsequently he will be wearing black ones in Hades.

—The Palermos and their peanut cart again occupied their accustomed place at the corner of Front street and Park avenue, Saturday evening. Since they brutally beat old Mr. Stewart and his wife, a week ago, their patronage has greatly decreased, most people desiring to patronize law-abiding citizens rather than those who are disposed to be quarrelsome.

—Mr. Robert Jahn, formerly connected with the establishment of A. M. Griffen, has opened a shop of his own as advertised elsewhere. He is prepared to do all kinds of sheet metal work, and refers for evidence of his ability to the cornices of The Crescent building, McIntyre's block on North avenue, and many other specimens of his artistic ability in that direction.

—The Van Depoele Electric railway at Elizabeth is making very favorable progress in obtaining the consent of property owners along the line of the proposed route. Signatures from unexpected quarters have been obtained and the people generally favor the enterprise. It is also a fact that property reached by the road, but formerly out of the way, has already advanced fifty per cent. in value.

—A lad named Neill from Elizabeth was arrested by Constable Smith, Monday afternoon for stealing rides on coal trains. Justice Nash fined him three dollars. The practice of jumping on and off trains by boys in this city, is greatly on the increase, and notwithstanding the repeated warnings the boys have, they still continue to indulge in the dangerous habit. Nearly every one will uphold the officers in their endeavor to put an end to such business.

—A young man from this city who is boarding out as advertisement at Asbury Park, became infatuated with seven of the young ladies on the Baptist excursion Friday, and before they left, declared that he must have their likenesses to ponder over after they returned to Plainfield. Accordingly a photographer was intimidated into loading his camera, and, after using much persuasion to keep the young ladies from giggling, he eventually pulled the cap and got—a picture. Total cost, $3.

—Nothing definite has been heard from the Italian, who took a prominent part in the brutal clubbing affray in Stiger Alley on Monday, and some people are disposed to think that it will be just as well for all hands if he is never heard from. It is said that Palermo left Italy for a similar attack on a fellow being, which resulted fatally. His wife and two of his children were safely lodged in jail at Elizabeth yesterday, and the fall crop of peanuts will probably be ripe when they are released.

—At The Netherwood this evening, Mr. Alfred Young will give a parlor entertainment of dramatic recitals, with interludes of comedy sketches. He is a young actor who is commended to the public as a "graceful and unaffected elocutionist, whose work on the reading platform will be found to have an original flavor of its own, and whose repertory, made up from the brightest and best in current and standard literature, will be appreciatdd by those who enjoy a refined, unbeknowyed entertainment."

Personalia.

Mrs. J. J. Heidelloff has gone to Asbury Park for some weeks.

Miss Annie Ward of New Brunswick, is visiting friends in this city.

Mrs. John D. Runyon and sister, Miss Annie Boice, are at Asbury Park.

Mr. E. B. Clark is stopping at the Mansion House, White Lake, N. Y.

Miss Crane of California, is visiting her cousin, Miss Addie Gardner of Central avenue.

Miss Florence Randolph has returned from a three weeks' visit with relatives at Stratford, Conn.

Mrs. F. C. Green, and daughter, Carrie, have returned from their Summer outing at the seashore.

Sheriff George M. Stiles and family left town Monday for a little recreation at Bridgeport, Conn.

Mr. S. H. Whitney, with his wife and little daughter, left last Friday for the Pocono Mountains.

Mr. Charles J. Noel, of West Third street, is the father of a bouncing baby boy, since Sunday week.

Mrs. Seymour G. Smith and son of Central avenue, are summering in the Northern part of New York State.

Hon. J. W. Yates, wife and Miss Cathie Yates are at the Rip Van Winkle House, Pine Hill, Ulster County, N. Y.

Mr. E. L. Suffern, wife and family, of Kensington avenue, left on the 20th for a six weeks absence in the codfish State.

The Misses Christini and Edith Yawger, of Brooklyn, are visiting friends in North Plainfield, where they formerly resided.

Gov. and Mrs. Green are to be the guests of Col. and Mrs. E. H. Wright, of Newark, at their Summer residence New London, Conn.

Among those registered at the Spray View Hotel at Ocean Grove are Edwin Loomis and family and D. F. Knight and family of this city.

The Point Pleasant correspondent to the New York World, locates Mr. John Mortimer and family, of this city, at the Land's End Hotel.

Mr. Eugene V. Lorton and family are capping at Ocean Grove for the Summer. They have taken a tent with Counsellor Walter Hetfield and family.

Mr. Willard Force, formerly connected with the establishment of H. P. Reynolds, has just been given the position of head clerk of one of the principal pharmacies of Newark.

Mr. T. B. Green, Secretary of the Home Insurance company of New York, who always spends his Summers in Plainfield, is now with his wife stopping at the residence of Mr. R. MacDonald.

Mr. Charles Powlison, the gentlemanly clerk in Mr. M. Estil's stationery store on Park avenue, will, on September 1st, go to Springfield, Mass., where he will enter for a Y. M. C. A. training course.

Among the seashore sojourners at Asbury Park, are Councilman and Mrs. S. St. J. McCutchen, of North Plainfield, and Miss Marsh, a sister of the latter, who have registered at The Berkeley.

Even the best cyclers will sometime take a header. Mr. Fred W. Yates, of Seventh street, promiscuously but as gracefully as ever, fell all over the fence at Peace and Fifth streets, Saturday.

The Misses Woodland of Somerset street, have taken rooms at Ocean Beach for the rest of the Summer. They left for there Saturday, accompanied by their brothers, Messrs. Charles and Elston Woodland.

Mr. Chas Smith, who recently purchased of D. S. Berry, the property on Craig Place, near Duer street, is setting an example for others to follow, by flagging the sidewalks and curbing the gutters in front of said property.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Dorman, their son Ferdie and daughter, Miss Lilian, of Central avenue, left on Monday for a five week's sojourn at Lake George, after which they will go to Bar Harbor, Me., for the remainder of the season.

A subscriber sends us the following: "Mrs. V. Palermo and Miss Palermo of Stiger alley, left the city on the 20th morning for a season at Hotel de Breen, Elizabeth. Mr. Palermo started for the mountains during Monday of last week."

Chauncey M. Field, M. D., of this city, sailed Saturday by the Inman steamer for Europe where he will remain for the rest of the season. Dr. Field will probably take up his residence at Paris, or in its vicinity, and, by thorough rest regain his general good health.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Davis of Ninth street will shortly go into camp at Lake Hopatcong with a number of other members of the Sit Kat Club and their wives. This club is celebrated in art circles of the country, for the remarkable individual talents of all its members.

Mr. and Mrs. Embly Stewart, the aged couple who were brutally beaten by the Italians in Stiger alley, recently, are now rapidly recovering from the effects of their injuries. The wounds are healing, and to-day the patients are pronounced out of danger by the attending physician.

Louis F., the six-months-old infant son of Louis and Louise Miller of Netherwood Heights, died of cholera infantum, Friday. Rev. E. M. Rodman conducted the funeral service from the house at 3.30 o'clock Saturday afternoon last. Interment was had in the Presbyterian cemetery in North Plainfield.

Col. Dietrich has lost from his private ponds a handsome Turkish carp, of about nine pounds, that has been in his possession many years. It was so tame with its owner, it ate the crumbs from his hand, and recognized him at sight. The Colonel believes that some night hawk (without wings) has hooked the fish.

Mr. David Roach, formerly of this city, has been lying seriously ill for the past six weeks, in St. Luke's Hospital, New York. Mr. Roach, for many years past, has been a trusted family retainer of the late William H. Vanderbilt and his surviving wife. He was taken ill just as he was about leaving with the family for their usual Summer trip.

Mr. Justice Bradley recently handed down his opinion in the case of the Celluloid Manufacturing company, represented by Rowland Cox, Esq., of this city, against the Cellonite Manufacturing company, in favor of the former. His conclusion is that the complainant is entitled to an injunction against the defendant's use of the name "Cellonite Manufacturing Company." He thinks such use would deceive incautious purchasers and lead them to suppose they were purchasing the goods of the "Celluloid" company.

While Mr. W. L. Gavett was absent on his recent trip to Manchester-by-the-sea, Roxbury, and other Eastern resorts, he saw in Boston at the office of the inventor, a model of a street railroad that is to be started at Washington, D. C., in a few months. The propelling power is created in pneumatic tubes, but the passenger cars are not confined in these tubes themselves. An attachment to the car is made to fit air-tight in the tubes, and is forced at any degree of rapidity through them like a ball in a putty-blower.

"Uncle John" Dunning, who has been visiting friends here, recently received a letter from his son Will—a graduate of our High School, and one of its greatest honors—who is camping in the Adirondacks. Young Mr. Dunning writes that the weather is perfect, and rejoices over the fact that he has caught a real trout. It weighed fully a quarter of a pound, and the tackle used cost about six dollars. Other expenses incident brought the price of the fish within a few cents of twenty dollars, and proves how valuable a fish Mr. Will Dunning did catch.

Mrs. Robert Manning is at Ocean Beach.

Mrs. Aborn of Seventh street, is at the Clifton House, Asbury Park.

Miss Florence Titsworth is visiting friends at Havestraw, N. Y.

Hon. Job Male has so far recovered from his recent illness as to be able to go out.

Dr. David Godfrey Atwood leaves this week for a month among the Thousand Islands.

Miss Kitty Case of Ninth street has returned from Brooklyn, where she has been visiting friends.

Miss Nettie French of East Fifth street, is at the Victoria, Asbury Park, with her friend Miss Newell.

Mr. James L. Anthony of Netherwood is home again after a brief but most enjoyable trip to Europe.

Mrs. George Polhemus and family, of North Plainfield, are spending the Summer in Washington Valley.

Mr. Andrew McKinney of Park avenue, is registered at the Catskill House, Catskill mountains, New York.

Miss Carrie Dewey of West Fifth street, is enjoying a few week's recreation at Pine Bush, in New York State.

Miss Bennett of Framingham, Mass., formerly a teacher here, is visiting Miss Lillian Newman of Fifth street.

Miss Pearle J. Herzig, who has been spending some weeks at the Park House, left Friday for a visit to Red Bank.

Miss Kitty Manning of Front street, and Miss May Sandford of Seventh street, are at the Ocean House, Asbury Park.

Miss K. F. Newell, Mrs. T. Newell and Mrs. E. Van Dorn, all of this city, are registered at The Victoria, Asbury Park.

Mr. and Mrs. James Scott of West Seventh street and Plainfield avenue, were presented with a young son, Friday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Bushnell of East Second street, have gone to Asbury Park for a month, stopping at the Grand Central Hotel.

Councilman T. J. Carey and family of Central avenue, left Monday for a month's visit at Bedminister, Somerset county, New Jersey.

Mrs. R. C. Fisher and the Misses Fisher of West Fourth street, are reported among the recent arrivals at the Norman House, Ocean Grove.

An infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Martin, of North Plainfield, died Sunday of cholera infantum. The little one was but six weeks old.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Marshall, of Park avenue, returned from Saratoga on Saturday, where they have been spending a week or two for the benefit of their health.

In a few weeks, Mr. Frank J. Hubbard of Fifth street, expects to go West for about a year—not particularly to grow up with the country, but to seek health and recreation.

Rev. Father T. J. O'Hanlon, pastor of St. Joseph's church, was taken suddenly ill just before the second mass Sunday morning, and consequently no service was held. To-day he is reported as improving.

Mr. Herman Force, formerly Superintendent of the Oil Cloth works, left Tuesday for Westchester county, New York, ostensibly to attend camp meeting, but probably to catch on the fish of the fresh water streams thereabouts.

Frank Dexter, the nine-months-old infant son of Samuel D. V. and Eveline Burr, of West Second street, died Sunday. The child's death resulted from an attack of cholera infantum, with which it was taken ill some days before.

The young ladies from this city who attend school at Wellesley College, Mass., will regret to learn that Miss Freeman, the estimable President of that institution, has resigned her position to take unto herself a life partner in the person of Prof. Palmer, an instructor in Harvard College.

Addison L. Laing, with his wife and son, are the guests, for a few days, of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Homan of West Fifth street. Mr. Laing was formerly a resident here, being an employee in the Central Times office. At present he is residing in Brooklyn, and is employed on the Eagle.

Among those at Asbury Park this Summer, are noticed a number from our Evona suburb. They include Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Fish, Misses Ellen and Emma Fish, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Lewis, Mrs. Oscar Stevens and Miss Kitty Manning. Mrs. A. W. Fish has just returned after a two weeks sojourn.

Mr. E. Wood Perry, of New Orleans, La., is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Capt. A. D. Holmes, of East Fifth street. Mr. Perry is the father of the celebrated artist, E. Wood Perry, Jr., one of whose works loaned for the occasion, excited so much admiration at the opening of the Job Male Art Gallery.

Mr. George Thatcher, of the well-known Thatcher, Primrose and West Minstrel Combination, left Westfield, his home, on Saturday, to open up at Milwaukee on the 30th instant. The Company will visit this city during September, when the members will undoubtedly be greeted with a crowded house.

The funeral of the late John Rummer, the waiter at Netherwood, who was drowned in a clay pit on Wednesday, took place from St. Mary's church at ten a. m., Monday. Rev. Father Smyth conducted the services, and besides the wife of the deceased, and some of the relatives, Rev. Father Gennes of New York city was present. The service was short but impressive, and at the close the body was interred in St. Mary's cemetery.

The remains of the late Mary A. Crane, the aged mother of L. V. F. Randolph, Esq., were brought to this city, Saturday afternoon, and deposited in the First Baptist Cemetery. The Rev. Dr. Yerkes conducted a brief burial service at the grave, in the midst of a severe rain storm that prevented most of those present from leaving the carriages. The deceased was also the aunt of Mr. T. E. F. Randolph of New York, a large holder of Plainfield real estate.

Mr. John C. Van Dyke of this city was much but most agreeably surprised to receive a check for $50, recently, from his employers, a wealthy firm of cigar manufacturers. The cause was that the firm had offered a prize to each of the three salesmen selling the largest number of cigars within a certain period, and Mr. Van Dyke was one who had won. He is so genial and popular that his cigars almost sell themselves, and he was consequently surprised at his own success.

The Sunday News of Altoona, Pa., says: "About one of the most gentlemanly and genial traveling men we ever met, is Mr. Charles Wann, general agent for the Union Fire Alarm Company, of New York. Mr. Wann has been in our city for several weeks, and during his sojourn has added quite a number of our best citizens to his list of friends and acquaintances. The Union company is to be congratulated on having such a thorough gentleman to represent their interests throughout the country."

John Hammond, the gardener for Mr. A. D. Shepard, at Scotch Plains, who was struck by lightning while seeking shelter from a thunder shower under a tree near Coles' hill on Saturday, the 16th inst., has recovered sufficiently to return to work. James Moore, the coachman for Mr. Shepard, says that many persons believing he was the man who was struck by lightning, have called at his house to make inquiries regarding his condition. Mr. Moore says the lightning did not injure him in any way, and he requests that we publish this item so that his friends will know that he is in perfect health.

TUESDAY NIGHT'S STORM.

Dams Break Away—Bridges Swept Down the Streams Like Chaff in the Wind—Narrow Escape of a Woman and Two Children—The Loss Cannot be Estimated, But Will Aggregate Thousands of Dollars.

The severe rain storm which set in soon after midnight Wednesday, was undoubtedly the heaviest of the season, and the amount of damage done in some respects will exceed that done by the storm five years ago, the coming September. While it lasted, for over an hour, the shower was heavier than any experienced in this city for many years past, and some of the older inhabitants declare that it was the severest they have ever witnessed. All during yesterday afternoon heavy black clouds passed over the city, with an occasional rainfall, but soon after the heavens brightened up, only to be followed by another shower, and an additional fall of rain. During the day the heat was very oppressive, and notwithstanding the immense amount of rain that fell, the atmosphere was but little changed, and some people were obliged to fan themselves to sleep, so hot was their bedchamber. About one o'clock the storm broke forth with renewed vigor, and for over an hour the rain came down in torrents, completely submerging many of the streets. Lightning flashed incessantly, and there were several heavy claps of thunder, but in this immediate locality no serious damage by the lightning has at yet been reported. The dam at Seeley's Mill, near Feltville, gave way, wrecking a portion of the building and damaging the stock and machinery to the extent of several thousand dollars. The immense volume of water from the mill pond flowed into Green Brook, swelling that stream so as to make it resemble a huge river. All along the line between Scotch Plains and this city the banks of the stream were overflown, small bridges gave way to the watery element, and at many places the debris was piled high up on the banks, several hundred yards from the course of the stream. The beautiful lawns of John Taylor Johnston and other residents on East Front street were completely flooded, and many choice plants and flowers, rustic seats and Summer houses were demolished and swept away. A foot bridge back of Mr. Charles Hyde's residence was carried away. Trees were uprooted and fences sent whirling down the stream. The approach of the water was heralded in this city some little time before it arrived, and soon afterward the water in Tier's lake raised several feet. The great pressure of water broke through the bank a few feet from the dam on the North Plainfield side, and this somewhat relieved the great strain on the dam. The race-bank also broke through in several places, through which minature rivers flowed, emptying into Green Brook. The Grove street bridge was slightly damaged, and at John W. Laing's livery stable the horses were all removed to a place of safety when the water became so high that it was considered dangerous to leave them in the stable. Mr. P. M. French succeeded in removing all of his live stock, with the exception of one horse, which it was found impossible to reach as the water was then up to the animal's shoulders as it stood in the stall. A large willow tree, evidently of many years growth, washed down the stream and lodged against the abutments under the Somerset street bridge. Cedar Brook was also greatly swollen, but so far as known all of the bridges remained intact, and outside of the loss to crops, fences, etc., the damage will be light.

IN WASHINGTON VALLEY.

the damage by the storm was far greater than in this city. People who reside in the Notch say that the rainfall did not appear to be so great, but the thunder and lightning was terrific. Like the residents of this city, all were thoroughly frightened, and several narrow escapes from drowning are reported from that locality. At one o'clock this morning the water in Stony brook, which runs through Washington Valley and winding through the Notch passes on through North Plainfield and Dunellen, was raised but little more than usual. Half an hour afterward the water raised fully twenty feet, flooding Somerset street to a depth of three feet. The cause of this sudden rising was the giving away of the dam at Stiles' saw mill in the Valley, where great damage was done. The dam near Andrew Wilson's place next gave way, increasing the immense volume of water to an alarming extent, and when the flood reached Spencer's cider mill, where several smaller streams flow into Stony Brook at that point, the noise made by the rushing water is said to have been deafening. Mr Spencer's house which stands on a knoll was flooded to a depth of several feet, and all the inmates were driven from the place, this being the fourth time they have had similar experiences. The large wooden bridge at this point was carried away as was also the one leading to French's mill in the Notch. The Washingtonville school house was flooded, so that this morning about a foot of mud remains in the school rooms. On the water rushed madly, carrying with it debris of all descriptions. At Demler's Hotel the sudden rush of the water was noticed about 1:30 o'clock. Mr. Demler experienced some difficulty in rescuing his live stock, and he was obliged to anchor his well curb with ropes to keep it from floating away, and in order to tell where the well was located. A short distance below Demler's hotel, at Wetumpka Falls, is situated the Wilson stone-cracker. Here the dam at the Falls remained in position, but about fifty feet of the roadway was washed out and the bank badly undermined, so that some portions of the roadway are hardly passable. All of the top dressing of stone which were put on Somerset street when that thoroughfare was macadamized several years ago, was washed off, so that the road is now in a very rough state for a long distance, and several thousand dollars will be required to put it in as good condition again. Probably the greatest damage done along the line of the stream was at Messrs. J. W. & H. Coddington's place, a few hundred yards below the falls. Here are situated the extensive flouring mills, ice houses and stables of the Coddington Brothers, and but a few yards North of the ice houses is another dam. This, strange to say, did not give way, but the water broke out at either end of the dam, tearing away rods upon rods of earth, and washing deep gullies in the banks. On the opposite side of the street is the beautiful villa of Mr. Frederick Chase, and in front of his residence the sidewalk and gutters are damaged to the extent of $100. The West corner of Coddington's ice house was undermined, but otherwise the building was uninjured. Water flowed through the mill to the depth of three or four feet, damaging a lot of flour, feed, etc., on the ground floor. Near the mill several horses were stabled, but it was considered useless to attempt to rescue them, although the animals made desperate efforts to get out. The water reached up to the top of the horse's backs, but later they were found alive, and appeared to be thankful for their release. Besides the great damage done to the Coddington Brothers' property, a bridge leading to their ice house was washed away. Mr. Coddington, however, told a PRESS reporter that he hoped to be able to go on with the delivery of ice by to-morrow. About fifty chickens belonging to the firm were washed into eternity or landed further down the stream; and an ice wagon was carried a long distance and deposited in pieces along the roadway. A half-dozen other wagons and carts belonging to the neighbors, are yet to be heard from. Near the Falls a dump-cart was overturned and left at the edge of the water, many feet below the roadbed. Mr. Coddington says his loss will probably reach $3,000, and is total.

The next object in the path of the rushing water was a large wooden bridge in front of the Wadley property on Somerset street. This was carried bodily away—nothing remaining but the foundation walls.

A THRILLING EXPERIENCE—MOTHER AND DAUGHTERS RESCUED BY MEANS OF A ROPE.

A few hundred feet below stood a two-story French roof house, which was occupied by Lewis Coddington, his wife and two daughters, Jennie Isabella aged seven years and Gracie, aged one year and eight months, the latter lying dangerously ill at the time with cholera infantum. To a reporter who called at the house this morning, Mrs. Coddington said that although they were up at the time, the first intimation they had that the water was so high was when they heard the logs striking against the beams in the cellar, some of which broke through the window on one side of the building and floated out another window. When looking out of the window, as far as the eye could see appeared to be one broad expanse of water. She says her husband was about to descend from the back stoop to see how deep the water was while the water was flowing over the platform, but she finally prevailed upon him to return. Mr. Coddington is thankful that he heeded the timely warning of his wife, for he was unable to swim a stroke, and when the water lowered it was discovered that the steps were gone, and below was a large hole ten feet in diameter and several feet deep. The entire front porch and steps were carried down stream, nearly a mile, and deposited against a tree near Green brook road and Grove street. The work of rescuing Mrs. Coddington and her children from the house was very exciting, although the elder of the two children told the reporter this morning that she "wasn't a bit scared." Messrs. W. Coddington, Adam Fritz, H. Myers and some of the other neighbors went to the rescue, and after a chalk line had been thrown to the rescuers this was fastened to a strong rope and stretched from the opposite side of the street, to the house. Mrs. Coddington and her daughter were then carried by the men, one by one, to a place of safety, and Mr. Coddington, who was the last to leave the house, then waded through the swift current and joined his family. A horse stabled in the rear of the house was left to the mercy of the waters, but the animal managed to keep his head above water and was apparently none the worse for the wetting.

At the intersection of Grove street and Green Brook road the water carried away a small bridge, so that travel at that point is greatly inconvenienced. A quarter of a mile further on, a new barn about 40x30 feet in dimensions belonging to Martin I. Cooley, of Rockview avenue, and standing in the rear of his residence was washed down the stream and totally demolished. Near it stood a frame barn belonging to Mr. George P. Dupee. This was obliterated, and no trace of the building could be found this morning. A cow, the property of Mr. Dupee, was rescued. In the Cooley barn there were two carriages (one new) and a sleigh, belonging to that gentleman, a new sleigh belonging to a Mr. Day, and a phaeton belonging to Mr. Taylor. These were all washed down the stream an eighth of a mile, and totally wrecked with the barn. The roof of the building was carried about fifty feet further and deposited high on the bank. A wagon belonging to Mr. Faber of Rockview avenue, was also carried a long distance and badly damaged. The total loss on the carriages will reach about $1,200, and the two barns were worth in the neighborhood of $500 each. The bridge crossing the creek at Rockview avenue, was lifted bodily from the foundation, and a portion of it was left in a field nearly an eighth of a mile below. The foot bridges of Messrs. Faber, Cooley and Taylor, leading to their barns, are among the missing, and Mr. Faber's barn was considerably damaged, but remained in position. Mr. D. M. Groendyke, of Mercer avenue, lost about forty panels of fence, which is the only loss he sustained. That gentleman made an attempt to ford the stream on horseback near his house this morning, so as to reach his pasture field; when in midstream the horse came in contact with a stump, and the animal had to swim to the opposite side, which was subsequently reached with much difficulty. Below the Rockview avenue bridge none of the bridges along the stream were seriously damaged, and the water passed out into the Raritan river.

The total loss, hereabouts, cannot yet be estimated, but it will in all probability aggregate thousands of dollars. Most of the damage done to bridges, will fall on Somerset county, as the line bridges in this city are thought to be but little injured.

Director Hubbard and Freeholder Vandebeck of the Union County Board of Freeholders made a thorough examination of all the county bridges Wednesday. They found that the Grove street bridge was damaged to the extent of about fifty dollars. The wing-wall on the Somerset county side had been washed loose by the flood of water, and will have to be rebuilt. All the other bridges on Green Brook from Plainfield to the city line at Dunellen were in good order, and none of the bridges on Cedar brook were damaged.

Two young lady residents whose veracity has been unquestioned—heretofore—tell a terrible tale of fear and suffering that was experienced by an aged Dutch woman and her husband, between one and two o'clock Wednesday morning. His name is Peter Schniderbeck and her's is Gretchen, and they live just over the second mountain. As the story is told—in the midst of the severest of the storm, accloud that burst above their little home almost swamped it, and flooded road and barn yard to the depth of many inches. The old man was so prostrated by the shock that he fell in a faint, while his wife hurriedly dressed and swam to the stable to release the cow that it might not be killed by the falling in of the building that was then entirely undermined by the water. On the way returning from her errand of mercy, there was a flash, a loud report of rattling musketry, and the lightning seemed to cut a deep gash in the water close to the woman's side. There was a hissing sound as the water boiled up for an instant, and a cloud of steam is said to have arisen from the spot. There was one scream from the brave Mrs. Schniderbeck, and then a dull sickening thud. In relating her experience to the young ladies who called in sympathy and charity this morning, she said, that the fire seemed to descend directly into her eyes. She thought she was struck blind, and then distinctly felt the flame pass through her entire body like lightning. One shoe was torn from her foot, and as it sunk to the bottom the sound described above was felt throughout the Township. All that was left of the shoe was brought to Plainfield in a wagon this morning, and is on exhibition at the office of THE PRESS. The young ladies who tell the story, however, escaped. They should be exhibited too.

Supplying the M. E. Pulpit.

Rev. Dr. Van Meter, pastor of the M. E. church, has gone to Mountain Lake Park, Maryland, to conduct a Sunday school Assembly. He will be absent from his pulpit two Sundays. On next Sunday the pulpit will be supplied by Rev. William Day, a former pastor, now stationed at Elizabeth; and on the following Sunday by Rev. L. Janes, of Illinois, son of the late Bishop Janes. The evening service will be omitted until September. The Sunday school meets at 2:30 p. m.

We Envy Them.

At last Elizabeth is to have an electric street railway, and it naturally rejoices greatly thereover. The city's papers say:

"Street cars to be run over an entirely new line, by electric motors, are promised to the citizens of Elizabeth by the Union Railway Company. The public are certainly to be congratulated, and particularly that portion of the city which has heretofore been without street railway accommodations, and through which the new cars are to run rapidly, safely and regularly, according to promises."

"The company has adopted the Van Depoele Electric Railway system for the operation of the road. This system has many points of superiority over other electric railway systems, and of the fourteen cities now having electric motors for propelling street cars eight are using the Van Depoele system."

Exempt Firemen's Meeting.

The members of the Exempt Firemen's Association of this city met in the parlors of "Gazelle" engine house, last Monday, for the transaction of business. President Titsworth was in the chair, and in the absence of the Secretary, Mr. G. Thorn was chosen Secretary pro tem. Mr. H. J. Martin submitted a report on behalf of the Committee on By-Laws. It was received and adopted. The following officers will retain their positions until the next election, which occurs in April: President—A. Titsworth; Vice-President—T. J. Gillies; Secretary—J. B. Martin; Treasurer—D. Bogers. The Board of Trustees embraces one member from each Company, as follows: S. C. Ryder, "Gazelle"; H. J. Martin, "No. 2"; Charles Seibel, "Warren"; S. J. Robinson, "Zephyr" H. & L.; A. Saltzman, "Alert" Hose. The meeting adjourned to meet again in the Truck house on Monday evening next.

The Death Record.

Peter Herlick, the infant son of Peter and Hattie Herlick, of Dunellen, died Monday of cholera infantum.

Annie C., the infant daughter of Frank Sprague and Helen C. Martin died at the residence of her parents on Hillside avenue, Wednesday of last week.

Avis Amelia McKown, aged four months and eighteen days, the only child of Alfred and Josephine McKown, died at her parents' residence at Fanwood, about ten p. m., last Monday, from cholera infantum.

Mrs. Mary A. Crane, the widowed mother of ex-Mayor L. V. F. Randolph of this city, died at her home in Newark on the 20th, after an illness brought about by a complication of diseases. Deceased was in the 77th year of her age, her first husband being Enoch Randolph.

An eight-months-old infant of Mr. W. H. Moore, of Washington and Third streets, died on the 19th of cholera infantum. On Monday the child was considered dangerously ill, and thinking perhaps the sea breeze would do it good, the father kept the little one on the water all day. But the change of air seemed to benefit it but little, and the child continued to grow worse until death relieved it of its suffering.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. S. C. Peck has been indisposed for a few days. His business goes on just the same, however, thanks to competent and willing clerks.

Among others who are sojourning at the seashore are Mr. and Mrs. W. Van Alstyne and son of this city, who are guests at The Belvidere, Asbury Park.

Miss Maud Ayres, of Crescent avenue, has been visiting Mrs. Charles Hyde of West Front street, since the return of the former from an extended European trip.

Mr. J. Marc Martin and family of Park avenue, will on Saturday, leave town to spend the remainder of the season in Upper New York State, near Kingston.

Miss Maria Toohey, who has been spending a vacation of several weeks at Long Branch, returned to her home in this city, Tuesday, greatly pleased with her visit.

Mrs. W. H. Shaw and daughter of Louisville, Ky., Miss Sue Baker, of Delaware, Ohio, and Miss Mattie Angle of Clinton, N. J., are visiting at the residence of Mr. R. J. Shaw, on East Second street.

Mr. T. B. Brooks and family of Seventh street will go to Monmouth Beach about the first of August, for a few weeks. They will there be joined by Lieut. and Mrs. Almy, who, since their recent visit to Mrs. Brooks, have found even Asbury Park and Atlantic Highlands without charm.

One of the most charming turnouts that attract admiration upon our streets, is a well appointed and thoroughly English dog-cart, driven by Miss Carrie Plum of New York, one of the young lady guests at The Netherwood. The horse is a handsome one well set off by its silver-mounted imported harness. The establishment throughout is the correct thing.

A LITTLE OF EVERYTHING COLUMN.

"Hackmetack," a lasting and fragrant perfume. Price 25 and 50 cents. Sold by Field & Randolph.

Shiloh's Cure will immediately relieve Croup, Whooping Cough and Bronchitis. Sold by Field & Randolph.

—It is understood that Mr. Emmons, the builder, has purchased property on Sycamore avenue, North Plainfield, formerly belonging to the Keome estate, and intends erecting a building thereon immediately.

Mothers, teething and fretful children need Dr. Arnold's Soothing and Quieting Cordial. Druggists, 25c.

That Hacking Cough can be so quickly cured by Shiloh's Cure. We guarantee it. Sold by Field & Randolph.

—Special Policeman Joseph Nosl denies the report that he sprained his ankle while chasing the Italian, Palermo, but says that the accident occurred by jumping from his truck several hours before the fracas occurred.

Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy—a positive cure for Catarrh, Diptheria and Canker Mouth. Sold by Field & Randolph.

Why will you cough when Shiloh's Cure will give immediate relief. Price 10 cts. 50 cts. and $1. Sold by Field & Randolph.

A. H. Walker, Ord, Neb., says: "Dr. Seth Arnold's Cough Killer sells very readily and does all who use it.

—Frank Ayers, the three-year-old son of Mr. William Ayers, of New street, is suffering from the effects of an unusual accident. Monday evening he was feeding grass to a horse in front of his father's residence, when the animal unintentionally bit off the third finger of the little lad's left hand.

The Rev. George H. Thayer, of Bourbon, Ind., says: "Both myself and wife owe our lives to Shiloh's Consumption Cure. Sold by Field & Randolph.

—The Y. M. C. A., nine will play a fine team of base-ballers from Orange, on the Park avenue grounds, Saturday afternoon.

For Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, you have a printed guarantee on every bottle of Shiloh's Vitalizer. It never fails to cure. Sold by Field & Randolph.

—Ground was to have been staked out Saturday on Grove street for a handsome new frame dwelling house to be erected for Mr. J. H. Honeyman. Theodore Gray has been awarded the contract for the mason work, and Mr. R. V. Sauns the carpenter work.

Are you made miserable by indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Yellow Skin? Shiloh's Vitalizer is a positive cure. Sold by Field & Randolph.

My mother was troubled for twenty years with a dry, hacking cough, and was completely cured by the use of Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. She is now 73 years old, and well. C. H. Dexter, 59 Winchester street, Boston.

—Now let our city fathers follow up the dog ordinance and secure the services of a good, smart dog-catcher. There are too many dangerous canines prowling around our thoroughfares, especially at night, and we have as yet to hear of a single dog being shot by the police. A few worthless curs, however, have recently died of old age.

Ely's Cream Balm was recommended to me by my druggist as a preventive to hay fever. Have been using it as directed since the 9th of August and have found it a specific for that much dreaded and loathsome disease. For ten years or more I have been a great sufferer each year, from August 9th till frost, and have tried many alleged remedies for its cure, but Ely's Cream Balm is the only preventive I have ever found. Any fever sufferers ought to know of its efficacy. F. B. Ainsworth, Publisher, Indianapolis, Ind.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and can not be sold in competition with the multitude of low-test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders

VARIED VERSE.

Discretion.

I met a freckled village boy,
Who loitered by the way;
His hat was off, his brickdust curls
With balmy winds did play.

"Oh whither bound, barefoot boy,
Beneath this blazing sky?"
"I'm going home—but have to wait Until my hair is dry."

Her Wedding.

I kissed the bride; while other men
Uncertain stood as if in doubt
Whether my act to imitate or—go without.
As playmate, friend and lover, I
Had worshipped at her shrine, and now
I stood a witness of her pledge and marriage vow.
Others had loved her, too; not I Alone had found her fair; but she Could love and wed but one—and so you see—
The rivals heard the dainty lips
We longed to press, with solemn voice,
Pronounce the name of him who was her sweetheart's choice.
I kissed the bride; a happy man
And proud—the proudest in that room.
I weed, and that with reason. Was I not the groom?

—Life.

An Orphan Born.

I am a lone, unfathered chick,
Of artificial hatching;
A pilgrim in a desert wild,
By happier mothered chicks reviled,
From all relationships exiled,
To do my own lone hatching.

Fair Science smiled upon my birth
One raw and gusty morning,
And now the sounds of barnyard mirth
To taper her have little worth;
I am alone in all the earth—
An orphan without borning.

Seek I my mother? I would find
A heartless personator;
A thing brass lided, pain designed,
With steampipe arteries intermined
And pulseless cotton batting lined—
A patient intubator.

It wearies me to think, you see—
Death would be better, rather—
Should children e'er be born to me,
By fate's most pit iful decree
My little ones, alas, would be
With never a grandfather.

And when to earth I bid adieu,
To seek a greater;
I will not do as others do,
Who go to join the ancestral crew,
For I will just be gathered to My incubator.

—Robert J. Burdette, in Brooklyn Eagle.

In Fly-Time.

In the morning gray and early,
When a man feels naughty sassy,
Comes the fly,
Pesky fly!
And it wakes him from his sleepnap
With its innocent bo-peeping,
With its buzzing and its nipping,
With its biting and its skipping,
Prevents his regaining sleeping,
Wears him out with constant slapping;
Does the fly
Pesky fly!
Drat the fly!

Even-Temper.

It ain't no use ter grumble,
Nor it ain't no use to fret;
A man won't live no longer
By a-sittin' all upset.
It's the kin' of grit an' temper
That is allers sure to win.
An' the man that's allers kickin'
That is gittin' taken in.

That dog that's allers squealin'
Gits the smallest share of slop,
An' the man that's allers growlin'
Never raises half a crop.
An' often when a feller
Gits a lickin' it has been
The man that talked the loudest
Just before the fight begun.

Vacation.

Come, sweet Vacation, restful season, come!
When, for the nonce, we lay aside our oars
To list the music of the birdie bees' hum,
And breathe the fragrance of the country air;
With curious mind the hornet's nest explore,
And find for there than we had bargained for.

Come, forest shade and breath of scented pines,
Refuge from garish glare of noontime's sun,
Whereunto it ours until the day declines,
And sherry beacons beam forth one by one,
If, mid the joyous dream our fancy-tokens,
No caterpillars amble down our spines.

Come, boundless lake, wherein our forms we lave,
Floating a balm delightful to each sense;
Plunging and sporting in thy limpid wave
In, to the weary, pleasant recompense:
The ringing laugh and then the piercing screeches,
Alas! we find we are but bait for leeches.

Come, then, Vacation, precious season, come!
Yield thou to life thy sweet recuperation;
Bring in the train of joyousness the sum
Of all that figures in anticipation:
Come with the treasury with which thou art rich, Mosquitoes, flies, snakes, skim-milk and "hash."

—Boston Budget.

The Farmer.

Once on a time he used to plough
And sow at dawn to milk the cough
And drive with mighty song and lash
To pasture Brindle tied her mough.

Then for the pigs he'd fill the trough
And for the market he would be ough;
Sometimes his mare would bruise her lough
Against a fence-post or a rough.

And there he'd switch her with a bough
To teach her better anyhough;
He planted wheat to make the dough
Wash, in a drought, was hard to grough.

In winter, when his work was through,
A little sporting he would dough;
He'd wander with his gun and slough
And aim at crows he couldn't knough.

Sometimes he'd hunt along the slough
For birds that do not live there nough,
And shoot a sea-gull or a clough
Which he with joy would proudly stough.

From swampland, watered by a lough,
He'd make good pasture for his sough
By nowhere sod there's a nough
While perspiration wet his brough.

Sometimes a snake that shed its slough
Would scare him so he'd run a mile
Till stuck knee-deep within a slough
He'd yell until he raised a rough.

But rough work makes the farmer sough,
And, careless though much people scough,
He lives on boarders rough and tough
Though rough though dough not out enough.

—Oil City Derrick.

INTERESTING VARIETY.

MELTED butter retains its purity and flavor; melted oleomargarine smells like tallow and produces a scum.

AMERICAN manufacturers may justly feel proud of their reputation for turning out finest work, both as regards material and execution.

A PICTURE of "John the Terrible" after killing his son, lately exhibited at Moscow, was said to have been so realistic that its effect upon a lady visitor caused her death.

IN all the extent of this broad fair land where is the man, O, where is he, who can give us the dimensions of that latest, largest rattlesnake withoutringing in that "and a button" on us?

THE recent decision of a New York judge, that conquering was a crime, must have been the outcome of an experience in going cross lots, where the fences were high and cow horns plentiful.

AN artesian well sunk at Northampton, Mass., by a silk manufacturer, is 2,440 feet deep, the deepest known in this country. The boring has been through sandstone, and has been in operation for two years.

CHEESE PUDDING.—Grated cheese and bread crumbs in equal quantities thoroughly with boiling milk and add two well-beaten eggs; place in a sauce-pan over the fire and stir till the cheese melts. Serve at once in a greased pie dish.

YANKEE TURNOVERS.—One pint flour, salt, one-half teaspoonful baking-powder, and a teaspoonful butter; mix with milk, roll thin, cut in saucers, put in apple sauce, dover and pinch in the edge care fully; fry in hot fat and serve with cheese.

"BAD AND BAGGAGE" is doubtless a proverbial expression in regard to the movements of an army, as Napoleon's retreat from Moscow proved. "Come, shepherd, let us make an honorable retreat, though not with bag and baggage, yet with scrip and scrippage." The way in which the "parser is used shows that it is a well-known one, and the joke turns on that fact.

A WOUND in a cow's foot caused by a nail penetrating the sole of the foot should be enlarged by cutting away the horn and sap-wood or pith in the hoof to the bottom. Then foment the part with hot water, injecting some into the wound with a syringe. Finally, inject a little tincture of myrrh and bind the foot in a cloth to keep out the sand and dirt. Do this daily; a few days will remedy the injury.

HORSE VINEGAR.—Make a syrup in the proportion of a gallon of water to each one and one-quarter pounds of sugar and to each quarter of a pint of yeast. Keep the liquor at from seventy-five to eighty degrees Fahrenheit for two or three days, then rack it off from the sediment into the fermenting cask, where an ounce of cream tartar and one ounce of crushed raisins for each gallon is mixed in. When it is free from froth and sweet taste bottle it off into bottles and keep closely corked.

BREAKFAST RELISH.—Grate two cold potatoes at night, add some salt, a little sugar, a little hot water to slightly warm the potatoes. Then add half a teacup of yeast, shaking it well first. In the morning put a small piece of lard in a frying-pan and pour in a pint of milk. When it is warm thicken with your potato batter in a saucer; when light make it a pulp made coarsely stiff with flour; let it raise again, roll out, and cut into round cakes; fold one side partly over the other, greasing between with butter melted, and when light again bake for twenty minutes.

GOOD DAY FOR REPTILES.

A Big King Snake and Other Seasonable Products of Pennsylvania Soil.

One day last week, says a Lock Haven (Pa.) correspondent of the New York Sun, Squire Clark and John Liggett, surveyors, were running out some lots along Rattlesnake Run in this county, and during the day bagged thirteen immense rattlesnakes. Three of them the Squire had to chase a hundred yards or more, and he came near losing them in the rocks. Two of them John Liggett stepped on. One of these tried to strike John in the foot, but not being coiled for accurate work, missed the foot and sank its fangs in his own body. Five of the snakes stood their ground nicely, and made the two men earn their rattles by gamey fighting.

William Rhinehoit and Frank Jay, of Philadelphia, went up the Run the same day to camp a week and fish for trout. They came back to this place that night. They had six big rattlesnakes, and said they got away from six others. They will trout on some other creek.

Jerry Brady, who works for John S. Strickland on his farm near Middletown, was harrowing in a field on Friday, when a big black snake came out of a hollow stump and made an attack on one of the mules. Brady was driving. Brady struck at the snake with his whip, but when it left the mule and started for the driver, Brady took to his heels and the snake followed. He stopped at a stone heap on the field and turned on the approaching snake and began stoning it. He missed it every time. The snake kept right on, and as it came within a yard of Brady he mechanically struck at it with his whip. The lash wound around the snake's head and fastened itself there. The snake seemed surprised at the situation, and turned to get away. Brady held on to the whip, and succeeded in laying a couple of big stones on the reptile's head and dispatched it. It was more than six feet long, and was of the racer species. During the day Brady killed eight more of the same kind of serpents, besides two copperheads. He says it was the best day's harrowing he ever did.

Elias Moser, of Lynn township, Lehigh County, is one of the most trustworthy citizens of that county. He owns a big farm, and is a strictly temperate and pious man. A few days ago, he says, he was going along the edge of a piece of woods on his farm when he saw the head of what he supposed was simply a very large specimen of the ordinary black snake sticking out between the bottom rails of a fence. He up with a stone and tried to hit the head. He missed, striking the rail above it. The instant the stone struck the head raised up, and the snake it belonged to began to come out from its hiding place. Farmer Moser backed away, and section after section of the snake appeared until the reptile stretched over more than twelve feet of space between the farmer and the fence, and still there was more to come. Moser had seen enough, and turned his back on the serpent and started for home. After he had run several rods he looked back over his shoulder. The snake was after him and gaining on him, carrying its head high above the ground. Moser mounted a high stone wall that offered its friendly presence just at that spot, and jumped down behind it on the other side. The snake glided up the wall and followed the farmer. Moser says he knew there was no use trying to beat the snake in a foot-race, and so he grabbed a big stone off the wall and hurled it at the advancing monster. It struck just like kindly over the head back of the head and bore it down to the ground and held it there. While the serpent twisted and kicked and lashed its immense length in vain efforts to free itself, Moser piled more stones on it, and finally mashed its head. Then he hurried home and got his hired man and his gun. When he came back there was enforced the snake was dead. It was carried to the Moser homestead and measured. It was sixteen and one-half feet long. It had two broad white rings around its neck and a white belly. All the rest of it was a bluish black. The head was long, pointed and flat. Local naturalists say it was a king snake, the no serpent at the kind was ever seen in these parts before.

THE TELAUTOGRAPH.

A Wonderful Invention Recently Perfected by a Chicago Electrician.

Prof Elisha Gray of telephone fame is perfecting an invention with wonderful possibilities, and one which promises great results. It has, according to the Chicago Tribune, already reached that stage which insures its practical success, the experiments thus far proving eminently satisfactory. The "telautograph" is the name by which the instrument will be known, which, by the way conveys a very fair idea of what the instrument really is. Once in operation it will be possible for the Chicago speculator to deliver to his New York broker a telautographic order to buy or sell one thousand or ten thousand shares of railroad stock, an exact fac simile of the order being reproduced in that city at the same instant it is written here. If the Chicago man happens to be in New York and wants to send his wife a check for money he simply writes it out in that city, and the moment he is through it is in his wife's hands here. The electric current, of course, is an important factor in the invention, but the chief feature is the plate or instrument on which the writing is done. No particular kind of pen or pencil has to be used; in fact, any sharp-pointed instrument of any kind or even a piece of wood, will answer the purpose. The paper on which the writing is done and the autograph reproduced does not have to be prepared, for in the first instance it is the pressure on the plate which gives the impulse to the machine, while the reproduction is brought about by a brass pencil, which may be a properly-inked pen or even an ordinary lead pencil attached to a movable arm in the receiver machine at the other end of the line.

A number of experiments with the machine have been made at Highland Park, where Prof. Gray's laboratory is, all of them of the most satisfactory character. The circuit used is not a very long one, but the tests were of the kind which indicated that the length of the circuit did not matter much, and that the work could be done over one thousand miles of wire as perfectly as over one hundred. Prof. Gray has not yet applied for patents on the inventions, but it is fully covered by caveats, so that he has secured the injunction of secrecy and needs but to talk upon the subject with his friends. He is inclined to think the machine will be required in all cases where absolute accuracy in the delivery and filling of an order is required, and that it will eventually supersede the present system of telegraphic communication; in fact, that an operator will simply transmit by a message, and, while in the act of so doing, will write it to any point on the continent, the reproduction at the other point always being a fac-simile of the writing of the person at the machine.

SOMEWHAT REMARKABLE.

IN Bohemia the eggs of the lark are supposed to lend additional strength to the voice and increase its richness of tone.

THE ancient Jews believed the age of the raven to be twenty-seven times as great as that of man. They also believed it to have been originally white and to have been turned black in consequence of its deceitful conduct.

REPORT has it that the Emperor of Russia is an excellent performer on the cornet and that upon occasions he accompanied the great Nilsson in one of her songs. Subsequently she sang the same piece before him in public, much to his gratification.

RHEUMATISM is said to be the fell destroyer of the elephant. Although heir to a number of diseases, it more commonly succumbs to this than any other. Bronchial affections are peculiar to the ape family, and that gal family suffers prine pally from diseases of the intestines.

THE reason of the marking of current coins is supposed to be for the purpose of identification should they ever return to the possession of the marker. An experiment of this kind by a newspaper man resulted in the return of a marked bank-note after a three years' journey about the world.

IN an account, in a London paper, of the opening of a new church at Cannes, the officiating priest was said to have worn a mustache. Soon after, in compliance with the request of the Prince of Wales, he removed his hirsute appendage. His royal highness objected to the resemblance of the clergyman to a dragoon.

A REMARKABLE phenomenon occurs along the shores of Manitoba Lake in the Northwest country. It is a sound resembling the pitching of church bells, produced by the waves beating upon the shingle, which is of a firm limestone composition and gives forth a metallic sound when hammered. The Indians of that region regard the sound as the tones of Manitoba, the "Speaking God."

IN the mountains of Nevada are lakes the waters of which are naturally so detergent as to thoroughly remove dirt and grease from cloth by simple contact. When disturbed these waters form a lather but deposits upon the shores a perfect wall of suds sometimes four feet high. It is said the wind frequently carries great bubbles of this suds, often as large as a flour-barrel, far over the surrounding country.

MIEN-SHAUNG is called in China "moving knowledge." In speaking of this science a somewhat noted Chinaman of New York says there is a professor of the knowledge in Canton, China, who not only sends the thoughts of his patients but gives the name, description and time of call of any agent one who will call. This professor is named Low-Jee and it is said he has devoted thirty-six years of his life in constant devotion to the gods to obtain this marvelous gift.

ROMANTIC CAREER.

An American Defaulter Becomes a South Pacific Island King.

That wickedness sometimes prospers is evidenced, says the New York World, by the rather romantic career within the last few months of Charles W. Banks, formerly of Albany, this State, later of San Francisco, Cal., and now elevated by the power of love to the throne of King of Cook's Island, in the South Pacific ocean. A history of Mr. Banks' life in Albany would add so little interest to his later life that it is unnecessary to refer to it now, except to state that in that rolling town he married a very interesting young lady, for whom, according to his latest letter to friends in this city, he still entertains the most touching affection. It is also hardly necessary to say that the lady in question, Mrs. Fanny A. Banks, who is now in this city, places so little faith in these assurances of unbounded love that she has begun a divorce suit, and charges his Kingship with desertion and infidelity.

Soon after the marriage of the couple they journeyed to San Francisco, where Mr. Banks, being intelligent and bright, as well as a handsome young man, obtained employment in the express office of Wells, Fargo & Co. There he prospered, prospered too well for his personal good; for, having obtained a position of trust, and gained the entire confidence of his employers, he suddenly disappeared six months ago, carrying with him over $50,000 belonging to the company. His many friends at the Golden gate mourned his departure for he was a good fellow, reckless with his money, an interesting talker, and a good story-teller, while his little suppers at home and at his club were the talk of society for days after each event. Mrs. Banks, too, mourned his loss, but her reasons were widely different, and she came to this city after gathering enough evidence in San Francisco to prove to her that her husband had not been all that she had expected. Consulting the law firm of Messrs. Johnes, Benner & Wilcox here, the papers for a divorce were properly drawn up, but pending information as to the whereabouts of her recreant husband, she withheld proceedings.

Meanwhile, Wells, Fargo & Co. had sent detectives after the defaulter, who tracked him to Tahiti, Sandwich Islands, but the wily young man fled in a schooner a few hours before the sleuth-hounds of the law reached there. From this point the gay defaulter's movements much resemble those of Billy Kid, the illustrious hero whom Rosina Vokes sings about in her clever song. "His 'Art was True to Poll." Like Billy Kid, Mr. Banks

Landed on a strange shore and looked out for an inn,
When a noble savage lady, of a color rather shady,
Came along and accosted him:

"Oh! stay with me and the King you'll be,
And in a go nee loll,
Or I'll eat you like fish!" so he gave his hand, did Billy,
But his 'art was true to Poll.

Mr. Banks was certainly in luck. He had sailed away from Tahiti for a point anywhere out of the reach of the law, and favoring gales had directed his craft to the shores of Raretonga, Cook's Island, in the South Pacific, where the beautiful but dusky Queen Uiakea (Uiakea in English, but something else in her own picturesque language) reigned queenly and kindly over her loving tribe. She is a widow, but ceased abruptly to grieve for her departed lord when the handsome face and manly bearing and figure of Mr. Banks loomed up before her in her quiet, luxurious home. He was a wanderer, weary and forlorn, and she a widow, sad and lonely, but with lots of the world's goods and a large heart, which she unhesitatingly threw at his feet. Her kindness won him, couple i with his own Yankee ingenuity, which told him that he had struck it rich, to use an Americanism, and he availed himself of the fortunate opportunity equally as unhesitatingly as it had been opened to him.

There at Raretonga, safe from the law's strong grasp, where the climate is glorious and warm all the year round, Banks is now living, duly domesticated and acknowledged as King, and receiving the homage of the people, who adore him because their beloved Queen has set them the example. The detectives who found him there say he expresses no desire to return to his native country, but seems satisfied to continue his life of idleness and power.

KENTUCKY PIONEERS.

How They Were Dressed and What Weapons They Carried.

A happy and artistic thought has preserved the authentic pioneer costume, sculptured upon the State military monument at Frankford, from models prepared under the eye of pioneers that then survived, says a writer in Harper's Magazine, describing early life in Kentucky. The coat or "hunting-shirt," that reached to the thigh, was of course cloth, or preferably of well-dressed deerskin that turned rain, and was not readily torn. Around the neck and shoulders was a fringe six inches long, not intended for ornament alone, but supplying the strings so often needed by a hunter. The four pockets, two on either breast, were exactly placed that the use of weapons should not be embarrassed. A belt, carrying tomahawk and knife, passed through loops at the back and was tightened by a buckle or thongs.

Beneath the right arm swung the bullet-pouch and with it the powder-horn. In the former were carried the bullets, the cotton "patching" with which the balls were surrounded in loading, and the precious extra flints, all inclosed and fastened in interior pockets, lest in rapid movement they might be lost. The powder-horn was selected with reference to the curve of the body, that it might lie close and neither impede the use of the right arm nor become entangled with the bushes or cane. Much care was bestowed upon its adornment, and it was softened by boiling to receive the desired shape and preparation. At the left side hung the tomahawk, a light hatchet with curved blade, useful in many ways about the camp, and a formidable weapon in close combat. The knife lay across the chest within ready grasp. Over his short trousers and stockings the hunter habitually wore deerskin leggings that reached to the middle thigh. These were prepared of brain-dressed skins that perfectly turned the rain and dew. Along their outer edge were often fringes of strings hanging for ready use. The feet were cased in moccasins, to which soles of rawhide were sometimes sewed; but as a rule the soft elk skin was preferred, for the face of the land was as yet unbroken turf or forest mold, soft and springy to the tread. Stone cropped out as cultivation disturbed the soil in after years. A cap, brought from the Eastern settlements, or made of the skin of a coon or panther, completed the costume of the original hunter of Kentucky.

A NOTABLE phase of railway industry is a railway tie nursery situated near the little town of Farlington, Kan., in the southern part of that State. It is said to be the largest artificial plantation of forest trees in North America, and is owned by the Southern Pacific. The different sections have been planted, respectively, two, four and six years, one-fou th being planted with ailantus, the rest with the catalpa, together with a few of white ash. Those first planted are now about twenty-five feet in height, the last about twelve, and some of the taller are seven inches through the stem. There are in all about three million trees in full vigor on the plantation; all were planted four feet apart each way, to shade the ground, though eight feet is the ultimate intention, this plan allowing three fourths of the trees to be cut out when they are fit for fence posts. When rather larger it is expected the trees will make excellent railway ties in great numbers—that is, after a thinning out process there will be some nine hundred thousand trees to come to maturity. The area of this vast railway tie nursery is to be still further increased.

WE find upon reference to scientific authority that the Romans of mediæval times employed malt extract or beer in the composition of their mortar for building purposes, in order to render it hard. It is said, however, that the practice has entirely died out in Europe and never existed in this country. This, of course, reflects great credit upon us as sainte citizens of a progressive nation. Americans discovered at an early day the adaptability of malt extract to the hardening of brain tissue, and some have ever since been devoting their energies in the effort to obtain sufficient of the extract to convert themselves into adamantine specimens of the genus very hardcase.—Puncho.

IN the production of crude petroleum the United States certainly leads the world. As compared with the production of other countries the native oil is regarded immeasurably superior, and the price is so low as to defy from competition the foreign product, even in its own market. These facts are given in a London paper, and it is further stated that the daily production of the United States is in excess of the world's demand and has been for some years. In addition to this there is stored above ground 34,850,000 barrels, or 1,461,-600,000 gallons, the amount of unmarketed stores.

THE number of tin cans annually required for the preservation of vegetables, fruits, fish, milk, etc., in the United States is said to be something over 200,000,000.

ENTERTAINING SPORT.

Hunting Poisonous Reptiles on the Shores of Lake George.

Perhaps in no part of the country, says the Albany Journal, can be found a more desirable place for the seeker of recreation and rest to spend his vacation than on the shores of Lake George. The clearness of its waters and wild beauty of its mountain surroundings, its fine atmosphere, and its historic recollections make it a place of more than common interest to the tourist. Its facilities for hunting and fishing are unsurpassed. There is one kind of game that is hunted with much zeal by lovers of this sport, which is seldom mentioned as an attraction to the region. This is the hunting of rattlesnakes on the mountain ledges and rocky hillsides every spring. Several of our oldest residents make a trip each spring, when the weather becomes warm enough, to the home of the reptiles, of which there are several well-known dens on the lake. Mr. Hershel Colvin, of Glens Falls, and Reuben Ripter, of Lake George, have long been noted for their annual rattlesnake hunts. This year Mr. Colvin returned home much disgusted, having only killed twelve snakes. Their mode of capturing them is dangerous, to say the least. Taking their guns they proceeded to the places where the rattlers are wont to assemble and be at about among the rock until one is discovered. Then they shoot him. Oftentimes they appear suddenly to the hunter. Then the sensation is not so pleasant. The snakes are hunted for the sport, but some old hunters have great faith in their oil, which they claim is very penetrating and a great remedy for rheumatism. The killing off of large numbers in the spring lessens the number to wander abroad all around the lake later in the season, to the annoyance of cottage campers and hotel-keepers. For as soon as hot weather begins the snakes leave their dens and roam over the surrounding country. They are great swimmers, and swim across the lake and make no choice of a landing-place. Those interested have men engaged the season through in killing rattlers. Each morning they go out with a pole and poke into all places where a snake might be hidden and kill all they may find. In some spots a man is kept on the watch at all times for snakes, so that boarders at hotels as visitors rarely if ever see a snake. In fact, there is not an attendant at a hotel on the lake who can be enticed to own that he ever saw a rattlesnake, to say nothing about killing one. In spite of all this watching a rattler will manage to get into a house once and awhile, and then there is music for a short time among the ladies. Old campers on the lake who have visited it for years can seldom be forced to admit that there are many snakes there, unless they may be inveigled into telling snake stories, then one gets an idea of snakes. Two species of rattlesnake exist there, but as a rule they will trouble no one if not disturbed. No cases of anybody being bitten by a snake is recorded unless he was engaged in hunting them or had invaded their dens. An old snake-hunter several years ago became so careless that in trying to capture one he undertook to catch the snake by the tail as he slipped under a stone, and was bitten. Not enough whisky could be got into him, and he never hunted any more rattlesnakes. Most experienced campers keep a supply of snake-root and whisky on hand in case it should be needed.

A FALL IN WATCHES.

Marked Changes in Ten Years in Styles, Sizes and Prices.

"Do you see this old watch?" said a watchmaker to a reporter for the Pittsburgh Dispatch the other day. He held up an article that looked more like a mantel clock, and proceeded to open it up. By some twist of the thumb that only a watchmaker knows, he opened the outer case and it looked much like the shell of a cocoanut. The interior portion resembled the kernel. The thumb-nail got to work again and the glass face was raised. Again the thumb-nail acted, and the works were turned out on a hinge, and they looked big and coarse enough to run a rolling-mill.

"That watch doesn't look as though it was worth much," continued the watchmaker, "and yet its owner, who was in here a few moments ago, said he must have it fixed at any price. "I found a couple of pivots broken, several teeth bent and other damages. I told him it would cost four dollars. 'Fix it up,' he said. 'I don't care if it costs ten dollars to fix it. That watch belongs to my father. He has had it for many years, long before I was born.' I don't think it could keep time enough for a pawnbroker, yet he wants it fixed and it must be done."

"Now," continued the watchmaker, "that is a very old style of watch. He could buy a far better one for the price he would have to pay for repairing it, and one that would be much more suitable, too. It is a burden to carry such a watch. But men liked them when they plowed hammered around among trees, fell into rivers, etc. This old watch survives such mishaps, though it doesn't keep decent time. It can't. Its machinery is too rough and old to keep good time.

"Yes, there has been a great change in the style of watches. Years ago big watches, with all the flowering that could be got on the cases, were the style. Then came the opposite, and plain watches were the demand. The lady's watch came, a neat, delicate little thing, and then the men thought the little watches were the go plain watches. And the jewelers began to bedeck the cases with pearls and other stones, and the articles brought big prices. After a time the neat silver watch began to get its hooks in, and it was all the rage.

"Prices for watches have fallen remarkably in the last ten years. I remember when people paid $250 and $300 for a hunting-case gold watch that you now can get for $75 or $80, and sometimes for less. The change in price is due to the fact that the makers, after a time, found they could make cases much cheaper than they had been doing. The works were made much cheaper by the use of machinery, and, of course, the price fell, being helped along by competition."

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

THE carpenters have local unions in 700 cities and towns of the United States and Canada.

THE New York 'longshoremen are individually seeking to have their old rate of wages restored.

THE coal miners in the West have decided to do all the work they can this year rather than strike.

AN electrical exhibition is to be held in New York, and 10,000 feet of space has already been applied for.

ENGLISH iron exporters boast they have averaged one thousand tons per day of old material to the United States.

THE Leadville smelters have 26,000 tons more of lead ore on hand now than they had at the opening of the year.

CANADA averages $25,000,000 to $30,000,000 worth of lumber exports per annum. One-third comes to the United States.

BUILDERS might note that yellow pine is eighty-nine per cent. stronger than white pine, forty-two per cent. stronger than white oak and sixty per cent. stronger than Northern pine.

THE condition of the working-men in Great Britain has improved materially over what it was a year ago. Employment is more general. One order has just been given for 350,000 steel sleepers.

A PITTSBURGH coal miner has patented a coal mining machine which will undercut from 4½ to 6 feet. It weighs less than 200 pounds, and will mine fifty tons per day. Compressed air or steam can be used.

THE printers anticipate that the nine-hour law rule, when carried out, will apportion the work to be done more evenly among all who want work. It is to go into effect on November 1, and sixty days' notice will be given to publishers.

AN order for 6,000 guns recently placed with the Remingtons has been increased to 11,000. The Fall River iron works will soon shut down completely. The Russian Government has placed an immense order for rifles with a Connecticut firm.

THE coal output of the world is 400,000,000 tons, of which the United States produces 146,000,000; Asia, 6,000,000, and Africa, 230,000. Europe produces seventy-two per cent. of all, or 295,000,000 tons. The average per head of population throughout the world is 225 pounds.

THE English co-operatives have a bank whose transactions amount to to $80,000,000 a year. They have 1,400 stores and do a business of $150,000,000 a year. Their 900,000 members realize an annual profit of $15,-000,000. Their profits during the past twenty-four years have been $150,000,000.

SIXTY-two sub-companies of the American Bell Telephone Company represent, with licenses, $54,186,111. The business yields $11,150,000 gross earnings and $4,150,-000 net earnings. There are 147,068 exchange subscribers and 6,088 employes. The total "bellos" last year were 312,655,-788.

THERE are contracts out among the car works for 40,000 cars. Nearly all the railroad companies have arrangements under way for increasing their shop facilities. The Pennsylvania railroad will lead off with a $500,000 machine and repair shop. Machine-shop work is in very active demand.

THE St. Louis and Chicago interest, through President Wing, has purchased the mineral right to 9,000 acres of rich Mt. Olive coal lands in Illinois, making 12,000 acres of coal the company owns near Mt. Olive. Shafts are now being sunk, and several mines will shortly be in successful operation.

JACK HAYS' RANGERS.

The Stalwart Texans Who Rode Into Mexico in Picturesque Array.

After the capture of the City of Mexico by the United States forces, says the Bolton (Ga.) News, per esponlent, writing from that place in December, 1847, Jack Hays and his Texas rangers rode with their old-fashioned maple-stocked rifles lying across their saddles, the butts of two large pistols sticking out of holsters, and a pair of Colt's six-shooters belted around their waists, making fifteen shots to the man. There were only 500 men in the regiment. Colonel Hays says there were 1,000 in reality, and, summing them all up they have only got 7,500 shots. The Mexicans have a more holy horror of them than they have of the evil saint himself. It is really surprising that men with such a reputation should be among the very best disciplined troops in the army in any way; but the greasers must not interfere with them, as was illustrated this evening. Almost an hour after some of them were quietly passing through one of the streets, when a crowd of Leperos gathered around them and commenced throwing stones, the result of which was that in a very few minutes there were several dead Mexicans lying in the street. Another eye-witness of the Texas rangers in one of the Mexican cities gives the following graphic description of the event: "They rode, some sideways, some standing up, some by the reverse flank, some face to the rear, some on horses, some on asses, some on mustangs, some on mules. On their command, rag, tag, and bob-tail—pell-mell, helter-skelter; the head of one covered with a slouched hat, that of another with a towering cocked hat, a third bareheaded, while twenty others had caps made of the skins of every variety of wild and tame beast. A sober set of fellows than those same Texan latter-jemalions never unsheathed a sword on their country's altar—young, vigorous, kind, generous and brave, they purposely dressed themselves in this garb to prove to the world that they were neither regulars nor volunteers, but Texan rangers, as free and unrestrained as the air they breathe. Hays' men entered the city of Aztecs and approached the halls of the Montezumas, as at this place, the objects of universal curiosity. The sides of the streets were lined with spectators of every hue and creed, from the Major-General of the North American army to the Mexican beggar. Quietly they moved along; not a word spoken; they seemed unconscious that they were the observed of all observers. The trees in their own native forests would have attracted as much attention as they seemed to bestow upon anything around them. They seemed to say: 'We have seen men and been in cities before.' The difference between their entry into the City of Mexico and that which I have described was a mere freak of their own. In each place they acted their part well. After entering the city they had proceeded some distance without being molested, but the temptation at length became too great for a Mexican to withstand, and one standing on the sidewalk threw a stone at the head of one of the rangers. As usual with a Mexican, he overshot his mark and took off the cap of his intended victim without injuring him. Never was a guilty act more instantly punished; it was the last stone he ever threw, for quicker than thought a flash was seen, a report was heard, and the offender fell dead. The ranger replaced his pistol in his belt, reclaimed his cap, and rode on. Ere long another stone was thrown and another greaser launched into eternity. During all this time no noise was heard, no disturbance was perceivable, the column never halted, and the ranks were unbroken."

KASKINE
(THE NEW QUININE.)

GIVES
Good Appetite,
New Strength,
Quiet Nerves,
Happy Days,
Sweet Sleep.

A POWERFUL TONIC.
that the most delicate stomach will bear.
A SPECIFIC FOR MALARIA, RHEUMATISM, NERVOUS PROSTRATION.
and all Germ Diseases.
THE MOST SCIENTIFIC AND SUCCESSFUL BLOOD PURIFIER. Superior to quinine.
Mr. F. A. Miller, 220 East 125th street, New York, was cured by Kaskine of extreme malarial prostration after seven years suffering. He had run down from 175 pounds to 97, began on Kaskine in June, 1886, went to work in one month, regained his full weight in six months. Quinine did him no good whatever.
Mr. Gideon Thompson, the oldest and one of the most respected citizens of Bridgeport, Conn., says: "I am ninety years of age, and for the last three years have suffered from malaria and the effects of quinine poisoning. I recently began with Kaskine which broke up the malaria and increased my weight 22 pounds."
Mrs. T. A. Solomons, of 159 Halliday St., Jersey City, writes: "Seven Hairs eleven years, was cured of malaria by Kaskine, after fifteen months' illness, when we had given up all hope."
Letters from the above persons, giving full details will be sent on application.
Kaskine can be taken without any special medical advice. $1.00 per bottle.
Sold by H. P. Reynolds, Plainfield, New Jersey, or sent by mail on receipt of price.
THE KASKINE CO., 54 Warren St., New York

Central Railroad of New Jersey
Station in New York—Foot of Liberty Street.

Time Table in Effect June 27, 1887.

PLAINFIELD AND NEW YORK.

Leave Plainfield 3.27, 5.43, 6.32, 7.02, 7.30, 7.59, 8.02, 8.23, 8.40, 9.32, 10.37, 11.06, 11.42, a. m., 12.33, 1.21, 2.25, 2.57, 3.51, 5.25, 5.30, 5.44, 6.30, 6.55, 7.02, 8.45, 9.18, 11.16, p. m. Sunday—3.27, 801, 8.57, 10.32, 11.32 a. m., 1.27, 3.30, 5.16, 7.20, 7.28, 9.23 p. m.

Leave New York from foot of Liberty Street, 4.00, 6.00, 7.30, 8.30, 9.00, 10.15, 11.00 a. m., 1.00, 1.30, 2.30, 3.30, 3.45, 4.00, 4.30, 5.00, 5.15, 5.30, 5.45, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30, 8.15, 9.30, 10.30, 12.00 p. m. Sunday—4.00, 8.45, 9.00, a. m., 12.00, m., 1.30, 4.00, 5.30, 6.30, 9.30, 12.00, p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND NEWARK.

Leave Plainfield 5.43, 6.32, 7.02, 7.30, 8.02, 8.40, 9.32, 10.37, 11.06, 11.42, a. m., 12.33, 1.21, 2.25, 2.57, 3.51, 5.25, 5.54, 6.55, 7.02, 8.46, 9.18, 11.16, p. m. Sunday—3.27, 801, 8.57, 10.32, 11.32, a. m., 1.27, 3.30, 5.16, 7.28, 9.23 p. m.

Leave Newark—6.20, 7.34, 8.35, 9.05, 10.35, 11.00, a. m., 1.05, 1.35, 2.40, 3.40, 4.00, 4.35, 5.05, 5.35, 5.50, 6.20, 7.15, 8.05, 9.40, 10.20, 12.00-night. Sunday—8.50, a. m., 12.20, 1.45, 4.10, 5.35, 9.15, p. m.

Passengers for Newark change cars at Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE.

Leave Plainfield 5.10, 7.14, 8.32, 9.21, 11.30, a. m., 2.16, 3.16, 4.35, 5.36, 6.35, p. m. Sunday—8.32, 9.36, 11.30, a. m., 4.35, 5.36, 8.06, 9.29, 11.45, p. m. Sunday—5.10, 10.14, a. m., 2.45, 5.14, 6.43, 10.45, p. m.

Leave Somerville 6.05, 6.35, 7.00, 7.29, 7.55, 8.15, 9.35, 10.15, 11.15, a. m., 12.55, 2.00, 3.25, 5.00, 5.32, 8.15, 8.40, p. m. Sunday—8.30, 11.05, a. m., 1.00, 4.50, 7.00, 9.50, p. m.

PLAINFIELD AND EASTON.

Leave Plainfield 5.10, 8.32, 9.21, a. m., 2.08, 2.16, 4.35, 5.16, 6.35, p. m. Sunday—5.10, a. m., 6.43, p. m.

Leave Easton 6.55, 8.57, a. m., 12.40, 4.15, 7.00, p. m. Sunday—7.15, a. m., 7.00, p. m.

WESTWARD CONNECTIONS.

LEAVE PLAINFIELD.

5.10, a. m.—For Easton, (daily) Allentown, Reading and Mauch Chunk. Connects at High Bridge for Schooley's Mountain, Lake Hopatcong, etc., daily, including Sundays.

9.32, a. m.—For Easton, High Bridge Branch, Schooley's Mountain, Lake Hopatcong, Wind Gap, Mauch Chunk, Drifton, Upper Lehigh, Scranton, &c.

9.21, a. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, Williamsport, Tamaqua, Nanticoke, Upper Lehigh, Wilkesbarre, &c.

2.08, p. m.—For Flemington, Easton, Allentown, Reading, Harrisburg, Mauch Chunk, &c.

4.34, p. m.—For Easton, Wind Gap, Mauch Chunk, Tamaqua, Williamsport, Drifton, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, &c.

5.16, p. m.—For Flemington, High Bridge Bran

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XX. PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, JULY 29, 1887. NO. 29.

LAWS OF NEW JERSEY.

[BY AUTHORITY.]

CHAPTER CLIII.

A further supplement to an act entitled "An act respecting the court of chancery" [Revision], approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for the board of chosen freeholders in any county of this state to acquire by purchase or condemnation lands for public use in such counties and to provide for the issue of bonds to pay for the same.

2. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for the board of chosen freeholders in any county of this state to acquire by purchase or condemnation, as hereinafter provided, any tract or tracts of land not exceeding in all thirty acres of land for the purpose of adding the same to the county farm, to be used for the purposes of the present county farm, workhouse, sanitary asylums and such other public institutions as may be required, and to furnish one for the prison and pauper labor of any such county, provided, that said lands, when so purchased or acquired, shall, with the lands already purchased or acquired, be required and used by the county, form one contiguous and compact tract of land.

2. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful for any such board of chosen freeholders to make a contract or contracts of purchase of such lands with the owner or owners thereof upon such terms and conditions as to such board shall seem best and most advantageous to the interest of such county, and the said board of chosen freeholders shall be able and capable to acquire, purchase, receive and have and hold said lands for the use of their counties respectively, as provided in section one of this act, and to pay for the same in accordance with and upon such terms and conditions as shall be agreed upon between the parties, or in default thereof, by the compulsory process hereinafter provided.

3. And be it enacted, That if any such board of chosen freeholders shall fail to agree with the owner or owners of any such tract or tracts of land for the purchase of either as to quantity required or price to be paid for the same, or upon any other of the terms and conditions of such purchase, so as to bind any such tract or tracts of land, and the owner or owners thereof, by mutual agreement between said board of chosen freeholders and the owner or owners thereof, as to any one or more of said matters, or if for any other reason the said board of chosen freeholders shall be unable to contract for and purchase and acquire said lands, then it shall be lawful for such board of chosen freeholders to cause a survey or surveys to be made of such tract or tracts of land which, for any reason cannot be purchased by agreement as aforesaid, and to ascertain the owner or owners of such tract or tracts of land, if the same can be ascertained, and after such survey or surveys have been completed, a map or maps made of the same, said map or maps, survey or surveys, shall be filed in the office of the clerk of any such county, and it shall be lawful for said board of chosen freeholders, at any time within six months after the date of the filing of such map or maps, survey or surveys, to apply to the justice of the supreme court holding the circuit court in and for any such county for the appointment of three disinterested persons to condemn and appraise said tract or tracts of land, and the said application to the justice of the supreme court shall be made in writing by virtue of a resolution of such board, certified under the hand of said board and attested by said application, which application shall be signed and verified either by the director or clerk of said board and presented to such justice, and when so presented to him he shall make an order fixing a time and place when and at which said commissioners will be appointed, which shall not be less than fifteen days from the making of such application, and the said order shall direct a notice to be served on all the owners of any and all tracts of lands, if known and in this state, or if unknown and out of this state, to make publication thereof, as he shall direct, for a period of not less than ten days, of the particular time and place of the appointment of said commissioners, at which time, upon satisfactory evidence to him of service or publication of such notice aforesaid, he shall appoint by his hand and seal, three disinterested, impartial and judicious freeholders, residents of the state of New Jersey, commissioners to examine and appraise the said tract or tracts of lands and to assess the damage, upon such notice to be given to owner or owners, and such commissioners so appointed shall be directed by said justice making the said appointment, and to be expressed therein, not less than twenty days, and it shall be the duty of the commissioners having first taken and subscribed an oath or affirmation before the clerk of the county faithfully and impartially to examine the lands in question, and to make a true appraisement and report, according to the best of their skill and understanding, which shall be filed with the county clerk, to meet at the time and place and proceed to view and examine the said tract or tracts of lands, hear the statements of parties interested and others, and to assess the damage found and to find, if any, and to make a just and equitable assessment or assessments of damage to be paid by the board of chosen freeholders for such tract or tracts of lands and damages found to the owner or owners of different parcels thereof, and separate appraisements shall be appraised at the same time by said commissioners, and separate appraisements made for each separate tract, which separate appraisements shall be reported by a report, in writing under the hands and seals of said commissioners or any two of them as prescribed for a company of infantry.

4. And be it enacted, That payments on account of the sea-coast artillery company shall be made to the paymaster of the regiment, which shall be expended by him upon requisition of the commander of such company, duly approved by the brigade commander.

5. And be it enacted, That section one of the supplement to the act to which supplement was approved March twelfth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty, which reads as follows:

"1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cities of this state having thirty-five thousand inhabitants, and in which there is no regularly enrolled company of national guard, there may be organized a battalion, to consist of a battalion of artillery, to be called the sea-coast artillery battalion, to be stationed on the sea coast at Sea Girt, in the county of Monmouth, of suitable extent and location for a permanent camp, a rifle range and a sea-coast battery for the use of the national guard of this state, which agreement aforesaid has been approved by the governor and commander in chief as required by law, which said battalion shall be bounded and described as follows, to-wit: "All that certain tract of land situate at Sea Girt, in the township of Wall, in the county of Monmouth, and state of New Jersey, and being a part of a larger tract belonging to the Sea Girt land improvement company, beginning at a stake in the middle of Sea Girt avenue, which stake is at the distance of four chains and fifty links, measuring on a course of south forty-five degrees east, from a stone in the south-west corner of lands formerly belonging to Charles Graham, deceased, and now of said Sea Girt land and improvement company, and in the line of land belonging to William Harris, and running thence along the middle of said Sea Girt avenue south forty-three degrees forty-five minutes east, two thousand nine hundred and eighty-eight feet and six-tenths of a foot to a stake, corner of other lands of said company, thence by said other land south forty-three degrees forty-three and one-half minutes west, eight hundred and seventy-one feet and eleven-hundredths of a foot to a stake, thence north forty-six degrees twenty-four and one-half minutes west, one thousand six hundred and two feet and thirty-one hundredths of a foot to ordinary high-water mark of the Atlantic ocean; thence along said high-water mark north eighteen degrees thirty-five and one-half minutes west, four hundred and eighty feet to a point; thence north seventy-one degrees twenty-four and one-half minutes west, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-four and sixty hundredths of a foot to a stake; thence south forty-three degrees forty-three and one-half minutes west, one hundred and forty-three feet and two-tenths of a foot to a stake on the northerly side of Stockton lake or Newbury's pond; thence along the said side of said lake or pond and along a small stream emptying therein, the several courses and distances thereof respectively to a stake, and thence north twenty-seven degrees forty-five minutes east, one thousand seven hundred and forty-five feet and twenty-four hundredths of a foot to the first mentioned stake and place of beginning, containing one hundred and nineteen acres and eight hundred and twelve one-thousandths of an acre: the foregoing description, courses and distances being taken from a survey of said tract of land made by William Segorne on the twenty-eighth day of November, anno domini one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four; and whereas, it is necessary for the public use and for the proper use of said tract of land for the purpose aforesaid, and for the public safety, that certain streets and avenues which have been plotted on a plan of lots heretofore filed in the clerk's office of the county of Monmouth, entitled 'Map of Sea Girt, situated in Monmouth county, New Jersey, Charles F. Ingham, engineer; revised by Frederick J. Anspach, engineer, 1877,' but which streets and avenues have not been opened, should be vacated and the dedication thereof made void: therefore,

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That James Smith, Jr., of Essex county, and William L. Taylor, of Passaic county, be appointed and constituted commissioners for the purpose of completing the purchase of the aforesaid tract of land and securing to the state a proper and legal title in fee simple for the same, free and clear of all encumbrances, easements and servitudes.

2. And be it enacted, That whenever a good and sufficient deed of conveyance containing a covenant of general warranty and the ordinary full covenants, and vesting in the state of New Jersey an estate in fee simple in the said tract of land clear of encumbrances as aforesaid, shall be duly executed and delivered to the said commissioners, the comptroller shall be authorized to draw his warrant on the treasurer for the amount of the purchase money to be paid as is herein set forth in the seventeenth section of the supplement to the act to which this is a supplement, approved March fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine, as amended March tenth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty."

6. And be the same is hereby repealed.

7. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 21, 1887.

CHAPTER CLVII.

An act to amend the first section of an act entitled "An act concerning county boards of health for the protection of the public health and the registration of vital statistics in counties of this state," approved May fifth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the first section of the act to which this is a supplement, which supplement was approved March ninth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, be amended so as to read as follows:

"1. And be it enacted, That the active militia of this state shall be known as "The National Guard of New Jersey," and shall consist of not more than sixty companies of one hundred men each, to be organized into regiments and battalions, two gatling gun companies and one sea-coast artillery company, the whole to be organized into two brigades and completed in conformity to law, as they shall, on demand of the party interested, report the weight of such article or articles, in writing, to the owner thereof, and shall keep a record of the same in a suitable book to be kept for that purpose.

3. And be it enacted, That a gross ton of hay or coal shall be implied to mean an avoirdupois weight of two thousand two hundred and forty pounds, and that a net ton of hay or coal shall be implied to mean an avoirdupois weight of two thousand pounds.

Approved April 21, 1887.

CHAPTER CLX.

An act to provide for the purchase of a tract of land on the Atlantic coast in the county of Monmouth, and to vacate certain streets and to take and extinguish certain easements thereon and therein.

Whereas, The quartermaster-general, pursuant to the provisions of the fifth section of a supplement to an act for the organization of the national guard of the state of New Jersey, approved March ninth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, which said supplement was approved April twenty-ninth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four, did make an agreement subject to certain conditions, to purchase a tract of land on the Atlantic coast at Sea Girt, in the county of Monmouth, of suitable extent and location for a permanent camp, a rifle range and a sea-coast battery for the use of the national guard of this state, which agreement aforesaid has been approved by the governor and commander in chief as required by law, which said tract of land is bounded and described as follows, to-wit: "All that certain tract of land situate at Sea Girt, in the township of Wall, in the county of Monmouth, and state of New Jersey, and being a part of a larger tract belonging to the Sea Girt land improvement company, beginning at a stake in the middle of Sea Girt avenue, which stake is at the distance of four chains and fifty links, measuring on a course of south forty-five degrees east, from a stone in the south-west corner of lands formerly belonging to Charles Graham, deceased, and now of said Sea Girt land and improvement company, and in the line of land belonging to William Harris, and running thence along the middle of said Sea Girt avenue south forty-three degrees forty-five minutes east, two thousand nine hundred and eighty-eight feet and six-tenths of a foot to a stake, corner of other lands of said company, thence by said other land south forty-three degrees forty-three and one-half minutes west, eight hundred and seventy-one feet and eleven-hundredths of a foot to a stake, thence north forty-six degrees twenty-four and one-half minutes west, one thousand six hundred and two feet and thirty-one hundredths of a foot to ordinary high-water mark of the Atlantic ocean; thence along said high-water mark north eighteen degrees thirty-five and one-half minutes west, four hundred and eighty feet to a point; thence north seventy-one degrees twenty-four and one-half minutes west, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-four and sixty hundredths of a foot to a stake; thence south forty-three degrees forty-three and one-half minutes west, one hundred and forty-three feet and two-tenths of a foot to a stake on the northerly side of Stockton lake or Newbury's pond; thence along the said side of said lake or pond and along a small stream emptying therein, the several courses and distances thereof respectively to a stake, and thence north twenty-seven degrees forty-five minutes east, one thousand seven hundred and forty-five feet and twenty-four hundredths of a foot to the first mentioned stake and place of beginning, containing one hundred and nineteen acres and eight hundred and twelve one-thousandths of an acre: the foregoing description, courses and distances being taken from a survey of said tract of land made by William Segorne on the twenty-eighth day of November, anno domini one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four; and whereas, it is necessary for the public use and for the proper use of said tract of land for the purpose aforesaid, and for the public safety, that certain streets and avenues which have been plotted on a plan of lots heretofore filed in the clerk's office of the county of Monmouth, entitled 'Map of Sea Girt, situated in Monmouth county, New Jersey, Charles F. Ingham, engineer; revised by Frederick J. Anspach, engineer, 1877,' but which streets and avenues have not been opened, should be vacated and the dedication thereof made void: therefore,

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That James Smith, Jr., of Essex county, and William L. Taylor, of Passaic county, be appointed and constituted commissioners for the purpose of completing the purchase of the aforesaid tract of land and securing to the state a proper and legal title in fee simple for the same, free and clear of all encumbrances, easements and servitudes.

2. And be it enacted, That whenever a good and sufficient deed of conveyance containing a covenant of general warranty and the ordinary full covenants, and vesting in the state of New Jersey an estate in fee simple in the said tract of land clear of encumbrances as aforesaid, shall be duly executed and delivered to the said commissioners, the comptroller shall be authorized to draw his warrant on the treasurer for the amount of the purchase money to be paid as is herein set forth in the seventeenth section of the supplement to the act to which this is a supplement, approved March fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine, as amended March tenth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty."

3. And be the same is hereby repealed.

4

CHAPTER CLXXVIII.

An Act concerning the court of pardons.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That hereafter the records of the court of pardons shall be public records and open to the inspection of the public in the same manner as records of other courts in this state.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved May 6, 1887.

CHAPTER CLXXIX.

An act to allow certain persons to trap hare or rabbit.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for any person owning or in possession of any farm to permit the catching of hare commonly called rabbit, in box traps, by any person connected with his family under the age of fifteen years, within the limits of such farm during the time in which it is now or may hereafter be lawful to shoot the same.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

Approved May 6, 1887.

CHAPTER CLXXX.

An act to defray the incidental expenses of the legislature of New Jersey for the session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for the treasurer of the State of New Jersey to pay upon warrant of the comptroller of the treasury the following sums, or so much thereof, viz:

Item No. 1. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses, in contested election case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Frederick Walter, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, five hundred dollars. $500.00

Item No. 2. To Frederick Walter, for counsel fees and expenses, in contested election case of Frederick Walter versus Josiah Jones, Junior, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, five hundred dollars. 500.00

Item No. 3. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered to committee on elections, reporting and transcribing testimony taken in Haines and Turley contested election case, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, one thousand dollars. 1,000.00

Item No. 4. To McCrellish & Quigley, stationery, and so forth, to clerk's department, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, one hundred and thirty-six dollars and sixty cents. 136.60

Item No. 5. To John Hunt, to services rendered committee on election in Haines versus Turley, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, fifty dollars. 50.00

Not approved. Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 6. To Herbert W. Knight, for services rendered as clerk to election committee contested election case, Haines versus Turley, session one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, one hundred and twenty-eight dollars and fifty cents. 128.50

Item No. 7. To J. J. Maher, to services rendered to election committee in case of Haines versus Turley, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, seventy-six dollars and seventy cents. 76.70

Not approved. Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 8. To George T. Haines, for counsel fees and expenses, as also a recount of ballots, examination before committee, and master and argument before committee, in contested election case of Turley versus Haines, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, fifteen hundred dollars. 1,500.00

Item No. 9. To John F. Burton, for services rendered, keeper of ladies' gallery house of assembly, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, one hundred dollars. 100.00

Not approved. Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 10. To Aaron Hawkyard, for services rendered election committee in contest election case of Jones versus Walter, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, fifty dollars. 50.00

Item No. 11. To George W. Colfax, for services as sergeant-at-arms of the election committee in contested election case, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, seventy-five dollars. 75.00

Item No. 12. To P. H. Cornish, for services rendered to the election committee in contested election case of Haines versus Turley, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, seventy-six dollars and fifty cents. 76.50

Not approved. Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 13. To the New Jersey Unionist, for stationery, and so forth, furnished clerk of assembly, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, seventy-five dollars and sixty-two cents. 75.62

Item No. 14. To Mervyn Armstrong, Junior, for services rendered as clerk to the committee on bill revised, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, three hundred dollars. 300.00

Item No. 15. To Josiah Jones, Jr., for counsel fees and expenses, in contested election case of Josiah Jones, Junior, versus Frederick Walter, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, five hundred dollars. $500.00

Item No. 16. To Herbert W. Knight, for stenographic services rendered to committee on elections, reporting and transcribing testimony taken in Haines and Turley contested election case, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, one thousand dollars. 1,000.00

Item No. 17. To Naar, Day & Naar, for stationery, and so forth, furnished engrossing clerk, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, thirteen dollars and fifty cents. 13.50

Item No. 18. To Thomas F. Fitzgerald, for sixty-five manuals furnished the legislature, session one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, one hundred and thirty-six dollars and sixty cents. 136.60

Item No. 19. To Fred'k W. Gaichtel, for services rendered special committee to investigate railroad affairs, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two hundred and twenty-one dollars and sixty cents. 221.60

Item No. 20. To chairman of special joint committee on reception of Massachusetts legislature, session one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, eighty-nine dollars and ninety-five cents. 89.95

Item No. 21. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, one ivory gavel, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, twenty-five dollars. 25.00

Item No. 22. To W. S. Runkle, to services rendered as clerk to committee on corporations and committee on railroads and canals, as per resolution house of assembly, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, three hundred and fifty dollars. 350.00

Not approved. Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 23. To Benjamin Earle, to services as page, opening session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, ten dollars. 10.00

Item No. 24. To MacCrellish & Quigley, to articles furnished sergeant-at-arms, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, seven dollars and forty cents. 7.40

Item No. 25. To William Errickson, for engrossing concurrent resolution relating to life saving crews at Barnegat city, New Jersey, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six, sixty-four dollars. 64.00

Item No. 26. To James Conley, as clerk to the committee on revision of laws, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, three hundred dollars. 300.00

Item No. 27. To Samuel Toombs, for furnishing calendars and books for the clerk of the House, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, one hundred and nineteen dollars. 119.00

Item No. 28. To Margaret Shockley, for services rendered in washing towels for the house of assembly, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, seventy-five dollars. 75.00

Item No. 29. To MacCrellish & Quigley, for five hundred subpœna blanks, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, three dollars and twenty-five cents. 3.25

Item No. 30. To Frank Daly, for services rendered election committee in contested election case Haines versus Turley, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, seventy dollars. 70.00

Item No. 31. To MacCrellish & Quigley, for stationery and so forth furnished election committee, session one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, twenty-two dollars and seventy cents. 22.70

Item No. 32. To John Ginler, for ten days' services as assistant sergeant-at-arms of the house of assembly, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, one hundred dollars. 100.00

Not approved. Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 33. To Arnet R. Lambert, for services rendered reporting testimony, making racks, files, and so forth, for house of assembly, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, one hundred and eighty-seven dollars. 187.00

Not approved. Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 34. To Frank H. Baker, for services rendered as assistant journal clerk, opening session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, ten dollars. 10.00

Item No. 35. To Thomas Flynn, for services rendered as clerk of committee on engrossed bills, as per resolution of the house of assembly, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, five hundred dollars. 500.00

Not approved. Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 36. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for six do on cases for weekly minutes, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six, forty-three dollars and fifty cents. 43.50

Item No. 37. To Henry Turley, for counsel fees and expenses, such as recount of ballots, examination before committee and masters and argument before committee, in contested election case of Turley versus Haines, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, fifteen hundred dollars. 1,500.00

Item No. 38. To John F. Burton, for services rendered, keeper of ladies' gallery house of assembly, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, one hundred dollars. 100.00

Not approved. Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 39. To Aaron Hawkyard, for services rendered election committee in contest election case of Jones versus Walter, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, fifty dollars. 50.00

Item No. 40. To George W. Colfax, for services as sergeant-at-arms of the election committee in contested election case, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, seventy-five dollars. 75.00

Item No. 41. To P. H. Cornish, for services rendered to the election committee in contested election case of Haines versus Turley, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, seventy-six dollars and fifty cents. 76.50

Not approved. Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 42. To the New Jersey Unionist, for stationery, and so forth, furnished clerk of assembly, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, seventy-five dollars and sixty-two cents. 75.62

Item No. 43. To Mervyn Armstrong, Junior, for services rendered as clerk to the committee on bill revised, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, three hundred dollars. 300.00

Item No. 44. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for advertisement for bills, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two dollars. 2.00

Item No. 45. To R. F. Matheon, for bill files furnished house of assembly, and senate, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, sixty-seven dollars and fifty cents. 67.50

Item No. 46. To E. G. Kern, for services rendered the speaker as private secretary, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, one hundred dollars. 100.00

Not approved. Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 47. To Naar, Day & Naar, for stationery, and so forth, furnished engrossing clerk, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, thirteen dollars and fifty cents. 13.50

Item No. 48. To Thomas F. Fitzgerald, for sixty-five manuals furnished the legislature, session one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, one hundred and thirty-six dollars and sixty cents. 136.60

Item No. 49. To MacCrellish & Quigley, one box of pens, one dollar. 1.00

Item No. 50. To John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for stationery furnished the speaker of the house of assembly, session one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, one hundred and twenty-eight dollars and fifty cents. 128.50

Item No. 51. To Sutphin & La Rue, for coaches furnished the legislature to and from the deaf and dumb institution, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, sixty-five dollars. 65.00

Item No. 52. To Naar, Day & Naar, for stationery, and so forth, furnished engrossing clerk house of assembly, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, sixty-five dollars. 65.00

Item No. 53. To the Faye Letter File, Cabinet and Index Company, for files furnished the legislature, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, four hundred and thirty-seven dollars and sixty cents. 413.80

Item No. 54. To Ellen Meloy, for services rendered in cleaning senate and assembly chambers, &c., session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two hundred dollars. 200.00

Not approved. Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 55. To the John L. Murphy Publishing Company, for stationery, and so forth, furnished election committee, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, fifteen dollars and eighty-one cents. 15.81

Item No. 56. To Thomas K. Johnston, for parchment rolls and preparing oaths of officers and members of senate and general assembly, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two hundred and eighty-seven dollars and sixty cents. 287.60

Item No. 57. To Naar, Day & Naar, for stationery, and so forth, furnished sergeant-at-arms house of assembly, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, one hundred and twenty-five dollars. 125.00

Item No. 58. To T. J. McDonald, for disbursements committee on strikes, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, one hundred and eighty-eight dollars and seventy cents. 188.70

Item No. 59. To T. J. McDonald, for railroad fares and maintaining assistants to election committee on contested election case of Haines versus Turley, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, forty dollars and eighty cents. 40.80

Item No. 60. To T. J. McDonald, for postage stamps and express charges, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, fifty-two dollars and fifty-five cents. 52.55

Item No. 61. To T. J. McDonald, for expenses in the contested election case, Jones versus Walter, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, sixteen dollars and sixty-five cents. 16.65

Item No. 62. To T. J. McDonald, for extra services rendered committee on contested election cases, Haines versus Turley, Jones versus Walter, senatorial contest and labor investigation, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, four hundred dollars. 400.00

Item No. 63. To John Mullins & Co., for desks and expressage, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, forty-six dollars and ninety-five cents. 46.95

Item No. 64. To John McKechney, for services in attending fires in the assembly chambers and the president and speaker's rooms, and ventilating the same during the session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, one hundred dollars. 100.00

Not approved. Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 65. To John McKechney, for services in attending fires in the senate and assembly chambers and the president and speaker's rooms, and ventilating the same during the session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six, one hundred dollars. 100.00

Not approved. Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 66. To Timothy C. Long, for services rendered committee on labor strikes, cleansing city hall at Jersey City, and attendance on committee, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, twenty-five dollars. 25.00

Item No. 67. To Mary Still, for washing towels for senate chamber, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, fifty dollars. 50.00

Item No. 68. To John W. Simmons, for services as sergeant-at-arms from January eleventh to February, four weeks, and fare on railroads, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, one hundred and fifty dollars. 150.00

Not approved. Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 69. To Reverend C. F. Garrison, for opening house with prayer, adjourned session, June, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six, ten dollars. 10.00

Item No. 70. To George Still, for services rendered in cleaning spittoons, lobbies, and so forth, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, one hundred and fifty dollars. 150.00

Item No. 71. To Reverend R. H. Richardson, for opening session of senate, January eleventh and Eighteenth, and February first, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, three weeks, ten dollars a week, thirty dollars. 31.00

Item No. 72. To Reverend S. M. Studdiford, for opening session of senate February twentieth, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, one week, ten dollars. 10.00

Item No. 73. To Enos G. Budd, for services as late sergeant-at-arms of senate, continuous service in office from January eleventh, session one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, until election of successor, and railroad fare, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, one hundred and fifty dollars and eighty cents. 150.80

Item No. 74. To Charles W. Schanck for services rendered as clerk to the judiciary committee, as per resolution, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, three hundred and seventy-five dollars. 375.00

Item No. 75. To T. J. McDonald, for expenses in the contested election case, Jones versus Walter, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, sixty-five dollars. 65.00

Item No. 76. To William H. Whelan for services rendered as door-keeper session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, one hundred and fifty dollars. 150.00

Not approved. Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 77. To the Jordan Stationery Company, for stationery furnished the senate and assembly, clerk and document clerk and other officers in full for the session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, five hundred dollars. 500.00

Item No. 78. To A. Kessler, for keys, locks and repairs furnished senate and house of assembly, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, thirty-three dollars and twenty-five cents. 33.25

Item No. 79. To H. P. Smith, for services rendered committee on incidental expenses as clerk, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, seventy-five dollars. 75.00

Item No. 80. To James Moore, for services rendered as extra door-keeper, opening session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, and serving subpœnas for committee on strikes session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, fifty dollars. 50.00

Item No. 81. To Clinton Cheesman, for services rendered election committee, contested election case of Jones versus Walter, as stenographer, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, one hundred and twenty-seven dollars. 127.00

Item No. 82. To Harry Anderson, for services rendered as page in opening session of house of assembly, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, ten dollars. 10.00

Item No. 83. To Titus and Conrad, for carpenter work and material, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, eighty-seven dollars and nineteen cents. 87.19

Item No. 84. To George W. Colfax, for services as sergeant-at-arms house of assembly, opening session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, ten dollars. 10.00

Item No. 85. To Thos. S. Kircher, for five weeks' services as door-keeper house of assembly, session one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, one hundred dollars. 100.00

Not approved. Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 86. To Richard C. Dilmore, for services as page opening session house of assembly, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, ten dollars. 10.00

Item No. 87. To Frank Young, for opening session one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, ten dollars. 10.00

Item No. 88. To Joseph C. Burton, for services as page, house of assembly, session one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, two hundred dollars. 200.00

Not approved. Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 89. To New Jersey Unionist, for one library instead Instead president of the senate, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty seven, twelve dollars. 12.00

Item No. 90. To James Donohue, for services rendered as door-keeper session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, fifty dollars. 50.00

Not approved. Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 91. To James Morrissey, for services rendered as door-keeper, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, fifty dollars. 50.00

Not approved. Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 92. To Benjamin H. Manning, for services as door-keeper, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, fifty dollars. 50.00

Item No. 93. To James Kennedy, for services as page, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, fifty dollars. 50.00

Not approved. Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 94. To Leonard Kenyon, for services rendered as door-keeper, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, fifty dollars. 50.00

Item No. 95. To MacCrellish & Quigley, one box of pens, one dollar. 1.00

Item No. 96. To Benjamin F. Lee, services as door-keeper of the senate at opening of session one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, ten dollars. 10.00

Item No. 97. To Wm. Pancoast, services as page, opening of senate, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, ten dollars. 10.00

Item No. 98. To John L. Murphy, stationery, for secretary of senate, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, eighty-seven dollars and seventy-five cents. 87.75

Item No. 99. To B. F. Matheon, bill files for senate, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, forty-two dollars and seventy-five cents. 42.75

Item No. 100. C. A. Gundaker, bill files for senate, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, ninety dollars. 90.00

Item No. 101. To John L. Murphy, twenty-six bill files for senate, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, twenty-six dollars. 26.00

Item No. 102. To E. A. Miller, assistant sergeant-at-arms of senate, railroad fares, prior to organization of senate, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, fifty dollars. 50.00

Not approved. Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 103. To Robert H. Ingersoll, for railroad fare, extra expenses and extra services as assistant journal clerk of senate, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, one hundred dollars. 100.00

Not approved. Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 104. To Naar, Day & Naar, for stationery, and so forth, furnished sergeant-at-arms house of assembly, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, one hundred and twenty-five dollars. 125.00

Not approved. Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 105. To Thomas Kay, for opening session one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, ten dollars. 10.00

Item No. 106. To Frank Gulick, for services rendered to committee on municipal corporations, as per resolution house of assembly, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, three hundred and fifty dollars. 350.00

Not approved. Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 107. To John L. Murphy, for sergeant-at-arms of senate session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, one hundred and fifty-three dollars and fifty-five cents. 153.55

Item No. 108. To James P. Dilcher, for services rendered in cleaning lobby rooms and cleaning paint in assembly chamber, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, fifty dollars. 50.00

Item No. 109. To F. T. Rickerhoof, sergeant-at-arms of senate, one of senators and members visiting state normal school, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty seven, six dollars. 6.00

Item No. 110. To Thomas Carney, services as page at opening of senate, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, ten dollars. 10.00

Item No. 111. To W. S. Snyder, assistant engrossing clerk, services at opening of senate, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, ten dollars. 10.00

Item No. 112. To Clinton Cheesman, services as page at opening of senate, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, ten dollars. 10.00

Item No. 113. To each clergyman for opening session of the legislature with prayer during session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, exceptions those heretofore named in this act, ten dollars. 10.00

Item No. 114. To Daniel Murray, Thomas Parker, William Nott, Lewis Runnion, Richard Dilmore and Charles Carson, ten dollars each for car fare prior to receiving passes, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, sixty dollars. 60.00

Not approved. Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Item No. 115. To Samuel Toombs, for services opening house of assembly, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, ten dollars. 10.00

Item No. 116. To John J. Stanton, services opening house of assembly, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, ten dollars. 10.00

Item No. 117. To John Britt, services rendered in cleaning ice coolers, and furnishing ice for house of assembly and senate, session of one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, fifty dollars. 50.00

Not approved. Robt. S. Green, Governor.

Remember items to read consecutively.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved with the exception of items number 5, 7, 10, 11, 12, 13, 22, 30, 32, 33, 35, 38, 41, 46, 54, 64, 65, 68, 74, 76, 85, 88, 90, 91, 93, 94, 100, 103, 114, and 117.

ROBT. S. GREEN,
Governor.

May 6th, 1887.

CHAPTER CLXXXI.

An act relative to the publication of the laws of this state in the newspapers.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the public laws of this state passed at each session of the legislature shall be published in the newspapers in the several counties, to be selected and designated as hereinafter provided.

2. And be it enacted, That the governor and comptroller shall, within ten days after this act shall become a law, and thereafter annually within thirty days after the day fixed in January for the convening of the legislature, select and designate the newspapers to publish the laws upon the following basis:

I. To select as many in each county as there are representatives from that county in both branches of the legislature, not exceeding six, such selection to be of an equal number of newspapers representing each of the two leading political parties, having a circulation equal to such of them as have the larger circulation.

II. In case after such election it appears there are any legislative districts in this state in which no newspaper has been designated to publish the laws, at the time fixed, a paper in such district may be designated; and in case also it appears that there are in the state cities, towns or boroughs having a population of at least five thousand according to the latest official census, in which no newspaper or but one newspaper has been designated, the governor and comptroller may, at their discretion select and designate a newspaper or newspapers, not exceeding two, in any such cities, towns or boroughs.

III. Besides selections and designations already mentioned, it shall be lawful for the governor and comptroller, at their discretion, to select and designate to publish the laws other newspapers at large in the state, without regard to political party, the only qualifying legal reference being had to their character and circulation; provided, however, that the total number of all newspapers in the state authorized to publish the laws shall not exceed one hundred; and provided, further, that in the aggregate not more than one-half of the papers named which represent one leading political party than those which represent the other leading political party.

3. And be it enacted, That no newspaper shall be selected under this act which has not been regularly and continuously published previous to such selection for the space of eighteen months.

4. And be it enacted, That after such selection and designation the secretary of state shall send out copies of all public laws to the newspapers entitled to publish them as soon as said laws are enacted.

5. And be it enacted, That the rate of compensation to be paid by the state for the publication of the laws shall be a sum to be fixed by the governor and comptroller not to exceed fifty cents per folio but no compensation shall be paid to any newspaper which prints the laws from plates, unless such plates are cast in its own office for its own use.

6. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts by which the newspapers entitled to publish the laws are to be designated in any other way than herein set forth, or which contravene any of the provisions of this act, shall be repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved May 6, 1887.

CHAPTER CLXXXII.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An supplement to an act entitled "An act for the incorporation of safe deposit and trust companies," approved April twentieth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section one of the act of which this is amendatory, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in addition to the provisions of the act to which this is a supplement and the powers and authority therein and thereby given, it shall and may be lawful for any company or association incorporated by or under any law of this state, and possessing any of the powers conferred by the third section of the act to which this is a supplement, or similar powers, and with a capital of not less than one hundred thousand dollars, to act as agents to transfer, register and countersign, and for the purchase and sale of stocks, bonds or other obligations of any corporation, association, municipality, state or public authority, and to receive and manage any sinking fund thereof, upon such terms as may be agreed upon, and to act as assignees, receivers, agents, executors, administrators or guardian, and execute trusts of every description not inconsistent with the laws of the state of New Jersey or of the United States.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved May 6, 1887.

JOINT RESOLUTION NO. I.

A Joint Resolution relative to the arbitration of alleged taxes in arrears under the charter and supplements of the Morris and Essex Railroad Company.

1. Be it resolved by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That all matters in difference between the State of New Jersey and the Morris and Essex Railroad Company, and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company, its lessee, touching alleged taxes in arrear arising under the charter and supplements of the Morris and Essex Railroad Company, shall be and the same are hereby submitted to the arbitration of two arbitrators, one of whom shall be chosen in writing by the Governor, and the other by and with the written advice and consent of the Senate, which being duly sworn, bearing and determining said matters in difference) shall be final, conclusive and binding upon the state and said companies. The said arbitrators shall make report of their decision in writing to be filed in the office of the secretary of state within thirty days from the passage of this resolution. The award shall be made in writing and filed in the said office. The said arbitrators shall have power to swear and examine witnesses. All necessary expenses upon the part of the state shall be allowed by the comptroller on the approval of the governor.

2. And be it resolved, That this joint resolution shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 24, 1887.

JOINT RESOLUTION No. II.

Joint Resolution to enable the state of New Jersey to take part in the celebration of the centennial anniversary of the framing of the federal constitution.

Whereas, in response to a joint resolution passed by the legislature of the State of New Jersey on the second day of June, anno domini one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six, the governors and representatives of the thirteen original states assembled in the city of Philadelphia on the seventeenth day of September, anno domini one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six, and there considered the propriety of a national celebration of the framing of the constitution of the United States, and after such deliberation proceedings were by them taken that a national call was issued and responded to by all the states and territories, and resulted in the organization in Philadelphia, on the second day of December, anno domini one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six, of a constitutional centennial commission, clothed with authority to devise plans and measures to secure a celebration worthy of the great event intended to be commemorated; and whereas the programme of ceremonies adopted includes a military display in which the United States shall be invited to be represented by each of its military and naval service, and the several states and territories by their militia; and whereas invitations participate in the said celebration are extended to the governors of each state and to the judiciary and legislatures of the same, and to the representatives of the several departments thereof; therefore,

1. Be it resolved by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the invitation thus extended is, upon the part of the legislature of the state of New Jersey, cordially accepted and that the governor is hereby authorized and requested to take such action as may be best fitted in his judgment to secure a representation of the state by its militia which shall be worthy of the occasion; and the governor is authorized and empowered to make his requisition upon the treasury to meet the necessary proper expenses thereof, exceeding in all the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars, to carry out the provisions of this resolution, and the comptroller is hereby authorized to draw his warrant for the same, and the governor shall cause an accurate and detailed account to be kept of the expenditures and shall cause the same to be filed, together with the proper vouchers, with the comptroller, who shall report the same to the next session of the legislature.

Approved April 21, 1887.

JOINT RESOLUTION, No. III.

Joint Resolution authorizing the appointment of a commission to ascertain the value of the shore fisheries on the Delaware river below Trenton, with a view to their purchase by the state.

Whereas the shore fisheries in this state on the Delaware river are, with few exceptions, operated by persons not residents of this state, paying no taxes in return for the opportunities are of frequent occurrence between purchasers of riparian rights from the state, citizens of the state engaged in gill net fishing, and those operating the shore fisheries, to their respective rights; and whereas large numbers of the fishes annually taken in the nets used by the shore fishermen which are almost valueless on account of their small size, thereby greatly diminishing this valuable food supply; therefore,

1. Be it resolved by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the governor and comptroller of this state are hereby authorized and directed to appoint three commissioners to ascertain the value of the rights claimed by the owners of the shore fisheries on the Delaware river below Trenton with a view to the purchase of the same by the state, in order that the right of fishery in the said waters may be rendered forever free to all the citizens of this state.

2. And be it resolved, That said commission shall take a detailed report of the value of the aforesaid rights to the legislature at its next session, and that the expenses of said commission shall be paid by the treasurer, on the warrant of the comptroller, to an amount not exceeding five hundred dollars.

3. And be it resolved That this resolution shall take effect immediately.

Approved May 6, 1887.

Buffalo Bill Cowboys.

I should greatly like to say a few words respecting a topic which I much regret to find is understood in the inverse proportion to which it is discussed, says Buffalo Bill to a London Globe Interviewer. I refer to that unique specimen of humanity, the cowboy of to-day. In order to be brief I will, like a cowboy, take the bull by the horns, and lay down the axiom, once for all, and most emphatically, that a cowboy is not a blackguard; nay, more, he is in nine cases out of ten better than his fellows, more especially as in nine cases out of ten his fellows are the offspring of an effete civilization. He has certain attributes that commend him to creation. He is manly, generous and brave. He is not merely a creature of impulse, but uses the gifts given him by his Maker with a discretion which might well be copied by more of us. In putting in these few words for a class of men who have only to be understood to be admired, I speak after years of study resulting in a conviction which nothing can shake.

Teeth Starved to Decay.

Teeth are just as easily starved as the stomach, says a lecturer. The fact is that you and your fathers have from generation to generation been industriously starving your teeth. In one way it is a blessing to have been born of poor parents. What food the poor give their children is of a variety that goes to make strong bones and teeth. It is the outside of all the grains of all cereal food that contains the carbonate and phosphate of lime and traces of other earthy salts which nourish the bony tissues and build the frame up. If we do not furnish to the teeth of the young that pabulum they require they can not possibly be built up. It is the outside of corn, oats, wheat, barley and the like, or the bran, so called, that we sift away and feed to the swine, that the teeth actually require for their proper nourishment. The wisdom of man has proven his folly, shown in every succeeding generation of teeth, which become more and more fragile and weak.

Few Will Miss Thee.

Few will miss thee, friend, when thou
For a month in dust hast lain.
Skilful hand and anxious brow,
Tongue of wisdom, busy brain—
All their part shall be forgot,
And thy place shall know thee not.

Some sweet bird may sit and sing
On the marble of thy tomb,
Soon to flit on joyous wing
From that place of death and gloom,
On some bough to warble clear;
But these songs thou shalt not hear.

Some kind voice may sing thy praise,
Passing near thy place of rest,
Fondly talk of "other days"—
But no throb within thy breast
Shall respond to words of praise,
Or old thoughts of "other days."

Since so fleeting is thy name,
Talent, beauty, power and wit,
It were well that without shame
Thou in God's great book were writ,
There is graven words to be
Graven for eternity.

—[Chambers' Journal.

The Russian Bloodhound.

In crossing the Strand, London, I dodged the pole of one vehicle just in time to be struck by the shafts of another, and, as the pavement was slippery, I went down, and the vehicle went over me, breaking my left leg below the knee. An hour later I was in my bachelor apartments (the work of the surgeon finished), and feeling that I ought to be thankful to have come off with my life, I was in for a siege of many weeks, and I had some business which must be attended to by an outsider. Therefore, after a day or two, I sent for Captain Jack Williams, an old acquaintance. He answered promptly enough, and we soon made very satisfactory arrangements. He was a bluff, honest fellow, out of active service, and having nothing to do, and the only unpleasant feature about his friendship was the fact of his owning a monster Russian bloodhound. The brute was his shadow. Where the dog could not go the Captain would not go. He refused all parties and receptions because of the dog. He refrained from excursions by land or sea because he would be temporarily separated from Czar, as he called the animal. The pair were well known in London, and the captain was as safe at midnight in the slums as any other man would be in the Strand at noonday. One glance at the dog was enough to show that he was as dangerous as a tiger. He made no friends either among dogs or men, and had miraculously escaped a dozen well-laid traps to bring about his death.

I hated Czar, and on two or three occasions I had reason to believe that the feeling was returned. When the Captain called and found me laid up, he had sense enough to know that the presence of the brute might annoy me, and he therefore shut him up in the servant's room for a few minutes. The dog was usually prompt in obedience. On this occasion he obeyed in a grudging, sulky manner, and before leaving the room threatened me so plainly that I became apprehensive. The Captain agreed that Czar should not enter my sick room again, and in a couple of weeks I had forgotten all about the incident.

I had apartments on the second floor, three rooms in a row, with a hall along the front of the last two. The first room was for my servant, a man who had been with me for many years. The next was the reception room, and the third my sleeping room. One coming down the hall could enter at the door of either room. The bedroom and reception room were connected, but the servant's room was entirely shut off. It was a hot day in August, with all doors and windows open. I was feeling pretty smart, although the pain was considerable, and a couple of my friends had just departed, after a brief call, when Henry, my servant, came in to see what he could do for me. I was flat on my back, as you know, with no chance to turn over on account of the leg, but I had him prop me up with two or three pillows. I then sent him for ice. He had but a few steps to go, and the doors were left open behind him. He had been gone about five minutes when in walked Capt. Williams' Russian bloodhound. I shouldn't have said walked; on the contrary he came running in, head up, tongue out, and his eyes as red as live coals. I saw him the moment he entered, and it passed through my brain like a flash that he was mad.

The door leading into the hall was open. Twice as the dog circled around the room he seemed on the point of going out, but each time changed his mind, whined in an uneasy way, and then continued his circling. He did not look for me, nor at me. It was a large room, with the bed against the wall, and from the way the brute bumped against the chairs I believe he was nearly blind. He had been with me two or three minutes when the hall door was caught by a draught of wind and slowly pulled to. It did not quite shut. The dog noticed the movement, sprang to get out, and the result was that he pushed the door shut and snapped the spring lock. The door leading into the reception room was still open, but the door from that into the hall was shut. The animal rushed into this room, upset a chair and bumped the table, and then came back whining, his tail down and his courage gone, and slunk under my bed. That the dog was suffering with hydrophobia there could be no doubt. As he returned from the reception room there was foam on his jaws, and he was so weak he staggered.

Had I been a well man and fully armed my situation would have been bad enough. There I was, perfectly helpless, locked in with the brute, and knowing that it might be hours before death came to him. My servant had a key to the door, and when he returned he would open it and walk in. There was not the slightest question but that the dog would at once attack him. I had two or three minutes in which to think, and it was wonderful how clear headed I was. I looked upon my own chances as hopeless, and therefore determined that when Henry returned I would call out to him before he got the door open. I was also concerned for fear the dog would get out of the building. It was a crowded neighborhood, and he might bite a score of people before he was destroyed.

It is said that the presence of a great danger sharpens the sense of hearing. I believe this to be true, for I have had several personal experiences. As I lay there waiting for my servant to return I plainly heard sounds which could not have come to my ears under ordinary circumstances. At the foot of the second flight of stairs, a distance of fully 70 feet from my bed, Henry was stopped by a young man who lodged on that floor. I heard him say:

"I was waiting here to tell you that Capt. William's brute of a dog passed up stairs a short time ago. Is the captain there?"

"He was not there when I left."

"And he has not come in after the dog. The animal had a scaly look, and you'd better be careful how you drive him out."

"Thank you, sir, I'll hurry right up."

I heard my man come up stairs and along the hall. As soon as he saw that my bedroom door was shut he seemed to suspect the worst, and he acted like a hero. He came down the hall on tiptoe, put his face close to the door, and sang out:

"Colonel, I know the big dog is in your room and I am going for help. If he comes near you shut your eyes and pretend to be dead."

The sound of his voice put the dog into a frenzy. He growled and snarled and snapped, and as the man hurried down the hall the beast rushed from under the bed with a dreadful howl and began rushing around the room as before. After making the circle of the bedroom four or five times, he dashed into the reception room. There he quite overturned the centre table, and in his fury he wrenched off a leg with his tee

The Constitutionalist,
A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.
W. L. FORCE & A. L. FORCE, Editors and Proprietors.
PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY,
AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY.
TERMS—TWO DOLLARS A YEAR.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST.

VOL. XX. PLAINFIELD, N. J., FRIDAY, AUGUST 5, 1887. No. 31.

"Support the Constitution, which is the cement of the Union, as well in its letter and spirit as in its authorities."—Madison.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

O. L. JENKINS, M. D.,
Homeopathist.
successor to Dr. Smith, 5 East Front Street, near Front, Plainfield, N. J. Office Hours—7 to 9, A. M.; 1 to 3 p. m.; 7 to 8, p. m. Office Hours—10-12.

JACKSON HUNDRIDGE,
Counsellor-at-Law,
Commissioner of deeds, Masters-in-Chancery, Notaries Public, Affidavits taken of Pale Assets and Bonds executed.

GEORGE W. DAY,
General Auctioneer,
Sales of Personal Property solicited. P. O. Box 93, Dunellen, N. J. Residence the same as Dunellen Hotel. Terms reasonable.

DR. CHARLES R. TYRRELL,
Dentist,
29 West Front street. A new local anesthetic application for extracting teeth without pain. Gold filling a specialty.—p-ap

H. HAND,
Auctioneer,
P. O. Address, Lock Box 71, Scotch Plains, N. J. Residence and Office, Scotch Plains, on the old West Front street, Plainfield, N. J., will receive prompt attention.—1-ap

O. SEARS TEALE,
Architect,
111 Broadway, New York city, Rooms 32 and 33. Consultation and Office Hours—Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, 9 to 4.—1-1881

WM. K. McCLELLAN,
Attorney-at-Law,
MASTER IN CHANCERY, NOTARY PUBLIC,
Commissioner of Deeds. Office, North avenue opposite depot.—1-1881

J. H. FOSTER,
Veterinary Surgeon.
Office at A. Stockwell's livery stable, corner West street and Madison avenue, Plainfield, N. J., Day and night attendance. Residence, Front street, next No. 18. Consultation on diseases of all domestic animals and infirmities. 12 East Front street.—p-1881

DR. GEORGE GIDNEY,
Veterinary Surgeon.
Removed from Second street to 312 West Front street, opposite Madison.—1-1881

ARTHUR P. BELLEN,
Attorney-at-Law,
Counsellor at law, W. H. Watson's building, Master in Chancery, Notary Public. Will buy and sell real estate. Loans money on bond and mortgage on property. Office—over First National Bank.—1-1881

F. A. DUNHAM,
Civil Engineer and Surveyor,
No. 2 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Will make plans and give estimates of cost in the settlement of disputed boundary lines. Particular care to all parts in the country.—1-1881

DR. J. F. CORT EN,
Electric Baths.
Dr. Cortelyou's Electric Bath Establishment, Unrivaled comforts, Skin diseases, Asthma, Catarrh, Rheumatism, Dropsy and all Nervous troubles treated successfully by Electricity and Electric Baths. Consultation free. Office hours—Monday, Wednesday and Saturday, second street, corner of Watchung avenue.—1-1881

BUSINESS CARDS.

ROBERT JAHN
TIN AND COPPER-SMITH,
Scotch Plains,
(Fanwood) N. J. Roofing, Spouting and Heater work. Plumbing and Gas-fitting. Pumps and Wind mills. The best and the cheapest range and the only Base Burning Heating Stove to be handled in Union county.—1-1882

TO THE PUBLIC!

We wish to inform our customers and the public generally that we have on hand the best quality of

LEHIGH COAL,

Fresh from the Mines.

It is under cover and well protected from the weather. We are prepared to deliver it well screened and in good order promptly. We are also prepared to furnish all kinds of Hardwood Lumber and Masons' Materials at short notice.

A. D. COOK & BRO.
[apr9]

J. Hervey Doane,
9 PARK AVENUE.
(Formerly Clark's.)

Watches,
Clocks
And Jewelry.
Repairing neatly and promptly done.

WM. H. SHOTWELL,
DEALER IN GROCERIES, PROVISIONS, VEGETABLES, DRIED FRUIT, ETC.
CORNER EMILY AND DUER STREETS
North Plainfield, New Jersey.

Celebrated Pillsbury Flour,
THE BEST IN THE MARKET.
ORDERS CALLED FOR AND DELIVERED.
Thanks for past patronage I remain a continuance thereof.
WILLIAM H. SHOTWELL.

BOSTON CLOTHING HOUSE
42 W. FRONT ST.
Reliable Goods at Low Prices.
Order Department
Under the well-known Cutter,
NEWTON P. DRAKE.
Correct Styles. Right Prices

Geo. A. Moore,
(Of the late firm of Moore Bros.)
Has taken the store and part of the stock of the late firm of Moore Bros., and will continue the business at the old stand,
No. 14 NORTH AVENUE,
Where he will endeavor to accommodate and please the former patrons of Moore and their friends. He will handle the best coal, and will keep on hand the largest stock of wood, kindling, etc., in this section. Anything not usually kept in stock furnished at short notice.
Edward Ramonetti,
OYSTER AND ICE CREAM SALOON.
OYSTERS BY THE QUART, 100 OR 1000.
CIGARS AND TOBACCO MADE TO ORDER.
All orders Promptly Attended to
24 NORTH AVENUE.
Plainfield, New Jersey. Telephone Call No. 30.

HOTELS AND SALOONS.

Force's Hotel!
NORTH AVENUE
Near R. R. Depot, Plaint ield, and New Jersey.
JAMES M. FORCE, Proprietor.
A FIRST-CLASS FAMILY HOTEL.
Transient guests taken at reasonable rates.
Bottled Liquors a Specialty.

Laing's Hotel!
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
A FIRST-CLASS FAMILY RESORT.

WINE and LIQUOR ROOM
AT NO. 32 PARK AVE.
Where we will be pleased to furnish a first-class wine and liquor with the choicest brands of imported and Domestic Liquors. [apr15]

TURF EXCHANGE HOTEL.
73 Courtlandt street,
(CORNER WASHINGTON, NEW YORK CITY.)
FRED. W. BALLARD, - - Proprietor,
(Formerly of Ballard's Hotel, Plainfield, N. J.)
Centrally located, corner Washington and Cortlandt streets, convenient to all ferries and depots. The Turf Exchange is kept by Fred. and Ed. Ballard, both of Plainfield, and by Wm. Stutzmann, all their old friends will be most cordially received.

PURE WINES, LIQUORS AND SEGARS. [p-1881]

SOMERSET HOTEL,
Cor. Somerset & Chalmers Sts., North Plainfield, N. J.
Commercial and Tracklet Board, at Entrance.
First-class Stables and Sheds attached.
Meals at all (reasonable) hours. [p-1881]

C. E. JOHNSON,
(Late firm of Shepherd, Johnson & Graham,)
CARPENTER AND BUILDER.
Office adjoining City Hotel on Second street, near Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Plans and estimates given. Jobbing especially solicited.

T. J. GILLIES,
Auctioneer & Real Estate Agent,
SALESROOM—Madison Avenue, cor. Front St., PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Goods received on consignment.

MRS. E. J. MARTIN'S
MAGIC RENOVATING FLUID.
For taking out grease from any kind of goods, for cleaning carpets, woolen goods, silks, and laces, for brightening the colors of crapes, delaines, alpacas, for brightening the colors of crapes, delaines, alpacas, for restoring rusty black goods to a rich color, for removing grease spots and soils from any kind of goods, and for all kinds of cleaning and dyeing purposes, at Mrs. E. J. Martin's dress making shop, corner of Second street and North avenue. Mrs. Force's Fancy Goods Store, No. 8 Park avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

JOHN JOHNSTON,
DEALER IN COAL!
YARD AND OFFICE, SOUTH AVENUE,
NETHERWOOD, NEW JERSEY.
The best quality of screened coal at the lowest market price for cash. Address all orders to Netherwood post-office, or to the yard.

Park Avenue Bakery!
JOHN WALKER, Prop'r
FAMILIES and STEAMSHIPS supplied with the Choicest
VIENNA BREAD & ROLLS,
And all Varieties of
Pies, Cake and Confectionery
Always on hand.

Jas. M. Dunn,
Dealer in
GROCERIES, PROVISIONS,
Vegetables, Fruits, etc.
No. 36 Park Ave.
OPPOSITE NORTH AVENUE.

THORBURN & CO.'S GARDEN SEEDS,
BEST IN THE WORLD,
ALL GOODS DELIVERED FREE OF CHARGE.

MICHAEL UHDAL,
CONTRACTOR
AND LANDSCAPE GARDENER!
Residence:
NETHERWOOD, NEW JERSEY.
P. O. BOX 787, PLAINFIELD.
P. O. Box 1, Somerville, N. J.

FINE FOOT WEAR.
BEST MAKES,
LATEST STYLES,
AT THE
NEW SHOE STORE
Doane & Van Arsdale
22 WEST FRONT STREET.

SANITARY PLUMBING,
Brick and Portable Furnaces,
GAS FITTING,
TIN ROOFING,
Etc., Etc.
I am prepared to do any of the above branches in a workmanlike manner, promptly and moderately.
Having associated myself with the Messrs. Palmer Association of New York, I am now one more but fine store manufactory than any other house in all those trades of any other house in all those trades of the country.
D. W. LITTELL,
No. 3 NORTH AVE. opp. Plainfield, N. J.

EDUCATIONAL.

DORSEY W. HYDE,
PRACTICAL TEACHER OF
Piano, Harmony & Guitar.
Full Term commences MONDAY, Sept. 14th. SEND FOR CIRCULAR. P. O. BOX 1125. [p-1881]

MR. LEAL'S SCHOOL
WILL RE-OPEN
Monday, Sept. 19, 1887.
Attendance of room and added facilities make it even more desirable to have our Class for boys ready [p-1881] at ten years of age. Several such pupils have been added each year since 1881. Circulars and information on application.—ap182

A SCHOOL FOR BOYS
WILL BE OPENED IN THE PARLORS OF THE PARK AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH,
SEPTEMBER 15, '86.
APPLICATION MAY BE MADE AT NO. 30 PARK AVENUE, CORNER SIXTH STREET.
ANNA J. MOORE, Principal. [p-1881]

MISCELLANEOUS.

ARTESIAN WELLS.
F. A. W. STOTHOFF
Are prepared to furnish Wells any depth up to 100 feet, and Tube them if need be. Pumps and Piping furnished at bed rock. Residence, 7 E. Jenkins, of Plainfield, P. O. address, Fleming ton, N. J.

Mme. J. BERNARD,
ASTROLOGIST.
Residence—Harmony street, North Plainfield, (north bound Dunellen entrance), left hand side. Information imparted as regards present and future events, likewise as to marriages, lost copies, estate, etc. Satisfaction guaranteed the receiver.
In English, German and French.

My husband is a first-class Chopper, and supplies cake, pale, barrels, etc., choice horses.

Electrical Work!
ELECTRICAL WORK—WE ARE PREPARED to furnish estimates for all kinds of Electrical work, from a call bell to a contemplated exchange. We guarantee all our work. We will be glad to give this item an electrical appearance by a post, visiting and inspecting it at regular intervals, and thoroughly repairing it when ordered.
PLAINFIELD DISTRICT TELEGRAPH CO.,
NO. 2 PARK AVENUE.

C. S. GODDARD, - Manager.

NETHERWOOD FARM!
MOUNTAIN AVE., NEAR PARSAQUIT AVE.
A JERSEY STOCK FARM
OVER
50 HEAD OF JERSEY CATTLE 50
Good family cows for sale at Moderate Prices. Milk and Cream delivered anywhere in Plainfield, Netherwood or Dunellen.
C. S. GODDARD, Proprietor.
J. HERBERT JOHNSTON, Foreman.

CAREY'S
Furniture and Freight Express!
OFFICE, NO. 45 WEST FRONT STREET,
Nearly opposite Laing's Hotel, Plainfield, N. J.
Having leased the above premises I am prepared to handle all second-class furniture. Furniture Rooms, etc. I will also take Furniture in exchange for moving. Furniture etc. stored. P. O. Box 422.—1-1881

JOHN MORTON,
PURE SPRING WATER
-ICE-
Delivered daily to any part of the city at the low est market prices. Residence 107 Madison avenue, Plainfield, N. J. Orders left at Sherwin's store, No. 5 East Front street, Plainfield, will receive prompt attention. Families renting may choose between 25 or 35 lbs. per day. Ice cream manufacturers and others will find it to their advantage to patronize me. I have increased the capacity of my factory to 50 tons per month, and will be pleased to supply all with the best ice in the market.—ap151

DOOR NUMBERS,
DOOR BELLS,
DOOR PLATES,
AT
DICKINSON & CLAWSON'S,
13 PARK AVENUE.
Sole Agents for

Dr. King's Spectacles.
[p-1881]

ALEX THORN
[Late of Berry & Thorn.
CAN BE FOUND AT 37 SOMERSET STREET,
WITH A FULL LINE OF FURNACES,
RANGES,
STOVES,
TINWARE, Etc.
Repairing in His Line Promptly Attended To. [p-1881]

A. H. BOUGHTON,
44 West Fourteenth street, N. Y.
(NEAR MACY'S.)
Boy's Clothing and Hats
EXCLUSIVELY.
The most complete stock of Boy's Fashionable Goods in the city and at popular prices.
KILT SUITS,
SHIRT WAISTS,
EXTRA PANTS.
Former stand of Taylor & Co.

PAINTERS & PAINTERS SUPPLIES

Paints, Varnishes, Glass.
WINDOW SHADES AND FIXTURES.
WALL PAPERS!
PAPER HANGING A SPECIALTY.
A. SWALM,
No. 6 North Avenue, Plainfield.

Weaver Bros.
House & Sign Painting, Graining,
Paper Hanging and Kalsomining a specialty.
Office and Shop in the rear of
10½ EAST FRONT STREET,
D. WEAVER. P. O. Box 331. P. WEAVER.

W. N. HOWE,
PAINTER AND DECORATOR,
Dealer in Paints, Oil, Varnishes, Glass, Brushes, etc. WALL PAPER AND WINDOW SHADES. None but strictly first-class workmen employed and satisfaction guaranteed. No. 21 FRONT STREET, (C. O. Hooker's old stand,) Plainfield, N. J. P. O. Box 1125.—1-1881

L. E. WOOLSTON. J. P. BUCKLE.
Woolston & Buckle,
PAINTERS,
Wall Papers,
PAINTER'S SUPPLIES. 20 NORTH AVENUE
ap2317

MILLINERY.

Mrs. J. M. Dunn,
FASHIONABLE MILLINER.
LATEST SHAPES OF
BONNETS AND HATS.
FRENCH IMPORTED FLOWERS.
Feathers, Velvets, Plushes, Satins, Laces, etc., Fancy Goods and Notions; Dress and Infants' Caps a Specialty.
PINKING, BLEACHING & PRESSING.
Feathers Dyed. Cleaned and Curled AT SHORT NOTICE.
14 West Front street.

TOBACCO, SEGARS, &c.

M. C. DOBBINS,
OPPOSITE RAILROAD STATION.
MANUFACTURER OF
PURE HAVANA CIGARS.
Wholesale and Retail!

H. EGGERDING,
No. 17 Park Avenue,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Manufacturer of the Celebrated
C. O. D. CIGAR.
The best Scent cigar in the State, and made on the premises. Also manufacturer of
CLEAR HAVANA SEGARS A SPECIALTY.
A large assortment of the Choicest Brands of Foreign and Domestic Tobaccos, Snuffs and Smokers' Articles always on hand.
Smokers' Articles in Great Variety.

C. M. FINE,
Dealer in HAVANA & DOMESTIC
—SEGARS—
N. PARK AVE., (near Somerset) SOUTH SIDE,
PLAINFIELD, N. J.
Tobacco and Smoker's Materials,
Of the best quality.
The concentrated Old Judge Smoking Tobacco, with wrapper hydrandeonianly [illegible]

--PICTURE FRAMES--
OF ALL KINDS, AT
S. E. FLOWER'S.
At New York Prices, Studio 35 West Front street. Stainers for drawing and oil painting. ap2317

A. J. SMALLEY. N. B. SMALLEY
Smalley Bros.,
DEALERS IN
Fresh and Salt Meats, Poultry, Etc.
70 SOMERSET STREET, 2 NORTH PLAINFIELD.
Orders called for and delivered free of charge. All [illegible] patronage is solicited.—1-1881

Benj F. Moore,
(Late of Moore Bros.)
BUTCHER
And dealer in FRESH AND SALT MEATS, POULTRY, etc., corner Park avenue and Second street will be open and ready for business on MONDAY, MARCH 30th. Orders called for and delivered free of charge. Satisfaction guaranteed.—m28-1881

MAYNARD & HILL,
PRACTICAL BARBERS
AND
Artistic Hair Dressers,
No. 26 PARK AVENUE,
Ladies' and Children's Hair Cutting done at their residence. Shampooing. Satisfactorily performed. [1y]

CANOPIES
For Weddings, Parties, Etc.,
TO HIRE. CHARGES REASONABLE.
Hugo Weigman,
29 EAST FRONT STREET, PLAINFIELD, N. J. ap2317

GO TO ALLEN'S
For Stationery.
—
23 E. FRONT STREET.

SUMMER
HATS.
CAPS, GLOVES,
Trunks, Valises, Etc
Call and Examine the Elegant Stock of
Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods at
F. A. POPE'S,
(Successor to H. Fernandez.)
No. 5 W. Front-st
ap2317

UNCLE SAM'S MAILS.

The Wonderful System Adopted for the Transmission of Letters and Newspapers.

The first record contained in our colonial history of the establishment of mail facilities from 1677, when, writes John M. Bishop in the Magazine of American History, the people at Boston applauded Mr. John Hayward "to take in and convey letters according to the Governor's order." In 1710, Parliament passed an act to establish a general post-office for all the British colonies, including North America. New York being made the chief letter-office of the colonies. The rates of postage for all letters and packages from New York to any place within 60 miles were 8 cents; single letters, 4 cents; double, eightpence; treble, sixpence; and packets of one ounce and fourpence. In December, 1717, arrangements were made to send letters weekly in Boston from Williamsburg, Va., in four weeks in the summer season, and eight weeks in winter. In 1753, Franklin and Hunter was appointed riding postmaster for all the roads between Philadelphia and Newport, Va., to set out in the beginning of each month, and return in the middle of the month. The rates of postage were calculated seven per cent. of the distance between Philadelphia and Newport.

One letter, less than thirty miles, 8 cents; between thirty and sixty miles, 8 cents; between sixty and one hundred miles, 10 cents; between one and two hundred and fifty miles, 15 cents; two hundred and fifty to three hundred miles, 17½ cents; three hundred and fifty to three hundred and fifty miles, 20 cents; three hundred and fifty to four hundred and fifty miles, 22½ cents; four hundred and fifty miles and upwards, 25 cents. Packages weighing one ounce required double postage, and those weighing four ounces a single letter, and was charged a single rate. Two sheets were counted as double letters, and were charged for at double rates. Every letter was appointed to a letter containing three sheets

The Constitutionalist.

W. L. FORCE, A. L. FORCE,
Editors and Proprietors.

A BUZZING BEE.

Senator John Sherman evidently has the Presidential bee buzzing freely in his bonnet. He has been holding a Republican State Convention at Toledo, Ohio, and the record caused his ambition to be formally proclaimed through the medium of a resolution worded as follows:

"Recognizing, as the Republicans of Ohio always have, the gifted and tried statesmanship of the Republican party of other States, loyal and unfaltering in their devotion to the success of the organization in 1856 under whatever standard it bore the Republican National Convention may select, they have paid pride in the record and career of John Sherman as a leader and chief of the Republican party and as a statesman of fidelity, large experience and great ability. His career as a statesman began with the birth of the Republican party; he has grown and developed with the growth of the organization his genius and patriotism, and stamped upon the records of the country and the statutes and Constitution of the country, and believing that his nomination for the office of President would be wise and judicious, we would respectfully present his name to the people of the United States as a candidate, and announce our hearty and cordial support of him for that office."

That was nicely cut and dried, but, Ohio being a single State and not a majority of the Union, will John's receive make him the nominee of the National Convention next year?

The above quoted resolution is defective in every important particular. After the word "genius" there should have been inserted "wealth," making the record read thus—"he has grown and developed with the growth of that organization his genius, wealth and patriotism."

One of the Sherman school of Republicans, not a kicking Mugwump, nor a venomous Democrat, thus pen pictures the Senator's rival in the columns of a Toledo journal:

"Blaine is not by any means as strong as he was in 1880. Those who know him best, and who have studied him from a purely selfish standpoint, knowing that he is a political Jesuit, courteous in his manners, and plausible in speech, but silent, crafty, and unscrupulous in the promotion of his schemes; professedly open to criticism, while stabbing secretly; keep in his wake of money and political power by the needle of its acquisition and lavish in its expenditure for his own political advancement; a friend and foster father to men with an element of meanness so audacious that it does not always escape notice; a man who, like Garfield's evil genius, his detractor while living and one of his defenders when dead. He involved his Administration in needless and distressing complications from first to last, and the country is still suffering. He used the power conferred by a high office to political ends and private animosities, to execute personal vengeance. He used the full force of the Post-Brands to strike down Secretary Folger for being a Stalwart, and thereby elected Grover Cleveland President by a majority of 200,000 and put it in the power of a Democratic Senate to control of the Executive office. He will never be forgiven in full by his treasury, and he never ought to be. His nomination in 1888 would simply multiply the Mugwump vote of New England ten fold, these would be reinforced in every Northern State by better Republicans than Blaine ever was. He cannot carry New York. He could not touch bottom in Indiana. He could not even if he could again carry Ohio. In short, he is a Pyramid Knight and has his fighting with his jaw and employs a substitute to insure the risk of battle. We have carried him on our backs long. It is time now to prod him with our spears. The people have had enough of him and his spotted record."

What will the Maine statesman say to that when it greets him amid the highlands of old Scotia?

Will he then dance to the festive bagpipe?

Will he cheerily sing Hail Columbia?

Or, with anger flashing eye and husky voice, will he not defiantly declare—"I'll meet them in deadly conflict at Thermopylæ."

If the Plumed Knight cannot himself put upon the Presidential rake-off, we don't doubt but what he will permit the Ohio Prince of Finance to take his place.

THE TRUTH.

The Philadelphia Ledger, George W. Child's organ, says:

"Without the slightest visible effort on his part, the President has strengthened his party's position for the Democratic nomination. This is admitted now. It is the direct result of going right straight along in the line of his duty, without turning to the right or left to please this or to win that interest. It is not often that candidates are made that way, but it is the safest way for candidates who expect to be elected."

That is exactly so, and it is the way all candidates should be made.

If the wisdom of political pipe-laying and wire-pulling to procure nominations and elections could be totally abolished, and instead of sniff men seeking official positions, public offices sought with determination men to fill them because of known good character, ability and fidelity to duty, greatly would the salutary change redound to the benefit of representative government and the welfare of the people.

A writer in the New York World, from Elizabeth, on Friday last, pretends to know all about the political state of affairs in Union County, and makes some ridiculous assertions and prophecies. For instance, this astute writer says that Senator Livingston will not receive a re-nomination, because Plainfield is Republican. Indeed! Well, we think the Plainfield Democrats will have something to say about that, when the Convention meets. Senator Livingston made an excellent representative last Winter, and as Plainfield asks for nothing more than the nomination of Senator from among the many offices to be filled, we guess she will see that Robert is re-nominated. The weather is too hot to talk much politics yet, but when one man and he from Elizabeth attempts to tell how the "thing is to be worked" he may trip up on his calculations.

Out of 900 convicts in the State Prison there are 137 who can neither read nor write. As most of them evince a desire to learn, Keeper Patterson thinks of establishing a night school, to be taught by the better educated prisoners.

State Superintendent Chapman says that the low salaries paid school teachers in New Jersey are driving many of our best teachers out of the State.

Secretary Van Cleve, of the State Board of Assessors, is at work on an elaborate map, in detail, of all the railroads in New Jersey.

Gov. Green has issued a proclamation declaring Inoperative and void a number of private acts.

The New Jersey Medical Society is the oldest in America, being over 121 years old.

A Chance to Hear Dr. McGlynn.

The Rev. Edward McGlynn, D. D., of New York, will speak on "The Cross of the New Crusade"—the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man—next Sunday at the Perine Mountain Home, Baltus Roll Hill, near Westfield. This location is but a short drive from this city, and besides the speaker of the occasion presents most charming mountain scenery as an attraction. The address will be delivered at 11 o'clock sharp, as Dr. McGlynn speaks at the New York Academy of Music the same evening.

NEW MARKET.

The Trustees of the District School have appointed a Mr. M. Benedict as teacher. He was formerly a teacher some fifteen years ago in the State of New York at which time he was highly spoken of. He has no New Jersey State certificate but will have to pass an examination before obtaining it. Opinion is manifestly not to the wisdom of a change. The scholars under the late principal advanced satisfactorily in their studies, and it seems doubtful whether a male principal who is willing to accept $350 a year can possibly give as good service as a female principal at that figure. The salary is too insignificant to obtain a first class teacher of the male gender.

RIGHT BEER.

Stocking Streams.

In accordance with instructions received from State Fish Commissioner, William Wright, of Newark, N. J., Fish Warden Force, of Union county and Bishop, of Somerset county, Friday went to Milton Lake, this county, and with a pail of hard work, succeeded in securing about 150 small black bass, of the large mouth variety, by drawing a small seine for the waters. These fish were carefully preserved in large milk cans, and the majority of them transported to Tier's Lake, this city, where they were placed in the water over night. In consequence of the hot weather, and the long drive, a number of the fish died, but Saturday the Wardens, in company with Mr. E. P. Thorn, a member of the New Jersey Game and Fish Protective Society, drove a distance of nine miles and planted the fish, 90 in number, in Echo Lake, near Springfield, and Seeley's Pond, back of Scotch Plains, where the waters are of the right condition to please them in. By this movement, about another season, there will be a sufficient number of the large mouth or "Oswego" variety to make it interesting for the anglers, and the fish will be prosperity because of sufficient size to catch with hook and line. These fish were secured after considerable difficulty and labor, and cost the State about $50 for time lost, and the distance to and from the lake in all. The fish need now no protection from the seine fiend.

North Plainfield Township Meeting.

The North Plainfield Township committee met in regular session on the 22d instant, all the members present. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved, and bills were ordered paid as follows: J. W. A. Rascassies, $2.25; W. L. Force & Bro., $16. Mr. Ordinance, on behalf of the Republican Legislative committee, reported the following appointment Wardens appointed by the Commissioners, the waters of the Township to be literally stocked with the black bass. All the fish need now is protection from the seine fiend.

Concerning Exemption from Taxation.

Decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Fanwood Township relative to the exemption of firemen from taxation. Messrs. Jackson & Codington, the Township Counsel, gave the following opinion, which is the whole matter in a nut shell:

To Assessor of Fanwood Township:

DEAR SIR:—In answer to yours of the 1st instant would say:

1. We think firemen are entitled to the benefit of Laws 1882, chapter 74; Laws of 1884, page 265, declared constitutional by Supreme Court in case of Christie vs. Bayonne, 19 Vroom 407; Laws of 1885, page 28, liable to same exemption; 222; C. A. Hartpence, 818; Mrs. Farley, 816.

A communication was received from Mayor Male stating that in conformity with the dog ordinance, he would make the following appointments: Pound Master—Frank Van Akin. Dog Catchers—James Babbitt, Edward Cull. The nominations were unanimously confirmed.

Mr. Taylor was called to the stand and testified that he had suspended the regular order of business, and it was so ordered. Mr. Taylor was called to the chair and President Marsh retired from the room.

The treasurer's monthly statement was received and ordered on file. Following is a summary:

Amount to balance July 1st	$7,167.72
Received during month	765.50
	$7,933.11
Total disbursements for month	85,500.29
Balance on Hand	$2,432.82

The monthly report of the Collector was read, received and placed on file. The following is a

RECAPITULATION.

Total State and County Collec'r
Duties	$2,661.61
Judgments	29.75
Sales	1,284.47
City	198.47
Interest	20.00
Cost and Interest City loan Refused	24.46
Total amount taxes collected and paid City Treasurer	3,20.34
City School tax deposited to credit Interest on school tax deposited to credit	169.91
Total amt. to credit S. C. & I. S. T.	222.69
Total receipts for July, 1887	$693.69

JOHN JOHNSON, Collector.

City Physician Manning sent in a report showing that seventeen persons had received treatment at the expense of the city, for a period dating from May 7th to August 1st. It was received and placed on record.

From Assessor Hubbard was read a communication stating that the Assessor's books would be ready for examination by the Council on the 16th instant, and suggesting that the Council meet at that time for said purpose. Upon motion of Mr. Bowers it was resolved that when the Council adjourn it be to meet again in regular session on Tuesday, August 16th.

Chief Dodd sent in a communication to the Council asking for a six week's leave of absence that he was desirous of visiting his mother in the old country who was advanced in years and whom he had not seen in a long time. The communication was referred to the Police Committee with power.

The various committees reported bills received most of the bills referred to them, and they passed into the hands of the Auditing Committee for final signature.

Mr. Bowers asked for a suspension of Rule 32, so as to enable one member of a committee to make a report. He then called for an opinion from Corporation Counsel Marsh relative to the small pox bills, which were presented at a former meeting and referred to the Board of Health. Mr. Marsh said the Health Board had not organized but he was ready to report on two of them—Dr. Manning, $94.50, and Anderson & Brown, $134.50. The Board, $134.50. The Board, $134.50. The Board

CITY DEPARTMENT

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE, THE COUNTY AND THE CITY, AND HAS THE LARGEST CIRCULATION OF ANY PAPER PUBLISHED IN THE COUNTY OF UNION.

J. A. DEMAREST, City Editor.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE OF MAILS

NEW YORK MAILS
CLOSE—At 5.00 A. M. ; 12.00 and 3.30 P. M.
ARRIVE—2.30, 11.45 A. M. ; 12.30 and 5.30 P. M.

SOUTH, SOUTH-WEST, RAHWAY, &c., MAILS.
CLOSE—9.00 A. M. and 4.30 P. M.
ARRIVE—8.45 A. M. and 6.30 P. M.

SUNDAY MAILS.—Arrive at 10.00 A. M. Office open from 8.00 A. M. to 10.00 A. M. Mail closes at 7 P. M.

Mail for Watchung closes Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 12 M.

Post Office open at 7 A. M. and closes at 7 P. M. Saturdays, closes at 9.00 P. M. Open every evening until 9 P. M., to oversee the boxes.

MONEY ORDER office open from 9 A. M., 1.00 P. M. to 4 P. M. W. L. PARCE, Postmaster.

Edsall calls special attention to an excellent line of mourning goods that he is offering at popular low prices.

Several times on Saturday our pressmen were started up after the regular edition was run off, to supply the increased demand for The Press.

The guests at Hotel Netherwood are arranging a Mother Hubbard masquerade, that, judging by past leaps and the recent clearance, is going to be another success.

The appearance of Park avenue, East of the railroad is noted for its cleanliness since the Street Commissioner has removed the refuse from the surface of the pavement.

On Saturday before Justice Austin, in the case of Drake vs. Christi, on motion of Jackson & Codington, attorneys for the defendant Christi, a non suit was granted with costs.

New valves and buckets ordered at a recent meeting of the Fire Board, were placed in Hampton engine during the past week; the engine is once more in good working order.

Not yet three months old—and The Press of Tuesday last—and it has a large volume of new fine advertising. None of it dead because ordered out or expired and all of it paid for at regular rates.

If the New Brunswick T. M. C. A. nine can beat the Plainfield T. M. C. A. nine, at base ball, Saturday, by a score of 21 to 5, what will be the result when the latter fall into the hands of Plainfield's home nine?

A nuisance which is especially noticed in front of the post office, is that of running wagons or other vehicles on the crossings and sidewalks, and allowing them to remain there until the driver feels ready to remove them.

During the heavy shower of Sunday afternoon, a small cyclone struck the residence of Stephen Stevens of Evinon, who struck by lightning, and its inhabitants, an old hen with a brood of little chicks, were all instantly killed.

Mayor Male, on Friday, authorized the Street Commissioner to notify Mr. P. M. Demarest and Frank C. Green that the awnings in front of their places of business were too low, and that they must be raised up so as not to interfere with pedestrians.

The attendance at Warren Mission Chapel Sunday morning reached about 300 scholars. Councilman Dunham superintended the exercises, in his usual pleasing manner, and the interest in the school seemed to be seen the interest in the service in the least.

A large lime bush in the rear of the residence of Martin I. Cooley, of Rockview avenue, Plainfield, was struck by lightning on Sunday. The only occupants of the house at the time were the domestics, and they were thoroughly shocked by the bolt of lightning.

The first open-air free concert by the Plainfield Cornet Band will be given about the middle of the present month. The Band is rehearsing frequently for the opening occasion, and an extensive programme will be rendered. The concert is to be given in front of Miller's Hotel.

A case of cruelty to a child is reported from South Second street, near the Potter Press Works, where a mother is alleged to have cruelly beaten her daughter on several occasions recently. Justice Nash sent a letter to the inhuman mother, warning her to desist from such treatment.

Notwithstanding that some of our Plainfield young men have made good records at crab catching this season, an exchange says: A barge bagged South Amboy girl with an old handkerchief on a kept owning to catch them in about fifteen minutes than all the other crabbers put together.

The opening concert by the "Katy Dids" and the "Katy didn't's," took place on the 27th, according to the old adage, but six weeks will elapse before their makes its appearance. Many persons would greatly herald the arrival of frost at any time, so intense has been the heat for the past week.

The Central Land Improvement Co., Wednesday gave out contracts for the erection of five dwelling houses in the vicinity of the Pond Tool Works at Evans. Mr. Noel was awarded the contract for five double houses, and Mr. Gadale, five single houses, of the First Construction Company, two houses.

If the ignites who are poisoning gasoline stoves about the city could be caught, the coroner would have sufficient evidence to almost justified in treating them with a dose of their own prescription. A gentleman residing on Second street, was severely injured by a explosion of gasoline recently, said to have been caused by poisoning a noble gasoline for which he had refused $300.

A particular friend of ours, in the gas company, says: "I have suffered almost intolerable discomfort and suffering, consequent upon the calorific humidity of the circumambient atmosphere, during the sustained period of the present 'dog-days' cannot be gauged or indicated by any barometrical, thermometrical or other register extant."

Councilman Voorhees said at the meeting of the City Council on Monday evening, that he did not see the necessity of appointing three members on the Street Committee, or any other Committee, when one man can do it, and have the power and right to transact all the business coming under the jurisdiction of said committee. Jess so.

"Stretcher," a valuable pet horse belonging to Councilman and ex-Common Council B. F. Coriell, was taken suddenly ill with colic early on Saturday morning. A veterinary surgeon labored with the sick animal all day, but he died in great agony during the evening. Mr. Coriell says the horse has been owned in the family for the past fifteen or sixteen years, and that he had refused an offer of $300 for him, so great had become the attachment between animal and owner.

George Butcher, the driver for No. 2 Engine company, was injured a few days ago while assisting some furniture, and since then he has been obliged to hobble around on crutches. When the alarm of fire was sounded Tuesday afternoon, Mr. Butcher had to be lifted on the seat of his engine, and sped away to the fire, in advance of the other department apparatus. When he returned to the house he had to be lifted from his seat. Mr. Butcher has had charge of No. 2's horses ever since the company has owned them, and he is entitled to credit for keeping the horses in such a fine condition. Zephyr Hook & Ladder company's horses and Warren Engine company's horses are also kept in good condition, and are well cared for by the members of each company.

Opening of Music Hall.

On Monday, of next week, Stillman's Music Hall will be reopened with Mountain, Rice and Fagan's United Minstrels. The organization is a new one, having only been on the road about a week, but the members comprise among it are all old to the profession and rank among the best of minstrels now before the public. A prosperous season is anticipated at Music Hall, as among the bookings are some of the best drawing attractions procurable.

Plainfield Fishermen.

Freeholder Vanderbeek, ex-Mayor Beckfellow and M. M. Thorn succeeded in securing one eel and an orphan porgie from the water at Seward. The trip did not cost them much outside of car fare.

Thursday three of our city merchants "did a fishing go." They were Messrs. B. T. Barnes, W. W. Coriell and W. N. Borre, and the objective point was New Brooklyn. Following is the result of their catch: Mr. Rowe, a catfish; Mr. Barnes, a mudsh, and Mr. Coriell a snapping turtle, which afterward got away.

Ex-Councilman Andrew Love, and ex-Borough Marshal Weaver, Thursday afternoon cast their lines in the turbid water of the New Brooklyn pond. The total catch was 155 sun fish, actual count, and all the fish would not satisfy one hungry man. The fish bit so fiercely, it is said, that the ex-Councilman was overcome and taken with severe pains in his side while attempting to land what turned out to be a tomcat.

A Model Residence.

Councilman B. O. Bowers' new residence at Franklin Square is almost completed, and in another month the family will move into it. Mr. Bowers will then have his present home repaired and renewed, and will lease or sell it. The new house is built from plans by Architect Charles H. Smith, as described in full by us before its erection was commenced. Its exterior from any point shows artistic and effective designing, unexcelled in the past week; the engine is once more in good working order.

Peculiar Freak of Lightning.

One day last week the Trustees of the Crescent Avenue church discovered a leak in the roof of their handsome edifice, this city, which gave evidence of spoiling the handsome frescoing of the ceiling just completed. A workman from Mr. A. M. Griffin's named John Sleight, was engaged to discover the leak. He found it in a small round hole about half an inch in diameter, in the copper covered valley leading from one of the rear projections of the building to the copper water leader or gutter. Investigation proved that the hole was caused by a lightning bolt attracted thither by the copper valley which is an excellent conductor. Half way down the valley, the electric current was attracted to an iron nail beneath the copper covering, and the fluid in passing through melted the copper and burned off to the ground by way of the water leader. No other indications of the electrical current was detected, not even the woodwork being scorched. It simply "burned" its way through the copper, and passed off the building. There was no lightning rod on that part of the building. Mr. Sleight cut out the damaged piece of copper and it may be seen among other curiosities in the front window of The Press counting room. It is supposed the damage was done during a heavy shower some ten days ago.

A Blacksmith Shop Robbed.

During Thursday night burglars entered the blacksmith shop of J. P. Homan on Somerset street by prying open a window in the office in the rear of the building. After getting inside, a large fire proof safe which stands in the office was opened and ransacked. About eight dollars in money was all that was found. Mr. Homan says that when he arrived at his place of business yesterday morning, he found a window raised and the door of the safe wide open. The safe is an old-fashioned make and was fastened by means of a padlock, the key of which Mr. Homan had hastily left in it, a comparison place on top to aid the robbers in their work, so that it would not become necessary to blow the safe open to accomplish their design. One of the drawers in the desk was also opened and gone through, but nothing of value was taken therefrom. Mr. Homan says he never leaves any great amount of money in the safe, but keeps it merely for his books in case of fire. Wednesday afternoon a gentleman called and paid him a bill, which amount he placed in the safe at the time, where it remained until the burglars relieved him of it after working hours. The robbery was evidently the work of some one or persons who are familiar with the surroundings, as not even a pane of glass was broken out in their efforts to gain admission to the place. As it was made through a side door, opening into a lane adjoining the Farmer's Hotel. The authorities are quietly working on the case and several other developments may be expected at any time.

Arrested for Stealing Rides on Trains.

When the "owl train" arrived at the depot in this city at 1.20 o'clock on Sunday, officers Grant and McCue gathered in three young men who were found beating their way on the front platform of the cars. They were all locked up over Sunday, and on Monday arraigned before Judge Ulrich at the station house. The first one brought up was a boy by the name of Robert Reed, and his residence as Somerville. He looked like a genuine countryman, and was very nervous. The young man's mother was sick, and he had been hastily summoned from Somerville by telegram, and when the Judge put the customary questions to the prisoner, the latter answered promptly and in a way like a child. He said that in company with another young man he had walked to Cranford to visit his aunt. They were without money and boarded the train to ride home. Judge Ulrich told him that he was old enough to know better, and said that stealing rides on the cars was as bad as stealing a pocketbook. The prisoner's mother cried loudly while the Judge was giving her son a bit of sound advice, which it is thought will prove a lesson to him in the future. He was fined five dollars.

Max Barlow was the next prisoner arraigned. He was a companion of Reed, and also gave very prompt replies. He pleaded the baby act, by stating that he did not know it was in violation of the law to beat his way on a passenger train. Judge Ulrich told him that he had violated the law when he also imposed a five dollar fine on him. A collection was taken up among the station house loungers and a shortage of thirty-five cents for "Bobbie's fare home" which the Judge kindly loaned them.

"Francis Gillespie," answered the next prisoner when Judge Ulrich asked him his name. "He was drunk and beating his way," said officer Grant who lodged the complaint against him. "Five dollars or thirty days," said the Judge. He took the latter.

Personalia.

Miss Mabel Pearce is summering near Kingston, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Alex Bass, Jr., are enjoying these weeks at Little Silver.

Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Myers have returned from a trip in the White Mountains.

Miss Laura A. Pierce of Summit avenue, North Plainfield, is visiting friends at High Bridge, N. J.

Councilman Rowland Cox and family have gone to the Adirondacks for a season of five weeks.

Miss May Balliet of New York city, is spending a few days with her friend Miss Josie Taylor of North avenue.

Miss Sophie Westerfield, of Easton, Penn., is visiting her cousin, Miss Lottie Westerfield, of North Plainfield.

Mr. W. H. Baker, a druggist from Clinton, N. J., spent Sunday with his father, Rev. Mr. Baker, of Second street.

Mr. F. E. Church and family of Dunellen and Emily streets, have just returned from a long stay at Ocean Grove.

An infant son of Robert H. and Charlotte E. Gallaher, died at his parents' residence on Arlington avenue Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Lowe and family of Park place, Brooklyn, are now sojourning for the mountains, going to the Catskills.

Mrs. J. W. Jackson and daughter, Miss Carrie, of Crescent avenue, have returned from their Summer house at the seashore.

Assistant Postmaster John L. Force, and Henry Willett, are guests of the Surf House, Asbury Park, for the next two weeks.

Mr. C. W. Hillman, Superintendent of the Warren Mission Sunday School, and family of Second place, have gone to Ocean Grove for the remainder of the season.

Mrs. Theodore A. Dunn of Broadway, this city, and her daughter, Miss Bertie Baker, are at the Commercial Hotel, Asbury Park.

Mr. D. N. Moore and family of East Fifth street left Friday for a three weeks' sojourn at Point Pleasant, stopping, during their stay at the Arnold House.

Mr. William S. Reynolds and Miss Drucilla V. Mac Auley both of Scotch Plains, were married at the Baptist parsonage at that place on Wednesday of last week, by the Rev. J. B. Parks.

The first article in the current number of The Century is a profusely pictured one, which the magazine thoroughly artistic and originally treated illustrations by George Wharton Edwards of Central avenue.

Mr. Thomas M. Paff, Jr., of Scotch Plains, formerly of this city, was married on Wednesday, 27th, to Miss Ella C. Gere of Brooklyn. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride's parents, Rev. J. H. Parks, pastor of the Scotch Plains Baptist church officiating.

The Rev. W. E. Richards left this week to join his wife and children and enjoy a well earned vacation. Some able speakers have been secured to supply the pulpit of the Crescent avenue church, during the pastor's absence, who will be duly announced in these columns.

Chief Dodd, having practically been granted a six week's leave of absence by the Council at its last meeting, will sail for Glasgow on the steamship "Anchor line, on Saturday, the 6th instant, Chief Dodd will make the trip alone, and will visit his mother, whom he has not seen for many years.

Mr. Ernest O. Chamberlin, formerly editor of The Bulletin, of this city, and now on the editorial staff of the New York Sun, with his wife, spending a few weeks at the residence of his father on Madison avenue. Since becoming a Benedict, Mr. Chamberlin is looking as well as he is happy—which is indeed very well.

The young men in Plainfield and many other places are discovering that Mr. John Leal can store their minds with sound and lasting knowledge, as fitting them for business or collegiate lives. This is Mr. Leal's sixth school year, and all the young men who have attended his school speak in the most flattering terms of his ability as a teacher.

Encouraged by the success of their recent garden party on a smaller scale, the people of Netherwood are arranging for an extensive one during the last week in August or the first week in September. Fuller particulars we are not at liberty just now, to make public, but as future arrangements are perfected they will be reported first in these columns.

A private telegram from Mr. George Hosier, of the Thatcher Primrose & West minstrel combination, to Postmaster Force, dated Milwaukee, Wis., says:

"Our superior glasses and Bones packed to-night for Chicago."

The combination opened at Milwaukee the 30th. The many friends of Mr. Thatcher in this section will be pleased to learn of the success attending their new and expensive venture.

Rev. Cornelius Schenck, the recently installed pastor of Trinity Reformed church, left town on Tuesday morning last for a month's recreation in upper New York state. During his absence his address will be at the Hilton House, Haines' Corners, Greene county, N. Y., the present location of Mr. and Mrs. J. VanNest of the Second street. Mr. L. L. Martin and family of North Plainfield are also Summering there.

Little Freddie Mixon, the five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Mixon of Park avenue, tendered his friends and acquaintances a party on the 27th, the occasion being the celebration of his fifth birthday. Quite a number were present, fifteen or twenty were present and spent a few hours pleasantly together. Thursday morning Mrs. Mixon and her son left for Mauch Chunk, the justly styled "Switzer land of America."

During Wednesday of last week, Miss Susan Charlotte Pike, eldest daughter of Mr. Webster Pike, Esq., of this city, was married in the Thirteenth Street Presbyterian church of New York, to Mr. Joseph W. Savage, son of the late J. W. Savage, Mayor of Rahway. Mr. and Mrs. Savage sailed day on a wedding trip to California, as announced. The groom's father was a brother of the first Mrs. Pike, the bride's mother.

Mary Gorton, a stepdaughter of the late Dr. John Craig, died at her home on East Fifth street at an early hour Friday morning. The deceased was taken ill about a week ago, and continued to grow worse, until death relieved her of her suffering. She was well known in this city, and possessed a large circle of friends and acquaintances who will learn of her death with much sorrow. She was a regular attendant at the Trinity Reformed church and Sunday school.

Advices from Chautauqua speak highly of the success of Mr. George E. Vincent's debut as a public speaker. One correspondent writes—"How time one may think, upon first thought, depends upon the introduction of a speaker; and during the past two weeks Mr. George E. Vincent has most ably performed this trying and difficult task. Mr. Vincent is entirely unaffected in manner and speech, and bids fair, from what we hear, to succeed his father, the Doctor, in the Chautauqua management.

Everything's in shape again at the Bleecker Light company's station, and the North Plainfield lamps once more hold their own in the dark. Our residents should particularly thankful that although the annual electric storms of the past few weeks have burned out all connections and wrecked the apparatus, they were light to New York and other cities, yet the illumination of Plainfield has not been interrupted. The constant attention and watchfulness of superintendent J. H. Tabor, and Chief Engineer Binning, have thus resulted to the city's convenience.

Miss J. A. Nutt is visiting friends at Key East.

Miss Streull is home again from Asbury Lake.

Mrs. C. S. West and family are at Spring Lake.

Miss Clarkson returned Wednesday from Spring Lake.

Mrs. Rowland Cox and family are at Leon Lake, N. Y.

Mr. Sam'l H. Birdsall and family are at Ellenville, Ulster county, N. Y.

The cottagers at Netherwood are to have a lawn picnic in a few days.

Mr. John B. Drayton and his mother are at Woonsocket, R. I., for a fortnight.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Allwood, of West Front street, are at Cape Vincent, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Edsall have gone to Lake Hopatcong, as usual, for the month of August.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Mulford, of the Crescent, are stopping at the Vermont House, Atlantic City.

Miss Kitty Green, of Albany, N. Y., is visiting, for a few days, Mrs. C. M. Pine, of West Front street.

Mr. C. W. Beebe and family, of Central avenue have gone to Water Mills, L. I., for the month of August.

Mr. and Mrs. Abram Hooley, with their child and nurse, of Central avenue, are at Wallace Cottage, Asbury Park.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Williamson of New York city have taken up their residence on West Third street, this city.

Miss Jessie Utter, organist of the Crescent avenue church, left Tuesday for a two weeks visit in Rhode Island.

Mrs. F. Howard Gray, of New street, is spending a few weeks with her young son at her former home in Connecticut.

Pine Commissioner Wm. H. Brower and wife left Wednesday for a few week's stay at Meadham, in Morris county.

Miss Lillie Fritts, daughter of Dr. J. T. Fritts of Park avenue, has just returned from her visit to White House, N. J.

Mrs. J. P. Homan and family, accompanied by Miss Mamie Fritts, have left for a two weeks' stay at Asbury Park.

Miss Lulu Tyler, Miss Mamie Tyler, Miss Maggie Manning and Mr. Corydon Tyler, left yesterday for Long Lake, N. Y.

Mr. I. Schwed of the clothing firm of Messrs. Schwed Brothers, has gone to the Catskills to spend a few days with friends.

Mr. George D. Patten and family, of LaGrande avenue, are at Asbury Park for this week, to spend the month of August.

The family of Mr. James R. Weaver, of LaGrande avenue, are at the "Buena Vista," Ocean Beach, for a sojourn of six weeks.

Miss Marion Randolph, of East Front street, has returned from the ocean breezes and cool weather in general at Block Island.

Mr. Frank L. Putnam, of Edsall's, is spending a two week's vacation as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Romaine Stoddard, Norwich, Conn.

Dr. B. Titsworth, of East Front street, has found it necessary to seek a few days' coolest rest, and has gone to the Atlantic Hotel, Long Branch.

Mr. William Williams, Jr., and Miss Williams, are at home again after a delightful visit at Dr. Strong's Seaside Sanitarium, Asbury Park.

Mr. Seymour D. Parker, the well-known scene painter from the "Criterion Theatre," Brooklyn, has begun the repainting of the scenery of Music Hall.

Miss Kinsey has gone to Pine Bush, Orange county, New York, for the month of August, where she will join Mrs. O. B. Matthews and Miss Matthews.

The Misses Roderick, of North Plainfield, who have been at the Mansion House, Asbury Park, for the past two weeks, returned home Monday.

Ex-Councilman John Cameron, who is building a railroad in Southern Missouri, arrived in this city Wednesday, where he will remain a few days on business.

Mrs. W. B. Vail, of this city, returned home from Asbury Park Monday, where she has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Geo. F. Brown, of North Plainfield, at their seaside cottage.

Mr. Harry Thorn, Jr., of Franklin place, who has been regaining good health at Livingston, near Orange, for the past few months, was in this city Monday for a brief visit. He is greatly improved in every way, and in looks and strength is more like himself again.

The funeral services of the late Mary Gorton were held at her late residence Monday at 4.15 p. m. The Rev. Dr. K. P. Ketcham officiated, and special music was rendered by a quartette composed of Miss Alice Mills, Miss Lulu Ketcham, and Messrs. F. and E. Runyon.

Dr. S. G. Gregory, one of the most renowned and successful of medical specialists of New York city, came to Plainfield recently in ill health. His recovery was so speedy and satisfactory, he intends to make this city his future home. He is at present the guest of Mr. James M. Force.

The Right Rev. Dr. Worthington, Bishop of Nebraska, is at The Nethewood, the guest of Mr. D. F. Rartsouch. During his recent visit to New York, the Bishop was the guest of J. Edwards Simmons, Esq., President of the New York Stock Exchange, and was entertained by a number of the leading lights of the city.

The funeral obsequies following the death of Mrs. Elston Marsh took place from the late residence of the deceased on Madison avenue at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, and at 10 o'clock Rev. Dr. Dickson took charge of the funeral service and a choir of male and female voices rendered appropriate music. The remains will be interred in the family plot in Evergreen Cemetery at the conclusion of the family.

Mr. J. C. Randolph, father of Mr. Warren Randolph, of the drug firm of Field and Randolph, sustained a painful shock to one of his arms on Somerset street on Wednesday. He made an attempt to board a passing lumber wagon when his foot slipped, and he was thrown to the wheels. The arm was severely wrenched, and for a time Mr. Randolph was prostrated with pain. He soon recovered, however, and resumed his journey on foot.

David Squiers, son of William Squiers, a well-known resident of Plainfield, died at his home in Stiger Alley, Tuesday night, after months of suffering with Bright's disease. Deceased was a soldier in the late civil war, enlisting in the 27th Reg., N. J. Vols., Co. B., in September, 1862. He was discharged after serving two months in consequence of disability from the disease of which he died. "Dave" was a noted local sportsman and fisherman. He leaves a wife and two children.

Reform Club Excursion.

The next water excursion from this city will be that of the Plainfield Reform Club on Tuesday, August 9th, to Rockaway Beach. The steamer Thomas Cornell has been chartered for the occasion to convey the excursionists to and from the beach. Ample time will be given for surf bathing and to visit the various places of amusement. A special attraction at the beach will be a balloon ascension. The New York Sun of Sunday says that Prof. Baldwin of San Francisco will drop from his balloon at an attitude of 2,000 feet at Rockaway Beach on the above date. The train will leave this city at 8 a. m. sharp, and returning the boat will leave Rockaway Beach at 5.30 p. m. Tickets $1.25; children under 12 years of age 75 cents.

Free Organ Recitals.

During the next two Sundays Mr. Frank Taft will be "supply organist" at Crescent Avenue church, and the music authorities of the church have thereby seized an opportunity for the pleasure of the public. Two organ recitals have been arranged for the Saturday evenings of this and next week, and programmes of popular music will then be rendered by Mr. Taft. The performances will begin at eight o'clock, and admission will be free. The electric lighting of the church does not interfere with the evening coolness.

A Move in the Right Direction.

Mr. Peter H. Bennett who succeeds Mr. B. H. Bachman in the business heretofore conducted by the latter on Park avenue, formally took possession of the place yesterday morning. The new proprietor is one of the sort of men which this community will gladly welcome into its midst, for he is a prosperous future is predicted for him. He immediately instituted the early closing movement among the butchers by closing down his establishment at 6 o'clock promptly at half-past seven o'clock last evening, thus giving his employees an hour or two's recreation in the evening before bed time. By this action he has at once commanded the good will of his employees, and in this new departure he has displayed commendable enterprise, which the public will doubtless endorse. Mr. Bennett is an old resident in this city, and has gained many warm friends here. He will continue to conduct the business by keeping on hand a choice supply of meats, fruits, vegetables, etc.

Tribute in Memoriam.

At a special meeting of the Plainfield Medical Association, held at the residence of Dr. J. T. Fritts, on Saturday evening last, the following resolutions were offered and adopted:

"WHEREAS, God in His wisdom has removed from us our venerable brother—Dr. Lewis Craig,

Resolved, That as practitioners of medicine in Plainfield we desire to pay a tribute of grateful remembrance to his life, and feel assured that he has well finished his work and fulfilled his appointed time and was ready to receive the rewards of those that have served well in the sight of God and his fellow men. For over a half century Dr. Craig has been known to the citizens of this vicinity as a skillful physician, and held in high esteem; truly may it be said of him—"he faithfully served his day and generation." He was always gentlemanly, polite, dignified and cordial; we are grateful for his long life of usefulness, and that at last he was ready to pass to the mansions of his fathers; may we all imitate his faith and virtues!

Resolved, That the Plainfield Medical Association attend the funeral in a body.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, and also be published in the Plainfield papers.

T. H. TOMLINSON,
WM. S. KUSHERER,
J. B. PHOBASCO,
E. W. HYDORN, Committee.

The Strange Case of Doctor Cooley and Mr. Simpson.

From time to time since the creation of a Borough out of that portion of the Township of North Plainfield lying the most adjacent to this city, complications of law have arisen from the efforts of the Borough authorities to enforce the provisions and requirements of its ordinances. There have been many arrests for violations of the Borough's laws, that have resulted in the imposing of the penalties prescribed, and been followed by appeals from Justices' Courts to higher courts. Yesterday, however, the authorities put down their feet, and made their power felt. The strange story is about as follows. The Justice before whom the case was tried in the case—whether the day's action comes under the head of intimidation, coercion or persuasion.

A laborer in the employ of ex-Councilman Robert Simpson of this city was arrested some months ago in the Borough for the non-payment of a certain amount without a license. He pleaded guilty and judgment was taken against him, but levy was made on his employers' property, and the fine collected. Mr. Simpson whose property was thus held on another man's confession without any hearing in his own defense, did not pay this penalty and his stock of goods was seized to satisfy said judgment. As he was exempt by law to the amount of $200, and not believing the property would bring a sufficient sum in excess of such amount to pay the judgment, the horse and wagon were released, but not until Mr. Simpson had got the Sheriff here with a writ of replevin. Mr. Simpson through his counsel, Craig A. Marsh, Esq., then brought an action against Justus H. Cooley and George Becker, not as officials, but as individuals, placing his damages at $200.

The next act in the drama is dated June 20, 21 and 22. At that time Mr. Simpson was charged by Marshal Parker with violating the Borough ordinance in continuing the business of carman within its limits without its license. On the May 31st, the complaint Mayor Cooley issued a warrant, and such document was served Tuesday as stated in THE PRESS. The defendant took the opportunity was the first that presented itself. Mr. Simpson says he passed the Marshal in the Borough repeatedly during the forenoon, and the Mayor Cooley us that the serving of the warrant was restrained because of the suit brought against himself and his officer by the latter's counsel. The Mayor he preferred to seem to lack energy in the punishing of a violator of the Borough's law, rather than to appear to interfere with the defendant's freedom in prosecuting his claim for his rights. But Mr. Simpson's action for damages subsequently fell through, and the Mayor of the Borough then instructed the Marshal to arrest the accused the first time he could lay hands on him within the officer's jurisdiction. Tuesday Mr. Simpson was arrested by Marshal Becker, taken before Mayor Cooley, and without a witness being sworn the accused was committed to the afternoon. Rev. Dr. Dickson, during the weeks previous, however, Mr. Simpson had procured the services of Craig A. Marsh, Esq., and had his counsel present when the case was called. Mr. Marsh objected to the hour, the public will see, the defendants had securely imprisoned the plaintiff, and the case was adjourned until his sentence should be served.

The strangest features of this history now follow. It was decided to hold the prisoner for three days, and then adjourn for his suit. He was told he was assured that his sentence would be repealed if he agreed to withdraw his action against Mayor Cooley and Becker, and take out a cartman's license. In other words, that although sentenced for ten days by the Mayor for violating the Borough of the Mayor's ordinance, yet he would be released from all penalty of such act upon discontinuing his demand for damages in the personal suit, and taking out a license. Against the earnest advice of his Counsel and in the face of his emphatic protest, Mr. Simpson signed a general release of all his claims and consented to discontinue his suit. He also took out and paid for a license from the Borough to continue the business he was arrested in the act of doing, while the prisoner was in duress. Pen and ink were brought into the Borough lock-up with which to execute the "satisfaction deeds." Counsel was also said to be quite silent. "Simpson you are throwing away a thousand dollars by this action." The prisoner's reply was to the effect that he was sacrificing twice as much he must do it, as he could not wait for relief from a higher court. He had been "sold" by the Marshal and Mayor, and would kill a man by any court one night even in the pen he was sentenced to occupy for ten days. The prisoner was then released and he is pledged to appear in the Borough Court on Friday of next week. But is everything settled comfortably and finally?

A LITTLE OF EVERYTHING COLUMN.

For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Price 25 cents. Sold by Field & Randolph.

J. A. Taylor, of Clifton, Kansas, writes:—"Dr. Bull's cough syrup is the best I have ever used for the cures he recommend. It has never failed me."

30 Seth Arnold's Regular Coated Blood Pills will purify the blood, regulate the stomach and liver, and invigorate the system.

Shiloh's Whooping Cough and Bronchitis immediately relieved by Shiloh's Cure. Sold by Field & Randolph.

A Nasal Inhaler free with each bottle of Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Sold by Field & Randolph.

Shiloh's Cough and Consumption Cure is sold by us on a guarantee. It cures Consumption. Sold by Field & Randolph.

Sleepless nights, made miserable by that terrible cough. Shiloh's Cure will relieve you at once. Sold by Field & Randolph.

Will you suffer with Sore Throat and Liver Complaint? Smith's Vitalizer is guaranteed to cure you. Sold by Field & Randolph.

Catarrh cured, health and sweet breath secured by Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Nasal Inhaler free. Sold by Field & Randolph.

When baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she was a Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Chester G. Parker, of Oneida, N. Y., was entirely cured of an attack of Asiatic cholera and lung, accompanied by a severe cough of several years standing, by the use of Dr. Bull's Balsam of Wild Cherry.

—According to an act of the legislature passed last Winter, the first Monday in September will be observed as a legal labor holiday.

Many suffer rather than take measures to effect cure; and this is not strange, as the remedy is often worse than the disease. For coughs, colds, influenza, sore throat or tendency to consumption, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is a sovereign remedy. Prepared by a skilful chemist, it is reliable and safe.

—Some one comes forward with the theory that cigarette smoking is the cause of softening of the brain. This is not exactly right, but softening of the brain tends to cigarette smoking.

Ely's Cream Balm was recommended to me by my druggist as a preventive to hay fever. Have been using it and am pleased to say it is the first remedy that has relieved me. I shall use it as directed until cured, and have found it a specific for that much dreaded disease.—Frederick Mixon, 1 Park ave. Of more I have been a great sufferer each year, and Ely's Cream Balm will insure me relief. Its delightful remedies or its cure, but Ely's Cream Balm is the only preparation I have used that has done more sufferers could be know of its efficacy.—F. B. Ainsworth, Druggist, Indianapolis, Ind.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure.
This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and can not be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall street, New York.—m19t7

DEMAREST'S
NEW STORE
Specialty in Creamery Butter, Ferris Hams, Bacon and Tongues, Pillsbury and La Favorita Flour, Fruits, and Vegetables all kinds. 3 pounds of French Prunes for 25c., No. 1 French Peas 20c., Ex. Quatity Dates, 10c. All goods First-class and at Bottom Prices. Please call and examine stock and prices.
P. M. DEMAREST,
27 PARK AVENUE.

Special Notice!
WE HAVE JUST ADDED
500 BOYS' SUITS.
SOME AS LOW AS $2.00.
SOME AS HIGH AS $7.50.
Sebring Bros.,
Music Hall Entrance.

COCKLE'S ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS,
THE GREAT ENGLISH REMEDY
For Liver Ills, Indigestion, etc. Free from Mercury. Sold by all Druggists. Price 25 cts. Agent: C. K. CRITTENTON, New York.

Special Sale!
LOW PRICES!
Dry Goods & Carpet House.
4 EAST FRONT STREET—Y. M. C. A. HALL.

PECK'S CORNER. PECK'S CORNER.
CORSETS AND BUSTLES.
BUSTLES. AND CORSETS.
AT PECK'S!
MOURNING GOODS
A SPECIALTY, AT EDSALL'S!
The best place to buy all kinds of Dry and Fancy Goods, Laces, Ribbons, Hosiery, Gloves, Ladies' and Gents' Furnishing Goods, Corsets, etc.
CARPETS, OIL-CLOTHS,
Mattings, Rugs, Curtains, all guaranteed at New York Popular Low Prices.

GREEN HAS OPENED!
EVERYTHING NEW. COME AND SEE ME.
LOWEST PRICES MARKED ON EVERYTHING.
REPAIRING AND UPHOLSTERING IN ALL BRANCHES.
Great Bargain Sale of Remnants
AT POPE'S.
Remnants of Dress Goods.
Remnants of Lawns.
Remnants of Seersuckers.
CARPETS, MATTINGS, &C.
REGARDLESS OF COST.
OUR OWN MANUFACTURE.
A. M. Vanderbeek & Co.,
(Successors to A. Vanderbeek.)
DEALERS IN SPORTING GOODS,
Musical Instruments,
SHEET MUSIC, CUTLERY, ETC.
No. 33 Park avenue, Plainfield, New Jersey.
C. K. COMPTON,
Confectioner and Ice Cream Caterer,
Only the Best of Ice Cream and Ices Furnished for Weddings, Parties, Receptions.
TRY MY CREAM AND HOME-MADE BREAD.
First-class stock. Hot in the afternoon at 5 o'clock. Please remember I manufacture my own Candy and use only the best of sugar and No. 1 flavoring matter and vegetable coloring materials. Goods promptly delivered.
C. K. COMPTON,
26 West Front Street. Near the Opera House.
HALL'S
MACHINE PICKED.
STEAM AND DRY AIR BLAST FEATHERS
NO DUST. NO ANIMAL MATTER.
NO ODOR. NO QUILLS.
Prepared only by PATENTED MACHINERY, at Factory of FRANK A. HALL, NEW YORK.
TRADE MARK REGISTERED.
The CLEANEST and BEST for Family Use.
Packed in Bleached Muslin Bags of the following sizes: 2 lbs., 3 lbs., 5 lbs., 10 lbs., 25 lbs., 50 lbs.
Every Bag bears the above TRADE MARK & REG. NO.
TAKE NO OTHER.
ASK YOUR DEALER FOR THEM.

POETIC PUNGENCIES.

His Secret.

What if she knew it all?
What if she saw not?
What if she read my secret thoughts,
Even as he spoke?

Sad would her heart be then,
Wretched would be her life,
She knows her love would cure no home—
Nothing but constant strife.

Strife with a restless love,
Strife with a love unkind,
Strife with thoughts that would drag her down
Below the mind.

Like the murderous devil fish,
What it did know it did!
What if my heart should speak?
What if she knew that all I get
Is on usual dollars a week?
—Somerville Journal.

Dangered.

If like to see a single deer,
And just him on the head,
Well I dare not the rashness then
That dog-nish always shed.

And if no license he doth pay,
Nor collar on him round,
I like to see that puppy dog
Industriously dog-round.
—Life on Ice Pedant.

A sore Needle.

There is a town some-where which is known
As Sores Knee, and it's quite the most Better of it town!

It is ever a-busy thing aside about you,
Anthy musing, seeking out a place for Obtaining honest pen-nies.

In spite the-se signs, indeed, com-fortable and from maiden, till the wives are over-laden with debt!

And yet, the-se rich as they, the most correct never is quiet, and you really can't come such to visit!

You think you're sure to-learn it, and around the wad you join it, but you'll sadly matter flaunt it, as it shines.

Oh, sweet is Anon Keener; on your very nose he'll notice, not to say-this you moreov-er to-day.

Confound the weighed creature; he sells your every feature, as he floats you like a leech and by-gone!

Oh, if he sang in Eden no stronger proof I'm needin' of the failure of the second from the-grade.
—Cleveland Sun.

The Minnesota Blizzard.

In a little sod shanty,
Ten miles from a town,
A mother put her little babe
To bed and shook down
The ashes upon the hearth,
And then with a light
Heart went to bed
And dreamed of delight.

Her husband was coming
O'er the prairie wide and bare,
With his arms filled with things
Needful and things rare
For the babe and wife
He loved more than life.

The tempest came howling
Across the wild plain,
The snow fell and drifted
And drifted again,
Till the shanty was hid
From view, and the sun
Shone bright as it slid
Down the sky and was done.

The husband was lost
In the storm on the way,
The mother heard not
The wind shriek and bray,
But dreamed of the form
Of her babe safe and warm.

Next morning through the big bird above the alligator region is reached. It is a pretty sight to see the people in the boat with transient delight footsteps up the latter and descend into the cabin. Here are pots had rich foliage plants that lend a tropical air to the spot. Sitting the cabinette are the ladies, and their pretty thoughts are built six in a row, the necessary number to a seat. Then there is a bar. There is very little fancy fiction among them, persons current fluctuating in the price of cotton on the one hand and healthy appetite. Here are all the biggest cane in the world, and the ladies, who certainly consequently they are glass fed into the cane-producing region.
watch the water must be changed for the salubrity of the atmosphere. There is a cadaverous gentleman with a carpet-bag for that must be regarded. It is the particular property of the captain. It is full of the forms, and things about him with mechanical precision. Before each meal refreshments are handed round, beef tidbits on a rude substance for which alligators have a very great relish. Then the buffeting rubbers are from-flew to up to a dinner of the same. This alligators stomachs until th ar recognizes for the next meal. Occasionally the boat only at intervals, but have vigorous appetites then.

They are wisely ugly creatures, with stretched dispositions, as the reporter had a fair opportunity of observing. Lying ng over the side of the tank in playful, ginger-snappish, their depressed brick-ins shattering no-bents gave a up too far and touched the extreme point of the shiny's nose. Instantly there was a rrying bellow and browing off of steam the infuriated monster, and a rush of water and sent his observer exactly three feet in the air. He came down ack, and has consequent respect, if not admiration, for the alligator's sensitiveness. Long as he remains on the boat he will keep at a respectful distance.

On the whole, the trip made a delightful change for the boat's company.

The small boy soon tires pop-guns,
he has not the means to buy firecrackers.

The height of persecution was attained by the fellow who would not lend pocket-knife before the whole school had finished cleaned up a few cloves.

A boy was arrested in the remote derelict of the Arkansaw roads, who was noted as a man of unfailing hospitality. Was upon trophies of his generosity in the shape of pulletsoff-at man on the border.

Eastern member of political reorganiza-
—Mr. Peach, I'm a member of the western Commune an' I blieve I have the Rose? Promised, peremptorily—Yes, sir! If you don't take your coat off after ha'n the shears an' sidewalk to-morrow to sell it!—Puck.

Farmer comes in. House-puffer does not offer to shake hands with him, but little powder from a jar and says to the patient: "Send that—now you're covered."
Patient looks at himself in the glass and says: "Why, I'm not sick!" Doctor says: "Never do—Must have taken sick a little while bill and says: "Then that, now you're paid."

At Indiana granger recently called on the President, shook hands with him circumstantially, and then remarked: "Well, we all voted for you, and I'm glad to see doesn't ough onto fifty years, and I'll be gollashed if you ain't the fast one I ever struck."

WORK AND WORKERS.

Phœnix electrical developments have just been made in Eastern Ohio.

The Worcester county (Mass.) shoe-makers' strike lasted five months.

Ten thousand white and colored
Knights in and around Birmingham, Ala.

The Brick-makers' Union at Peoria, Ill., has chosen an advance of $1 per thousand for brick.

The national convention of the Socialistic
Labor party will convene in Buffalo in September.

The International Printers' Union decides that women compositors shall be admitted to membership.

The New Hampshire Knights have formulated their demands to be presented to the Legislature.

During June 16,000 men struck, against 29,618 men in May and against 15,000 for same month last year.

The plasterers of Toronto, Can., gained an advance of one penny per hour and strike lasted four hours.

The International Bricklayers' Union has 150 journeymen unions. Sixteen have been added since January 1.

The English Government has given out a contract for 12,000 steel bayonets, to be less than one pound in weight.

Because of the inability of many of the Massachusetts hotel and shoemakers to obtain work the great roads are out for a war.

The new water supply of New York City will be 300,000,000 gallons daily, and will meet the demand for many additional requirements.

During the first half of 1886, $60,617,200 were invested in the fourteen Southern States. For the last half of 1887 the amount was $65,126,600.

It is alleged by labor leaders that 40,000 persons have been prevented by the last twelve months in violation of the law against contract labor.

Seventy-eight New England manufacturing corporations have passed resolutions to increase wages. Over 30,000 hands to sell or rent to employers.

A PECULIARITY of Australian politics is that a large number of persons are being taken out for school-houses, churches and educational institutions, and set down in another.

Two thousand French Canadians are on the verge of starvation in Manville, R. I., on account of low wages for months, which has enabled only a few employers of all the mills.

The Co-operative Brick Company, which was organized in Chicago, June 11, has $50,000 capital, of which the Knights own all but $5,000, and the Bricklayers' Union 20 shares.

THE ALLIGATOR TRADE.

Something About New Orleans's Most Unique and Interesting Industry.

"How do you sell the boast, madame," asked the inquisitive New Orleans Times-Democrat reporter of a quiet looking woman, who was the one peaceful object in the tremendous busy world about her. "Well, I hardly know how to answer that question," was the response, "for I sell them in such high enough to penetrate the clergy, squeaking, hissing and crowing as the case may be, and from the smallest to the largest specimens of leathers I talk fluttering about. "You see they come at most any price, and when I get my order I just go my way from fifty cents to two hundred a piece, according to the market. It does not vary." As is well known, sugar, oranges and alligators form three staples in Louisiana exports, and the interest is natural to discover the exact condition of the crocodile's industry and whether the present catch had been good, that a visit was paid to the big depot on Chartres street.

The public have it assumed to them in the most startling and unexpected way every now and then that the alligator preserves are very nearly exhausted; that unless prompt steps are adopted and the Government undertakes the supply of alligator skin will soon be a thing of the past. These notable announcements have apparently never taken into consideration the capacity of the alligator to increase and multiply. The dead would be regard to the care and loving office of their who mourn for them; and there should be absolutely no exclusion of the carrion crow, whose presence so sadly jars the sensitivity of half ghouls, but which has become the delight of the merest revelation respect for the dead. Many of the dead gentlemen in the public journals have added to them the wise admonition—"Please mind flowers" and many others have still better admonition—"Interment private." Both of these requests are based in spirit of lavish display, than the lessen the dead all should learn, and the reason that would save thousands of poor families from starvation or severest sacrifice for months after a funeral, merely to put the brighter face for vain pomp and idle show over the dead form of the loved one.

This tendency to parade and display on funeral occasions is oppressive upon the poorest portion of the people in this community, for the majority of the people in cities are of poor circumstances. They are compelled to obtain those of certain ostentatious respect for the dead, and, between costly caskets, flowers, carriages and dark-clad, whole families in the barbarous habiliments of woe, they often are reduced to a debt which in many cases can not pay or must practice the severest self-denial for months thereafter to defray the cost of what is simply a mockery of honest grief. It would be a good, sensible, common sense of persons of humble means, but it is the fear of the opinion of others that is felt for the dead. The assumption that love for the dead is exhibited in a pro-fusion of costly display and that the loved one is not sincerely mourned unless the funeral is the empty pomp of a vulgar parade, while it impoverishes many in the purse of mind. And why is it done? Simply because many of those who can afford it make a parade of funerals, as if parade and extravagance were tributes of respect for the dead; and the poor, often more sincere in their grief, are taught that the measure of respect for the loved one who our public's away is the measure of pomp and extravagance displayed at the funeral.

The world is growing in intelligence, and as it advances in enlightened civility it will abandon its present absurd rites of follow. Just as intelligence increases, the love of hollow pomp and ceremony is diminished, and the severest sensitivity in the burial of the dead will be a natural outgrowth of a higher standard of cultures among the people. The vulgar display of studied extravagance is the result of ignorance, as the ostentatious parade of wealth is the shallow and unchilly mark of relief of barbarism, adopted and adhered to by the ever-fashion; and both are the sincere grief of the most thankful. The burial of the dead is solely the affair of the survivor-sanctum household, and the reverence can have no taste or tolerance for the pageant that invites the idle multitude and that exacts oppressive tribute from the poor. It is simply a mark of brutal intelligence that makes the Sovereigns and the Vanderbilts erect great burial-places for the mere custody of the remains of their dead from the grasp of the thief who would profit thereby for a ransom. Had they erected a cenotaph over their dead in the most public of the most enlightened of the earlier civilizations, they could preserve all that can be preserved of their departed friend in the beautiful urn and make it a household treasure; but they took to pyramids and interminable display, and, in the course of time, the urn was overlooked, that his dust rests under the costly monument that is inscribed with his name.

There is every reason for simplicity in funerals. Sympathy is the only thing that harmonizes with the grief of the heart that is shadowed by the cloud of sorrow, and the ostentatious display of bereavement under the fatal regulations of fashion is the most direct mockery of the dead. Let pupil and priest and no hollow-eyed hireling follow the dead to being into disfavor the ostentatious display of costly funerals, and costly funerals will be abated, and the poor will not alone be pro-tected from needless and oppressive expense, but all will be protected from the heart-breaking sorrow of poor and never pock those who sincerely mourn the loss of their household gods.

Leave Absinthe Alone.

It is stated that the habit of drinking absinthe is more common to-day in this country than it ever was before. Of its baneful effects upon the nerves of the workingmen gives up to also the drinking coffee tree in the morning. One of the first symptoms, the most prominent of which is epilepsy, is remarkable nervousness that has no chance to cease those weighty jaws. Little negroes and crocodiles are very much alike, and are instinctively born agitating, and are instinctively born agitators. Absinthe, moved to gradually be hunger, homesick heart.

Short Cabinet Members Dress.

The fact that the Cabinet has grown to inside summer clothes Secretary Whitney is the only member of the Cabinet who has remained in Washington during the summer. Secretary Whitney has several suits of light clothes, and he can be seen almost any day during the torrid portion of the day on the streets around the legs. A pair of baggy knee-breeches, Mr. Secretary, would not help his comfort one grain, but would help his comfort one grain, but would help his complete his strange attire.

IN FOREIGN PARTS.

The salary of a maid of honor in Queen Victoria's household is $1,500 a year, but great perquisites.

The Russian Grand Duke is Paris a beautifully decorated club room twenty inches in diameter of red Roman wood, brought the Russian forests for the purpose.

The mother of Count Schuvalow of the Red Cross Society in Russia, has received the appointment to nearly three thousand men, through its connection on average mounted to nearly three thousand men.

The commander-in-chief of Bombay, the Duke of Connaught, receives a salary of $50,000 annually allowance by Parliament of $125,000, added to which is £10,000 yearly and £5,000 on the anniversary of his wife, which altogether makes rather a comfortable income.

The Queen of Roumania has been specially invited for the House of Lords has been pursued and the Queen of Roumania accepted the invitation. It is said, of making them the invitees of an art spread in the Queen's drawing-room, and that the Queen herself will direct the decorations. The artistic dimensions of the room are 60 feet in length by 30 feet in width.

The Princess Waldemar, the daughter-in-law of the Queen of Denmark is, according to the Copenhagen correspondent of the London Standard, the most popular lady in public appearance to her Majesty, owing to the charm of her manner and her interest among the peculiarity of the Princess' character is her love of music. She has composed a number of pieces which have been published in both and in honor of the departure of her husband upon a sea voyage, she has composed a farewell song, which was sung by Hassle, an operatic tenor, and received by the audience with great enthusiasm.

